MUST AMEND ACT FOR RELIEF FROM CATTLE EMBARGO

Sir A. Griffith Boscawen Answers Questions in the House on Canadian Cattle Embargo.

ACT OF 1896.

LONDON, May 10.—(Canadian Press).—Sir A. Griffith Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture, replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, said he had seen statements suggesting that the raising of the embargo against Canadian cattle would involve the repeal of the Disease of Animals Act of 1896. Such action, he said, doubtless would involve an amendment to this Act, but not necessarily its entire repeal. The Act applied and would continue to apply to other foreign animals the Minister said, even if Canada cattle were exempted from its operation.

A member asked whether, if the House decided in favor of removing the embargo, the Government would take steps to give legislative effect to the decision.

The speaker said the questioner had better wait and see what the decision was.

Asked as to whether Premier W. M. Hughes of Australia, had not intimated at the Imperial Conference that if Canada were exempted under the Disease of Animals Act, Australia would also claim exemption, the Minister of Agriculture replied that he thought this was so.

KING AND QUEEN ENTERTAINED AT ROYAL BANQUET

IN BRUSSELS.

BRUSSELS, May 10.—(Canadian Press)—King Albert last night gave a banquet in the Palace to King George and Queen Mary. In toasting his Royal visitors, King Albert said Belgium still was suffering from the destruction and the economic troubles caused her by the war. The efforts she had made up to the present toward re-construction had been with her own resources, but now her finances were exhausted. The King added that Belgium needs at the same time, reparations, peace, work and security, a complex necessity which had determined the policy Belgium had resolved to pursue in full agreement with her Allies.

Replying, King George said if there was one thing certain in the uncertain epoch which the world was passing, it was the difficulties of Belgium would rapidly be surmounted thanks to the wisdom of Belgian statemen and the indomitable vitality of the Belgian people. He added that in her progress towards the great future ahead of her Belgium always would have the sympathies of the British Empire, which fought beside her in the world war.

GOOD ROADS OCCUPY ATTENTION OF HOUSE

Hon. F. C. Biggs Explains Past, Present and Future Road-Building Program.

MOTOR FEES.

TORONTO, May 10. — It was Good Roads day in the legislature yesterday afternoon when Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways continued his speech on the second reading of the act to amend the Highways Improvement Act, the most important feature of which provision is the capitalization of motor license fees to raise money with which to build highways. The minister announced that the proposal was to capitalize $2,000,000 a year of revenue from motor licenses for a period of 20 years instead of 40 years as the bill as printed provided. He estimated that from $25,000,000 to $27,000,000 in debentures could be taken care of by taking $2,000,000 a year for 20 years out of this source of revenue. The minister also announced that the best information available showed that the automobile business of the province during the past two months had been the best in the history. This indicated that the income from motor licenses would increase from year to year so that while at present the setting aside of licenses this balance would likely increase. The balance is used for road maintenance.

To Sell Bonds

Provincial Treasurer Smith gave notice of a resolution to provide for the sale of $40,000,000 of provincial bonds to take care of such expenditures as hydro T. and N. O. roads etc. He explained that the province had sufficient money on hand to take care of immediate needs so it would be 6 or 8 weeks before the bonds are put on the market. The terms had not yet been decided upon.

Hydro Investigation

The premier sail that the municipalities which had asked for a representative on the royal commission investigating hydro, had not lived up to the understanding to submit a number of names from which the government could select a commissioner. Instead it had advanced one name. He had written the serretary concerning this.

Need of Good Roads

Hon. Mr. Biggs in discussing the great growth of demand for good roads said that this act provided a certain form of book-keeping between the counties and the province in regard to roads in which the province was granting subsidies and he thought the time had arrived when a provincial auditor should investigate the books of the county councils at regular intervals.

He explained that the best indication of the great growth in the demands for good roads was shown by the subsidies to municipalities increasing since 1918 at the rate of a million dollars a year. Last year over $4,000,000 went from the provincial treasury to the counties as subsidies. This does not include the provincial highway.

The total expenditure of the provincial government on good roads during the past year including the provincial highways was $14,000,000 The subsidies to counties was largely for road work in which, while the province was paying 40 per cent, the counties themselves were paying 60 per cent. and the fact that more and more of these county roads were being designated showed the sentiment of the counties in this connection.

The province as a matter of fact had to turn down five miles of road for every one it granted subsidies for.

Building Programme

Mr. Biggs said that road building program of the province was too big a thin gto allow politics to interfere with. He would not be swayed from his program in any constituency because of the party it supported in the election. He said he could have made himself and his department much more popular had he agreed to building the tops of roads first and the foundations afterwards but it was not the right way to build them and he was prepared to put up with criticisms he got on that account.

The department has a three year program of road building in connection with the provincial highway which will bring 1802 miles of roads up to the standard best fitted to carry the traffic they will be called upon to carry.

He continued that 131 jobs had already been let this spring and tenders for 50 more would be opened in a few days. There was keen competition for these jobs. He expected 700 tenders for the 50 jobs. The cost of road construction this year would be about 15 per cent. less than lasit year, the tenders so far opened indicated.

Tree Planting

He defended tree planting along the provincial highway, particularly the Prescott-Ottawa highway. It had cost an average of $2.14 a tree to plant and care for them last year and only about 15 per cent. of these trees had died. He said it would be a splendid thing if from the bound ary at Prescott to the Capital city of the Dominion, two lines of trees would stretch on a wide, well-paved roadway. It would be something for the entire province to take a pride in.

Hon. George S. Henry, East York followed with a strong criticism of the government's highway policy. He claimed the reason the counties are hurrying to designate county good roads is to get in on the subsidies while the getting is good because they believe the "lavish" expenditures cannot be kept up. It was a case of 37 counties vieing with each other in seeing which would get the most out of the provincial treasury. He claimed the Conservative government used to hold a restraining hand on the counties but this government let them run almost free with the result that they had set a pace in road expenditure which in view of the province's population it would be impossible to keep up.

TWO TRAPPERS GO THROUGH THE ICE.

EDMONTON, May 10 (Canadian Press). — In an effort to reach their trap lines across Moose Lake, near St. Paul des Metis, two trappers, Anton Lawson and Frank Spencer, broke through the honeycombed ice and were drowned. The first intimation of the tragedy was revealed to the Alberta Provincial Police when the trappers' dog, dripping wet, returned to St. Paul des Metis.

SPEAKER SAYS PARTY SYSTEM BREAKING DOWN

Premier Greenfield of Alberta Discusses the Political Situation of To-Day.

BRIGHT FUTURE.

WINNIPEG, May 10.—(Canadian Press.)—An appeal for greater co-operation and teamwork among Provinces as well as individuals was made here yesterday by Premier Herbert Greenfield of Alberta in an address before the Canadian Club.

"The trouble with politics in the past has been the man at the top of the tree has always attempted to work out a solution of the problems of the world rather than let the people do it themselves", Mr. Greenfield declared. The old party system is rapidly breaking down. It is evident everywhere and more especially at Ottawa. It has lost its appeal to the people because it was breaking down and undermining the manhood of the country", he said. In declaring the awakening of the public mind was responsible for the present unrest, Premier Greenfield said it is nothing to be afraid of, and added that it was the most hopeful sign Canada had seen for the past fifty years.

The Alberta Premier said he favored re-establishment of the Canada Wheat Board and their freight rates. He pointed out that while the value of Alberta's grain crop last year was $82,000,000 more than $171 000,000 would have been obtained for the same grain in Quebec. Excessive freight rates were the cause of the difference he said.

Premier Greenfield said representatives of the Montreal Board of Trade intend visiting the west this summer and that he had appealed to them to visit the country districts where they could get a true insight into economic and living conditions in western Canada.

FARMS IN WEST THREATENED BY SERIOUS FLOOD

Much Damage Has Been Done Already to Roads and Seeded Land.

ASSINIBOINE RIVER.

WINNIPEG, May 10.—(Canadian Press)—Seventy-five thousand acres of Manitoba's finest wheat land is threatened by flooded waters of the Assiniboine River between this city and Portage la Prarie and already thousands of acres have been inundated. Farmers are busy trying to protent their land with protecting dykes. At Poplar Point, twenty miles west of this city where the river is fifteen feet above normal, the low land are flooded for an area of fifty square miles, four feet deep. Farm houses are surrounded with families living in the upper storeys and 2,000 seeded acres are under water. This area will be at total crop failure, it is said. In this district, Sir James Aikins, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, is directing the operations of fifty men who are fighting the flooded waters. Sir James has a farm located in the district. The flood is six miles wide and three feet deep at St. Eustache, where both sides of the river have given away.

Thousands of dollars damage already has been done to the Portage la Prarie highway and the road is impassable at many points .

Reports early yesterday afternoon indicate the river has not risen since six o'clock yesterday morning, although during the night its level was increased four and one half inches. It is declared there is no danger of the river overflowing its banks in the Winnipeg district.

SOLUTION FOR THE RUSSIAN QUESTION.

PARIS May 10—(Canadian Press) —The best solution of the situation at Genoa, says the Petit Parisien's Genoa correspondent yesterday, would be to terminate the economic conference and appoint an intenational commission to study the Russian problem methodically.

"Not the least advantage of this solution" he says, "would be that the United States would be likely to participate, as I have definite reasons for believing she would."

RESOLUTION IS INTRODUCED TO CREATE A WHEAT BOARD

OTTAWA, May 10. Canadian Press. — A definite resolution favoring the creation of a wheat marketing agency simil r to the Canada Wheat Board, which will bring from the committee on agriculture a stand in the matter was placed before the committee last evening by R. M. Johnson (Moose Jaw) and will be the subject of discussion when the committee meets again to-morrow morning. Mr. Johnson has given notice that on Thursday morning he will move the following resolution, seconded by John Pritchard (North Wellington.)

"1. It is desirable in the national interests that the Government immediately create a national wheat marketing agency similar to the Canada Wheat Board of 1919, for the marketing of the wheat crop of 1922, and that

"2. This agency be given all the powers of the Wheat Board of 1919 as are within the jurisdiction of Parliament to grant, and that

"2. An act be passed, based on this resolution to become effective by proclamation as soon as two or more of the provinces have conferred upon this agency such powers possessed by the Wheat Board of 1919 as come within Provincial jurisdiction."

The committee yesterday completed its examination of witnesses by hearing F. W. Riddell, former member of the Canada wheat board who was questioned at some length Mr. Riddell believed that the wheat board had it been continued another year, could have averted the drastic price declines of the 1920 marketing season. The world supply did not justify these declines, he said.

FRENCH CABINET ENDORSES STAND TAKEN AT GENOA

Rights of French Property Owners in Russia Will Be Maintained.

ARTICLE SEVEN.

PARIS, May 10. — (Canadian Press)—The Cabinet, presided over by President Millerand, yesterday endorsed and confirmed Premier Poincare's instructions to the Genoa delegation .It discussed various eventualities, notably that of modification of article Seven of the memorandum to Russia, relating to property, made with a view to ensuring the adhesion to France and Belgium. But the Government resolved no comprise on this subject.

The Ministry maintains that the rights of French citizens with regard to private property in Russia must be expressly and rigorously safeguarded, and is only prepared to accept a clear text, without ambiguity coupled with undertakings on the part of the Moscow Government giving real guarantees that the provisions will be carried out.

Even should the Belgian Government, however impossible it may seem, accept the new formula, the French Government will not accept it unless full satisfaction is vouchsafe on the question of private property, which it considers capital importance.

GENOA AWAITS A REPLY FROM THE RUSSIANS

BELGIUM'S STAND.

GENOA, May 10.—Genoa passed an uneasy day speculating on the effect the Russian reply to the Allied memorandum would have on the future of the Economir Conferenre. The Russians were busily engaged last night in completing their reply, which it is expected will be presented today.

M. Tchitcherin was in Genoa for only a short time; then he and the principal members of the Russian delegation gathered at Santa Margherita and began putting the finishing touches on the reply, which it is expected will be highly conciliatory and will open the way for a continuation of the negogiations.

The differences between Premier Lloyd George and M. Barthou have apparetnly been softened somewhat and there are many indications that the Belgians are less irreconcilable in their attitude and may be persuaded to approve the memorandum to the Russians on condition it be made clear that the Belgian property in Russia must be restored to the former owners if possible and cannot in any case be transferred to others.

Mr. Lloyd George passed almost the entire day in conference with Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Sir Philliph Lloyd-Greams and other advisers. The row between the Prime Minister and the Northcliffe press over statements published in London has simmered down and the conference atmosphere is more pacific, although extremely foggy.

The German delegation and many neutral delegations joined in the efforts of Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, to have the Russians temper their response in such a way as to avoid disruption of the Genoa gathering, a contingency which seemed far less likely las night than 24 hours earlier. There is less electricity in the air and a general feeling of confidence that the Russians will modify their response so as to make it impossible(for the French and Belgians to bolt without further negogiations.

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS.

In the discussion in regard to supervised playgrounds the argument has been often advanced that, "supervised playgrounds are all right for big cities, but Peterborough is not large enough to need them." For those who make that contention it may be interesting information to learn that at the annual convention of the Social Service Council of Canada in Brantford this week supervised playgrounds formed one of the planks in the Social Service platform, advocated for the smaller Ontario cities. People who object to supervised playgrounds as unnecessary really miss the chief factor in the situation. It is not the playgrounds themselves, but the supervision that counts. Provide the best equipped recreation grounds that money could procure and turn a crowd of children loose without direction and control and the results would not be of the best. There must be somebody in charge who understands children and knows how to direct their activities so that the best development, both physically and morally, can be achieved. Supervised recreation is a character-builder as well as a health measure, and its importance is becoming more and more recognized. Unfortunately, Peterborough does not seem to be keeping step with other progressive communities in this regard.

MUNICIPAL RIGHTS.

The Magistrates Act is being codified and amended by a bill introduced into the Legislature by Hon. W. E. Raney. Unfortunately for the municipalities of Ontario, the changes in the Act are not in the direction of recognising municipal rights; in fact, the only right that municipalities have under this measure is the "right" to foot their bills. The whole matter of the appointment and pay of magistrates is an absolutely one-sided affair. The Province appoints the magistrates, outlines their duties and lays down a scale of salaries which are to be paid. The municipalities have nothing to say on any of these points. They must provide the salary, but have no voice in the choosing of the magistrates, nor have they any power in regard to their tenure of office. According to the new bill, magistrates are to hold office at the "pleasure" of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, or, in other words, the Ontario Cabinet. A magistrate who is giving satisfaction in a municipality can be dismissed by the Government at any time, while, on the other hand, the municipalities have no power to dismiss a magistrate whose conduct of his duties may be offensive to the majority of citizens. The Attorney-General of Ontario is, in effect, a dictator who appoints and discharges magistrates as he sees fit. The municipalities of the Province only come into the picture when salaries are to be paid. When the Magistrates Act is being amended it seems a pity that some effort is not made to give Ontario municipalities some power in return for their financing of the scheme.

THE MOTOR BUS BILL.

Opposition has been manifested in the Legislature to Hon. F. C. Biggs' bill regulating motor bus service throughout the Province, and, in the opinion of The Examiner, the Government would be well advised to go slowly with that most important measure. The motor bus system of transportation is in its infancy so far as Ontario is concerned, and there does not seem any pressing need for hastily adopting legislation that may not be found practicable as the use of the motor bus develops. In addition, there are features about Mr. Biggs' measure that appear to be objectionable. The Province is given very wide powers, and, as in the case of much other legislation introduced recently, municipal rights are, to some extent at least, interfered with, and there is bound to be complaints from the municipalities when they have had time to digest the terms of the bill. All these facts combined point to the wisdom of delay and of giving ample time for the consideration of Mr. Biggs' measure before it is placed on the statute books. Nothing would be lost if the bill was left over until the next session of the Legislature, but if that course is not considered advisable, there should be no attempt to hastily jam these regulations through the House. The session, of course, is dragging out to a weary length, but nevertheless bills of the character introduced by Mr. Biggs must be given the consideration their importance deserves.

WAGE RATES AND BIRTH CONTROL.

We decline to worry with Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, about the possible incentive to birth control among the families of highway laborers in the scale of wages paid by the Ontario Highways Department and the rural municipalities operating under the highway programme of the Provincial Government, says The Ottawa Journal. We do not believe the rate of wages on roadway work is going to result in a single birth more or less than there would be if it were a higher rate. If Mr. Moore is going to get us het up about the wages paid Hon. Mr. Biggs' roadmakers he will have to appeal to us with some other argument. In fact, we doubt if Mr. Moore himself is worrying very much about the birth rate among the class of workers in question. Mr. Biggs must have observed, as we have, that the birth rate either among manual laborers or other classes of people does not tend to follow the rate of earnings of the heads of families, but, if anything, to vary in inverse ratio to earnings. It is generally acknowledged that increases in income and in standards of living are conducive to smaller families. In the main, it is the poor people who scorn birth control and qualify for the merit marks of the late Theodore Roosevelt. Did Mr. Moore notice any increase in the birth rate among the manual workers in the years of high wages during and immediately following the war?

Perhaps the Ontario Government and the County Councils are paying pretty low wages on the highways, but Mr. Moore isn't going to drive us to insomnia in speculation as to the number of little cherubs that might reach this world and won't in consequence.

SIMCOE BLAZES THE TRAIL.

Congratulations are due to the county of Simcoe for having taken the first practical step in a campaign of reforestation, and upon being the first county in Ontario to inaugurate a forestry plantation. The first tree was planted on Monday with appropriate ceremonies, and it seems fitting that the initial planting should have been made an occasion for community rejoicing. Simcoe County is blazing the trail rest of the Province. The County Council secured 1,000 acres of waste land for $7,500, and the planting will be done under the supervision of the Department of Lands, the present plans calling for some twenty-five or thirty acres to be planted this year. While other counties have been discussing reforestation more or less half-heartedly, the Simcoe authorities have shown a keen appreciation of the fact that the replacing of Ontario's fast dwindling timber resources is absolutely necessary, and they have gone about in a business-like way the contribution of their share of the reforestation programme. The matter has been before the Peterborough County Council on half a dozen occasions, but so far nothing has been undertaken. Those who understand the situation and know that Ontario's timber is rapidly being exhausted will hope that the splendid example set by Simcoe County will not be without its effect upon the local County Council, and that before long it will be possible to read of a ceremony in Peterborough County such as was witnessed near Barrie this week. The adoption of the Simcoe plan by a majority of the counties of Ontario would be a splendid contribution towards a successful scheme of reforestation.

GENERAL WU WINS.

Considering the limitations of Chinese warfare, General Wu Pei-Fu has won a marked victory over General Chang Tsao-Lin. Chinese armies cannot interfere with railroads, they are forbidden either to retreat or to pursue into town, and they have to be careful where they shoot to avoid hitting foreigners who have motored out to see the battle. Even Napoleon would have found these restrictions rather hampering.

What follows the victory? Well, the President is to be allowed to hold his job, but the Premier has already been discharged. Chang Tsao-Lin has also been removed as Inspector General of Manchuria; though since Wu will have to follow him into Manchuria to enforce this order, it is hardly likely to worry Chang much just now. On the whole, probably the outcome is satisfactory, if there had to be a fight at all. Wu is a scholar and a gentleman, and is free from the Japanese connection which threw suspicion on Chang. Whether he is wise enough or strong enough to do the things that need to be done for China is doubtful.

His programme is the unification of China. So was Chang's. Wu is going to unite China by calling the constitutional convention of which so much has been said. It will bring North and South China together, says Wu, but it will meet in Central China, Wu's own country. Unless Wu hunts Chang down at home, Manchuria is presumably excluded from this reunion. Meanwhile, Chang pauses at a farmhouse in his retreat long enough to tell a reporter than it was too bad, as he had intended to call the constitutional convention and unite China. This may throw some light on the slender prospect of any real benefit to the growth of Chinese self-government at present. The battle has settled that Wu, and not Chang, will control the convention; but it is too early to be sure that any great advantage will result, though some serious disadvantages may have been averted.

Chang's explanation of how he would have unified China is of some interest other than that attaching to lost causes. If Wu and the third great military leader, Tsao Kun, had only followed me, says Chang, instead of fighting me, we could have conquered the South. But in the line-up for last week's battle this same South, under Sun Yat-Sen, appeared as the ally of Chang against Wu and Tsao. The expected Southern armies did not appear in Wu's rear, and Chang was beaten. Already it is intimated that the crafty Sun, leader of the emotional liberalism of the South, double-crossed the Northern militarist with whom he found himself in alliance. Guile is reprehensible in a reactionary, but is permissible for the furthering of liberal ideas. Sun's government is perhaps the nearest approach to a democratic organization that China can display, but it knows how to make friends with the Mammon of unrighteousness—and, more than that, how to pick a winner.

These armies crawl back and forth over the huge surface of China like vermin on a great beast, drawing their sustenance from him, annoying him occasionally, but having in the long run little effect on his life or his ways of thought. Their leaders can seize political power, but that probably counts for less in China than anywhere else in the world. The number of Chinese involved in the fighting is less, proportionately, than the number of New Yorkers involved in the crime wave. New York continued to function when the crime wave was at its height, and most of us were never victims or even witnesses of crimes. For the outward fortunes of China these battles possess a temporary importance, but all the evidence indicates that the decisive factor in China's world position is the temperament of the individual Chinaman. The awakened and enlightened class is growing rapidly, but it is still small by comparison with the passive masses. The importance of Wu's victory in the long run will depend on how much, if at all, it may contribute to the eventual awakening of those masses, which the Western world anticipates with alternating hope and fear.—New York Times.

THE FORDNEY BOOMERANG.

The emergency tariff has had its "kick-back on a terribly sore spot in the United States. The United States is glutted with manufactured goods. Canada used to take about $1,000,000,000 a year of United States goods. In eight months only this year—not the full year, she has cut her purchases from Uncle Sam from almost $600,000,000 in 1921, to $365,297,250—that is, in eight months she has cut her purchases in half, and the American manufacturers are rubbing their funny bone." This comment goes well with the statistics recently published that Canada's sales to the United States have fallen from $417,490,572 in 1921, to $201,754,865 during the corresponding period of the present year, a loss which can find its expression only in increased cost of living for the people of the United States. Maybe that tickles somebody's funny bone. But to the average citizen there seems nothing particularly funny about the

Until the last few years lived on the family homestead, a fine farm of 200 acres in Cavan township, 1-2 mile west of Ida, for which the Vance family hold the Crown deed. Mr. Vance's son, Cameron, being the 5th generation to be born on this farm. His health being unequal to the work of farming Mr. Vance was reluctantly compelled to sell the homestead, and with his family has since resided in Millbrook purchasing the former Elliott property on Centre Street.

HAPPY EVENING WITH LADIES' AID SOCIETY, WESLEY

Social, Concert and Debate in Orange Hall Proved a Huge Success in Every Way.

WESLEY, May 10.—On Friday evening, May 5th, a most successful concert and social was given in the Orange Hall by the Ladies' Aid Society of Wesley Methodist Church.

The main feature of the concert was a debate, "Resolved, That Poverty Has Done More for Character Building Than Wealth." The affirmative side was most ably handled by Miss Mary Nichols and Mr. Scott Hutchinson of Wesley, and their papers showed much careful thought and preparation. At the last moment, the speakers on the negative side failed to appear, and Rev. J. F. Ireland, pastor, and Mr. A. B. Mann of Bridgenorth most kindly volunteered to take their places. Their addresses were impromptu, and they tried to prove that many of the arguments brought out by the affirmative speakers should not be accepted, owing to a difference in the meaning of the word "poverty." Having had no time for preparation, the affirmative allowed the negative leader about five minutes for rebuttal, instead of vice versa. All the speakers made use of many witty stories and quotations, which kept the audience in splendid humor throughout.

The judges were Mrs. Ireland, Mrs. H. A. Shearer and Mr. Sam. Wood, and their decision was promptly given in favor of the affirmative, 10 points to 6.

The program was as follows:

Opening hymn, "Stand Up for Jesus"; prayer, pastor, Mr. Ireland; Chairman's talk; debate, Mr. Ireland; recitation, Margaret Northey; duett, cornet and trombone, Messrs. Bert and Everett Graham; debate, Mr. Hutchinson; orchestra of stringed instruments, Mrs. J. A. Northey, Misses Pearson and Nichols and Messrs. Blewett and Simpson; debate, Mr. A. B. Mann; solo, Mr. Willie Pearson; quartette, cornet, alto, trombone and bass, by Messrs. Graham, Sage, Trude and Wood; debate, Miss Mary Nichols; orchestra; solo, Mrs. H. A. Shearer; debate, "Rebuttal," Rev. J. F. Ireland; instrument quartette.

Refreshments were then served by the ladies. The proceeds amounted to $43.70.

The business over, the host and hostess served very dainty refreshments, to which all did ample justice.

The remainder of the evening was spent in music, after which a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Kingston for their hospitality, and the evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

ODDFELLOWS' DAY SUNDAY LAST AT STIRLING VILLAGE

Attend Divine Service at Presbyterian Church, Where a Record Congregation Assembled — Stirling News.

STIRLING, May 10. — Sunday was Oddfellows' Day at the Presbyterian Church, and in spite of very inclement weather there was a record attendance.

Representatives of the order from Belleville, Tweed, Trenton, Madoc, Frankford, and Springbrook met at the local lodge room at 2 p.m., and shortly after 2.30 o'clock wended their way in procession to the church. As they entered the edifice, the organist, Mr. Cohu, played suitable music.

The church presented a truly imposing spectacle as the entire congregation rose with the choir to sing a verse of "Holy, Holy, Holy," the cantons in their gold and scarlet uniforms, the ladies in their multi-coloured hats and costumes, the decorations of ferns and deep pink carnations adding to the general effect.

Following prayer and Bible reading, Mr. J. Forbes sang, in good tenor voice, "I Love to Hear My Saviour's Voice," Mr. G. L. Clute also rendered in splendid style, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." The choir gave an excellent account of themselves in the anthem, "O Let Us Join Our Cheerful Songs," Miss Bessie Herron singing the soprano solo very effectively.

Rev. R. Simpson preached a very interesting sermon, worthy of the occasion, using as his text, "The Golden Rule."

Mr. Robert Cosby is lying seriously ill with heart trouble.

Mr. Hamilton Bird, a farmer living near West Huntingdon, died on Saturday morning.

Mr. Sidney Bennett, editor of the Leader, received word on Friday morning that his mother, Mrs. Minnie Bailey, had died in Toronto.

The funeral took place to Lake View Cemetery, Colborne. Rev. Benne Byers, Mrs. S. Bennett, and A. Hammond motored to Colborne on Sunday, when the burial was. Rev. Mr. Byers conducted the service at the grave.

AMENDMENT TO RAILWAY BILL MEETS DEFEAT

THIRD READING.

OTTA(WA, May 10.—(Canadian Press)—"A cubist picture," was the description given last evening by C. H. Dickie, Conservative member for Nanaimo, to part of the argument used by A. W. Neill, Independent representative of Comox Albernie in his fight against the renewal of the charter to the C.P.R. to complete the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway. Mr. Neill fought this bill in the railway committee and entertained the House hugely on a recent evening by blocking it for the full time of the private bills' hour. Last evening he again renewed the battle with his desk piled full of statutes; but after the defeat of an amendment, the third in all, which he has moved, he gave up the fight and allowed the bill to get a third reading in half an hour. Mr. Neill confined himself to matter of fact argument last evening and the limelight was seized by Mr. Dickie who in addition to his descripton of Mr. Neill's argument, called attention to the limited possibilities of a radium deposit in the district as a source of tonnage for the railway. "I understand," said he, "that there are eight ounces of radium in the world; it would not furnish much tonnage". Mr. Neill's amendment which was defeated, was for the purpose of bringing the railway under the general railway act so that it would be necessary for the company to spend 15 per cent. of the authorized bond issue of the railway within the first year.

BAD BILIOUS ATTACKS

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers. Your bowels become constipated, the tongue coated, the breath bad, the stomach foul and sick, and bilious spells occur on account of the liver holding back the bile which is so essential to promote the movement of the bowels, and the bile gets into the blood instead of passing out through the usual channel.

The only way to keep the liver active and working properly, and thus get rid of the nasty bilious attacks, is to keep the bowels regular by using

MILBURN'S
LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, work smoothly and gently, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old fashioned purgatives.

Mr. John S. Caron, Donavon, S writes: "I was troubled with my liver and had severe bilious attacks. A friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, so I took two vials and have had no more attacks."

MILBURN'S
LAXA-LIVER PILLS

PEACOCK CUSHION IS A REAL WORK OF ART

Represents Five Weeks of Much Painstaking Labor

A work of art that is attracting a great deal of attention is the large cushion on display in the north window of the Grafton Company, Limited, George street store. This shows a huge peacock, a noble bird with outspread tail against a background of black satin, fashioned into the round model cushion so popular just now, with orange silk fluting.

The cushion represents much painstaking labor, spread over a period of five weeks, by its originator, Mr. G. N. Curtis, a returned disabled war veteran, whose skill in this style of fancy-work is well known in Peterborough. The peacock on this cushion is exceptionally well done, with three, instead of the usual two tiers of feathers, comprising a total of 21 beautifully outlined feathers, with their glistening green and gold gorgeousness. Seventy-six skeins of silk were used in the construction of the lordly bird, and the cushion is the last word in exquisite, fine workmanship. Accompanying it are three cards, one with the motto, "Keep Faith," following out the words of Lord Tennyson, who said, "If you wish for happiness, gain it by making others happy"; the second with the purchase price, twenty-five cents per ticket, "By purchasing a ticket you will bring happiness to many homes," and the third recording the object for which the cushion is being offered and drawn for later—to augment funds for G.W.V.A. relief work in the city. A worthy cause will be helped by purchasing a ticket for this work of art.

86 HERDS OF CATTLE IN CANADA DECLARED FREE OF TUBERCULOSIS

Many Others Are Undergoing Test of Accredited Herd System According to Official Figures Supplied By G. A. Brethen, M.P.

BREEDERS ENDORSE IT

The following article dealing with the accredited herd system for the eradication of tuberculosis in cattle was written specially for The Examiner by Mr. G. A. Brethen, M.P. (East Peterborough).

As a well-known breeder for many years of pure bred Holstein cattle, Mr. Brethen's experience and his views on this subject, which was brought prominently before the people of Peterborough in these columns several months ago, will be received with general interest.

"This system has been in use in many of the American States for several years, and at the present time the number of pure-bred herds under Federal control has reached a vast total, so that practically all the important sales of pure-bred stock are made between the owners of herds which have received a certificate of freedom from T.B. (tuberculosis) by the Federal or State authorities.

In the year 1919 similar action was decided upon for Canada under the then Minister of Agriculture, Hon. S. F. Tolmie. At first the movement was not very heartily supported by the breeders, owing chiefly to the lack of confidence and fear that they would be placed in an impossible position in handling their herds under a Federal contract.

Breeders Won Over.

After the first year, however, of pioneering work, breeders generally, realising that they would be treated fairly and with due consideration by the Government, began to look upon the system with more favour, and each year has seen a marvellous growth in its popularity.

From figures recently obtained from the Department, I find there are at present in Canada 86 herds that have been given a certificate of breeders generally are reahtily supin the herd having passed three consecutive tests without showing a reaction; 717 herds partially free, 909 herds altogether under supervision, and 250 herds on the waiting list.

Owing to the fact that splendid success is being achieved in the work of developing absolutely clean herds from those which were only a few years previously badly infected, the breedres generally are heartily supporting the movement, and the time is rapidly approaching when every person will demand a Federal certificate before purchasing any pure-bred animal.

Special Plan for Towns.

The immunity from the contagion of tuberculosis enjoyed by a great number of human beings, especially invalids and children who are using the milk from these tubercular-free herds, is the best justification for the continuance and support of a Federal system of control, and when in addition to work outlined above we find the Health of Animals Branch has also within its control a municipal plan by which all towns and cities of over 5,000 population may adopt a means of obtaining absolutely tubercular-free milk for their citizens, we begin to realise the importance and volume of the work of Canada's Governments with relation to the splendid efforts in the stamping out of the Great White Plague within her borders.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The fall wheat situation has greatly improved during the week, the general condition being voiced by the Essex Representative, who has made a close personal inspection of many fields in his county: "This crop wintered extremely well, and made splendid progress until about April 20th. The weather turned hot and dry during the last week of April. While this permitted the sowing of the small spring grains, the wheat made no progress. On sandy soil and on undrained soil much of the wheat was in poorer condition by May 2nd than it was on April 20th. In some cases this injury is permanent; on drained land the wheat held its own. The rain on May 3rd, combined with warm growing weather, has insured a rapid growth for the next week or two." Some of the farmers in Essex put the prospect at "about 90 per cent. of an ideal year," but reports from other counties are not quite so encouraging.

Clover is picking up well, and very little is likely to be plowed up.

Seeding has been going steadily forward, and while in some localities about all the spring grains have been got in, in other sections considerable sowing yet remains to be done. Where put in early the young fields are already showing up nicely in the rows.

Welland says that there will be an increase of 20 per cent. in the acreage of oats.

Port Arthur considers it very doubtful whether the acreage of potatoes will equal that of last season, as there are yet about a hundred carloads of potatoes for sale in that district.

Huron, on the other hand, predicts an increased area of potatoes and roots.

Kent says that it is likely that more beans may be raised this year, owing to the probable shrinkage in the acreage of sugar beets.

Lincoln reports that the first shipment of asparagus was made early last week.

Peterborough says: "Shipments of livestock made during the week brought to the farmer the following prices: Hogs, $12.65; cattle, 5 to 8c a lb.; calves, 6 to 9c a lb. Many farmers are shipping their calves under-finished, fearing a slump in the market, and they are losing money in doing this."

South Simcoe states that shippers are complaining of a scarcity of marketable cattle, to make a weekly shipment.

Lambton states that dairying is increasing in that county.

Hastings says that at a recent sale of purebred bulls, all of which were of serviceable age, eth average price was only slightly over $50.

Good dairy cows are bringing from $100 to $150 in York, but at auction sales in Frontenac they have sold around $60.

Hastings says: "Five farmers of this county have asked me to assist them in procuring a purebred dual purpose Shorthorn bull. It is their intention to get as good a one as possible, each paying their portion of the cost."

Wentworth is of opinion that too many horses are doing spring work in poor condition, owing to scarcity of grain.

Wellington says that two carloads of horses were sold in Arthur recently, the average price of an ordinary animal of about 1,200 lbs. being about $130.

Grey claims that the lamb crop in that county is unusually large this season, 150 to 180 per cent. being common.

Road drags have been much used in Wellington this spring to the great advantage of travellers, who appreciate the smooth roads.

A Life for A Dollar

NEVER was human life so cheap as it can be bought today in the famine districts of Russia.

$1 will save a child's life by providing food for a month.
$10 will save ten children from starvation.
$500 will establish a kitchen and feed 100 children until the next harvest.

Will you save a life with a dollar?

Could any other dollar you have—or ever hope to have—bring such soul-satisfying returns?

Wouldn't you sleep better—feel better—be better—if you knew that a dollar of yours saved a child's life?

Only—anything you do to save the children of Russia in their desperate fight against death from starvation, must be done at once. Won't you send the dollar NOW? A child's life depends on it.

A Noteworthy Collection of

"Billie Burke" Dresses

Designed for Porch, House or Street Wear

GINGHAM has been elevated to a higher plane. It is no longer the insignificant fabric it once was, to be used for the most commonplace garments only. Designers have assisted in no small way, and the makers of Billie Burke garments have been most energetic in this respect, and, best of all, they have succeeded in keeping the price down.

The young lady in the adjoining sketch who carries herself so sprightly is decked out in a pretty number of medium size, blue checked gingham. Her collar and cuffs are of white organdy and the patch pockets are edged with a fold of the same. The buttons that trim the side and also the bodice are tiny and of pearl. Midway in the skirt is a ten-inch inset band of white organdy that gives a pleasing relief. The girdle and vestee are of the gingham. It is only $8.50.

Persons who are partial to plaid patterns of considerable size will welcome this number that comes in a charming green combination. It has copied its betters, the silk dresses, by showing pleats at the sides. A wide green organdy girdle edged with gingham encircles the waist and bows at the back. Quite a large tuxedo collar of organdy almost covers the entire front of the bodice. The price is $6.75.

A diminutive black and white check gingham. One would never believe it could be arranged so prettily. This is how it is accomplished. The skirt has two four-inch inset bands of white organdy. The front of the bodice is like a bib and it cuts away and ties in a bow at the back. The little round flat collar of white organdy is drawn together by a black ribbon bow. It is certainly very low in price at $7.50.

A captivating number of mauve checked gingham comes in a medium size check. The front is prettied by a long tuxedo collar of white hemstitched organdy and the edges bound with the gingham. The patch pockets are finished with a band of organdy edged with the gingham and adorned with a solitary large white pearl button. The vestee is also trimmed with a single perpendicular row of the buttons. Moderately priced at $6.75.

The young lady on the right who is allowing her garment to flap in the breeze is wearing a gingham dress. It may be a plaid with pink predominating and medium cross lines of black or white, or it may be that black is the most noticeable color with gray and white playing the less important role. Her overskirt is formed of organ pleats that are attached at the side with large pearl buttons, her belt is of the material itself and the collar and cuffs are of white organdy with hemstitching to match the predominating shade of the gingham. We believe you will agree that $8.50 is a fair price for it.

$5.75 never before purchased such a practical dress or one more winsome. The material is a neat plaid, obtainable in pink, mauve or blue. It has a long tuxedo collar of the gingham and a vestee of white pique that is trimmed with tiny pearl buttons. The patch pockets and the cuffs are also of the pique.

Distinctiveness is expressed in this number that comes in a medium check in green, black or blue. A long tuxedo collar of white organdy, edged with sharp little mitred points, extends right to the waist-line, where it is joined by a wide white girdle, edged with gingham, and bowed at the back. The vestee is of biased gingham and topped with white mitres. The cuffs on the short sleeves are finished in a similar manner. Priced at $6.75.

Much organdy but more gingham characterizes this frock. You can have blue, red or black gingham in a medium check. The organdy is white and takes the form of a long tuxedo collar and a vestee. It is checked with tucks and the collar is edged with a frill that is picot edged in color to match. The cuffs on the short sleeves are the same. The wide white girdle and bow are of plain white organdy edged with gingham. For all this loveliness the price is only $8.75.

"Beauty Bloomers" of Silk Habutai

The adjoining illustration will give you some idea of their kind. The material is a wonderfully sturdy grade of habutai. They are cut with a pleat in the back that gives a desirable fulness. The knees are narrowed by neat shirrings on two rows of elastic. A range of lovely colors: white, black, flesh, American beauty, Paddy, Alice blue and rose. Priced at $5.50.

THE HOME CIRCLE

Like a cradle, rocking, rocking
Silent, peaceful to and fro;
Like a mother's sweet looks dropping
On the little face below,
Hangs the green earth, swinging, turning,
Tarless noiseless, safe and slow,
Falls the light of God's face bending
Down and watching us below.

And as feeble babes that suffer,
Toss and cry and will not rest
Are the ones the tender mother
Holds the closest, loves the best:
So when we are weak and wretched,
By ourselves weighed down, distressed,
Then it is that God's great patience
Holds us closest, loves us best.

O great heart of God, whose loving Cannot hindered be nor crossed—
Will not weary, will not even
In our death itself be lost!
Love divine! of such great loving
Only mothers know the cost:—
Cost of love, which, all love passing,
Gave itself to save the lost.

A great deal has been said and written about "Mother" but regardless of how much can be said or how much can be written the subject will never be exhausted. A mother's love probably comes as near the quality of God's love for us as anything we know here on earth.

It is so purely unselfish and so far from anything earthly that many who have not experienced mother love find it difficult to appreciate. Perhaps they term it foolishness or unreasoning that a mother should stand by her child through thick and thin, and that she should always be able to see in him the same innocence and guilelessness of his childhood. It may be foolish from the world's point of view, but it is a very heavenly thought though to know that there is someone in the world who believes in you to that extent. It makes you feel like bucking up and justifying that belief. And in case that "someone" has gone to on a better world, all the more reason for keeping the faith.

How are we able to measure the good which a kind or an encouraging word may do? People are getting altogether too prone to look upon another's sorrows or misfortune with a shrug of the shoulders and an its-none-of-my-affairs attitude. Of course, one should not force sympathy where it is not wanted, or be so profuse with it that the recipient feels over-burdened, but rare indeed is the person who cannot remember times in his life when a little sympathy, a little understanding, would have saved hours and days and weeks of heartache. So do not be too sure that another's trouble or misfortune is not your affair. Possible when the Book of Life is opened you may find a large balance on the debit side.

It seems that the majority of people in this world are either over-confident or they lack confidence. For the over-confident nothing can be done for their very fault makes them heedless to anything you might say. They are so sure that they know much more about it than you, for an over-confident man is always a conceited man.

But for those who lack confidence the thing to do is to induce them that they have just as much back-bone as anyone else. Perhaps they can't feel it before it has become soft from not being used but it is there just the same. All it needs is a little exercise.

To these people almost any task looks impossible. They feel quite inadequate for anything that comes their way. They never try to do anything because they feel sure they would fail. Consequently never having tried, they have never had an opportunity to know whether they would have failed or succeeded.

Contrary to the popular belief, it is not the frost which causes the leaves to put on their gay colors in the fall. This bright coloration is caused by the sap retreating to the roots which results in a chemical reaction. Such action is hastened by frost or cold weather but many times the leaves begin to turn before there is any nip of frost in the air.

KEEPING LIST OF AUTO DELINQUENTS.

A new regulation which has come into being lately in the local Police Department's returns to the Department of Justice, is the "Return of Prosecution under the Motor Vehicles Act." Immediately after judgment in local courts with regard to any violation of the Act by motorists, this return is filled out and sent to the Motor Vehicles Branch, Depar ment of Public Highways, in Toronto. It is signed by the convicting magistrate, and contains all data referring to the offence, with the section of the Act violated, the amount of fine or penalty, the offender's name, occupation and address. This information is filed in Toronto, the Department designing to keep, in this way, a record of all offences against the Motor Vehicles Act, for reference in case of future transgressions.

TAKE CARE OF THE CAR

With the mechanism of the modern motor-car reaching approximately a degree of perfection, and the remarkable development in body building on graceful lines, owners are taking more care in the upkeep of their cars. As a result cleaning methods and equipment have considerably advanced over those of a few years back.

KEEP IT NEW

The present-day owner, using modern methods may keep his car looking new all the time, nor will be have to spend more than a few moments a day to accomplish this end. For instance, there are now on the market a number of liquid and wax polishes which will give admirable results if they are used as directed.

In the use of wax polishes the first step is to clean the body of the car thoroughly. The polish is applied to the surface with a piece of cheese cloth and then another clean cloth is used to distribute the wax evenly all over the surface. Car owners commonly make the mistake of thinking that the more wax applied the better. As a matter of fact, a very thin film is all that is needed. The polish will last for from four days to a week, and after it has been applied at the beginning of the week a little rubbing with a clean cloth will bring out the luster again. The wax polish may be used for body, fenders, hood, and other lustrous surfaces, and it will also be found that if the under side of the fenders is cleaned and given a good coating of wax less mud will be deposited and what is there may be easily removed.

SPRAY POLISH

The most recent type of body polish is that which is sprayed on the surface with a large sprayer. In using this polish the body must first be thoroughly cleaned with water. If the body surfaces are merely dusty the wipe off with a clean cloth. After spraying with polish over the surface a piece of cheese cloth is used to wipe off the excess. There is no necessity for vigorous rubbing.

The present-day owner must not assume that these new and really useful aids to beautifying the motor car have superseded plain water. The contrary is true, the car must be washed just as formerly, after which the new polishes will bring out the lustre of the original finish.

NOT SO EASY

Washing the car is not the casual job some owners seem to imagine. To begin with, the car should be washed immediately after it has been dirty. If mud is allowed to remain on the varnished surface more than a day it is difficult to eradicate it. For the washing plain water should be used, neither too hot nor too cold, about 50 degrees F., being the proper temperature. A large sponge soaked in clear water and then sopped against the surface so that the water trickles down is best. Never turn a stream of water at high pressure on the body. This will grind thick particles of sand and other grit into the varnish to the detriment of the fininsh. The idea is to float the mud or dirt off the surface.

Soap should never be used on the body except for removing grease or oil spots. A small piece of soft cloth, well-covered with castile soap suds, serves very well to remove grease from the panels. The hood should never be washed while it is hot, as this will result in discoloration. In cleansing the radiator send a stream of water from the rear instead of the front, to keep moisture out of the mechanism.

OFTEN NEGLECTED

After examining the running gear of the ordinary car one might be tempted to forego telling the owner how to clean this part of the vehicle. However, a stick for removing incrustations of mud, soap and water and a good stiff brush will make this job not so bad after all. Mud deposits on such parts or torque tubes, universal housings, rear axle brake, drums, etc., ought to be removed, as they have a destructive effect in time. In flushing parts of the under-gear with water care should be taken not to let the fluid get into the bearing surface. This refers to such parts as the braking system, steering mechanism, etc.

A final plea: Be sure that all paraphernalia, cloths, sponges, chamois, skins, etc., used in cleaning the polished surfaces are clean themselves, before you employ them. Sponges are peculiarly liable to have sand in them, even new ones. They should be washed out in warm water before use.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can get almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

Russian Soviets and Turks Plan a Treaty.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 10.—(Associated Press).—The Russian Soviet Government and the Turkish Nationalists are planning to hold a conference at Kars to draw up a new treaty providing for the resumption of commercial relations between Turkey and the small republics of the Caucasus, such as Georgia and Azerbaidjan.

A treaty to that effect was signed by the Russians and Turkish Nationalists last fall, but has not been ratified by the states concerned on the ground that it was unworkable, owing to the abnormal conditions in Russia.

ANALYZING GIBSON'S WRITING

BY ALBERT J. SMITH

CHARLES DANA GIBSON

Charles Dana Gibson paints pictures and he paints them well. He portrays characters in which the soul sense stands out prominently. They are full of expression and attraction, that not one in ten thousand can tell why this is so. It would be a ask for Mr. Gibbons to explain this phenomena.

Just why Gibson writes so inexpressibly bad is because when he signs his name to a document, the chances are that his real cosmic body is in conflict withh is spiritual self at the moment of making his pen mark.

When Gibson is released from his intense application of mind, that is concentrated on a visionary creation, he can be very practical and reserved.

Gibson has firm convictions and they are difficult to change. The firmness of his strokes confirm this declaration. What excuse can this artist rave for dotting his "i" with such slab of ink, except to wemonstrate his almost ungovernable temper and strong passions

The nature yearns for wordly pleasures and enjoyments.

Gibson is a man of great originality. He is a genius; he has so secretive a disposition that few amang his initmate friends are permitted to know his ambitions.

It is this retiring nture that baffles his friends, who conside him the personification of jollity and good nature when socially inclined. But withal, this exterem reservedness and secretiveness keep his intimates guessing. He can keep his own counsel.

FLAPPERS FORM SORORITY FOR FREEDOM OF KNEES

Will Put Into Place Mere Man Who Dares to Snivel at Costumes, Customs or Capers of Members of New Sisterhood in New York.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Even the flapper will turn. Scolded, threatened, discussed, sneered at, jeered at and copied, she who is the most ultra in everything, whether it is leading a henna dog along upper Fifth Avenue loft at quitting time, is now represented by a regular organization pledged to act in her behalf.

The very latest in sororities has just been organized by co-eds of the New York University. It is Chapter 1 of the United Sisterhood of American Flappers, and one of its first assignments will be the putting into place of the mere man who dares to snivel at costume, customs or capers of the flappers. Its proponents are certain that once its mission is understood, it will spread to Ann Harbor, Evanston and everywhere there are co-eds, even Ypsilanti.

Secrecy is Broken.

So far as can be learned—there being considerable secrecy in connection with the matter—the United Sisterhood is prepared to battle for freedom of the knees, freedom of the squeeze and the right to wear bobbed hair, short skirts, jade earrings and all the rest of the make-up. And the message from abroad that Lord Northcliffe is backing their English sisters in the matter of freedom of the knees brought three loud cheers.

It is understood here that the English publisher is insisting in his newspapers that Paris fashions shoulld be disregarded and that, as Ambassador Harvey was quoted as saying recently, skirts, like after dinner speeches, should be "long enough to cover the subject, and short enough to be interesting."

But that is aside from the flappers' protective society. Miss Sylvia Florea, who is going on the stage after graduation, was elected Grand Exalted Flapper; Miss Audrey Philbrook, Super-Divine Inspector of Hair Nets; Miss Madeline Weilbrenner, 5, West 112nd street, Miss Paula Friedman, 1660 Forty-ninth street, Brooklyn, Miss Dorothy Ritter, 1174 Eighty-second street Brooklyn, Miss Sybil Gordon and Miss Edith Forbet, both of the Hotel Biltmore, directors.

The following are some of the rules of the association:

Stockings must be worn on all occasions. They should be rolled of course, but must not expose the shin bone.

Jade earrings must not be more than 15 inches in length, and not more than five inches wide.

All flappers seen in the company of crumpet munchers Frost Bite eaters and ballroom olfers shall be dismissed immediately and pay a fine of three hair nets.

BEST PINEAPPLES ARE ON SALE THIS WEEK

Later Shipments May Be Much Poorer in Quality

Housewives looking for the best pineapples will be well advised to make their purchases this week, local fruit men say. The chances are that next week the shipments will be lighter and poorer quality even if the prices remain unchanged. The stuff that has come in so far has been fine fruit they affirm and while prices have been unusually high due to the freight charges, the sales have been brisk. One dealer reports sales of 10 cases. Price today were from $2.90 to $3.50 a case. Singly the pines are selling at from 25 to 50 cents. Several sales of individual cases were reported.

The first shipments of Leamington tomatoes have arrived in the city. One dealer affirmed he paid 50 cents a pound and would have to get at least 56 to make anything. The Florida fruit is selling at 25 cents but there is a great difference between the two classes. Local grown stuff in the way of radishes, lettuce, asparagus and rhubarb and even mush rooms grown under glass at 6 cents a pint measure are in the shops and if the good growing weather continues gardeners say it will not be long until the open air product makes its appearance.

When Hilliard Baitman Lost His Partner

THE business of Baitman and Company, Commission Merchants, is to-day in a flourishing condition. For that prosperity Life Insurance is largely responsible.

Originally, this business depended upon Baitman himself, for the financing, and upon his partner for the selling. In 1917 the partner contracted a fatal illness. Baitman, realizing his own deficiencies as a salesman, began to look about for a man to whom he could entrust that work. He engaged two—but neither proved capable.

Meanwhile, Baitman had received from the North American Life Assurance Company, a cheque for $20,000—the result of a Partnership Insurance Policy taken out when his business was young.

With that $20,000 added to the rather meagre Capital he already had, Baitman was able to interest a man with an even better connection than the partner whose loss had seemed so serious.

Almost every business depends upon the peculiar abilities of several individuals. Remove one of these, and you take away a valuable asset. Sometimes the loss seems too great to be measured in dollars and cents. Yet even in such extreme cases, a lump sum does compensate greatly, and helps tide over the period that must elapse before a successor is found.

Partnership Insurance has helped many a business over difficult periods.

Let us know the facts regarding your business—and receive from us valuable advice as to how the untimely taking off of an executive or partner may be met by a type of Insurance specially provided to meet such emergencies.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

FATE TRIPS ME.

"Don't hurry," remarked the highwayman, interrupting my wordy plea that he take the hand bag and leave me the beads. "I like to hear you talk lady, so long as I get the pearls—"

I was searching my head for a phrase with which I could warn Jack that the man had a gun.

I raised my hand as if to unclasp my beads, and drawled deliberately: "Put up your gun—first."

As the man started to place the automatic in his pocket Jack sprang upon him, struck up his arm, and the gun flew far away and fell among the bushes.

After two park policeman had walked off with my assailant, Jack took my arm. Without a word, without a kiss, he turned me homeward. We walked in silence back home. The gutter in front of our apartment was still running almost curb high. I released my arm from Jack's grasp and tried for a pretty jump over the murky water.

My narrow skirt hampered me. Down I fell, face down, flat into the black pool!

Jack fished me out and put me on my feet with many an apology for what had happened. But goodness knows, he was not at fault!

He steadied me, wiped the grime from my closed eyes. I had splashed his new summer serge from collar to ankles. And I dripped black mud!

And so we looked at each other and broke into laughter, held hands and climbed up to our third floor, the happiest two in the wide world.

Thus ended our first quarrel.

"Pride had a fall that time!" I called out, presently, from the bath tub.

"Over nothing at all!" Jack called back from the kitchen, where he was hanging my soaked garments.

"All utterly futile," said I to Me. "But what if that wretch had fired? And killed Jack. It might have happened! You might this very moment, be a widow—"

The rest was unthinkable. I rushed into my kimona and out to my husband.

Jack was washing my pearls under the kitchen faucet.

"Queer stuff," he commented, as he handed them to me. "One of my prospects is a jeweler, he was examinging pearls when I saw him yesterday. I couldn't tell his from yours. He told me there are two successful imitations, scientific and synthetic. One kind is built up in layers, the other is solid—fused—I don't know how. Experts get fooled by both kinds."

"Mine are just plain beads," I remarked.

"Gosh, Peg, you'd better let me throw the darn things into the garbage pail before they get you into some real trouble!

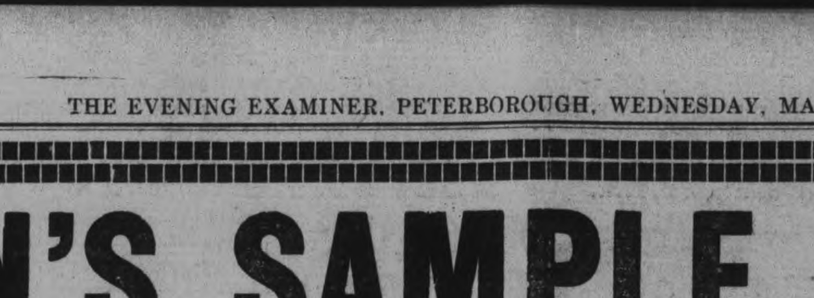
SHARPSHOOTING HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS GIVE BOYS STRONG COMPETITION



COUNCIL BLUFFS H IGH SCHOOL GIRLS AT SHARP-SHOOTING PRACTICE.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., May 10 Say, girls! Have you an unused attic in your high school?

Then you may learn to qualify as sharpshooters just as 60 high school girls in Council Bluffs, Ia., are doing.

The Council Bluffs attic high school range cost but $31.25. Of course it was built for the boys, but by a lucky chance, the girls, who had gun fever, also got range privileges.

The instructors, regular army officers, say they will match the girls against the boy rifle teams any time, and bet on the former!

Here's how the girls got equal suffrage.

Margaret Howland, a daring senior, made a bet that she could meet and converse with Colonel F. J. Morrow, of Washington, when he visited Council Bluffs on an inspection trip.

Pretending that she represented the girls of the school who wished to co-operate with the boys' activities, she succeeded.

Then she had to make good, and in behalf of the girls asked for the rifle range. She got it.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

ALLAN PINKERTON'S RECORD CASE

(Copyright, 1920, By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

There was no response to the impatient knocking on the heavy door of the Adams Express Company's building near the end of the Columbus, Ohio, Union Station one night in the middle of winter. There stood the train, with the usual bustle and clamor preparatory to departure, but the express clerk and his assistant had not made their appearance.

Bang! Bang! Bang!"

This time John Grossman, the express messenger, knocked harder than ever, for it was beginning to dawn upon him that something must be wrong. A moment later he tried the knob of the door. To his amazement, it turned easily, and he stepped forward into utter darkness, stumbling over boxes and packages until he reached the gas-jet in the center of the room. Once the gas was lighted, it was clear that something had happened, something distinctly off the beaten track that the office was accustomed to follow. Papers and parcels lay in wild confusion all over the floor, the door of the safe stood open, and the clerk and his assistant were lying in one corner in a sort of stupor.

It was evident that the two men had been chloroformed—the sickening odor of the drug still pervaded the room—and that the company had been robbed, in spite of the fact that hundreds of people had been just outside the building all during the evening. These circumstances, coupled with the fact that $46,000 was missing from the safe, were all that Allan Pinkerton had to work upon when he reached Columbus early the following morning, but it was not long before he discovered a few salient and unusual features about the case.

The details of the robbery were obtained directly from John Barker, the express clerk, his assistant having succumbed to the effects of the chloroform so completely that he remembered none of the incidents which led up to the safe-cracking.

According to Barker, he and his assistant were stretched out on two cots as usual about 10 o'clock in the evening, taking a nap before going on duty on the train which was due to leave Columbus shortly after midnight.

"I was awakened by what appeared to be a muffled pounding or pushing at the door," Barker continued, "as if someone were trying to force their way in."

"Was the door locked?" inquired Pinkerton.

"It was—and bolted. I didn't pay any attention to the matter because, while we did have $72,000 in the safe—$23,000 of it in revenue stamps—we had often guarded a good deal more, and I thought the noise had been made by someone who had stumbled against the door in the darkness. Then, before I got really awake, I heard the bolt give, and the next thing I knew, someone had pinioned my arms and I caught a whiff of something which I recognized as chloroform. I struggled, but it was no use. When I came to, Grossman, the messenger, was bending over me, and the whole place looked like a cyclone had struck it. The $40,000 in cash was gone, but they had overlooked or deliberately left the $32,000 in stamps."

Pinkerton made no comment at the time, but continued his examination of the room where the robbery had taken place. A careful scrutiny of the door revealed two interesting facts: the bolt had been bent, as if it had been in place when the door was forced, but it was bent far more than was necessary to secure an entrance to the room, and there were no scratches or other signs of violence on the outside of the door!

All the evidence appeared to point to the fact that the job had been handled from the inside, and Pinkerton immediately ordered the arrest of both Barker and his assistant. The two men protested their innocence, but admitted that appearances were against them and seemed to be sincere in their requests continue his outside investigation with a view to discovering where the money had disappeared to, for it was certainly not concealed in the room.

Upon looking into Barker's antecedents, Pinkerton found that the express clerk had a brother living in Chicago—a man who was reported to be quite wealthy, and whom Barker stated would willingly go on his bail if permitted to do so. But the Chicago branch of the Pinkerton agency reported that the other Barker was not only wealthy, but was prominent in the life of the underworld, having married the daughter of the proprietress of one of the most notorious dives in the city.

"Unable to obtain definite information," came back the reply, "but he was not in Chicago."

"Trail him closely and arrest him the instant he attempts to leave the city," were the telegraphed directions which followed.

Early the following morning, less than thirty-six hours after the crime in Columbus, Henry Barker was arrested en route to Canada, and $14,000 was found in the lining of his valise. Later, after having been giving a taste of the famous Pinkerton "silence cure," he revealed the hiding-place of the other $26,000 and the details of the whole affair, which he claimed his brother had planned. The scheme was simplicity itself. John Barker had administered chloroform to his sleeping assistant. Then he opened the outside door, admitted his brother and opened the safe. After strewing papers all over the floor, Henry Barker placed a cloth saturated in chloroform over his brother's nostrils stuffed the cash in his pocket and left—first bending back the bolt of the door. Unfortunately, however, he had been a little too thorough in attending to this last detail, and had left a clue which enabled Pinkerton to start the two men toward the penitentiary within forty-eight hours after the discovery of the robbery.

Colds, Fevers or a Rundown Condition, Take This Advice

Pleasantville, N. S.—"Four years ago I was a very sick woman. The doctor said it was pneumonia. It kept me in bed for five weeks and left me so weak that I could hardly get about. A dear friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's remedies and I did so. After taking a bottle of the Golden Medical Discovery and one of the Favorite Prescription I found I was getting so much stronger that I continued using them, together with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, until I fully recovered my strength."—Mrs. Agnes Brunell.

RECIPES

WATCH the market and when pineapples are most plentiful and cheap order one or two dozen for canning.

Sugar is so reasonably priced again that pineapple preserves can be indulged in. These make delicious winter desserts or can be used with hot buscuits and butter in place of dessert for luncheon.

Pineapple Preserves

Pare pineapple and remove eyes. Cut fruit in neat dice of about one-half inch. Weigh fruit and use pound for pound of sugar and fruit. Strain juice from fruit. Add juice to sugar with more water if necessary to prevent burning and put over a slow fire. Bring to the boiling point and skim.

Add fruit and simmer until the fruit is transparent and can be pierced with a silver fork. Pour into sterilized pint jars while boiling and seal.

Pineapple Marmalade

Pare and remove eyes from pineapples. Remove from core and weigh. For every pound of fruit use 14 ounces of granulated sugar. Grate pineapple and sprinkle with sugar. Let stand until sugar is dissolved. Cook until the mixture is thick and clear. Try a spoonful of the marmalade on a cold sauce.

If the mass jellies the marmalade is done. Pour into sterilized pint jars while boiling hot and seal. If the marmalade is cooked until the jelly is very firm, the mixture can be put in jelly glasses and covered with paraffin when cool. Marmalade stored in this way will not keep over one year.

Pineapple Chips

Pineapples, pure cane sugar.

Pare and remove eyes from pineapples. Cut in thin slices. Drain off juice. Put a layer of fruit in preserving kettle and sprinkle liberally with sugar. Continue layer for layer until all is used. Let stand over night and drain off juice.

Put juice in preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Add fruit and let boil 10 minutes. Spread on platters and dry in a sunny window or a slow oven. When the syrup is absorbed dip each piece of fruit in sugar and store in a tin box.

These chips are delicious in cake and desserts

Canned Pineapple

Pare and remove eyes from pineapples. Remove from core in thin slices. Put slices in a cheesecloth and plunge into boiling water. Boil five minutes, counting the time after the water begins to boil again.

Remove from boiling water and plunge immediately into cold water. Do not let stand in the cold water, but be sure that each piece is covered. Drain and pack in sterilized jars. Pack to within one-fourth inch from the top of the can. Pour over medium thin sirup to cover fruit.

Dip rubber into boiling water and place on neck of can. Half screw on top and put jar in canner. The water in the canner must cover the jars by at least two inches. Bring water quickly back to the boiling point and boil 40 minutes. Remove jars from boilers and finish sealing. Turn upside down and cool as quickly as possible.

Medium Thin Syrup

Three cups sugar, 1¼ cups water.

Mix sugar and water and bring to the boiling point. Skim and boil four minutes.

Voice of the People

COMMUNITY SINGING.

Mr. Editor: In Monday night's Examiner you mentioned how nice it would be to have community singing Sunday nights in the park. I may tell you this has been going on every Sunday night (when the weather permits) for 16 years in the Central Park, and a very large portion of the citizens have enjoyed it, so I don't see any good or fair reason to boost something else. You have never given a word of encouragement, editorially, to this song service. Why not? As good singers and as good a conductor as can be found in the city are at the Central Park this summer; and in addition some of the very best speakers have assisted in the past, and will assist this year. We have had Mr. John M. Carnie of New York, a prince of preachers; Mr. Robert McMurdo of Chicago, editor of Armour of Light; Dr. A. B. Miller, and many others; but the Examiner has let all pass without comment. As for a brass band, it is no good for hymn singing, which needs reeds and base violas, and many instruments not in Peterboro. Yours truly, COMMUNITY.

Cincinnati 4—Boston 1.

CINCINNATI, May 10 (Canadian Press). — Duncan's triple with the bases full in the sixth inning was the main factor in giving Cincinnati a 4 to 1 victory over Boston here yesterday. New York 6—St. Louis 0.

ST. LOUIS, May 10 (Canadian Press). — Bill Ryan, of New York, turned back the Cardinals yesterday, winning 6 to 0, due to the slugging of his team-mates and his masterful hurling. Bill Pertica was wild and Sherdel was sent in after the game was apparently lost. The seventh inning was the only frame in which the Giants failed to get a man on base. Score:

St. Louis	000000000—	0	7 2

Ryan and Snyder; Sherdel, Walker, Pertica and Ainsmith, Clemons.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

If the umpire calls a balk on the pitcher, and the pitcher delivers the ball to the batter, no consideration is given any play that may come up. The calling of the balk suspends play. The throwing of the ball to the batter by the pitcher means nothing. No attention is paid to any play that comes up. Base runners are simply entitled to advance one base.

SCHOOL LACROSSE GAMES SATURDAY

Executive Meeting on Wednesday Night — Riversides Look Strong.

The following schedule of practice games in the School League has been drawn up for next Saturday morning by Walter Smaill:

10 a.m.—Prince of Wales vs. Queen Mary.

—o—

This marks the beginning of the effort to introduce the game permanently in the schools, and it is hoped that all the boys who are interested in lacrosse will co-operate with Mr. Smaill.

—o—

A meeting of the combined executives of the Lacrosse Club and City League will be held in one of the smaller rooms of the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday night. This will be an important meeting, at which the loose ends of the preparations for the City League must be gathered up. The City League teams should play their first games next week, if possible. They are all equipped, and if any of them have not had as much practice as some of the others it is their own fault.

—o—

Some of the smaller sticks are still on sale, and the boys are urged to speak for them at once before the season becomes much farther advanced.

—o—

All four teams are practicing these evenings and should be showing improvement in conditioning. Johnnie Sutherland has located McDonald, a former senior St. Simon's player, who is now employed here. The scouts had all been looking for McDonald, but the Riversides were the first to land him. He would have helped the Strathconas, who are all young players. Riversides will have an O.A.L.A. home section at the present rate.

DETROIT USES PECULIAR PLAY

Experts Question Soundness of Ty Cobb's Latest Hit-and-Run Play.

SCORE FROM SECOND.

The Detroit club is using a play this year that looks good when it is successfully pulled, yet a great many experts question its logic.

It is the hit and run play with a runner on second and one out. The Tigers have tried it a number of times already, but haven't met with much success.

With a runner on second, that runner makes a break for third with the pitch. Of course, that pulls the third baseman over to cover, and it is up to the batter to hit through the territory vacated.

Opposing catchers will simply resort to the pitch out to break up this play if the Tigers continue to use it.

The fact that a runner can score from second on a single or an error, is what causes most of the baseball experts to question the soundness of the play.

THE INFIELD FLY IS A MATTER OF GOOD JUDGMENT

Rule Depends on Opinion of the Umpire—Made to Protect the Base Runner

PREVENTS DOUBLES.

By BILLY EVANS.

When an umpire rules a fly ball an infield fly, it merely resolves itself into a question of judgment. An infield fly is any fly ball other than a line drive which in the opinion of the umpire can be handled by an infielder.

The infield fly rule applies with first and second or first, second and third base occupied and less than two out. This rule was made to protect the base runner from being doubled up by having a fielder purposely drop or trap such a fly ball.

The umpire, with such conditions existing, immediately calls infield fly, if in his judgment the ball can be handled by an infielder. That is a warning to the base runners that the batsman is automatically retired.

If, after the umpire rules a certain hit an infield fly, and some outfielder makes the play on the ball and drops it, that act does in no way change the original ruling of the umpire. It is still an infield fly that retires the batsman.

Base runners can advance on an infield fly the same as on any other fly ball that is caught or dropped.

WALSH GREATEST SPITBALL ARTIST

Made the Most Effective Use of the Moist Delivery. Used Low Break.

By BILLY EVANS.

Since there are many styles of spitball pitching, I wouldn't care to come out and flatly say that any one pitcher was the best spitballer. However, I feel safe in saying there never was a more effective spitball pitcher than Ed. Walsh.

Walsh's control was equally as effective as his spitball. I have worked back of a number of pitchers who could get a more peculiar break on the ball than Walsh, but never saw a pitcher who had such uncanny control of the moist delivery.

The spitball is most effective when broken low. It always seemed to me that Walsh could throw every spitball at the knee. It was a rarity for him to break a spitball high. As a result the batters were always topping the ball.

Shocker of St. Louis, Faber of Chicago, Coveleskie of Cleveland and a few others could possibly do more with the ball than Walsh, but there never was a more effective spitballer in the history of the game.

WHEN YOU SCORE A GAME

In all cases where a base runner is retired by being hit with a batted ball, unless batted by himself, the batsman should be credited with a base hit. Base runners cannot advance on such a hit, however, except to make room for the batsman.

FAT BOY ROOKIE SUBS FOR COBB

Recruit Tipped the Scales at 240 Early in Season But Is Down to 215 Now.

FAST MAN.

In Bob Fothergill, playing centre-field for Detroit, during Cobb's absence from the game, the Tigers have a second Sox Seybold.

Fothergill is unquestionably the biggest man from every angle that has broken into the major leagues in years. He measures close to the six-foot mark and weighs about 215.

Fothergill, already known to the players as "Papagill," reported for spring training weighing around 240. It is said that Cobb was so peeved at his lack of condition that he almost decided to pass him up as a possibility.

Fothergill at 215 is still about 20 pounds overweight. Despite his poundage, he is fast and can hit. If he gets down to a proper playing weight he may prove a most valuable man for the Tigers.

Kansas has fought the title-holder twice and Leonard failed to stop him on both occasions. They met in a no-decision contest in New Jersey a year ago and Leonard was accorded the newspaper decision. Their second engagement was staged in New York last winter, Leonard winning the referee's decision.

The match will be staged in an open-air arena, with a seating capacity of 30,000 persons.

OHSWEKEN, May 10.—(Canadian Press)—"Chiefs, there is talk of aggression. But woe betide armed force which sets hostile foot upon our soil. This was the climax in the fighting speech which Chief General Deskaheh delivered yesterday afternoon before the Indian Council of Six Nations. Chiefs of six nations were assembled in solemn "Pow-Wow" and after affirming their loyalty to treaties which bind them in alliance to great white chief launched vigorous protest against what they term threat or racial extinction.

It was decided to forward resolution to Premier King asking investigation of Indian affairs in Canada.

One of the best radio receiving sets obtainable is the short wave regenerative set with a two-step amplifier.

With this set greater distance can be covered in receiving, and greater signal strength obtained.

Its cost ranges from $160 up. But any amateur can assemble the set himself by purchasing the parts, if he doesn't want to make them, at a cost of less than $80. This includes the price of batteries, tubes, phones and everything from the antenna down to the ground.

No. 16 and No. 17—22 1-2-volt "B" batteries.
No. 18—A six-volt storage or "A" battery.

This receiving set with vacuum tube detector and two-step amplifier should be mounted in a cabinet about eight inches high, 34 inches long and seven inches deep.

How It Works.

Even if you build part of this set yourself, do not try to construct the transformers, tubes, tube sockets, head phones or rheostat. It is cheaper to buy these parts.

The transformers are similar in construction to the large power transformer with a core, primary and secondary windings. But they are, of course, much smaller in size.

The three tubes depend upon the "A" battery for their filament current supply. Since each tube draws approximately one ampere of current it would be well to have at least a 90-ampere-hour battery.

One "B" battery is used for the detector tubes, while both "B" batteries or 45 volts are used for the amplifying tubes—this is due to the differences in the vacuum of the tubes themselves.

The vario-coupler, variometers and condensers can be made as explained in previous articles.

When completed this set should by the leading companies.

The Coming Use of Radio

PAUL F. GODLEY.

"The time is almost here when the free exchange of private radio communication between citizens of all lands will occur at more or less frequent intervals." e

That is the staement of Paul F. Fodley, leader of radio amateurs in America. Godley is the first man to receive a trans-Atlantic wireless message on the short wave length.

"The American boy has set the whole world a-buzzin'," says Godley. "And Europe will be stepping along at a fast clip, too."

Within the next four years, Godley estimates, five million American homes will be equipped with radio sets.

"A few months ago," he explains, to show the vastly increased interest in radio, "the world at large knew very little about radio communication. Now we see Holland taking every advantage of radiophone broadcasting. Mexico follows suit with a similar policy.

"South American countries are greatly interested in the possibilities of this wonderful thing and recently France legalized amateur transmitting and receiving.

"English amateurs who never bothered about communication over distances greater than 25 miles are perking up. They have been away behind their American brothers.

"Here the youngster starts climbing trees and scaling roofs to rig up an aerial when he is 12 or 13. There they don't begin to be interested until they are 20. But they are livening up."

CLAIMS CENTRAL LEAGUE STEALS TORONTO STARS

T.A.B.A. Charges Leaside Club With Poaching in Toronto and Asks the O.B.A.A. to Act.

ROXBOROUGH SORE.

The Central Ontario League are invading Toronto for players. The Toronto Amateur Baseball Association are up in arms over the matter. It looks like a merry battle until the situation is cleared. Leaside is the cause of the trouble The new acquistion to the Central Ontario circuit have already taken seven ball players from Toronto. Othe may go. Already "Nipper" Jones, last year with the Monarchs; Tracy Shaw, of Judeans; "Left" Maguire, Russell, Ward, formerly of the Toronto Senior League; Clarence Hoose, last year with Riverdale Senior League, and now awaiting the raising of a suspension are among the Toronto players slated for the Leaside team.

President Harry Roxborough, of the T.A.B.A., is indignant over the matter. He wants the Ontario Association to take action. He claims the Leaside Club are poaching Toronto players, and says that if the O.B.A.A. allows it to go on, the time may come when the T.A.B.A. will unloosen their rules to permit of Toronto teams bringin in players from outiside during the season. It certainly is a matter for eradjustment, and if the O.A.B.A. doesn't do something to alleviate the trouble the Ontario body may find the Toronto Association severing connections.

It seems some time ago that President Roxborough attended a meeting of the O.B.A. and laid before them information that Leaside counted on using Toronto players. "Jake' Solomon, of Peterborough, a member of the Central Ontario League and also of the O.B.A.A. told Mr. Roxborough that the Central intended to govern Leaside. That satisfied Mr. Roxborough. But now he finds that the residence rule is nothing more than that a player must be an employee of Leaside by May 15. This doesn"t hinder a player from living in Toronto and working in Leaside.

Mr. Roxborough's arguments on the point are good ones. He claims that this poaching may mean the start to greater things in this respect. He realizes that there is a new field for employment at Leaside but also realizes that with twenty senior teams in Toronto there is no reason for a ball flayer to go outside the city to make a place on a team. He also contends that as the T.A.B.A. does not affiliate industrial teams with purely club ones, this Leaside matter is just an easy step from this Toronto regulation. The T.A.B.A. certainly has a grievance and it is up to the O.B.A.A. to clear up. If allowed to remain, it will create hard feeling and perhaps a breach that will be harder to heal in the future than right now.

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO KEEP HER LOCKS DARK, GLOSSY, BEAUTIFUL.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Starting tomorrow, "The Sheik's Wife," a thrilling drama showing the conflict between the emotions of love, fear and jealousy. Just the usual Capitol prices.

"The Sheik's Wife," the big French production, has many unique points of interest. First, it is the only film ever shown in this country which was actually made in the deserts of Arabia.

This journeying to the actual spots described in the story cost several thousand dollars extra, but the result has justified the expenditure. Secondly, it is the first picture ever made which shows the interiors of real harems where the legal wives of the sheik live in seclusion from male view. The difficulties surmounted by the great French director, Henry-Roussell, who had charge of the production, and his company of players in securing these scenes are of a kind that would make a picture in themselves.

Space prevents narrating the narrow escape the daring director had in entering and leaving a harem or the trouble that resulted from his addressing an Arabian woman. He has indicated some of these events in the action of the story, for he based the picture on actual experiences in that land so little known to the average American.

Once M. Henry-Roussell, not knowing the iron-clad tradition which forbids a woman to address anyone on the street, was so indiscreet as to ask a question of a heavily veiled native woman. She, on her part, was perfectly willing to converse with the handsome stranger who understood her language so well. They were in the midst of an interesting parley when the woman's husband appeared on the scene. Unfortunately, the latter happened to be the sheik, the absolute ruler of the camp in which the French company was staying. He ordered the director to be put under arrest, without giving the Frenchman any opportunity to explain. Then, feeling that his honor as a Mohammedan had been insulted, he decided to settle the affair by a sword duel. M. Henry-Roussell faced this decision with perfect equanimity; in France he is famous as one of the most expert and accomplished swordsmen of the republic.

In the duel, which was held that night by the light of torches, the Frenchman, by his superior science, easily disarmed the less skilled man of the desert. After having had his sword knocked out of his hand half a dozen times, the Arab conceived such an admiration for his opponent's skill and address that he forgave the Frenchman for his unwitting injury.

The generous sheik even offered to divorce the wife with whom Henry-Roussell had been talking and let the Frenchman marry her. The director, however, hastily declined this favor, making the excuse that he already had a wife at home in France. The Arab, who was the husband of half a dozen wives, was unable to comprehend why this should make any difference. M. Henry-Roussell then explained that the custom of his country did not countenance polygamy. But the whole experience proved valuable in making "The Sheik's Wife." Several of the incidents were included in the picture, notably that of the sword duel by torchlight.

"The Sheik's Wife" is a passionate story of Oriental love. It tells of the misadventures and misfortunes of Estelle Graydon, a romance-loving English girl who weds a sheik of the desert. After three years of happy married life, complications arise. The husband is forced by the influence of his father and the elders of the tribe to betroth himself to a second fiancee. Naturally Estelle resents this affront to herself. She makes a gallant fight for the sanctity of her marriage rights. The situation becomes involved when several of her English friends, among them a former lover, arrive on the scene and make an effort to help her. The tribesmen resent this outside interference and determine to wipe out the Christians. The climax comes in the wild night attack of the Arabs on the English camp. It makes a thrilling end to a great picture. "The Sheik's Wife" is a photodrama which no one can afford to miss.

AT THE GRAND.

YOUNG-ADAMS COMPANY.

The Young-Adams Stock Company presented "The Broken Road," a melodrama in three acts, at the Grand Opera House last night. Miss Adams as Clarice Le Moyne, the woman who gambled home, reputation and child for love, and lost, does some excellent work, with H. Wilmot Young as Judge Haddon McLean, the man who fails her. The vengeful career of the divorced, hardened woman involves the judge's two sons in a thrilling suicide episode in the second act, leading finally to a realization of the depths at the end of the "Broken Road." May Goodwin has some excellent character work in the part of "Red" Larkin, and Marguerite Young doubles successfully in the parts of Lois and Lottie.

"HULLO CANADA"

Harry Tate isn't one bit nervous when he plays before a large audience, for he is used to appearing before Kings and Queens.

The merry jester of "Hullo Canada" has an A1 record at Lloyd's in "command performances." A command performance is an order to act before a crowned head. Next morning the player receives a cheque for $500 or $1,000. Most English performers like to be "commanded."

"I don't see any difference between American audiences and British ones," he said at the Hotel Benson. "They both ha-ha quite merrily, you know, whenever they see the point. When they don't see it, they both maintain a beastly silence. Some words we use in London don't seem to go right over here but we change 'em to suit the people, so that the stalls will know what we're trying to get at."

The comedian then diagrammed his point by the automobile salesmanship stunt in the first edition of "Hullo Canada." There is a clever line in it about the "splash boards," but this never caused a ripple when first sprung across the "line." Tate tried it several times, then began to ask questions. The interpreter with the show explained to him that in the United States dialect of the English language an automobile "splash board" is a "fender." Now the joke gets over the footlights.

"Hello Canada" will be at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, 11th May.

AT THE ROYAL.

The First National feature, called "The Social Worth," is a story of "snobocracy," or a certain class of "Society," which measures human values, merit and worth solely by money values. In this photodrama Katherine MacDonald plays the part of a department store salesgirl who marries a rising young architect holding a high place among the elect of society's 400. The girl is beautiful accomplished, and eminently able to take the position among his social equals after marriage, but his snobbish friends resent his marrying a working girl, and "cut" them both. However, the old adage "Love will find a way," proves true and the culmination of the story proves that courage and ability are often a better asset than the possession of wealth. Winter Hall, one of the best-known character actors of the films and a principal in the cast of "The Beauty Market," one of the first big Katherine MacDonald pictures, is back again with the American Beauty in this star's latest release for Associated First National Pictures, Inc., at the Royal to-night. Antonio Moreno appears to-night in the Vitagraph feature, entitled, "The Secret of the Hills." This romance in five reels is all about a hunt for hidden treasure. This great treasure of gold and jewels is supposed to have been buried in a cave of the Scottish mountains in the days of Bonnie Prince Charlie, and shows beautiful scenic views in addition to carrying an exciting plot of love and adventure. In the Toonerville comedy, our old friend "The Skipper" proposes to the massive Katrinka, but is "given the gate" as she finds the Skipper's stomach was more influenced by her home-made pancakes than his heart by her personality. A well-balanced programme such as you would pay five times the price to see at a big Toronto theatre.

Greenwich Village N.Y.

NEW YORK.—A seed of Bohemianism from the Latin Quarter of Paris drifted across the ocean long ago and implanted itself in old New York It grew slowly, creeping into the spots left vacant as folks of afme and wealth moved farther out, till a little colony of romance and art and Bohemianism was established and named Greenwich village ††

Here artists, real and would-be, built up their queer little studios in deserted stables of the wealthy, lived in rooms, of the old-fashioned homes; opened their strange eating places in cellars and garrets; sold art and junk indiscriminately from their dim, dusty shops; danced their ecentric dances in obscure halls; women bobbed their hair and men wore theirs long; dressed in whimsical, conspicupus fashions; lived at night and slept in the daytime, and established a reputation for the bizarre and novel and carnal, in their little colony in adverse proportion to its size.

Old-fashioned houses of red brick and stone turn their faces to sunny old Washington Square, which has harbored many men and women famed in history.

The three streets that make the little settlement famous are McDougall alley, Patchin place, and Minetta lane.

In McDougall alley really serious workers ply their art in their stable studios: queer, attractive little places they are, staggering along the edges of the alley, with prim posy boxes outside the windows and painted just the colour that one would expect a house not to be. Mrs. Harry Panyne Whitney's is pink and green. There were others in shades of blue—and no paint at all was quite the thing.

Patchin place houses nice folks behind its shuttered windows and quaint doorways where the old knockers of yesterday still hold their sway against the convenience of the impudent door bell.

Minetta lane is the Soho district of Greenwich, where the garbage cans line the curb and the spirit of Bohemianism does its worst.

The shops of the colony, which do not open till afternoon in order not to interfere with the morning sleep of the owners, displays all that is bizarre and extraordinary. Bakst and Batik rule the art collections; dust and smoke cover the accumulations of queer old treasures; rose leaf cigarettes and frocks of odd design and decoration fill the windows of the few shops that are kept modern and c'ean.

Such is a superficial first impression of famous Greenwich Village, whose shuttered windows and quaint doorways, and flower boxes, looking like the drop curtain of a play, impart an atmosphere of witchery and mystery and strange charm which includes even the garbage tins along the curb and the shops, shuttered and shabby and dim.

Motor cars and trucks are being used by many colleges for extension courses and other purposes.

Automobile fatalities n St. Louis dropped from 192 in 1920 to 97 in 1921.

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES FROM SMALL BEGINNING NOW ONE OF WORLD'S LARGEST TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS

Growth of Company's Services Tell the Story of the Growth of Water Transportation for the Waterways of the Dominion Complete Unit of Transportation Under One Central Management.

Water-borne traffic is of such vital importance to the industrial life of the Dominion of Canada that it becomes a national duty to see that the various waterways are maintained in the most efficient manner and that the various classes of ships which utilize them are of an up-to-date and efficient character. Furthermore, it is equally as important that the service be effectively financed in order to give the country, in conjunction with railways, that service which is so essential to the maintenance of a healthy condition of trade, both of a domestic and export and import character.

Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, having fallen heir to the important task of national provider of waterway transportation facilities, it can be stated without fear of contradiction, has risen to the occasion by providing the trade converging on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence with a class of steamers befitting the importance of the business it is called upon to handle. It is a task of national importance and it has been met in the spirit in which it was imposed.

Like the majority of great corporations this service has grown from small beginnings, the structure built by early interests being enlarged in later years on broader lines and augmented by the addition of scattered units operating in a comparatively small way until Canada Steamships, as it has been known for the past few years, has become the most important individual service of its kind on the North American continent.

Pioneer on Water Route.

The history of the company dates back to 1845, when a small boat, the Richelieu of 125 tons, was put on the route between Montreal and Chambly, on the Richelieu River, which gave the company part of its title some years later enlarged to the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company with the inclusion of boats running to Toronto and Hamilton in 1875.

Three years after the venture with the Richelieu, which had proved a success, the Jacques Cartier was built to serve between Montreal and Berthier. In 1855 the company added two greatly improved boats, the Victoria and Napoleon, 350 tons each, to ply between Montreal and Quebec.

As a result of the keen competition thus produced, the Torrance Company, which had, prior to this, controlled the entire traffic of the route, in 1858, sold their boat, the Quebec, for $30,000 to the Richelieu Company, which by this time had a capital of upwards of $125,000. During 1860-61 two additional boats, the Columbia and the Europa, were added and the capital of the company considerably increased.

Early Consolidation.

During 1862 the company was enlarged by the fusion of the Terrebonne and L'Assomption and Lake St. Louis Lines with the Richelieu Company. In 1861 the original steamer Montreal was placed on the line, in 1863 the Francois Yamaska was added, and in 1864 the Quebec was constructed at a cost of $172,000.

In 1875 the company was further enlarged by the taking over of the line of boats running from Montreal to Toronto and Hamilton. This amalgamation took the name of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, and had a capital of $1,500,000 and eight steamboats. Four more were added a few years later. Such noted figures as Sir Hugh Allan, L. A. Senecal, and L. J. (afterwards Senator) Forget, acted as presidents, and in later years Sir Rodolphe Forget headed the company.

In 1898 the company launched the handsomest steel steamer it owned up to the time. This was the Toronto, which cost the company $250,000.

New Interests Acquired.

In 1913 the corporate history of the enterprise underwent a complete change when, on June 17, Canada Transportation Lines, Limited, was organized, the name being changed to Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, on October 7 of the same year The nucleus of the combination was the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, Limited, together with its physical property, also all the physical property, shares, and other securities held by the Richelieu and Ontario Company in the following: Inland Lines, Limited; Northern Navigation Co., Limited; Niagara Navigation Co., Limited; St. Lawrence River Steamboat Co., Limited; Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. of U. S.; and a couple of additional steamboats.

Other companies taken into the combination at the same time were, Quebec Steamship Company, Limited; Canada Interlake Line, Limited; Ontario and Quebec Navigation Co., Limited. In July, 1916, there was a further acquisition of the ships and other assets of St. Lawrence and Chicago Steam Navigation Co., Limited; in October, 1917, Tidewater Shipbuilders, Limited, Three Rivers, was added; in 1919, the Century Coal Company, owners of several coal and dock companies, passed under its control as well as the Port Colborne Dock and Coal Company; in 1920, the Davie Shipbuilding and Repairing Company, Limited, was acquired, and later the same year the Montreal Transportation Co., Limited, was taken over. In addition to these, some miscellaneous assets were acquired the same year, adding considerably to the assets of the company.

The company owns a fleet of steamers numbering 88 of 182,961 gross tons, of which 33 are bulk freighters, 14 package freighters, 8 passenger steamers, 18 passenger and freight steamers, three ferries, four tugs, and eight barges. The latest valuation placed upon these is $23,439,780. Real estate, buildings, docks and wharves are valued at $6,926,980 and other assets bring the total up to $31,825,319, but with a depreciation reserve of $6,595,461 the latest balance sheet carries the physical assets at $25,232,858. Last year the Canadian Appraisal Company gave the whole property a valuation of $41,870,848.

How to Clean an Automobile

USE A CHAMOIS

In drying the body a clean chamois skin should be used, rubbing being done in straight lines. If spots of tar or road oil are found on the body it is best to treat them with salt, butter or kerosene. The butter softens the deposit so that it may be wiped off easily. Kerosene should be applied locally and wiped off within a minute.

To keep pace with the improved appearance of the body it is necessary to give some attention to the top and the upholstery. A weekly brushing of the top inside and out will aid materially in its life. Fabric tops should never be cleansed with gaolines kerosene or other oils, as they tend to destroy the rubber in the top. Castile soap and water applied with a stiff brush is the best cleansing medium for the top. The upholstery ought really to be cleaned once a week. This means not only wiping the surface of the cushions, but cleaning out the dirt that inevitably accumulates under the piping and in the corners.

After the dirt has been removed, leather upholstery may be cleaned with a cloth soaked in a week solution of ammonia and water. Castile soap and water are also used on leather, but gasoline should not be employed, because it tends to cause cracking. The leather should be treated occasionally by giving it a light coating of linseed oil, thinned with vinegar. This solution should be applied with a cloth and be allowed to remain for a few hours, after which the upholstery should be wiped. For imitation leather, soap and water may be used for removing spots, and linseed or sweet oil in small quantities for brightening the finish.

The Outstanding Feature

of Chiropractic in its theory and application is its simplicity and reasonableness in its adherence to natural laws. It is difficult for those who do not understand the basic principle underlyig Chiropractic to comprehend why the spine should be adjusted for disorders whose symptoms appear in remote parts, such as the foot, head or arm.

This Is Easily Understood

when it is remembered that nerves innervating all organs and tissues of the body are branches from the spinal cord. They are all subject to compression, due to misalignment of the vertebrae. The function of every organ in the body is controlled by the brain, through mental impulses, which are transmitted over nerves. Any impingement or pinching of the delicate nerve fibres interfering with the free flow of Nature's life-giving force, results in impaired or abnormal function.

Indisputable Facts

sustain the soundness of the Chiropractic principle. Results in thousands of cases prove its merits. The Chiropractor views the spine as a delicate structure, whose parts are subject to derangements which cause disease. Chiropractic comprises a system which specifically locates causative derangements and adjusts them to proper articular arrangement to restore health.

SALVAGED GOLD FROM WRECKED S. S. LAURENTIC

British Divers Are Now Recovering Treasure Sunk in Big Liner When Torpedoed.

MILLIONS MORE

LONDON, May 11.—(Special). — What will probably rank as the most successful submarine treasure-seeking expedition ever inaugurated is now on the point of leaving Portsmouth Dockyard to resume operations. This particular venture is managed by the Admiralty and the Treasury jointly, and its business is to recover the gold bullion which went to the bottom in the liner Laurentic when she was torpedoed in Lough Swilly during the war.

Already some four or five million pounds' worth of the gold has been salvaged. There yet remain two or three millions more of it lying at the bottom of the sea and the salvage ship racer is going out to search for this "balance."

Modern methods of submarine treasure-hunting are very different from those that used to be in vogue.

It is no longer necessary to use hand pumps to furnish divers with air while they are below. From the ship's air-compressing plant, which keeps up 100 pounds pressure, the divers are "fed."

Precautions Used.

As the air goes down to them it passes through the ordinary hand pumps and by the scale on these the divers are being correctly supplied.

should anything go wrong with the automatic "feed" the manual pumps can be started up in a second.

While he is working under water the diver keeps in touch with those on the ship by means of a telephone, the cable of which is also his lifeline.

Nor does he have to do the laborious tasks which used to fall upon him. Wreckage is lifted by a "grab" dropped from the ship.

Similarly, for clearing away sand or mud, submerged pumps are lowered from the ship to the wreck and all the diver has to do is to watch them at work.

Lights Provided.

So far has invention progressed that it is now possible for a diver to use a naked acetylene flame for cutting through wreckage under water instead of having to hack it away with hand tools.

And if conditions below make it necessary the diver can even be furnished with electric light to work by.

Usually he remains under water half an hour at a stretch. All such scrap as ship's plating is hoisted to the surface by cranes.

But "treasure"—for example, gold bullion, which is cast into short bars—is always lifted in buckets punched full of holes so that the water can run out.

In addition to an air-compressing plant a powerful alternating current installation, a "chamber" through which divers are passed when their blood has become aerated after a long "dip," and various other special "plant," a salvage ship carries a well-fitted workshop.

PEACE OUTLOOK IS DISCOURAGING

LONDON, May 11. — (Canadian Press).—The announcement of the failure of the peace negotiations in Ireland has brought public attention here sharply back to the Irish situation, which has lately been overshadowed by the Genoa Conference. While hope that peaceable arrangements will eventually be reached is not precluded, the outlook is regarded as extremely discouraging, and despatches represent the majority of Irish people as being deeply concerned over the state of the country.

There is a growing conviction in Ireland that the Provisional Government must take effective steps for the restoration of law and order.

JEAN PARIGOT.

Jean arigot, France's war poet, author of "Flowers of the Trenches" "The Poilu' and many other songs and verses, has come to Amerina. Shes now in New York.

Andthis Jean is a vital, brown-eyed, auburn haired woman, instead of the man her name leads one to expect!

Her name really is Marie Louise Valmalete and she did not write or think of poetry or song until her son was killed in the war.

And then another son was killed. And then her husband. And last of all her daughter died from an illness growing out of war service.

"I have suffered,' says Madame Parigot, "and when one suffers one is forced to self-expression else the weight of the burden must destroy its bearer.

"I took a musculine name when I began writing because I did not want to create an atmosphere of cheap sentimentalism about myself and my songs and verses for soldiers.

Her Face Tragic.

"But" and Madame smiled. Her smiles are rare. Her face is rather tragic, much of the time, an impression heightened by her unusual coloring.

"But", she repated, "I should rather be a woman for one little day than be a man a million years!

"Ah, yes! Women suffer more because their sensibilities are finer, more delicate.

"But as they suffer more they come to know life better, they live more intensely. A woman lives more in one hour than a man lives in a day. That is why I should rather be a woman.'

In spite of repeated requests to do so, Madame Parigot has rarely appeared in publin until recently. Her refusal was due to the fact that she did not wish to reveal herself as a woman.

GRAVEL ROAD NO SPEEDWAY

Provincial Constable Stratton Will Make It a Toll Road for Speeders

Speeders on the Gravel road beware! Provincial police officer T. Y. Stratton has instituted a campaign to stop the merry joy-riding on the Provincial Highway. Roy Scrimshaw, Napanee, testified to this fact in Police Court this morning. At two o'clock yesterday after noon Scrimshaw drove into the city at 4 5miles an hour. P. C. Stratton in a hired car attempted to pass the Napanee driver some distance out but could not do so until the speedometer registered 45 miles an hour. What P. C. Stratton said was "approximately" right accused told the magistrate. However holding out his hand which Stratton interpreted as a challenge was in reality a signal for the other car to pass according to accused. The magistrate set the fine at $10 and costs came to $5.70. P. S. Stratton declared that other summons are on the way, in fact the Gravel road promises to reap a harvest of fines.

THE CITY WILL CONSTRUCT THE NEW PAVEMENTS

THE WAGES PAID.

The Board of Works Committee last night met and opened the tenders for a concrete pavement on George street south, spent a half hour in discussion of the matter and decided to embark on the work themselves, accepting the tender of R. H. Parsons, the City Engineer.

Other tenders were received from J. Bogue, J. Carroll and R. Sheehy & Sons. Mr. Carroll was the lowest tenderer in point of figures but the city's tender was held to be actually the lowest by Ald. Malcolm McIntyre, Ald. Walter Stocker and Ald. Joseph Crowe, as the city will have assets of several thousand dollars in machinery when the job is complete.

Ald. Nagle Phelan said he "feared another Hunter street bridge," and supported the lowest tender, as did Mayor W. H. Taylor.

The Tenders.

The tenders received were:

J. Carroll, $2.42 per square yard of pavement, 30c per foot curb and 25c per square foot sidewalk.

City Engineer, $2.54 per square yard pavement, 35c per foot curb, and 26c per square foot sidewalk.

J. Bogue, $2.70 per square yard pavement, 35c per foot curb, and 30c per square foot sidewalk.

R. Sheehy & Sons, $2.80 per square yard pavement, 65c per foot curb, and 35c per square foot sidewalk.

Paying for Mixer.

The tenders of Mr. Carroll and the city were compared and it was figured out that on the paving there was a difference in the cost of $924 and in the curbing of $227.50. To offset this, however, Mr. Parsons said he figured half the cost of a cement mixer at approximately $3000, would be met. Not only this, he said, but the city would not need to maintain an inspector on the job, as would otherwise be necessary, and entail a cost of $40 a week for 12 weeks, which Mr. Parsons figured would be the life of the job.

"What guarantee will we have that you will do it for that?" asked Ald. Phelan.

"You won't have any guarantee," said Mr. Parsons.

Cost Plus System.

"Something like the Hunter street bridge!" declared Ald. Phelan, and later on he said that so far as he could see the city was doing it on a sort of cost plus system. If it cost more, you had no come back, as in the case of the other tenders.

Ald. Stocker dwelt upon the fact that in doing the job the city was paying for machinery that it was necessary to have,and the fact also was emphasized that the estimate was on present prices and if there was a reduction the city received the benefit.

Ald. Crowe considered it important that the city should try it's own hand at paving "as that is what we are coming to," he said.

Vote 3 to 2.

Ald. Malcolm McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that the city engineer be instructed to do the paving by day labor. Ald. Phelan followed up at once with an amendment that the lowest tender, that of J. Carroll, be accepted. it. On the vote the motion was upheld three to two. There is 7700 yards of paving. Mr. Parsons advised the Board that he was prepared to start work as soon as the council ratified the decision of the committee. Forty cents an hour will be paid labor and $7.20 for teams.

TOO MUCH PONDERING TO THE UNITED STATES.

OTTAWA, May 11. — (Canadian Press).—"If we keep going on this way, the whole administration of affairs of this country will go across the line," declared W. F. MacLean, South York, in a meeting of the Railway Committee of the Commons to-day, when discussing a bill to amend the charter of the Canadian Transit Company, which is seeking to build a bridge from Windsor to Detroit, expected to cost twenty-eight million dollars. The section which called for comment was one which permits securities of the company to be issued "elsewhere" than in Canada.

Believed Assassin Was a Mountain Top "Bluebeard" Who Had Also Lured Other Girls to Their Fate at Primitive Trysting Place.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., May 11.—Belief that the "cave man" who killed pretty Lillian White on a lonely mountain top near here was a "bluebeard," who had lured other girls to his primitive trysting place, is expressed by the police.

This theory was based on bundles of ardent love letters from girls all over the country found in the cave.

Many of these love letters were from girls of the Middle West. Numerous notes upbraided the cave man for his neglect and for his attentions to other women.

Kissas From "Betty."

"Betty," a girl from a Mid-Western city, white: "When are you coming again to love us?" It was decorated with many crosses, indicating kisses, sent to the many-sided lover of the mountain cave.

"Jean and Alice," two New York show girls, lamented in their letters that the cave man had forgotten them.

That some of these letter writers may have been lured to the secret cave and may have met fates similar to Lillian's was given credence when police learned from a former acquaintance of the cave man that he openly boasted of love affairs with many women.

A Sage of the Occult.

The cave man was interested in the occult, was highly educated and fanatically religious, police say, after reading through many books, found in the cave. His mystic words concerning the occult charmed women, police believe, and led them on to the intrigues in the mountain cave.

His unusual interpretations of mystic things lured Lillian White to his cave and finally to her death, police believe. She was entirely within his control and became desperately in love with him, police declare.

Police are following all of the man's love letters and hope to establish new clues to the cave man bluebeard's whereabouts through them.

RILEY'S ARMY WILL MARCH ON OTTAWA

Restless Ex-service Men Are Marking Time in Queen's Park Enrolling Recruits for Long Hike

WOMEN AUXILIARIES

(Special to The Examiner).

TORONTO, May 11. — Around the bandstand in Queen's Park these mornings are gathered the forces for a new war. In companies, to the regular Army commands, parades the army of the unemployed veterans of Canada, from 300 to 500 strong.

Down the Kingston Road one of these mornings, according to their general and chairman, F. Riley, the army of veterans, swelled by 5,000 men from Hamilton, and at least another 1,000 from Toronto, will turn their faces towards Ottawa, where they intend to meet the Hon. Mackenzie-King in person, and submit their demands for a veterans' bonus.

"This is no joke," declared Mr. Riley. "Ottawa knows it is no joke. We are making the G.W.V.A. and the G.A.U.V. move. They are demanding our bonus now, after the thing has lain dormant for months. Mackenzie-King said that the soldiers would not only be dealt with justly but generously, and we are going to remind him of his promise, and ask him to stick to his platform."

Mr. Riley, while characterising his forces as an army of peace in every way, pointed to the men as an answer in the affirmative as to the reality of their intention to march to Ottawa.

For four days now the army of unemployed have been meeting for roll-call, and already 500 men have enrolled, signifying their intention of marching to Ottawa, Mr. Riley said, outlining the extent of his forces. According to him, the Hamilton forces are taking their orders from the Toronto headquarters, now established at No. 9 Dagmar Place.

In Hamilton alone there are 5,000 men enrolled, he says.

"The Government has been burning up the wires," said Gen. Riley, "to get the authorities here to persuade us not to move. They have sent word to open all the available work possible to stop us."

Various bakery and provision firms, according to Mr. Riley, have already promised to take care of the commissariat of the army on the march for nothing except advertisement. "I am not going to issue any I.O.U.'s on the Government," he said.

Mr. Riley could not give any definite date for the commencement of the march or how long they would be on the way.

"There have been promises of trucks and ambulances for the amputation cases. We also have a woman's auxiliary."

Canadian Govt. to Return 3 Crusiers

(Special to the Examiner)

OTTAWA, May 11.—(Canadian Press)—It is stated on semi-official authority that the Canadian Government has decided to ask Great Britain to take back the three cruisers which were gifted to the Dominion shortly after the close of the war, and which were accepted with thanks by the late Meighen Government.

These cruisers, the Aurora, patriot and the Patrician are of the Arethusa type, which has been declared obsolete by the admiralty. Some scores of the same type have recently been dismanteled at Southampton. The government, it is said, looks upon the vessels as a source of unnecessary expense in upkeep and personnel and share the general opinion of naval experts that they would, in any case, be useless in time of war.

ALL SAINTS TEAM WON A.Y.P.A. CUP

Final Debate Was Held Last Evening — Great Events and Great Men.

The debating team for All Saints A.Y.P.A. last night won from St. John's in the semi-final debate for the A.Y.P.A. cup. Miss Olga Johnson was the leader for the winning side was ably assisted by Ralph Turner. The speakers for St John's were Hubert G. Sills and Miss Irene Herridge.

The subject chosen for the debate was:—"Resolved, that great events make great men, not great men great events." The debate was opened by Mr. Sills as leader for the affirmative. He introduced his subject briefly and presented his points in a telling and forceful manner. He was followed by Miss Johnson, the leader of the negative, whose delivery was the best of any of the speakers. Miss Herridge, the second speaker for the affirmative followed by Miss Johnston, the leader of the negative, whose delivery was the best of any speakers. Miss Herridge, the second speaker for the affirmative followed and presented an able rebuttal to the points advanced by Miss Johnson. Ralph Turner made a good second to the efforts of Miss Johnson and brought out several good points.

The judges were Mr. Mattice, senior judge; R. J. Bolton, and R. N. Stewart. The points of the debate were so close that it took the judges some time to decide on the winners and in making the award to All Saints it was pointed out that the losing team had put up an excellent debate and only lost out by a very narrow margin.

During the evening piano selections were given by the Misses Florence Hutchinson and A. Horne, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Over one hundred guests were present and the Omemee and Lakefield churches were represented as well as the Anglican churches of the city.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CADETS MADE A SMART SHOWING

Inspected By Lieut.-Col. Gillespie Yesterday in Presence of Large Number of Spectators.

INSPECTOR PLEASED.

The annual inspection of Public School Cadets by Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie, Inspector of Cadet Corps for Military District No. 3, took place at Prince of Wales' School yesterday afternoon. The weather conditions were ideal, the spacious school grounds were an excellent drill ground, and the inspection was the most successful from a general standpoint of any since the inception of the corps.

A feature that was gratifying to the school principals, and evidently pleased Lieut.-Col. Gillespie, was the presence of a large number of the parents and friends of the boys on the grounds, and from the elevation at the western side they secured an unsurpassed view. The schools were closed for the afternoon, and the principals and staff exhibited a keen interest in the inspection.

Four Companies.

The Public School Cadet Battalion is made up of four companies, one each from Prince of Wales, Queen Mary, King Edward and Central Schools. Chester Crawford commanded the battalion, and the following were company commanders: Prince of Wales, Mark Swanger; Queen Mary, John Brunton; King Edward, Charles Bradley, and Central, Leslie Trevor. Inspection began at 2 p.m., and lasted over an hour.

King Edward Winners.

Each company was put through a smart drill by the officers, and the battalion as a whole by Commander Crawford. Considering the adverse conditions under which drill has been held this year, the drill was smart and the boys as a whole were well set up. The inspecting officer was pleased with the battalion's showing as a whole. After the march past, which was carried out with a nice precision, the Cadets were formed in a square, and Lieut.-Col. Gillespie addressed them, following his award of the Denne Cup donated by R. Denne for the annual competition by the companies. Last year King Edward won it, and Lieut.-Col. Gillespie again awarded it to them yesterday for all-round proficiency.

Central School Second.

Central School came a close second, he said, and if they were uniformed as King Edward and a trifle more practised would have a splendid chance to win. He urged the Central boys to keep on, and he had no doubt that the cup would come to them, possibly at the next inspection. When they were announced as winners, King Edward company set the grounds ringing with their cheers.

Lieut.-Col. Gillespie commended the newcomers this year, the Prince of Wales, but he remarked that their marching was hardly as good as the Centrals. However, he mentioned that he had taken into consideration their splendid marks in rifle shooting. As a whole, the battalion in its march past and company movement was very good, he said, considering the short time there had been for training. It was to be regretted that the work could not be carried on in the winter. Speaking to the unit as a whole, he told the boys plainly that some of the companies showed lack of training, and he hoped that next year a marked improvement would be noticed.

Uniforms Wanted.

During his remarks, he said he would like to see all the Cadets in uniform. The Government allowance, he understood, was $1.25 to- At theatres 1 wards uniforms, and this assistance, he felt, should induce the School Board or some public-spirited citizen to see that the companies were spick and span in this regard.

Camps Doubtful.

Regarding a summer camp, Lieut.-Col. Gillespie was not prepared to state if camps would be held as last year or not. The camp estimates were made up and presented to the Government, but no definite information on their fate was available. The inspecting officer hoped for an assembly at Barriefield, but was afraid, in view of the Government's policy of economy that it would be limited only to boys over 14 years of age. At this announcement the spirits of the boys under 14 underwent a marked depression.

Physical Training.

"I would like to have the critics of Cadet training here this afternoon," he said. "Of late they have been rather outspoken. They seem to think the idea is that we are training up a great military army in this country. They forget the main feature of Cadet training is physical training. We are trying to bring up not an army, but a body of young men of good physique," declared the inspecting officer with a force that was not lost by spectators of the event.

Brain Stimulaters.

The hope was expressed that the several schools would take up the system of organized games, called "brain stimulaters," that have proved so effective at institutions like the Royal Military College. These games would be carried out in conjunction with the training, he said, and help to make it interesting. In conclusion, Lieut.-Col. Gillespie expressed pleasure at the presence of so many spectators, and felt that it was a good augury for Cadet work. Three hearty cheers for the inspecting officer and their commanding officer were immediately followed with the order to "fall out."

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE CARRIED OUT BY THE CITY DURING SUMMER

Board of Works Committee Had a Busy Session Last Evening—Petitions For Oil — New Sidewalks Wanted.

LOOKS TO FUTURE.

As a result of the Board of Works Committee's request that local improvements be petitioned for now rather than in the middle of the summer there was a big batch of requests considered at last night's meeting. Ald. Walter Stocker presided with Mayor W. H. Taylor, Ald. James Hamilton, Ald. Nagle Phelan, Ald. Josepr Crowe, and Ald. Malcolm McIntyre in attendance. E. H.D. Hall was heard first with regard to a request for repairs on Fleming Place the expense to be borne personally by Mr. Hall. He asked that this short roadway be scraped and oiled. The request was granted. Mr. Parsons said the work would be done when the repair gang were in that district.

Engleburn Sewer.

Engineer H. R. Parsons reported on the cost of a sewer to serve the Engleburn avenue district embracing Maria street, Engleburne avenue, Charles street and Dale avenue at $8,391. This rather high figure is due to the necessity of having to install a low lift pumping station at Dale avenue to lift the sewage into Burnham street on account of the low level of Engleburne. Mr. Parsons estimated that 2,050 feet of 12 inch and 9 inch sewer would be required. The cost worked out at $2.00 per foot frontage and the scheme would provide sewer connections immediately to 18 houses.

The charge of $2.00 per foot frontage was not unusual, Mr. Parsons said., and not as high as on Romaine street. Ald. Walter Stocker declared the sewer would increase the value of the property at last $4 a foot. The serving of the section of East City adjoining Little Lake was introduced by Ald. McIntyre and the city engineer pointed out that this matter must be faced some time as it was certain the city would not be allowed to maintain its septic tank there much longer. In view of the sum involved it was decided to give more lengthy consideration to the Engleburne sewer and the matter was laid over.

No Trace of Lane.

Reporting on the question of whether Robinson street in Ashburnham could be extended through to the river, Mr. Parsons stated that in none of the registered plans could he find the exact location of the lane through the Calcutt Brewing Company's property. He thought it would be necessary to examine the deeds of the property at the Registry office. The brewery had built right across the lane, Mr. Parsons said. On motion of Ald. Hamilton and the Mayor the city solicitor will give the matter his attention.

Bakery Wants Sewer.

J. Wearing representing the Mackey Bread company pointed out the situations of his clients were in regard to sewer connections. From what was stated in a letter it appears that this company was under the impression the sewer on Dublin streeet was lowr than was found to be the case when the job was complete. They claim the city should lower the sewer as it is compossible to drain the bakery. Mr. Parsons remarked that Dr. J. W. McCullough, Provincial Medical Officer had once reported sewers were not required by law to drain cellars. At any rate he promised to make a report.

Petition for Oil.

A petition for oil was received from fourteen residents of Rink street. "We understand we are paying for it in our taxes" it was declared.

"I have mentioned it once before and I'm going to mention it again. I think this oiling should be charged up to the frontage tax," said Ald. Hamilton. "It isn't fair the way it is now.'

"A lot of people have to pay for it and they dont get any' agreed Ald. Crowe. This ended the discussion along this line and the fourteen residents of Rink stree will not get the street oiled for first, in the opinion of the city engineer it is so sandy oil would be useless and secondly whne George street souht is being paved the Board of Works hopes to make a real nice job there.

Question of Right-Of-Way.

A request from Charles E. Lieberg, 34 Stewart street, for the extension of the sewer on Lake street east to Park to the G.T.R. tracks was referred to Mr. Parsons for a report. The names of L. Menzies, J.P. Roberts and J. McCarney were appended to request for sidewalk and sewer on Bethune street south of Perry and north of Lake street. "I think we beeter look out what we're doing in there" said Mr. Parsons. "I think its private property. I took the matter up with the G.T.R. and they claim to have the right-of-way.'

LOCAL Y. W. C. A. HAS GOOD YEAR

Annual Meeting Held Last Evening—Progress Indicated in Report of General Secretary.

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association was held last evening in the green room at the 'Y'), Mrs W. D. Scott presiding in the absence through illness, of Mrs. T Cruikshank, the president, and Rev J. R. Webb conducting devotional exercises. Miss Florence Cameron, secretary of the Board, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, and reports from the various departments followed.

Miss Cameron's report, as secretary of the Board, was a concise recital of the Association's work, making special mention of the splendid service given by Mrs. Morrison, in the Boarding Home, and the official staff of the institution. The resignaton of Miss Layton from the position of general secretary was referred to with deep regret; "with her capability and charming personality will he long remembered as one of work of the president and the several our most efficient secretaries." The committees of the Board was also highly commended, and grateful acknowledgement made of the gift of a book case for the reading room by Mr. John Nugent, in memory of his wife, a former member of the Board.

Financial Standing.

The Treasurer's report submitted by Miss E Morrow, showed a total income for the year of 320.973.58, with expenditure, including balance from last year of $20,866.18 leaving a balance on hand of $107.40.

The general secretary, Miss Charlotte H. Layton, gave a comprehensive review of the year's work among the girls in the Public Department, mentioning the various social, physical and mental endeavors put through during the year, with special mention of the hearty cooperation of Miss L. Brownscombe, assistant secretary, of Miss Jean Thomson, former industrial secretary, Miss Carroll, Miss McLaughlin and Miss Jessimane

House Department

Mrs E Morrison, superintendent of the house department, reported on the boarding home. Regular boarders to the number of 140, with 375 transients, were housed during the year, with aproximately 68,500 meals served in this period. The home shows a comfortable balance after all expenses are paid, and the management looks after the comfort of its charges in every possible way. The doors closed at eleven o'clock, three late leaves a week, until 12.30, are allowed business girls and teachers, and students have two late leaves. Over $700 was spent last year in re-furnishing, re-decorating, with round tables installed in the dining room to give added comfort. Mrs.

U. S. CONSENTS TO A MANDATE FOR PALESTINE

League of Nations is Informed of Anglo-American Palestine Treaty.

ASK APPROVAL.

GENEVA, May 11.— (Canadian Press).—The United States Government finally has consented to the British mandate for Palestine, the Earl of Balfour informed the League of Nations last night. Today he will request the Council of the League to confirm the British mandate for Palestine during its forthcoming sessions, according to information obtained last night.

The Earl of Balfour will tell the Council that there no longer is any adequate reason for withholding approval of the mandate, as Great Britain and the United States have just concluded a formal agreement after one year's negotiations. He informed the League yesterday that final approval of the mandate by the United States Government came to the British Government from the State Department at Washington in a recent note.

In serving notice to-day that he intends to press for final action with regard to Palestine during the meeting of the Council, the Earl of Balfour will not urge approval at to-day's sesion, because Great Britain has not yet obtained the consent of the United States Government to the publication of the text of the agreement, alhough it is hoped that this consent will be had shortly.

LONDON, May 11.—(Canadian Press)—The conclusion of an Anglo-American Palestine Treaty and formal confirmation of the British mandate for Palestine, which it is expected here will be given by the League of Nations to-day, according to a statement made at the For eign Office yesterday afternoon. Agreement on the clauses has been reached and the conclusion of the treaty is expected shortly.

It is stated the treaty has been negotiated in consequence of the United States Government's request to Great Britain to ask the League of Nations to insert in the British mandate for Palestine clauses giving American citizens equal rights in Palestine with citizens of nations which are members of the League, business men and missionaries being particularly affected.

The British anticipated objections by the members of the League if American equality was written into the mandate and therefore suggested a treaty after the mandate has been granted.

LEGISLATION PROPOSED TO REGISTER ENGINEERS

Bill to Standardize Professional Engineers Meets With Some Objection.

SENT TO COMMITTEE.

TORONTO, May 11.—The legislature spent most of yesterday after noon trying to arrive at an understanding regarding a bill to regulate the engineering profession, civil, electrical, mining, mechanical and chemical. After many objections had been raised it was left over until the sub-committee who had prepared it could have an opportunity of endeavoring to make changes sufficient to meet the most weighty of these objections. The sitting ended with the passage of the second reading of the London street Railway bill in the teeth of fairly strong opposition led by Dr. Stevenson M.L.A. for London and Hon. Walter Rollo, minister of Labor.

PEACE IN IRELAND IS STILL FAR AWAY, COMMITTEE SAYS

Dail Eireann Peace Commission Has Failed to Reach a Basis of Settlement.

DUBLIN, May 11—Peace in Ireland seems afar off. The Dail Eireann Peace Committee has failed to reach a basis for a settlement between the opposing factions. The report of the Committee, presented yesterday was confined to the bare announcement that after eleven sessions, the two sides had failed to agree even on a basis for peace. Furthermore they were not agreed in a joint report on the reasons for failure.

Those on the treaty side had prepared a statement of their case, but it was decided not to hear it until the other side had prepared a corresponding statement. The Dail Eireann will to-morrow consider the two reports.

The important question was immediately raised as to whether the truce terminated this afternoon or continued until at least tomorrow morning. The Dail did not pronounce on this point, the idea, as expressed by Speaker MacNeill, being that the discussion of such a question implied the admission that before the conference there existed a recognized state of war.

The truce was truly a separate transaction between the rival sections of the army, and Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail, said it must be left to the military. This places renewal of hostilities in a position of doubt in the public mind and Dublin prepared to pass an uneasy night.

ALLEGE CRUELTY IN TRANSPORTING CATTLE OVERSEAS.

No Hardships.

LONDON, May 11.—(Canadian Press).—A member of the House of Commons yesterday asked wheth er the attention of the Minister of Agriculture, Sir. R. Griffith-Boscawen, had been called to the sufferings of cattle in transit from Canada and other countries for slaughter of British ports; whether, in view of these cruelties, he would direct his inspectors to investigate the matter and if the allegations of cruelty were confirmed, would he take measures, in co-operation with the Governments of Canada and the other countries concerned, to end the cruelties .

The Minister replied that every possible precaution was taken to safeguard cattle sent to this country

MANY DEGREES ARE CONFERRED BY UNIVERSITY

Premier Drury Delivers Address to Graduates of Queen's University.

NEW BUILDING.

KINGSTON, May 11.—(Canadian Press.—Premier Drury was the central figure at the spring convocation of Queen's University in Grant Hall yesterday afternoon. In a speech that was well received he gave some advice to the graduates. He reminded them that life was the real university and urged them to be good students and to play the game. He warned them against getting swelled heads and impressed in them that all men were equal and that there should be no favorites.

N. W. Beatty, President of the C.P.R. presided in his capacity as chancellor and conferred honorary degrees on the following: degree of D.D.L.—Rev. J. D. Byrnes, B.A., B.D. of North Bay, superintendent of mission for Northern Ontario; Rev. Cannon S. Gould of Toronto, general secretary of the missionary society of the church of England in Canada aud Rev. W. T. Wilkins, B. A. of Trenton for many years presbtery clerk to the presbytery of Kingston.

Degree of L.L.D.—Major General Sir Archibald Cameron Macdonell K.C.B., C.M.B., D.S.O., the commander of the first Canadian division and now commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston; Dr. George Edwards F.OA. chairan of the board of instruction of the institute of chartered account ants of Ontario and head of the firm of Edwards, Morgan and Co., of Toronto; F. W. Harcourt, K.C. official guardian of infants for the province of Ontario, Charles Camsell, deputy minister of Mines, Ottawa and Professor S. F. Kirkpatrick M. Sc., formerly professor of metallurgy in Queen's University and now adviser to the firm of M. J. O'Brien and Co.

The candidates for the degree of doctor of divinity were presented by Principal Dyde of Queen's Theological College and Prof. Morgan, while Principal Bruce Taylor presented the candidates for the degree of L.L.D. The recipients of the honorary degrees who were all present, made brief addresses.

Then followed the conferring of degrees on the graduates. Ten received the degree of M.A.; 97 the degree of B.A. five the degree of bachelor of commerce, three the degree of doctor of pedagogy and 48 the degree of bachelor of science

Two successful candidates were unable to go to the platform to receive their degrees because of infirmities. These were Albert Lott of Brussels who is almost totally blind, and Owen Merriman of Hamilton who has to be moved about in a wheeled chair. When they were presented with diplomas their fellow students heartily cheered them.

After the convocation Premier Drury laid the corner stone of the new central heating plant for Queen's University and the general hospital. In a short address he said that Queen's by her work had justified the expenditure upon her of public moneys. Brief addresses were made by Mayor Corbett and J. M. Campbell chairman of the building committee, who presided at a meeting of Queen's University Council.

Donald M. McIntyre K.C. and Alexander Longwell, Toronto, were elected to the board of trustees by the council.

The members of the council elected for six years are as follows; J. M. MacDonnell, Toronto; Dr. C. Laidlow, Ottawa; N. W. Brock, Vancouver; Judge E. E. Fralick, Belleville, Rev. Dr. MacTavish, Toronto; Dr. E. J. Williams, Brockville; Dr. W. H. Rankin, New York; R. H. Cowley, Toronto.

"SIX MONTHS AGO"

"It's hard to realize that six month ago I couldn't walk across the floor and now I am so well!"

"I have never been very strong but the heat last summer was too much for me. This and the fact that my husband was out of work and I had to work day and night to keep from starving, left me a physical wreck. Luckily my husband was able to get a good job just when I had to go to bed. I tried everything I could think of to get strong, but each day I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker. I was reduced to a skeleton, I couldn't eat or sleep, I had no strength left and finally I was so weak that in trying to cross the floor one day I collapsed. I was so ill and weak that I didn't care whether I lived or died. And then I heard about that marvelious preparation—Carnol! A friend of mine had used it with wonderful results and as it had done so much for her, I decided to try it. The results were nothing less than miraculous. In two weeks I was able to get up and walk about the house. My appetite had returned. I was actually hungry. I could sleep when I went to bed, something I had not been able to do for months. I have already taken six bottles of Carnol and I am still taking it. I weigh more today than I ever weighed before in my life. I sleep like a child. I am never tired and my skin is as clear and my cheeks as rosy as a girl's. I bless the day I heard about Carnol." Mrs. K., Toronto.

RUSSIAN REPLY STILL LACKING AT CONFERENCE

EXPECTED TO-DAY.

GENOA, May 11. Canadian Press. —The Economic Conference cannot stand many more days of strain such as it has undergone in connection with the framing of the allied memorandum to the Russians' reply, which has been eagerly awaited for three days, but was not presented yesterday.

The great question bearing on the reply is: What will the attitude of the Russians be towards foreigners' property nationalized by the Soviet government. Clause seven of the memorandum was drafted and re-drafted to meet the objections of the French and the Belgians. The Belgians finally refused approval, and the French approved it with reservations. Every effort has been made by the Allies, and the Germans as well, to have the Russians make concessions relative to the restitution of property of foreigners in order to prevent disruption of the conference.

Repeated changes have been made in the Russians' reply to Clause 7. M. Tchitcherin conferred with the Italian Foreign Minister, Signor Schanzer, yesterday, and it is reported that further changes were being made in the reply last night for the purpose of conciliation.

There are also many indications the French and Belgians are becoming less insistent and the general feeling in conference circles last night is that the Russian answer, which is expected to-day, will be of such a nature that it will at least, form a basis for the continuance of the discussions.

Much of the Russian reply has already become known but the answer to the property clause still is undergoing modification.

M. Barthou, head of the French delegation, forwarded a letter to President Facta, protesting at the length of time taken by the Soviet delegation to answer the memorandum. He insisted that the delay was not justified and was retarding the work of the conference.

ST. LAWRENCE SHIP CANAL ATTACKED IN THE SENATE

OTTAWA, May 11.—(Canadian Press). — The St. Lawrence Ship Canal project was severely criticized in the Senate yesterday by Hon. Senator Casgrain. It would cost as much as two C.P.R.'s or four Panama Canals he claimed and even the most optimistic results claimed by its proponents would not justify the expenditure. The approval of this scheme by the International Joint Commision has made this a pertinent issue in Canadian affairs.

The object of the scheme was to permit ocean-going vessels to enter the Great Lakes and return without breaking bulk. If this was not possible, and cheaper rates could not be acomplished, Canada would receive no return for her vast investments.

The proposed scheme if it conferred any benefit on Canada would be only to a small part of Ontario.

Reliable estimates by the greatest engineer's placed the cost of the St Lawrence Ship Canal at $1,300,000,000 and it was common knowledge that estimates were always greatly exceeded in construction.

Arbour Day Celebration.

A pleasant time was spent by the children of the local school on Friday last, it being Arbour Day. The morning was spent in gardening, while in afternoon they journeyed to the woods where they gathered flowers and spent an enjoyable afternoon in general. On their return to the school premises refreshments were served.

TURK PROFESSORS FORCED TO RESIGN.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 11 (Associated Press). — Four professors have resigned from the University of Stamboul at the demand of the students on the ground that they were "strangers to the sentiments of independence, nationality, and sacred rights."

Riza Tewfik Bey, Professor of Philosophy, who was one of the signers of the peace treaty of Sevres, also was requested to resign, but did not do so.

The peace treaty of Sevres aroused the opposition of Turkish Nationalists on the ground that it took away Turkish territory and resulted in placing the Sultan under the domination of the Allies. It was recently revised at a conference in Paris, but the revision has not been accepted or put into effect.

ASSINIBOINE STILL RISING

The Floods Pour Through Broken Dykes and Sweep Thousands of Seeded Acres.

WINNIPEG, May 11—(Canadian Press).— Heavy rains throughout Tuesday night have contributed to a further rise of the Assiniboine River and protecting dykes along its banks have been swept away and the water is now creeping over thousands of seeded acres hitherto out of danger. Instead of the peak being reached Tuesday as expected several points reported a rise varying from one to nearly two inches.

FORM COMMITTEE TO FIGHT DISEASE.

Local Branch of Canadian on Social Hygiene Will Be Formed at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 11, Canadian Press. — On the advice of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, and Rev. A. S. Grant, D.D., chairman of the Business Section of the Canadian Committee on Social Hygiene (formerly the Canadian Council for Combatting Venereal Disease), a provisional Ottawa committee will form a local branch of the Dominion Committee.

Dr. Grant said that the council was hoping for a grant of $25,000 from the Federal Government in order that Provincial organization might proceed. He was aware that new organizations should not be formed unless there was urgent need but the need for a social hygeine organization was fundamental. Had tuberculosis or smallpox figures reached the proportions of the social diseases no effort wohld be spared to combat them.

The only cure lay in recognizing the source of the racial poisons that threatened the race, Mrs. Pankhurst said. Prevention was better than cure, and that was the basis of the committee's work. By raising the moral standard of living the work would be accomplished.

UNJUSTIFIABLE CRITICISM.

Hon. F. C. Biggs has been criticized in some quarters because of his policy of planting trees along the Provincial highways in connection with the good roads scheme. The complaints seem to The Examiner to be hard to justify; rather should the Minister be commended for having vision enough to carry out such a splendid programme. Mr. Biggs has been able to show that the trees have been purchased and planted at a price that cannot be considered excessive, and in view of that fact there does not seem any logical ground for complaint. A good permanent road, bordered mile after mile by avenues of stately shade trees, cannot fail to prove an asset to the district through which it runs and to every citizen of the Province who owns a motor car, while in the case of tourists, such highways will be a splendid advertisement of the enterprise of the Province of Ontario. The Minister of Public Works and Highways need not worry over criticism of his tree-planting campaign. He may rest assured that popular opinion is with him in the laudable scheme that he has launched to beautify conditions along Ontario's Provincial road system, and the only complaints will come from people who are entirely without imagination.

RADIO AND THE WIRE SYSTEM.

According to Mr. Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, radio telephones will never put the present system of telegraphs out of business, says the St. Catharines Standard. A new cable is being built to Germany this year which will have a capacity of 40,000,000 words per year, which shows that recent developments with wireless telephones are not considered as likely to supercede the old system.

"No—never!" said Carlton. "We'll always have land wires and cables under the ocean.

"Look at the cable the Western Union is going to lay to Germany. It will have a capacity of 40,000,000 words a year—eight or ten times as much as present cables.

"Radio communication and the wires are two separate fields. There will always be room for both. The radio is a wonderful thing and I hope it keeps on growing. It helps, rather than hurts, wire business.

"You will never see the day when there will be no wires over the country or ocean cables, no matter how fast the wireless grows. No more than the electric light will ever put gas out of business. The automobile hasn't killed off the horses, has it?"

One Ontario paper suggests some newspapers who are broadcasting news may some day find their advertisers broadcasting bargains. This is all rather fanciful, however. There is nothing like the power of the printed word, and never will be, and life is too short to listen in for prices on everyday commodities.

And until this phenomenon known as static is controlled, the glamor of a receiving set is likely to wear off. It is all very novel at present, but there are a lot of developments to come in radio telephones before they will be used for highly specialized commercial uses.

NEEDLESSLY HOSTILE.

However opinion may differ as to what Premier Drury should or should not have done in connection with the Chippawa investigation, and whatever may be thought of his attitude towards the whole Hydro question, there does not seem any doubt of the fact that Hon. Mr. Drury has shown both firmness and courage in the face of a constant attempt on the part of the representatives of some of the Ontario cities to pick a quarrel with him. It must be admitted that some of the municipalities at least show little inclination to meet the Premier half way; as a matter of fact, it looks as if they delight in an opportunity to differ from Hon. Mr. Drury. Recently a deputation from the municipalities interested in the Hydro asked that they should be represented upon the Commission which is to delve into the investigation of the Chippawa project, and the promise was made that if the municipalities would submit five or six names of suitable men to serve on the Commission, the Government would make a selection from this list. The offer was a reasonable one, and was apparently accepted by those at the conference. Yet instead of sending a list as suggested, the municipalities have merely submitted one name and have urged his appointment. That is not playing fair with the Premier, and he can hardly be blamed for refusing to accept the representative named by the municipalities, after the latter have ignored the arrangement agreed upon at the recent conference. At times those who are representing the cities and towns of the Province which are interested in the Hydro scheme seem to be needlessly hostile towards Mr. Drury and his colleagues. Their attitude towards the Government is not helping the cause of Hydro nor facilitating the reaching of a settlement of the various problems in connection with that great enterprise. A spirit of give-and-take on their part would be of much greater service.

THE DUTY OF PARENTS.

A glance over any newspaper these days shows ample justification for Dr. Barker's statement last week that laxity in home training is having a very serious effect. Divorce cases, suicides, murders in all parts of Canada and the United States are for the most part attributable to a relaxed standard of morality for which, in most cases, the failure of parents to keep a strict and intelligent supervision over their children is accountable. Dr. Barker's straight-from-the-shoulder talk covered the situation exactly, but there is need of many Dr. Barkers to awaken people to a realization of the fact that parents cannot afford to dodge their duty in regard to their children. The trouble is that the old home life has almost disappeared. Few people who are in good health stay at home in the evening nowadays. The popularity of the moving picture theatre and of the motor car has revolutionized things. Children are given more liberty, and their parents have not the same supervision over their activities as they formerly had. At the same time the necessity of such supervision is greater than it ever was. Often it is said that the world is growing worse. It would be more accurate to say that it has changed. Modern day conditions have increased the pitfalls that lie in wait for unwary young feet, and the chief danger exists in the failure of parents to understand that their advice and counsel may be necessary to keep their dear ones from the perils on every side. Young girls are allowed to run around in motor cars without a word of warning as to the danger that may beset them. No wonder there are serious and sometimes tragic consequences, and in most cases the blame can be fairly laid at the door of the parents. They allow their sons and daughters to go unguided along the primrose path of temptation—and then have their hearts broken because of what their own folly has brought upon them. Dr. Barker told Peterborough what was necessary—the exaction of strict obedience in the home and the telling at as early an age as possible of the essential facts in regard to sex matters. It is because parents have fallen down in both these respects that there are so many unhappy cases to-day.

THE PRIVILEGE OF WEALTH.

One hears a great deal nowadays about the advantages and disadvantages of wealth, its arrogance, its tyranny, its power as an open sesame to all avenues of worldly success and pleasure, but not so much about its privilege as a means of public service. Probably there never has been a time in the world's history when it was more necessary for men of wealth to justify their position in the community than it is to-day. The world is still divided as to the absolute right of one man to possess wealth far in excess of the great majority of his fellow citizens. Most of us cannot accept the socialistic doctrine that a man is not entitled to build up a fortune, if he does it honestly and by virtue of his own industry and resourcefulness and brain power. The benefits of individualism are too patent to be lightly exchanged for any form of communism. But there is unquestionably a growing feeling that the possessor of great wealth, whether acquired or inherited, should consider it not as something to be used exclusively or even mainly for his own pleasure or aggrandizement, or that of his family, but rather as a trust, for the right use of which he is or should be morally responsible to the community.

The average citizen who has succeeded in building up a great fortune rarely spends much of it upon himself. If he were self-indulgent he would not have achieved that measure of success that made him a man of vast possessions. He probably lives a very simple life, and allows himself very few pleasures. He may pile up a fortune because the mere doing so appeals to his imagination, or for the sake of the power that wealth confers, or money may be nothing more to him than the inevitable result of the successful business in which he is engaged, or again he may value it for the sake of his family. But none of these things will earn him the respect of the people among whom he lives, if they are not accompanied by a very real sense of responsibility, of trusteeship.

Money in itself is nothing, but money as a symbol of power is of tremendous significance, and that power must be used wisely and humanely if it is to be justified. This age has been peculiarly favorable to the accumulation of immense fortunes, and it is a notable fact that many of the men who have built up these fortunes have realized their trusteeship, and have used their wealth to further in one way or another the welfare of mankind. We may not all agree as to the wisdom of the particular use they made of their millions, but that use was at any rate well-intentioned and public-spirited.

This sort of public service is particularly noticeable in the United States, where a few towns of any size lack substantial evidence of the generosity of one or more of its wealthy citizens. It may take the shape of a public library, or the building of a hospital, or a technical school, or the strengthening of a university, or an endowment for medical or scientific research. Such institutions as Macdonald College and Hart House and the Royal Victoria Hospital and the original foundation of McGill, to mention but a few examples, prove that a good many Canadian men of fortune have not been unmindful of this privilege of wealth. Still there are not a few in all our principal cities who hold tightly to the idea that their wealth is theirs to do with as they wish, to devote entirely to their own personal ends if they see fit. They have no sense of responsibility, no conception of the splendid opportunities their wealth opens to them. Such men as these probably do more than any one other agency to feed the flames of class hatred, and to give the extremists some shadow of reason for their theories. It is to be hoped that for their own sake, and for the sake of the sane and truly democratic form of government which made their individual success possible, they will learn to take a more generous and broad-minded view of what they owe the community as custodians of great fortunes.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Some of the Opposition members think that the roads that Biggs built "include the road to ruin."

Kirvan, Texas, should be listed as a desirable field for the activities of missionary organizations. Darkest Africa has recorded few atrocities more revolting than was the torturing and burning of negroes by a Texas mob.

Judging by the reports as to the conditions at the Isolation Hospital and Children's Shelter, Peterborough should have another clean-up week.

The corner of McDonnel and George Streets has another motor car accident to its discredit. All motorists should remember that this is one of the most dangerous corners in the city, and should exercise more than usual care at this point.

The whole country is waiting to hear Mr. Fielding's budget.

In reference to The Examiner's suggestion that community singing should be made a feature of this summer's band concerts, it is now assured that the band is ready to do its part in carrying out the proposal.

It was rather disquieting yesterday to read in a contemporary of what the favorite colors for autumn are going to be. Talking of autumn already, before we have had scarcely any summer weather!

GAMES ON STREETS

Editor Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—It is to be hoped the police will stop ball playing on city thoroughfares, especially on short streets, before some children are killed or crippled. Drivers of cars cannot watch both their cars and the young folk, who are continuously running back and forth. There is plenty of room in the parks for games, and there are few cities of Peterborough's size with as many parks.

DUMMER FARMERS SAY GOOD GROWTH FOR THIS SEASON

Seeding Under Way, Cattle on Pastures and Some Garden Stuff Pretty Well In.

WARSAW, May 11. — Generally throughout the district the farmers speak of the great growth for this time of the year, and how well the fields that did weather the frosts and rains look.

Seeding is well under way except in the low places. Springy land seems extra deep. A few have their garden stuff pretty well in.

Milk to Warsaw.

As yet milk is going to the Warsaw factory only every other day. In this factory a clarifier is in operation so any impurities that may have gotten into the milk and escaped the strainer, are removed. It is expected that a still better quality of cheese may be obtained and consequently a higher price. To run it involves more labor consequently more expense. The De Laval Co. chose Warsaw factory in which to place their clarifier for a trial. The whey is being pasteurized.

VERULAM MOTHER MAY BE CHARGED WITH INFANTICIDE

Beatrice Nicholls Comes Up For Preliminary Hearing at Court-House, Lindsay, To-Day.

LINDSAY, May 11. — Beatrice Nicholls, the Verulam girl, alleged to have thrown her two weeks' old babe from a C.P.R. train near Cleboro on Tuesday, May 2nd., will come up for preliminary hearing at the Court House this morning before County Police Magistrate Moore. It is expected that she will be committed for trial on the charge of infanticide at the next court of competent jurisdiction in June.

The authorities in Toronto are coming in for considerable criticism for allowing the girl to leave the city with her babe for her home in Red Rock unaccompanied. It is claimed that she was in no condition to travel alone.

The girl, it is said, does not appear to realize the serious nature of the offence. When she was placed in the county jail she expressed the hope that her name would not appear in the press. At the inquest on Tuesday it was hinted that a well known young man in Bobcaygeon was concerned in the girl's trouble, but, of course this was not given publicity. This statement had its origin in Toronto circles.

Mr. Eric Stewart of the firm of Stewart and Stewart, Lindsay, is looking after the interests of the unfortunate girl.

CONCERT BY MISSION BAND, CAMPBELLFORD

Methodist Church Young People Score Success.

CAPBELLFORD, May 11.—The entertainment given on Tuesday night under the auspices of the Mission Band of the Methodist Church was a grand success, and reflects much credit upon the superintendent Miss Lulu Gay, Mrs. George Thring and others who assisted in the training of the children. The basement was most tastefully decorated, and the programme which consisted of choruses, drills, recitations, dialogues instrumentals etc. were exceptionally well rendered. The programme was a lengthy one and cannot be given in detail. Little Miss Cherie Turner made a charming accompanist, and the piano solos by little Miss May McGregor and Miss Roxina Wilson were heartily applauded, as was litle Georgie Smith's recitation. The little girls sold homemade candy which was a treat to the large number present.

SURPRISE

A PURE HARD SOAP

SURPRISE SOAP

A Big Bar

A full-size, full-weight, solid bar of good soap is "SURPRISE." Best for any and all household use.

For use in washing machines shave or slice a portion of the "SURPRISE" bar direct to the machine.—It will do fine work.

RECIPES

THE pineapple is an excellent spring fruit It comes just at the time other fruits are beginning to be scarce and whets jaded appetites like a tonic.

Use pineapple as a breakfast fruit, a luncheon, dessert or a dinner salad.

Pineapple Breakfast

Cut off the base of the pineapple and pare. Cut out the "eyes" with a sharp knife. Divide in sections with a fork, but do not shred.

A silver fork is better to use than a steel kitchen one as the silver fork has coarser tines. Put fruit in a bowl and sprinkle with one cup granulated sugar for a medium sized pineapple. One-half teaspoon salt mixed with the sugar is an improvement.

Let stand, closely covered, over night in a cold place. In the morning serve in glass fruit plates.

Pineapple Pie

One-half cup shredded pineapple, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup pineapple juice, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 egg.

Shred fresh pineapple and cover with sugar. Let stand an hour to draw out the juice. There is always a large amount of juice escapes from the fruit as it is shredded. Save this. There should be one and one-quarter cups pineapple pulp.

After the pineapple and sugar have stood for an hour cook five minutes. Dilute cornstarch to a smooth paste with a little cold water and add to first mixture, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture is transparent. Add yoke of egg slightly beaten. Turn into a baked pie shell.

Beat white of egg till stiff and dry with two tablespoons sugar and spread over pineapple mixture. Bake eight minutes ina moderate oven till lightly browned.

Pineapple Pudding

Two cups chopped fresh pine-apples, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup water, 2 eggs (whites), 1 tablespoon gelatine, few grains salt.

Cook pineapple in sugar and water for 10 minutes. Soften gelatine in one-quarter cup cold water. Add pineapple and sirup and stir till gelatine is dissolved. Turn into a mold. When cool and beginning to "set" fold in the whites of the eggs beaten till stiff and dry with a few grains of salt. Let stand two or three hours to chill and become firm Serve with boiled custard made with the yolks of the eggs.

Fresh Pineapple Salad

Pare pineapple and remove "eyes." Cut in as large slices as possible, keeping the shape as near a "half-moon" as can be done. For four salads use: One package neufchatel cheese, two tablespoons peanut butter, eight inside leaves of head lettuce, eight narrow strips pimento, boiled salad dressing.

Arrange two leaves of lettuce on each plate. Put two slices of pineapple on lettuce with the round sides almost meeting. Work cheese and peanut butter together till smooth and perfectly blended. Form in oval shapes and put between the slices of fruit.

HALIAFX EXPLOSION WRECKED HER NERVES

The reader will, no doubt, remember when a few years ago there was a collision in the Halifax, N.S., Harbor and one of the munition ships was blown up, causing great loss of life and laying a large portion of the city in ruins, and causing a great deal of suffering and distress among the inhabitants.

Mrs. Winfield Dill, now of Windsor, N.S., was living in Halifax at that time and went through this trying experience and the shock wrecked her nerves. She writes as follows: "I was living in Halifax at the time of the explosion, and it wrecked my nerves so that I could not do my housework. I would take such nervous spells I would be under the doctor's care.

I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, so I took two boxes and they helped me so much I took six more, and now I am completely relieved. I can recommend them to anyone suffering from heart and nerve trouble."

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend our

LADIES' BRANCH LAKEFIELD A.A.A. PLAN FOR SEASON.

LAKEFIELD, May 11. — The second meeting of the Ladies' branch of the L.A.A.A., was held in the Veterans' room in the Memorial Hall on Monday night and it was very well attended. The president, Miss Alford, was in the chair. Mr. Hirsch, secretary of the L.A.A.A., addressed the ladies on their membership campaign, and suggested a "thermometer" in the window of the News office after the manner of that used in the Y.M.C.A. campaign. He personally volunteered to be responsible for the thermometer and would see that the number of new members was recorded daily. It was decided to close the contest on May 31st when a monster entertainment will be given under the auspices of the L.A.A.A.

Mr. R. L. Mason adressed the ladies on the subject of the band. There has been a movement on foot to start a band but the lack of financial backing has made it practically impossible to do anything worth while. Nearly all the old instruments were destroyed by fire in the old town hall and the few which are remaining need considerable coaxing to make them produce harmonious sounds. There is a feeling on the part of some of the bandsmen that it would be to their advantage to affiliate with the L.A.A.A. and receive financial support from them. The ladies decided to give their support to this as it was felt to be decidedly detrimental to the village that we had no organized band.

Mr. Mason announced the entertainment which will take place on May 31st for the support of the ladies which was given unanimously.

Mr. Mason is full of enthusiasm for the L.A.A.A. and regards it as more than a mere society for sport, but as a forward movement in town development, making the village a brighter and pleasanter place to live in and also as an attraction to outsiders.

GERMANS REPLY TO REPARATIONS NOTE.

PARIS, May 11. Canadian Press. —The German reply to the reparations note of April 13th, received by the Reparations Commission protests good will of the German government but pleads the impossibility of imposing 60 billion marks new taxes before May 31 or complying with the allied conditions laid down on March 21.

It is considered impertinent and entirely unsatisfactory to France, and important developments are now awaited.

TWO WERE KILLED AT HIGHWAY CROSSING.

MONTREAL, May 11.—(Canadian Press).—Richard Hart, 50 of St. Blaise, his wife aged 40 years and daughter Gladys aged 8, were killed at Highway crossing yesterday morning near Lacadie station when the vehicle in which they were riding was struck by train east bound.

Tired in the Mornings

"HOW do you sleep?"

"Not very well. Lots of nights I lie awake for hours, restless and fidgetty, thinking about everything, but not resting or sleeping."

"Have you consulted a doctor?"

"Yes. The doctor says I am anaemic; the blood is thin and watery, and the nervous system run-down for want of proper nutrition."

"Why don't you try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"I don't know just why, unless it is because I thought it was only for the nerves, whereas what I need is something to enrich the blood."

"Well, that is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does. It is only by enriching the blood that you can restore exhausted nerves."

"Perhaps I should try it."

"I certainly would if I were you, for I know it is wonderful the way it helps some people who are anaemic and generally run down in health."

"I am sure you will not be disappointed, and if I were you I would not lose a day before getting started with this treatment."

Have you a "Twenty Pay Life Policy?"

At age 30 he secured a $5,000 Twenty Pay Life Policy

At age 35 he received his first Dividend, which was added to the Policy

At age 50 he received notice that his Policy, with 20 years' Dividends, was fully paid for.

At age 70 he withdrew the cash value for his personal use. For years he had $5,000 protection, and the cash value with dividends now amounted to $6,140. He had paid only $2,830 in premiums.

If he so desired the company would have given him this $6.140 as a monthly income of $66.56 for life.

A Policy on your life will do much towards carrying out your intentions—whether you live or die.

Nothing can absolutely replace your life—but a policy will in some measure offset the financial loss which will come to those who now look to you for support

It may pay off the mortgage, supply food and clothing for your family, keep the children at school.

It may be all that is left of your life work—to keep you in comfort in your old age.

But—your Policy must be large enough.

The Twenty Payment Life

Premiums cease in twenty years—therefore your policy will be fully paid for before you reach later life—when your earning power will have declined.

Cash values increase year by year, and after the third annual premium the policy cannot lapse as long as sufficient value exists.

Dividends are paid during the twenty years and as long as the policy remains in force thereafter.

After one year the policy is indisputable, and you may reside or travel in any part of the world, or engage in any occupation (except aviation) without affecting your insurance.

A twenty pay life policy will provide an amount in event of death equal to twenty or thirty times the annual premium, and produce an estate of $2,000, $5,000, $10,000, or more as arranged.

An Easy Savings Plan

These active progressive years of life in which you are earning the most money are the years in which premiums can be most easily met.

Twenty years is a convenient period and premiums spread over that length of time are moderate and easy to handle.

If You Are Insurable

—do not delay decision on this important matter—delays are dangerous.

Extend Care Beyond Your Chin Line

By HELENA RUBINSTEIN,
Famous Beauty Specialist.

Even the youngest girls pay a great deal of attention to the face. They use a good cleansing cream, good powder, keep it well massaged, but they stop at the line of the chin!

And right there is where the greatest care must be taken. Nothing so destroys the effects of a beautiful face as unlovely skin on the neck or sagging of the under chin muscles.

Before retiring is the best time to give attention to the neck and chin for then the muscles will be held in place during the hours of sleep.

Cleanse the face well with a cleansing cream. Use soap and water first if you wish, but this will not clean the pores enough so that you will be sure a following massage will not rub the dirt on the skin into it, and thus cause blackheads.

Massage Under Chin.

The under chin should be well massaged with one hand, always working from chin to neck. Use the finger tips for this purpose, having first anointed them with good cream.

After massaging for five minutes with one hand, both hands should be used and the movement changed slightly, working from the middle of the chin back to almost the ears. This strengthens all of the muscles under the chin and thus prevents the appearance of tell-tale signs of advancing years.

The face will keep its youthful line if the muscles surrounding it are not allowed to sag.

At the completion of massage while the neck still feels aglow with increased circulation, it should be bathed in very cold water for a few minutes. This will close the pores and have a strengthening effect on the flesh which will keep it firm.

"Wrap-Around" Skirt Is New

The "Wrap-Around" Skirt

Fold the drapery of your skirt around you, ravel out the bottom or slash it into fringe, and you'll be right in style. They're made of homespun, ratine, tweed and flannel and in any old color you desire.

Is the absorbing question of what is or is not fashionable keeping you awake of nights?

Just fold the drapery of your skirt about you and you may lie down to pleasant dreams. Add a fringed hem and you will be as fashionable as it's good for anyone's pride to be.

The formula is simple. Just wrap it around, ravel out the bottom or slash it into fringe, and button it up the front. In case the material doesn't lend itself to raveling the desirable effect may be obtained by sewing matching fringe around the bottom.

The "wrap-around" skirt is made of homespun, ratine, tweed, flannel or one of the new sport silks—crepe knit or silk homespun. As to colors—you have full paint-box range.

NO FUNDS FOR HIS CHEQUE

Charge Against Albert Marlowe, Also Accused of Obtaining Board by Fraud.

FARM HELPER ABSENT

Arrested on a charge of fraudulently obtaining board at the Grand Hotel and issuing a worthless cheque for $21.50, Albert Marlowe of Toronto, pleaded not guilty in the police court this morning.

The cheque is alleged to have been issued for a board bill in the morning and Mr. Fisher, proprietor of the hotel, deposited it at the bank in the afternoon. The cheque was drawn on the Dominion Bank, Toronto. A call was put through to Toronto and it was discovered that Marlowe had no account there.

The police were informed, and Detectives Meagher and Cookman started out to look for him.

"I'm ready to go on," said Marlowe.

"Have you a solicitor?" asked Magistrate Langley.

"No. I asked for a solicitor, but was refused."

"What's that you say? Don't make charges you can't proye," said Chief Newhall. "It was no such thing. Mr. Dickson was phoned for but he has not showed up yet. What have I to do with the lawyers sir?" the chief wanted to know.

In connection with this case the chief declared that there were more charges to follow, and for that reason urged the magistrate to stiffen the bail. "I had to pay $5 on phone messages for this man," he said. Bail was fixed at $1000.

Boy Abandoned Farmer.

John Davidson, just 6 weeks out from the old country, was charged with stealing a horse, harness and buggy, valued at $450, from David Scollard, an Ennismore farmer. The boy pleaded not guilty, and V. J. McElderry, on behalf of the 16 year old lad, home sick, and cast away in a strange land explained the circumstances. The boy arrived at Scollards a month ago. He was as green as they make them evidently, and Mr. Scollard said it was only the last few days he had been at all useful. This morning when he went in to wake him the first thing he saw was a large piece of paper pinned on the wall on which was scrawled a message saying he was through with the farm and was escaping with the outfit he was charged with stealing. A rope hanging from the window told how he had reached the ground.

He not only borrowed the outfit to reach the town, Mr. McElderry pointed out, but in the note he had promised to leave it at the 'George Hotel.' The boy said he had meant the Grand Hotel. Mr. McElderry said the boy had committed a serious offence but under the circumstances the charge of theft was not warranted. Crown Attorney Hatton with the Magistrate's approval withdrew the charge, but the boy was given a sharp rating by the Magistrate who pointed out that temporary possession under the criminal code here constituted a theft. Mr. Scollard came under fire for lamenting the loss of a day from the farm. The discourse the magistrate unburdened himself of concerning the farming community proved a severe jolt to the Ennismore farmer. Through a council of Adjt. Bunton, Mr. McElderry and Mr. Scollard it was arranged that the farmer should pay the costs, which were made lighter by Mr. Hatton refusing a fee, and the expense of sending the youth back to Ottawa.

STREET OILING

The city's grading operations at Armour Hill are expected to be finished next week, according to the chairman of the Board of Works. The cost on account of a more extensive cut being necessary than was at first anticipated will be higher, but will not amount to over $2,500, it was stated. The men and teams are keeping up to their schedule and every team is drawing two loads an hour from the hill and dumping the earth in the pit at the east end of the Hunter Street Bridge.

A car of heavy oil has arrived, and the oiling of the streets, helped along by favorable weather, is proceeding nicely, according to Ald. Stocker. Eight thousand gallons of light oil have been used so far. Different sections have received it. Two one-horse dump carts are on the job in connection with repairs, and motorists will be glad to learn that the holes in the city roadways are being filled in. In addition to the oil, the streets this year are being sanded, and the result is highly satisfactory, City Engineer Parsons states.

EXPERIENCED MOTHERS

Know How Necessary it is to Keep the Blood Rich and Pure.

Out of the experience thousands of mothers know that anaemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference that good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anaemic girl, every pain she suffers in her back and limbs are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood. The case of Miss Jessie MacNeill, Dominion No 1, N.S., shows the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in building up the blood in cases of anaemia. Miss MacNeil says: "For nearly two years I was a weak, sick girl. Sometiems I would be confined to bed for a week or more at a time I had no appetite, was very pale and if I walked quickly across the room my heart would flutter terribly. The least work would leave me utterly tired out. I had tried several medicines but they did not do me any good, and I was much discouraged. Then I read in a local paper of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. After taking a few boxes I felt a lot better, continued their use for several months. The result is that I am feeling fine; have a good appetite and can work without feeling tired and depressed. In view of my experience I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a safe medicine to recommend to all weak girls.'

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

ASSIST STRUGGLING SCHOOL SECTIONS

Fr. Minehan is Satisfied With the Proposition

TORONTO, May 11 (Special to The Examiner). — "I haven't seen the whole Bill yet," said Rev. Father Minehan to-day, regarding the legislation introduced by R. H. Grant, Rinister of Education, to distribute the grants not earned by public and separate schools among struggling school sections, "but it seems to be all right. So long as the schools get their proper proportion of the grant, I think it will be satisfactory. Schools should have to live up to a certain standard and be encouraged to do that."

WELTERWEIGHT MATCH.

NEW YORK, May 11 (Canadian Press). — Jack Britton, welterweight king, and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, were to-day matched for a bout to be fought on 1st June, with the place not decided.

In spite of its great height and the large area it encloses, the Eiffel tower is comparatively light, weighing only 8000 tons.

HEADS THAT ACHE AND PAIN

It is hard to drag along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels, but no matter which organ is to blame the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be obtained.

which has been on the market for the past forty five years, removes the cause of the headache by starting the organs of elimination acting freely, and when the impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and the aches and pains vanish.

Miss Clara Murphy, Centre Dummer, Ont., writes: "My system was greatly run down and my blood out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another bottle and it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to some of my friends who were in a similar condition and they all say it is a wonderful remedy."

"Ovaltine" Hastens your return to Health and Strength

Convalescence is always tedious. Depleted strength and vitality must be restored—not by drugs and stimulants which act only superficially, but by nourishment. Yet an invalid's fastidious appetite and weakened digestion prohibit much food and retard the return of health. In such cases "Ovaltine" is invaluable.

OVALTINE
TONIC FOOD BEVERAGE

"Ovaltine," a delicious beverage that tempts the appetite, is a concentrated food, providing all the vital body-building elements. One cup contains more nourishment than 3 eggs, 7 cups of cocoa or 12 cups of beef extract. "Ovaltine" is made from ripe barley malt, creamy milk, fresh eggs and cocoa.

BRIDAL ACCESSORIES ARE VARIED AND LOVEEY

When the trousseau resolves to a mere matter of accessories the bride of 1922 may let her fancy rove to her heart's delight!

Gloves are, of course, an item of major importance. Even the plainest little mouse of a bride will have at least three pairs in her wedding outfit, while the girl who can afford it will have perhaps five or six.

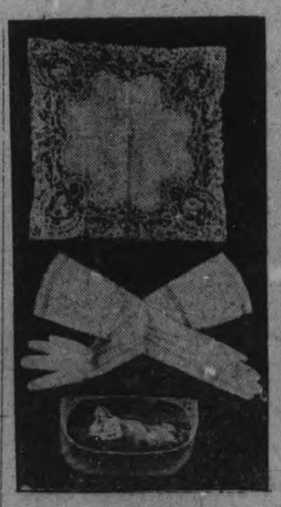
There should be a pair for the going away suit. Gray and beige are equally smart for suit wear and the cuffs which pull up over the tight sleeves of the jacket are often touched with orchid, rose or a deeper self-tone.

There should be one pair of dark gloves for more ordinary wear and of course the long ones needed for dinner gowns and dancing frocks.

Tapestry is quite the newest purse fabric and the flat envelope seems to be the favored shape, though beaded bags in a variety of shapes and colors are being shown.

As for handkerchiefs—of course the average trousseau budget wouldn't stretch over a list which included many Rose Point handkerchiefs, but there simply must be one or two of them, if never again for the rest of one's life!

There should be a very generous supply of dainty handkerchiefs in the wedding outfit—lucky is the bride whose girl friends think in terms of 'kerchiefs when they wonder what kind of a shower to give for her!



GLOVES AND HANDKERCHIEFS MAY BE AS FANCIFUL AS THE JUNE BRIDE WISHES.

The May Sale of White!

A Trump Card in the Progressive Month's Schedule of Events

Billows and Billows of White Goods

Prices Are Keenly Interesting

The Lowest Prices of the year, and so very much lower than they were last year, that it will be a joy just to see the collection, and a delight to possess the garments that one admires when the low prices are realized.

The displays and the selling begin to-morrow. While the occasion is planned to last all the month of May, there are large numbers of extra special offerings that are ready for to-morrow that few women will want to miss. The detailed story on this page tells much of the news.

Envelope Chemise

Our $4.25 Envelope Chemise at $2.75

These are of nainsook of a delightfully fine quality. The trimmings for the most part are French embroidery and hemstitching. The tops are finished with buttonhole edge embroidered in solid eyelet design and run with ribbon. Choice of pink or white.

$5.00 to $5.95 Envelope Chemise, $3.49

Very lovely are these and quite numerous are the styles to select from. The materials are fine grades of nainsook, madapolam and stripe voile. Val. and cluny lace and Swiss embroidery insertions contribute greatly to their loveliness.

$2.00 to $2.49 Envelope Chemise, $1.29

The maker used a fine white cotton in this garment and gave it a pretty "V" neck, trimmed it with embroidery and inserted a ribbon in the beading.

The Hand-Worked Philippine Pieces Are Beautiful To See And So Moderately Priced, Too, at $6.95

There is something very genteel about Philippine hand-work—an indefinable something that seems to effuse dignity and grace. Any woman who takes the trouble to examine these Pieces will realize the hours and hours it must have taken to accomplish such charming results.

Choice of Gowns and Envelope Chemise in a variety of patterns and all worked on the finest of white nainsook.

Gowns

$1.89 to $1.98 Gowns, $1.29

The material is a good substantial cotton and there are round and "V"-shaped necks and an assortment of pretty lace and embroidery trimmings. Also plain yokes, except for plain hemstitching. Regular and O. S. sizes.

$2.98 to $3.69 Gowns, $2.39

A wide assortment of styles that includes long and short sleeves, slip-over, opened front, high, round and square-neck models. Trimmings of embroidery, lace and French embroidery. All are of a good quality cotton. Regular and O. S. sizes.

$3.95 to $4.25 Gowns, $2.89

A fine variety of white cotton models in regular and O. S. sizes. An abundance of styles to select from—round, square and "V" necks and short sleeves with ribbon run through beading, and some with inset motifs garnished with ribbon bows.

98c Night Gowns, 85c

Slip-over style, "V" neck, short sleeves. The material is white nainsook. The edges are trimmed with blue hemstitching. The front is shirred with three rows of fine stitching.

"Dove" Night Gowns of Rare Charm

The pretty little garnitures of embroidery that the "Dove" garments show contribute infinitely to their daintiness. Besides, they always have some unique arrangement of the garment itself.

At $2.25 there is a short sleeve model with a "V" neck. It comes in sheer nainsook, white or pink, and the yoke is elaborately embroidered—pink and blue on the white and pink on the pink.

At $2.75 you can have Windsor crepe with white ground and floral patterns. Blue feather-stitching outlines the neck and sleeves. Plain white Windsor crepe with blue silk stitching around the neck and sleeves comes at $2.25.

Underskirts

$5.25 to $5.75 Underskirts at $3.75

The material is a fine nainsook with dainty trimmings of ribbon and flounce of filet lace and insertion; also embroidery.

One of nainsook has a flounce of Swiss embroidery in a dainty open-worked pattern, band of sertion to match and finished with a bow of pink ribbon.

$6.25 to $6.95 Underskirts, $4.95

Four different styles for your choosing. All of a superior grade of fine white cotton. Both lace and embroidery flounces. One, particularly fine, has a deep flounce of fine lawn, finished with lace and insertion. The pattern is run diagonally in a charmingly pretty manner.

$3.25 to $3.75 Underskirts, $2.49

Good choosing at this price and all are fine nainsooks with deep flounce of embroidery or lace, and sometimes a combination of both.

$4.00 to $4.79 Underskirts, $2.95

All are of fine nainsook with a plain embroidery or embroidery and lace flounce arranged in many novel and becoming ways. The materials are very lovely in fineness and firmness.

Drawers

$1.19 to $1.39 Drawers at 85c

They are made of a fine but substantial quality of English cotton and are tucked and trimmed with Val. lace. One style is plain except for the numerous small tucks. O. S. and regular sizes.

$1.50 to $1.79 Drawers for 98c

They, too, are of English cotton, but a little finer quality. Embroidery with firm edge, Val. lace, eyelet work and plain scalloped edges are some of the distinctive features. O. S. and regular sizes.

$1.98 to $2.25 Drawers, $1.39

We present five different patterns in these. You have choice of machine hand-embroidered effects and embroidered flounces and, of course, much tucking.

$2.50 to $3.00 Drawers for $1.75

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 11 (Canadian Press). — Wheat underwent a sudden break in price yesterday, nearly three cents a bushel for May delivery, but later rallied. The market for cheese was ratiter more active than of late.

Calls the U.F.O. Party Common Enemy.

TORONTO, May 11. — Canadian Press. — The present U.F.O. government is the common enemy to both the old political parties and a menace to the whole of Ontario, declared Hartley Dewart, M.L.A., in the labor temple last night, to the members of the Southeast Toronto Liberal Association. He charged the Drury Administration with misappropriation of hydro funds, with ruinous financing and reckless borrowing policy bound to end in disastrous results to the province.

This government elected on the plea of 'economy' had proved the greatest aggregation of spendthrifts ever known, he said.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

G.T.R. Train Met With Accident. Field Day of Sport. Current News.

MILLBROOK, May 11. — The G. T. R. train from Peterborough to Port Hope, which passes through Millbrook at 12.20 p.m., met with an accident on Wednesday about a mile north of Frazerville, a broken part in the engine necessitating a delay of three hours before it could be repaired The train reached here at 3.25 p.m. The inconvenience to passengers from the delay was the only harm done by the accident.

A Field Day of sports, under the auspices of the Agricultural Society and the I.O.O.F., will be held here on Thursday, 8th June, when it is expected that a splendid program of basketball, races, baseball, games, etc., will be carried out. There will be a motor parade, prizes being given for the best-decorated car, the one carrying the largest number of passengers to the grounds, etc. A band concert in the evening, probably followed by speeches by one of the Cabinet ministers, and prominent local men, with an entertainment provided by outside talent, will complete the day's events. It is planned to hold the entire affair on the Fair Grounds, lighting the building for the occasion, and such of the grounds as may be necessary. There will be a lunch counter, but people are to be asked to bring their baskets for supper, hot water, and possibly hot tea also, will be supplied at the dining hall, but no organisation is to be asked to serve entire meals.

Mrs. Percy Stinson made a brief visit to Toronto this week, bringing her little niece Iris home with her, intending to keep the latter here until her mother is able to leave the hospital.

Died—In Millbrook, on Monday, 8th May, James McGolpin, in his 45th year. The funeral took place from the family residence, West Street, on Wednesday, 10th May at 2 p.m. Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, the ordinary routine business being conducted with the Noble Grand, Mrs. T. H. Bradley, presiding. It was decided that, as there are now two applicants for membership with a prospect of more this month, a special meeting for initiation of candidates would be held on Tuesday, 30th May. This is necessary, as the next regular meeting comes on 23rd May, and being the night before a holiday, several members of the Degree team will be unable to attend on account of the stores being kept open.

The Wide-Awakes C.G.I.T. group of the Methodist Church held their meeting out of doors on Tuesday afternoon, taking their tea to the Mansion grounds and having an enjoyable nature study hike, with games, etc., before their return about 8 p.m.

TORONTO, May 11. Canadian Press. — The day's proceedings before the McIntosh Commission inquiring into the death of Captain Orivlle Huston, revealed that while there were rumours and insinuations aplenty at Fort Francis Nobody had any facts which would suggest a solution of the mystery.

Officers Elected For Ensuing Year — Members Are Encouraged By Large Attendance at Annual Meeting—Reports Show Flourishing Condition of Organization.

(By F. H. Dobbin)

The members of the Council of the local Home and School Association felt much encouraged at the very fine attendance on Tuesday evening, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. The meeting was held to close up matters, receive reports and elect and appoint officers and committees for the ensuing Association year. Mrs. S. T. Medd, President occupied the chair and skilfully guided the meeting through the mass of business. It may be remarked that the Association disclaims the accepted impression that the organizaion be referred to and understood as one being a woman's organization. Many men belong, though they seldom appear at meetings, but male parents, who should be interested in the welfare of their children at school are asked to come in and take part. Four men appeared last night and were welcomed.

Election of Officers

After preliminary statements as to the operations of the year past had been cleared away, and Mrs. Borridale appointed as secretary of the meeting, the election of officers was made. With the following approved :—

Hon. President, Mrs. A. Mowat.
President—Mrs. S. T. Medd.
Vice President—1st— Mrs. W. R. Morris.
Vice President, 2nd—Mrs. Wightman.
Secretary —F. H. Dobbin, Assistant Secretary — Mr. Dearborn.
Treasurer—Mrs. Esplin.

The Executive Committee is made up of those selected at the meeting and an equal number appointed by the Schools' Branch Associations. Those named last evening being, Mr. R. F. Downey, Central; Mr. E. Weager, Queen Mary; Mr. J. Bolton, King Edward; Mr. J. Ellis, King George; Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, Prince of Wales; Mr. J. E. Smith, Queen Alexandra, Miss V. Knox, May's school. The complement of the committee included as arranged, the Presidents of the several school bodies Mrs. S. F. M. Touchburn for Queen Alexandra, Mrs. W. Watt for King Edward, Mrs. F. C. Miller, for Central, Mrs. Huston, King George; Mrs. P. Neville, Prince of Wales, Mrs. J. E. Johnston, Queen Mary; Mrs. W. Moore.

Report of Convention

Mrs. F. E. Miller reported for the delegates that attended the Federal Home and School Association Convention, held in Toronto during April last. The report was very informative, and from it those present gained an excellent view of the work taken up and of the statements of those who participated in the discussions. Extracts from this report, which contains suggestions of value to parents, may be printed in the local paper at convenient time.

General comment was made in regard to the want of action shown by the City Council in refusing to make the yearly grant to the Playgrounds Association. It was felt that in some respects the work of previous summers would be now set aside and interest lost in the proposition and work. Some further steps may be taken in approaching the council to endeavor to have the grant made.

Mrs. Balton was named as delegate to the coming convention of the General Association, during the summer months.

School Fair

Suggestion as to holding a School Fair, in the autumn, was discussed. To be further considered and plans more fully matured. Members from the Rotary Club were present, and these were assured that what Rotary was doing and had done in the work of helping the children, especially in the matter of milk for under-nourished children was deeply appreciated. Ladies told of the improvement in personnel of many children owing to the supply of milk that had been provided from Rotary and other sources.

It seems that in opening the several school buildings in the evenings in the evenings for the use of the several School Branches of the Association, the janitors had been renumerated for the service. It was felt that if approached the Board of Edudation might assume this cost and include it in such arrangement as made with the several care takers. Mrs. Morris agreed to present this request to the Board.

Some general comment and discussion followed and the meeting adjourned.

Choir Concert of St. Paul's Church

The annual choir concert to be given in St. Paul's church on Monday next promises to be one of the outstanding musical efforts of the season. The choir itself has been augmented by members of several others choirs in the city, and will be assisted by a quintette of artists from Toronto: Miss Edna Read (soprano), Miss Vera McLean (contralto), Sidney Walsh (tenor), Frank Oldfield (baritone) and Joseph Quintile (harpist.)

Mr. M. B. Chenhall has charge of the production, "The Rose Maiden," in which some 50 voices will take part. This is a celebrated melodious cantata, with musical arrangements above the ordinary, but adhering throughout to that appealing musical quality which is never above the heads of its hearers. The music was composed by Frederic H. Cowen, whose famous song, "The Better Land," is known far and wide.

The theme of the story, fanciful and sweet, gives a wide scope to its beautiful musical score. The Queen of the Flower Fairies, weary of a life of unbroken calm, prays of the newly returned Spring that he will bestow upon her also the gift of love that he bestows upon man. Her desire is granted, and in the form of a beautiful girl she follows out her love life in an earthly existence. Her adventures form the basis of the pretty story, told in choral and solo music, with an accompaniment of organ and two pianos. Three solos in the piece have harp arrangement, the famous "rose" song, "The Sleep of Even," and "Far from the Summer Blossoms," the first a soprano solo, the second and third tenor numbers.

Big Sisterhood After Clothing

The Big Sisterhood is asking for clothing for three little boys of school age, from eight to twelve, who are unable to attend classes because of their want of suitable apparel, and the ladies' wants include also the loan, or gift, of a wheel chair which might be propelled by its user, for an elderly man whose home, a small shack, gives little opportunity for enjoyment of fresh air at any time, and whose longing for sunshine is seldom satisfied.

The duties of the Big Sisterhood are miscellaneous, and seem to include situations that range from the helping with ushering in of little strangers to crowded homes, and the funeral arrangements for old, lonely women. The needs of life, which has been said to "come in with a cry and go out with a moan," from the cradle to the grave, are made less bitter in many households by kindly, helpful hands, and activities that have to do with the procuring of suitable homes for feeble old ladies and the breaking up, in some instances, of immoral conditions of living. The scope of their work is evidently unlimited, healing, as it were, the spiritual, mental and physical wounds of life for many unregarded elements; the flotsam and jetsam of human existance.

And Gay Gems Decorate Their Handles

FEATHERS ARE THE NEWEST SUMMER FAN MEDIUM.

The newest thing that has come from Paris is the mandarin fan, called the summer fan, made of and with and entirely in feathers!

Gone is the old-time paper or straw matted fan! Gone is the day of the huge bamboo-handled, elephant-ear fan! Paris has spoken in terms of bright-hued feathers put together in original ways. And the woman of fashion harkens to Paris.

The new feather accessory for milady is useful, as well as beautiful. Hidden in the plumage is a little spring. Press it. Presto! Milady has her dressing case right at hand! There is a tiny mirror in an unseen pocket and a place for a diminutive powder puff.

We have had feathers in combs, feathers in purses. Now we have feathers in fans and—whisper it—occasionally, in the accessory departments which pride themselves on their smartness—are found milady's garters with feathers in their frills and ruchings!

IMPROVEMENTS

The City Solicitor was asked to give an opinion.

New Sidewalks.

Following the preliminaries notice will be given of the Council's intention to construct a sidewalk on Weller street south side from Monaghan road to Albertus avenue, and on the south side of Wolseley street from Benson street. An application for a sewer on Wolseley street was received. Five names were attached to a petition for a sidewalk on the west side of Douro Armour road from Clifton street to Douro street. Engineer Parsons will report.

Thirteen residents of Wolfe street had signed a request for sewer at the western end. Mr. Parsons said it would take 1,600 feet and meant a large expenditure. Olive avenue residents asked that the roadway which is only 22 feet wide be paved. Mr. Parson's pointed out that a special design would be necessary in order to carry the spring run-off successfully.

Look to Future.

The city engineer drew the attention of the board to the condition of the cribbage at Crescent street and said he thought it was time that the city was looking to the future An ideal bathing beach could be constructed along here he believed. Part of the cribbage is broken away at present and several trees are in danger of falling into the water. It was decided to determine exactly how much right-of-way the city has here.

On motion of the Mayor and Ald. Crowe, Engineer Parsons was asked to submit a plan for an easement for a right-of-way for a sewer from Crescent street to Ware street and the city solicitor was insturcted to prepare the necessary agreement and have it executed. On motion of Ald. Phelan the chairman and City Solicitor will look into the matter of draining Parnell street.

Tenders received by the city for three lots, 150 by 80 feet, on Caddy street, were opened at the meeting. S. Houlihan offered $161; M. J. Cain, $150 for the three, or $50 for one and A. Brotherson $80 for one. The city has no further use for these lots which form a vacated gravel pit but it was decided that the offers were too low. None were accepted and the city will ask $300 for possession.

Provincial Highways.

On the file of the Board of Works Committee's was a leeter from J. W. Holmes, City Clerk, of Belleville, regarding the Provincial levy against that city for Provincial Highways. According to City Clerk Armstrong Belleville is getting off light and has little grounds to complain compared with Peterborough. The city has been charged for 3 per cent of the cost of the Provincial Highway as far as Scott's Corners while Belleville has only had a few miles to pay for. The Province has not rendered its account yet but members of the Council dare not visualize it. In addition to the Provincial Highway assessment the city has to pay a big portion to the Surburban Road Commission it was pointed out.

"Trim the U.F.O. government at the next election' advised Ald. Phelan 'I think there should be some protest' suggested the chairman On motion of Ald. Phelan and Crowe the resolution passed was worded this way "that a reply be sent that this Council will co-operate with them in any action they think best to take.'

Famous Beauty Regains Health and Strength through Ironized Yeast

"A Wonderful Help in Keeping My Figure Perfect" Says Beautiful Elsie La Bergere

"IT was by purest accident that I picked up a package of Ironized Yeast just as I was about to give up the stage for a long needed rest. The results that it brought in me proved that it was just what I needed. For today I actually feel like a new born woman!"

Such is the amazing statement of Elsie La Bergere, known to vaudeville lovers all over the continent for the beauty of her figure.

"My stage work," continued Miss La Bergere, "put such a severe strain on my nervous system that every performance became a hardship. I lost my appetite, and always felt tired and worn-out. Then I discovered Ironized Yeast—and I really cannot give enough praise to it. I find it keeps me absolutely fit in every way, and that it is a great help in keeping the shape of my body in wonderful condition. Ironized Yeast has a permanent place of honor in my traveling bag.

How New Process Makes Yeast Doubly Effective

The reason IRONIZED YEAST brings such remarkable results is because it embodies a new scientific process which enables yeast to bring its great benefits often in just half the usual time. Yeast alone is good, but tests show that it needs some other agent in order to quickly convert its wonderful health-building elements into firm tissue, rosy cheeks and sparkling vitality.

Everyone knows that iron is of great value in converting our food into living cells and tissue. So working on this problem, our scientists finally discovered the wonderful process of ironization—the process through which the combination of yeast and iron becomes 100 per cent efficient.

Do not think, however, that any combination of yeast and iron will do. Yeast brings its best and quickest results only when it is treated through the scientific process of ironization. And this process is embodied only in IRONIZED YEAST, the one scientifically correct yeast treatment.

Money Back Guarantee

If you need more flesh—if you are pale, lacking in energy—or if your complexion is blemished by humiliating skin eruptions—try IRONIZED YEAST at once. Very likely you will be actually astonished at the improvement shown in you even after the first 48 hours. Go to your dealer's today. TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

THE FOURTH DEGREE

(Copyright 1921 By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

There was but little doubt in the mind of Thomas Byrnes, superintendent of police in New York City, that Louis Hanier had been murdered for the sake of the money that he was carrying with him at the time. The little Frenchman had been the proprietor of a cafe and, having a fear of the banks in America, had the habit of carrying hundreds of dollars in his wallet until the opportunity presented itself of purchasing an international money order.

One morning he was found dead in the vestibule of his home, a .38-calibre bullet through his heart and his pocketbook missing.

That was all Byrnes had to work upon, for there were no indications whatever of the persons who had committed the crime. The dispatch with which the matter had been handled, appeared to point to a professional criminal, so Byrnes gave orders that all the pawnshops in New York were to be closely watched and reports made to him of the pawning of any .38-calibre revolvers. This was done, not merely as a precaution, but because the inspector felt that a professional gunman would be likely to sell or pawn the revolver with which the crime had been committed, while an amateur would merely attempt to hide it.

Investigation of the dozen or more .38's pawned during the week which followed the Hanier shooting showed that all but one of them had been pledged by persons who very evidently had no connection with the murder. The single exception was one, Michael McGloin, whom the pawnbroker in question, identified by means of his photograph in the Rogues' Gallery. McGloin's gun had been pawned on the morning after the murder and, while the police had littler difficulty in locating the man himself, there was not a shred of evidence to connect him with the Hanier case, beyond the fact that he had been absent from home on the night of the shooting in the company of four of his boon companions.

Quietly, and without allowing a word of his intentions to leak out, Byrnes rounded up the quintet one at a time, none of them knowing that the others were being arrested. Each of them was lodged in a cell by himself and each was questioned closely as to his actions and his whereabouts at the time of the murder. In spite of the fact that Byrnes had definite information that the five men had been together, each of them told a different story and each claimed to have been alone, at a considerable distance from the Hanier house.

"It's no use," Inspector, said one of the policemen who had been working on the case about a week after the five men had been picked up. "you can't get a thing out of 'em. They know, all right, but you can't convict any of 'em without a confession—and we've tried everything, including the 'third degree.'"

"Very well," said Byrnes quietly, "we'll have to try the Fourth Degree."

"Fourth Degree? What's that?"

"Just a little way of getting at the truth when a man wants to hold out on you," was Byrnes' answer. "You think there's no doubt that McGloin's the man? Have him brought to this office to-morrow morning promptly at 10 o'clock."

At the time specified McGloin, sullen and resentful at what he claimed was an illegal detention, walked into the Inspector's office alone. Had he been interested in such details he might have noted that Byrnes was seated so that he could watch the window in his office which looked out upon a corridor and also keep an eye upon the occupant of the only chair in the room, bolted to the floor in front of the desk. But McGloin wasn't worrying about such trifles. He was there to demand his release and he told the Inspector so in no measured terms.

"That's all right, McGloin." replied Byrnes. "Sit down, a minute. I've got several things to attend to," and he motioned to the chair, placed so that it too commanded a view of the corridor window. A moment later the office door opened, and a man came in. Byrnes, watching the gunman closely, saw he was barely able to repress a start—for the visitor was the pawnbroker with whom McGloin had pledged his revolver. Without saying a word, the pawnbroker crossed the room, laid McGloin's gun on the Inspector's desk, and walked out.

"Never," growled McGloin.

"I thought not," was the reply. "It's the gun that Hanier, the Frenchman, was shot with. We've finally got a line on that case after working on it for over a month. Found a man who was a witness of the shooting——"

At this moment, by a pre-arranged signal, one of McGloin's partners was marched past the corridor window, handcuffs clanking at his wrists.

"Yes," continued Byrnes, appearing not to notice the gunman's agitation "and we've also found a man who was present"—at which the second of the quintet was ushered past the window—"and two others who have confessed their part in the robbery but who claim that the man who fired the shot was—"

"Stop it, for God's sake, Chief!" cried the half-crazed man in the chair, his nerves shattered by the solitary confinement and the marshalling of evidence under his very eyes. "Stop it! I didn't mean to do it but—I shot him!"

"Score one for the 'Fourth Degree,' mused Byrnes, as he summoned a policeman to remove McGloin to his cell, there to await his trial and subsequen. conviction.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is a difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and cause no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

DUCHESS AND ROSE POINT ARE FAVORED MEDIUMS FOR TRIMMING

(CENTRE) JADE GREEN CREPE ROMAIN NEGLIGEE, FROM MILLER, PARIS, ORNAMENTED WITH STEEL NAIL HEADS. THE TWO SLIPS (ON EITHER SIDE) WHICH COMBINE ARE COMBINATIONS OF FILLET AND DUCHESS AND FILLET AND ROSE POINT.

BY MARIAN HALE.

Brides and an array of bridal finery. Such is the traditional combination. The approach of June would be quite as colorless without the flurry of wedding preparations as it would be without the promise of its roses.

The world of bridal appointment is athrill and aflutter with new ideas, new fabrics, new designs. Lovelier than ever.

Designers, with fertile brain and lavish hand, have turned their attention to garments intended for hours of relaxation.

First, what of colors? Paris and America agree that the bridal negligee shall be as light in tint as it is in weight. Leave the deep, rich tones and black to the matrons.

Colors.

With trimming, the June bride may go as far as she likes; however, some of the cleverest of gowns designed for hours of rest are quite plain.

With the demands which must be made upon it by the wearing of various types of gowns and suits the bride who cannot be lavish in her expenditure finds that part of her planning which deals with undergarments no simple thing.

The well outfitted bride, who can spend only moderately, must have groups of half dozens, at least.

Her Outfit.

Knickers should not be considered for the summer wardrobe. Knowing this, but realizing the value of the trimness of that type of undergarment, manufacturers have given us a garment of glove silk with a knicker top and loose knee.

There should be two pairs of these with the trim vests which accompany them for the bridal outfit. These, of course, are for wear with tailored clothing demanding the flat back which is to be even more pronounced this fall and winter than it is now.

Voile is an excellent fabric for the three combinations to be worn under fluffier frocks for afternoon and strictly summer wear. For the sixth suit, a part of the wedding outfit proper, the bride may let her fancy deal as it will with silks and ribbon.

There should be at least six camesoles, preferably white. One white silk crepe and one dark silk petticoat is plenty in this petticoatless days.

Of stockings, there should be a plentiful supply, at least a dozen pairs. If economy is really a point of virtue, then black is the better choice. There should be two pairs blocked in black or with an open clocking to be worn with the dinner gown or dancing frock.

One pair, to be worn on the wedding day, must be white, but the remainder must be black.

One pair of round elastics must the bride include in her outfit. These for the hours she spends in negligee. In spite of the beauty of the frivolous pinks and whites, as they appear in the show case, she will find that black is much more effective if her choice of stockings is black.

BIG CROWD AT TITLE FIGHT

Carpentier-Lewis Encounter Promised to Pack 12000 into the Olympia

LONDON, May 11. — (Special Cable to the Examiner). — Huge crowds began to gather at the Olympia here to-night, three hours before England's last pugilistic hope, Ted Lewis, was to enter the ring for a twenty round fight with Georges Carpentier, the world's light heavyweight champion.

The cheapest seats were filled almost as quickly as the doors were opened and the reserved sections were slowly filling by the early arrivals. Every indication pointed to a capacity house of 12,000 with an overflow of five or six thousand outside to get the first word of the result.

Lewis was given a great demonstration when he arrived to weigh in. His weight was not announced, but the scales were said to have been set at 160 pounds and he did not move the beam. He was fully clothed when he stepped from the scales the holder of three British titles stretched himself and said he felt fine.

"I have no doubt that I'm going to win. Jack Dempsey and other experts figure that I'm a sure loser, but I don't see it that way", he said.

Carpentier, a 3 to 1 favorite in the betting, stripped before stepping on the scales. In his ring regalia he tipped the beam at 175 pounds. He predicted that he would win quickly He looked to be in good condition The crowd hanging around the place knew that his rather pale complexion was natural.

The fight ended with a dramatic climax, when Carpenter won the battle in the first round of a bout that was scheduled to go twenty rounds.

ARGUMENT IN BANK ACTION

Manager of Merchants Bank Followed the Bank Act Says His Counsel.

MONTREAL, May 11 (Special to The Examiner). — Everything was done in accordance with the full provisions of the Bank Act, and further it was a physical impossibility for Mr. Macarow to have sent any report of the standing of the Merchants' Bank on 31st October last than the one made up for him from the returns from the three hundred and fifty branches and fifty agencies, if he was to comply with the Act, which demands that the return be in Ottawa by a certain date.

Such were the main points made by N. K. Laflamme, K.C., M.P., in his argument before Judge Cusson this morning at the trial of D. C. Macarow, former general manager of the Merchants' Bank.

Mr. Macarow is charged with having "wilfully" sent in a false return to the Government, and it is for Judge Cusson to decide whether or not he will be sent to a higher Court for trial.

Mr. Laflamme spoke for two and a half hours, and completed his argument just as the Court rose.

When it convenes this afternoon, C. A. Wilson, K.C., acting for the Minister of Justice and the Minister of Finance, will reply for the prosecution, and will be followed by G. H. Montgomery, K.C., for the defence. It is thought that Mr. Wilson's remarks will not be extended, but that Mr. Montgomery will go into the question of the bank's promises in detail, so that it is unlikely that a decision will be reached today.

It is a risky thing, said Mr. Laflamme, for the Minister of Finance to base his case on expert evidence, for it was because of the expression of opinion by one expert who finds a so-called loss of eight million dollars that the bank was wrecked. Had we had the advantage of Mr. Edwards and his conclusions, the bank might not have been wrecked.

CARPENTIER-LEWIS BATTLE

CARPENTIER.

LEWIS.

Clever Fighters Opposed In London Ring For European Honors.

Upon the outcome of Georges Carpentier's fight this evening, in the arena in London, with Ted "Kid" Lewis, will depend the French gladiator's plan to challenge the winner of the Greb-Tunney encounter for whit heavyweight honors, set for New York on the night of May 23.

In case Georges should lose to the "Kid" he would of course be out of line for a meeting with the New York victor, but he is in correspondence with the managers of the two prospective participants in this encounter on the evident supposition that there is no doubt he will acquit himself satisfactorily, to himself, against his next opponent.

He ought to, for Lewis, though a game, clever fighter, has figured hitherto in the welterweight class, and at present is only European champion in that, the world's title, which he did Jack Britton exchanged between them for some time, being held now by the latter. Ted has a reputation for extraordinary speed, but so has Carpentier.

The odds are around 8 to 5 on the Frenchman, but there are plenty of takers at this figure.

The Lewis men say Carpentier will have no such set-up as with Beckett, the "Kid" being far craftier and tougher. Besides, there are those who assert Dempsey's jolt did Georges no good.

Carpentier's friends say their man will win by a knockout in about eight rounds. Lewis rooters predict that Ted will do the same thing in about four.

Dempsey has been asked for his opinion, but hasn't given it. The papers say it's certain he thinks the Frenchman the better fighter.

Two Baseball Teams Organized, Oshkigmong.

OSHKIGMONG, May 11.—Two baseball teams have been reorganized here, and the following officers were appointed: James McCue, manager; Dave Taylor, secretary-treasurer; Dave Jacobs, captain for the Seniors; Wesley Irons, captain for the Juniors.

MISSED THE TRAIN.

A reception committee composed of a number of Port Hope's enthusiastic baseball fans assembled at the G.T.R. depot in that town last Saturday afternoon, it is reported, to meet the International Limited. But the preparations were quite unnecessary, as the person who was expected did not arrive. He was supposed to be a classy catcher and was booked to receive Mr. Deer's offerings in the Central League this year.—Lindsay Post.

The first juvenile game is called for Friday May 19th between the Athletics and the Strathconas. It is not on the scheduled list which has not been definitely fixed.

It was decided last night to launch the intermediate series of the city league on Friday May 26 with the Strathconas and Crescents leading the parade. This game will likely be played on the grounds of the Sacred Heart church.

MINNEAPOLIS TEAM SETS A NEW RECORD

Played 200 Consecutive Games Without Being Shut Out.

WORLD'S RECORD.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 11.—(Canadian Press).—The Minneapolis team of the American Association has played 200 consecutive games without being shut out. This, according to word received from Tos. J. Hickey, Association President, establishes a world record.

By scoring eight runs last Sunday, Minneapolis successfully escaped a "whitewash" for 200 games and incidentally made the tallies off the same pitcher who last let the Millers down without a run.

The last shut-out against the Millers was recorded September 17, 1920, when Ben Tincup, pitcher for Louisville, shut them out, 13 to 0.

In a congratulatory letter to Manager Joe Cantillon, President Hickey declares this is a world's record, and as far as he could ascertain, no other ball club has escaped shut-outs even for a single season.

Lacrosse

The Crescent Lacrosse team had a big work out last night and every thing looks prosperous for the South end team.

L. LeBarr in goal is a real stonewall goaler and the defence composed of H. Briouse, J. Collins, F. Girad of the Nationals of Montreal, who may reside in the city, with Creighton will be an excellent defence. Jos. Jones is a real star at centre and Gene Donovan, J. O'Toole, Mike Shea, Ranger, Killoran, onohue, Collins, Quinn and Graham, and from these the home will be picked. Len Johnson will be on hand also. Mr. A. Rose is giving the boys all encouragement. Foley and O'Connell are being replaced by Mike Shea and Fred Girad of Montreal and it is hoped these two will stay here. M. H. Halpin, president is always with the boys.

GEORGES CARPENTIER IS TOP FAVORITE.

LONDON, May 11.—(Canadian Press)—Georges Carpentier is top heavy favorite for his fight tonight with Ted Lewis for worlds' light-heavyweight championship.

SINGLE LADIES OF LAKEFIELD WIN BASEBALL

Defeat Married Ladies 22 to 21 in Fast and Exciting Game.

THE PLAYERS.

LAKEFIELD, May 11.—The ladies baseball series got away to a good start here last night when the single ladies played their married sisters on the Public School grounds and won, 22 to 21. Some exciting engagements are looked for and the ladies' fixtures will be as eagerly followed as the progress of the male leagues according to reports around L.A.A.A. headquarters. The game was umpired by R. A. Hirsch. The players were:

Single Ladies—Misses M. B. Stark, E. M. Corkery, Gladys Charlton, Rhoda Alford, Iva Windsor, Gladys Manning, Yvonne Stewart and Helen Burgess.

Married Ladies—Mesdames W. E. Gillman, E. Grier, R. A. Hirsch, E. Bogue, W. Millage, E. Millage, B. Blewet and Miss Gladys Bolton.

Baseball fans in the village are interested in the outcome of the match between McFadden's Pets and the Cup Champions which will be played on the Market Square tonight.

SOUTHPAWS WILL BE IN LIMELIGHT.

Juveniles This Season Will Have Several Port-Side Heavers on the Mound.

Port side heaving will be a feature of the juvenile ball league this season. In the opening games at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, Lakeviews will display a pair of southpaws in Whitehouse and Ash, and Maple Leafs will start off with one, this pitcher being Charley Bradley who is doing good work on the mound for the King Edward school seniors. Holy Name Society will use Sheehy, and Killoran who was expected to start with H.N.S. map be found with the Sacred Heart team. Grant Miller is down for the backstopping job with Lakeviews, and Doug. Miller has a similar assignment with the H.N.S.

The first game between Holy Name Society and Lakeviews will start at two o'clock. Both contests will start at two o'clock. Both contest willl be restricted to seven innings, and after the second fixture Jake Solomon's Central Leaguers are scheduled for action.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

Whenever the umpire rules that the pitcher has committed a balk, all base runners are entitled to advance one base. If there is a runner on third he has the right to score. There is an impression among some fans that a runner cannot score on a balk. This is wrong, as the runner on third has the same right to advance to the plate as the runner on first to second or the runner on second to third.

HOT TIME ON THE OLD BALLPARK SATURDAY

It's a getaway at the ball lot next Saturday afternoon when the managers of the teams in the juvenile series will show their wares to hungry fandom. Make no mistake—the juveniles have the good and the double-header on the bill for the afternoon pastiming will be well worth a trip to Riverside Park. Lakeviews, Holy Name Society, Sacred Heart and Maple Leafs are the entries in the series, and the winning teams at the weekend will have beaten squads of lusty hitter and good fielding.

Any old way you look, is to be seen a ring of baseball leagues around Peterborough. And the East Peterborough circuit now in it's third year, is coming stronger than ever this season. Lakefield ball tossers lacked pep last summer; but now with an Athletic Association to give support, the cement factory town will come bank with a bang. There's room for another team in this loop, and applications will be received at a meeting of the Executive at the Chamber of Commerce next Saturday night.

Baseball is in the air with Capital letters. The intermediate city leaguers are having a fine forage for players, not that the quality is lacking, but because the players want to be up with the leaders. The Canadian Generals are fancied by many fans who labor within the big plant, but wait. There are three other clubs. Classics are good picking, so are the Y.M.C.A. tossers, and the Raybestos crew not going into the game to oblige any person. It is confidently expected that this season's city league series will make up for much that has been missing in former years—and that's a mouthful.

They say George Gimblet of Hamilton, appointed chief of the local fire department in an enthusiast in athletics, and is a redhot baseball fan.

By way of adding spice of variety, the Peterboro A.A.A. are putting on their final smoker at Victoria Hall next Monday night. The boxing card is guaranteed as one that will be bloomerless. Frank Clarke has promised to lend a hand and will help in the entertainment. Mr. Clarke always a popular entertainer will fit in well, and he will have plenty of good company. The admission fee at two bits should help to draw a big crowd to the hall. The association is getting there slowly but surely, and boxing will make big stride here next fall and winter. The A.A.U. of C. is right behind the local organization and Peterboro wil be able to get the best that's going.

Soccerites are promised a tidy game at King Edward Park this evening. C.P.C. and C.G.E. are the gladiators and the Peck cup and medals are at stake.

Diamond Dust

Newark has apparently given up all hopes of ever getting anywhere in the baseball line. That city is now trying to capture the marble championship.

Lindsay's Central League team has been getting in some good practice so far this week.

The Uxbridge team, which is scheduled to play an exhibition game with Lindsay next Tuesday, was the winner of the Tri-County League last season. This game should give the fans a fairly good line on Lindsay's playing abilities.

Marmora High School is also in the eleven-runs-in-one-inning class. They turned the trick against Stirling High School, but in spite of their good work lost the game 22 to 15.

Babe Ruth will soon be in action again. He will have to do some fast work, for Ken. Williams has quite a start on him.

Oshawa and Cobourg have followed in Belleville's footsteps and filed their players' certificates for the coming season.

The Petes held a fine work out last night The biggest crowd so far this season reported to practice and they all showed up with some pretty snappy work. The next practice will be held tomorrow night.

Don't forget. The Juveniles will open the season with a whirlwind double header at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CARPENTIER AND LEWIS BOUT.

Lewis Will Be Allowed to Wear a 'Shock Absorber' For His Teeth.

LONDON, May 11.—(Canadian Press).—The fight between Georges Carpentier and Ted "Kid" Lewis in the Blackfriars' Road Arena this evening is exciting such great interest that the managers of the project have been compelled to largely increase the seating accommodations.

There has been considerable quibbling between the managers of the fighters, but all the difficulties have now been satisfactorily overcome. Lewis had been accused of being desirous to wear a "shock absorber" in the nature of a rubber tooth-protector. This he has shown to the people of the Carpentier camp, and Carpentier, finding that it was not so formidable an affair as had been rumored, has withdrawn his objection to it. The withdrawal, however, carries with it the proviso that the protector to be worn the night of the fight must be shown him in the ring before the bout

Another difficulty was the question of a referee. The boxers and the promoters finally agreed that the editor of a sporting paper should appoint the arbiter, and he has nominated J. Palmer. It had been reported that Jack Dempsey, who will witness the battle, would referee, but this proved untrue.

There still is some mystery about the weights of both men. Francois Descamps claims that Carpentier tips the scales at 165 pounds, but there is a tendency in sporting circles to believe that the light-heavyweight champion will raise the beam around 168 pounds. It is expected that Lewis will weigh in somewhere about 154 pounds.

The Owls will play the C. G. E. (League leaders) at the Oval Ground on 13th May. Kick-off at 3 p.m.—F. McKinley, referee.

The Owls will line up as follows: Burrows, Hardie, Ralston, Frost, Turner, Hosker, Burgess, Hannah, Hutton, Hotston, Hotston T., Edwards, Davey.

SEASON MAY SEE PASSING OF COBB.

The present season may mark the passing of Ty Cobb from the major leagues.

Cobb himself admits that he is slowing up. He says his legs no longer permit him to take chances on the bases as was his custom.

He says he will be forced to play a conservative game, and that is not the Cobb style. Cobb won't get much satisfaction out of that sort of a game, neither will the fans get any thrills.

Should the present season prove a "flivver") from a managerial standpoint, it will not be at all surprising if Cobb decides to pass up the national pastime.

CERTIFICATES OF THIRTY-ONE MEN HAVE BEEN FILED.

Oshawa and Cobourg Have Filed Their Certificates For Central League.

The Players.

OSHAWA, May 11.—The Oshawa baseball club filed 23 certificates for the Central Ontario League, and six of them were returned for further particulars. Those accepted were: Chas. Hall, P. S. Thompson, W. R. Belding, Arthur E. Legge, R. D. Patton, G. A. H. Whatham, W. A. Dobson, Walter Fair, M. Jacobi, all last year's players; H. V. Booth, Jack Evans, F. G. Saunders, E. Gallagher, all with Kingston Ponies in 1921; W. T. Sprague, St. Catharines; Grant Murray, Tweed; H. R. Fenton, Brighton, and A. C. McIntosh, North Bay. The pitching staff of Oshawa includes Ted Gallagher, who was offered a try-out by the Toronto pros. last year, but the Kingston boy decided to remain with the amateurs. Two of his last year's victories were registered against the champion Hillcrests of Toronto. R. P. Patton, or "Pat" as he is locally known, is still living in town, and will work well with the Kingston artist; then Saunders, also of Kingston, has worked on the slab, but is a utility player.

Cobourg registrations, with more to follow, are: V. J. Butler, K. H. Payne, H. C. Higginbotham, Al. W. Tyson, P. Baker, Jack Markey, Harry G. Forler, W. P. Skitch, H. P. Irwin, T. J. Turpin, Gerald Turpin, all last year with Cobourg; Bruce Thompson and N. Derry, of Kingston Ponies; D. H. Piper, of Toronto. Manager T. J. Turpin has Derry and Piper as slab artists, the former a right-hander on last year's Kingston Ponies with Gallagher, of Oshawa, which should make it a Limestone City old boys' reunion when the above two teams meet. Piper is a side-wheeler and worked with the Imperial Oil team, of Toronto, in 1919-1920, but was out of the game in 1921. In Tyson on the receiving end, Cobourg look to have a Class A battery for 1922. They are playing their games in Horse Show Park and open on May 24th with ceremonies equal to those at Toronto Island earlier in the year.

AT THE THEATRES

GRAND—Harry Tate in second edition of "Hullo Canada" carrying seventy London revue stars and chorus of 30 English beauties.

ROYAL—Double Programme, including Chas Jones in "Pardon My Nerve". Eileen Percy in 'Whatever She Wants". Larry Semon in "The Simple Life.'

AT THE GRAND.

Absolutely new in every particular, with refreshing song numbers and novelty comedy skits, Harry Tate and his own company of seventy London Revue stars return to the Grand on their way back to England for a farewell engagement of Hullo Canada to-night.

While making his original tour of the Dominion last fall, Harry studied the taste of the Canadian theatre devotees very carefully, with the result that in his second edition of "Hullo Canada" he has an offering that will surely suit the most epicurean of theatrical palates.

"The Critic' Mr. Tate's latest and original satire on the theatrical situation of today will be one of the newest innovations he will present, while "Motoring" and "Fishing" are still to be seen in the revue, owing to the many requests he has received asking him to repeat his London successes. Tate will give both class ics with the identical company that appeared before their majesties, the King and Queen at the Royal Command performance at the London Coliseum last season.

A distinctly different line of musical numbers will be offered by the chorus of thirty English beauties, who, under the direction of Max Olney, will be seen in some refreshing novelty offerings, the outstanding feature of which will be the unique element of surprise. One of the most sensational successes of the decade in London and Paris last season will be one of these, the renowned "Roulette' number while yet another will be "Grandma" Days", which caused a sensation in European theatricals.

In addition to the original company of seventy which delighted audiences in this city on their last appearance here, the 'Hullo Canada' company has two or three new additions to the cast. This news should stimulate interest in this attraction as many people will want to see whether the new comers have improved the revue at all, but as is the case, the production is now as perfect as any organization can possibly be.

AT THE REGENT.

"The Battle of Jutland'. A wonderful battle picture that makes you proud to be British. The most glorious episode in British Naval history clearly portrayed. A picture that everyone should see. British Sea power in all its might shown in the glorious movements of battle and victory. A picture that makes you proud to be British. The downfall of the German fleet vividly portrayed with every phase of the battle clearly shown. A picture that tells the story of Beatty's great victory showing the whole of the Great North Sea Engagement. Based on the British and German Logs and the personal testimony of officers on both sides. Leaving no question as to the Victor, ought to be seen by everybody for its dramatic power is intense.

AT THE ROYAL.

Once more let us respectfully call atention to the fact that the Royal is exclusively a moving picture house. We show pictures only and only the best pictures that money can select from the World's best producers. Our program for to-day is one of singular interest and includes a six reel Fox feature called "Pardon My Nerve' with Charles (Buck) Jones in the role of Racey Dawson. Racey is a man of the plains whose home was any place between the Rio Grande and the Dakotas. One day he happened into a saloon on the frontier where a poker game was in progress. It was evident to him that three gamblers were cheating Henry Dale, whom he learns is a ranch owner. The saloon keeper was in league with the gamblers. One of the gamblers tries to shoot a dog belonging to Marie, the ranchman's daughter. Racey saves the iittle creature but has a row with the gamblers. Next day, Dale, is persuaded by the gamblers to give them a title to his ranch in payment of gambling debts. Racey interferes, a row takes place and the ranchman is shot to death. Racey is accused of Dale's murder and the gambler's seize the ranch. Did they keep it? They did not! Did Racey marry the ranchman's daughter? Eileen Percy takes the part of Enid North, 'a modern girl" in the six reel feature called "Whatever she wants". Enid is engaged to the head partner of a big manufacturing plant. So as to be more help to her future husband she enters the plant as a stenographer to learn the business. Most of the staff, from the curly headed office boy to a hen-pecked father of six fall in love with her, but, of course, get no encouragement. She is eventualy discharged by her fiance who disapproves of her methods of learning his business. She then decides to find whether her fiance is the strictly careful man he professes to be. Then the fireworks begin, however when full explanations are made on both sides they find a mutual mistake has been made and a wedding is announced for June. There are also two rattling good comedies a Sunshine in two reels caled "West is West" and the ever comical Larry Semon in a two reel joy maker called "The Simple Life".

The entire story of "The Sheik's Wife," is told with true artistic feeling There is no villian in the hackneyed sense of the word The psychology of the sheik who loves his wife with an ancient fierceness and who tries to dominate her in true Oriental fashion, is sympathetically set forth. The character of the romantic and high-spirited girl is also skillfully etched

Many of the scenes are spectacular in the extreme The dashing mannering of the native cavalry is most colorful. These are interesting scenes in the luxurious interiors of the tent harems, views showing the Arab administering of justice and the heroine's rendevouz amid the ruins of an ancient temple The fight between the Spahis and the tribesmen reflect incomparable action and beauty

One of the big points of "The Sheik's Wife" is that the western cow-pony type of Arab steed is conspicious by its absence Every member of the large cast is mounted on real Arabian horses of long pedigree. These horses by their tapering legs and dainty hoofs, their deep chests and upstanding necks can readily be differentiated from all other breeds of horses. In that land the poorest tribesman often the owner of horse which in this country would fetch thousands off dollars. These dashing beautifully colored specimens of horseflesh give an atmosphere to this picture which could not have been secured in any other way except by a trip to Arabia itself, the home of spiendid horses.

One their spirited steeds the natives, who are more accustomed to saddles than they are to chairs, perform all sorts of daredevil feats of horsemanship—exploits that would put a western broncho buster to shame. In the film they are seen riding and managing bucking horses, engaging in spectacular cavalry manouvers, giving exhibitions of dangerous trick riding in the Cossack style, and performing a hundred other daring exploits.. Perhaps no single element lends such a touch of reality to 'The Sheik's Wife" as do these wonderful horses. They make the picture simply overflow with the atmosphere of the desert.

The First Clash of Eastern And Western Teams in Major Leagues This Week

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

East against west for the first time this year will make both champion clubs get out and hustle.

The world's champion team leads the eastern forces through the west, while the Yanks, champions of the American League, will dig in with the other eastern clubs to meet the first wave from the wild and woolly west. Both the Giants and Yanks, regarded as prospective repeaters, have had an easy time gobbling up the eastern clubs and their first test comes now, as the bulk of strength seems to be in the west in both leagues.

The Giants, hitting like trip hammers and getting fine pitching from veterans, are in a good position for the test, even if they do have to start against the tough Cards.

The Yanks are favored by the schedule, which feeds them with the White Sox and the Tigers until May 20, when Ruth and Meusel return to meet the Browns on their first appearance.

The American League, with the exception of Washington and the White Sox, is running up to expectations. Washington is next to last because of poor pitching and the inclination of the club to sympathize with itself. The White Sox are the surprise of the year and they will be a sensation if they linger long in the first division.

The Cubs and the Braves are not following the dope in the National League. Pitching troubles have the Braves in last place and fine hurling has the Cubs running up behind the Giants. The Braves can be counted upon to get together and the young pitchers of the Cubs may not last beyond the first hot spell.

The St. Louis clubs look to be the teams that have to be beaten for the pennant.

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite so happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

HERE'S FROM AN ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH
A former Canadian Minister of Finance in his Disappearing Propeller Boat

DON'T you agree that the folks who own a motor boat are the ones who get the best fun out of their vacation spent by the water? And this is just the ideal boat. In addition to our famous patented device—automatically raising the propeller to safety—these boats have some remarkable advantages. They are beautiful boats with graceful lines and elegant fittings. They are staunchly built—strong and sturdy. They are scientifically and safely built—with propeller in midships, stabilising the boat and adding to its speed. Their value is possible because we specialise in three models only and have immense production.

"THE SHEIK WIFE"
A figure attracting a great deal of attention on the street to-day is that a pure white horse that carries a rider advertising "The Sheik's Wife" at the Capitol, for the last three days of this week. In his flowing white burnoose, purple head-shawl and stiffly-embroidered green jacket, his legs encased in red and black leggins and face obscured by the Arab head-dress, it is impossible to discover to what race the horseman belongs, but the entire outfit is carried out to the smallest detail of the costume of a native Arabian tribesman.

Mr. Asa Huycke's original light operatic production to be produced in Grand Opera House, May 30 and 31st.
There are twenty six musical numbers, new scenery, costumes, electrical effects, 16-piece orchestra under the direction of W. F. Leader. The singing directed by J. H. Renwick, staging and dancing by Mrs. A. A. Perrin, Peterborough's leading singers interpret the various roles. A splendid chorus of picked choir singers and has a definite simple love story easily followed throughout the entire production.
Mr. Huycke has not been satisfied with throwing a few tunes together and trying to merely evolve a show. It took three years of concentrated effort to put this offering in presentable shape, and Mr. Huycke has no hesitation in presenting it to usually the most critical of audiences that of one's own home town. 1d 111 3186

BIGGEST SOCIAL OF THE SEASON TO BE HELD BY THE YOUNG LADIES' SODALITY, SACRED HEART CHURCH, FRIDAY EVENING MUSICAL PROGRAMME! TEN PRIZES. BOTH EUCHRE AND FIVE HUNDRED 1d 12

Colored Lace Frocks For Evening

Buy yourself a new lace frock. It's the season's uniform for evening.

Are you against the idea? Wear the dress anyway. Choose it in a style that Mrs. Smith can't possibly wear, in a color that makes Mrs. Jones look at least 10 years older.

Chantilly, Bohemian, Spanish, cire and eyelet are some of the laces you may choose. Most of them are sheer and silken—some are wool, which proves one never can tell.

If you prefer black, it will be given to you, but you'll hardly be feminine if you don't succumb to the golden and lemon yellows, the sapphires, the jade, watermelon, American beauty and periwinkle shades.

RUSSIANS REPLY TO ALLIED NOTE

Second Part of Document Makes Proposals of Financial Nature.

GENOA, May 11 (Canadian Press). — Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, of the Russian Soviet delegation, personally handed the Russian reply to the Allied memorandum to-day of Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy at the Palazzo Reale. The only other person present was Francesco Giannini, Financial Expert.

Tchitcherin said the reply had been prepared under direct instructions from Moscow.

PART ARGUMENTATIVE.
The first part of the note is argumentative, but the second half was reported to be constructive, making proposals dealing with financial questions. The note, it was stated, suggests the appointment of a new special commission by the Conference to continue negotiations after the close of the Genoa meeting.

WAITING FOR VERDICT.
The world's statesmen gathered in Genoa this morning were watching headquarters of the Russian Soviet delegation, and waiting for the Bolshevist verdict on the plan the rest of Europe devised for the restoration of Russia.
Late in the morning it was announced that the reply would not be delivered before four p.m. British headquarters quoted Lloyd-George as stating that he had not the least idea regarding the trend of the essential portions of the Russian document.

GERMAN REPARATIONS.
Developments of the morning strengthened the earlier impression that German reparations to France might play a dominating role in the settlement of the Russian question.
"It's the heart of the whole situation," said a leading statesman. "Everything goes back to that, for France wants restored France before the reconstruction of Russia or Germany."

FRANCE IS FIRM.
It was learned to-day that unofficial conversations are proceeding at Genoa on the German reparations question, in the belief that until this question is settled in a manntr to satisfy the minimum French demands, there will be no prospect of real security in Europe.
It is also learned, however, that France and her Allies are striving to reach some understanding which will remove any necessity for military action by France, which is regarded as a possibility.

FRENCH REFUSE TO ACCEPT THE RUSSIAN REPLY

Powers Are Split Into Hostile Camps as Result of the Soviets' Argumentative Document.

NOTE STIFFENED

(By Henry Wood For United Press).

GENOA, May 12.—Lloyd George to-day announced his decision to propose a ten-year military non-aggression truce for all Europe, on a basis of existing frontiers.

The Genoa conferes will be asked to become parties to this pan-European pact, regardless of the Russian muddle.

Divides the Allies.

The Russian reply has divided the Allies.

The powers which met at Cannes, and later convened the Genoa Conference as a group, to-day were split into two hostile camps as a result of the argumentative document formally presented to the Allied conferes by M. Tchitcherin yesterday.

The French refuse to accept the reply, and will withdraw from further discussion of the Russian problem, they announce.

The British and Italians wish to accept the reply and go on with the discussion of other phases of the Russian problem not barred by the recalcitrant tone of the Soviet note.

Fate of Conference.

The fate of the Genoa Conference hung in the balance while the confreres waited to hear from Paris. Premier Poincare has declared the Russian reply "completely unsatisfactory," but the question agitating Genoa was whether the French delegation would be recalled. It was believed that the French would confine their withdrawal to ceasing to participate in discussions of the Russian problem.

Lloyd George and Barthou had a lengthy private conference last night. Lloyd George himself declared the pact depended upon the successful solution of the Russian problem.

Severe Document.

As for the Soviet reply itself, it was much more severe than any of the authoritative forecasts which were so widely published. In fact it resembled them very little.

It renewed its demands for a large loan and for payment of damage done by counter revolutions headed by Denekin, Wrangel, Koltchak and other white Russians.

The Russian note also withdrew outright the recognition of Russia's pre-war debts which had at first been agreed to by Tchitcherin.

While the note had in spots been modified by the Russians, due to Senator Schanzer's intervention on Wednesday, it had also been stiffened entirely beyond Allied expectations, due to wireless instructions from Lenine.

One Hopeful Touch.

The one hopeful touch in the entire document, which covered eighteen pages, was the proposal for a joint commission to study the financial differences existing between the Soviet Government and the Allies.

Upon this proposal Lloyd George and the Italians pin their hopes for continuing the conference. While the British would not say so, it is believed they are preparing to go ahead with this commission, even if the French withdrew. They are waiting, however, for France to act.

The French are now claiming they are not particularly interested in the Russian answer, since they did not sign the Allied note to which it replies.

Airmen Fell Into Sea, Were Rescued

LISBON, May 12 (Canadian Press). — The Portuguese airmen, Captains Continho and Sacadura, who attempted to complete their transatlantic flight yesterday in a Fairey hydro-aeroplane, fell into the sea between St. Paul Rocks and Fernando Noronha, and were rescued by the British steamer City of Paris.

The aviators started from the Island of Fernando Noronha yesterday at noon (Greenwich mean time), and planned to fly eastward to St. Paul Rocks, where their first atempt failed, and then return to Fernando Noronha and proceed to Brazil.

In this way they would have flown the entire distance from Portugal to Brazil by air.

A JUDGE'S WIFE IN AUTO CHASE

Stepped on the Gas in Hot Pursuit of Car Thief

NEW YORK, May 12. — Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Kelby and Mrs. Kelby helped to capture a man who, after a chase of a mile, was put under arrest as an automobile thief. In telling the story to friends in his chambers in the Appellate Division, Justice Kelby awarded the laurels to his wife.

"I had an inconsiderable part in the affair," he said. "Mrs. Kelby and I went for a little ride. Mrs. Kelby was at the wheel of our touring car and we were going through Fourth Avenue on our way to our home at 923 President Street. As we approached the subway station at Thirty-Sixth Street we saw a man lighting a cigarette. As we drew near he ran to the side of our car and asked to be permitted to ride on the running board.

"Mrs. Kelby slowed the car down and the man sprang aboard. Quickly he told us that a car some distance ahead belonged to him and had been stolen at Coney Island on Sunday. He asked us to speed after the car so that he could recover it. I told Mrs. Kelby to step on the gas and our car shot out in pursuit. At Sixteenth Street we slowed down to take a policeman on board and then resumed the chase. At Tenth Street we drew alongside of the pursued car and Mrs. Kelby gradually forced the driver in against the curb. The policeman leaped from our car to the other and after it was positively identified by the man who claimed to own it the policeman placed the driver under arrest.

"This is the second time that Mrs. Kelby has figured in such an experience. Some years ago she was driving a trotting horse of considerable speed when a street sweeper working near our home was injured by a passing automobile which did not stop. Mrs. Kelby realized the situation and gave chase with the trotter. She caught the automobile and was surprised to find that the driver was one of our friends. He did not know that his auto had hurt the street cleaner."

The man who identified his stolen car was Michael Sanzo, of 841 Third Avenue. The prisoner was Frederick Kelly, 27, who gave an address on West Fifteenth Street, Manhattan. In the Coney Island Police Court he told Magistrate Jacob Eilperin that a stranger had given him the car for nothing.

"I think you ought to be put in jail before somebody offers you the city Hall," answered the Magistrate as he held Kelly in $25,000 bail on a charge of grand larceny for a hearing.

CLIMBS WALL LIKE A HUMAN FLY, AND ROBS

Big Negro Scales House Front and Plunders a New York Home of $3,000.

LEAVES PAPERS

NEW YORK, May 12.—Frederick Brown, a prominent real estate operator, and his wife, Mrs. Rose Brown, were robbed of $60 and jewelry worth more than $3,000 at their home 285 Central Park West, near Eighty-ninth street, by a big negro burglar, believed to be the same who recently plundered many homes of wealthy residents of the upper west side. The burglar answers the general description of the man who was subdued with logic by Miss Sadie Kline, a Smith College graduate, when she faced the burglar in the library of her home, 315 West Ninety-eight street, near Riverside Drive, ten days ago. The intruder had awakened her with a flashlight.

The apartment of the Browns on the second floor was entered by the burglar, who climbed the wall like a 'human fly" and found an open window facing the street. Similiarly the second floor apartment of the Klines was entered through a window opened upon the street.

"Mrs. Brown was awakened about 4 o'clock in the morning," explained Mr. Brown at his offices in the Strauss Building, 565 Fifth Avenue. "She thinks she must have been aroused by the flashlight in the hands of the burglar rather than by any noise, may he have made. She said that the first thing she remembered after awakening was a light gleaming in her face, apparently reflected from a mirror of the bureau on the opposite side of the room.

Awakens Husband With Nudge

"She acted very sensibly and remained quiet while she nudged me in the side. I awoke with a start saw in the dark the outline of a big man standing near the bed, and gave way to my first impulse to shout at the burglar.

"He spoke very coolly when he gave us his first warning, saying:

" 'Keep quiet. I won't hurt you Just give up and everything will be all right.' "

The real estate operator told how the negro burglar had taken $60 from a wallet in Mr. Brown's coat pocket, had taken also a gold fountain pen valued at $100 and then demanded jewelry.

Mrs. Brown removed a ring from a finger of her left hand. The ring set with diamonds and other precious stones, was bought for $3,000 by Mr. Brown for his wife when the two were touring Japan several years ago.

Leaves Metal Box Untouched

"The burglar's eyes fell upon a metal box and he asked me for the key", said Mr. Brown. "When I assured him that the box contained nothing but insurance policies and other documents of value to no one but myself, he took my word for it and started to leave the apartment through the window by which he had entered.

"He slipped over the windowsill walked out upon the ledge and suspended himself there for a moment before he dropped to the pavement"

Mr. Brown ran down to the street in night attire just as the burglar turned the corner at Eighty-ninth street. A policeman approaching from the opposite direction was told of the burglary and gave chase Mr. Brown said that detectives came to his house promptly to investigate the crime, and within half an hour they returned there with a negro the Browns were unable positively to identify.

The prisoner was arrested by Detectives Donnelly and Davis of the West 100th Street Station, who found him at 2 West Ninetieth street with a bag in which he carried a chicken. The negro gave his name as George Naudain and said he lived with a brother, a janitor at a house in West Eighty-sixth St near Columbus Avenue.

PRIVATE SESSION

TORONTO, May 12—(Canadian Press).—Convention of Brotherhood of railroad trainmen was engaged yesterday in private session in considering changes to the constitution.

MILK REDUCED IN PRICE LOWER THAN FOR 5 YEARS

Peterborough Dealers Make a General Reduction —Milk Now Selling at 5 Cents a Pint and 10 Cents a Quart Straight

Local milk dealers have made a general reduction in the price of their product, which is now selling at ten cents per quart This is the lowest point that milk has reached in the last five years, but some of the dealers anticipate another raise next winter. However, as long as the price is down during the summer months, local housewives will probably make no complaint.

Mr G. A. Gillespie informed the Examiner that the first decision of local men placed the price at eleven and six cents, with a reduction to 10 1-2 cents per quart for ticket buyers A further consideration regarded this as a discrimination against the small purchaser, without money to buy a qauntity of tickets at a time, and the price was consequently made ten and five straight.

Carried West to Middle Line Between Bethune and Stewart Streets — Other Clauses Show Minor Changes—R. H. Parsons Is Building Inspector.

Wall Board Mentioned.

In the revised building by-law which the Council "accepted as read" on the recommendation of the Property Committee, one of the important changes is the extension of the boundary of the fire limits. This area, as now defined, is bounded on the west by the Otonabee River, on the south by the centre line of Dalhousie Street, on the north by the centre line of Dublin Street, and on the west by the half-way line between Bethune and Stewart Streets.

Another clause states that no person shall be entitled to use any part of any public street for construction purposes or storage of material until he shall have received a permit from the City Engineer, specifying the extent to which such street may be used (not exceeding one-third of the total width thereof in any case, and specifying also the work to be done, the precautions to be taken by the person using the street to ensure the safety and convenience of the public and the length of time the permit shall be in force.

Encroachments.

No building or any part or projection on a building shall encroach on or over the street at any point less than 10 feet above the curb level; above this such parts, not including the main walls of the building, as may be approved by the Building Inspector, may extend not more than 15 inches outside the said building line.

No areaway, vault, opening, coal or manhole shall be constructed on the street until application has been made through the Building Inspector to the City Council for permission to use the street for such purpose. If the Council grants such permission, the owner or owners of the property in front of which the areaway, vault, opening, coal or manhole is to be built shall sign an agreement with the Corporation by which the said owner or owners shall assume all responsibility for accidents or damage that may occur either during construction of the said work on the street, and shall pay such annual rental for the same as may be fixed by the Council. When the above agreement has been properly executed, the Building Inspector shall issue a permit authorizing the construction of the said areaway or vault.

The design of the said areaway, vault, opening, coal or manhole shall be satisfactory to the Building Inspector.

All areaways, vaults, openings, coal or manholes heretofore constructed, as well as those authorized under this by-law, may be continued in use until the permission therefor is revoked by the Council. The owners or occupiers of the property in connection with which the said areaways, etc., exist shall keep such areaways, etc., in good and sufficient repair, and the Building Inspector shall report to the Council all such areas, etc., which are out of repair so that the Council may be in a

The Grain Trains Are Moving Again

The movement of grain overseas from the elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William via Midland has started according to J. A. MacNab, G.T.R. agent although the trains have been running lightly so far With the opening of navigation the grain is coming down the lakes and put into cars at Midland The grain trains work their way as best they may from there to Montreal having to take second place to schedule trains.

On account of a policy of economy this year the G.T.R. does not contemplate having many gangs of men on the road but later on Mr McNab said blasting will have to be carried on. No definite word has come through about repair work on the line this year.

PREFERS HOME IN DOMINION TO ONE IN ENGLAND

Conditions in Old Country Are in a Deplorable Shape Says Ex-Alderman Frank Whitehouse

BUT LITTLE WORK

Mr. Frank Whitehouse, who returned to the city this week after an absence of three months, has no desire whatever, evidently, to exchange his Canadian home for an English one, at the present time.

Conditions in English, according to Mr. Whitehouse, are in a deplorable state. His business took him into many different parts of the island, and the outstanding feature which appears to have impressed him most strongly is the gradual sapping of the morale of the workers, due principally, in the opinion of different authorities, to the "dole" system.

The traditional sturdiness of the British workman, a national boast for many generations, has become almost a thing of the past. In the place of this brawny laborer appears the man who does not want to work, and will not work, who will, in many instances, refuse the offer of employment bringing in a fair wage because he is at the present time getting almost as much from the State while idle. An illustration of the prevalence of a desire to live on the country and make no return for support was given in a British publication which showed a picture of a British ship sent into the dockyards for repairs. An advertisement appealing to the striking engineers to do the work on this ship, amounting to some £27,000, and prevent it from being sent out of the country for repairs, was followed shortly afterwards by another picture of the same ship leaving for foreign dockyards for the necessary work which British labor refused to handle. Strikes amongst workmen are upsetting the whole fabric of the industrial life of the nation. Mr. Whitehouse declared that long lines of men waiting for their "doles" might be witnessed at any time, with the saloons and the race tracks reaping much of the benefit of the country's ill-advised paternalism. Groups of men who have no work, and yet receive sufficient money to maintain life, are gathered on every street-corner, and the police seem powerless to send them about their business, as in times past. These discontented, idle men gather in knots and groups, to discuss their grievances against everything in general. Lloyd George, so long a popular and romantic figure to the majority of the people, is suffering a waning of his hold on their esteem.

A feature that impressed Mr. Whitehouse very much was the motor 'bus and transport systems, which have been brought to such perfection in England, with the accompanying good roads that the people realize are necessary to the automobile traffic, which has come to stay. The motor 'busses touch every town without street-car service, and a man may travel from one end of the "tight little island" to the other, from the extreme south to Blackpool in the north, by motor 'bus, in convenient, reasonably-priced fashion. The motor transport system has also been definitely organized. The Motor Association maintains bureaus where lists are kept of manufacturers and private individuals having goods to be transported from one centre to another. This information is available at all times, so that a motor truck travelling from Glasgow, for example, will be able to pick up loads to any point of its return journey.

Women chauffeurs are plentiful in England, not only drivers of private cars, but of wagons and light trucks also, for the manufacturing establishments.

Mr. Whitehouse reports many enquiries made about Canada, which, according to general English opinion, as expressed to him, is regarded as the premier of England's colonies, and the objective of many Englishmen dissatisfied with conditions in their native land. But Mr. Whitehouse was careful of advising them about coming to the country under present conditions.

Coal Supply is Still Plentiful

"I never saw anything so quiet" remarked a local coal dealer today regarding the coal strike. "Things are going fine and a great deal depends on the newspapers not starting a panic If they began urging the people to stock up, the yards would be cleaned out in no time.' As it is, he said, there is as fair reserve being held in local yards. It is impossible to buy coal now from the companies. Consumption however has fallen off to a minimum and the situation is such as to arouse no anxiety. If the strike continues it will be time enough for the people to begin to worry in the fall he said. Prices have not changed. Wood is plentiful and is being used to conserve the coal reserves

Locally the factories have considerable reserves and so little coal is used that the situation is not causing any alarm. According to the railways they have not noticed a shortage of coal yet and if it were not for the absence of coal trains there would be no indication that the mines are shut down.

LLOYD GEORGE TO GUIDE GENOA SHIP

Will Endeavor to Steer to Port Shorthanded

LONDON, May 12. — Canadian Press. — A Genoa despatch says that if the French and the Belgian delegations withdraw, Lloyd George will remain and endeavor to work the ship to port with a short handed crew.

AN INDICTMENT.

GENOA, May 12. — Canadian Press. — "It is less an answer than an indictment of powers, coupled with a flat refusal to reply to questions put to them," said M. Barthou last night, in commenting on the Soviet reply. He added that he had telegraphed the document to Paris and expected to receive instructions from his government today.

DESIRE FOR PEACE.

GENOA, May 12. Canadian Press —For all its argumentation, the Russian note does show a real desire for settlement and peace. Therefore in the British view it does provide an adequate basis for a demonstration of effort to bring about the political settlement of Europe. The reconstruction of Russia can get far, for the Russians are clearly anxious to continue the economic discussion. This is also the Italian view. What the French think can easily be surmised. Their delegation here is retired and is evidently waiting a signal from Paris.

LEAVES DOOR OPEN.

The fate of Genoa may be indicated by the result of the French Cabinet's discussion of the Russian reply to the allied memorandum, and Premier Poincare's communication is awaited with the utmost anxiety.

Premier Lloyd George and Italian Foreign Minister Schanzer have used all their influence with M. Barthou to impress upon him that the Russian note, although not as favorable as was hoped, still leaves the door open for profitable discussion, and perhaps for a general agreement.

McLAUGHLIN RECORD.

A Brown & Co. report exceptional activity in car buying. Five new cars and one used car is the record of one day's sale. The confidence that the McLaughlin-Buick has created in the minds of the buying public is a real sales producer. It just goes to show that a car can only reach the present point of perfection of the McLaughlin-Buick motor by a persistent development, based on years of experience of the needs and requirements of the motoring public.

Better cars are being made, and McLaughlin still leads.

P. L. ALLISON AT HEAD ENGINEERS PETERBORO CITY

Re-elected Hon. Chairman of Local Branch of Engineering Institute of Canada.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada for the election of officers for the ensuing year was held last night in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was attended by Mr. Fraser S. Keith, the general secretary of the Institute.

Mr. P. L. Allison, the retiring chairman, in his address, pointed out the healthy condition of the branch in spite of the fact that the past year has been one of great depression. He said that the meetings of the branch had been well attended by the public, particularly in cases where papers of popular interest were read; that our efforts, he said, to interest and instruct the public on technical subjects had been appreciated is shown by an editorial which appeared in The Examiner of 8th April, and entitled "A Live Organization."

Mr. Allison expressed the opinion that the branch should endeavour to have more papers of knowledge read during the coming year, rather than those of more technical type. Papers, for instance, on scientific subjects of public interest on matters connected with public health, city planning, transportation, etc., and it should be the aim to have these meetings widely advertised so that a good attendance of the general public would be assured. It is one of the objects of this Institute to enhance the usefulness of the profession to the public, and to this end the engineers as a class should participate actively in all general problems which affect the public welfare, and not confine their activities entirely to technical matters.

Mr. Allison thanked the various committees for the willing and capable way in which they assisted him in making the activities of the branch a success.

Important Activities.

Mr. Allison called attention to the important engineering work which had been carried on in Peterborough and vicinity during the past year, enumerating some of the most important ones:

The new filtration plant which is now giving to the people of Peterborough pure, filtered water, was completed and put into operation this year. This plant is under the able construction of our waterworks superintendent, Mr. R. L. Dobbin, one of the members of the branch, and a member of the Council of the Institute, consulting engineer for the work being Wm. Kennedy, Jr., M.E. I.C., of Montreal.

At the plant of the Canadian General Electric Company two monster electric generators of 45,000 K.W. capacity each, the largest in the world, were designed and built for the Queenston development of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Powre Commission. These were designed by Mr. B. L. Barns, A.M.E.I.C., and Mr. F. Bowness, A.M.E.I.C., both members of our branch. Many other electrical machines and apparatus of lesser proportion have also been built at the Canadian General Electric Works during the past year, including 200 55-h.p. railway motors for the Toronto Transportation Commission.

Mr. Parsons, M.E.I.C., city engineer, and past chairman, is now preparing plans for the activated sludge type sewage disposal plant for this city, which will be the largest plant of this type in Canada.

Plans are now being prepared for a new lighting system and sub-station by Mr. Fisk, M.E.I.C., manager of the Utilities Commission, and the distribution system for the city electric power and light, is being rebuilt.

The Department of Railways and Canals have erected dams at Nassau, Lakefield, and two on the tributary storage system of the Trent Canal. They have also prosecuted the dredging operations in the Otonabee River in order to make

IF you are lucky enough to have an asparagus bed of your own and it is big enough to more than supply your table, try canning some for winter use.

Asparagus is one of the best vegetables to can. It keeps well after canning and requires little preparation for canning.

Pint jars are preferable to quarts for asparagus as the stalks pack better in the smaller jar.

To Can Asparagus.

Cut off the tough ends of each stalk. Wash carefully and remove large scales from stalks. Blanch, cold dip and pack one jar at a time. Put enough stalks to fill one can in a cheesecloth square. Tie loosely to keep the asparagus from breaking.

Plunge into boiling water and boil 15 minutes. Remove from boiling water and plunge immediately into cold water.

Do not let stand in cold water. Drain. Pack in sterilized jars. Add one-half teaspoon salt to a pint jar and fill the jar to within one-quarter inch from the top with boiling water.

Put on can rubber. Put can cover half way on. Place in canner and boil two hours. Count the time after the water begins to boil again. The jars will cool the water a few degrees below the boiling point.

At the end of two hours remove from boiler, finish screwing down top and cool quickly. Store in a dark, cool place. Light will cause the asparagus to loose its color.

To half seal a screw top jar turn the cover with the thumb and little finger as far as possible.

To half seal a spring top jar put the cover in place and adjust the top bail. Do not clamp the lower bail around the jar.

If you prefer to can the tops for salad and the ends for soup cut the tips in two-inch lengths. The new flat glass jars are very satisfactory to use for the tips.

To Can Asparagus Tips.

Wash tips very carefully. Put enough to fill a pint jar in a cheesecloth square and tie loosely. Blanch the tips in steam.

To do this put the asparagus tied in the cheesecloth in a colander over a large kettle of boiling water. Of course, a steamer is easier to use, but the colander answers the purpose.

Steam 10 minutes. The delicate flavor is retained by this method and there is less danger of crushing the tender tips.

After blanching plunge into cold water. Drain. Pack in jar, add one-half teaspoon salt and fill with boiling water to within one-quarter inch of the top. Half seal cover and boil one and one-half hours. The water must cover the jars by at least two inches.

Always count the time of boiling from the time the boiling begins after the jars are put in the boiler. Remove from boiler, finish sealing and cool quickly.

Remember that the speed with which you work counts for much in the keeping of vegetables or fruit.

The jars must be perfectly sterilized before being packed and a vacuum must be formed during the canning. These two conditions insure "keeping."

CYCLONE DOES GREAT DAMAGE NEAR WINNIPEG

Farm Property Destroyed and Telephone and Transmission Lines Are Down.

NONE KILLED.

WINNIPEG, May 12.—(Canadian Press)—Great damage to farm property, power transmission lines, which supply the City of Winnipeg, telephone and telegraph lines resulted from the cyclone which swept over the districts of Sinnott, Lydiatt and Golden Bay, about thirty miles east of this city, yesterday afternoon. Damage to farm property is estimated at $25,000, while at Lydiatt twelve towers on the Winnipeg Electric Railway Power Line were twisted level to the ground, and twenty two towers of the City Hydro-Electric were destroyed within a mile. No lives were lost, although many persons had miraculous escapes and several were injured .

CAR LICENSE FEES MAY BE INCREASED.

TORONTO, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. F. C. Biggs' bill providing for the raising of twenty-five million dollars for road construction by the capitalizing of two million dollars annually of revenue from motor licenses was passed by the Legislature in committee after a long debate last night. The bill was attacked by Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Hon. G. S. Henry and Hon. Thomas Crawford, and was not approved by Wellington Hay. Ending the debate, Mr. Biggs intimated that it was the intention of the Government to increase motor license fees when the good roads system got fairly under way.

LITTLE PROGRESS ON DEFENCE BILL

The Senate Spent Whole Sitting on the Bill. In Committee Again To-Day.

FOR ECONOMY.

OTTAWA, May 12.—(Canadian Press.)— The Senate spent the whole of yesterday's sitting on the National Defence Bill and made little progress. The clause creating a financial controller was struck out but afterwards allowed to stand for further discussion. All the other causes under discussion were carried over and this bill will be in committee again to-day.

Sir James Lougheed contended that the bill was a clear evasion of the Civil Service Act, and a contradiction to the policy of the Government that the merger was in the interests of economy. Unnecessary offices, were being created and he asked what was the Deputy Minister of National Defence going to do?

Senator Dandurand replied that the new office had received the approval of two former Ministers of Militia in the late Government. It would co-ordinate a great many offices in the three branches of defence and make for economy and efficiency.

OPERATORS PAID SMALL DIVIDENDS BUT HIGH WAGES

BIG INCREASE.

FERNIE, B.C., May 12.—(Canadian Press.—W. F. Wilson, President of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, operating the largest steam coal mines in district 18, U.M.W., declared in his evidence yesterday before the Knowles Conciliation Board on an actual investment of $6,200,000 the average divid end paid between 1910 and 1921 was 2.46 per cent and before that date 2 per cent. In Mr. Wilson's opinion ths return was not encouraging to capital. His company, he said had been crowded out of the Manitoba market by Virginia and Pennsylvania coal produced under lower operatng costs. If the Crow's Nest field therefore hoped to continue operations and dispose of its output, it must, he said, reduce coal costs through a general reduction of operating expenses. Mr. Wilson stated that the average daily wage paid a contract miner in 1921 was $9.13; an increase since 1910 of 125.52 per cent. Day work miners in 1921 received an average of $7.75 an increase of 152.57 per cent. The average general increase of all employes in all classifications reached 144.50 per cent.

CANADA WILL NOT OBJECT TO U.S. FISHERMEN

May Use Canadian Ports Under War-Time Agreement Pending Decision on Fordney Bill.

NO RETALIATION.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 12. — (Canadian Press). — Pending the outcome of the controversy in the United States Congress over the Fordney permanent tariff bill, no opposition will be offered by the Fishing interests of Eastern Canada to the Canadian Government issuing licenses to American fishing vessels allowing them the use of Canadian ports under the same conditions as under the war-time agreement of February, 1918, although the United States abrogated its part of agreement last year.

This was decision reached at a meeting here of representatives of many of the import lish firms doing business in Quebec and the Maritime provinces. It is in accord with the recommendations recently made to the Ottawa Government by the Mariime members of parliament. Some of the fish merchants present were strong for urging the Canadian Govement to adopt retaliatory measures of the fish schedules of the Fordney Tariff Bill were adopted in their present form. Others, engaged exclusively in the salt fish business, though there was little need to worry whether the Fordney Tariff was adopted or amended; but they intimated that they would be ready o reconsider he question of opposing the grant of port privileges to American fishermen if the Fordney Bill went through in its present form.

INDIAN OFFICERS MAY IMMIGRATE TO WEST CANADA

Two Thousand Will Be Demobilized Under the Scheme For Reduction of Army.

FREE PASSAGE.

LONDON, May 12 (Canadian Press). — Under the scheme for the reduction of the Indian Army, about two thousand wartime subalterns and captains will receive fairly substantial gratuities and other compensation, according to their rank in the service.

Moreover, they are granted free passes, with their families, to any British Empire port.

Reuter's learns that in the latter connection the India Office directed inquiries to the Dominion and Colonial authorities regarding prospects for such settlers.

The Canadian Superintendent of Emigration thought British Columbia offered the most favourable opportunities for settlement, and Agent-General Wade of British Columbia recommended a project in the South Okanagan.

Officers from British Columbia, the South African Memorial Association, and the Victorian Government have been in India to explain and advance their respective schemes.

The India Office in London has forwarded all information and reports to India for dissemination among those concerned.

BEST METHODS OF STORING AND MARKETING FRUIT ARE DISCUSSED IN THE HOUSE

Report is Made on Results Obtained From Small Cold Storage Plants.

BRITISH MARKETS.

TORONTO, May 12—W. I. Bragg (Durham West) yesterday afternoon presented an impo tant report to the house on the apple industry. Heading a committee which for the past year has been investigating this question and coming himself from one of the leading apple producing counties of the province, his resume of the report created a great deal of interest in the legislature. A feature of the investigations was that the important thing about storing apples is to get them chilled to slightly above freezing point within from 24 to 36 hours after they come from the trees. This is more imporant than that they should be kept cold later on. This means small cold storages near the markets. A storage plant was conducted at Brighton last summer with excellent results not only financially but in getting apples to the consumers. Apples shipped from it gave good satisfaction. It turned out that celery kept better from being chilled immediately it is taken from the garden. Five thousand baskets of plums were kept in the storage for over a month, the market price advancing in that time from 20 cents to a $1.25

Scientific Methods.

The report urges the federal government to take steps to assist in scientific handling of fruit, better shiping facilities and steps to count eract unfavourable conditions in the British market, suggesting that the privincial governments of the Dominion co-operate in this

The thanks of the house were expressed to Mr. Bragg by Hon. Howard Ferguson, H. H. Dewart and Hon Manning Doherty. Mr. Doherty said he had been in communication for sometiem with teh federal minister of agriculture to have the subsidies now given to cold storages extended to those owned by co-operative companies of fruit growers .He had every confidence that the act would be extended to provide for this.

Organize Companies.

Mr. Doherty said he was convinced that the only way for Ontario to deal with the apple industry was first to organize strong co-operative companies of fruit growers to guaran tee the grading and proper storage of the fruit. Then the most adequate shipping facilities and the best time for shipping should be worked out. Finally when this had been put on a strong basis they should attack the adverse circumstances in the British market . The great difficulty over there is that there is no way ofregulating the supply. The minister explained that the day he visited the exchange in Liverpool, 10,000 barrels of Canadian apples were thrown the British market He had instructed the province's agent general in England to make provision so that this season when large quantities of Canadian apples arrive, Onatrio aples be placed in public cold storage there to avoid a slump in prices.

The presence of so many British Columbia and western states appple in the fruit stores of Ontario cities to the exclusion of fruit from this province has caused no little concern in the Ontario apple districts This was evidenced in today's discussions.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate winds; fair and warm.

ASQUITH WANTS CANTEEN MONEY ACCOUNTED FOR

Also Wants the Present System of Army Canteens Done Away With.

GRAVE SCANDAL.

LONDON, May 12 (Canadian Press). — An association has been formed under the presidency of Lord Askwith to protest against Government trading as practised by the Army, Navy, and Air Force Institute.

The secretary of the association, in the course of a statement, says the objects are to compel the authorities to account for "millions of money" made by the expeditionary force canteens during the war, and to insist on the abolition of the present system of trading which, it is contended, has developed into a "grave national scandal."

It is urged that the canteen profits belonging to the men be transferred to the United Services Fund, and that the canteen administration revert to the system advocated by the Rotherham Regimental Canteens Committee in 1913.

COFFIN HELD ONLY BRICKS IN PLACE OF INFANT'S BODY

Remains of Child Had Been Buried Earlier By Mistake and Forgotten.

DIED IN DECEMBER.

MONTREAL, May 12.—Opening the lid of a little white coffin in Cote Des Neiges cemetery yesterday for a last look at their dead baby, the parents of Albert Marsan were astonished and horrified to find that instead of containing the body of their offspring, the tiny coffin was empty save for a few bricks packed in sawdust. The distracted parents went to the undertaker and finally the truth was discovered and the matter reported to the police.

The child's father, it appears, made arrangements for the burial of his infant shortly after its death in December.

The body was conveyed to a north end undertaker's establishment to be kept there until the spring, when interment was to take place.

The remains were placed in a mortuary chamber and forgotten by the undertaker's assistants. About two months later a new employer saw the body, and thinking that it had been forgotten, put it in a coffin with another baby's body which was to be buried shortly. The burial of both children was therefore simultaneous, and the affair forgotten. Last Tuesday the father of Albert Marsan visited the establishment, and informed the undertaker that he wished to have his child buried yesterday. The employees were dumbfounded when they realized their mistake, but fearing to confess they filled a coffin with four bricks hoping that it would not be opened.

IRISH WILL TAKE STERNER ACTION TO STOP CRIME

Announcement is Made in the House of Lords That Necessary Measures Will Be Taken.

LONDON, May 12.—(Canadian Press)-Lord Birkenhead's announcement in the House of Lords that the Irish Provisional Government might be expected shortly to take sterner measures for the suppression of disorder and the maintenance of its own authority has aroused much comment. It is assumed that Lord Birkenhead spoke with definite knowledge of the intentions of Michael Collins, head of the Provisional Government, and Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail Eireann, and it is inferred that they now feel themselves strong enough to take vigorous action in the near future .

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists everywhere.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womankind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Perscription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's, called An-uric (for kidneys and backache), has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefits received—that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package of any of his remedies.

OFFICERS MAKE BIG ROUND-UP OF LIQUOR STILLS

Local Men Conduct Successful Raid in County of Sommerville.

NO ARRESTS.

LINDSAY, May 12.—(Special to Examiner)—Inland Revenue Officer W. H. Buller and License Inspector Joseph Stewart of Peterboro arrived in town last evening on the Haliburton train, after having effected the biggest cleanup in connection with the illicit manufacture of liquor in the north country. Twenty two packages of mash used in the manufacture of illicit spirits bear testimony to the results of their labors.

The scene of the clean up was in the township of Sommerville, and some seven or eight miles from Kinmount It was an ideal spot for illicit operations The operators of the plant were not gathered in, however, but this will be accomplished later on

This plant served a wide territory which included Kinmount, Burntriver, Coboconk and other centres. It was at one time located in Galway township, Peterboro county on teh limits of the old McDonald Lumber Company (

The officers are well pleased with their two days work and believe they have dealt a body blow to illicit operations in the north country)

CHANGES MADE IN PORT REGULATIONS

Montreal Will Permit Grain to Be Loaded in Bulk in Three-Deck Vessels.

SAME AS NEW YORK.

MONTREAL, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—The question of altering the grain reguiations in force at the Port of Montreal was fully discussed at a meeting here yesterday between the Grain Clearance Board and the Port Warden's Committee when it was decided to permit the loading of grain in bulk to the lower holds and 'tween decks of three-deck vessels instead of compelling the grain in the 'tween decks to be bagged as in the past. The change elminates the expense of bagging the grain which often runs into a sum of several thousand dollars per freighter ,and the decision places the port of Montreal on the same basis in this respect as those of New York and other American cities.

FLOOD WATERS STILL THREATEN WESTERN CITIES

Poplar Point in Danger of Being Isolated. Reaburn Under Several Feet of Water.

WATER RISING.

WINNIPEG, May 12.—(Canadian Press)—The flood situation along the Assiniboine River between this city and ortage la Prarie has assumed grave proportiosn overnight with a steady rise reported from several districts, ranging from four to eight inches.

The town of Reaburn is under water for several feet, while Marquet and Iberville settlements will be out if the waters do not abate druing the next ten hours .The flood waters are also nearing Pigeon Lake and Poplar Point. At Poplar Point the waters are now within half a mile of the town and the town itself which is situated on high ground if the waters continue to rise, will be an island, cut of from oustide communication.

No loss of life has yet been reported but many families in the Reaburn and Iberville districts have been forced to vacate their homes. Marquette is sheltering about a dozen families from Reaburn.

ONE MAN'S EXAMPLE.

While big schemes of reforestation are a national and provincial duty, and the counties can do much to help along the line inaugurated by Simcoe county, it should not be forgotten that individual Canadians have a responsibility towards the problem of reforestation, and that they can accomplish a great deal. For instance, Dr. Mackechnie is having 2000 pine seedlings set out on the land near his cottage at Crowe's Lake, obtaining the seedlings from the Ontario Forestry Department. These have been found to grow rapidly and Dr. Mackechnie will eventually have a fine grove of pines. There is no doubt that many farmers in this section of Ontario might profitably follow his example. They own quantities of waste land that is at present of little use but that by reforestation could be converted into a valuable asset in the years to come. The Examiner would suggest to the Farmers' Clubs of this district that they should seriously consider and discuss the whole question of reforestation; it would prove a valuable topic for their consideration.

A LIFE FOR A DOLLAR.

Few Canadians, except a few Red agitators, see anything to admire in the Russian system of government, and they resent the fact that Russia deserted the allies in the world war. Nevertheless the people of this country are contributing generously to the fund that is being collected on behalf of the starving children of Russia. They feel that the crimes of their elders should not be visited upon the innocent youngsters, and they have been moved to pity by the harrowing stories of the suffering in the famine districts of Russia. Mr. Robert Stead, well known Canadian author, who was here not long ago in conection with the Save-the-Children Fund, had a collection of photographs with him upon which nobody could gaze unmoved. They told more vividly than mere words could possibly do, of the of the terrible condition existing in parts of Russia. If they could be widely distributed the Examiner does not hesitate to say that no other apepal on behalf of this fund would be necessary, and it is to be hoped that those who did not see them will not only subscribe themselves but will tell their friends about these pictures. Peterboro up to the present has not been called upon except in a general way, to assist this humane movement, but the matter is now being brought to the attention of the attention of the citizens, a local committee, with J. J. Duffus, president, and J. W. Fraser, of the Bank of Nova Scotia as treasurer, having the work in hand. The money is needed urgently, and is needed at once. A dollar subscription will provide food for one starving child for a month. $500 will establish a kitchen and feed one hundred children until the next harvest. How many Peterboro people are willing to invest a dollar to save a life?

THE BURWASH SHOOTING.

In Woodstock, and possibly elsewhere, there is considerable indignation over the shooting of a young prisoner who was attempting to escape from Burwash, and a petition is being circulated demanding an official probe into the case. That there should be sympathy with the relatives and friends of the unfortunate young man is not surprising but there does not seem to be any real foundation for the censure that is being directed at the guards. The latter are there to prevent escapes. In this particular case there is no evidence that they were over-zealous in the carrying-out of their duty. The victim of the Burwash shooting disregarded orders to stop, continued to try to escape after warning shots had been fired at him, and had reached the bush, when the guards took aim at him, and shot to stop him. He must have known the chances he was taking but he ignored them in the hope that he would win his way to freedom. The blame for his death is upon his own shoulders, not upon the men who are there to see that prisoners do not escape. How could the law be carried out if it became generally known that the guards on duty at such institutions as Burwash would rather let a prisoner escape than to shoot at him? As a matter of fact if all the men confined at Burwash were sure that the guards would not use their rifles there would be a general jail delivery. This Woodstock man would have been paroled in eighteen days. Instead of waiting as a sensible man would have done, he made a desperate attempt to get away—and was killed in the attempt. Sentiment should not blind people to the fact that he virtually committed suicide.

TIME FOR HOUSE CLEANING.

It is not to be expected that the work of enforcing the Ontario Temperance Act would tempt men of a very high standard, but the people of the province have the right to expect that criminals and perjurers will not be employed in detecting infractions of this measure. Attorney General Raney has endeavored to prevent the enlisting of criminals for service in his department and has warned his officers that people must not be tempted to break the law by encouragement from his officials. It is evident, however, that there is still much work for the Attorney-General to do before his Department reaches the condition at which he is aiming. The evidence before the Public Accounts Committee indicates that the enforcement of prohibition leaves much to be desired, and that Mr. Raney will have to swing his axe vigorously to cull out the officials, who, as the Globe puts it, are "in not a few cases very little better, and in some worse, than those of the law-breakers whom they are engaged in hunting down." It has been frequently charged that some of the whiskey operatives employed by the Provincial Government did not hesitate to commit perjury to secure a conviction, and some over-zealous temperance advocates who regard any criticism of the Ontario Temperance Act and its enforcement as inspired by the "liquor interests," have intimated that there was no truth in such charges. The evidence is all the other way, however, and the stories of "frame-ups" and the conviction of innocent men by evidence planted by men who thought they had to get a conviction frequently to hold their jobs, are causing general disgust. To again quote the Globe, which hitherto has been silent on this particular subject: "There is a vast gulf between the average police officer and the bribe taking, double-crossing vagabonds who appear to have secured a lodgement in the ranks of the men engaged in enforcing the O.T.A. Ontario is strong for prohibition, and for the enforcement of the prohibitory law as strictly as any other statute, but Ontario will not stand for the "frame-up or the tempting of men and women by criminals to commit criminal acts."

CANADA'S RESPONSE.

Lord Lee, First Lord of the Admiralty, is "exceedingly disappointed and discouraged" by the progressive indisposition of the Overseas Dominions to contribute to the defence of our common Empire. Lord Lee is utterly unreasonable. This is shown clearly in his own speech, in which he admits that the Dominions actually sent delegates to the Imperial Conference, at which they loyally participated in "a full, prolonged and intimate discussion of the naval needs of the Empire." Talk about "contributing-" We venture the assertion that they "contributed" their entire share of the "discussion"—and then some—and we haven't the smallest doubt that they also "contributed" some very valuable hints as to the running of the Navy, of the Empire, and of the world in general.

Indeed, Lord Lee tells us frankly of some part of the open-handed—or shall we say open-mouthed?—contribution. He testified that they "agreed that the maintenance of the Empire Navy was the common concern of the whole Empire." Well, what's the matter with that? What did Lord Lee want them to agree to? Of course, they agreed to it. The propulsion of resounding language is one of the best things we do.

The trouble with the cantankerous Lord Lee seems to be, however, that having "agreed" to this noble sentiment, we did nothing more about it. Oh, well, if he is going to be as enreasonable as all that.....it seems that we (that is our delegates, of whom we are always justly proud) proposed that "the extent and form in which the burden should be shared, should be left until after the Washington Conference." This was surely a wise and commonsense proposal. But it appears that our various governments show no signs of knowing that the Washington conference is closed. They are still leaving over this little detail of sharing in the burden. Indeed they are doing more—they are showing "signs of even more drastic reductions." We are, says Lord Lee, sending the Motherland "no word of comfort or offer of help."

Lord Lee proably spoke without knowing the glad news of what Ottawa was doing, even while he was complaining so preposterously. Ottawa on the very same day was cutting $700,000 off its already badly whittled militia estimates. The weary Titan wanted a "word of comfort." The particular "cub of the lion" for which Ottawa speaks, immediately responded spontaneously and heartily to this touching appeal — it promptly reduced its defence estimates.

The best remedy we can think of is that the British Government should call another Imperial Conference. When it comes to a talk-fest we are ready to contribute our full share. We have probably exported to London enough advice and warnings and protests and demands that our "equal status" be recognized, to finance a battleship.

We are quite keen, indeed, on the question of "equal status," so long as it is strictly confined to words, printed or spoken. But we are making no insistent demand for "equal status" in sharing the burdens of Imperial defence. We care not who pays for the navy or fights in the army, so long as we are granted an equal standing on the high-hatted delegations that visit foreign cities.—Montreal Star.

Sea-Wind

The flesh is sad, alas! and all the books are read. "
Flight, only flight! I feel that birds are wild to tread
The floor of unknown foam, and to attain the skies!
Nought, neither ancient gardens mirrored in the eyes,
Shall hold his heart that bathes in waters its delight."
O nights! nor yet my waking lamp, whose lonely light
Shadows the vacant paper, whiteness profits best.
Nor the young wife who rocks her baby on her breast.
I will depart! O steamer, swaying rope and spar,
Lift anchor for exotic lands that lie afar!
A weariness, outworn by cruel hopes, still clings
To the last farewell handkerchief's last beckonings!
And are not these, the masts inviting storms not these,
That an awakening wind bends over wrecking seas,
Lost, not a sail, a sail, a flowering isle, ere long?
But, O my heart, hear thou, hear thou, the sailors' song!

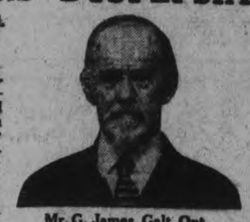
Better, far better, would it be for the striking miners to receive what the operators would be glad to give them, and subject themselves to the laws of thrift, than for them to get double what they demand and continue the almost universal habit coal miners have of spending every last dollar they earn as soon as they get to the stores with them.

STOPS 50 YEARS' DYSPEPSIA

Mr. James amazed at quick results with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.



Mr. G. James, Galt, Ont.

Sufferers from dyspepsia and indigestion often think they can get permanent relief by chewing charcoal tablets, mint lozenges and such things. But constipation usually accompanies dyspepsia and a medicine is required that contains ingredients for both conditions.

Mr. G. James of 5 Norfolk Ave., Galt, Ont., found such a fortunate combination in Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which gave him relief from 50 years of dyspepsia. With the same remedy Mrs. Ellen Laira of Pictou, N. S., now in her 87th year, freed herself from a lifetime of chronic constipation.

This remarkable medicine is a vegetable compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin, the greatest of all the digestants. It acts mildly and gently and does not gripe, and hence it is ideal for old people. It is so safe, however, that thousands of mothers give it to babes in arms. Every druggist sells Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and a dose will cost you less than a cent. People who once use this medicine never afterwards resort to strong physics, calomel, etc.

HALF-OUNCE BOTTLE FREE

Few escape constipation, so even if you do not need a laxative at this moment, let me send you a Half-Ounce Trial Bottle of my Laxative Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE so that you will have it handy when needed. GOT JUDGMENT IN HOPE SUIT

R. Sheehy & Sons Given Damages Offsetting Contract Claim, Also $95.87 Balance and Costs

Mr. Justice Orde has just delivered judgment in the action of Henry Hope & Sons of Canada against Sheehy & Sons, tried before him at the sittings of the Supreme Court here last October, Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., representing Henry Hope & Sons, and Mr. J. R. Corkery, representing Sheehy & Sons. This action concerns the erection of the Prince of Wales School. Sheehy & Sons being the contractors and Henry Hope & Sons being sub-contractors under them, for the supply of certain steel work including the steel sash and steel frames.

Sheehy & Sons after having obtained the contract from the Board of Education, for the erection of the School, made a sub-contract with Henry Hope & Sons for the supply of the steel work for the price of $10,549.63. The Hope Company, in turn, entered into a further sub-contract with the A. B. Ormsby Co., of Toronto, for the supply of most of the materials required under their contract, and before the work was completed the Ormsby Company were compelled to file a Mechanic's Lien for the balance owing them on their contract.

During the course of the work, Sheehy & Sons paid the Hope & Sons, the sum of $7500.00 on their contract, but refused to pay the balance as they contended that they had suffered material damage from the delay that had been caused them by Hope & Sons, in carrying out their contract for the supply of the steel frames, and it was on this issue that the real contest of the action was based. Mr. Justice Orde finds that the Hope & Sons failed to deliver the materials covered by their contract in the time agreed upon, and that, in consequence, Sheehy & Sons suffered material losses. The deliveries of steel frames were made from time to time during the summer of 1922, but never in time, so that Sheehy & Sons were continually hampered and delayed in carrying on their contract. As a result, Mr. Justice Orde finds that the Plaintiffs were guilty of a breech of contract which entitled the Defendants to damages.

In the assessment of damages, the defendants based their chief loss on the low average of bricks laid by the bricklayers, contending that the delay in the deliveries of the steel greatly reduced the efficiency of the brick-layers in such a way that they could not lay as many bricks per day as they might have done if the steel frames were in readiness as the work went on. A great volume of evidence was brought in to show the number of bricks that were actually laid per day and the number of bricks that might have been laid if there had bee no delay. On this particular item, Mr. Justice Orde finds that the defendants suffered great damage for which he allowed the sum of $3000.00. An extra $100.00 is allowed to the defendants for travelling expenses to Toronto to see the plaintiffs about the deliveries of the steel, and to Montreal to hire men, making altogether the sum $3100.00 damages.

The defendants contended that the plaintiffs had no right to bring an action against them for the balance due on the contract by reason of a mechanis' lien existing, and Mr. Justice Orde holds that the plaintiffs should not have issued a writ when a lien had been registered and an action brought against them by their own sub-contractors. He therefore, dismisses the plaintiff's action with costs, but allows them to be credited with the amount owing to them under the contract on the amount found due the defendants on their counter-claim. In the result the defendants are allowed damages amounting to $3100.00 and the costs of their counter-claim, from which, after deducting the amount due the plaintiffs on their contract there is left the sum of $95.87, for which the defendants are given judgment against the plaintiffs with their costs of the action and of the counter-claim.

CORONER'S JURY FINDS ERNEST EDWARDS DIED OF STRYCHNINE

One-Twentieth of a Grain of Poison in Viscera Analyzed in Toronto For the Attorney-General's Department.

NO PERSON NAMED.

"A tremendous dose of strychnine" caused the death of Ernest Edwards of Dummer Township. One-twentieth of a grain of the poison was found in the stomach and small parts of other internal organs by the analysis made for the Attorney-General's Department, the finding of which was read by Dr. E. Wood at the concluding session of the inquest into the cause of Edwards' death, which was held at the Police Station last night, with Dr. T. N. Greer presiding.

"Strychnine diffuses all through the body," said Dr. Wood, "and would be found in all parts of it. From the indications, he must have taken a large dose."

The jury's verdict was as follows:

"We, the jurors empanelled to inquire into the death of Ernest Edwards, find from the evidence submitted that the deceased came to his death between Monday, April the 10th, and the following Wednesday, April the 12th, in the township of Dummer, in the county of Peterborough, from strychnine poisoning, administered by party or parties unknown to this jury; we further believe there are suspicions that justify the recommendation that the Attorney-General's Department make a thorough investigation."

This report was signed by M. J. Maher (foreman), Jos. Picard, Cyril Lech, Chas. H. Ackerman, William Rudkins, John Edgar, F. Bartlett, Thos. McAuley, Edward Wright, E. V. Warne, David McGrath and J. N. Bacon.

The jury was out twenty minutes and the session lasted only an hour, taking the evidence of two witnesses, Dr. Edward Wood and Dr. A. W. MacPherson, who made the post mortem examination.

Mr. F. D. Kerr and Mr. C. R. Widdifield were present in behalf of, respectively, Abraham Filion and Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards, mother of the dead youth, who are held in the County Jail on a charge of murder and will appear at the adjourned preliminary hearing before Magistrate Langley on Saturday morning.

Medical Testimony.

Dr. Wood testified that the contents of the stomach and small parts of the liver, kidney and spleen had been forwarded to the Attorney-General for analysis. The post mortem examination of the body had been performed on April 13, the day after it was found in the yard at the Edwards home on the Ninth Line of Dummer. The report of the analysis showed that one-twentieth of a grain of strychnine had been found in the parts submitted, and the conclusion was therefore that death was due to strychnine poisoning.

Agreed With Symptoms.

To Crown Attorney Hatton, Dr. Wood said this report corroborated the symptoms observed in the post mortem, and he agreed with the finding of strychnine poisoning. He recounted in detail the condition of the organs, and said that all the chambers of the heart were found contracted and empty.

"Strychnine poisoning would be found in all parts of the body," Dr. Wood testified, " in the spinal column, the muscles, the nerves, or in any organ. It would be diffused throughout the body."

Dr. Wood said that traces of strychnine would be ascertained mainly by analysis.

Mr. Maher asked what quantity of strychnine would be fatal, and Dr. Wood replied that in some cases there had been recovery from as much as one grain. The average dose was about one-thirtieth of a grain.

"Would he have been in an easy composed position?" Mr. Maher asked.

"As I understand it, he was lying face downward and stretched out with his toes taking part of the weight," Dr. Wood said. "I wouldn't expect him to be in that position if he died there."

"Would he have convulsions?" Mr. Edgar inquired.

"Yes, severe convulsions," Dr. Wood said. "He would be more likely to be on his back or side."

Rigor Mortis Present.

Some rigor mortis was present in the body, which witness said wasn't normal. From the statement that the toes were bearing some of the weight, it might be concluded that the body had been put there after rigor mortis had been set it. Normally rigor mortis would be off in twenty-four hours, but in violent deaths it would probably take longer for this condition to pass.

To Mr. Ackerman, Dr. Wood stated that it was impossible to say whether several slight abrasions on the face had occurred before or after death. They appeared to have been scratches from gravel.

Mr. Kerr asked whether Dr. Wood could say how long the body had been dead when the post mortem examination was made.

"It is impossible to determine that on account of the weather," said Dr. Wood. "There were no signs of putrefaction. It might have been lying there some time."

Further questioned on this point, Dr. Wood said that because rigor mortis was there the body might have been dead less than twenty-four hours, or up to a week or so.

Racked With Pain.

Mr. Maher: "Does a victim of strychnine feel acute pains in the stomach?"

Dr. Wood: "He is in distress from head to foot."

Mr. Maher: "And feel intense cramps?"

Dr. Wood: "Yes. I am not sure what you mean by the word 'cramps.'"

Mr. Maher said he meant acute pains.

Dr. Wood: "Then he would have cramps every place, particularly in the back."

Mr. Kerr: "Death usually follows an intense spasm?"

Dr. Wood: "Yes, after a series of spasms. Between the spasms are complete relaxations. Rigor mortis comes on after death, but not immediately. In an hour or two in violent deaths, and in other cases five or six hours."

Dr. McPherson's evidence was fully corroboratory, but because of the cold weather at that time he considered it difficult to say whether the degree of rigidity in the body was due to the cold continuing or to rigor mortis. For the same reason, he couldn't say how long death had preceded the examination.

Dr. Greer briefly instructed the jury, pointing out that there was no positive evidence pointing to suicide or very positive evidence indicating foul play or implicating any part or parties.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MILLBROOK HEAR INTERESTING TALK

W. S. Given Explains the Scope of Methodist Work Down in Far Southern States.

MILLBROOK, May 12. — The Epworth League on Monday evening was under the auspices of the Consecration Department, Mr. Frank Alcorn taking the chair in the unavoidable absence of the first-vice-president, Mr. Irwin Hatherly. The subject for the meeting was "Christianity as Applied to Practical Life," and the scripture lesson took the form of brief Bible passages illustrating the topic, and read by several of the members, those assisting with this part of the service being Misses E. Falls, L. Barnard, A. Stewart, M. Skitch, and Mr. A. Raper.

Miss Phyllis Richards gave a reading, "Applying Religion in Everyday Life," and Mrs. W. Williamson, of Leader, Sask., a former member of the Millbrook League, sang a solo, "O Saviour Dear," which was much enjoyed.

Mr. W. S. Given, who spent the winter at Shreveport, La., then gave a most interesting and instructive talk on his trip South, noting especially the activities of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, where Dr. Campbell Morgan was holding services twice daily, and whom, naturally, it was a great privilege to hear preach. Shreveport is situated on the Red River, a tributary of the Mississippi, and was named after a Captain Shreve who, in the early days, used to bring his vessel into port there. It is the third largest city in the State, and has a population of 55,000, of which 10,000 or 15,000 are negroes. The later form quite a problem for the South to deal with, yet as labourers, both domestic and otherwise, are absolutely indispensable. Wages are somewhat higher since the war.

Some account of the destructive nature of the Mississippi when in flood was of interest, as were also a number of facts regarding the city of New Orleans, once situated on the Gulf of Mexico, but now, owing to the silt, etc., being annually washed down by the river, is about 30 miles inland. Reference was made to the operations of the Ku Klux Klan, and some instances of their high-handed proceedings were related. The social life of the cities visited was touched upon, and an interesting description of the Mardi Gras Festival, which lasts for a week in New Orleans, but only for one day in Shreveport, was also given.

Rev. Mr. Tucker moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Given for his excellent address, and Mr. Arnold Raper seconded it; the Leaguers showed their appreciation by a hearty clap of the hands.

The meeting closed with the benediction.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Product of Canada

It was known many years ago that yeast is an excellent thing for the many ills that result from disordered stomach or run down blood condition. Lately eminent scientists have been investigating the matter thoroughly and their conclusions point to the fact that the beneficial effect of yeast has not been overrated. The yeast treatment is very simple and economical and altogether harmless.

Before each meal eat a Royal Yeast Cake, or take a cake dissolved in water or fruit juices. The scientific investigators say that the curative elements in Royal Yeast are the vitamines and nuclein which it contains. It is certainly well worth a fair trial by those who suffer from any of the ailments mentioned above.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn.—"I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pains in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

An Assured Income for Life

HE was a thoughtful man, and an affectionate husband and father. His income ran about $6,000 per year. His insurance policies totalled $5,000.

"Suppose anything happened to you, how long do you suppose $5,000 would last us?"

His wife put the question gently. It was a difficult one to put.

"Five thousand dollars at the present rate of going would last this family just one year!" replied her husband.

"And then what?"

There was no answer, save thoughtful silence. But in that silence one thoughtful and affectionate man was converted to the idea of adequate insurance—insurance that would yield an income for life.

Monthly Income Insurance issued by the Mutual Life of Canada is the modern way of providing for those dependent on you. Monthly Income Insurance perpetuates your income after you have gone. Income Insurance assures your family a monthly allowance after your death. Income Insurance is based on the proved fact that it is safer to leave a fixed income than a "lump sum."

Our nearest agent will be glad to explain the Mutual Life Income plan of Insurance. Or write direct to this office for our folder, "A Policy Providing A Guaranteed Monthly Income."

THE RULES FOR TAXICAB DRIVERS

1. It is permissible for a taxi driver to hit any pedestrian when said pedestrian is "in play."

2. A pedestrian is considered "in play" when he is standing, walking, or running in any open space, such as a street, alley, lane, or sidewalk.

3. In scoring the day's game of the taxicab driver credit shall be given only for perfect hits.

4. The term "perfect hit" shall be interpreted as meaning a hit head-on, broadside, or from the rear. No glancing blows shall entitle him to any credit in the final summary.

5. Credit shall be given for direction and distance. Thus, if the pedestrian shall be struck squarely and hurled twenty feet, the driver of the taxi shall be credited with twice as many points as the driver of a taxi knocking a pedestrian only ten feet. Likewise the hurling of the pedestrian forward in a straight line shall entitle the driver to extra credit, as this makes it possible for the driver to hit him again without changing the course of the machine.

6. It shall be within the rules of the game for a taxicab driver to hit a pedestrian, thus projected, as often as possible, and the victim shall be held as "in play" until the driver misses him or knocks him over the sidelines.

7. The sidelines shall begin one foot from the building lines.

8. When it shall be within the rules for a taxicab to "carry" a pedestrian as many blocks as possible by the process of repeated "booting" the use of the forward pass shall be prohibited. No taxicab driver shall hit a pedestrian so as to knock him or "forward-pass" him into the lane of another taxi-cab. It has been found that this practically ruins a pedestrian before any play can be completed, and consequently complicates the game and dulls it from the spectators' standpoint.

9. When a taxicab so strikes a pedestrian that a pedestrian lands on the radiator of the car or becomes wedged in the bumper, the driver may carry him the full length of the playing field. The full length of the playing field shall be held to extend from the point of contact to the ultimate destination of the cab on that particular trip.

10. At the end of the trip the driver shall remove the pedestrian from the car, compute the distance in yards, get the pedestrian to certify to the "touchdown" and then inquire whether said pedestrian wishes to be put in play again or to retire.

11. No pedestrian shall be required to participate in more than one play on a given day. He may do so, however, if he desires.

12. When a pedestrian shall have signified his intention not to continue in play and shall have been sufficiently bruised the taxi-cab driver shall pin a white button upon his coat bearing the words "OUT OF PLAY." By wearing this button the pedestrian shall label himself exempt from further pursuit by any and all taxicabs on that day.

13. At the end of the day he shall turn in his button to the Taxicab Tournament Committee and be required to watch his step the following day.

14. Any pedestrian hit for three successive days, however, shall be exempt for the rest of the week.

15. In any case where a pedestrian shall have been hit he shall have the right to continue in play if he so desires, and any pedestrian who shall so continue and be hit more than five times in one day shall be eligible to become a taxicab driver in his own right.

16. No warning signal shall be required of any taxicab before starting in pursuit of a pedestrian, but any driver who shall give such a warning signal and still catch his pedestrian shall be entitled to five extra points by the official scorer.

17. All taxicab drivers shall turn in their scores at the end of each hour.

18. The scores shall be totalled at the end of each day and the drivers rated accordingly.

19. Any driver who fails to maintain an average of .567 (two victims a day) shall be relegated to the amateur ranks.

20. Getting a goal from placement shall consist of so hitting a pedestrian as to hurl him from the street into a store window or doorway. Extra points shall be given for this. A perfect score of 1,000 shall be given in all cases where a taxicab driver so times his "drive" as to hurl a pedestrian directly from the radiator through the front windows of a hospital or into a passing ambulance.

HOMELY SILK LAMP SHADES

Indeed you must have a table lamp! Books are so much more inviting when there's a beautiful shaded lamp to furnish the light for their reading.

And a pretty lamp does so dress up a room. Its shade can be just the very touch of color needed to give character to its surroundings.

But lamp shades are expensive—so they are! But then why not make your own as everybody else is doing? Not the lacy sort that we busied ourselves with last year, rather a plain combination of silk and wool which on a plain base, is, quite distinctive.

Colorful hand-dyed silks make the best medium for most of the new shades. The variegated effect of such silk is really something to be desired in lighting appliances; however, where this is not available pongee in soft tones can be used used wth very good result.

The color should depend upon the color scheme of your room; however, avoid tones of green. Green has a temporaily fatal effect upon the beauty of anyone near the light!

Frames for lamp shades can be purchased for from 25 cents to a dollar, depending upon the elaborateness of the design.

A straight piece of material two inches wider than the frame and slightly longer than its circumference at its widest point ,should be cut. After French seaming it, begin fastening it to the frame at the bottom. A back stitch is good for this because the sewing must be close The top should next be fastened in the same way.. A point of importance is getting an even distribution of fabric.

TWO TYPES OF LAMP SHADES

To finish the top and bottom take straight strips of fabric, one for each place, just long enough to go around and turn in nicely. They should each be wide enough to leave a margin on the sides all the way around of about one-inch, and are applied as binding.

Colored wool is used for the finishing touch. It may harmonize or contrast and is applied so that it covers the edge of the binding. An effective way to apply the wool is in five or seven rows of very even back-stitching. When this method is used the stitches should be so placed that they form slanting lines in looking across them.

Another and easier method is to take five strands of wool and hold them to the shade with an over and over stitch from the wrong side. Care should be taken that these stitches are the same distance apart

In making a closed top shade the method is the ame, except that there need be no top binding. A pretty finish for such a shade is a circular bead ornament which you can make by simply winding a string of wooden beads around the top and fastening them from the wrong side.

The Intricate Intrigue

by Jack Lait

I ONCE walked down a busy street, in a pelting rainstorm, preoccupied with my own plans, plots and pleasures, when I became conscious of a very spiffy stranger seizing me by the sleeve. He wobbled a trifle and gallantly asked my pardon. I nodded that he had it, and tried to walk on. But he held tight, now by both sleeves. His first question was a wow:

"'Scuse me, sr'anger," he said, "but would you mind telling me what town this is?"

I told him it was Chicago—and he observed that it probably was; it looked like one of the larger cities. Then, with the rain still sheeting down, he cocked one eye up at me as he stood there, sopping and dripping, and said:

"Did you ever shtop to con'emplate the millionsh upon millionsh of people that consh'tute the population of thish world?"

I admitted that I hadn't.

"An' the billionsh upon billionsh of acres of space that form the shurfash of this earth?"

That I hadn't ever contemplated either, alas!

"Ishn't is extr'or'n'ry, sh'ranger—tha' of all the millionsh of millionsh of people who consh'tute the population of this world, shcattered over the billionsh of billionsh of acres of space that consh'tute the shurfash of this earth—you and I should meet—here!"

Often since I have laughed over it. But it isn't so laughable when you think it over. Somehow, of the millions of millions scattered over the billions of acres, each of us manages to find and meet just the one to love, and just the one to hate, and just the one to make or ruin or save or sacrifice. The man who compounded the bromide about what a small world it is had lived—he could probably have told at least one great yarn. There was probably no paean of joy in that expression; it sounds more like the nettled squawk of a surprised victim who found the world was not only small but much smaller than he had thought it was, or figured on it to be.

The world is so small that we can't find room enough to dodge those we do not want to meet, and its inhabitants are so few that we cannot find strangers enough when we don't want familiar faces; it is a big and populous universe only when we're lonesome or when we can't find the one we do want. To make the world smaller when we don't want it small, we discover that we, ourselves, have narrowed it down to a limited area, inhabited only by a few people, by our habits and associations.

Almost every one lives somewhere; if not in a certain house, at least in a certain town—anyway, in a certain country. It is hard to leave it. Criminals run from the scenes of their misdeeds, then sneak back to a wife or a sweetheart or a favorite billiard hall or a pet bootleggery, or to just a familiar "neighborhood," when they have the whole face of the great, round globe before them. And then they are caught. The police know the ways of the human animal and don't scour Asia or Czecho-Slovakia when a man deserts from the army in Nebraska or pulls a stick-up in Brooklyn. They go to where the hunted party lived, or where he or she "hung out," and it works often enough to establish a reasonably reliable rule.

So the world is small, and each of us circumscribes by affections, affiliations, inclinations and set selections, a smaller world within the world, narrowng it down to a pin-spot on the gigantic ball. And, perhaps, most of the incidents which we view as amazing coincidences are not so far outside the percentages of human permutatons and intricate logical combinations as we fancy.

Folks of a sort are neighbors even if a few thousand miles separate them, and folks of many sorts are neighbors when they are near together. So it is all mixed up in the complicated conspiracy of accidental propinquities and natural affnities, until scarcely anything in the nature of elbow-rubbing or entanglement of hearts, bank accounts, interests or ambitions, is a long shot. As the jokebook "Irishman" said: "It's the things I never expect that always happen, and I always expect they will."

Yet, we don't expect the unexpected. After it happens we wonder that we didn't expect it. But before—why should it happen? If three people were on one desert island, six feet long and five feet wide, any two would expect to hoodwink the third and any one would expect to bamboozle the other two.

Tommy Miner little dreamt when he went to Tucson, Ariz., to offer a new brand of monkey-wrenches to a jobbing house there, that he would meet the one woman. He had met so many women. He had been in New York and in San Fran., and in so many cities bigger than Tucson. Yet it was in that desert-edge burg where first he beheld Ida. And his mind went blank.

Ida sold cigars behind the counter of the leading hotel. She little dreamt that a travelling man from Meriden, Conn., would find her in Tucson, Ariz., and stand her life on one ear. She had met so many men, and she had formed her opinion of the whole outfit of them so thoroughly any cigar girl in a traveling men's hotel has. But she beheld Tommy, and her ears rang.

One wouldn't think a cigar-counter girl, who is fed up on the mashers and the away-from-home cutups, would give eye to one of the lot. One wouldn't think, either, that the first to "fall" for chorus girls are not the sapheaded rich men's sons and bald-headed rich men's sons' fathers, but the managers of these chorus girls, the other actors, those who know them best—and know them at their worst. But that's what usually happens. And one of the points this chronicle is trying to establish for itself is that it is "usual."

Ida had been flirted against and "officed" and propositioned by fast workers, smooth operators, coarse crashers and pop-eyed admirers from every county in the broad domain. But Tommy followed them all and was a new sensation.

It started like any other cross-counter flirtation. The dialogue needn't be recounted here—any one who knows it knows it, and any one who doesn't is just as well off without it. It rarely varies—in the tee-off and the preliminary drives. Only when it endures up to the finer shadings on the advanced green of love's course, where the putting grows delicate and every electron of energy helps or hurts or directs or diverts, then each case becomes sui generis, regulated by the quality of the player, the condition of the links, the weather, the blood pressure, the bank balance, the complexion, the disposition and the situation.

Tommy and Ida developed to the auto-ride stage in two evenings. The kiss trembled on the deadline of the next move. But it didn't happen. Ida confessed that she loved Tommy. Tommy swore—and in good faith—that he adored Ida. But Ida was married. She had been married twice. Her first husband had yielded to another woman. Her second——

She wasn't living with him. He had been a brute and a cad. But she was still his wife. He had misused her and tortured her and even beaten her. But, as far as she knew, he had never been what the funny law of the land defines as "untrue" to her. He was a self-satisfied man, was Ida's husband, who had little use for women; he was so egotistical that he had grown jealous of her because she was his wife. And they had separated after a series of set-tos, and she had gone to earning her own way. But she had never been relieved of her estate and her restrictions as a married woman.

"If I ever knew of Nat giving his love to any other woman," she told Tommy, "I think I would accept the love of another man. But, until that happens, I must not and I cannot."

Ida's husband was far away—in Alabama. She had not heard from him in months. So the prospect looked dishearteningly slim to Tommy, for he could not remain in Tucson much longer, and his visits there would be far apart even if he went as much out of his way as he could not afford to "make" that inconsequential town as frequently as possible.

Jane Leaned Her Puny Weight Against the Door Before He Could Enter. Tommy Got His Foot Into the Crack.

Tommy told Ida nothing of his own alliances. He assured her that he was single, which was true, but he sidestepped any reference to Jane.

Jane was a slender little grass widow in Detroit. Tommy had "rushed" her and had been the co-respondent in her divorce case. He had offered to marry her, but Jane had been one poor man's wife and had no crave to be another's.

Until the moment when his eyes had met the dotted lines from the eyes of Ida, Tommy would have told you that he belonged to Jane. And so would Jane have told you so. And Jane would have smashed a nasty set of crockery had she been eavesdropping on Tommy and Ida, for she had every intent of holding Tommy enslaved until a rich man came along who would marry her. She firmly believed that she loved Tommy. But she wanted to be a wealthy wife. She anticipated no rivals to Tommy's position of sweetheart. She would give him the rarified ozone only if the right stranger came along, with a license in one hand and a fortune in the other. So she thought.

Tommy was getting his daily night letter from Jane, and she was getting hers from Tommy. Strange, no modernist of literature has dramatized the night letter, which has taken the place of the old love letter. Operators tell me that more night letters are sent for love (or in the name of it) on any one night than on business in any week. A new vocabulary has been invented, with a range of fifty words. Night letters forbid words not in the dictionary, so the old phrases of endearment are obsolete, and it has come to "love and kisses" as a daily overnight greeting. Tommy was getting love and kisses from Jane, and Jane was getting ditto from Tommy even while the Tommy-Ida episode was in its first hectic manifestation.

So when Tommy left Tucson for the even farther West, there was a four-cornered, four-angled intrigue—with four persons scattered over the map and each largely holding the fate and future of the others, Tommy being the only one who knew more than any one of the principals.

The world rolled on, trains kept moving, millions went about their respective businesses and schemes and pastimes, none the less. Tommy saw Ida again in Tucson when he ran a few hundred miles out of his way on the return journey East for a couple of hours with her. She hadn't changed her mind. Yes, she would send him night letters, and he would send her night letters; otherwise everything was in status quo.

Tommy made another jog and another stop and another call between the Rockies and the Adirondacks. He passed a day in Detroit, and Jane was tickled pink to see him. She wasn't as retiring as Ida was about kisses. She had no encumbrances. She flung her slender arms round Tommy and cried over him and fussed over him, and when he started off again she boo-hoed and gulped and had reasonable hysterics.

Lamar lived in Chicago and covered the whole Mississippi belt in haberdashery. Tommy had met Lamar some months earlier in Detroit and had introduced him to Jane. Lamar had come down from Detroit by easy jumps in a week when Tommy met him in Nashville. Lamar slapped him on the back and said it was too bad. What was too bad? Why—that little mix-up—that unfortunate thing—that——

It didn't take long to break it to Tommy. Jane had been in an automobile accident, coming back to Detroit from a roadhouse late at night with a man. Both had been pretty badly shaken up. The man had been held on a charge of reckless driving while intoxicated. That was all.

All? It was enough. Tommy hadn't heard a word of it. His night letters had kept on going and Jane's had kept on coming without a hiatus. This was incredible—was Frank certain that it was Jane who had been in the mess? He surely was. He had gone to the rospital and seen her and talked with her himself. Was Frank sure it was—hey! Who was the man? Frank hadn't seen the man and didn't know much about him, but he had read the account in the local paper. As nearly as he could remember the name was Williams—or Wilson—or some similar name. The man was an out-of-towner, from down South somewrere.

That night Tommy sent his usual night letter, then grabbed a rattler for Detroit. Next night he was there. He drove to Jane's house, and, without ringing a bell or otherwise giving notice, he came to her door and knocked. Jane answered without opening asking, "Who's there? Tommy answered in a fictitious voice, "Telegram." She opened. With one startled and flabbergasted look she saw Tommy, then leaned her puny weight against the inner side of the door before he could enter. Tommy got his foot into the crack. Just what right he had to force an entrance he probably couldn't have explained. But men who have lied to women about loving them take a great many rights when they think they've been double-crossed. So Tommy pushed back.

He would have easily won the contest, but Jane's little Pekinese was barking at his foot, until Jane suddenly motioned toward it, which made the peppery little beast leap at his ankle through the crevice and bite at it. Instinctively Tommy drew back his foot. Instantly the door was slammed and bolted.

Tommy tried to talk to her through the door. She wouldn't answer. He went out and stood on the opposite sidewalk for two hours, sneezing and blowing on his fingers. Then he saw a man in silhouette make a break from the side entrance of the house and hurry off. Before he could overtake him, the man had disappeared.

That was enough. Tommy took the next train back South and followed his route. There were no ties between him and Jane now. He had felt a specific sort of obligation toward her because he had been named in her divorce scandal. But now he was absolved. He couldn't ever look her in the face again now, no matter what promises there might have been or what debts he might have owed, anyway. There were no more night letters to or from Detroit; otherwise his life went on just as before, and he was satisfied, for it seemed to bring him nearer to Ida, even though he was kept from her by her circumstances rather than his own.

The swing of his route in time brought him again to Tucson. Ida was still there—still at the hotel; he knew that, for the night letters to and from Tucson had never lost a day. Ida greeted him when he stepped into the lobby. She wasn't at the counter. She had gotten the day off, for she had much to tell him that she hadn't wanted to put in the night wires, but which now could and should be told.

They went to a little cafe and he told her how beautiful she looked to him, how he had missed her, how he had ached for her. And now—for the news!

She was—well, she wasn't exactly, but hoped soon to be—free!

Great stuff! Tommy leaned over the table and asked her if she'd marry him as soon as she got her second divorce, and she whispered that she would.

She had sued her husband. The husband who had been so aloof from feminine charmers had fallen; he had become involved in a scrape with a woman. She had first heard of it from a girl friend in Milwaukee, whom she had known when she had lived in Louisville and who had read it in a Cleveland paper which had published a dispatch from Mobile, where a telegraphed report had come from Detroit, involving her husband, Nat Wilkins, in a miserable escapade in Detroit with——

"With whom do you imagine, Tommy?" asked Ida.

Tommy was one leap ahead of imagining. The reference to Detroit had tickled his ear, and Wilkins was so much like Williams or Wilson.

He said he had no idea.

"With the woman who stole my first husband!"

That was a new one. Tommy hadn't expected that.

"You remember," said Ida, "I told you my first husband became enamored of another woman. He was an actor. In Butte, Mont., he met a girl. She followed the show, madly infatuated with him. I heard of it, and in Chicago I had a detective agency trap them together. I sued, naming the other woman. I won my case. My husband didn't marry her—he was tired of her. She disappeared from Butte and settled somewhere else, in Detroit, it now appears.

"I had met Nat Wilkins, also an actor in my husband's company. He was kind and sympathetic during my divorce litigation and afterward, and when he asked me to marry him I consented.

"As nearly as I can now piece it together, he had also met this woman whom my first husband had so madly charmed while with the troupe. Wilkins lived in Mobile, but we was touring on a vaudeville circuit, playing Detroit, when he met up with this woman. My first husband was a leading man, Wilkins was and still is a minor performer. You understand the attraction for a grub in the sweetheart or wife or even the former flame of a great man? So when Wilkins met this woman, probably quite by accident, again, he 'stepped out of his character and made love to her. My first husband had told me that she was of that type that all professionals know—the girl just wild about actors. So it was an easy victory for Nat, I suppose.

"I got some lawyers busy and they found out that the woman was a divorcee who, after she had wrecked my first marriage, married a business man in Detroit and wrecked his happiness by mixing up with one of your fraternity, Tommy—a traveling man—who was named as the co-respondent. I didn't get his name."

"The woman's name?" asked Tommy, huskily.

Tommy felt the room reeling, and his chair had become a rocker.

"Wh-when can you get your divorce?" he asked.

She laughed.

"This is Arizona," she said. "It isn't far to Nevada. And I brought my suit in Reno. What could be sweeter?"

"That's f-f-fine. Glad Reno is so close. That makes everything j-just s-s-splendid."

"Yes," she said exuberantly. "Now, just think, if my first husband hadn't met this Jane, and some stranger hadn't told me about their goings on, and Nat hadn't met her, too, then Nat wouldn't have gone dippy about her when he met her again after he had married and left me. And if that fascinating traveling man, whoever he was, hadn't come into her life and got her divorced from that business man in Detroit, perhaps she wouldn't have listened to Nat, and he would still have his hold on me.

"And if that girl in Milwaukee hadn't happened to see that story—or if any of the zigzag wires that carried it to her and then to me had fallen down, you and I would never have heard of any Jane and we'd know nothing about her, and we would never have belonged to each other, maybe. Providence has been working for us for years—pulling apart—drawing together—and we never dreamed it.

"Kiss me, Tommy dear—and thank our stars that it's such a small world, after all."

BOTNICK BROS.

430-432 George Street

BENJAMIN DISRAELI

On the night of September 14, 1876, British royalty and the elect in London society, gathered in the spacious Hall of Reception in No. 10 Downing street, the residence of England's Prime Ministers, to do honor to Benjamin Disraeli, M.P., Prime Minister of England, upon the successful completion of the famous negotiations by which England obtained possession of the Suez Canal. Queen Victoria received in person, on this occasion, and the peers of the realm, together with the Commons, applauded England's greatest Jew, and Victoria's distinguished guide and counsellor. For days before, the newspapers were filled with national and international comment on England's coup, and the chatter of the clubs joined with the press in lauding Disraeli.

I.

But the story began five months before. Parliament had closed its sessions, and Lords and Commons had gone their ways. Benjamin Disraeli, who had been named for the second time by Victoria to be her Prime Minister, was stirred to his soul by the most recent public announcement dealing with the canal M. DeLesseps had planned.

Publicly, he took little notice of the matter. He neither joined the scoffers nor those who eagerly speculated about the fate of the canal. But his private study in No. 30 Downing street, just off the large public office, saw more of Disraeli than usual. The Prime Minister called for additional maps. He ordered before him the highest officials of all government departments and entered into consultations that occupied whole days. He plunged into the Suez Canal problem until deep lines appeared at the corners of his mouth, until, night after night, he sank upon his couch exhausted, as though he could never do another's day work. And yet, the next dawn again found him at his desk.

And always, when people approached him, there was a light smile on his lips and a light remark brightened his conversation. He was not robust in build. His cheeks were sunken and pallid. His straight black hair, shot through with grey at the temples, gave him an eccentric appearance. At first glance he looked more like a self-centered, bashful school teacher, or like a dreamy musician than like a statesman whose flashes of wit, whose vast knowledge, whose granite determination, whose brilliant repartee had made him both a social lion and so powerful a factor that all Europe quaked when he frowned. When he thundered, the clock of politics stood still. When he jested, all England smiled. He could change from the role of ponderous statesman to that of the light-hearted courtier in the twinkling of an eye. He was perhaps the most versatile man of his time—gay and grave in the same hour, the soul of sincerity and affection with his friends, the very embodiment of impenetrable astuteness when dealing with matters of state.

May had gone and June was on them, when Lady Beaconsfield, holding a letter in her hand, entered the corridor that led to Disraeli's private office, long after official Downing Street had ceased to exist for the day as such, and the crowds hurried through Bridge street and thence across Westminster Bridge, coming and going on their homeward way.

Lady Beaconsfield, a picture of quiet elegance with her white hair in light-colored dress, a woman of ineffable charm, despite her lack of beauty, had grown tired of awaiting "Dizzy's" arrival at the dinner table, and had gone in search of him. As usual, he was in his "den" and the door closed. The clerks and messengers had gone, and Lady Beaconsfield encountered no one during her short walk.

For a moment she paused at the door and her gaze rested on her own likeness reflected from a huge mirror that reached from floor to ceiling. There she stood, framed in the gilt that surrounded the glass, a dainty figure, crowned by a thoughtful, wrinkled means, handsome face. She was older than her husband. He was flattered—she was tolerated. That he had married her for her money was common gossip. And there was some truth in the story too. Lady Beaconsfield smiled. It occurred to her that, only yesterday, one of the most famous court beauties had wasted her blandishments on "Dizzy." The lady was evidently bent upon conquest. The Prime Minister had listened to her and paid her compliments. Then, suddenly, Lady Beaconsfield had appeared on the scene. Disraeli, with one of his quaint smiles had bowed to the court beauty.

"Madam," he had said, "I have now the choice of abiding with you or of joining my wife. Having made my choice years ago, you surely will pardon me for not changing my habit."

And with a farewell wave of his hand to the other, he had offered his arm to Lady Beaconsfield.

Ah, she was a happy woman! When her "Dizzy" was at work, as she knew him to be at this moment, he would be annoyed were the Queen herself to disturb him—but he would be pleased—she knew it—to see his wife enter.

Turning the doorknob ever so lightly, Lady Beaconsfield opened the door a few inches, and looked in. Her "Dizzy" sat at his desk, bent over a great map and heeded her not at all. Secure in the fact that he was pre-occupied, Lady Beaconsfield entered and closed the door, and walking across the few feet of space to the big desk, she bent over her adored husband and kissed him lightly on the forehead.

Disraeli started suddenly, made an upward movement with his quill pen as though to brush aside a casual fly, and looked up suddenly to find Lady Beaconsfield smiling down upon him. He extended both his hands to her, and held her arms by her side while she spoke.

"Dizzy, you are overworking yourself. You seem to have forgotten your promise—not to do this."

Disraeli laughed reassuringly, and replied:

"Pray calm yourself, Mary, and do not worry. I am up to my neck in this Suez matter, and it proves altogether delightful, even restful at moments."

But his grave face, held downward so that Lady Beaconsfield would not see the look of care that clouded his eyes, did not wholly support this last statement.

"Now you must rest, Dizzy. See what I have here! An invitation from the Duke of Glastonbury to visit at Glastonbury Towers over the week-end. The Duchess is a dear, in spite of certain little prejudices—but what do you wish to do about it, Dizzy?"

"Accept the invitation, by all means. We shall go, Sir Michael Probert will be there, and I am extremely anxious to have a chat with the Governor of the Bank of England, without my having to go to the bank, and without asking him to drop in here. The Towers will just suit me. You see, my dear, I want no one to know what I am doing."

"Very well, Dizzy, I shall write to the Duchess. And now," Lady Beaconsfield laid her hand on her husband's arm. "Dinner is ready. You are demoralizing my household and teaching the servants bad habits by your irregular hours. The cook is actually alarmed about the fate of the roast."

"Indeed," replied Disraeli, with a laugh, "It is better to alarm the cook now, than to alarm England later. However, I am quite ready. I shall replace these maps—and now I am ready."

And together they passed out of the little room with its thousands of books.

II.

The Ambassador to England from his Imperial Majesty, the Czar of Russia, rose from his chair, near Disraeli's desk, in Downing street. It had been an interesting that, thas "official" visit of the Ambassador. They had talked of many things. Disraeli stood also. As they lighted fresh cigarettes, the Prime Minister of England said:

"Just one more thing, Your Excellency—"

They resumed their seats.

"The Suez Canal—" Disraeli began.

He stopped. He puffed his cigarette, removed it from his lips, and studied it between his thumb and forefinger. In the interval, the Russian Ambassador smilingly remarked:

"The attempt of Ismali Pasha to peddle the canal is really too amusing. The canal is quite useless."

Disraeli looked from his cigarette to the Russian Ambassador. The merest suggestion of a smile played about the corners of his mouth. There was a little pause, and, as though to dismiss the subject, Disraeli said:

"They say it is rapidly filling up with sand."

"Yes, I have heard that, also," the Ambassador responded.

Disraeli rose, and the Ambassador followed his example.

England's Prime Minister returned to his desk, took up a detailed report on the method of procedure to install a new drainage system for the City of London, and turned the pages.

III.

Mrs. Noel Travers was one of those clever women who can dress well and afford large diamonds on apparently nothing.

The beauty that was illuminating London, now, was known in all the capitals. Where big, powerful men moved, Mrs. Travers was not a stranger. Her acquaintances were many. Her friendships comparatively few. The peers of the realm were her pawns, when she choose to play them.

The Russian Ambassador was sitting at his desk in the Embassy, and Mrs. Travers stood at his elbow. Very near her lounged Mr. Lumley Foljambe, a tall man, with a great shock of hair, who might claim any nation as his own, and nobody would dispute him. Foljambe was the type of man who is gifted in many ways, and politics he seemed to understand tohroughly. Mrs. Travers had entered the room with him, and occasionally she turned to smile at him. But her attention was bestowed upon the Ambassador. She held out toward him a small printed letter sheet, the envelope held lightly in the other hand, and her parasol gathered under her arm. Her attire was gorgeous—a point noted by the Russian.

Mrs. Travers pointed with her finger toward the writing, and read:

"The Duke and Duchess of Glastonbury request the honor of Mrs. Travers' presence at Glastonbuty Towers on June 17, to meet the Prime Minister."

The bearded Russian nodded his approval, and looking squarely at the beautiful woman, hs eaid slowly and distinctly:

"It is absolutely necessary that I know whether he intends to purchase the Suez Canal. If he does, R outbid him——"

Mrs. Travers smiled, and responded:

"You can trust me to obtain this information. When have I failed to obtain facts for you?"

"Never, my dear Mrs. Travers," the Russian responded. "And I feel equally certain you will succeed in this adventure Watch Disraeli very closely. Look the others over and see how you can use them. Did you not say that the Duke is your warm, personal friend?"

"Yes, indeed. Glastonbury will do anything I ask, I feel very sure," replied Mrs. Travers.

Rising to his feet, the Ambassador took her gloved hand, and inspected a large diamond ring she wore.

"And I can distinctly forsee, my dear Mrs. Travers, that Russia will soon be buying you more diamonds!"

"Come, Lumley! We must be away! It is very good of your Excellency—the diamonds, I mean! One of my weaknesses! We shall keep you informed of everything that happens at The Towers."

And tossing the Ambassador a kiss, Mrs. Travers caught up her great skirt and taking Foljambe's arm she turned and left.

IV.

He liveth here in stately style.
My Lord, their god, His Grace.

Glastonbury Towers, the residence of the celebrated Duke of Glastonbury, was built during the early years of the reign of King Henry VII., and retains to this day the beauty that was then laid upon it by architect and gardener. England boasts of few ducal residences to compare with The Towers. It was here that the Duke entertained the Queen, as well as the princes of the royal house, and their exalted visitors. The Duke was a man of medium height, who had distinguished himself in half a dozen wars, and although past middle age now, was still robust, and fond of life in the open. He lived much in his gardens.

The Duchess of Glastonbury had white hair, which accentuated her charm. Tall, graceful, the ideal hostess, the Duchess had one fault, a prejudice against the Jews in general, and against one Jew in particular—the Prime Minister of England, Lady Brook, the Duchess' eldest daughter lived with her husband at The Towers.

And there was another member of this household and to humor her whims and to make her refrain from doing what her elders did not approve of and to make her bow to the petty convention that meant so much in the lives of the nobility of Queen Victoria's time, occupied nearly every hour and formed the subject of nearly every conversation of the other four.

Beautiful Clarissa! Impetuous Clarissa! Disobedient Clarissa—they spoke in these words of the Lady Prevensey, the youngest daughter of the Glastonbury's, as dainty a girl and as headstrong a miss as had ever been turned out by a private school to wreak havoc among her elders on her return home. And the more the family tried to curb her, the more uncontrollable did Clarissa seem to become—and yet there were quiet depths in her large brown eyes and there was often so serious a line about her rosy lips that shrewder observers than her parents and sister and brother-in-law may well have concluded that under her bubbling manner were sensible thoughts and that great strength of character and singleness of purpose would some day take the place of her capricious, April-weather ways.

To see the healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside bathing every morning for a week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges or whose skin is sallow or pallid, that one week of inside bathing will have them looking and feeling better every way.

CHAPTER XXXIV

MARY SMITH ADVISES

Once and once only did Jack and I discuss our first quarrel. He had not intended to offend me by his order, "Come back here!"

He had surmised that I was deeply hurt by his visit to Mrs. Herrod; he imagined that I was running away from him, and his stern tone and abrupt command were due to his distress and nervousness.

I confessed that my feelings had been terribly lacerated by visions of his game with the beautiful blonde widow; I said that I was wrong, that I was proving myself unable to live by our futurist radical rules for mutual freedom after marriage.

"You proposed it, Peggins, you know! I admit the theory sounds sane, but isn't it possible that it conflicts with human instincts?"

"I wonder!" I replied. "For really, Jack, I'm getting to be just as jealous as any old-fashioned wife dominated by Mrs. Grundy!"

"Looked at so, I guess we'd better revise our contract!"

"Are you never jealous, Jack?"

"I don't think so—I don't think so!"

"Then—then we won't revise it!"

Alone, I meditated upon the situation. Was jealousy unescapable for the wife? Jack didn't care whether or not I played love scenes with Bart at the Little Playhouse. Was he not vastly different from most men?

This was all too intimate to discuss with the girls, but I described to them the exciting scene in the park.

"So Jack played the cave-man," commented Jeanne. "He pursued you—laid low your assailant carried you back home in truly primitive style!"

"And might have been shot for his pains!" Mary Smith, the practical, reminded us. "And if he'd been killed, Peg, it would have been your fault."

"Seems to me Jack won every way," Jeanne meditated.

"He did!" was Mary's decision. "A man usually does when a wife sets out to discipline a husband. Peg, you might as well learn now as any time that you'll never get anywhere with a husband by disciplining him."

"Reforming a husband seems to be a good deal like reforming a criminal," laughed Jeanne, the cynic. "You can't punish humans into being good. Try kindness, Peg. Try to understand Jack!" This, from Jeanne, was sarcasm.

Mary of the old-time training did not laugh.

"Jeanne, isn't married, you must remember Peg. She hasn't learned that there are some things about husbands a wife never can understand. But she can learn the best ways of getting along without understanding. Some of the ancient ways have proved sound—the smile, good cheer, new ideas, gay clothes. Peg, when you feel as if you would like to slap your man just take up your cook book and plan a surprise dinner for him."

CHAPTER XXXV

BILLS AND BUDGET

I'm tired of trying to live by that old budget. I guess we didn't make it out properly. Anyway, I seem to have some necessary expenses with no fund to draw on. For instance, when I make candy to give to the girls starting off on their summer travels, some of the cost is for sugar and belongs in my food bill, but what am I to do with the price of the lovely boxes I pack the candy in?

When Mrs. Herrod went away, for Jack's sake, I made her a wonderful gift. I packed some marvellous candied fruits in an elegant box, it cost me $4.85! Fortunately, I had it charged so I can take my time to decide where it ought to be credited in my accounts. Or is it debited?

Not yet have I had the heart to show my bills to Jack, and the pile grows higher the first and fifteenth of every month. The dear boy has just finished paying for the over-stuffed pieces. I asked him whom he had insured to get a percentage big enough to pay that bill. And then he owned up that he had had to draw on his savings account!

He told me so sweetly, didn't seem to be sorry, although I know he hated to disturb his savings. He said once more that he ought to be earning double his present salary, of course I must have things like other people, and it's up to him to provide them.

I did my best to comfort him, told him not to worry even if some of his friends are already in the five-figure class, with no better start then he had. I made him laugh by saying I'd be content with a "two-hander" car this summer instead of a new one.

And because I do want a little car so very much, I have decided to let the bills remain in my desk a while longer. A small car will not cost much more than my furniture, and if Jack managed that, I guess he can manage the car somehow. His credit is so good, any merchant in town will trust him for anything. So I should worry!

Things usually turn out for the best with me. Only this afternoon I seem to have discovered a way to get rid of those miserable bills without ever letting Jack know about them. But it's part of a secret, a most astonishing secret, one I never must let Jack know about.

It's Mr. Tearles! He came to see me this morning full of trouble about Bonny. It was plain that the poor old dear didn't know which way to turn.

He has found out that George Bradshaw is trying to get Bonny to elope! Just as I suspected! Mr. Tearle paced up and down my living room like an enraged lion in a cage.

Of course he can go to Bradshaw, he says, and tell him to keep away from Bonny. But if he does, if he interferes with her, she'll do something else equally scandalous, like eloping with the chauffeur. He says that he can see she's bound to elope with somebody, and he'd far rather it would be the chauffeur than Bradshaw, but neither is the man he'd pick.

"Certainly I haven't used my brains to make money for a man like G. B. to spend," he stormed. "And I couldn't disinherit the child! I couldn't! So Bradshaw expects to win!"

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

THE FINAL DETAIL

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc)

The annals of crime disclose a surprisingly large percentage of cases in which the criminal, having spent months or even years in building up the superstructure of his scheme, makes a fatal blunder in connection with some apparently unimportant detail—a blunder which wrecks his entire plan and brings his operations to the attention of the authorities.

For example, the chances were more than a thousand to one that William Brockway, counterfeiter, being desirous of securing a proof of a plate on which he was working, would select a printer who was not a personal friend of a prominent detective. But chance, which so often plays a leading role even in true detective stories, directed him to man who knew A. L. Drummond, of the United Syates Secret Service, well enough to call him by his first name.

"This man came into my place yesterday afternoon," reported the printer, "and wanted some proofs pulled of a plate which he had with him. I took one plate and told him to come back to-day—said my machinery was out of order. He didn't leave the plate but he didn't have to. I saw what it was—the figures $1000, surrounded by a lot of scroll work, just like they use on the Government notes."

"If he returns to-day," directed Drummond, "pull his proofs for him and hold out one of them for me. A couple of my men will be outside your shop, so signal tham and they'll follow your customer."

The plan worked out according to schedule, and shortly after receiving a proof of the mysterious plate, Drummond got word from his operatives that they had trailed the suspect to a house on Greenwich Street. In addition, one of the Government agents had recognized him as William E. Brockway, known to be the most expert counterfeiter in the country and the man who had achieved fame by manufacturing $100,000 worth of bonds which the Treasury Department had accepted as genuine—only to reverse its opinion some weeks later.

Drummond accordingly made a report of the entire matter to Washington and forwarded the proof of the plate which Brockway had in his possession. To his amazement, the Treasury officials stated that the figures and the scroll did not form a part of any Government currency or bond issue, and that, as Federal funds could not be used except in the search for counterfeiters of money or Government bonds, Drummond could not be permitted to handle the case.

Accordingly, all the data was turned over to the New York police, and Brockway dropped out of sight for nearly a year, until a rumour was passed along from Washington that the master-counterfeiter was working on some coup which would be the biggest of his career.

Drummond knew where to find Brockway, but the Secret Service men had to work under a handicap, because the ex-convict appeared to have an uncanny way of knowing just when he was being followed. Then he would slip, and twist and turn and lose himself, no matter how many men were trailing him.

As a last resort, Drummond enlisted the services of his son, a boy of 10, whom he sent to the elevated station at Twenty-Eighth and Sixth Avenue, with instructions to play around there until he received a signal from two of the operatives. Brockway, not dreaming that the Secret Service had begun to use children as detectives, was unsuspicious, and the boy followed him until he entered the St. James Hotel, then at the corner of Twenty-Sixth and Broadway. With that much of the trail blazed, it was easy to pick up the rest, and within a few days Drummond was notified that the counterfeiter divided his time between the St. James and a house on Lexington Avenue. His associates were two men of about his own age, men whom Drummond recognized as Lewis Martin and Nathan Foster, both of them proficient in all branches of the work connected with the manufacture and passing of counterfeit money.

But even then Chief Brookes, of the Secret Service, declined to allow Drummond to handle the case officially, because all the indications pointed to a plot to counterfeit railroad bonds rather than United States currency. It was only when Inspector Byrnes, of the New York police force, asked permission to use Drummond as a private agent that Washington permitted him to continue with the case.

Using the proof of the $1000 scroll," as a foundation, Drummond searched through all the prominent bond issues listed on Wall Street until he found its counterpart—the central portion of the bonds of the Central Pacific Railroad.

Armed with this information, which was essential to the securing of a definite and specific warrant, Drummond raided the house on Lexington Avenue, and Martin's room at the St. James Hotel. There, in addition to dies, seals and tracing paper, he found fifty-seven counterfeit $1000 Central Pacific bonds, all of which were so perfectly executed that one of the officers of the company said he would not have had the least hesitation in cashing the coupons. The care which had been taken with the bonds was apparent from the fact that Brockway had secured a number of quill pens with which to sign the documents—because the president of the company always used a quill pen.

He had slipped up on only one detail, the choice of a printer to pull the proofs of the plate; but this slip cost him five years in the penitentiary!

Jade was in great demand during the war because of its supposed mascot properties.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 12. Wheat went soaring in price yesterday, and for May delivery showed an overnight gain of 7 1-2c a bushel. Enthusiasts for a higher range of values contended that the heaviest deliveries likely to be witnessed here this month had been met and that yesterday's results were evidence that the bears had lost control of the market.

The closing quotations were strong, 2 to 7 1-2c net higher with May 1.45 to $1.45 1-4 and July $1.26 3-4 to $1.27. Corn finished 7-8 to 1 5-8c and 1 3-4c up, and oats gained 3-8 and 1-2 to 5-8c. In provisions the outcome varied from 2c decline to 70c advance.

MONTREAL, May 12.— In sympathy with the sharp advance in the prices for oats in Winnipeg a stronger feeling prevailed on the local spot market with prices marked up 1c per bushel. The domestic trade in flour was steady. There was no change in the millfeed situation and prices were firm in rolled oats. The baled hay market was fairly active. There was nothing new in the egg situation. Butter prices ruled 1-2c per lb easier. The cheese market was steady.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, May 12. Canadian Press. — Receipts were 135 cattle and calves, 285 hogs and 25 sheep and lambs. Trading was again slow on the cattle market yesterday but bidding generally maintained a very steady tone. Desirable handyweight steers ranged from $7.50 to $7.75; butcher cows $5.05 to $6; good stockers $5.25; fair to good feeders, $4.50 to $5.05.

The hog market was unchanged at 12.25 for selects.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, May 12. — Eastern egg markets have a very strong undertone, Toronto being reported very firm, and Montreal firmer. One firm in Western Ontario is reported to being offering 34c for fresh firsts government inspected. Ontario country markets generally are higher, track shippers paying 28c to country stores and asking 28 1-2c to 29 1-2c for current receipts.

Receipts are said to be declining at some Ontario points.

ROOSTERS SHY OF BIG CROWD

One of Them Found His Voice and Owner Won Prize.

At their monthly meeting last night which took the form of a social and entertainment the Peterborough Poultry Association had the largest atendance to date. T. Darrah presided. The crowd of poultrymen and guests not only filled the Trades Hall but extended out into the vestibule. A particular feature of the evening was a crowing contest. Only one rooster would crow and it was awarded the prize. Its owner promptly gave it to President Darrah to auction off and the funds went to the treasury. Addresses were delivered by Inspector A. Mowat G. A. Gillespie, Ald. Robert Morrison, and J. Ellis. Vocal and instrumental numbers were enjoyable features and a plentitude of cigars and appetizing refreshments undoubtedly accounted for the good-fellowship that prevailed. The work of the Poultry Association in raising the poultry standard was highly commended.

The superintendent's recommendation that the three filter operators be paid at the rate of $90 a month was adopted, to take effect May 1st. His recommendation that is cases where services are laid to a new building which will not be completed till the following year, the charge be made for water from November was laid over.

According to a report the estimated cost of a 14 inch main from Cambridge and McDonnell streets to Weller and Monaghan Road is $9,800 with a revenue of -336.20 to be expected

Improvements to the property at the Filtration plant were considered and it was decided to go ahead with spreading loam and seeding, constructing retaining walls, gravel and footpaths at a total cost of about $3000.

89TH ANNIVERSARY PRESBYTERIANISM HERE.

Will Be Observed in St. Paul's Church Sunday.

Presbyterianism in Peterborough has reached its eighty-ninth birthday this spring. There were Presbyterians here before that time; but the first effort to supply them regularly with preaching services was made in the spring of 1833, when Rev. John M. Roger, a minister of the Church of Scotland, arrived from Scotland, and gathered together a small congregation here, and another on the boundary of Cavan, near Springville. It was not until the close of the following year that a kirk session was organised, and not until February, 1835, a grant was made of the land on which St. Andrew's Church now stands, and the following year, 1836, a church home was erected by the congregation, in which they continued to worship until 1857. It being necessary to vacate the building, the congregation sought a new location, and erected a suitable place of worship in the year 1859 on the site of the present church, where it continued to be ministered to by Rev. Mr. Roger, its first and only minister, the session and managers being also the same as in the old church. Mr. Roger continued as minister until 1875. The Rev. E. F. Torrane of St. Paul's served the congregation faithfully and well until 1907. The present minister, Rev. R. Pogue, was called to the work in St. Paul's in 1907. He will complete fifteen ygears as its pastor this coming December. So that the congregation enjoys the unique distinction of having had only three ministers in eighty-nine years of history.

St. Paul's is now one of the strongest charges, outside of the great cities, in the Province. Its membership is almost 1,100. It is known not only for the liberal support of its own work, but of every good cause which claims its interest. Its total givings for all purposes last year were over $31,000.00.

The anniversary preacher on Sunday next at St. Paul's is the Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, of Bloor Street Church, Toronto. Dr. Pidgeon is among the foremost preachers and leaders of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Mr. Frank Oldfield, of Toronto, the noted baritone singer, who is to take part in the choir concert of Monday evening, will sing at both services on the Lord's Day.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 12. Canadian Press. — Steel shares were the central feautres at the opening of today's stock market. The proposed merger of the Bethlehem and Lakawanna Companies overshadowed all other developments. Lackawanna opened with a single offering of 4000 shares at 73 to 74, followed by 3000 shares at 74 3-4 and 100 shares at 75, an overnight advance of 9 1-4 points.

Beth Steel rose only 1-2 a point and other issues of that division were irregular. Midvale Steel which figures in prospective merger of half a dozen other companies, was distinctly heavy soon losing 1 1-8 points; Pierce Arrow Pfd also re-acted 1 point on announcement that the merger with Lafayette was off. Gen Elec rose 1 1-2 points and Lac-Lede Gas, one of yesterday's strongest features, gained 1 3-4 points.

Lakawanna's early reaction of 3 1-2 points was accompanied by losses of 1 1-2 to almost 2 points, in Republic, Replogle and Vanadium. Pierce Arrow Pfd extended its losses to 4 points, common dropping 2 points. Studebaker, Standard Oils of New Jersey, California, New York Central, Utah Copper, and Virginia Carolina Chemical Pfd, embraced other heavy shares of the first hour. Posting of 3 3-4 per cent. opening and renewal rate for call money occasioned another brisk advance in independent steels. Lakawanna rebounded to 77 3-4, an extreme rise of 12 points, and Beth Steel gained 3 1-4 points.

Bullish enthusiasm reached high pitch in steels, all of the more prominent members of the group excelling their high figures of the morning. Lower priced issues also moved up in resolute fashion. Sloss Sheffield Steel gained 4 points and remained 1 to 2 points. Equipments, coppers, tobaccos and Mex Pet were also in the forefront of the upward movement.

BUCKET SHOPS FEAR THE N.Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—(Canadian Press).—That the governors of the Montreal Stock Exchange have no control over the members, and are powerless to discipline them for fraud, was the assertion made by Seymour L. Cromwell, President of the New York Exchange, in an address at a dinner given by the Philadelphia Stock Exchange last night. Mr. Crowell was expressing opposition to the proposed legislation to compel the incorporation of the New York Stock Exchange.

"I believe that the one enemy that the bucket shop really fears is the Stock Exchange" said Mr. Cromwell.

"In Montreal, in an incorporated Exchange, working really under the old Napoleonic code, an attempt to discipline members for fraud is a farce; members are fined and do not pay; members take into partnership with the people of bad reputation and the Exchange is helpless to prevent it".

ONE DRINK ENOUGH TO PARALYZE A MAN

Occupation of Spotters Declared Demoralizing

TORONTO, May 12.—(Canadian Press). — The occupation of O.T. A. operators or "spotters" had demoralizing effect on men employed in that work, General Elliott former commissioner of the provincial police, told the public accounts committee of Legislature to-day.

He explained that often men who seemed to have good records before they entered service soon committed varied offences. General Elliott explained that "spotters" in order to get evidence had to go into "dives" where they must drink liquor.

He was asked if it were necessary for a spotter to take more than one drink. "No" he replied, "but one drink of such stuff was enough to paralyze a man". Witness thought that it was his drinking as well as environments and associations among the bootleggers that caused spotters to go bad.

THE HOME CIRCLE

AULD LANG SYNE

It singeth low in every heart,
We hear it each and all,
A song of those who answer not,
However we may call,
They throng the silence of the breast,
We see them as of yore—
The kind, the brave, the true, the sweet
Who walk with us no more.

'Tis hard to take the burden up
When these have laid it down.
They brightened all the joy of life,
They softened every frown.
But, oh, 'tis good to think of them
When we are troubled sore;
Thanks be to God that such have been,
Although they bee no more.

More homelike seems the vast unknown
Since they have entered there,
To follow them were not so hard,
Whatever they may fare.
They cannot be where God is not,
On any sea or shore,
What'er betides, thy love abides,
Our God, forevermore.

There is an old saying whose value most people believe, has worn itself out. That is: "Every cloud has a silver lining." The truth of the matter is, when we are looking at the cloudy side we haven't faith to believe in the silver linings that other clouds have had.

Now that you have time, just think of all the clouds that have sailed across your sky in the past. Haven't they each and every one turned inside out and spilled a blessing on you? Can't you trace some good that has come to you from each one?

The shadow cast by some clouds are very long and you may not be able to see the silver lining yet but sooner or later it is bound to show up. Let your faith from other tests prove to you that this will be so

At one time in our life we knew a man whose impatience was his undoing. He was a brilliant man but always impossible to work with for he become unbearably impatient with anyone who did not see through things or could not get things accomplished as quickly as himself.

One day he was in an accident and both limbs were broken. He was in bed many weeks and he certainly could see no silver lining in the cloud that was hanging over him. Not so his nurse and friends. After the first terrible fortnight his disposition began to improve and he began gradually to improve and he came out of that experience a changed man. He had learned the lesson of patience and he had learned that no cloud, regardless of how black it may appear, is without its silver lining.

HARBOR TALK

(From The Bookman.)

More lonesome than a lonesome ship at sea,
The sailing moon rides beautifully by,
Blown from such purple harbors as may be
In unimagined corners of the sky.
She is not careless where she gazes down
On sleepy streets the silver silence fills,
But thoughtful ever of a little town,
And foolish-fond of little, wooded hills.

Seafolks are given so to telling tales,
I think the moon when she puts in at last,
May spin story where she reefs her sails,
And there she talks of shorelands that she passed

A sleepy town ..... a lonesome little hill.

—David Morton.

The young people of our town who are attending distant schools and colleges are now settled down to work and the old home town will some day get the reflected glory of their efforts. Probably these young people can never realize until some years from now when they in their turn see the younger generation depart for their various places of learning, just how the old home town is standing behind them, ready to condone their faults and boast of their achivements. We wish for each and every one of them all the success and happiness there is in life.

ITALY MUST HAVE HER INTERESTS SAFEGUARDED

GENEVA, May 12. — (Canadian Press) Consideration of the league of Nations' protectorate for Albania was suddenly blocked at this morning's session of the Council of the League of Nations, when Marquis Imperiali of Italy, stated that Italy could not consent to such drastic supervision of Albanian affairs by the League without being assured that her interests in that country would be safeguarded.

LUTHER BURBANK'S HOTH OUSE, WHERE HUNDREDS OF NEW PLANT CREATIONS HAV E BEEN DICOVERED.

FLOWER HINTS.

Among other flowers needing some special attention is the petunia, though a lovely bed will reward good care.

BURBANK

In preparing your seedbed mix leafmold and sand with your soil, unless the earth already is sandy. Fill the seedpans with this mixture and give it a good watering. After the water has seeped in well sprinkle the seed evenly over the surface. The seeds not be covered with soil. To insure protection a pane of glass may be placed over the beds and they should be protected from the sun for a time. When the seeds sprout, which should be within two weeks if kept in a temperature of about 60 degrees, take off the glass and transplant, spacing about an inch apart.

A general list of flowers for a larger garden might also include cannas, foxglove, cosmos, Canterbury bells, verbenas and Shasta daisies—but in most of these flowers the use of seed beds is likely to give best results.

Of course whether the beginner wishes to attempt flowers that need special attention is a question he alone can determine. As has been said previously he cannot go wrong on hardy annuals and with the use of seedbeds, with leaf mould and sometimes sand mixed in the soil, and with some care given to protection aaginst the sun and against pests, he is likely to get results from the less hardy flowers.

BOUNDARIES OF FIRE LIMITS

position to revoke the said permission.

Repairing Building.

The repairing of a building shall be considered as re-erection of such building if the cost of such repairs shall, in the opinion of the Building Inspector, be one-third of the total value of such building.

Pull Down Buildings.

Any building or erection which may be erected, altered, enlarged, repaired or placed in contravention of this by-law may be pulled down or removed at the expense of the owner thereof, by or under the direction of the Building Inspector, subject to five days' notice in writing to the owner, lessee or agent of the building, requiring him to pull down or remove such building or structure.

Repairing Frame Buildings.

Any existing frame building within the fire limits, which may be damaged by fire, decay or otherwise to any amount greater than two-thirds of its value, exclusive of the foundation, shall not be repaired or rebuilt, but shall be removed.

This clause formerly designated the damage at one-half the value of the building.

Walls.

The by-law is unchanged in the requirement that all exterior or division walls must be at least nine inches thick.

For all walls of the dwelling-house class, the upper two stories shall be not less than nine inches thick, increasing four and one-half inches in thickness for each two stories or fraction thereof below. No two-storey increment shall exceed twenty-five feet in height.

In all buildings, except dwellings or frame buildings or skeleton construction, party walls and fire walls which serve as bearing walls on both sides shall be not less than thirteen inches thick for the upper two stories or upper twenty-five feet, increasing four and one-half inches in thickness for each two stories or fraction thereof below.

Brick set on edge shall not be permitted in chimney construction except in internal divisions.

No chimney in any building shall be started or built upon any floor or platform of wood.

Stoves.

No person shall place a stove in any house or building without leaving at least twenty-four inches clear from any woodwork immediately above such stove, and nine inches from any woodwork opposite the sides of the stove.

Clause Omitted.

The following clause has been omitted from the new edition of the by-law: At each floor level in all buildings hereinafter erected all stud walls, partitions, furrings and spaces between joists where they rest on division walls or partitions shall be fire stopped with incombustible material in a way to completely cut off communication by fire through concealed spaces. Such fire stopping shall extend the full denth of the joists and at least one inch above each floor level.

Advertising Devices.

Application for the approval of existing signs or advertising devices on private property shall be made to the Council, and, if the Council approves, the Building Inspector shall grant a permit, such permit to be renewed annually in January, subject to the approval of the Building Inspector.

Wall Board Accepted.

The invasion of wall board into the plasterers' field is recognized in the following clause: In all buildings used for human habitation, all ceilings and both sides of frame partitions shall be lathed and plastered or covered with approved wall board. The plastering shall be not less than three-eighths of an inch in thickness.

City Engineer Parsons is the Building Inspector. The by-law carries a penalty for its infraction of not more than $50 fine.

IE LICIT INTEREST

The topic under discussion was the advantage of a woman's stocking as a bank. "Nowadays women wear hose so thin that you can read the serial numbers on the bills in the bank roll," advanced the New Enpgled Guy. "Oh! I admit the principle is all right, but the money draws altogether too much interest.

SAYS SHE WILL PRAISE IT LONG AS SHE LIVES

Weak, Fainty Spells Are Gone, She Can Eat Anything, And Feels Fine All the Time, Declares Esteemed Dickens Resident.

"What Tanlac has done for me will make me praise it as long as I live," said Mrs. May Barfoot, Dickens P. O., Manitoba.

"About a year ago my appetite began to fail and nothing I ate agreed with me. This condition grew worse until finally my food would lie in my stomach, sour and ferment, causing gas to form and press against my heart until it palpitated dreadfully. I often had weak, fainty spells, suffered terribly with headaches, and my nerves were in a frightful condition. I could not get my sleep or rest and simply felt dreadful.

"I tried all kinds of medicines without getting any relief, but Tanlac proved to be exactly what I needed, and today I am a well woman. I could not do anything else but praise this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

FRENCH REFUSE

To Study Finance.

The Russian proposal for a joint commission to study Finance was designed to remove this difficult question from the realm of the Genoa Conference and permit the confreres here to continue the discussion of the political and economic aspects of Russia's relations with the rest of the world.

The political sub-committee of the conference was to meet this afternoon to consider the reply as soon as word had been received from Paris.

QUITE UNACCEPTABLE.

(By Webb Miller For United Press).

PARIS, May 12.—"The Russian reply is utterly unacceptable," Premier Poincare of France declared after reading the note presented to the Allies at Genoa by M. Tchitcherin yesterday.

"The French delegation will not be permitted to participate further in the work of the political sub-commission at the Genoa Conference," he added.

An immediate rupture of relations with Russia was believed probable by those who heard the French Premier's denunciation of the Soviet note.

Poincare declared the French delegation was remaining temporarily at Genoa only because the economic questions, such as transportation, were considerable, and France wished to participate helpfully.

"The Russian reply is ironical, pompous, hypocritical and inacceptable from every point of view," Poincare said. "I do not believe a single nation can possibly accept such a contradiction of the 'Cannes' program. The reply does not contain a single word on which to base the slightest hope. Neither Allies nor neutrals can accept it."

that animals fed on foods lacking minerals die sooner than starved animals. This shows the imperative need of minerals in foods. Yet modern white flour and prepared cereals have little or no minerals, because the bran and fat are removed. Prof. Forbes, an authority on food chemistry, says: "The minerals of grains are in their seed coats (bran) and germ (life part). Wheat contains three times, and bran twelve times as much mineral as white flour."

Yet, women give the family only those cereals lacking minerals, then wonder why children are ill, pale, spindly or deformed. Roman Meal contains all the valuable minerals of three whole grains, and makes delicious, nourishing porridge. It compensates for lack of minerals in common food. It also prevents constipation. New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Why the Moth Is Attracted to the Flame

ENTOMOLOGISTS explain that the fatal lure of the flame for the moth and other insects is due solely to the peculiar construction of the insect's eyes, but just how insects see and how their eyes resolve the picture is not definitely known. Scientists do know how the eye is formed, understand its structure to its minutest detail, but its action can not be determined with absolute accuracy from these facts.

Many insects, and especially the moths, are nocturnal in habit. They are much more lively at night than during the day. The same is true of many beetles. Others with similar habits are the locusts, crickets, mosquitoes, May flies, caddis flies, etc. All these insects are lured by bright lights to which they fly as if intoxicated. And they remain as if held by some invisible bond, and if one of them is grasped in the hand, and thrown into the darkness where the light does not penetrate, it will return the next instant.

The reason for this, as Dr. E. Bade explains, in Science and Invention, is that the eye, which is stimulated through the light, transforms the wave motion of light into nerve motions. This optical stimulus of the nerve end organs makes the insect fly toward the light. Since the compound eyes are only slightly sensitive to light, these, in all probability, do not cause the animal to deviate from its course and fly into the magic circle of artificial light. This is accomplished by the simple eyes or ocelli. These simple eyes undoubtedly also influence the direction of flight besides keeping the body in an upright horizontal position.

When the body is in its normal position, each of the simple eyes receives equal illumination. Where there are three ocelli present, as is usually the case, one of the ocelli, when the body is tilted, will receive less light than the other two which are looking upward. For this purpose the compound eyes may suffice for the day-flying insects, but these are much too weak for the nocturnal prowlers and here the ocelli, which are much more sensitive to light and darkness, must come into play. These, as well as the compound eyes are focussed upon the light, so that the axis of the body lies in line with its source and both sides of the head receive equally strong illumination. In this position the insects fly toward the lamp. When, therefore, an insect is flying in the dusk and it receives a beam of light upon any one of its three simple eyes, it immediately turns its body so that all eyes receive the light with equal intensity, and then flies directly into the light.

By far the greater part of the insects have two kinds of eyes: Simple or dot-like eyes also called ocelli, and the main or compound eyes.

The simple eyes are generally found on flying insects. These are not faceted although they are composed of a group of simple eyes. The number of optical cells composing the eye varies with the different species of insects. Where there are only a few, the animal can only distinguish between light and shadow. The range of sight increases with an increase of the active optical cells. In their detailed structure, except for a few minor individual characteristics, the simple eyes are exactly similar to each facet of the compound eye.

The compound eyes are often very large, curved, and protruding far from the head. They are seldom flat or flattened. When seen under the magnifying glass or the microscope, the eye seems to consist of numerous hexagonal facets. The number varies from about 100 to 27,000 and each of the six-sided faces act like an individual eye. This means that the extreme end forms a cylindrical or rodlike organ. It consists of two lenses, four cones which break the light, and seven or eight optical cells. Each of the facets is divided from the other by a black pigment, so that each of the facets acts as an independent eye and forms a part of the visible picture. Through the combined action of all facets, the object viewed is brought to a harmonic whole. But each part of the compound eye makes only that part of the object visible which lies in its axis. At the end of the retinal lining a reduced, upright image is then produced, which consists of many partial pictures mosaicly brought together.

The range of visibility is by no means great, in all probability insects cannot see further than about six feet, and if they are able to notice motionless objects has not, as yet, been determined.

Colors can be distinguished without difficulty, and some of them seem to react more favorably than others, but here again the colors preferred by some are shunned by other species. By means of sight, and not by the odor, the honey bee seeks the flower in order to remove the nectar.

Under normal conditions, the ocelli are equally illuminated from the sky, and the insects are able to dodge darker objects which lie in their path. Thus the simple eyes admirably serve that purpose for which they are adapted.

The majority of insects have, on the retinal lining, only rods, and such eyes are color blind and are only able to distinguish between light and darkness to a much greater degree than normal eyes, which have in addition cones with which colors can be distinguished. All animals possessing only the rod-bearing retina are nocturnal in habit and shun the light. But in the darkness these animals can distinguish the slightest differences in light and shadow, and these eyes, are, at this time, much superior to those of the color-seeing animals.

Why VENTILATION in CLOTHING Is VITAL to HEALTH

VENTILATION in clothes is vital from a health point of view, according to recent findings by Dr. Leonard Hill, an English physician. Experiments show that custom and fashion are responsible for clothes which are either unsuitable in character or in quantity. The chief error is lack of ventilation, and it can be asserted that too heavy clothing is less of an evil. The badly ventilated garment inflicts injury because it induces excessive perspiration and "leaves the skin needlessly long in an active state." Scientific clothing should, on the contrary, allow great adaptability of body to change of temperature. It should not provoke perspiration in a man at rest in still air at a low temperature.

Dr. Hill and a companion investigator, Dr. Flack, made many observations on cooling power, sitting dressed in shirt and trousers out of doors on a cliff on the east coast of England in the summer. They found that it made little difference whether the shirt worn was cellular, cotton or flannelette or flannel: the cooling power depended not on the nature of the material, but on the amount of restriction of ventilation—that is, on weaving and looseness. Double garments very much reduce cooling power.

The choice of clothes, therefore, so far as health is concerned, is a choice of shape and texture—not of material. It is neither healthy nor unhealthy to wear or not to wear wool or cotton next the skin. If the clothes are designed for cold weather they should be relatively close-fitting and of such fabrics as will prevent evaporation. Moreover, it must be remembered that heat loss is enormously greater when clothes become wet, because wet materials stick to the skin. Thus flannels and loosely woven materials which, when wet, stick least easily to the skin lose least heat. The "entangled air" in them acts as a heat retainer.

Hot weather clothes should be of exactly the opposite type, as has already been pointed out. Here the object is the production of air currents next to the skin. Looseness is the first consideration.

The qualities of hygienic clothing are contained not so much in the fibre itself as in the manner of weaving and the looseness or tightness of the complete garment. That is to say, the same results can be obtained with wool, cotton or linen by weaving out of each a material with the same "porosity" and air holding power, permeability to moving air and water evaporating power. Thus, "dry cotton flannelette is no less warm than flannel." The flannel is the warmer when wet, but the clothes of the citizen are rarely wet.

The colder the weather, other things being equal, the less ventilation by the clothes is desirable; hot weather makes ventilation a matter of supreme importance. For bad ventilation hinders evaporation, which is nature's method of cooling. "The ideal protection of a white from the sun in the tropics," says Dr. Hill, "is an umbrella, allowing free movement of air and sweating. The nearly naked native seeks the shade as a monkey does, or wears an umbrella-like hat. Loose, flapping garments worn in hot weather set up currents of air inside the clothes and so help evaporation. In this connection a porous substitute for shoes is also required."

Is It POSSIBLE for the BODY to DIE TWICE?

THE increasing number of persons who, to all intents and purposes, have been dead and then restored to life gives rise to the question, "Can the body die twice?"

One instance, which occurred in Yorkshire, England, was that of a woman, said by her doctor to be dead, who showed signs of returning life within a quarter of an hour, is a case in point.

There was also the case of a child, eleven months old, who apparently died while undergoing an operation, and could not be revived even by massage of the heart. The little one's body had actually become cold when the doctor made an injection of a substance called adrenalin.

The result of this treatment on the child's heart, which had ceased to beat for four minutes, was that it immediately began to beat again, and the patient made a perfect recovery.

There is also on record the sudden dropping dead of a woman of thirty; in other words, she would have been left for dead by the ordinary practitioner, for she was pulseless, her heart had stopped beating, her jaws were set, and her eyes glazed. Fortunately she was seen by a doctor who had had experience in the use of adrenalin. He injected a dose, and soon the woman was sitting up and talking to her friends.

In cases where there is no disease or damage of any of the vital bodily organs, restoration to life is quite possible if the appropriate remedy can be applied in good time.

But there are many cases in which, as in the first of those mentioned above, the patient may have been ill for some time owing to disease of one or other of the bodily organs.

One patient was a young woman of about thirty; she had been ill for some time, and was very emaciated. Gradually her heart failed, her pulse ceased, her limbs grew cold, her eyes glazed, and her jaw dropped.

In the morning a relative of the patient called. To every one's surprise, she wanted to know what the patient was to eat, as she was sitting up and demanding food! The patient made a complete recovery.

In the other case, a boy of thirteen had been ill for some weeks with chronic peritonitis, and was sinking rapidly. He was mere skin and bone. As he sank his eyes became expressionless and glazed. Seen by a specialist in consultation, the verdict was "no hope." He, too, was left, at the last, almost dead. But the next morning he had lost all the appearance of approaching death. Soon he began to take food, and ultimately got quite well.

There are authenticated cases of apparent death being produced by auto-suggestion. Indian fakirs and other religious enthusiasts in Eastern countries claim to be able to do this. There is the case of a distinguished holy man who, to convince a certain Maharajah that he possessed this power over himself, apparently died, and was laid in a sealed coffin within a vault, the entrance to which was sealed and guarded by soldiers. When, after six weeks, he was taken out of his tomb in the presence of the Rajah and several credible witnesses, he was found to display every appearance of death. Having been revived gradually by his own servant, the still ghastly-looking creature sat up and spoke to the Rajah: "Do you believe me now?"

How WINKING WASHES the EYES

HAVE you ever tried to see how long you could go without winking? You will find it very difficult to carry on for more than a minute or so, and very uncomfortable, too. This winking business, you see, is very necessary. It is, in fact, an arrangement of Nature for keeping your eyeballs clean, moist and comfortable.

The eyelids might be called the automatic oilers of the eye, only the fluid is not oil, but a somewhat salty mixture which is secreted by the tear glands.

There is one of these glands at the inner corner of each eye. If you examine your eye by pulling down the lower eyelid with the finger, you can easily see the mouth of this little gland, no bigger than a pin-prick. The passage from it connects with the nose, and that is why, when you have a bad cold, your eyes water so constantly.

It is absolutely necessary that you should wink and wink often. But you don't need to think about it. Your sub-conscious mind sees to that. It is a process which, for want of a better word, is called instinctive. Winking is accomplished with even less conscious effort than breathing.

Some persons wink more often than others. A nervous person may even wink as often, perhaps, as 50,000 times during the sixteen waking hours of the day. In such a case the eyelids travel about 25,000 inches in the day. Thus, in the case of a person fifty years old, his eyelids have traveled a total distance of more than seven thousand miles.

A wink is not a long operation. It occupies altogether about two-fifths of a second. Even when you are reading, the process continues, but so rapid is the wink that you are not conscious of any interruption.

Why SALT Is Necessary to the BLOOD

SHOULD we or should we not eat salt? The craving of most people answers the question, says a recent writer, but even so there are certain medical authorities who are not in favor of the salt-eating habit.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, an eminent authority on hygiene and disease, has lately made an interesting pronouncement on the subject of salt. Common salt, he says, is simply the most convenient salty substance which can be used for keeping up the necessary density, or thickness, of the blood under varying conditions.

All the salts which are found in sea-water are found in the body. Man requires, it seems, from half a teaspoonful to one and a half teaspoonfuls of salt daily in order to keep his blood in good condition. It is said to be impossible to select a day's diet containing less than a teaspoonful of salt, while generally, according to one authority, there is consumed in an ordinary diet, with the aid of the salt cellar, between four and six teaspoonfuls a day. So if you like plenty of salt, advises Dr. Woods Hutchinson, take it. The craving shows your need for it.

There are, in fact, more uses for salt than most persons dream of. Dr. F. P. Armstrong, director of education for Leicester, in a new work entitled "Diet and Race," asks how far the presence of salt in the blood affects the color of the race. He suggests that a plentiful supply of salt produces the fairest races. Where salt or salt-containing foods are luxuries, the upper or wealthier classes will be fairer than the lower or poor classes. Among the Tibetans, for instance, the upper classes are as white as Europeans; the common complexion is tawny.

One thing is certain—salt is a commodity of which the earth will never run short. Scientists say that there is enough salt in the sea to cover the entire earth with a layer 200 feet deep.

It used to be thought that the salt of the ocean came from the land rocks, from which it was dissolved by the rain and carried down into the sea by the rivers. In fact, the rate at which this progress of deposition is going on has been used to calculate the age of the earth.

But it is now known that deposition from the land is not the chief source, not even one of the chief sources, of the sea's salt. Of the salts held in solution in the rivers and streams 80 per cent. is calcium carbonate, and only 7 per cent. is chloride, whereas nearly 90 per cent. of the mineral compounds in sea water are sodium chloride.

Modern geologists, therefore, believe that while the land may add a yearly trifle to the sea's salt, it is only a trifle, and the sea must always have been salt—its salinity is an original, not a derived, condition.

The geologist Suess holds that the source of the sea salt was the volcanic eruptions that occurred when the earth's crust was beginning to harden and the seas to form upon it. Volcanic eruptions nowadays, he says, give forth gaseous compounds containing chlorine, much of which is brought down to earth by rain.

After each eruption of Vesuvius, the crater is found to be covered with a gleaming white crust of sea salt, and the volcanoes of South America throw out enormous quantities of hydrochloric acid.

Iodine Still First as a Disinfectant

IODINE still holds first place as a skin and wound disinfectant in surgical technic, particularly in the industrial medical field. In New York city the Conference Board of Physicians in Industry, which acts as adviser to the National Industrial Conference Board, on medical problems in industry, recently investigated the extent to which iodine is used as a wound disinfectant in industrial work, the strength in which it is used and the method of preliminary cleansing of the wound before the application of iodine and dressings.

Replies were received from 65 physicians, all of whom were doing industrial work or surgey closely allied to industry. Forty-five replied that they used a solution of 5 per cent. strength or less and 20 used U. S. P. or greater strength. A few industrial physicians said they did not use iodine, or only sparingly. These men preferred such disinfectants as dichloramin-T, picric acid, Dakin's solution and similar products. The objection to iodine was that it caused burns too frequently.

Several physicians emphasized the importance of having the skin perfectly dry before iodine is applied. A damp skin surface interferes with the penetration of the antiseptic. The most satisfactory method of preparing the wound area for iodine is to use alcohol and ether as final cleansing agents. In the preliminary cleansing of wounds, gasoline, alone or in conjunction with benzine or ether, is used more than any other treatment. Other agents used are soap and water, alcohol, lysol, cresolin, cresol and similar products.

Research by surgeons and prominent medical men has shown that iodine is particularly valuable because of its penetrating power and because the irritation to which it subjects a wound stimulates healing.

Such objections as have been raised to it were against the danger of burns and the discomfort it causes rather than against its efficiency as a sterilizing agent. In spite of the great popularity attained by chlorin compounds in the treatment of war wounds, iodine still holds its general popularity and favor in medical circles in the treatment of injuries in civil life.

HOW the TIDES AFFECT LIFE

WHETHER life began in the open sea or in the shallow waters of the littoral or in fresh water pools, scientists have not been able to describe. Nevertheless, one thing is certain, namely, that if life did not originate in the tidal zone nor in the area immediately below it, as some still think possible, then life was not very long in reaching there. It is unnecessary to adduce special proof of this statement: the vast number of invertebrate animals that frequent or have frequented, or that have relatives on the shore, from sponges, through coelenterates, echinoderms, worms, crustaceans, and mollusks up to ascidians, allows of no other conclusion. In its earlier youth, then, life served an apprenticeship to the tides, and it is probably not too much to say that life is continuing to show the effects. That is what biologists intend to express when they speak of the shore as the school wherein many of the most important lessons of life were learned.

To illustrate this a writer in The Scientific American cites the influence of wave-impact on the life of the seashore. This is at once made apparent to the observer, not only by the large number of fixed forms, of which the rock-barnacle is a prominent example, but also by the tendency even among free animals to keep a grip on the substratum. The adhesion of barnacles is due to a cement substance secreted by special glands in the region of the head, but in the case of sea-anemones, flat-worms, sea-slugs and sea-snails, adhesion is due merely to an exceedingly close contact of the body with the substratum. A very interesting adaptation to life in the area of wave-action is seen in a fish called the lump-sucker, which has the pelvic fins converted into a cup, or sucker, with which it clings to rocks and weeds. Mere adhesive powers are, apparently, not sufficient, since there is a tendency also to adopt a form which offers the least possible amount of resistance to the water, and, in particular, to reduce height. Shore forms are typically flattened forms.

The conclusion must be reached that the tides have not only been of very great importance in molding the present day life of the seashore, but have also had far-reaching consequences to life in general. This pulsing, ever-changing strip of the earth's surface has played a part in life out of all proportion to its size. Although, on a superficial view, it is by no means favorable to life, the tidal zone turns out, on closer examination, to be one of the richest in variety of animal life on the surface of the globe.

Casting Iron Pipe by Centrifugal Force

A NEW process for casting iron pipe centrifugally has been developed by a Brazilian engineer named De Lavaud. In this process a measured quantity of molten iron is poured into a permanent cylindrical, water-cooled iron mold which is revolved rapidly. By centrifugal force the molten metal is spread uniformly over the inner surface of the mold, where it solidifies. Almost immediately the red-hot pipe is withdrawn and passed through an annealing furnace which makes it tough and strong.

Tests made at Toronto University, Canada, show that such pipe is superior in many respects to pipe cast in the old-fashioned way in sand-molds. The walls are more uniform in thickness, the iron is dense, fine-grained and homogeneous throughout and free from gas and water bubbles. Consequently pipe, equal in strength and durability to sand-molded pipe, can be made with a smaller amount of material than the latter requires. It was found, for instance, that for all practical purposes a centrifugally-cast pipe 12 feet long, 6 inches in diameter and weighing 280 pounds is equal to a sand-cast pipe of similar dimensions weighing 430 pounds. The new pipe is now being manufactured and used in Canada.

THERE has been almost no end to the small portable boats which can be carried about in collapsed form. However, it is doubtful if any one of these already introduced offers the convenience of that shown in the accompanying illustration, which is the invention of M. E. Swinburne of Southfields, England.

The craft of this English inventor, which packs away into a small bundle measuring some two feet long by one foot wide, can be carried in the hand or under the arm. The rowboat, as described in the Scientific American, consists of an oblong arrangement containing four compartments, which are easily and quickly pumped full of air by means of a simple bellows arrangement comprising part of the equipment. The oblong structure holds the fabric floor of the craft. The accompanying illustrations, show the unique boat being carried and in use.

Mother's Day

Mother's Day will be fittingly observed in Knox Church next Sunday (May 14th), both in the church services and the Sunday School. The pupils of the primary, junior and intermediate departments of the school are asked to bring a flower each to the service, and while hymn 800 of the Book of Praise is being sung by the choir, to walk up to the front of the auditorium and place these blossoms on the table as a gift of love, honor, and in some cases remembrance of mother. The flowers will be taken charge of by the flower committee of the school and will be distributed after the service amongst the sick of the congregation. Wild flowers will be equally as acceptable as tame. The pupils will please see that the stems are as long as they can conveniently get.

The minister and superintendent of the Sunday School both ask for the co-operation of all to make this service, and for that matter, all the services of the day the success they ought to be.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will acknowledge wedding gifts on notepaper of the conventional size. White is an excellent choice, but pale gray and cream are quite correct.

You will acknowledge gifts as promptly as possible, addressing the note to the wife if the gift is from a married couple. Suggested phrasology would be: "The very beautiful cut glass vase which reached me yesterday, with your own and Mr. Dawson's card attached—"

The Great Parisian Compromise

In case you are hesitating whether to wear them just as short or to make them a trifle longer you'll be glad to know there is a sure way out. Use the new side drapes. They are the great Parisian compromise.

You may have your skirts short and your drapes long or reverse the order. It doesn't matter.

Musical Comedy at George Street

Nearly 400 people assembled in the Lecture Hall of George Street Methodist Church last evening, for the production of the musical comedy, "The Church Fair," presented by the choir, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Renwick.

The dainty comedy, with its pretty staging, bright young faces, and tuneful, melodious choruses, was followed with appreciation by the large audience. A somewhat unique effect was achieved by a presentation of a church fair, with the busy damsels behind the counters and their inquiring customers.

Counters for the sale of fancy work, candy, and flowers were arranged in the traditional bazaar fashion, with gay paper streamers, brightly-coloured candy-boxes and flowers, and the apron and handkerchief paraphernalia of a fancy work counter.

The performance opened with a bright chorus, "This is the Day of the Fair," followed by an influx of customers, led by Mrs. Renwick, who made several large purchases, and as Mrs. Wrightly, acted as collector at the door.

Musical Numbers.

"A Man's a Handy Thing to Have Around" was proclaimed by a group of cheerful young men, composed of Cliff Carruthers, Arnold Lillow, Jock Renwick, Clarence McKee, Bert Gibbons, and Paul Manning, who rendered a number of well-received choruses and sextettes. "Liza Ann" was a negro ditty in costume, with Paul Manning as "Josh," a kinky-headed, black-faced swain in small straw hat and brown suit, and Stephen Ivey as his shy sweetheart, with cerise gown and poke bonnet. Josh treats his lady love to 'two hot dogs" and trys to buy her some "pedigree work" at the "dry goods" section, what time he scurries around borrowing the cash to pay for his gifts.

Mrs. C. E. Smalley had a very pretty number, "Friendship Never Dies," with chorus, and Miss Alma Coon sang "Love is a Tyrant," "On Cupid's Scales" was a well-rendered duet by Miss Elva McIntyre and Jock Renwick, and Miss McIntyre also sang "The China Song." Mrs. Renwick was in good voice in "I'm glad I Never Knew Them," and Miss Ruth Cunningham had a dainty number in "The Gipsy Song."

Muriel Harvey and Violet McIntyre sang the "Grab Bag Song," dressed as small maidens of twelve years, with huge grab-bags. Charming young ladies in waitresses' costumes and caps of black and white gave the "Supper Room Song," when the girls forsook their posts and the young men assumed the responsibility of selling their wares. Cliff Carruthers gave away expensive-looking ferns for fifteen cents, Jock Renwick recklessly donated large boxes of candy to pretty customers, and the young men in the fancy work section became hopelessly tangled up in the mysteries of camisoles and boudoir caps.

Girls in the fancy work booth were Ethel McKay, Myra Baird, Muriel Harvey, Marjorie Ingall; Mrs. C. E. Smalley presided over the flower section, and Alma Coon at the candy counter.

Mr. J. H. Renwick acted as accompanist for the evening.

IMPERIAL OIL, LIMITED

IMPERIAL OIL BUILDING

G. H. SMITH, VICE PRESIDENT

TORONTO, ONT.

January 13th, 1922.

The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association,
Excelsior Life Building,
Toronto.

Gentlemen:-

We have been regular users of advertising space in most of the important newspapers in Canada for several years, because we recognize the fact that such advertising is a most effective and economical way to reach the millions of users of Imperial Oil products throughout Canada from Halifax to Vancouver.

We manufacture and market in Canada, a wide and diversified line of petroleum products. Imperial Polarine Motor Oils and Imperial Premier Gasoline are extensively sold to motorists, but we have, besides, lubricants for factory and farm purposes, household specialties and many other lines. There is scarcely a farm, a factory or a home in Canada in which or on which many Imperial products are not used throughout the year. Our market is as broad as Canada, and while we use other good mediums regularly, it is probably very logical for us to rely on Canadian newspapers to form the backbone of our advertising campaigns for many of our lines.

It is, of course, difficult for any firm with an organization like our own, embracing sales and distribution branches in all of the larger centres and with thousands of dealers, to trace results directly to any particular advertisement or any particular advertising campaign, but, while we believe that Imperial Oil products are used mainly because of their quality and because of the satisfactory service which goes with them, we do not hesitate to say that advertising in Canadian newspapers has played an important part in increasing and maintaining the demand for Imperial Oil products.

Yours very truly,

IMPERIAL OIL, LIMITED.

G. H. Smith
Vice President.

Why speak to the few when you can reach the millions and pay less for the privilege? Imperial Oil's market is as broad as Canada and the company has reached it successfully through the only logical channels—the daily newspapers, which carry a sales message to every boundary, every day, reaching farm, factory and home.

ENTERTAINED THE MENTORS' CLUB

Rev. W. H. Young Gave an Address—Good Programme.

Between 30 and 40 members of the Mentors Club, Canadian Standard Efficiency Test for boys, were entertained last evening in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association, by the Girls' Work Board, in connection with the Canadian Girls in Training programme for 'teen-age girls.

Miss C. Layton, chairman of the Girls' Work Board, presided over the supper table which was laden with good things and prettily decorated with spring flowers. Choruses were sung from C.G.I.T. song sheets. Rev. W. H. Young gave an interesting brief discourse on "Leadership," emphasizing the qualities necessary for the leader; a tremendous belief in the work, a thorough knowledge of it, a definite objective, and a willingness to pay the price of success.

Miss Margaret Eastwood, on behalf of the Girls' Work Board, voiced the appreciation of its members for Miss Layton's work as chairman, for which the latter made a suitable acknowledgment; and Mr. Walter Smaill, leader of the Mentors' club, made a short speech.

CONSTIPATION BAD HEADACHES FAINT, DIZZY SPELLS

Constipation is one of the commonest ills of mankind and one too often allowed to go unlooked after until some serious complication sets in.

A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule of everyone, then there will be no constipation, sick or bilious, spells, dizziness, heartburn, coated tongue, foul breath, sour stomach, floating specks before the eyes, jaundice, water brash, etc.

Keep the bowels properly regulated by the use of

and you will enjoy the best of health.

Mrs. Frank Wilsey, R. R. 2, Belmont, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation for nearly two years. I had bad headaches, faint and dizzy spells, and would bloat terribly. I was nearly discouraged for I had tried so many things that gave me no relief. My mother got me a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and told me to give them a fair trial. After I had taken one vial I felt much better and continued their use. Now I have no faint and dizzy spells and am gaining nicely. I would not be without Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for the world."

Riding Togs Lack Sleeves

Riding habits have been greatly influenced by the first warm days. Here is Alice Calhoun, wearing the type of togs that promises to be very popular later. Committee Reports.

At the close of Mr. Allison's address, the reports of the various committees were presented, among which was the report by Mr. E. R. Shirley, chairman of the Meetings and Papers Committee, in which he reviewed the activities of the branch for the past year, and showed the diversity of subjects which had been covered in the various papers presented during the year, and the high calibre of the [illegible] had been prevailed upon to give to the Peterborough [illegible] benefit of their experience. Mr. Shirley commented on the good attendance which had been obtained at the meetings, mentioning that in several cases numbers were turned away. The acquisition of the moving picture machine by this branch during the present year had proved a distinct advantage, and this committee has endeavoured to take the fullest advantage of it.

Congratulate Locals.

Mr. Fraser S. Keith, A.E.I.C., the general secretary of the Institute, congratulated the branch and its officers upon the excellent progress which had been made during the past year. AT THE ROYAL.

BIG SPECIAL SHOW AT THE ROYAL.

Now that the Royal has secured exclusive rights for the production here of the celebrated First National and William Fox productions, which present the best actors now in the movies, our patrons are assured of seeing the best pictures that money or experience can procure. The Royal is exclusively a picture theatre so that our program and business is dependent upon our choice of films. Many years in the picture business har taught us what the public wants and Mr. Pappas, the manager now devotes his attention to watching the pictures of all the exchanges and selects the best. Our motto is perfect satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded. By this plan the public is our judge and we are confident as to the result. For Saturday we have a specially attractive program which includes a Fox feature called "Whatever She Wants" a comedy drama with Eileen Percy as star, a Fox feature called "Pardon My Nerve" a superb western picture with Buck Jones in the leading role. A Sunshine comedy called "West is West" and Larry Semon's best comedy called "The Simple Life' This comedy was written and staged by Mr. Semon himself and is undoubtedly the best comedy that he has ever appeared in. As so many people are now suffering by present business depression the Royal, to give the little folks, good, clean amusement, decided to admit children to all matinee shows for five cent admissions.

AT THE REGENT.

With the releasing of the official British Admiralty production of "The Battle of Jutland" all doubt, if any can possibly exist after the retirement of the German High Seas Fleet, as to who won that much talked about battle, is ended. The picture of "The Battle of Jutland" which will be shown at the Regent Theatre this week shows distinctly the movements of the British fleets under Beatty and Jellicoe as well as those of the Germans. Returned men who were on the British ships and who are thoroughly familiar with the details of the fight, are loud in their praise of the picture, declaring it to be the most realistic and thrilling war picture yet shown.

Unlike some of the previous official pictures of the war which frequently showed a monotonous series of views of the front, "The Battle of Jutland" presents graphically the story of something never before attempted —a great battle at sea!

HILARIOUS STORY FOR NEW PREVOST PICTURE

Now Showing at the Regent.

Fresh from the front row chorus of the peppiest show on Broadway, Patricia Parker started for a needed rest in the country. With her big Great Dane lap dog, she descended upon the bucolic surroundings of Silas Wainwright, an old friend of her father, and the most dignified and wealthiest citizen of the little town of Wainwright.

At the time of her arrival Silas was laying down the law to Horace Kane a wealthy young dumbell who thought he would like to be the husband of Emily, the Wainwright pride and joy. John Wainwright, the serious minded son of Silas, ably seconded his father. Her sense of justice and her protective instinct aroused, Patricia immediately took the part of Horace, and from then on determined to play Cupid for the romance of Emily and her dumbell.

She reckoned without Maisie Morrison, the village vamp, who set a jaunty cap for Hopeless Horace. Also, Patricia overlooked the fact that her instinct of conquest was leading her directly to John, the long faced woman hater of the Wainwright fire-side.

The predicaments Patricia gets into trying to disentangle Horace from his clinging vine, Maisie, and the heart entanglements into which she precipitates herself with the haughty John, now thawing like a snow-man in May, comes to a whirlwind climax when Patricia has to call upon all her Broadway shrewdness to save Horace from the Hymeneal altar of sacrifice.

John, now aroused to a jealous fury, finds Patricia dragging Horace from the vamps interrupted bridal party, and mistakes the escape for an elopement or something. There isn't any fight. John only hits Horace once. That's enough.

As the result of the storm which has raged around his ears, Silas orders Patricia back to Broadway. John, for the first time in his life, over-rules his father and takes Patricia to his heart. Patricia influences him to bring Horace and Emily together again. Old man Wainwright finally forgives him and blesses both couples.

AT THE GRAND.

"HULLO CANADA."

The second edition of "Hullo Canada," which was seen at the Grand last night, to the writer at least, and judging by the applause from the small but enthusiastic audience, to others as well, was more enjoyable than the first presentation here earlier this season. True, Shirley Kellogg was missing, but that seemed an asset rather than a liability, for the winsome Connie Browning who has succeeded her was delightful in her singing and dancing, and was not bothered by that overwhelming sense of her own importance that was the chief characteristic of Miss Kellogg. But with full credit to everybody else, Harry Tate is "Hullo Canada." For the second edition he has gone back to the time of his most successful skits, "motoring" and "fishing," and they were responsible for more laughter than anything the Grand has staged in a decade. Tate's methods are all his own, and he succeeds in making his every moment on the stage one hundred per cent. efficient from an amusement standpoint. Nothing funnier than his "fishing" number—which, incidentally, was featured by a stage setting that was a gem—has been seen here. In addition to his two principal numbers, Mr. Tate scored heavily in several others, his work in "The Critic from the Front" causing a lot of fun. Connie Browning sang nicely, and her vocal numbers all were well received. The favorite, "Rag From Home" number, seen in the first edition, has been retained, and Miss Browning and the chorus scored heavily in this spectacular feature. Isabel Dorothy was a most pleasing soubrette. Harry Gibson, the versatile entertainer, was always amusing, and Henri Rosen, the tramp violinist, won much favor. Wania, the dancer, was as agile as ever, and the well-trained chorus danced cleverly. The attendance did not measure up to the excellence of the offering.

Capitol Entertainment

The feature picture at the Capitol Theatre this week end will have a strong appeal for the lovers of the nusual. Abounding in romantic interest, its producers have overlooked no detail of the weird beauty and fascination of the far East in their presentation of the fierce love of the Arab chieftain for his fair-haired bride. The play of strong emotion in the passion and fire of his flaming jealously and his possessive strength are placed against a most fitting background of wind-swept desert sands, far perspectives of palm-strewn plain, and the superb horsemanship of the native white-cloaked cavalry. There is a massive scene depiciting military manoeuvres on prancing Arabian steeds and a rushing, swift retreat when the tribesmen flee from the Englishmen they have striven to drive from their land. The fifth hour of prayer finds the fanatical Moslems bending in devotion and their open-air court shows the rude justice of the desert tribes, the erring man condemned to the lash, and the woman to death by stoning. Amidst it all, the Englishwoman waits in the sheik's tent, its rug draped interior warmed by the glowing brazier, and here her child is born, the disapointing daughter for the Arab who craves for male children. He turns to Khalila, an Arab girl, to take as a second wife, and here is shown the conflict between the ideals of the East and West in the frenzied Estelle who clings to him, begging that he remember his sacred promise. The ruined temple of a forgotten god, the stealthy watcher, the rendezvous with her English officer friend, and the mad duel between the passionate craved Arab and his colder-blooded rival form thrilling incidents in a picture that reeks with atmosphere and intense human emotion, with the romance and fire of a union between the "son of Islam" and a "daughter of the unbeliever."

A Nick Carter detective story, a fantastic Snub Pollard comedy, Topics of the Day and the whimsical cartoon, "Felix at the Fair" complete a good programme.

After 8.30 the Evening Rate on Station-to-Station calls is only about half the day-time rate.

"Mother's Day" —next Sunday

Telephone Mother Sunday? Of course you will!

At the tones of the voice she would know in a million, evoking memories of the past, do you know the picture she will see as she looks dreamily across the years?

It is of a young Mother, cradling close in her arms a little boy or girl whose eyes are fast closing, as she hums a low lullaby.

We honour ourselves when, like the Wise Men from the East, we reverence Motherhood — the world's supreme lesson in unselfishness.

The number of those who telephone special "Mother's Day" greetings increases amazingly every year.

Our debts to Mother are never paid.

FAST FAME IS WON BY CUP CHAMPIONS

Lakefield Teams Stage Fast, Furious and Funny Game of Indoor Baseball.

LAKEFIELD, May 12.—The District Cup champions of Lakefield won one of the best and most amusing games of indoor ball played so far this season, 35 to 21, from the McFadden's Pets last evening. The game was played on the Market Square diamond and was witnessed by a large crowd of rooters. The spectators were so enthusiastic that it was frequently necssary to "chase" them back off the base lines. The game was replete with humorous incidents from start to finish. The players were:

Cup champions—G. G. Connell, C. S. Tanner, W. W. Blewett, Dr. J. C. Smith, Vaudal Simpson, A. H. Clark, Charles Lake, R. L. Meeson, Jack Charlton and F. G. Burgess.

McFadden's Petes—J. J. McFadden, R. H. Knox, Andy Miller, S. S. Sutten, Theodore Crawford, L. A. Moore, Brayton Blewett, J. R. Robinson, J. W. Ridpath and Dr. M. T. Kennedy.

Georges Carpentier Wins From Ted Lewis

THE WINNER.

GEO. CARPENTIER.

Lewis Receives K. O. in First Round. Fight Lasts Two Minutes and Fifteen Seconds.

CROWD CRIES "FOUL."

LONDON, May 12.—(Canadian Press).—Georges Carpentier last night knocked out Ted "Kid" Lewis in the first round of what was to have been a twenty-round bout for the light-heavyweight championship of the world, held by Carpentier. The end came when Carpentier, in breaking from a clinch, drove a sharp right to the point of Lewis' jaw. The Englishman toppled over backward and lay motionless on the floor until the referee counted ten. Then Carpentier picked up his fallen foe and aided in carrying him to his corner.

The spectators were slow to realize what had occurred, but when finally they comprehended that the battle was over and Lewis was defeated, there arose a storm of boos and cries of "foul" from all parts of the vast auditorium, which drowned out the comparatively little applause Carpentier was receiving from his partisens.

From the sound of the gong to the end of the referee's count, two minutes and fifteen seconds intervened.

Carpentier weighed 175 pounds, the light-heavyweight limit, while Lewis tipped the scales at 157 pounds with his clothes on when the fighters weighed in yesterday afternoon.

The great Olympia Amphitheatre held a record-breaking crowd, for the battle had attracted widespread attention. Hundreds of handsomely gowned women were among the spectators and evinced keen disappointment at the quick work made of the British favorite by the Frenchman. Among others present were the Duke of York and Prince Henry, who were seated at the ringside. Jack Dempsey was applauded as he entered the arena and was shown to a seat near the royal personages to whom he later was introduced. He chatted with them for a moment.

When the gong sent the fighters to the centre of the ring, Lewis took the aggressive. He sent across a right jab to the neck, followed by a left to the body. There was a clinch, and the referee, Joe Palmer, called upon the men to break. He then jumped in between them and pulled them apart. Immediately the fighters went into a clinch, jabbing fiercely. Palmer forcibly pried them apart again, and then administered a caution to both.

Lewis continued the aggressor. He got in two leits on Carpentier, and the crowd madly cheered him. Carpentier closed in and held on. Again the referee reproved him. Lewis forced the Frenchman into a corner and there was a rapid exchange of body blows, in which Lewis had the advantage.

Carpentier then forced his opponent off the ropes and into the centre of the ring. The Frenchman missed with a right and Lewis sent his right to Carpentier's neck. Another clinch followed, and the referee stepped in and separated the men. Carpentier uppercutted Lewis and also sent in a hook blow as they were coming out of the clinch. Lewis glanced appealingly at Palmer. Then, following the Frenchman's tactics, Lewis jabbed as they separated.

It appeared as if Palmer was going to warn the fighters as they broke away. Lewis had dropped his guard and Carpentier fainted with his left and simultaneously flashed the right from his shoulder to Lewis' jaw. To those sitting at the ringside it seemed the merest tap, but it had sufficient force behind it to send Lewis backward upon the canvas for the full count of ten and to secure the fifth knockout victory for victory in less than a round.

When Lewis was taken to his corner and placed on his chair he sat dazed, but with his eyes blinking as Carpentier walked about the ring smiling and acknowledging the mild applause accorded him. At the same time supporters of Lewis crowded about the ringside and protested to the referee and the ring officials against the decision, declaring it was unfair.

Before the fight Lewis got such a prolonged ovation from the crowd that the spectators did not see Carpentier until he was climbing through the ropes. The Frenchman then was accorded a greeting, but somewhat less hearty than that given Lewis.

BOXING CLASSES TONIGHT.

P.A.A.A. boxers had a good workout last night, and will be back again tonight for some more, in preparation for the bouts at Victoria Hall on Monday. The training quarters at the rink will be open at seven o'clock this evening.

THE KNOCKOUT WAS FAIR BLOW

This is Opinion of Fight Fans To-Day Regarding Carpentier-Lewis Affair.

(By Charles McCann, United Press)

LONDON, May 12.—'Georges Carpentier knocked out Ted Lewis with a fair blow was the verdict of a jury consisting of Referee Joe Palmer, Jack Dempsey, worlds heavy weight champion, Jimmy Wilde, worlds flyweight champion and all of the London sport writers.

London, hearing as many as a dozen different tales from historical ringsiders who admit that they don't remember everything that happened, did not know what to think today about the rather sensational one round knockout of the idol of the east side by teh Frenchman at the Olympia last night.

Those who wore high hats and boiled fronts at the ringside, turned an aristoratic nose in the air at the thought of it. The pulled down cap and sweater element from the east side mourned the loss of money and wailed that Lewis had been fouled. The "wise ones" intimated that Lewis had quit. The rank and file on the streets said it was to bad but the result was a foregone conclusion from the start.

It was the gallery crowd that shrieked "foul, foul')' when Carpentier cliped Lewis with a terrific right hook to the jaw and put him down for the count two minutes of the first round and it was the same crowd that kept maintaining that the Frenchman had won by unfair tactics

Joe Palmer, the referee in a statement to the United Press, said "the final blow was perfecty fair. The men had broken from a clinch. It was Lewis' business to protect himself. He didn't do it".

Perfectly Fair.

Jack Dempsey, world's champion, who sat at the ringside, said "the blow which ended it was perfecty fair. The men were at such tension that anything is liable to happen. Carpentier simply took advantage of an opening He was just too good for Lewis, that's all."

Lewis, today, in a statement to the United Press, said: "I was hit while the referee was holding my left hand. The next thing I knew, I was struggling to get up I fought clean, excepting Carpentier was a clean fighter.'

Jimmy Wilde, world's flyweight campionh, who sat at the ringside said: "It was some punch. It would have knocked over a lamp post. I never saw anything like it. It didn't look like a foul to me"

London sport writers emphasized the fact that Lewis turned his head momentarily and Carpentier leaped into the opening like a tiger. They all supported the decision of the referee.

Tommy Burns, former worlds heavyweight champion, took an opposite vitwe. To the United Press he said today: "It was the dirtiest two and one half minutes I ever saw. Both were to blame, but Carpentier was the worst. I can't see why the Frenchman wanted to foul by butting with his head and holding the hitting when he had an advantage of twenty eight pounds over an opponent in every way his inferior.

"Lewis undoubtedly had the Frenchman worried with his infight ing forced him for protection. If the blow wasn't a foul it was the nearest thing I ever saw to it. However, we must abide by the referee's decision.

FIRST GAME FOR THE PECK CUP IS TAKEN BY C.G.E.

Electricians Win From the C.P.C. 3 to 1 in a Good Game at King Edward Park.

THE PLAYERS.

Canadian Generals got the verdict in the first game for the Peck Trophy in a lively game with Canadian Packing Co., at King Edward Park last evening, the score being 3 to 1. The Packers registered a vigorous kick against the work of Referee Clark, their biggest objection being that the first goal by McMillan followed an offside play. All the scoring was done in the first half, Canadian Generals getting the opening goal in six minutes, when McMillan accepted a pass from Sharman and beat Lasenby with a nice shot. McMillan also tallied the second goal, by rushing in and kicking the ball behind the Packers' goalie after Lasenby seemed to have a nice save to his credit. It was well on to halftime when M. Shaw scored for the Packers, following a penalty kick, Shaw getting the ball from Clark.

Both citadels were assaulted in the second half in vain, due to some clever relieving by Griffin and Lasenby, who were given some difficult shots to handle.

The teams:

Canadian Packers—Goal, Lasenby; backs, Oxley, H. Mann; half-backs, Bradbury, J. Shaw, Batley; forwards, Follis, Downer, M. Shaw, Clark, Strickland.

Canadian General—Goal, Griffin; backs, Gamble, Peel; half-backs, Williams, Parkins, Hurle; forwards, Manders, Gash, Dyer, McMillan, Sharman.

PICTURES SHOW THE FINAL PUNCH

Were Breaking Out of Clinch When Haymaker Went Over.

LONDON, May 12 — (United Press)—Motion pictures taken of the fight last night between Georges Carpentier and Ted Lewis show plainly that Lewis was knocked out with a punch delivered while the referee was holding his arm.

The pictures show Carpentier several times in the act of butting Lewis with his head in the clinches.

The final blow that ended the fight, a right hand to the jaw, was delivered when the referee had one hand on the biceps of the Englishman and with the other hand was pushing Carpentier back out of the clinch.

Both fighters were just getting free as the blow went over and Lewis seemed to have his hands down in the breakaway.

MANY ENTRIES IN BIG SPEED EVENT.

British Flag Will Figure in Indianapolis Auto Contest

INDIANAPOLIS, May 11.—The British colors will figure in the parade before the tenth annual 500-mile race on the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30.

Secretary-Manager T. E. Meyers has received by cable a definite entry from W. Douglas Hawkes of a Bentley car. It is expected Louis oatalen will make an eleventh-hour entry of a team of Sunbeams, but this is not quite certain.

Jules Goux is in this country with two new Ballot mounts, but has not yet announced his teammate.

In the French Grand Prix last year Goux took one of his small two-ltre (122 cubic inch) Ballots in to third place. His car lacked the speed of some others, but Goux had the skill to outgeneral his swifter competitors. The same pilot was the first foreigner to win at Indianapolis, takng the 1913 event with a Peugeot. He failed in his attempt to win the 1920 race, but he did win a bride that year and Mme. Goux is coming home for a visit while her husband tries his luck on the speedway.

In addition to the English and French flags it is expected the Italian colors will be seen in the contest. Only Germany and Belgium will be missing among all the countries which ever have entered cars in the 500-mile classic.

WIRE USED FOR AERIALS IS TRACED BACK TO EGYPT

The manufacture of metallic filaments or shreds, known as wire, dates back to the early ages of man. According to excellent authority, evidences of it can be traced to early Egypt. Gold wire is mentioned in connection with the decorations of the Sacerdotal robes of Aaron, while metallic shreds have been discovered that date back to about 1700 B.C. Homer and Pliny in their early writings, made references to similar products. Metal heads, having imitation hair made of wire, were recovered from the ruins of Herculaneum.

From the remote times up to fourteenth century, wire was made by hammering out strips of metal, inasmuch as the modern process of drawing had not then been invented. The first advance in the process of wire manufacture was made when the "die" was introduced. This of a flat block of metal having a hole, slightly tappered, bored through it. The die was securely fastened to one end of a table (or "bench" as it was later called), in such a position that the hole was in a horizontal position and longitudinal to the bench; the smaller end of the tapered hole towards the far end of the table. A round rod slightly larger than the smaller end of the die hole was previously hammered out from a small casting while hot. It was sufficiently tapered at one end, so that when inserted in the die, a few inches protruded from the opposite side. When this rod became entirely cold, the tapered end was inserted in the die. The protruding end gripped in a clamp securely fastened to a chain was pulled from the far end of the table. The rod was drawn through the die and by this simple process, became wire.

Smaller sizes were obtained by retapering the end of the wire, inserting the end of the wire, inserting it through a smaller die, and again drawing it. The reduction in diameter elongated the wire. The length of wire obtained in this manner was limited to the length of the table. This difficulty was later overcome by coiling the wire around a power-driven drum instead of pulling it the length of the bench. This permitted the use of longer rods, therefore giving a greater length of wire. The introduction of the rolling mill, taking the place of the laborious hand hammering of rods was a boom to the wire industry.

OLD-FASHIONED GRIPPE IS HERE

Chills, Fevers, Backaches and Headaches Go With It

We have the old-fashioned grippe with us again this year. Not a recurrence of the influenza epidemic, by any means, simply the old-style cold, with its accompanying chill and fever, backache and headache, complicated with some sufferers by a tickling cough. All through the community, business staffs are depleted and houses filled with its victims. The danger in this malady, according to the M.O.H. is the carelessness of those who acquire the cold, think they are well again in a day or two, and start out agin. In the case of elderly people, bronchitis and pneumonia are frequent developments. The schools do not appear to be suffering to any great extent the disease being confined mostly to the adult section of the citizenry.

THREE PROVINCES CAN CREATE A WHEAT BOARD

Apart From Anything the Federal Govt. May Do

OTTAWA, May 12. — (Canadian Press). — Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, addressing the Agriculture Committee of the House to-day, suggested that three prairie provinces had power to create a Wheat Board apart from anything the Federal Government might do. Such a board would not bind the other six provinces; one of the strongest arguments for the creation of a compulsory pool in 1918, centralized buying, did not exist any longer. "If you get $25,000,000 for your wheat as has been said will be the case," Mr. Motherwell proceeded, "it has got to come from those who eat bread, and you can't get away from it. The board might handle grain a little more cheaply.

CANADA IS FAR BEHIND IN RACE FOR LEADERSHIP

Occupies But Scant Prominence on Continent of Europe Due to Government's Apathy.

NEEDS IMMIGRANTS

MONTREAL, May 13—(Special to The Examiner).—Canada is lagging far behind in the race to retain its leadership of the British Dominions. It now occupies but scant prominence on the Continent of Europe, due to the apathy of the Canadian Government. This is the opinion of Lord Shaughnessy, chairman of the board of directors of the C. P. R., expressed in answer to the question, "What is Canada's status aboard?"

Foreign Trade.

Europe, in his estimation, offers many attractive possibilities for Canadian foreign trade, but every precaution must be taken by Canadian manufacturers and exporters to protect themselves against loss. They must make certain that they will be paid for their goods.

A Potential Asset.

But the greatest potential asset for Canada to be found in Europe lies in the millions of desirable immigrants who should be brought to this country.

"We have not been doing anywhere near as much as we should have been doing during the past few years to make an impression in Europe," said Shaughnessy. "There is no doubt, however, that the populations are restless."

Irish Question.

When asked for the authority for the report that he was a prospective candidate for the Governor-Generalship of the Irish Free State, Lord Shaughnessy smiled slyly and replied, "I read about it first in the newspapers. I have enough work to do just now without looking for a new job."

BIG OIL BOOM HERE THOUGHT PROBABLE NOW

Oil Struck at Several Points and Geologists Say There Are Large Pools in District.

STANDARD OIL ENTERS

(Advertisment)

This district is on the verge of an oil boom, reports from several sections of Central Ontario indicate. Oil has been struck at Mariposa, Indian River, Marmora, Hastings, Rice Lake, Port Hope, Colborne, and Belleville, and geologists state that several townships in the district are underlaid by great lakes of oil.

Scattered strikes made last summer led to the formation of a local company to exploit the new fields, Central Ontario Oil Fields, Limited, and this company has surveyed the entire district and taken up more than 7000 acres of leases.

The great Standard Oil Company, through its Canadian subsidiaries, is understood to have followed the lead of the local company, and at Mariposa alone is said to have acquired leases on over 5,000 acres. American private interests from Buffalo and Rochester have also taken up extensive holdings in this field.

Considerable excitement prevails at points where oil has been discovered and the beginning of development work is being awaited expectantly. The prediction is being freely made that Central Ontario will become soon a great oil field.

The local company, Central Ontario Oil Fields, has made most of the strikes, and has been instrumental in opening the field. Its geologists claim to be using a new and sure method of locating oil, based on electrical attraction, by which they are able to map definitely the location of pools of oil. The old method of locating oil was largely guess work, and the expense entailed through errors ruined many companies, and was primarily responsible for oil receiving the reputation of being a gamble. It is claimed that the efficacy of the new method has been conclusively proven, especially on this company's holdings at Kerwood, near Petrolia, where it has two wells in operation, and is about to drill above what its engineers believe is an 80-foot dome of oil.

Speculators are following hard on the heels of the oil companies, and practically every acre of land in the district near Lindsay which is not held by one of the oil companies, is being held for speculation. The speculators believe that the fortunes made on oil leases in other fields will be duplicated here and are anxiously awaiting the beginning of development work.

FARMERS' MARKET WELL PATRONIZED

Butter Was Plenti ul-Lots of Produce on the Outside Market.

The market had a large patronage this morning. The dealers in green potted plants and the wild flowers on sale upstairs added a spring-like touch to the sun-flooded atmosphere, and dealers and buyers alike seemed to be imbued with the bright spirit of the day.

Several wagons held boxes of green, growing things; hardy cauliflower plants at 20 cents a box, and cabbage sprouts the same. Surveying the latter with a skeptical eye, an elderly lady remarked that "you might just as well buy few head of cabbage and be done with it." Tomato plants were 15 cents a box, or two for 35 cents; there were dahlia roots at three for a quarter, and raspberry shoots at two cents apiece.

Potatoes were plentiful, selling at $1.50 and $1.40 per bag; there were few carrots at 40 cents per peck; seeding onions two measures for a quarter, white beans at 15 cents a quart, with the mottled variety demanding 25 cents, and asparagus at 15 cents a bunch. Rhubarb and green onions were five cents a bunch. One man had veal at 17 cents per pound, and the dealer in broad, flat suckers was adjuring his hearers, "Don't go home without a quarter's worth of fish. Alive last night." A single load of hay was on view at $30.

In the small hall below stairs, a polite small boy was bombarded with questions from enquiring females, as to the nature of his healthy-looking boxed plants. He had pansies, and snapdragon and asters, in neat, ordered rows, for 25 cents a box, with salvia at 15 cents.

The basket market had plenty of dealers and buyers. Butter was plentiful, ranging from 38 to 45 cents per pound, and eggs from 28 to 30 tents a dozen. A good deal of fowl was in evidence, chickens at 35, and older birds at 30 cents.

Wild flowers, dainty and fragile, were on the tables this morning; shy woodland violets in mauve and yellow, for 15 cents a bunch, and waxen white trilliums at ten cents.

SODALITY LADIES HELD A MEETING

The Young Ladies' Sodality of the Sacred Heart Church held a very successful social evening last night. There was a splendid attendance, with 36 tables of card played, and an enjoyable musical programme. Decorations were carried out in the Sodality colors of blue and white.

Children from the Sacred Heart school provided most of the entertaining programme, which included a dialogue; "The Train to Mauro", enacted by Helen O'Toole, Sarah Meagher and John Embury; a chorus of girls of the senior third class; and readings by several little girls. Kathleen Fallon recited "Miss Dorothy Entertains the Minister"; small Madeline Curtin and Marie Woodhouse gave "The Difference", and "Grandfather's Spectacles", and tiny Beatrice Grady sang cunning little solo. Rev. Father McHenry acted as chairman.

Prizes for cards were awarded in the "five hundred" section to Mrs. F. Guerin and Mr. T. Gorham. Euchre awards went to Mrs. W. McAuliffe, Mrs. T. Goselin, Mrs. Grady and Miss Lila O'Keefe. Messrs. Alphonse Fontaine, Rady and Woodhouse.

ORGANIZER OF THE TEACHERS GAVE ADDRESS

"STATE SALARY"

'It has been said that the school is the steering-gear of the nation, and it makes a difference what kind of person sits at the steering-gear,' said Miss Jennie Stead, Provincial organiser of the Federation of Women Teachers of Ontario, speaking to the 150 girl students in the Assembly Hall at the Normal School yesterday afternoon.

Miss Stead, a modish figure in heavily embroidered gown and trim feathered hat, whose youthful appearance belied her claim to a long teaching career, was introduced by Mr. D. Walker, Principal of the Normal, who expressed himself as being in entire sympathy with the Federation, saying that it was an opportunity for mutual help and self-education, and of "knowing something more of your profession. You will think more of it if you organise for it."

Miss Stead distributed cards among the girls, explaining the system of the Teachers' Federation, in which applicants are enrolled as associate members until they receive their first teaching position, when they are requested to forward the annual fee of $1.00 to the secretary at St. Thomas. The pupils as a body appeared interested in and enthusiastic above the movement.

The speaker reported co-operation and spuport from principals of the Normal Schools in Stratford, Hamilton, London and Toronto. In the latter city, the organisation is so strong that the 1,500 teachers there were enabled this year to enforce their usual annual increase from a Board of Education two-thirds of whose members were against making an increase.

Missionary Work.

"We have to depend on you new teachers for something more than membership," said Miss Stead, referring to the missionary labours that might be performed in rural districts, "where you will be compelled to face and endure and overcome all the difficulties you will meet out there." To convince the "retty" teachers to be found in some of the rural communities, and prevail on them to link up with the Federation was described as part of this missionary endeavour.

Aims and Endeavours.

In 1918, the movement to unionise the teachers' activities became a definite activity in the Province, when the Women Teachers' Federation started to link up the city and rural units, and consolidate all members into one strong body for mutual help and support. In 1920 the Federation affiliated with the Canadian Teachers' Federation, and is now a strong association in all the Provinces of Canada, with the same aims—to unify the teachers, to form a solid body of teachers from ocean to ocean, to improve conditions, obtain better salaries and pensions for its members.

"Don't think that you young ladies should take vows of eternal poverty because you happen to belong to what they say is the noblest profession in the land," said Miss Stead, who declared that conditions were bettering themselves in the present generation. "You have been told a great deal about the nobility of your calling, and have not much doubt about that, when you remember that there are two million school children in Canada to-day, whose future and the consequent future of Canada lies in the hands of the 50,000 teachers of the Dominion." To worry along for a lifetime of exacting labour, with the only hope ahead that of superannuation, and the present seeing only a salary a little above the janitor

President of Civil Service Makes Reply to Critic From Sherbrooke

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—Attention of Mr. J. C. O'Connor, President of the Civil Service Federation was called to following statement made, according to Canadian Press report by Mr. McCrea, M. P. for Sherbrooke before Agricultural commission. Civil service is living on fat of land land and doing nothing for it.. Civil service worked 6 1-2 hours a day and many of them did nothing when they were at work. Fifty per cent were parasites.

"There has been talk of Civil Service going on strike" Mr. McCrea pursued. "I should be glad to see them going on strike A whole lot of them are not worth half of what they are getting. They are doing nothing but agitate for bonus."

Mr. O'Connor said: "Such statements show that Mr. McCrea does not understand Canadian Civil Service.. Civil servants are not parasites and it is not true that fity per cent of them are doing nothing.

'I do not think that extreme statements such as those made by McCrea will tend to improve the Civil Service in this country.'

PRODUCER GOT A LARGER CUT THAN CONSUMER

Prices They Now Get for Milk Hardly Pays for the "Gas" to Operate Milking Machines, Says One Man.

While the reduction of the price of milk to the consumers on May 1st amounted to one cent on a quart of milk producers say that their prices were cut by over 25 per cent. Previous to May 1st they received $2.25 a hundred and now receive $1.65. Last summer the price was $2.35 and $2.40 a hundred and in June and July $2.10 so W. L. White, a North Monaghan producer, who declared the reduction was not justified by the conditions, stated. "It hardly pays for the 'gas' for the milker" he told the Examiner.

The price is practically back to pre-war levels which were around $150 a hundred he said. A cut was looked for but the producers he said were not prepared for the surprise they received. Mr. White said the reduction was beyond all comparison with other years and greatly exceeded any reduction that had taken place in the cost of producing milk. Milk producers he said were doing well to "break even" under the new scale. When asked if the producers would take any steps to secure a better price, Mr. White said "he did not see what they could do about it as they didnt have anything to do with setting the price".

"It hits us pretty hard', said T. D. Young, a North Monaghan producer who has a herd of 20 cows. "So far as I can see the cost of producing milk hasn't gone down any The reduction was certainly a big one but I do not see that under the circumstances we can better ourselves."

C. E. Moore of Smith Township well-known farmer and dairyman said that in view of the tendency to wards lower prices he did not think the reduction was excessive or unjustfied. "Each May there is a reduction about as large", he said. Mr. Moore said the reduction was as stated by Mr. White. He was not acquainted with what some of the dealers were paying by the quart which Mr. White said was 5 cents and was a better price than the producers who sold by one hundred pounds received. Mr. Moore said the producers had no association and "he couldn't see what they could do about the price.

GENOA CONFERENCE.

PARIS, May 13 (Canadian Press).—Premier Poincare late last night is understood to have told M. Barthou at Genoa that he must not enter into negotiations with the Russians, and to make it clear that in view of the French Government, nothing more can be gained by prolonging the Conference.

Birth Reports To Be Speeded Through

Physicians who fail to notify the clerks of the municipalities of births within the municipalities will, according to instructions from the Deputy Registrar-General, be prosecuted. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, has been instructed by Dr. J. W. S. McCullough that henceforth he will be required to provide the Department each month with a list of physicians who fail to forward physicians' notices within 48 hours after the date of births. Mr. Armstrong, in accordance with the instructions, has informed the physicians by sending to each one a copy of the letter received from the Deputy Registrar-General.

GUIDE DENIES SALE LETTERS

A New Angle in the Stillman Case — A Private Detective.

(By James R. Kelly, United Press).

MONTREAL, May 13.—Fred Beauvais today hotly denied that he had betrayed Mrs. James Stillman and sold four of the alleged love letters to her husband for use in his divorce case.

"Its a lie' he declared to the United Press.

Beauvais declared he never met anyone by the name of Edmund Leigh, and never sold a letter in his life.

Leigh is the private detective who testified in the hearing at Poughkeepsie yesterday that he paid Beauvais $15,000 for four love letrrs in which Mrs. Stillman showered the Indian guide with endearing phrases.

Beauvais laughed at the charge that he received fifteen $1,000 bills for the letters. I never saw that much money, he declared.

"I deny that I ever knowingly met anyone by the name of Leigh and I certainly did not sell letters to any one at any time," Beauvais asserted.

"All the leters I have received from Mrs. Stillman, which were letters such as an employer would write to an employee, were destroyed by me almost immediately upon their receipt and fulfilment of instructions.

"As to me receiving fifteen $1,000 bills, I have never seen bills of such a denomination. This latest attempt at bolstering the case against Mrs. Stillman is pure bunk. They probably would have said I went to New York to get the money but for the fact I could easily disprove such a statement.

"Mr. Stillman has made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to destroy the good name of his wife who is a good woman."

AN INDEPENDENT GOVERNMENT SET UP

TIEN-TSIN, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—An Independent Government has been set up by General Chang Tso Lin, defeated governor of Mukde. Declaration of Independence says that, having divested of authority in Manchuria Mongolia, and Jehol, Chang henceforth repudiates all instructions from President and all treaties negotiated by him. He also states he intends to make favorable treaties with friendly powers.

MUST STOP THE LARGE WASTAGE OF CITY WATER

Will Cut Off Service to Users Who Maintain Leaking Taps and Faulty Conditions.

INSPECT PREMISES.

In order to prevent wastage of water and to check up the water charges in houses and business places, the Utilities Commission is beginning an inspection of all premises next week. It is expected that to thoroughly cover the city the services of several inspectors will be required for several months. The last inspection was made ten years ago, and at that time two men were busy for two months. The Commission for several years has accounted for the work being held over.

After spending money in filtering water the Commission reasons that it is a serious matter to have a high wastage continue. According to the waterworks officials the wastage in the city is tremendous. In their work they continually encounter leaking taps and fixtures. The Commission has now advertised its intention of cutting off service to water-users who do not remedy the faulty conditions, and an improvnment is immediately expected.

The inspectors will take a list of all fixtures and a duplicate will be given to the water-user, so that by consulting the scale of rates printed on the other side it will be possible to figure on the charge in the same way as it is done at the office. In this way the Commission hoped to do away with complaints of overcharging. The total number of services in the city is approximately 5,000. The work will be much facilitated if the public cooperate fully with the inspectors, in order that the necessary information be secured. The commission hopes that their intentions may not be misunderstood and the idea held that they are attempting to surb the free and too generous use of water.

New Disorders Centre in Ulster — Mutineers Destroy Wireless Station

(By George MacDonald for United Press).

DUBLIN, May 13.—Hostilities in Ireland have been resumed, despite the peace conferences between the leaders of the various factions.

The new disorders centre in Ulster. The Irish Republican army mutineers arson squad set fire to and destroyed the British naval wireless station situated on the Donegal coast Thursday night. The mutineers had ejected the coast guards some time previously. Before starting the fire they auctioned off the furniture to the local populace.

ENLARGED EDWARDS CASE NEXT THURSDAY

Crown Requested Further Adjournment of Preliminary Hearing—Prisoners Were Arrested in the Same House on 9th Line of Dummer.

STATEMENTS TAKEN

The charge of murder against Abe Filion and Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards, attracted a full house to the police court this morning, for the preliminary hearing.

Crown Attorney Hatton asked for a further remand until Thursday May 18, which was assented to by F. D. Kerr, K.C., and C. R. Widdifield counsel respectively for the two prisoners, and approved by Magistrate Langley.

Their arrest by Chief Newhall, Detective Cookman and Constable Puffer, of Norwood, took place at the home of George Brown, on the ninth line of Dummer, about midnight, a week ago. Chief Newhall was requested by Crown Attorney Hatton to take action after it became known that strychnine had been found in the viscera of Ernest Edwards that had been forwarded to the Attorney General for analysis.

In Norwood Chief Newhall was notified where Mrs. Edwards was then living. About midright of May 5th they motored out to Brown's and took both Mrs. Edwards and Filion into custody. They brought them back to Norwood, provided a meal for them, and made them as comfortable as possible, and then returned to Peterboro, arriving here about 3 a.m., on Saturday morning.

In the meantime Provincial Inspector Boyd had reached Peterboro and Chief Newhall called him from the Empress Hotel to be present, when the statements of the two prisoners were taken.

In consequence of the statements a thorough investigation has been made by Chief Newhall and Inspector Boyd who have been working on the case for a week.

Work of Assessors Held Up as Usual

According to City Assessor W. J. Henry, the work of the assessors is proceding as in other years. Their work is held up every year on account of unavoidable interruptions in people being away and others not having the specific information required; but such delays always feature the operations. Assistant assessors Arthur Ringer and M. H. Quinlan are now working in the east and north wards.

The assessment which began on May 1st, is to be completed by the end of September. Mr. Henry stated the assesors had no new duties to perform this year, but if a bill of the Minister of Education was passed they would be required to go more fully into the ages of children in connection with the Adolescent Act.

HOME-MADE WINE OFTEN CONTAINS REAL GOOD KICK

Subject Was Discussed at a Meeting Held in the George Street Church

In the Lecture Hall of the George Street Methodist Church a prayer meeting was held in which several of the churches of the city combined, the meeting being under the auspices of the Local Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The Rev. W. H. Young, Rev. J. F. Chapman and Rev. G. E. Ross conducted the devotional exercises, and Mrs. Ford Turner gave a beautiful rendering of "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

In a discussion, led by Mrs. (Dr.) Morrison, some very interesting and enlightening facts regarding the operation of the O.T.A. in Ontario, and the results of "Government control" in British Columbia, were given by various members of the Union.

The Rev. Robert Pogue highly commended the action of the W. C. T. U. in bringing this information before the public, and Mr. A. B. Cunningham endorsed his remarks.

Mrs. James Kendry also drew the attention of the meeting to the quantity of native wine manufactured in so many homes in and around the city, and the danger of the children in the homes regarding this wine as an innocent beverage, because "mother made it," when, as a matter of fact, it often contained from 25 to 30 per cent. alcohol.

The general opinion of the meeting was that the public should wake up, and realize that there was still much work to be done along this line.

LOCAL PLUMBERS ARE VERY BUSY

On account of number of jobs under way plumbers in the city are finding it difficult to get men, according to Plumbing Inspector A. Metheral. As a consequence, the plumbers' rates have remained the same, 75c an hour, ond there is little likelihood of any reduction while business continues brisk. "I have had plumbers asking me if I knew where they could get men. I don't know of any that are not working, and they may have to go out of town," said Mr. Metheral.

May is the busiest month so far this year, Mr. Metheral said. So far he has made 52 inspections which is about the same as last year. The peak will not be reached, however, till late in the summer when the plumbing and heating work in the large number of houses under way will be finished. Many new connections are being put in, Mr. Metheral said. So far this year 44 houses have put in fixtures and Mr. Metheral expects as the season has just started that as many more will be put in as last year, when the total was 142, as against 8 the year previous.

NOTICE

The Utilities Commission have decided to make an inspection of all buildings in which City water is used, for two reasons.

1st To prevent waste of filtered water.

The inspector will start on this work, Tuesday May 16th and he will point out all cases where the water is being wasted and where this is the result of defective plumbing such will have to be corrected within 30 days, under penalty of turning off the water.

It is pointed out that the free use of water in the regular way is not discouraged by these arrangements, but simply to stop waste.

MORE MEMBERS WANT EMBARGO TO BE REMOVED

Important Sections of the British Press Also Favor Importation of Canadian Cattle.

LOBBY CAMPAIGN.

London, May 13. Canadian Press. —Members of the House of Commons who are openly hostile to the removal of the embargo against Canadian cattle number about 60. Members openly agreeable to the removal apparently number about 100. These latter propose to initiate a lobby campaign to defeat the agricultural section, which already has been buttonholing a rather large element among the private members of Parliament, who hitherto have halted between two opinions.

The Canadian Press has learned that the Duke of Devonshire, a former Governor-General of Canada, has been asked to preside over a joint meeting of members of the House of Commons and the House of Lords, who are favorable to the embargo being lifted. The Duke has not yet signified whether he will be able to take charge of the proposed meeting or not.

The Spectator, in its weekly review, says it is now added to the journals supporting the removal of the embargo. It admits it used to support the embargo on the score of the risk of disease to British cattle from Canadian importations, but it explains that then it had not all the evidence that is now being produced showing that there is nothing to fear on that score.

The Spectator says as a free trader it would always have liked Canadian cattle to come in—the more the better—in fact, Canadian cattle coming here to be fattened would have been a source of considerable profit to the farmers.

This week, therefore, has witnessed a unified call for the cattle embargo removal from quarters of the press which on most matters differ as widely as the poles. It is not often for instance that the Manchester Guardian and the Spectator are found on a voyage in the same sentiments as the Times and the Daily Mail.

General Pershing in his address paid a high tribute to the record of the Canadian army overseas. He added that he did not think it necessary to talk of the friendship between the two countries.

"There is a boundary line, but no seems to know where it is." He recalled that 25 years ago he had crossed the boundary he did not know he had done so "until a red-coat came up and wanted to arrest me."

AT GENEVA.

GENOA, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—The Court of International Justice yesterday afternoon was thrown open to the entire world when the Council of the League of Nations decided that Russia, Germany, Turkey, Hungary and Mexico could bring cases before the court, provided they previously had agreed to accept its decisions and not declare war over the disputes in question.

These nations were the only ones to which the Court had not previously been available for the settlement of disputes.

CANADIAN NAVY IS TO BE GREATLY REDUCED

One Cruiser, Two Destroyers and Two Submarines Will Be Laid Up. Three Ships Will Be Kept on Each Coast.

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—The Canadian Navy is to receive a drastic cut. To a closely attentive House, Hon. P. Graham, Minister of Defence, yesterday announced the naval policy of the present Government. In brief, it provides that:

1—Five ships are to be laid up. These are the Cruiser Aurora and the destroyers Patriot and Patrician presented to Canada by Great Britain after the armistice. The other two are submarines.

2—Canada' naval force will consist of three vessels on each coast, namely, a small ship and two trawlers as tenders at both Halifax and Esquimalt.

3—The three ships on either coast are to be used for training a volunteer force in protection of shores and harbors, mine-sweeping and mine-laying.

4—Protection and care of wharves and docks at Halifax and Esquimalt to be continued with provision of a reserve force of officers and men numbering 233. With the exception of four, officers from the Royal Navy to be returned to the Royal Navy.

In making his statement, Mr. Graham emphasized that young men in the voluntary force would not be taken out of industrial employment. They would be trained on land and sea for two or three weeks each year, over a period of three years. There would also be the fisheries protection services, containing a number of small ships. Under the scheme, some 1,500 young men could be trained during the year on land and sea.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition, commented that the proopsed naval service would be all right in time of peace. But he could not see of what value it would be in emergency and danger.

"If Great Britain herself prepared for her and our defence in this manner", queried Mr. Meighen; "If she put a few trawlers on the Atlantic to watch the fish and put a few boys in our armouries as a sort of diversion or pastime—if she took that course, what would become of our defence in the hour of crisis and peril?"

The Government's naval proposals will be discussed later.

Companies Who Desire Name of "Canada" Should Have Their Headquarters in Canada

BILL STANDS OVER.

OTTAWA, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—"If companies desire the name 'Canada', Canada ought to be good enough for them to have their headquarters here", T. G. McBride, (Progressive Cariboo), informed the Commons last night, when opposing third reading of the Act respecting the Canadian Transit Company. The Railway Committee, Mr. McBride contended had only given a few minutes to the bill when one of its purposes was to change the head office of the company from Windsor, Ontario, to the United States side of the border.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen suggested that the bill be stood over for the time being and this view was concurred in by Hon. W. S. Fielding The bill stood over.

Genoa Delegates Are Unable to Reach An Agreement But Further Efforts Will Be Made.

NO TREATIES.

GENOA, May 13.—So gravely at variance are Russia's communism and the order of things obtaining throughout the rest of Europe that a general immediate agreement with Russia appeared last night improbable. This conviction is deeply disappointing to those who expected quick and big results at Genoa, but the sentiment is tempered by the belief that the creation of one or more commissions to pursue an exhaustive study of the Russians problems will prove efficacious in finding a means to reconstruct Russia and bring her back into the European family.

Furthermore, Premier Lloyd George and the Italian leaders are convinced that the signing of a European truce as a peliminary to a general non-aggression pact will go a long way towards tranquilizing Europe.

DISCUSSION ABOUT WRANGEL ISLAND IN DOMINION HOUSE

Hon. G. P. Graham Says "What We Have We'll Hold." Canadian Flag Flies.

U.S. CLAIMS.

OTTAWA, May 13. Canadian Press. — The ownership of Wrangell Island was discussed in the House of Commons last night when a vote of $15,000 for the patrol of the northern waters of Canada came up for consideration.

Hon. G. P. Graham, the Minister of Defence, who was piloting the estimate through the Committee, explained the vote was required to publish the report of the Stefansson Expedition.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen asked what the policy of the government was in regard to the northern islands, with special reference to Wrangell Island.

Mr. Graham replied that he was not in a position to state the government policy in the matter.

"Has the Government any policy" queried Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Graham then stated that he understood that the Government policy was "What we have we'll hold."

"But have we Wrangell Island" continued Mr. Meighen.

The Minister replied that we have.

Hon. H. H. Stevens: "What are we going to do?—send up one of oru fishing trawlers to protect it?"

There was no response to this question.

J. J. Shaw, (Progressive, Calgary), emphasized the importance of protecting Canada's interest in Wrangell Island.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie declared that there was no doubt that the United States was going to make a claim for Wrangell Island on the ground of previous discovery. He believed that the claim was unfounded, but it would be well to make ours first. He did not know whether the island was valuable but it was stated that the mineral wealth on it was probably great.

The Premier stated that the Canadian flag is now flying on Wrangell Island, and that an expedition was being prepared to go up there.

"The Government," he said, "will maintain the position that Wrangell Island is part and parcel of this country."

Mr. Meighen called the attention of the Government to the consideration that a claim for Wrangell Island was likely to be made also by Russia. Russia's claim would be based on the geographical position of the Island. He warned the Government that Ellesmere Island required attention as well.

WHEAT SEEDING AT A STANDSTILL

Heavy Rains in Manitoba and Saskatchewan Delay Planting Operations.

WINNIPEG, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—Heavy rains in many localities throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan have again impeded seeding operations. Although many districts report wheat seeding completed there is still a heavy acreage of coarse grains to be put in. Rains have been general in many parts of Manitoba during the past few days and it will be well into next week before operations can again be resumed.

Saskatchewan points reported rain falling yesterday and Moose Jaw experienced wet snow early in the evening. The meteorological office there showed a record rainfall of 115 inches during a 24 hour period. Prince Albert advises state all seeding operations at a standstill but two or three fine days will see the seed drills busy again. The wheat acreage in the Saskatoon district will be reduced at least ten per cent as aresult of the wet weather and considerable areas of land seeded before the rain both in Saskatoon and Regina districts are now under water.

Conditions in Alberta have been more favorable and there will be little delay in spring work.

PROBABILITIES.

FARMERS FROM EUROPE NEEDED AS IMMIGRANTS

Lord Shaughnessy Says England Can Afford to Send Her Agriculturists to This Country.

REVISE LAWS.

MONTREAL, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—Restricted immigration as to the type of entrant into Canada, but revising existing regulations, was advocated by Lord Shaughnessy in an interview here yesterday. His Lordship who has just returned from Europe suggested that agriculturists, not from Great Britain which can ill spare them, but from various countries on the European Continent, was what he suggested at the present time, to the exclusion for the present of those engaged in industry. He added that excellent agriculturists could be secured from Norway, Sweden, Holland and the Slavonic countries in the South, as well as from Hungary and Austria.

Fitted to the Road

There is something unique about the arrangement of the "knuckles" on the "Cross" tread of the "Gutta Percha" Non-Skid Tire. They not only make it "non-skid" but they "fit the road." This tread has a grip that assures a quick get-away, and it also seems to nullify the impact of sharp stones, and other penetrating objects by some power of deflection owing to its peculiar form.

'GUTTA PERCHA' TIRES

The "Cross" Tread of the "Gutta Percha" Tire is a striking original tread and it will pay motorists to keep it in the mind's eye. In case they forget the name, they can remember the tread. "Gutta Percha" Tires are unique in other ways than the tread. They have wonderfully strong side-walls and the rubber composition is of such a character as to give it exceptional toughness and endurance, without destroying the resilience of the original rubber.

SHOULD EASE THE BURDEN.

The request made on behalf of the veterans of the Great War who have taken up land under the Soldiers' Settlement Act that the loans made them by the Government should be revalued and scaled down accordingly, or that the time set for meeting these loans be extended to twenty-five years, will be endorsed, The Examiner is sure, by the majority of the people of Canada. These veterans started upon their career as farmers under most encouraging auspices, and with the brightest prospects, but, like all other farmers, they have been hard hit by the shinkage in the value of their live stock and equipment. Deflation, according to an official estimate, has cut down the value of their horses by $2,070,000, of their cattle $1,895,000, of implements $388,000, and lumber by $460,000. The Government would be meeting the wishes of the people generally if it showed sympathy and consideration for the soldier settlers and made it as easy as possible for them to meet their obligations. The fact that they fought for Canada and that when they came back had to pay top notch prices for their stock and equipment, only to lose when deflation started, entitles them to a helping hand from the country, on whose behalf they risked their lives. They are an asset to Canada, and should be given every opportunity to make good. It would be indeed a pity if they were driven from the land upon which they have made their homes. The Government can ease the burden for them and should do so.

THE APPLE SITUATION.

The report of the committee of the Legislature which has been inquiring into the fruit situation in Ontario is full of interest, not only to those engaged in the fruit industry, but to the public, who, as consumers, should be concerned in the findings of the committee. Many important recommendations are made, among them that steps should be taken to avoid the enormous annual waste of apple products, for a great part of which, the report declares, markets may be secured under proper conditions. This is a matter in which the whole Province should be interested, for it has been a matter for wonderment that Ontario people should be called upon to pay more for apples than they have to for tropical fruits, while at the same time it is common knowledge that each year vast quantities of apples are wasted. Much of the report, of course, concerns itself with the exportation of Ontario apples, a matter that most particularly affects those interested in the fruit business, but the public are more particularly anxious to see that the local market receives attention and that some method may be found of placing Ontario apples on sale in the Province in which they are grown at reasonable prices. People cannot understand why, when so many fine apples are produced in Ontario, it should be necessary to pay five cents each for fruit shipped in from British Columbia. There are no better apples grown anywhere than our own Province produces, and Ontario people would like a chance to secure some of them.

THE LAW MUST DO THE TEACHING.

The Great War Veterans' Association of Sault Ste Marie, according to news despatches, has been so greatly concerned at the number of motor accidents on the streets of that city that they have got behind as a body a movement to educate the public along safety first lines. The Examiner has frequently emphasized the need for such a campaign—probably at a waste of effort and space. Nevertheless the conditions are such that no newspaper which considers it has a responsibility towards its readers could refrain from an attempt to bring about an improvement. More and more motor cars are appearing on the streets of the cities and along the highways. The public which has stopped buying many other things always seem to have money for cars and gasoline, and so the number is constantly increasing, and with the increase in cars comes, of course, greater opportunities for accidents and more need of care. All motorists, fortunately, are not speed maniacs, nor are they all indifferent to the risk of accident to themselves or to others. But there are enough irresponsible drivers to make the motor car a menace, and it is among them that the improvement, if it is to be reached at all, must come. How the best results can be achieved is by no means clear, but at least the penalty for those who attempt to drive cars while under the influence of liquor must be increased, and every motorist who is recklessly careless must be prosecuted whenever possible. If common-sense does not ensure careful driving, the law must step in and provide the education.

MUNICIPAL GRANTS.

Municipal councils have been given considerable latitude with respect to certain forms of grants, but a decision handed down recently by Mr. Justice Latchford is a reminder that certain limits must not be disregarded, says the Brockville Recorder and Times. The particular case in point was a grant of $2000 made by the council of Ottawa to the Kiwanis Club of that city, the judgment holding that the grant was illegal.

It is possible that an appeal may be taken against the judge's decision but even though the appeal should be successful and the individual members of of the Ottawa council should be relieved of the necessity of restoring the money to the city,the judgment of Mr. Latchford will have given them a jar which will not be readily forgotten,and the judge's commendation of the action to recover the money is evidence that he,at least, felt that the grant was not justified.

Under the Municipal Act grants for the reception of guests or for traveling expenses for municipal purposes may be made from $2500 to $10,000 according to the size of the city; publicity may be fostered to the extent of $3000; special arrangements may be made for aiding sports, bands, public baths, charitable institutions, rifle associations and nurses' associations; other grants for patriotic purposes were made legal by amendments passed during the war, including grants for war memorials.

The effect of this judgment will be probably a more clear definition of the rights of municipal councils in the matter of grants, so that it will be distinctly understood what grants are and what are not legal.

MOTHER'S DAY.

It is a happy thought by which through all this continent to-morrow is recognized as Mothers' Day. It is all too easy to forget the debt men owe their mothers, and if the day do nothing more than remind us of that, it should leave us better than it found us.

Such a day speaks eloquently of the place and power of home influence in life. The church and the school are potent factors in moulding the lives of men, and each has its contribution to make. But the first word and the last word in child training are spoken in the home, and the parents are the real moulders of character. If only the homes of to-day were right, the future would be safe and easy. But the disquieting fact will not be downed that a tremendous number of the homes of to-day are not right. The double standard of morality, the senseless craze for pleasure, the passion for wealth, the seeming indifference of parents as to where children spend their time, and whom they are with, the pitiful spectacle of jazzing and cigarette-smoking mothers, the entire absence in many homes of any approach to family religion,—all these combing to raise grave doubts in thinking minds about the homes of to-day and their influence.

Such a day, too, brings grateful and inspiring thoughts of the mothers who are loyal and true to their responsibilities. "Oh, pious mother," cries Carlyle, "kind, brave and truthful soul as I have ever found in this world! Your poor Tom has fallen very lonely, very lame and very broken in this pilgrimage of his, and you cannot help by a kind word anymore. But from your grave in Ecclefechan kirkyard yonder you bid him trust in God—and that also he will try to do—for the conquest of the world, and of death and hell does verily lie in that." The world has had and still has many mothers whose influence is of that sort. For such and for all that they have meant, and still mean to the world, Mothers' Day brings tears of gratitude, and with the tears a prayer that the passing years may find them in increasing numbers.

P. R. HAS ITS FIELD DAY.

If Proportional Representation effects half the beneficial results which its advocates claim for it, Canada is losing a golden opportunity in not putting the system into force in every Dominion, Provincial and municipal election. On the other hand, those who oppose it are just as vigorous in their opposition as are its supporters in their advocacy, claiming that it is not adapted to the British system of responsible government, and that it tends to foster group administration.

Yesterday P. R. had a field in the House of Commons. The system had two powerful advocates in Mr. Good, the Progressive member for an Ontario constituency, and Mr. Crerar, the leader of the Progressive party, while the Premier lent it his support on the ground that it would make Parliament more representative and would, therefore, assist the cause of good government.

It is not disputed that, while great reforms have been made under the British system in the election of representatives for Parliament and for Council, the perfect system has yet to be established. It is a far cry from the days of the corrupt pocket boroughs, with their bribery and their bartering, to elections of to-day, with representation by population, remedy for election abuses in the courts, the secret ballot, and, in Canada, the elimination of plural voting. Yet it is equally indisputable that minorities are not adequately represented and that when they are so represented it is due rather to adventitious circumstances than to design. Statistics have proved that a Parliamentary majority may represent a minority of the voters. Canada, indeed, had an example of this condition in an election in Ontario several years ago. Even the constitution of the present House of Commons does not reflect the votes cast by the members of the three political parties.

An extreme case may be cited in proof of this. There may be twelve constituencies, eleven of which average a majority of one hundred for the Liberals, while the twelfth might record a majority of eleven hundred for a Progressive candidate. This would mean that, if there were but these two parties in the field, there would be an equal number of Liberals and Progressives voting, but the Liberals would return eleven members to the House and the Progressives only one member.

The advocates of P. R. in the House of Commons yesterday emphasized the fact that they favored this system, because they believed it was democratic. This argument misses the real point, for democracies are not always good just as autocracies are not always bad. There can be real democracy under a form of autocracy and real autocracy under the guise of democracy. If P. R. has any virtue it is because it is representative, and under this system, its supporters claim, the elected body is the express image in miniature of the population which it represents.

In theory, the system of P. R. is admirable. In fact theoretically the ideal system would be one in which the whole Dominion was constituted as a single constituency with every elector exercising a preferential vote. Such a scheme is, of course, impracticable and the advocates of P. R. suggest a modification of the plan so that the country will be divided into manageable constituencies. The danger is that men may be chosen who are in favor of a single idea such as prohibition or state ownership of railways, while on all other questions which the Legislature must decide these representatives may be at variance with the electorate who returned them.

What is most needed is a campaign of education. The system is not so simple in operation that its full strength and its weaknesses, as well as its method of operation, can be grasped in a moment. The resolution proposed in the House suggested a partial adoption of the system. A practical trial of this sort would convert the sceptics and justify the enthusiasts, or, by its failure, would remove it from the sphere of practical politics.—Montreal Star.

"My Back Aches"

BOTH liver and kidney troubles are usually first detected by backache.

When the liver is to blame you have pains under the shoulder blades and down towards the right side.

The liver and kidneys work hand-in-hand in eliminating poisons from the blood. Neither one can be greatly deranged without the other being affected.

Because they correct the action of both these great filtering organs, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills afford relief in complicated derangements which ordinary medicines do not seem to touch.

Mrs. Alex Gordon, Walkerton, Ont., writes: "A few years ago I suffered from kidney and liver trouble, with pains in my back. I had heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills being good for this, so I commenced taking them. I had only taken a couple of boxes when the trouble was all removed."

Few medicines have ever attained to such universal use as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This is because they afford prompt relief from the most common ills of humanity—backache, constipation, indigestion, liver and kidney derangements.

DUNLOP
CORD TIRES FABRIC

Making "Mile-ionaires"

THESE are great days for the motor car user—in a tire sense. Your dollar never before bought as much. Your speedometer never before registered as much. Your repair kit never was as idle. All because Dunlop Cord Tires came and ushered in a new era. Five years ago you paid half as much again for the same size tire; ten years ago you paid twice as much. Prices have been tumbling. Quality has been mounting. One time we thought 3,500 was mileage to boast of; to-day we may run into half a dozen "25,000 milers" in a forenoon. "Dunlop did it," says one enthusiast. "The 'Two Hands' are making us Mile-ionaires," says another; and so on.

The sign "Mileage Wanted" is now changed to "Mileage Supplied."

HON. F.C. BIGGS TO INSPECT HIGHWAY FROM PORT HOPE

Go Over Ground in Company With Other Officials Tuesday Next, May 16.

In company with other officials of the Department of Roads and Highways, Hon. F. C. Biggs is expected to inspect the Provincial highway from Port Hope on Tuesday next and to give particular attention to the section at Springville.

This is the information R. S. Cotton, President of the Peterborough Automobile Association, has received from Douglas Bewes, road engineer on the Port Hope-Peterborough section when he was in the city yesterday. Mr. Bewes was not sure whether the Minister was motoring from Toronto or coming by train. To give him a suitable reception, the association is getting together on the initiative of the President and the party will likely be met and escorted to Springville by a number of the motorists.

Work was started on the highway this week, The Examiner was informed. The road is completed to Fowler's hill, this side of Scott's Corners. If the highway was carried over Springville hill on the old vacated road, the cost would be about $16,000, The Examiner was informed, and there is a feeling that the traffic does not warrant this expenditure. Farmers report that there certainly is a "spring" in the road near the village, and that it is one of the worst spots in the 30 miles.

OSHKIGMONG

OSHKIGMONG, May 14.—The quarterly communion service was held here last Sunday morning, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ireland. His subject was from the words found in Galatian 6:14. "God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ."

An orchestra have been organized in connection with the Indian Sunday School, which greatly improves the musical exercise and draws increased attendance.

Mr. Charles McCue of Scugog Island is here visiting friends.

In preparation for the fourth annual Chemong Exhibition for 1922, the grounds have been extended and levelled off, old picket fence torn down and a wire fence will be substituted, which will greatly improve the grounds and their appearance.

Mrs. F. Joe, Sr., and her son, Levi, of Longford are here visiting their sick daughter and sister, respectively, Mrs. G. McCue.

The Arbor Day brought the men together and they engaged in a general cleaning up of the school and church yards.

Mrs. James Williams of Longford, who has been attending her sick sister, will return to her home today.

LABOURERS GET 25 CTS. AN HOUR CAVAN TOWNSHIP

Cavan Township Council Fixes Wages For Road Work. Teamsters 50 Cents. Sundry Business.

MILLBROOK, May 13.—At the regular meeting of the Cavan Council all the members were present.

A deputation from the northwest part of the township, headed by Mr. T. Poast, waited on the Council and asked to have certain alterations made on the road on the W.Q.L., Concession 14.

Mr. Jas. Hunter, Mt. Pleasant, complained of the condition of the road on the 13th Concession, east, and asked to have it gravelled.

Messrs. Hooton and Fallis moved that the whole Council be a committee to meet the ratepayers from the northwest part of the township on the road to consider what would be the best plan for the improvement of the W.Q.L., this meeting to be on May 19th, and on the same date to inspect the road complained of by Jas. Hunter. Carried.

Councillor Hooton reported that, with Councillor Elson, had engaged L. Morton to operate the grader at a salary of $14.00 per day. He also reported that he had inspected a bad spring hole on the North Boundary road, the repairs of which were being looked after by the Emily Council. He also engaged E. Edgerton to repair a washout on the 14th Concession and gave Mr. Edgerton and H. Lowes permission to make drags for use on their road divisions.

Deputy-Reeve Bland reported that, with Councillor Fallis, had engaged H. Braithwaite to make the tile for 1922.

Councillor Fallis reported that, with the Reeve, had met a committee from the Manvers Council at the Glamorgan bridge and found it in bad condition. Decided to make temporary repairs; also decided to grade the road on the boundary from the Marsh Church south to the next corner and to add three more tile to the culvert on that same part of the road. Inspected the work done by F. McMahon on the 8th Concession, west, and found it satisfactory.

Councillor Elson reported that he had engaged G. Esson to cut brush on the E.Q. Line.

A bylaw was passed fixing the rate of pay for men and teams as follows: Man and team, 50c per hour; man, 25c per hour; statute labor to be commuted at $2 per day.

Accounts Passed.

The following accounts were passed: Treasurer of South Monaghan, balance boundary account, 1918, $17.17; T. Goodwin, S. S. 12, $325; A. Gilmour, S. S. 19, $300; L. Fallis, S. S. 10, $100; J. A. Lewers, $23.25; A. Muspratt, $7.50; J. J. Powell, $3; R. Grandy, Customs Officer, license and sales tax for tile made in 1921, $12.45; W. Pritchard, $2.50; F. Moved by Councillor Bland and seconded by Councillor Fallis, that the Council adjourn, to meet on Wednesday, May 31, at 10 a.m., for a first sitting of a Court of Revision on the assessment roll for 1922, and that a regular meeting of Council be held on the same date. Carried.

DISTRICT FARMERS LOOKING FORWARD TO BUMPER CROP

Conditions Have Been Ideal So Far, and Considerable Spring Work Has Been Accomplished

"The farmers are pretty well pleased with conditions generally," declared a North Monaghan farmer yesterday, who claimed to have one of the best fields of fall wheat in the township. The clover, he said, was looking splendid and sowing was being finished. "Most of the farmers out our way have their sowing pretty well done," he said. Attention has been transferred to the gardens, and a lot of garden stuff has been put in the last few days.

Weather conditions have been ideal for working on the land, and the past week has seen a great deal of work accomplished. The ground is drying up, and a warm rain would be helpful, The Examiner was told. If conditions continue as favorable as during the last few weeks an exceptionally good crop is expected.

FLAMES DESTROY EAST EMILY HOME

Thomas Bell Suffers Loss of House and Contents.

EAST EMILY, May 13.—The home of Mr. Thomas Bell, 4th Line, in East Emily Township, and best part of its contents were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon at about 3 o'clock. The house was a two-storey frame structure on a farm owned by Bell. Willing helpers succeeded in saving most household effects from the top flat before the flames had pretty well gutted the premises. The origin of the fire, which started on the ground floor, nor estimated loss, could not be learned this morning. There is some insurance.

Mrs. Bell and little girl were in Peterboro at the time, and there were three other children at home. There was no fire in the house after nine o'clock yesterday morning.

PIMPLES ON FACE

DIDN'T LIKE TO GO OUT

Those nasty little pimples that break out on the face and other parts of the body are simply indications that the blood is out of order and requires purifying.

There is only one way to get rid of this obnoxious skin trouble, and that is by giving the blood a thorough cleansing which can best be done by that old reliable blood medicine, and when the blood is purified the pimples will vanish and you will have a clear, healthy complexion.

Miss Mary E. Flangan, R. R. No. 3, Stella, Ont., writes: "I have suffered for about two years with pimples and blotches breaking out on my face. The doctor said it was caused by bad blood. My face was so bad I didn't like to go out among a crowd of people. One day I was talking to a friend, and she advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and try it. I took three bottles, and there was not a blotch or pimple of any kind left. Some of my friends asked me what I had used and I said, "Burdock Blood Bitters chased them."

DIVERSIFIED INTEREST STABILIZES CANADA STEAMSHIPS EARNINGS; NOW CLASSED AS GREAT PUBLIC UTILITY

Canada Steamship Lines Bond Offering Gives Investors Opportunity of Sharing in Growth and Development of Company—Company's Immense Properties Valued at Over $41,000,000 Security for Present Offerings.

During the past few weeks the bond market has witnessed substantial appreciation in prices. This has been most strikingly illustrated in the market for Dominion of Canada Victory bonds as they have been the most active, the demand being most insistent in that quarter owing to the preference of many buyers for an exceptionally high grade security. Other bonds of public utility and industrial corporations are receiving their share of attention, the higher yield in that quarter and the substantial security inviting investment.

This development is but one of the signs of the times which was foreseen and predicted months ago by diagnosticians and statisticians who believe that the financial world has entered on an extended period of declining money value and that security prices will have to become adjusted to the changed conditions as the rate drops and prices go up automatically thus decreasing the yield.

It is considered fair betting that a year from now good bonds will be yielding less return and selling at correspondingly higher prices than they are today. This is one of the reasons why buyers are so keen on taking advantage of the present attractive range of prices. There is also greater confidence now than there was a few months ago of the business drift back to normal conditions.

There are very few new issues coming on the market at the present time, the present dealings being larger in existing issues which had declined during war uncertainty and are now on their way to complete recovery. One of the new issues which is beginning to attract attention owing to the exceptional conditions in the bond market is the 7 per cent. offering of Canada Steamship Lines, Limited.

Newer Phase of Investment Sentiment.

It has been obvious for some time that the bond market has been undergoing marked expansion, the special feature being the ready absorption of the better classes of issues applicable to corporation industry and enterprise as distinct from the early preference for government, municipal and public utility bonds.

This naturally follows after the demand has been satisfied to point where the public will turn to the groups with a record of continuous earning power, evidencing safety of providing interest requirements, yet furnishing a more attractive yield than that possessed by those in earlier demand, consequent upon the advance which ensued when competitive buying forced prices up.

Houses which had specialized in government, municipal and public utility issues are now giving their cordial support to such corporations as are in need of fresh financing and can at the same time satisfy the exacting requirements incidental to the close scrutiny these houses of necessity give to the credit and prospects of the applicants in the interests of those to whom they can recommend the issues for investment.

It is believed that issues of the class which can be sold to yield 7 per cent. or over will diminish rapidly. That leading Canadian and American houses, jealous of the class of securities which they recommend to their clients, have underwritten this issue, stands as a substantial indication in the faith of that enterprise and its future prosperity.

The business of Canada Steamships may now be classed as that of a great public utility, as 80 per cent. of its large freight operations on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence is conducted on contract basis. In years gone by the revenues of the company were subject to violent fluctuations, as they were more dependent on the vagaries of tourist travel, which in turn was affected materially by weather conditions for a few months in midsummer.

Now that the company has been rounded out in its existing complete combination of freight and passenger business with diversified interests, the tendency towards stability of earnings is much greater. The contract transportation of iron ore, grains and pulp wood, three of the most important factors in the way of freights, transform the business completely. Passenger business, which once bulked so largely in the fortunes of the company, is a secondary consideration now, but even that has worked into more stable status owing to the wide publicity obtained for the Niagara-to-the-Sea route, which is admitted to be one of the finest and most attractive steamboat trips of its kind in the world.

Fixed Charges Earned Several Times Over.

The strength of earning power to meet interest charges on the company's bonds is strikingly exhibited in the earnings for the past six years, 1916 to 1921, inclusive. The six-year total earned available for interest, and after taxes, depreciation and all other charges, was $14,804,000, or an average per year of $2,467,000. The annual interest charges on the present issue of $6,000,000 and $5,225,466 debenture stock (exchangeable for first mortgage bonds) are $683,750.

After giving effect to the present financing, the balance sheet of Feb. 28, 1922, shows fixed assets (including net value of investments) of $27,656,262, including $8,388,539, representing real estate, buildings, wharves, docks, shops, tools, etc. This is after depreciation reserve of $6,595,461 and a special reserve of $3,873,595 against ocean tonnage, and is substantially below values fixed by the Canadian Appraisal Company in June, 1921. In addition, the company has net quick assets of $2,429,883, making total net assets of $30,086,145, against total bonds outstanding of $11,275,466.

A study of the net earnings for the past six years shows that the yearly average balance after depreciation was sufficient to pay the interest charges 3.6 times.

The children of this country are not getting a square deal, because many of their teachers have not even attended a Normal School.

Ask for More.

Miss Stead quoted a school principal as advising his students against answering "state salary" advertisement, these being simply a bid for the cheapest class of teacher, and against applying for a position "until you are sure that the other teacher has quit; a pernicious thing." The Federation sets a scale for its members. The first year's salary is placed at $800.00, the second year's at $900.00, and the third year's at $1,000.00. A Hamilton teacher informed Miss Stead that letters were constantly being received from inspectors, saying that trustees would prefer that teachers should ask for $1,000.00 salary instead of $800.00 or $900.00, as it costs the school section more for an $800.00 teacher than for a $1,000.000 applicant. This is explained by the provisions of the Educational Act, and the conditions of grants to schools. However, as soon as a teacher begins asking for more than $1,000.00, while the trustees may realise that she is worth it, the ratepayers prove, in many instances, anxious to be rid of her, and to get another $1,000.00 teacher.

"Don't ask less than $800.00, and get $1,200.00 if you can," said the speaker, commenting on the pleased look at this prospect which appeared on the faces of her girl hearers, "and don't go into a town for less than $1,000.00. Towns are the most miserable bodies we have to deal with."

Miss Stead also enjoined against "going into your own home town to teach in your own schools. I would never start at home. It is a very poor compliment that a town pays its own girl when they offer her less to teach in their own school than they would have to pay a stranger."

Federation's Methods.

Miss Stead referred to the recently developed situation in Brandon. Some time ago, the 89 teachers there were asked to take a 25 per cent. cut in their salaries, which they refused to do, and were consequently asked to resign their positions. A notice was inserted in newspapers a month or so ago, saying "do not apply to Brandon schools," and when the 89 teachers were served with notice, the School Board was unable to obtain any substitutes, with the exception of six applicants, whom the school children of Brandon, out on a sympathetic strike with the teachers, called "scabs." In one classroom in Brandon now, a girl of ten has charge, with a twelve-year-old girl presiding over another.

Another advantage desired by the teachers is that they may get together in this Federation to prepare text-books for the schools.

"The teachers have never been asked to prepare text-books, and if anyone knows anything about what text-books should be, surely the teachers do."

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

When the Blood is Out of Order the Nerves Are Starved.

The nerve system is the governing system of the whole body, controlling the heart, lungs, digestion and brain; so it is not surprising that nervous disturbances cause acute distress. The first stages of nervous debility are noted by irritability and restlessness, in which the victims seem to be oppressed by their nerves. The matter requires immediate attention, for nothing but suitable treatment will prevent a breakdown. The victim, however, need not despair, for even severe nervous disorders may be relieved by improving the condition of the blood. It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood that this medicine has proved beneficial in nervous disorders. The nerves thrive on the better blood made by these pills; the appetite improves, indigestion is better, sleeplessness no longer troubles the nerve-shattered victim, and life generally takes on a cheerful aspect. The value of these pills in cases of this kind is shown by the experience of Mrs. John W. Macdonald, Cardigan, P.E.I., who says: "I have much cause to be grateful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was suffering from nervous breakdown, and my condition gave alarm to both my friends and myself. I suffered almost continuously from nervous headaches, my appetite was poor, I hardly got any sleep, and in every way I was badly rundown. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after I had taken them for a while there was a noticeable improvement in my condition. I continued using the pills until I had taken twelve boxes, when every symptom of the trouble was gone, and I have since enjoyed the best of health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE ATLANTIC SEACOAST.

To many thousands of people there is no holiday that can compare with a vacation by the seashore. The smooth, sandy beaches, the rocky coves, the murmur of the restless ocean, the invigorating breezes, the cool, restful nights, the delights of bathing, boating and fishing, combine to make a well nigh irresistible appeal to the vacation seeker. The summer resorts of the coast of Maine are among the most popular in America. The attractions of this wonderful territory are manifold, there being innumerable natural beauties and cool retreats. Rugget capes, peninsulas and islands extend far out to sea. In the arms of these beautiful headlands are beaches and harbors washed out by the ocean—unrivalled sites for the famous shore resorts. A handsomely illustrated publication with map and list of hotels has been issued by the Grand Trunk and can be had free on application to any Grand Trunk Agent, or C. E. Horning, D. P. The proceedings at the convention were of a routine nature.

NOTHING GLOOMY ABOUT GUS NOW

Good Food is Putting Flesh on His Bones and Spring Inspires Him With Its Motif.

Under the revivifying influence of good food and ...ing effect of a bath, that must have been an historic event in his later unwashed days Gus Schrader is getting a new grip on life at the Nicholls Hospital. And with the stronger pulsing of new vigor has come a certain tuning of his thoughts into higher harmony with the bright optimism of Spring and their wandering amid flower-strewn fields where only the young man's fancy is supposed to linger in sweet dalliance.

Gus is 62 years old, he told Adjutant Buntin.

"And good for another 25 years," suggested the Adjutant.

"More than that," said Gus, who aparently feels that he is in heaven, and that life runs on forever in the whiteness and cleanness and brightness at the hospital.

Gus is thinking of love these days. "If I could marry some rich widow," he wished, "we could move up to Haliburton and settle down there." So many of them have such a willing affection for rich widows. Gus is a true son of Adam."

BELL TELEPHONE ADOPT AUTOMATIC SYSTEM TELEPHONE

MONTREAL, May 13.—(Canadian Press).— The Bell Telephone Co., has decided to adopt the Automatic system. At the last meeting of the directors, the recommendation of the company's engineers regarding the future development of the system in the larger cities was considered and approved. This involves a radical change in the furnishing of telephone service.

The change in policy will first be felt in Toronto then in Montreal and later may be extended to Ottawa, Hamilton and other cities, where more than one exchange is necessary to handle the business.

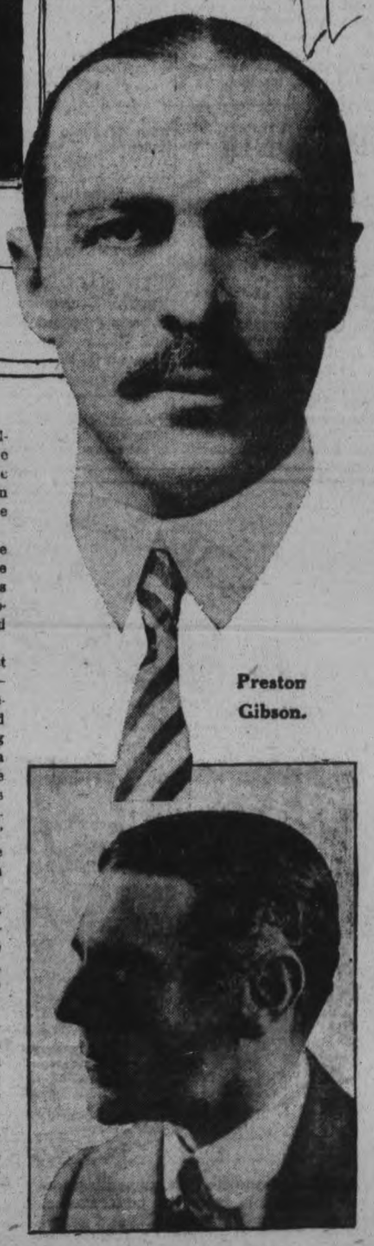
Swagger Mr. Gibson's Most Embarrassing Moment

Wouldn't It Make You Furious to Be Yanked Out of a Taxi and Called a "Dead Beat," Just When You Are With a Lady Too?

"When Are You Going to Pay Me That $1,800 I Lent You? You dead Beat!"

Mrs. Preston Gibson No. 3.

Mrs. Preston Gibson No. 2



Preston Gibson.

Norman Trevor, Actor-Manager, Who Staged the Very Embarrassing Taxi Episode.

CHRONOLOGICAL HISTORY OF GIBSON HIGHLIGHTS.

April, 1907—Was divorced.

June, 1917—Was divorced, his wife testifying that he had beaten, choked and abused her. He made no defense.

October 17, 1919—Eloped in a taxi to Greenwich, Conn., and there married Beatrice, daughter of W. E. Benjamin. Mrs. Gibson No. 3 is the cousin of Mrs. Caruso.

October 18, 1919—Gibson was sued for $122 for merchandise.

November 1, 1919—Mrs. Gibson No. 3 lost her $2,000,000 inheritance, given to her under the will of H H. Rogers, her grandfather, because she married Gibson.

February 6, 1920—Mrs. Gibson No. 3 sued her father for an accounting for bonds, the income from which amounted to $60,000 a year.

April 8, 1920—W. E. Benjamin sued Mrs. Gibson No. 3 for $10,000 on notes given by her and endorsed by Gibson.

July 3, 1921—Mrs. Gibson No. 3 was reconciled to her parents during a visit to Venice.

November 20, 1921—Norman Trevor dragged Gibson out of a taxi in front of the Hotel Astor and denounced him as a dead beat.

December 30, 1921—Preston Gibson sued by Marine Magazine for alleged conversion of funds amounting to $12,500.

A TAXI drew up before Hotel Astor, located in the very heart of New York City's theatre district. A handsomely-gowned woman occupied the rear seat. Out of the hotel came Mr. Preston Gibson, of Chicago, Washington and New York, clubman, hero, dramatist (in waiting) thrice married and twice divorced. He bowed low to the woman. He opened the door of the taxi and entered.

A heavy hand was laid upon his shoulder, then on his collar, and he was hauled incontinently out of the car.

"When are you going to pay me that $1,800 I lent you, you dead-beat!" exclaimed a male voice, vibrant with emphasis, insistence and aggressiveness. Mr. Gibson turned upon the speaker. He beheld the large form of Norman Trevor, actor-manager. He beheld a light in Mr. Trevor's eyes which boded ill, as they used to say in novels of the Victorian era.

"Well?" queried Mr. Trevor again, "When are you going to make good?"

"Why, old man," began Mr. Gibson, "of course I'll make good. See you later—good-night!"

And with that, Gibson jumped blithely back into the car, the door slammed, the chauffeur "gave her the gas," and Mr. Trevor was left on the sidewalk, muttering strange and poetic nothings.

"If anybody had called me what I called him," remarked Mr. Trevor subsequently, "one of us would have gone to a hospital. But then, some people are thick-skinned!"

And next day he began suit in City Court against Gibson for the money. More than year before, Gibson and his wife, the daughter of W. E. Benjamin, and a cousin of Mrs. Caruso, called at Trevor's home. No. 107 East Thirty-ninth street. They told a tale of woe and financial stringency which stirred the benevolent heart of the actor to the extent of $1,800. Gibson promised to repay the money in a fortnight. The days went into weeks and the weeks into months and Trevor's patience grew less in an inverse ratio. He sought for Gibson even as Saul sought for his father's donkey, and Japhet searched for his father. But Gibson apparently had evaporated. Then came the episode in front of the Astor; then the suit.

That Gibson did not resent the words of the actor is due perhaps to the well-known fact that such episodes have not been uncommon in his life, for Gibson has been a steady and generous borrower—ever ready to permit his friends to come to his rescue. Between borrowing and marrying, he has been a busy bee, indeed.

Gibson, who has been somewhat of a figure in the social theatrical life of New York, Chicago and Washington, not to mention Newport and Florida, was born in 1879, the son of the late United States Senator Randall H. Gibson, of Louisiana. Incidentally, he is a nephew of Chief Justice White, who died a year ago and was succeeded by William H. Taft.

Gibson went through his patrimony and turned to matrimony, as other men turn to golf or tennis.

At the mature age of twenty-one he turned Romeo. He was in good society, and in the course of his social wanderings had become acquainted with Minna Field Page, daughter of Thomas Nelson Page and niece of Marshall Field. Miss Page, who was then sweet seventeen, was within the staid and highly respectable confines of a fashionable girls' school at Dobbs Ferry.

The courtship of Gibson and Miss Page progressed at maximum speed. He broke all records for both fervid protestations and progress. Within a month they had an understanding. It was in January, 1900. It was snowing and the air was crisp and energizing. The dormitories of the school were in darkness. Only in one window, a flight up, burned a dim light.

Out of the darkness, covered with snow, stole a figure. It was a man. He carried a ladder. He placed the ladder against the dimly-lit window and mounted it. Then he tapped against the pane. The window was raised and Minna Page appeared, fully dressed, even to a charming hat. The man helped her out of the window to the ladder and then carried her down to the frozen ground. In the faint light, the manly face and form of Preston Gibson could have been discerned, had any one been there to take note.

The happy couple raced through the snow to the main road, where a carriage was waiting. And the next day the papers were filled with an account of the romantic elopement of Preston Gibson and Marshall Field's niece!

Then Gibson settled down to a most extravagant method of wasting money—he produced his own plays, filled the theatres with his friends and—borrowed money when in desperate straits. Among the plays, in some of which Nazimova and Charlotte Walker appeared, were "Mrs. Erskine's Devotion," "Fate," "Cupid's Trick," "Success," "The Vacuum," "Derelicts," "The Winning Point," "Drifting," and 'Lola Montez." Of these, only the first-named received any recognition from either the public or the critics.

In 1907, Mrs. Gibson No. 1 obtained a divorce. Gibson was not a whit discouraged. He was willing to marry with the same facility with which he wrote plays. On February 29, 1908, he married Grace McMillan Jarvis, granddaughter of U. S. Senator James McMillan, of Michigan.

Mrs. Gibson No. 2 divorced him in 1917, and again Gibson was quiescent for a couple of years. Then the social-theatrical world was stirred by the announcement of his third wedding. The wife in this instance was Beatrice Benjamin, daughter of W. E. Benjamin, and the divorced wife of Captain Alexander Bache Pratt, by whom she had had two children.

This romance also was an elopement. Gibson and Mrs. Pratt met in New York, hired a taxi and motored to Greenwich, Conn., the Gretna Green of lovers, where they were married by Judge Radford, after the Rev. W. Bradford Marshall, of the First Episcopal Church, had refused to perform the ceremony, as both contracting parties had been divorced

Almost immediately the financial troubles of the couple began. Mrs. Gibson had had an allowance of $60,000 a year from the estate of her grandfather, H. H. Rogers, a Standard Oil millionaire. This came from a trust fund in charge of Mr. Benjamin, the father, and he promptly cut the allowance down to $20,000, and then to nothing. Then Mrs. Gibson brought suit for an accounting, but the matter hung in the courts so long that finally the contesting parties compromised on $20,000 a year, with the proviso that Gibson should not be permitted to touch the money.

But their financial troubles were not over by any means. Gibson was sued for a paltry $122 for merchandise. Then Mrs. Gibson replevined furniture valued at $100,000 and located at her parents' home at No. 1140 Park avenue, New York City.

Next, Mr. Benjamin sued his daughter on four notes for $10,000 which Gibson had endorsed. This, too, was settled out of court. Suits by tradespeople were next in line. Beset on all sides by creditors, estranged from her family, Mrs. Gibson No. 3 grew restive.

And so Norman Trevor hopes to recover his $1,800, thus adding one more in the long list of judgments obtained against Gibson, whose records, variegated though it is, is yet brightened by one fine thing—his service in the war. Twice he was cited for conspicuous bravery under fire.

CHAPTER XXXVI

TERRIBLY TEMPTED

"I'll never fele safe until I get Bonny married," Mr. Tearle explained. "She's unmanageable. She's already given up cigarettes for a pipe, a carved meerschaum—gold and amber trappings—but still a pipe! She thinks it's cute! Same way, she thinks it's cute to elope!"

Mr. Tearle dropped into my laregst overstuffed chair. I was glad I had something big enough to make him comfortable.

"And so, Peg, I've come to you!"

"Bonny isn't in love with George," I assured him, "nor with your Swiss chauffeur. I really think that child is suffering from what she considers a broken heart. Mr. Tearle, don't you know that she's been in love with Bart Elliott a long time?"

"Then she's going to have him! What's the matter with the boy?"

"You see—he scorns flappers! Loaths them! Never looks at them! So Bonny takes to ol' George as supplying more excitement than boys of her own age."

"So Elliott has some sense after all? I supposed he was only a matinee hero."

"Bart's a peach—awfully poor—no family—nothing! But he's too good—for most girls!"

"Peg, I'd accept any son-in-law on your recommendation! Elliott can have my money—if he can win my daughter!"

"But we'd better not put it so—to him!" I laughed.

"But we can put it so to ourselves, Peg?". Then we laughed together.

"Get her out of town, can't you? Get her away from Bradshaw, and throw her and Bart together. Propinquity! That's everything. Throw them together!"

"Mr. Tearle, could you lend me a car or two for a motor party in the Berkshires?"

"All the cars you want—new cars if you say so. Peggins, I'll give you a car if you separate Bunny from Bradshaw!"

"Suppose Mary Smith and Andy Smith, and Jack and I and Bonny take a trip, and I invite Jeanne Alison and Bart to go along?!"

"Peggins, as a little girl you were always the cleverest in our neighborhood. There's a big dividend from this—if you succeed. And I guess I'd better give you one of the cars, anyway!"

After the dear man had gone I sat me down and meditated upon several exciting possibilities.

Bonny and Bart—what a fortunate girl Bonny would be! And a fortune for Bart—without working! Really, match-making was a wonderful game!

And a brand new car for me, whether or not I saved Bonny from ol' George! Mr. Tearle often had given lovely presents to me, and to all of his daughter's friends. He had given me a chest of flat silver when I married. Nevertheless Jack never would let him give us an auto. No use of trying to make Jack see anything like that!

Well then—what if I were to ask Mr. Tearle to give me a check to cover all those horrid bills in my desk?

Just by explaining to Mr. Tearle, I could pay tvem all! And dear old Jack never would need to know!

THE OUTSTANDING FACT OF HISTORY

Was Subject of Discourse By Rev. G. E. Ross.

Notwithstanding the rain on Sabbath morning, the Communion service was largely attended, and the choir did excellent work. There was also a fine congregation in the evening. "The Great Fact of History" was the subject of the morning discourse, and was based on Isaiah liii. 5. But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." The following is a synopsis of the sermon.

This passage of scripture can refer to none other than to the Christ of Calvary. Through the mists and vapors, types and shadows, smoke of incense and burning, sacrifices, Isaiah sees his Messiah coming, "from Edom, with dyed garments, from Bazrah, glorious in his apparel, and travelling in the greatness of His strenght." This coming was one and is the great central fact of the ages. We might call attention to other great historic facts, but they are all simply lesser lights, set in motion by and circling round the Great Central Luminary, Jesus the Christ.

OTHER GREAT FACTS

The man is blind who cannot see the hand of God in history. What is the meaning of the persecutions of the early Church, if not to flood the world with the light of the Cross; The eleventh chapter of Hebrews has been called the Picture-gallery of heroes. These patriots and martyrs who won our first battles for liberty and religion, made nobleness an epidemic. Stoned and mobbed in the cities, they founded and loved, they fled into exile, where they wandered in deserts and mountains and caves, and slept in dens and holes of the earth. Falling at last in the wilderness, it may be said that no man knoweth their sepulcher, and none their names. But the institutions most eminent and excellent in our day represent the very principles for which these martyrs died, and, dying, conquered. They won the first victory over vice and sin, and they were the first to dare earth's despots. They wove the first threads of freedom's flag, made it the banner of the morning; for they dyed it crimson in their own heart's blood. These "Sons of the Mighty" caught the spirit of the Christ. We might mention other great facts which had their origin in the Author of Christianity. The seven great Crusades break down in the barriers between the Eastern and Western worlds. The art of printing sends the Word of God broadcast among the nations. The mariners compass finds the new world beyond the unknown seas. The Reformation peoples the American colonies with the followers of Christ; while the mighty Wesleyan Revival holds back the tide of infidelity that beat against the shores of England. We see the hand of God in all this.

Vicarious Sacrifice

"Wounded for our transgressions, means vicarious sacrifice on the part of Christ. This sacrifice is the greatest fact in history. Sacrifice grips the world as nothing else can. Sometimes a deed of heroism by a brave patriot has rallied wavering hosts, flashed the lightening through the centuries, and kindled whole nations into holy enthusiasm. Society admires the scholar, but man loves the hero. Wisdom shines, but bravery inspires and lifts. Vicarious suffering has stayed the onset of despotism and achieved our liberty. The consecrated blood of yesterday constitutes the social, moral, and spiritual capital of to-day. Indeed the civil, intellectual, and religious freedom and hope of our age find their source in the glorious courage and suffering of the garden of the Cross. The red currents of Calvary's Sacrifice are nourishing whole harvests of love and purity and hope. When Keats, walking in the flower garden, saw the ground under the rose bushes all covered with pink petals, he exclaimed, "Next year the roses should be very red." When Aeneas tore the vine from the myrtle tree, Virgil says the tree exuded blood. But this is only a poet's way of saying that civilization and religion are trees that are nourished by the agonies and blood of the Man of Nazareth.

For Our Transgressions

God is not at war with Himself, and if nature and life witness to the universality of vicarious service and suffering, surely we should expect to find the same principle working in the spiritual realm. In nature the life of the higher rests upon the death of the lower. Astronomers tell us that the sun ripens our harvests by burning himself out The orange bow, the golden sheaf, or the cluster of grapes costs the sun thousands of tons of carbon. But when we rise into the spiritual realm, man lives by the death of the Son of God. The race is redeemed by a spiritual difusion of the blood of God's slain Lamb. Yes, the higher dies for the lower, the rich for the poor, the innocent for the guilty. The head, the hands, the feet, the heart of the Christ torn for our sins.

Why was He Wounded?

It was necessary, love made it so. As the dawn is the going forth of the morning, and the sunshine is the going forth of the sun, so the love of Christ manifested on the Cross is the going forth of the heart of God toward sinners. Love knows no sacrifice too great for an erring child. This is the meaning of Gethsemane, Pilate's Judgment Hall, the Scourge, the Cross, and the empty Tomb. Jesus must be wounded, bruised, lashed, and chastised, if He would be the Saviour of the world. The shadow of the Cross was over the Son of God from the cradle to Calvary. A little boy is about to be punished for some fault. The teacher is about to inflict punishment due the offence. Just as the lash is about to fall on the trembling culprit, a bright, robust, clear-eyed boy advances to the teacher and putting one arm around the suffering boy at his side said, "Please, teacher, I'll take it instead of little Jimmy, he's not very strong." Yes, and that boy took it, and I need not tell you that the whole school was bathed in tears when the lash fell on the innocent instead of the guilty. No, Jesus was not guilty, sin was not transferred, Christ was not punished: he was chastised. No wonder heaven and earth and hell, were stirred to their centre, when He bowed his thorn-crowned head and cried: "It is finished." We are healed with his stripes.

WEAK HEART NERVES BADLY SHATTERED

Many a woman who should be strong and healthy, full of life and energy is bound by the shackles of ill-health.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of a weak heart, shattered nerves, impoverished blood and an exhausted system.

In

they will find a remedy that will supply food for the exhausted nerves, one that will strengthen and regulate the weak heart and invigorate the whole system.

Mrs. W. W. Morse, 14 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes:—"I was left with a weak heart and in a run down condition from the 'flu.' My nerves were badly shattered, and I had such pains around my heart I could not sleep much at night. I took several doctors' medicines without getting any better. My husband got me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after I took one box I got relief, and after taking six boxes I have been well and not bothered since."

W.M.A. AUXILIARY FALLIS LINE MET.

Pleasant and Instructive Time Spent By Members.

MILLBROOK, May 13. — The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church held their May meeting at Fallis' line church, on Wednesday afternoon, going out by motor through the courtesy of Messrs. P. Stinson, B. R. Raper, G. E. Burnham, G. W. Savles, and Mrs. H. A. Earle, who kindly gave the use of their cars for the occasion.

The president, Mrs. (Rev.) Tucker, occupied the chair, the secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards, and the Treasurer, Miss M. E. Hetherington also having seats at the table with her. Everyone was pleased to see Mrs. Tucker so improved in health after her recent attack of flu that she was able to take charge of the meeting once more. The Scripture lesson, Matt. 25: 14-30—"The parable of the Talents', was read by Miss Burnham, and Miss Byam and Miss Hampton led in the opening prayer. The treasurer's report showed that a total of $235.87 was raised last year (closing in April), of which $224 was sent to the Branch Treasurer, Mrs. J. Kendry, Peterboro; the Circle $71, and the Band $45—$340 in all, an increase of $6 over the amount sent away in 1921.

The following were appointed as "Heralds" for the "Watch Tower" for this year: China, Mrs. W. Millen, Japan, Miss L. Pendrie, Austria, Mrs. P. Stinson, French, Mrs. H. Seabrooke, Temperance Mrs. B. R. Raper, Indian, Miss M. E. Hetherington, the World, Miss P. Burnham, Christian Stewardship, Miss Estelle Hetherington.

Miss Byam having resigned her position as Superintendent of the Mission Band, on motion Mrs. Roy Raper was appointed in her place. Miss Estella Hetherington then gave an interesting reading, "Her Tithes", after which Mrs. Stinson took charge of the annual distribution of mite boxes, those assisting her with a series of facts illustrating the excellent results obtained from this mode of giving being; Mrs. J. George, Dr. E. Gilliott, Miss P. Byam, and Mrs. Raper. A duet, "If Jesus goes with me I'll go", by Miss Stewart and Mrs. Stinson was much enjoyed.

MISSIONARY AT HOME

The president announced that the June meeting will take the form of a "Missionary At Home", and will be held on Miss Hampton's lawn after the delegates return from the Branch meeting at Belleville, June 6-8.

The ladies of Fallis' Line church, of whom quite a number were present, very kindly served an excellent lunch to the Auxiliary at the conclusion of the meeting. A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Burnham, seconded by Mrs. R. Raper and heartily responded to by all in attendance. Mrs. A. J. Henderson made a brief reply stating that it had been a pleasure to have this visit from the Auxiliary and to entertain them, and extending a cordial invitation to again hold a service at this appointment. It is hoped that a number from the Fallis' Line church will become members of the Millbrook W.M.A. as there is no missionary organization at that part of the circuit.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN AT CENTREVILLE.

Entertained a Capacity Audience — Centreville News.

CENTREVILLE, May 13.—Palmer Company recently produced their play entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in the Sunday school hall, here.

There was a large audience present the seating capacity being completely taken up, and many having to stand at the back throughout the entire presentation.

The play consisted of three big acts, each part being very creditably acted by the different characters, and the applause which each act received was sufficient to assure the members of the company that their entertainment was appreciated. Song, and jokes were rendered between acts, the latter affording a good laugh.

LIGHT-SIX

Your satisfaction with a car depends upon your satisfaction with its performance, appearance, economy, comfort and price.

These are the vital points. And you must get satisfaction in each one if you are to be satisfied with your car as a whole.

Consider the LIGHT-SIX from this angle.

It is essentially the same car as it was when introduced. It was right before it was offered. And it has made good in the service of thousands and thousands of owners. It is dependable. Its L-head motor is powerful, flexible and freer from vibration than any car at anywhere near its price.

Its graceful lines are enhanced by a lasting finish. Cowl parking lights and the cowl ventilator not only add to its good looks but are necessary for complete satisfaction.

The LIGHT-SIX stands up in service with a minimum of repair expense. This, with low fuel consumption, means satisfactory economy.

We never heard of a LIGHT-SIX that was not comfortable to ride in.

And the price, $1495 f. o. b. Walkerville, Ont., is out of proportion to its value. This price includes the thief-proof transmission lock which reduces the rate of theft insurance to the owner 15 to 20 per cent; large plate glass window in one-piece rear curtain, inside and outside door handles and other refinements.

Thief-proof transmission lock reduces rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20%

And you get the priceless ingredient—prestige and high standing of the maker—who for 70 years has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices.

There is said to be positions on the far s for 600 men in that Province. The rate will extend from the eastern cities to Moose Jaw, Regina, Saskatoon, Swift Current, Weyburn and Yorkton.

ON FREE TRADE.

TORONTO, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—Opinion delivered recently by Lloyd Harris, formerly an official of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, that free trade within the Empire was the solution of Canada's trade problems is decidedly not the opinion of the association as a body. Toronto and Ontario Branch of the Association, in annual session here yesterday, made it clear that Mr. Harris was speaking for himself alone. Further, they hoped officials at Ottawa would not get the impression that he was representing their association when he made that statement.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

High and Public School Cadets Made Creditable Showing at Inspection By Col. Gillespie.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 13. — The Cadets of the Public and High Schools were inspected by Col. Gillespie on the school grounds, on Thursday afternoon, in the presance of a large crowd of citizens.

After the inspection the pupils held their usual Empire Day celebration under the auspices of the I.O.D.E. Mr. Charles Haig, President of the public school, gave an excellent address on the "History of our Flag." Patriotic songs, "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," "We're a Part of Britain," were well rendered by the Public school pupils under the direction of Miss Payne. Col. Gilespie gave an address in which he congratulated the Cadets for their excellent showing, which reflected great credit on themselves as well as their instructors.

Mrs. J. P. Archer, Regent of the Campbellford Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, on behalf of the Chapter, then very kindly presented each room of the High and Public schools with a most beautiful flag chart, containing a concise illustrated history of the Union Jack of to-day. The staff and parents deeply appreciate the thoughtfulness of the I.O.D.E. in the various ways by which their efforts inculcate patriotism in the hearts of the young.

Cheese Board.

At the cheese board on Thursday 135 boxes of colored and 25 boxes of white were offered, all being sold at 13 7-8c.

Rev. Mr. Viporid of Lakefield will conduct the services at Christ church on Sunday.

Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Melvin McComb of town, received the sad news on Monday that their brother in law, Mr. Charles H. Egan (principal of the Whitemouth school in Manitoba), had been instantly killed by a train, while returning with his class of boys from a picnic party, about 20 miles down the line. The body was brought to Ontario, and interred in the family plot at Baltimore.

UNITED FARM YOUNG FOLK IN FAVOR OF DIRECT GOVERNMENT

Resolves For Legislation Giving People Optional Initiative and Referendum — Lakefield Won Debate.

"Resolved that Legislation should be enacted, giving the people the optional initiative and Referendum," was the weighty subject of the debate, held in Havelock on April 19th. The debate was between Rush Point U.F.Y.P.O. and Lakefield U.F.Y.P.O. on the 18th, and between Havelock U.F.Y.P.O. and Lakefield U.Y.F.P.O. on the 19th. The Misses Ivy and Mae Petrie upheld the affirmative for Lakefield at both debates, and won on both occasions. Miss Sylvia Cooke and Miss Marjorie Seabrook ably upheld the negative at Rush Point.

The Affirmative

These debaters contended that Legislation should be enacted, giving the people the right, when they wish to use it, to initiate legislation for themselves, through the initiative, and giving them the right to pass upon public legislation before such legislation becomes law, through the Referendum.

That there are certan evils which exist in our various governments, they declared, that have aroused widespread discussion. A remedy, or remedies, is being sought for these. The Grits see corruption in the Tory party and the Tories see it in the Grit party. Both accusations are true, for we believe there is corruption in both. It is generally conceded that our politics are more or less corrupt. The question before us is how are we going to cure political corruption? So long as we are content to sit cosily at home and leave politica to gamblers and professional politicians, we must expect to be shocked by exposures of graft and corruption.

Our government is controlled, not by the mass of the people, for wealth rules. The politicians are not our servants, but those of the liquor men, land speculators, railroad magnates, bankers, and beneficiaries of the tariff. And until we take the powers of government from their hands and place it in the hands of the people, we shall never get any great reform.

This the debaters propose to do by means of "direct Legislation" consisting of the "Initiative" and "Referendum." The initiative is a measure by which a certain percentage of the voters (usually 8%) may initiate a law by means of a petition to the parliament. If parliament refuses to pass the law, it must hold a special election for all the voters to vote on this question. If the voters approve of this measure, it becomes law (no matter what the opinion of parliament may be). The Referendum, which is usually adopted wherever the Initiative is adopted, means that the people can stop legislation. The advantage of this referendum is, it gives the people the power to stop parliament bartering away public lands or giving privileges to special corporations.

The Initiative and Referendum are in use in several foreign countries, besides a number of American states and cities, and are working splendidly.

The Initiative and Referendum are they said, logical and natural outgrowths of the development of government. They begin at the point where previous reform measures leave off. The next step is to pass on to the people the final right to rule.

The Initiative and Referendum will also inculcate a higher respect for the law, and raise the standard of citizenship, because the voters themselves will be the law-makers, and they will respect their own laws.

By the Initiative and Referendum, the people are educated to understand public questions; for the voters get instruction in the issue before them. Then, too, actual participation in the voting, is an education in itself.

Initiative and Referendum will put legislation on a business-like basis, because there will be a complete separation of political issues from the personalities of the candidates for office. Each will be considered upon its merits.

Initiative and Referendum will simplify law, because a bill to be submitted to the people must be both simple and clear. It will help to undermine partizanship, for when specific measures are submitted to the people, independent judgment is called for, and the level of discussion raised. Party loyalty then loses its pertinence and force, and the tendency will be to purify politics. It is comparatively easy to bribe a few men to betray their trust, but it is a different matter to bribe the electorate to vote against their own interests.

Lobbying will be eliminated from politics, for the voters themselves will actually decide the important measures, and the knowledge that a measure may, at any time, be just put before the people, for their ratification will cause members of parliament to vote for each question upon its merits rather than be influenced by persons who have interests at stake.

The Initiative and Referendum are both practical and inexpensive, for they require only the ordinary election machinery and they are simple in operation.

The Negatives

The debaters for the negative then gave their points on the subject in brief as follows:

Legislation should not be enacted, giving the citizens the right when they wish to use it, to initiate legislation through the Initiative and Referendum.

The Initiative and Referendum are contrary to the fundamental principles of our Canadian government.

(a) First, they strike at the very root of representative government. Under responsible government, we send one man to parliament, fron each comstituency. He represents all the people in that constituency and is pledged to see that their interests are proteced. The people have confidence in him, or they would not elect him. The Initiative and Referendum are based on the assumption that the mass of the people are more intellignet than the men they send to represent them. A government cannot act organically by its masses. It must have a law-making body, for it can no more make laws through its voters than it can throguh its newspapers. Those who make laws must come together, discuss their provisions, and take common counsel together. This method of delegating our authority to one man or woman is the system we use when the U.F.O.'s hold their annual convention, and it is applied in all business institutions, the shareholders of each concern meeting at a certain stated time to elect their board of directors, who carry on the business for the year. "That which is the business of all, is the well-cared-for business of none." When all the people try to make and frame the laws, they are apt to be badly done. There would be many loopholes, and it would be difficult to enforce them. We should then have an unstable government, and this means the opposite to peace and prosperity, which is chaos.

The Initiative and Referendum take away the responsibility of the members of the legislature. They are based on the assumption that the members of the Legislation are either corrupt or ignorant. If that is so, then the people had not the ability to judge the ability and character of a man to represent them. If they are not able to do that, have they the ability to make laws?

(b) The Initiative and Referendum encourage hasty and unwise action, for they are based on the idea that popular demand is always the course that should be followed. But our members of parliament have had more experience than the masses of the people, and can view the questions from a broader standpoint than the people can. So, they are not liable to act hastily or unwisely.

The argument that Initiative and Referendum will do away with political corruption is not valid, for it is a simple matter to secure fraudulent signatures to petitions, these petitions being circulated in hotels, pool-rooms, and etc., and left lying around in stores, for days at a time.

The further argument that Initiative and Referendum will give a Conservative tone to Legislation is also wrong, for they are nearly always used in times of public excitement

Initiative and Referendum are impracticable because (a) Voters have failed to show any permanent, increased interest in public affairs, as soon as the novelty of the plan has worn away. They have even neglected to come to the polls to vote.

(b) Voters have used this system but spasmodically, hence the members of parliament are in doubt as to what they shall do next.

(c) Special interests have found it comparatively easy to circularize the voters and secure the passing of measures favourable (practically) to themselves alone.

(d) The Initiative and Referendum have been used (in Switzerland), to undermine the confidence of the people in their Legislature.

Our present conditions do not warrant the adoption of such measures as the Initiative or Referendum; for our governments are comparatively free from abuses, and our Legislators try honestly to represent their constituents.

The Famine is Still On

300,000 Children will Die of Starvation unless we Continue to Supply Food up to the End of August.

WHAT are YOU to believe about the famine situation in Russia—the idle, unsupported statements of prejudiced papers, or the firsthand knowledge of such men as Lord Emmott, Lord Weardale and Sir Benjamin Robertson, who are devoting their time and energy to saving millions of children from starving.

In February, Sir Benjamin Robertson, with the approval of the British Government, made an exhaustive survey of the famine districts and reported that help must be continued at least until the end of August.

To say that the famine is over, and that more money and food are not needed, is worse than untrue.

To make the relief work more efficient, three great organizations have been unified under the chairmanship of Sir Benjamin Robertson.

2.—The Friends' Relief Mission—the British Organization of the Quakers.

3.—The Save The Children Fund, with Lord Weardale as chairman.

These organizations are feeding 300,000 children in the Saratov area and are endeavoring to help some of the millions of adults who are in the direst need of food.

Will you not help these British organizations to save the helpless children of Russia from starving.

Cheques and money orders may be forwarded through your bank, the local committee, or sent direct to Sir George Burn, Treasurer, Save The Children Fund, Elgin Building, Ottawa.

Presentation to Y.W.C.A. Secretary

Mis C. Layton, general secretary of the Y.W.C.A. whose resignation is much regretted by the Board was presented with a string of pearls and a boudoir lamp by the lady directors of the asociation, at their annual meeting held this week with the following address, read by Mrs. E. E. Harvey: —

"Dear Miss Layton; We deeply regret that we have reached the place where we must say "Good-bye". The severing of ties that have indeed been pleasant, is sad. We are experiencing a distinct sense of loss, but we know that you need a well-earned rest, and are glad with you; for rest is one of the greatest blessings.

"In asking you to accept these gifts, we do so, not only because we hope they will give you pleasure and serve to remind you of the many friends you leave behind, but also, because they typify your work and life, while in our midst. As the oyster, in silence and solitude, day by day develops the pearl, until its sheen becomes a lustre of most exquisite beauty, so in silent contemplation, in remembering the things you have taught them, and the influence of your life, the young souls you have had in your keeping, these recent years, will, we trust, grow and develop into spiritual gems, precious jewels for Master whom we serve; and, as the lamp will serve to light your room, your surroundings, disclosing in true perspective whatever is obscure or dangerous, or beneficial, or lovely, so will the Torch of Remembrance the illumining of these young minds, your teaching imparted with so much consideration and earnestness, disclose whatever may be dangerous in their young lives, or whatever may be desirable or beneficial or beautiful. As a stone dropped in a placid pool sets up ring after ring of movement, in ever-widening circles, so the influence of a life like yours is felt in every community, in ever-growing waves of influence, until the whole community is benefited.

"In conclusion, whatever possibility of joy, of gladness, of comfort, of spiritual growth. Life holds in its hands for you, we all wish it to be be the very highest and best."

On behalf of the Y. W. C. A. Board,

ISOBEL HARVEY.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whitness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

Use Discipline Not the "Stick"

Dr Chas. A. Barker, the forceful and eloquent speaker brought to Peterboro last week by the Rotary Club, who addressed some eleven or twelve hundred women during his stay here, will be remembered for some time for his philosophy, and his manner of address, with its scorn of glozing over things referring to a rake as a garden implement, a popular form of embellishment. Dr. Barker was emphatic in his belief in the power of discipline, "not the stick" in the training of children. As a glowing example of the efficacy of well-applied discipline, he instanced the case of Helen Keller, the blind, deaf, and dumb prodigy of the age. The parents of Helen had never disciplined her in any way, because of her abnormal condition, and, consequently, she was absolutely uncontrollable at times. Mrs. Macey, the woman who has made such a wonderful success of her training of this girl, received permission to use her own methods with the child, and began by sending her to bed when seh disobeyed. On the first occasion, Helen remained in bed for 48 hours, crying most of the time, but refusing to submit her will to her teacher. After this occasion, she was many times sent to bed for disobedience, but never proved obdurate for any length of time. Anyone who has seen Helen Keller, and the wonders that have been accomplished in making a mole-like human being into a personality that radiates health and happiness from sightless eyes, sealed ears and lips that have been taught to make sounds through painstaking years, will realize the success of the teacher who she loves so well.

Mother's Day

To-morrow, 14th May, is celebrated as Mother's Day:

If I should drown in the deepest sea,
I know whose voice would come down to me,
O, Mother o' mine, O, Mother o' mine.

If I should hang on the highest hill,
I know whose love would come up to me still,
O, Mother o' mine, O, Mother o' mine.

If I should be damned in both body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,
O, Mother o' mine, O, Mother o' mine.

One of Canada's Finest Mothers

MRS. O'CONNELL,
587 Armour Road, Peterborough.

Her Pretty Hair Has Not Turned Grey

Wherever on land or wherever on foam,
You may hear men sing of the angel of home,
Her eyes may be dim or her eyes may be bright,
But always her hair is the silver and white.
Soft and white comes the snow at the end of the year,
And her soft, fleecy hair marks the close of life near.
To the beautiful clouds that float through the air,
How oft have poets resembled her hair.
But an angel I know, oh, thou star of my day!
Has the dearest brown hair that has never turned grey.
Though now at the coveted three-score and ten,
Her hair's like the chestnut that borders the glen.

Refrain:

Her pretty hair has not turned grey,
As other mothers' tresses may.
Her step like maiden's still is light,
Her eyes of Irish blue shine bright.
To match a soul of beauty rare
Has kindest Nature kept her hair.

With joy, not with envy, how oft do they say
How her beautiful tresses have never turned grey.
The reason, I ween, must be deep in the soul,
And brown will they be till she reaches life's goal.
Oh, this coveted youth has been granted to few,
To the few whose brave hearts are still fresh as the dew.
For through life's many battles her courage ran high,
And always triumphant where others might die.
She trusted her God with the faith of a child,
And truly her life's been a life free of guilt.
And truly her life's been a life free of guile.
Free of guile, free of all that is foreign to truth,

Refrain:

Her pretty hair has not turned grey,
And may she still be many a day
The idol of a home most dear,
To hear those words of love and cheer—
To match a soul of beauty rare
Has Nature kept her lovely hair.

(Composed by Marguerite E. O'Connell, Toronto, in honour of her mother for Mother's Day. It is a song, and is to be set to music later on.)

Mrs. O'Connell was the seventh child, and is the last surviving member of a family of eight. Of her own eight children, seven grew to adulthood, and have all been a credit to her exemplary motherhood.

THE STRANGER.

(By Jeannette.)

(An ancient tradition concerning the Wandering Jew says that he is allowed one brief respite from his march through the centuries. If he chances to pass by a church on Sunday morning, he may enter and rest for the space of the sermon.)

From the heat of the dusty roadway
A swarthy figure turning
Into the cool of the country church
Stepped on a Sabbath morning.

Above his sombre, deep-set eyes
Circled a broad white band,
Hiding the fiery cross on his brow,
The unforgotten brand.

Just for a moment his feet might pause
In haunts of holier men,
For the space of the sermon, until
He turned to the road again.

The minister's voice droned on and on,
The blue-fly buzzed in the pane.
Outside, the restless horses stamped,
Rattling their tethering chains.

The preacher ceased and close the Book.
The drowsy peolpe stirred;
The stranger passed to his age-old quest
Down the long, white roads of the world.

Bel's were used to keep evil spirits at a safe distance ages before they were used to call people to church.

A swordfish, weighing 75 pounds, was recently killed off No Man's Land, Mass, by sending an electric current through the steel harpoon.

Peterboro Girl Achieves Success

Friends of Miss Edith Pryce, last year's physical directress at the local branch of the YoungWomen's Christian Association, will be pleased to hear of the success she has achieved in her work as physical directress at the London, Ontario, Y.W.C.A. The London Advertiser of 6th May has a column and a half of its space devoted to a gymnasium exhibit under her direction, which eulogises in glowing terms the work of the former Peterborough girl. In part, it says:

"A revelation was given of what may be achieved in developing muscular control, strength, poise, and grace through judicious physical training, under a teacher who can fire pupils with her own enthusiasm. Miss Edith Wynne-Pryce, the clever and popular directress, was showered with bouquets from the members of her classes, the staff of Lenmore, the King Street residence of the Y.W.C.A., and friends."

The programme included physical exercises of all sorts, folk and interpretative dances, "School Days" and "Litle Miss Muffett" numbers by the Juniors, and a presentation of "Earth's Awakening," a symbolic choral effect which was produced last year in Peterborough.

Announcement was made on this occasion of summer classes, outings and tennis clubs which Miss Pryce is preparing to organise.

Collecting Funds For New Hospital

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Peter's church is one of the many Catholic societies interested in helping to raise funds for the addition to St. Joseph's Hospital. A very successful tea recently held by them in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum netted a handsome sum for this purpose, and the society means to augment their contribution by a lawn social, to be held in the grounds of St. Mary's Convent, some time in June. Ice cream, strawberries, and candy will be sold; there will be a booth for the sale of fancy work and a "Chinese" counter, for toilet accesories, and a fish pond for the kiddies.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will open immediately the box of candy your caller brings and pass it to him as well as to others in the room.

You will have the bonbons to be passed at the conclusion of the family dinner on the table in a fancy dish at the beginning of the meal.

You will have candy tongs in the bonbon dish, which is passed around the table. But this is unnecessary with candy which is not an accompaniment of dinner.

SATISFIED MOTHERS

No other medicine gets the same satisfaction to mothers as do Baby's Own Tablets. They are equally good for the newborn babe or the growing child and are absolutely guaranteed to be free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are a mild but thorough laxative and cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Ache, Couteau Road N.B., writes:—"I think that Baby's Own Tablets are a marvelous medicine for little ones. I gave them to my little girl with such good results that I now strongly recommend them to all mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

DON'T STAY GRAY—HERE'S AN OLD-TIME RECIPE THAT ANYBODY CAN APPLY

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to it's natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

DYE BLOUSE OR BABY'S COAT IN DIAMOND DYES

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Just now a more serious controversy than was usual raged between Lady Glastonbury and her self-willed daughter. Clarissa trembled with joyous expectation at the opportunity of meeting Disraeli face to face. Her father had described him to her as "the greatest man in the Empire"—her mother had called him "that upstart Jew." The Duke of Glastonbury had spoken of him as "the bulwark of England"—the Duchess had shrugged her shoulders and sneered at the "Semitic adventurer." Clarissa, not because she set so much more store by her father's judgment than that of her mother, but because the thought of what Disraeli had achieved filled her with unbounded admiration—with an enthusiasm that amounted to hero-worship—was looking forward to her meeting with Beaconsfield as to the great event of her life. As carriage after carriage drew up on the night before the party, she stood at the window scanning the faces and figures of those who alighted, looking for the austere features of the man whose portrait had been in every public print for years.

Finally, at a late hour, her vigil was rewarded. She saw Disraeli step from his carriage, extend his hand to his wife and then both entered arm in arm. Her first impulse was to run downstairs and seek the company of the great man. But then she reconsidered. He would be surrounded by famous people. He would hardly have more time than to pay her a passing compliment and then move on to some other conversation. No, Clarissa was determined that her first impression of Beaconsfield should be formed on a more intimate occasion, amidst circumstances less shallow and distracting than the small talk and yellow candle lights and meaningless smiles of a formal reception.

As she was about to retire, her maid brought her some interesting gossip. Lady Beaconsfield was not feeling well. She had had a fainting spell while Lady Brook, who was famous for her polished recitations, was reading poetry to a small group of listeners. Disraeli was among these—but when he saw his wife grow pale and sink back in her chair, he stopped the reading abruptly and helped the servants carry the unconscious woman to her apartment.

"And," chattered the little French maid, "he did not act like ze great man or like ze husban'. He was ioost like a boy wis his first amour—he was all fluster' and excite and almost fell over ze chairs."

It was not a personal adulation for the great Prime Minister that made Clarissa long for the moment that he would take her hand and address her in his far-famed smiling way. Nor was it a silly passion for an older man that so often sets the hearts of sentimental misses aflutter. It was a sincere appreciation of a great man's worth—for in Clarissa's youthful soul there budded the great spirit of exalted womanhood that weighs the achievement first and then the man—that thinks little of personal charms and demands the deed, scorning the mere word.

The early morning sun glided the battlemented roof of the Towers and the dew still lay heavy upon the lawns and flowerbeds of the broad gardens when Clarissa left her room. She knew that, before long, the young girls among the guests would gather to chatter and gossip and discuss the latest style:—and Clarissa had a greater treat in store for herself. So she made her escape before the others were up and sauntered past the lodge into the garden where she knew of a secluded bench whence a careful watcher could overlook the exits that led from the Towers, and be unobserved by those that left the magnificent wrought-iron gates.

A house party at The Towers meant many things, but it also meant that the great octagonal room where the Duchess spent most of her time at work on her embroidery was the most popular apartment in the spacious house. All corridors led to the octagonal room, with its great walls, and windows and fireplaces, and the guests sought it immediately after breakfast, if not before. The room was richly furnished. At the back large French windows opened on the gardens. One could see through the panes early risen guests at croquet, and the archery courts were occupied.

The Duchess was at work on an elaborate piece of embroidery a copy of Landseer's "Dignity and Impudence," in violent wools. Lady Brook occupied a chair at her mother's side, and watched the latter at her task, joining the Duchess in chattering with the guests as they came and went.

"Here comes father and Lord Deeford," Lady Brook remarked to the Duchess.

"Thank goodness your father is through with his breakfast. He seems to want to keep everybody company," smiled the Duchess. "But look what has happened to Charles? How serious! Can you hear what he is saying."

The Duke, and Charles, Viscount Deeford, heir to the Dukedom of Dunelm, entered the octagonal room from the breakfast room. All eyes were focused on Lord Deeford, whose youthful voice attracted attention:

"Yes, my dear Duke! I shall build model cottages. After all, a happy peasantry is the backbone of England."

"D've know what your happy peasantry will do, Deeford? They'll sell your drain pipes for old lead; use your staircases for fire-wood and keep pigs in your pantry," bandied the Duke.

"Then I'll turn them out," retorted Charles.

"Yes—and be held up to public execration as a harsh landlord!"

"The lower orders do not appreciate comfort, Charles," the Duchess interposed. "Please be very careful about your peasantry."

Speaking very softly, Lady Brook addressed her mother.

"Mama, do you think Deeford will speak to Clarissa to-day?"

The Duchess was surprised, and shocked.

"Hildegarde!—He has not approached me, yet!"

"Will she accept him?"

"Of course she will!"

"Oh, I don't know. She's so funny!"

"I trust no child of mine was ever funny!"

Lady Brook tossed her head, and changed the subject thus:

"Does any one know how Lady Beaconsfield is this morning?"

"I sent Mrs. Travers to ask," the Duchess responded. "I have no doubt she is quite well."

"Then I shall be spared the trouble of going up to ask her. I hate climbing stairs."

"It was horrid of Lady Beaconsfield to faint, just as I was reading aloud!"

Lord Brook joined in at this point, to remark:

"Oh, I don't know. It did stop you!"

"Brook!" commanded the Duchess, peremptorily. And Brook was silenced.

Mrs. Travers, entering the room quickly, had overheard Lord and Lady Brook, and was enjoying the situation. Mrs. Travers was young, and her brunette beauty was set off by her fetching attire. She carried her fan.

"Good morning—good morning!"

Everybody responded, and particularly the Duke, who greeted her quite effusively.

"Tell us, Mrs. Travers: How is Mr. Disraeli's wife?" asked the Duchess.

"Lady Beaconsfield says she is much better this morning," Mrs. Travers replied.

"Quite well! I thought so." This from the Duchess. "And Sir Michael Probert. Have you seen him, Duke?"

"Oh, yes. Getting on famously," from Glastonbury.

"I have not seen Sir Michael Probert yet," said Mrs. Travers.

"He arrived late last night," explained the Duchess.

"And he's in his room now," further explained the Duke.

"Duchess are we not to see Lady Clarissa, this morning?" asked Charles.

"Has Clarissa not breakfasted?" asked the Duchess of Lady Brook.

"She had a cup of tea at 8 o'clock, and went for a walk in the garden," Lady Brook explained.

Charles was clearly annoyed.

"It is nothing unusual," the Duchess hastened to add. "Clarissa likes these early walks. When we are alone, she goes to the vicarage and back every morning."

"Two miles! How strenuous!" exclaimed Charles.

"She reads Greek with the Vicar," the Duchess went on.

"I am not sure that a young lady should read Greek," said Charles.

"Will you play croquet, Deeford?" asked Lord Brook.

"I am averse to violent exercise at such an early hour," replied Charles.

"So like my poor dear husband," said Mrs. Travers.

"How is your husband, Agatha?" asked the Duchess.

"A letter came this morning," Mrs. Travers hastened to say. "He writes he is moving from Carlsbad to Kissingen."

"When do you expect to see him—when will he be in town?"

"Never. He wanders from one watering-place to another."

"I trust he derives benefit from them" began Charles.

"None, whatever," Mrs. Travers interposed. "All the waters disagree with him. He develops new symptoms everywhere, and has to go somewhere else to change them. I ought to be with him now—but we are so dreadfully poor—"

"Come—come now!" said Charles. "Those exquisite diamonds you wore last night."

"Heirlooms," replied Mrs Travers. "We are poor, but we have ancestors. Ah! You are looking at my frock. You don't know what shifts a poor little woman is driven to. This costs me nothing. Worth knows what circles I move in, and considers me his best advertisement."

As she said this, Mrs Travers turned an appealing glance toward the Duchess, and added:

"There! Now you despise me, for my confession!"

"Nonsense, Agatha! There's nothing to be ashamed of in having a good figure," the Duchess consoled her.

The Duke looked up and coughed slightly.

"Oh, Duchess, how kind you are—always. You know how poor I am," Mrs. Travers remarked.

"Poor, dear thing, yes," said the Duchess, with good-natured mock sympathy.

"But one has one's position to keep up; and one must look nice," Mrs. Travers said.

"You always are—charming—" the Duke began. Then catching the Duchess' eye, he collapsed into silence.

The butler's entrance was observed by everybody in the room.

"Telegrams for Mr. Disraeli, your Grace," said the butler.

"He is not here," said the Duchess, acidly.

"I think I could find him," chimed in Mrs. Travers.

"You will do nothing of the sort, Agatha!" the Duchess commanded. "Despatches, messages, telegrams, newspaper persons—one has no peace with that man in the house!"

When the butler had withdrawn the Duchess turned to Deeford. "Charles," she said, "take Mrs. Travers into the garden. You may meet Clarissa."

"I want very much to speak to you, Duchess," said Charles.

"Well?——"

"Alone, if it were possible."

The Duchess looked at him meaningly for a moment. Then a smile flitted across her lips. It denoted both satisfaction and expectation. But its meaning escaped the guileless Charles.

"Well, Charles, come back in a few moments."

Turning to Mrs. Travers, Charles said:

"Will you come? The gardens seem inviting this morning. And I want to tell you about my scheme for model cottages."

Together they passed out through the spacious windows.

V.

The Duke of Glastonbury seldom permitted himself to indulge in a wordy argument with his domineering Duchess. At this moment he looked upon the admirable lady with an expression that wavered between determination and hesitancy. Finally he said:

"Belinda," he began. "I shou'd be grateful if you would not speak of Mr. Disraeli as you do. I have told you—I invited him for political reasons."

"I believe," the Duchess interrupted him without looking up from her embroidery, "—I believe a Mr. Joseph Arch (an estimable agricultural laborer) is agitating for Parliament in Somersetshire. Do you propose to invite him—for political reasons?"

"Nonsense, Belinda! You are vexatious! As if there could be any comparison!"

"I grant it would be all in Mr. Arch's favor. Arch is a good Saxon name. Moreover, he is a Christian!"

The Duke turned toward her again, quickly:

"So is——"

"Benjamin Disraeli? It does not sound probable."

"He is the brains of the party."

"Brains do not gipe birth!"

"He has achieved a high position."

"By wearing satin waistcoats and marrying an old woman for her money!"

"Belinda, you are not going to say anything against Lady Beaconsfield!"

Only one thing——"

"What?"

"She married Disraeli!"

"I—I have no patience with such chatter——"

The Duke turned to leave the room, when the butler again entered.

The servant announced the arrival of more telegrams for the Prime Minister.

"I have said that Mr. Disraeli is not here. Kindly do not bother again."

The butler went out, followed by the Duke.

Charles had managed to free himself from Mrs. Travers, and as Glastonbury passed through the door leading to the balcony, Charles re-entered through the great window from the garden.

"Are you quite alone Duchess?" asked Charles, looking about.

"Yes. But I'm out of temper."

"Oh, Duchess!"

"That Mr. Disrael—He turns our house into a public thoroughfare, and now there's a newspaper person waiting for the 'Prime Minister' in the hall."

"Sha'l I dismiss the—ah—newspaper person?"

"No—no. What have you done with Agatha?"

"I can't help but notice as I look out on the garden that she is in excellent company. His Grace, the Duke, is seeking to amuse her!'

"Very good Charles Now come and sit here beside me. Now what is it?"

"I think you can guess" said Charles, as he dropped into the little chair in which Lady Brook had been sitting.

"Perhaps," replied the Duchess "but assume I cannot."

"When I accepted your delightful invitation, I did with a purpose, Duchess."

"Yes?"

"I have been thinking very seriously lately, Duchess: and I have concluded that it is my duty to marry."

"How old are you?"

"Twenty-five. But I am thinking of my wife more than of myself. She will have to face heavy responsibilities in the near future."

"Surely your father is in good health?"

"Excellent: but his habit of life does not encourage the hope of extreme longevity. Briefly, I ask permission to pay my respectful addresses to your daughter Clarissa—to Lady Pevensey. May I hope you and the Duke will grant it?"

"If I grant it, the Duke will. But Clarissa is barely twenty."

"I shall have all the better chance of moulding her."

"She is very high-spirited. She displays a note of originality. She takes no interest in embroidery, for instance. She gave up her music lessons with Arabella Goddard—said that she herself was too musical and Arabella Goddard was not musical enough."

The heir of the Duke of Dunelm held his chin high, and with amused superiority said:

"These amiable eccentricities do not alarm me in the slightest. I trust you will remember, Duchess, she will be constantly in my society."

"Of course, Charles. That will have the effect of sobering her."

"May I take it, then, that you graciously consent?"

"Joyfully, Charles, joyfully! I shall be very happy to hear she has accepted you."

"You shall hear that to-day."

And Charles stood up, and taking the Duchess' hand, bent low over it and kissed it.

"Thank you, Duchess."

VI.

As Charles passed out through the window to the balcony, the Duke, with Lady Beaconsfield and Mrs. Travers entered from the breakfast room.

"Here is Lady Beaconsfield, Belinda" called the Duke.

"Ah—good morning," came icily from the Duchess.

"Good morning, Duchess," responded Lady Beaconsfield very genially.

"I am glad to hear you are much better," the Duchess said.

"Thank you. I am looking for my scape grace husband.'

"I believe he is in the gardens."

"There never was a man with such——"

"Indeed——?"

"I know what you mean, my dear Duchess, by 'indeed.' You wonder why the instinct failed him when he married me?—"

"I assure you——!"

"Oh, I don't mind in the least," Lady Beaconsfield went on with considerable enthusiasm. "The greatest man in the world is my husband and I don't really care how or why he married me."

"Very right and proper," said the Duchess, drily.

Has Sir Michael Probert been seen this morning?" asked Lady Beaconsfield. "I know Dizzy is extremely anxious to meet him!"

"The Governor of the Bank of England is naturally much occupied," the Duchess answered. "Even during his—vacation."

"So is the Prime Minister, especially when he seems to be playing," said Lady Beconsfield.

VII.

The Hon. Benjamin Disraeli, Prime Minister of England, had been one of the first at the breakfast table that morning.

Lord and Lady Chudworth and a small handful of guests had shared his early morning witticisms and as he left the breakfast room, the Chudworths walked to the balcony with him, and out into the famous gardens where, after a while, Disraeli producing a sheaf of papers from his pocket, excused himself and sought solitude.

Disraeli's country place, Hugenden, was a beautiful retreat, and he (and everyone who visited there), so pronounced it. But Hughenden was not to be compared to Glastonbury Towers, with its famous sunken gardens and the statuary, the rosary, the beautiful walks. The English Prime Minister with a great cloak thrown over his shoulder, and after adjusting his monocle, ever seeking the beautiful things of nature all about him, walked and walked, and chatted with the birds, plucking flowers as he went. Once or twice he stopped, leafing the pages of the document he held. Finally, he put it in his pocket.

Hat in hand, and flowers in hand, Disraeli walked on.

Clarissa, from her bench that gave her a free view of the entrance to the garden, had been able to watch Disraeli's every move. He was just as she had imagined him—eccentric in his appearance, yet dignified; light of foot and movement, yet austere. As he approached her she rose deliberately and advanced to meet him. Raising his monacle for a moment to his eye he looked at her in the sharp searching way that was characteristic of his glance and that so disconcerted his enemies. Then a slow smile brought a most kindly, pleased expression to his face. He bowed low.

She inclined her pretty head and answered the smile in kind.

"Mr. Disraeli—"

Dizzy bowed again.

"I believe I have the honor of addressing the Lady Pevensey?"

Clarissa nodded assent.

"I was not aware that you knew me," she said.

"I did not until to-day," said Disraeli. "But this morning Lady Beaconsfield told me that the gardens of The Towers were full of the loveliest flowers and birds. We looked out of the windows and happened to see you. She told me who you were. Then I asked her in which category she classed you. 'A bird,' she said, 'to those around you, a bird that flew while they walked, that sang while they spoke; and some day, a flower to some happy, happy man.'"

"I do not deserve all this," said Clarissa with an arch smile, "but I love Lady Beaconsfield for having said it."

"And I repeated it."

"Come, let us walk. There is something I want to tell you. Something about England. There are many things about England that our girls should know. There is a beautiful walk this way, and a quiet bench. Come Lady Pevensey."

And, as she took Disraeli's arm, she said:

"Please, Mr. Disraeli just call me Clarissa. Everybody does—"

"Very well, Clarissa."

They had been seated but a moment when the footman approached with letters and telegrams.

"I am glad of this opportunity." His voice took on a serious note. "I am thrown in so much with those who have already formed their opinions that I can only rarely make an appeal to the new generation—especially to the new generation of women, who will soon have to bear their share of the world's burdens. So many of our men—our young men, too, I am sorry to say—are in the habit of looking backward. The women—the young women—will have to teach them to look ahead, forward, onward—"

Clarissa's big eyes rested on the narrow face before her. A question began to form on her lips. Disraeli smiled.

Why am I saying this to you—why do I mention matters of th's sort instead of inquiring about your music studies and the books you read—"

Clarissa nodded.

"Ah, why—" Disraeli was silent for a moment. Then, slowly, as though he found it difficult to form the sentence; "Because Lady Beaconsfield told me that you were among my defenders in a hostile camp. Well if a defender, why not an ally?"

SO MANY PEOPLE ARE NERVOUS

"Fruit-a-tives" the Greatest of all Nerve Remedies

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This, "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Scientists Astounded by the Discovery That There Is Enough Energy Imprisoned in a Single Tear from a Pretty Girl's Eye to Blow a Skyscraper to Smithereens

A Tear-Drop Coursing Down This Girl's Cheek Contains Enough Explosive Energy It Is Declared, to Wreck the Biggest Building in the World.

FEMININE tears have caused many "blow-ups," but it has remained for science to make the astounding discovery that a single tear-drop, trickling down a girl's cheek, contains enough explosive energy to blow up the biggest building in the world.

Imagine it, if you can.

Enough potential electricity in a single rosy finger-tip to run all the subway trains of Manhattan for a week.

Enough energy in a lump of sugar to turn the wheels of all the power plants and factories in America.

It sounds like maddest fancy, but it has been announced as cold scientific fact by the greatest physicists and chemists of the world.

This tremendous force is called inter-atomic energy.

Sir Ernest Rutherford, of England; Professor W. D. Harkins, of Chicago University; the late Sir Oliver Lodge; Langmuir, the noted American physicist, and scores of other authorities are agreed that the power is there. The problem is to release it.

"The race may date its real development from the day of the discovery of a method of utilizing this atomic energy," says Rutherford. "So enormous is this energy that it will confer upon the man, or the race, which learns to release and control it, a power only less than that of the Omnipotent."

At the recent convention of the American Chemical Society held at Columbia University, the subject of tapping this vast newly discovered store of energy for practical power purposes was extensively discussed.

Until a short time ago, the atom was regarded by science as the smallest indivisible particle of matter. All children were taught this fact in the public schools. It was supposed to be a solid thing that could not be broken up.

Now science, in the light of recent discoveries, believes that each atom is a tiny solar system, with an electrical core and a quantity of units of energy, called electrons, which revolve around the core like planets around the sun.

The action of radium is believed to be caused by a very few of these electrons flying off spontaneously at tangents.

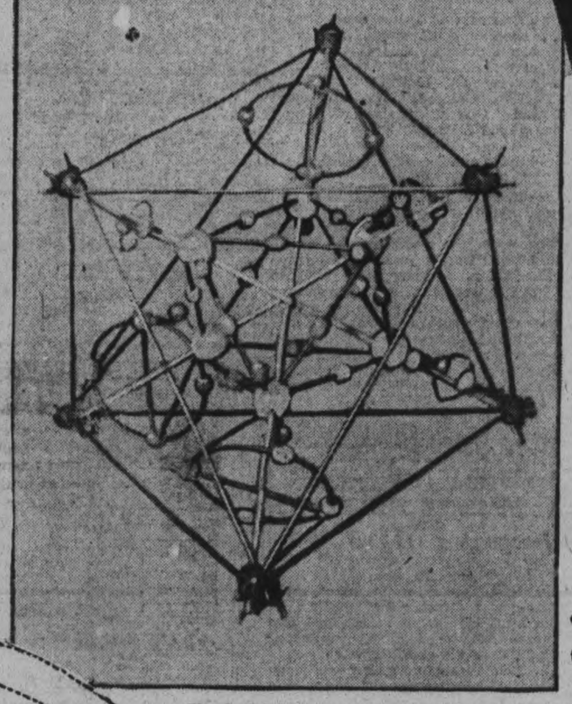
The way science hopes to release inter-atomic energy is to find some method of causing atoms to break up into electrons which will fly off at enormous speeds, generating tremendous heat and power.

Reverting for a moment to the girl's tear-drop with its tremendous latent explosive power, it may have impressed the reader as a far-fetched and purely fanciful illustration. It was suggested, however, by Lord Kelvin, famous British physicist.

What he said was simple, yet it will strain the imagination to the utmost.

Here it is, in brief:

Take a tear-drop, or an ordinary drop of water. It is a round, liquid globe, perhaps one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter. Now imagine this tiny globe increasing in size until it is as large as the world itself



Model by Professor Jared K. Morse, of the University of Chicago, Showing the Atomic Construction of a Single Molecule of Benzol. The Model is 250,000,000 Times Larger Than the Actual Molecule.

—a great sphere 8,000 miles in diameter, 26,000 miles in circumference. A single drop of water as big as the world itself. Now imagine this great globe composed entirely of ordinary oranges, crowded as closely together as if packed in a crate. Imagine all the oceans filled with oranges —all the great mountain ranges of the world composed entirely of piles of oranges. Already the number of oranges runs into billions. Yet the oceans and mountain ranges are a mere thin film on the earth's surface. Imagine, if you can, the whole solid earth, from the grassy sod to its centre, one solid mass of oranges. Mathematics has no figures by which to approximate the exact number. It runs into billions of billions. Now for the point to this illustration. All scientists are agreed that there are as many atoms in a drop of water as there would be oranges in a globe the size of the world.

And by the latest discovery of science, each of these billions of atoms is a tiny solar system in itself and a reservoir of terrific electrical energy.

That's what will happen to a drop of water when science learns the secret of liberating this stupendous explosive power.

Naturally with so much talk of explosives, one thinks of the war of the future. It would mean that in place of huge ammunition trains, great siege guns, battleships and tons of T. N. T., one could carry in his coat pocket enough explosives to annihilate the greatest army that ever marched. Cities and states could be literally blown off the map.

At first blush it appears that the nation which learned and guarded such a secret, even though that nation were as small as the tiny municipality of Monaco, could become absolute ruler of the earth. Practically, however, such a discovery could probably never be kept secret. It would become the property of the whole human race. Instead of making war more terrible, it might force an end to all physical warfare. Why? Simply because such a power, if ruthlessly used for destruction, would be capable of annihilating the whole of humanity, rendering the human race extinct and reducing the globe itself to a charred and lifeless mass.

The first hint that all nature was a vast storehouse of electrical energy came with the discovery of radium a few years ago by Madame Curie in Paris. According to Robert Kennedy Duncan, noted American authority, the heat evolved by the radium emanation is over three million five hundred thousand times greater than that let loose by any known chemical reaction or by the hottest fires, and Mr. Duncan says, "it is impossible in the light of other recent discoveries to come to any other conclusion than that there is locked up IN ALL THE SO-CALLED ELEMENTS OF MATTER AN ENORMOUS SIMILAR LATENT STORE OF ENERGY."

Professor Duncan further points out that "the energy whence we now obtain our manufacturing power, whether derived from burning coal or gas, or by any other chemical reaction, is absolutely insignificant compared with the limitless energy locked up within the atoms themselves. With the continuous acceleration of scientific research, where the year of the present counts for a cycle of former time, there will come a day when men will look with mingled horror and amusement at the burning of coal and wood, and will date progress from the time when they began to understand infer-atomic energy."

The Scientific American, one of the most conservative scientific journals in the world, declares that chemists already are making progress in their attack upon this most spectacular and inexhaustible of all suggested sources of energy, and then sums up as follows:

"The first announcement of the enormous potential energy stored up in a particle of radium produced a state of mind which varied from mild incredulity to vehement denial. But scientific authority has convinced the world that there are substances which send forth ceaseless streams of energy and do it with a loss of substance so small that it takes the most delicate processes of the laboratory to measure the change.

"It has long been suspected that there was a vast storehouse of energy locked up in the atom, and the production of radium set the seal of positive scientific proof upon the theory.

"But more than that, it has revealed to mankind the amazing, the tremendous fact that we are in the presence of a storehouse of energy so vast and so intensive that he who shall first unlock the door will be possessed of a power in the presence of which all the vast potentialities of the world's store of coal, oil and water-power will literally sink into insignificance.

"In the search for material power, we have at one time or another considered coal and oil, natural gas, the energy of the earth's rotation and that of the wind, the tide and the waves. We have also been told that the solar heat that beats upon the Sahara desert represents, in energy, the equivalent daily of six billions tons of coal. But none of these possibilities is so attractive as that of atomic energy."

CARPENTIER TO MEET DEMPSEY.

LONDON, May 13.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, signed articles yesterday afternoon to fight in Europe before June, 1923, according to announcement made by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, to the United Press.

Both the heavyweights are free to fight in the meantime, but a defeat would cancel the agreement.

An English syndicate has offered one hundred thousand pounds for the fight, and another offer, made by Douglas Stuart, a noted bookmaker, stipulated seventy-five thousand pounds for a fight in London, according to Kearns.

NEWSY LALONDE TO PLAY IN THE WEST.

MONTREAL, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—It is announced that "Newsy" Lalonde, star of the Canadien hockey club last season, will leave next Monday for British Columbia. He has been engaged by Archie Adamson to play lacrosse for the Vancouver club. This club and the New Westminster team will play series of matches this season for the Minto Cup.

MONTREAL MAY WITNESS DEMPSEY-WILLS BATTLE

Bout Will Be Staged on July 1 and Arrangements Are Being Made For Jess Willard to Meet the Winner.

NEW YORK, May 13.—(Canadian Press).—When Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey returns to America, May 20, he will be offered a bout with Harry Wills, negro challenger.

If the title-holder accepts, the contest probably will be staged in Montreal. Much, however, depends on Dempsey's willingness to meet Wills and his terms for such a match.

Montreal is not expected to oppose staging the bout there, according to a statement by Frank Flournoy, one of Promoter Tex Rickard's lieutenants, who is endeavoring to match the heavyweights.

Flournoy, who crossed the border to inspect several sites, asserted Montreal offered the most pleasing fighting ground. He added that he had been assured there of co-operation in his efforts to stage the match.

Efforts to communicate with Dempsey by cable concerning the bout having proved unsatisfactory, the promoters decided to postpone action until the champion, who sails Saturday from Southampton, reaches this country. If Dempsey then agrees to sign for a reasonable sum, negotiations will be opened with Wills and Montreal sportsmen.

Arrangements for the bout also would involve Jess Willard, former champion, who has been tentatively promised another date with his conqueror in Jersey City during September. If Dempsey agrees to meet Wills, the Kansas giant will be asked to begin active training at once to meet the winner.

Flournoy is authority for the statement that Montreal interests showed several ring sites near the centre of the city, where a bowl to seat nearly fifty thousand spectators might be erected.

The bout would be held Saturday, July 1, Dominion Day. This, preceding July Fourth, would give Americans four days in which to take in the bout and go sight-seeing. The promoters are counting on the additional attractions of liberal prohibition laws and excursion rates to draw many boxing fans from cities within a night's ride of Montreal.

Plans for a Dempsey-Wills bout in Canada were launched after it had been ascertained that none of the eastern States, which permit boxing under commission jurisdiction, would sanction a mixed bout of this type.

HAVELOCK DECLINES TO PLAY IN INTERMEDIATE LACROSSE

Declared at Local Group Meeting That Campbellford Team Was Too Strong. Peterborough in Junior Series With Havelock and Hastings, and in Juvenile With Campbellford.

PAT KELLY CAUSTIC.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 13.—Visions of lacrosse of the high quality and sustained interest that characterized the preliminary first round games here last summer were clouded yesterday at the meeting of the local group of the O.A.L.A. by Havelock's announcement that they wouldn't enter a team in the intermediate series.

H. F. McNicholl, representing the C.P.R. town club, said that Havelock's executive considered the Campbellford team too strong for them. When he suggested that a sub-group might be composed of Peterborough, Havelock, and Hastings with Campbellford getting a bye, Mr. Kelly declared that such a move would be a "freeze out."

"It's small potatoes," tartly commented the veteran goaler of Campbellford's district winners of 1921. "You'll never operate any intermediate group in this district unless Campbellford is included," said Mr. Kelly.

Mr. McNicholl intimated that certain representations had been made to Secretary Labett of the O.A.L.A., and it was felt the plan might be officially approved.

"Jim Labett can't put over anything like that, and the executive wouldn't stand for it," replied Mr. Kelly.

The Peterborough representative stated that the proposal had never been submitted to or discussed by the Peterborough club, and the Hastings contingent weren't sure of anything except that they were having difficulty in securing support because of the strong invasion of baseball in the Inter-County circuit, comprising Havelock, Hastings and Warkworth, with Campbellford probably replacing Norwood, who, it was stated, had dropped out.

Convener Kelly officially recorded the fact that Campbellford was the only club putting a team in the intermediate series in this group, and proceeded with the drafting of the schedules for the junior, juvenile and midget series. Peterborough, Hastings and Havelock form the junior group, Peterborough and Campbellford the juvenile and Campbellford and Havelock the midget.

The meeting was not a very encouraging one. In the junior section Campbellford are out and Hastings, although they have a good team, appeared to be unorganized, and on that account uncertain about their future. The week should produce a definite decision from them.

The schedules are as follows:

Junior Series.

June 8—Hastings at Peterborough.
June 15—Peterborough at Havelock.
June 28—Havelock at Hastings.
July 5—Peterborough at Hastings.
July 13—Havelock at Peterborough.
July 21—Hastings at Havelock.

Juvenile Series.

June 23—Peterborough at Campbellford.
July 7—Campbellford at Peterborough.
July 21—Peterborough at Campbellford.
August 4—Campbellford at Peterborough.

Midget Series.

June 17—Campbellford at Havelock.
July 8—Havelock at Campbellford.
July 22—Campbellford at Havelock.
August 5—Havelock at Campbellford.

NOT SO EASY.

The Secretary is looking for a last-minute rush with certificates, but apparently many of the teams have not completed their rosters. Bowmanville wrote the Secretary for a certificate for Chambers, but after communicating with the Lindsay club, Mr. Nott learned that Lindsay would not release Chambers until the latter had appeared before their executive and returned the certificate he had already signed. In addition to that, the player must apologize for what he had done, then the club reserved the right to do as they wished in granting him a release. Chambers' case came up before the C.O.B.L. executive at their last meeting, when it was decided that he must either play with Lindsay or not at all.—Oshawa Reformer.

FREDDY GOYER'S WORK PLEASING GUELPH FANS

FOUR INNINGS.

Freddy goyer is as good as ever and is likely in pretty solid with the Guelph fans, after his performance of yesterday, when in an exhibition game he pitched four innings. In this interval he struck out seven Hamilton batters, and did not allow a single safe hit. A despatch from Guelph says:

GUELPH, May 11.—Fifteen hundred local baseball fans turned out yesterday afternoon to witness the first baseball game of the season here, when the Dominion Glass team of Hamilton trounced the Maple Leafs, 1921 inter-county champions, in an exhibition fixture by 7 to 0. The defeat came as a big surprise to the backers of the local club, who fully expected that the Leafs would carry off an easy victory.

Coach Jimmy Cockman tried out fifteen players in the match, but the local squad played a very loose brand of ball in the field, while the visitors turned in a brilliant performance, and fully deserved to win. The locals were also very weak at bat, only connecting with four safe clouts off the offerings of Pitcher Berg, of the Hamilton team. Three Guelph hurlers were given a workout against the Hamilton nine, "Chuck" Henry, "Lefty" Goyer, the former Belleville star, and Fred. Murphy. By striking out seven batters in the four innings in which he occupied the mound, Goyer lived up to his old reputation, the visitors failing to get one safe single off his offerings.—Belleville Ontario.

The answer to this need is found in Firestone mileage—greater than ever in the past—which now sells at the lowest price on record.

The Royal, Peterboro's oldest motion picture house, through knowledge gained by many years in the business has managed to secure a specially interesting program for Monday. We will present Anita Stewart, the world famous actress in "Her Mad Bargain". This drama carries a story that is new in its plot and is a most sumptuous production. Alice Lambert (Anita Stewart) is reduced from wealth to poverty by the death of a relative. She finds employment with a sculptor as model later trying other lines of endeavor. Driven by poverty and despair she contemplates suicide. Her employer, the sculptor, persuades her to agree on his taking out a seventy-five thousand dollar insurance policy on her life. The understanding is that she is to get fifty thousand at once and at the end of one year commit suicide, to be done presumably as an accident so that he can realize the balance of the policy. What looks like an impending tragedy as the months go by ends in a happy and romantic marriage. Then for Monday we also have Alice Calhoun in the superb Vitagraph play entitled "Rainbow", a mining story full of thrills, pep, love and excitement. There is also a laughable two reel comedy, "Call a Cop" from the celebrated studios of Mack Sennett. When we say this picture is a Mack Sennett production we have told in fewest words that it is one of the best to be procured. Remember the Royal is a picture house exclusively We invite comparison between our program and those of any theatre in Canada and should you not be fully satisfied your money will be cheerfully refunded. We have got the goods" and we know it and so do our patrons.

KENTUCKY DERBY CONTESTED TO-DAY.

Eleven Thoroughbreds to face Barrier at Churchill.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13. — Canadian Press. — Eleven thoroughbreds, aristocrates of the turf, are to face barrier at Churchill Downs today in the 48th renewal of the Kentucky Derby.

In the memory of those who have watched this annual superclassic during the last half century, no year has boasted a field of more outstanding prominence, and has a colt faced the barrier with the degree of favouritism possessed by Morvich.

This great three year old to-day is called upon to show the calibre that brought him glory as a two year old. Among the other ten the E. R. Bradley entry loomed the strongest when scurrying clouds gave promise of a fast track. Deadlock and My Play also ranked high in the opinion of thousands who expected to see a keen race.

No changes in the lineup were recorded over night and the upward flash of barrier is expected to disclose John Finn at the post and By Gosh at outside.

Morvich is carded to take a fourth position, sandwiched between My Play and Busy American. Startle is scheduled to line up next to John Finn and Deadlock; Bet Mosie, Surf Rider, Banker Brown and Letterman fill in the ag to By Gosh.

YOUNGSTERS AT LACROSSE.

School Boys out in Large Numbers but only One Team Organized.

The public school boys turned out in flocks at the Central Park this morning for their first lacrosse games. King George school alone showed any semblance of organization, according to the reports from several of the older players who were present. Ashburnham school mustered a full team, and although many other boys were there, they lacked individuality as groups.

Finally a game was played between King George and a picked team, the former winning by 8 goals to 6. The showing was encouraging as an evidence of the school boy interest in lacrosse, but that apparently lets it out.

Capitol Entertainment

Many believe smaller cities have to wait until the "key' centres, such as Montreal and Toronto, play large picture productions before they have an opportunity to see them. Such is not always the case. Manager Abbey takes great delight in being able to announce that commencing Monday patrons of the Peterboro Capitol will see the latest Paramount release "The Ordeal", featuring Conrad Nagel and Agnes Ayres, before either Toronto and Montreal.

As a matter of fact citizens of Peterboro will have an opportunity of viewing this stirringg film story before it is offered in any other theatre in the Dominion of Canada. This is absolutely true.

This is very seldom done but as Mr. Abbey wanted to give his patrons a real scoop the exception was made by officials of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation Ltd. Seeral out standing facts about this feature assure splendid entertainment. Conrad Nagel, whose work in "A Fool's Paradise" brought him far up the ladder of fame as a moving picture star, plays the leading male role and Agnes Ayres—nobody has forgotten her work in "The Sheik" is the female star of the picture.

With these two leading lights of the film world interpreting the premier roles and being supported by an excellent cast, the moving picture lovers of Peterboro are assured of a splendid evening's entertainment.

It has been long recognized that the Capitol Theatre is the home of the best pictures. Manager Abbey this morning received a list of coming attractions that guarantees his patrons programs for several weeks that cannot be beaten.

Every picture included in this list is a winner. Bebe Daniels in "The Speed Girl" is sure to make people glad they are alive. Bebe, the demur little queen of the movies, has stepped out in a lively travesty of jail life in Los. Angeles. The story of the picture is a take-of on her ten days spent in jail upon being convicted for speeding. It is a matter of history that she was allowed a great deal of liberty by the jail officials. Walter Heirs play almost as important a part as Bebe herself. You will find plenty in it to make you laugh. Speed plays a great part in the portrayal. It is a racey depiction from beginning to end, one of those pictures that will keep you fascinated every minute.

Another first class offering will be Harold Lloyd in "The Sailor-Made Man." Wherever this picture has been shown it has been received with great applause. As a matter of fact it has been declared to be better than some of Chaplin's so-called million dollar productions. It has raised Lloyd into the ranks of the really great comedians. The story is set on board a United States battleship —not a studio setting—and is full of pep and ginger all the time.

"Bought and Paid For" featuring Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt, another recent Paramount release that is proving to be great entertainment, is contained in this list. It is a melodrama that grips, that contains entertainment value of the highest order. With Jack Holt and Agnes Ayres playing the leading roles topnotch acting is guaranteed.

Jackie Coogan, in "My Boy" in connection with which a Coogan contest will be held and the contestants will have an oportunity to be filmed, is another picture. Announcements in regard to this picture will soon be made in the advertisements. "My Boy" is a picture that will thrill both the young and the old. It is not a picture made for the children alone. Every mother, every father and every little boy and girl will surly love Jackie Coogan in this play.

"The Queen of Sheba" a Fox offering that has caused a great deal of comment in several Canadian cities and which has been declared a wonderful production will soon be seen at the Capitol Theatre. For magnificent scenes no picture has been shown in recent months that can equal it. Splendor runs wild all through and these features, combined with an absorbingly interesting theme, will surely please Capitol patrons.

Charlie Chaplin, a name that always sets a town on fire, will soon be here in his latest super-production "Pay Day". This is the last picture the million dollar program of the king of comedians. Whether he will continue making comedies of this size and importance is not known. However the Capitol Theatre is offering this great comedy in the near future. Chaplin does a great many new stunts, and also keeps fresh some of his well known characteristics that have endeared him to the hearts of thousands and thousands of moving picture fans. He has put a really humorous theme into this film, one that will appeal to everbody.

Betty Compson and Theodore Kosloff in "The Green Temptation" is another offering that affords Manager Abbey pleasure in making the announcement of its coming. This picture has been one of the best attractions sent out from the Paramount studios for some months. Betty Compson has not been forgotten for her performance in "The Litle Minister." She is just as appealing and loving in her latest starring vehicle, although she plays a role of altogether different type. Theodore Kosloff, is simply wonderful. He portrays his character part with great understanding. The theme is a thrilling one, embracing those mysterious Apache dens in Paris, theatre life in that great French centre and finishing in a splendid American home.

Wallace Reid and Theodore Roberts have been starred together in a fast moving out-of-doors picture, "Across the Continent" a story of an automobile race for a national record What more need to be said It is coming soon.

Then there will be Rudolph Valentino and Gloria Swanson co-starred in "Beyond the Rocks". Although this picture has not yet been received in Canada, Manager Abbey has arranged to get it at an early date after it is received. This is heralded as one of the greatest Paramouunt pictures of the year and with these two world-famous stars it should be equal to the advance notices, if not much better.

Nearly Insane From Leg Ulcers

She tells of suffering and brief story of her relief.

Read these two letters from Sarah D. Lawrence of Roebuck, Ontario. "I can't sleep at night from leg ulcers. I am in pain most of the time. I have doctored but no use. A lady from Winnipeg says that D. D. D. relieved her of a bad case of eczema. That her sores are all healed. Can you help me?"

Now a few words from a later letter. "I have used D. D. D. as directed, and my leg is completely well."

Why not be convinced and try this remedy to-day for any form of skin disease? One application and the itch is gone. Your money back if relief doesn't come from the first bottle. $1.00 a bottle. Try D. D. D. Soap, too.

"WHAT'S WORTH WHILE?" CAN YOU ANSWER OFFHAND?

If You Don't Know, See Lois Weber's Latest Picture "What's Worth While?"

If you were asked "What's worth while?" what would your answer be? In a vague sort of way you have always told yourself that you knew, but the chances are that you have never given the subject serious thought.

Telling yourself a thing is easy, but how would your thoughts on this subject sound, if spoken? If you were to keep that thought, "What's Worth While," before you, dissect it and then practice it, you'd never have cause to say "I'm sure unlucky," and when your day's work is over you would know it had been conscientiously done and your night's sleep would be sweet.

Lois Weber has adapted the thought "What's Worth While" to the screen and its not a sermon, but a picture of gripping heart interest from stem to stern, in which this producer-director has won fresh laurels. "What's Worth While?" will be shown at the Regent Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Claire Windsor and Louis Calhern have the leading roles. Others in the cast include Arthur Stuart Hull, Mona Lisa and Edwin Stevens.

STRANGEST ROLE EVER ON SCREEN.

Director Frank Lloyd Considers "The Great Lover" One of His Successes.

Frank Lloyd, the Goldwyn Director, who made "The Great Lover," which will be presented by the Regent Theatre for 3 days, commencing Monday, considers the picture one of his big successes.

"The Great Lover" is a singular character, and will give the theatre going public that for which they are always looking — something different. "The Great Lover" is the first of his kind, unlike any other character in fiction or dreams, because he is not a type; he is himself.

His life story is just as different from the usual life story as his character is different from that of the usual leading character in a film play. Combined with the absorbing dramatic action of the story, "The Great Lover" should be enjoyed by every audience.

Mr. Lloyd considers this picture one of his successes, and coming from the director who made such screen triumphs as "Les Miserables," "The Tale of Two Cities" and "Madame X," his opinion should go a long way in putting the stamp of final approval on this Goldwyn production.

Telephone Mother Sunday? Of course you will!

At the tones of the voice she would know in a million, evoking memories of the past, do you know the picture she will see as she looks dreamily across the years?

It is of a young Mother, cradling close in her arms a little boy or girl whose eyes are fast closing, as she hums a low lullaby.

We honour ourselves when, like the Wise Men from the East, we reverence Motherhood — the world's supreme lesson in unselfishness.

The number of those who telephone special "Mother's Day" greetings increases amazingly every year.

A hearty welcome awaits all who attend these services.

S. A. TEMPLE NOTES.

This week end will be a very special one at the local S. A. corps. Not only will there be the ingathering of the proceeds of the recent self denial campaign and the altar service but being Mothers' Day, special attention to this will be given in the different services. In addition to this it will be the farewell Sunday of Captain Caroline Lang, formerly of this city. Capt. Lang has been a faithful worker in the local corps since her childhood and some four years ago left Peterboro to become an officer in the Salvation Army, and has since been in charge of several of the army's corps in Ontario. Her capable leadership and faithful work has won her the well earned praise of her superior officers. Captain Lang recently volunteered for the Indian mission field and will leave Toronto on the 23rd of this month for England en route to India where she will act in the capacity of a Salvation Army missionary to whatsoever position she is appointed. Her many friends will be glad to renew acquaintanceship over the weekend and also to bid her Godspeed in her chosen work. On Monday evening a farewell tea will be held for soldiers and friends where a final send-off will be given the captain.
Do not miss these services as they will be full of interest; everyone is welcome and strangers and visitors to the city are cordially invited.

Health AND Personal Efficiency

Are the dominating demands of life. From our Prime Minister down to the newest office boy holding his first position, it is the thing of most importance. Personal efficiency means the ability to do things in the best possible way in the shortest possible space of time. But where is there any personal efficiency when the health is below normal? It requires a clean body inside and out to give a clear mind.

THERE CAN BE

No great personal efficiency when the mind is dulled and stupified by poisons, which have accumulated throughout the tissues because of sluggish elimination. With a healthy body the mind is clear, the muscles active, the attitude on life is hopeful, and there is that endurance which enables men to work at top speed for hours.

ONE AFTER ANOTHER

Men are coming to realize that health is a condition that is absolutely dependent upon proper mechanical alignment of each vertebrae of the spinal column. Health experts tell us that man is either succeptible or immune to disease. His vitality is either lowered to such a degree that disease easily takes hold or he is so healthy that disease has no chance to find a lodging in his tissues. Men have found that one of the best ways to be immune to disease is to take Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments regularly to keep their vertebrae in proper alignment and keep the spinal nerves free of pressure so that every tissue cell in the body will receive that vital impulse, from the brain, which keeps it healthy and in a condition to resist disease.

KEEPING YOUR SPINE NORMAL IS NECESSARY IF YOU EXPECT TO BE HEALTHY. WE ARE AT YOUR SERVICE.

RENEWED PROBE INTO CAUSE OF HUSTON'S DEATH

Did Young Winnipeg Contractor Meet Death by His Own Hand or Not, the Question.

ENFORCE EVIDENCE

— (Special to The Examiner). — FORT FRANCES, Ont., May 15. Having completed an eleven hundred mile peregrination, Commissioner J. A. MacIntosh to-day renewed his inquiry into the death of Capt. Orville A. Huston.

Since the allegations made on the floor of the Legislature by Major Alex. C. Lewis had been dealt with at some length during the course of the session at Osgoode Hall, the Commissioner, on arriving at the scene of the fatality on December 16, was able to direct his investigation largely to the task of attempting to clear up the question of whether the young Winnipeg pulpwood contractor had met his end as the result of a bullet fired by his own hand or by that of some person as yet unknown.

Two Camps.

This is a question upon which the town of Fort Frances has divided into two opposite camps. That it had also transcended local or even Provincial interest is indicated by the fact that special correspondents are covering the probe not only for the Toronto papers but also for the Winnipeg and Minneapolis dailies. It is said that the facts revealed at the hearings here will have a very direct bearing upon the development of political events in the State of Minnesota.

For to-day's session the Sheriff has summoned every witness who could possibly throw any light upon the fatality or who knew anything or Huston or of his local dealings. The fact that the Commissioner has no jurisdiction in the State of Minnesota will not in any way impede the progress of the probe, since E. W. Backus has promised to place at the disposal of the Commissioner any of his employees whose evidence would be in any way revelant.

Situation Complex.

The situation will not be so simple when the Commission holds its hearing in Winnipeg later in the week. As yet there has been no indication that material witnesses out there will volunteer to give evidence. The Commission expects, however, that it will be possible to make some arrangement with the Manitoba authorities which will enable them to compel witnesses to attend if it is seen that they are not willing to do so of their own will.

Ill Health Sinful, Says Professor, 85

Easy to Keep in Trim, if You Apply Rules : He Gives 'Em

NEW ORLEANS, May 15. — Ill health is not only needless but positively sinful. So says Prof. Corydon Luther Wells, 85 years old, but healthy and active as a boy.

"There are a few well defined, underlying principles of good health," says Prof. Wells, "which, if systematically applied, are bound to banish physical incapacity, and to produce longevity. Any man ought to be active and healthy at 85, and there is no reason why most men cannot live to be 100 years old.

"Most people do not know how to eat, how to breathe, nor how to keep their vital organs functioning properly."

Here are the dozen golden rules set forth by Prof. Wells:

1. Don't eat when you are angry or tired.
2. Cultivate the movements that massage your vital organs.
3. Walk on the sunny side of the street and cultivate cheerful thought.
4. Scrub the stomach daily with two glasses of hot water, combined with an appropriate exercise.
5. Squeeze the liver and the kidneys daily.
6. Eat only when you are hungry.
7. Masticate your food until it becomes liquid in the mouth.
8. Never take drink into the mouth while masticating solid foods.
9. Sleep seven or eight hours a day in a well-ventilated room.
10. Bathe daily and massage the skin with a rough towel or a dry brush.
11. Take exercise to force the blood into every capillary, every day.
12. Breathe from the diaphragm, not from the top of the lungs.

SIX NATIONS CHIEFS ASK PARLEY AT OWN RESERVE

Charge That Deliberate Attempt is Being Made to "Pack" Proposed Meeting at Brantford With Renegade Indians Not Members of Their Tribes

OHSWEKEN, Ont., May 15. —(Special to Examiner).—Chiefs of the Six Nations Indians today saw in the secluded arrangements for the visit of Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, an attempt to cast further discredit upon the status of the Six Nations.

Under the arrangements announced, Mr. Stewart is to confer with the Indians in Victoria Hall, Brantford, this afternoon. The Chiefs of the confederate tribes, in conclave yesterday afternoon, demanded that the Minister come direct to the reserve, and meet them upon their own ground. A deliberate attempt is being made, they charged, to "pack" the meeting in Brantford with "renegade" Indians, who are not duly qualified members of the Six Nations.

The Chiefs planned to send a deputation to meet Mr. Stewart at the station in Brantford and to deliver to him in person their demand that the conference be held in the Six Nations Council House.

"It is Major Gordon Smith, Indian Agent at Brantford, who is at the bottom of it all," a prominent member of the Council declared to The Examiner. "He proposes to get the advantage of us by having the meeting in Brantford. There are few of our people who can leave their farms for an entire day to go to the city. Major Smith would have the hall filled with enfranchized Indians and others who are his tools in order to prevent us from getting a proper hearing before the Minister."

FIRE CHIEF GIMBLETT ARRIVES IN THE CITY

Will Sleep at Fire Hall To-night and Assume His Duties on the Stroke of Twelve.

A DISCIPLINARMN

When the town clock chimes out the midnight hour to night the tenure of office of George Grange as fire chief will end and George Gimblett of Hamilton will assume the responsible duty of running the fire department harmoniously and efficiently.

The new chief arrived in the city on the midnight train on Sunday, and at 9 a.m. to-day was met at the White House by Ald. Walter Stocker, who accompanied him to the city hall, where he conferred with Mayor W. H. Taylor, Ald. Jos. Crowe, the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and other members of the council, in regard to the fire hall administration.

In a brief interview with an Examiner representative this morning, he pointed out the importance of drill at the fire hall, and stated that he would institute a regular system that would train the men to fight fires of any nature that might occur. However, in view of the situation here, Fire Chief Gimblett will make no drastic changes for a month, he said, but will study out the policy to be adopted; and he intimated that when action is taken the changes will be rapid and effective. He hopes to have a medical examination of the men brought about, and this will likely be one of his recommendations to the Fire, Water and Light Committee. The brigade discipline will be strict, and insubordination promptly dealt with.

Conference this Morning.

When George Gimblett went into the fire fighting business he was just the difference between July and September past 21. He is now 36, is married and has a strapping big son, 17 years old, standing several inches higher than he does himself, and he isn't in the short class. He has three other children. He served three years and eight months in the war, 33 months of which were spent in France. He was wounded after Vimy and at Amiens.

Chief Gimblett was modest about his work in Hamilton, but it was learned that the outfit he drove in an area two miles square in the heart of the Ambitious City was larger than the truck here by the addition of a chemical pumper, and cost $20,000.

The new chief would not say much about a presentation that took place in Hamilton Saturday night but it was learned that there were extensive 'doings' around the Central fire station, and Chief Gimblett was presented with a handsome silver service by the fire fighters of the Ambitious City.

Following an informal meeting at the City Hall this morning, at which Chief Gimblett was introduced to members of the City Council, it was announced to the press that a "stand-pat" policy was decided on. The new chief will sleep at the hall to-night and if a fire breaks out after midnight will lead the brigade to the scene of the blaze.

Council to Meet.

A special meeting of the council is being held to-night to approve of the Board of Works undertaking the paving of George street south, and the resolution passed by the Owners' and Tenants' Association calling for an investigation by justify the Council's action in dismissing Chief Grange, will also be considered.

McCauley's Boarding House Destroyed By A Fire On Saturday

APSLEY, May 15.— An old and well known landmark in the north country was lost when the house on the Burleigh road, familiarly known as McCauley's boarding house, was totally destroyed by fire at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, together with all outbuildings. The fire, caused by overheated stovepipes, had made good headway before it was discovered, and spread with such rapidity that practically nothing could be saved. The river drivers who are taking down a drive of logs for McDonald's Co. were boarding here and nearly all their effects were lost. Mr. Jim Scott was the present owner of the place, which was insured. The house was well known to tourists and hunters, being a favourite stoping place for hunting parties, and has been well known for nearly fifty years.

PULPWORKERS OUT ON STRIKE TODAY

The Employees of Backus Plants Protest Against Cut.

PORT FRANCES ONT., May 15.— (Special to The Examiner.)— Four hundred pulp workers employed in the Backus plants here walked out to-day as a protest against a proposed cut in wages. Of these, about a hundred were from the Fort Frances Pulp and Paper Co., the remainder being from the sister mill, across the river in International Falls, Minn. The sulphite workers and paper markers are not yet affected. The men now out on strike accepted a previous considerable cut in wages last year, following the finding of a Board of Arbitration.

JOHN DOUGHTY HAS SERVED FIRST YEAR

KINGSTON, Ont., May 15.— (Special to The Examiner.)— Today, May 15, recalls the fact it is just a year ago to-day that John Doughty was brought to the Portsmouth Penitentiary to serve a six year sentence for the theft of $105,000 Victory bonds from A. J. Small, the missing theatrical magnate of Toronto. Although there have been reports that he is not well, it is understood that his health is good, and further that he still has hopes of being given his freedom before his full term is served.

FINE PROGRAM IS ENJOYED BY THE ROTARIANS

Splendid Address by Rev. F. E. Malott and Some Excellent Music Featured Today's Luncheon.

LINDSAY VISITORS

An exceptionally large attendance, including many visitors, and a most enjoyable programme, made to-day's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the Empress a red letter occasion. Rev. F. E. Malott, of Trinity Church, who was the speaker of the day, delivered an eloquent address upon the principles of Rotary, and, in addition, the Rotarians had the pleasure of listening to a musical programme of rare excellence, as Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oldfield and Mr. Sydney Walsh, of Toronto, were guests, and were heard in several delightful numbers.

Mr. Oldfield, one of Canada's most popular baritones, sang "The Vagabond", with his usual clarity of enunciation and in fine voice, and as an encore contributed a duet with Mrs. Oldfield, who presided at the piano. Mr. Walsh, who possesses a remarkably fine tenor voice, sang "For You Alone" and "Until" in finished style. The musical programme was thoroughly appreciated.

Vice-President V. J. McElderry was in the chair to-day, and among the guests, in addition to those already mentioned, were Mr. L. V. O'Connor, president of the Lindsay Rotary Club, in charge of a contingent of Lindsay Rotarians; Rotarian Fred. Brown, of Montreal; Rotarian Bert Hall, of Cobourg; Capt. O. Sheppard, Toronto; Ald. Walter Stocker and Messrs. F. M. Dela Fosse, Harry Rush, Sidney Rush, and J. A. Robinson, of Peterborough.

Rev. Mr. Malott, in his striking address, complimented the Rotary Club upon its aims and objects and the manner in which the members were endeavoring to carry them out. Rotary, he said, was helping to break down the artificial barriers that had been raised between men of different occupations and creeds. Rotary was also creating a spirit of optimism not only among its own members but among the people with whom they came into contact. The speaker especially congratulated the Rotary Club upon its work on behalf of the boys, and advanced the opinion that the fact that Ontario was more advanced along the lines of child welfare activity than any other country in the world, could be attributed to the interest of the public-spirited organizations of the Province in such work. Some people had said that Rotary was only a passing phase in the world's history, but the speaker did not believe this to be true. The name itself might not continue, but the spirit of Rotary would still go marching on.

The Lindsay Club will have their charter night on Wednesday, and many of the Peterborough Club will be in attendance. A delegation will also go to Port Hope on Thursday night.

At to-day's luncheon Rotarian Claude Rogers invited the Rotarians to gather at his Stoney Lake cottage on May 24th, when it is expected the scows of supplies for the Boys' Camp will have arrived at the site of the camp.

Rotarians Dr. Buchanan and J. H. Seels have been named as Peterborough Rotary's official delegates to the Los Angeles convention.

Several Cases Police Court

A varied assortment of cases formed the police court docket to-day. Six drunks contributed $10 and costs. Nelly Kniff, charged with vagrancy, had sentence suspended and the police were instructed to see that she left town as soon as possible. Harvey Saunders passed a standing street car with his automobile and paid $10 and costs. Thomas Wynn failed to light the tail light and it costs him $5 and costs. Involved in a mix-up with a taxi driver, a local young man was bound over to keep the peace on bail bonds of $2,000. Provincial Officer T. Y. Stratton presented the results of a busy day in the country rounding up speedsters. Leslie Stevens was fined $5 for fast driving. C. R. Widdifield defended him. Three other cases of speeding were held over till 2.30 this afternoon.

ASK THAT COUNCIL RETAIN FIRE CHIEF FOR INVESTIGATION

A Surprise Party For Miss Layton

On Saturday evening about fifty of the members and friends of the local Y.W.C.A. assembled for a surprise party in honor of Miss Charlotte Layton, the retiring Secretary. A beautiful dark brown leather club bag was presented to Miss Layton, with an address read by Miss Grace Evans. The evening was pleasantly spent in games, music and the enjoyment of dainty refreshments. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Trucie Pearson and Miss Ernestine McManus, accompanied by Miss Florence Giroux. Miss Layton gave an instrumental solo.

On Saturday afternoon the three junior Saturday afternoon clubs of the Y.W.C.A., the Ever Brights the Willing Workers and the Sunshine Clubs, presented Miss Layton with a dainty china cup and saucer, and she was remembered by the Business Girls' Club on Saturday evening with a handsome mahogany desk clock.

Between 175 and 200 Citizens Adopt a Resolution in Sympathy With George Grange—Owners' and Tenants' Meeting.

FOR AND AGAINST.

Between 175 and 200 citizens of Peterborough, including a few ladies, assembled in the G.W.V.A. hall last Saturday evening, to discuss the action of the City Council in dismissing Fire Chief George Grange. M. J. Maher was asked to take the chair, and explained the circumstances which led to the meeting being called, by request of a deputation of citizens to the executive committee of the Tenants' and Owners' Association. F. H. Dobbin was appointed secretary for the meeting.

The Mayor's Regrets.

Mr. Maher read a letter from Mayor Taylor, acknowledging an invitation to be present at the meeting, and regretting his inability to be there on account of pressure of other business. (Laughter.)

Mr. Maher also read a letter from R. H. Hunter, commending the services to himself and other ratepayers of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, under Chief Grange, and expressing his opinion that the city would benefit by the Chief's retention.

Read Resolution.

A resolution, moved and seconded by Messrs. B. B. Morden and R. V. Copping, occupying seats on the platform, was read by the latter, expressing the opinion of the meeting that a serious injury had been done Chief Grange, referring to the two petitions presented to the City Council on his behalf, to which no attention had been paid, regarding its belief in the efficiency of the Chief, if given proper support by the Council, and asking that a full investigation be made into the matter, the Chief to be retained until such investigation was completed, and a final decision made.

British Fair Play.

The sentiment of the meeting seemed to centre about their expressed desire for "British fair play" for the Chief. Several members were emphatically of the opinion that the word "demand" instead of "request" should be used in regard to an investigation.

In answer to an enquiry as to whether any attention had been given by these "Peterborough Prussians" to the signed petitions, M. J. Maher replied that both petitions had been ignored, as had also a "gentlemanly and non-dictatorial" request from the Tenants' and Owners' Association for an investigation.

Mr. Maher reported a telephone message from Ald. Jas. Hamilton, asking why this meeting was called, and requesting the names of the citizens who asked for it. These had been furnished, and an invitation extended him to be present. Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Maher said, seemed to be of the opinion that no organization or body of men had any right to call such a meeting.

Voice: "He might second that resolution if he were here." (Laughter.)

Praise For Chief Grange.

B. B. Morden, speaking to the resolution, said that only two people had refused to sign the petition for the Chief's retention, in which the speaker had interested himself, and he was of the opinion that ninety per cent. of Peterborough's citizens would sign if necessary. Referring to Chief Grange's experience to the prominence given him at conventions of Fire Chiefs, and to the appointment of the Hamilton applicant, Mr. Morden asked: "Would any business man ask an employee of his to take charge of his business of that employee had been working for fifteen years in a subordinate position, without promotion?" Peterborough's fire loss last year, according to the speaker, had been in the neighborhood of $12,000 (twelve thousand dollars.) Belleville's fire loss "with double the equipment which you have not got," was $38,000; Sault Ste. Marie, between $60,000 and $70,000, and Kitchener, $39,000. He attributed Peterborough's low rate to the good work of Chief Grange.

Why Was Grange Dismissed?

An enquiry as to why the Chief had been dismissed brought from Ald. Jones the assertion that "we (Ald. Morrison, Jones, McIntyre, and, later, Ald. Turner) have been trying for the past three months to find out the reason, and have been unable to do so. "Inefficiency" is the invariable answer, but not one of the men who voted against him will say

NO NATION CAN LIVE BY ITSELF

Lloyd George Emphasizes Need for Economic Interdependence of Whole World.

GENOA, May 15 (Canadian Press). — Premier Lloyd-George told a correspondent of the Yorkshire Post to-day that a new phase of western civilisation was the economic interdependence of Europe and the whole world. No nation could exist by itself.

"A pact of non-aggression is fundamental to the economic construction," he said. "Every nation in Europe must recognise the sanctity of its neighbours' boundaries. Frontiers will then become open doors of commerce, not national barriers. Peace is the first essential."

RETURN FROM GENOA.

LONDON, May 15 (Canadian Press. — It is semi-officially stated that Lloyd-George and the British delegation will return from Genoa at the end of this week.

THE SOVIET'S PROTEST.

GENOA, May 15 (Canadian Press). — Soviet Foreign Minister Tcitcherin has registered a protest against the meetings by five inviting Powers to discuss the Russian proposal for a mixed commission without inviting the Russians to participate.

RUSSIA'S POSITION.

GENOA, May 15 (Canadian Press). — The Soviet delegates at Genoa informed the League of Nations experts there that Russia desired to co-operate with the League and become a full-fledged member, provided the Conference succeeded from the Soviet viewpoint. They added that if the Genoa Conference failed, Moscow would continue its policy of opposition to the League on the theory that Russia could not expect anything from an organisation composed chiefly of members of states with which it had been unable to reach an agreement.

TO MEET AT THE HAGUE.

GENOA, May 15 (Canadian Press). — The political sub-commission of the Economic Conference today unanimously approved of the agreement reached yesterday among the convening Powers to hold another meeting at The Hague beginning 15th June.

COMMUNICATION RECEIVED.

WASHINGTON, May 15 (Canadian Press). — The communication from United States Ambassador Child, reporting that the United States Government had been invited to participate in the Conference at The Hague was received to-day at the State Department, but officials indicated that no immediate decision regarding it would be reached.

Until they had an opportunity to study the proposal in detail, officials would make no comment regarding it. The general impression given by them was that the question probably would be discussed at to-morrow's Cabinet meeting, and that some action might follow.

BANKS'

"That Engine Is Quiet"

Mr. T. B. Howden, Calgary, Alta., writes: "I recall with satisfaction how, after covering 6,000 miles, the only repair so far has been sewing a ripped fan belt, costing fifteen cents, and she certainly is easy on the gas—30 miles to the gallon. My pleasure is also increased by the garage man's remark, as I pull in for the night: 'Gee whiz! That engine is quiet. I thought you were coasting in.'"

Looks as though Mme. Lydia Lypkovska, famous Russian singer, could never do without a mirror, even when her make-up is perfect. But you're wrong if you guess that thing at the right is a mirror. It's a highly sensitive microphone, through which Mme. Lypkovska is sending her soprano voice from a central broadcasting station by radio to the fans who are "listening in."

For Motorists

A new factor has appeared in the long list of debit items doubtless chalked up in earthly and heavenly ledgers against the account of motorists. That is, the wrenched arms of rural mail-carriers. Motor-cars have their disabilities, lots of them, probably not the least the human elements which mark the difference between the motorist and the pedestrian. Someone has said that a man's ideas of the rights of motorists depend on whether he is watching a car go by or sitting inside one, and it is a lamentable sidelight on human nature that the possession of a motor often seems to change a man's character, and turn him from a kindly gentleman to an imperious creature who hogs the road.

However, to "return to our mutton," or the wrenched arms of the rural mail-carriers. This is the way it happens. The farmers, with that long-headed faculty which marks the tiller of the soil in most instances, when depositing their outgoing mail in their mail-boxes, push it away in, because they fear it will be stolen otherwise, a fear which a lack of knowledge of rural communities' habits prevents a town dweller from commenting upon. Then the mail-carrier comes along with his horse-drawn rig (and, by the way, these horses usually are kept in good prancing condition, for they have long, hard miles to go in the performance of the duties which led them in a zigzag back and forth, across the road), puts his arm away in to get the carefully-secreted mail, at the same time maintaining a sort of perilous, sidewise position in his seat, when, whiz! a cloud of dust, a flash, and a motor-car rushes by, with no preliminary warning. The horses shy and jump, and the mail-man's arm gets a bad wrench.

The motorists do not care. It is nothing in their lives, perhaps a cause of merriment, if the truth were known, and they may also enjoy the spectacle of the road-worker, back bent over pick and shovel, who has to be constantly on the look-out to avoid being run over by swift-rushing, speed-mad motorists. Since the days of the famous motor club, whose motto was "Full speed was made for the man behind, who cares for the man in front?" there have been those with us who care nothing for the rights or feelings of the other fellow.

This summer, provincial constables will be empowered to pay particular attention to cases of this sort. All that is required is a slight warning from the motorist, not a series of prolonged, frightening toots, but just a reminder that a car is approaching, so that the mail-carrier or the road-worker may "govern himself accordingly."

ALL ONE TONE.

Many of the new gowns are being developed entirely in one tone of brown—a shade between tan and dark brown. Sometimes a touch of gold is added. Brown hats and brown slippers and stockings complete the one-toned outfit.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED—

Cou will not engage in long controversies with a friend to decide which shall pay the carfare.

Such sessions only annoy the conductor and other passengers and waste everyone's time.

Try to have the change ready and pay inconspicuously.

If you happen to be with a person who demands she be allowed to pay, better let her do so and not start a discussion.

STAIR CARPET.

When buying carpet for a stairway used a great deal, buy one yard more than is needed. Then, when the worn places begin to appear on the top of the step, you can shift them to vertical position by using your extra carpet.

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite so happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

SERIOUS STRIKE IRISH WORKERS IN CREAMERIES

Over 3,000 Workers Strike Against Proposed Wage Cut of Thirty Three Per Cent.

NOT CO-OPERATIVE.

DUBLIN, May 15.—(Canadian Press)—The provisional government, through the Labor Minister, Joseph McGrath, has been for several days attempting to settle the wage dispute between the large combine of proprietary creameries and their workmen. The creameries are not cooperative, but are run for individual profit, and the workers alleging that these plants made war profits exceeding 1,000,000 pounds, resented the proposed wage cut of 13 per cent.

Attempts at accomodation having failed, the employers decided to close their factories Saturday night, thus rendering idle, 3,000 workers and affecting also 5,000 families depending upon the creameries for the sale of their milk.

In Munster, where there is a general labor council, the workers were asked to carry on as usual, hence they took over the factories and business was proceeding Saturday. The milk supply was collected by motor lorries from the surrounding country.

Minister McGrath described tre outlook as very serious.

NO NEW DRYDOCK FOR VANCOUVER

Minister of Public Works Says Pacific Coast Situation Does Not Warrant Expenditure.

ESQUIMAULT DOCK.

VANCOUVER, May 15.—(Canadian Press)—Replying Saturday to a recent request of the Board of Trade that the Federal Government for a proposed drydock here, Hon. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works, states that after a thorough investigation into drydock situation of the Pacific Coast, the Government would not be warranted in continuing the subsidy. Hon. King says in regard to the drydock at Esquimalt that owing to the headway already incurred by leaving the work at Victoria in an uncompleted condition, it was considered advisable to continue that work.

The proposed Vancouver drydock had not progressed beyond the initial place when the new Government came into office. Nearly two million dollars have been expended on the Esquilmalt drydock which is to cost $5,000,000.

GENOA CONFERENCE WILL RE-ASSEMBLE.

GENOA, May 15.—(Canadian Press).—Subject to approval, the Sub-commission on Russian Affairs decided yesterday that the Genoa Economic Conference should re-assemble at The Hague, June 15, meet the Russian delegates and choose a mixed commission to endeavor to settle the Russian situation.

But the whole plan is vague. It seems to be a method for temporarily dissolving the Genoa Conference, pending the decision of the United States whether it will participate, and without admitting there are irreconcilable difficulties between France and Great Britain.

AUSTRALIA'S LOAN WILL BE SPENT IN ENGLAND ENTIRELY

Hydro - Electric Plant is Bought in England at a Greatly Increased Cost. Other Dealers.

MEAT PRICES.

LONDON, May 15.——(Canadian Press.)—Edmund Jowett, a prominent member of the Australian federal parliament had something to say here when asked about the agitation in certain quarters in favor of the Dominions spending in Great Britain as much as possible of the loans they recently floated here.

He said the West Australian premier did not expect to take away a penny of the recent £2,000,000 loan raised in London by that state. Many valuable contracts had been placed in Great Britain.

Mr. Jowett mentioned that a hydro plant had been ordered for New Zealand in Great Britain for £31,000, whereas an American tender was £25,000. Another side of the picture he mentioned was the "unreasonable prejudice in Great Britain" which was responsible for Australian meat fetching such small prices in Great Britain compared to meat from Argentina. The result was that Australians were unable to produce at a profit.

Above the Chaudiere Falls, the water level showed that the water which had receded over four feet since the floods, was steadily mounting. Below the falls and along the Gatineau River, a similar condition prevails.

SUGAR PREFERENCE WILL BE CONTINUED AT LEAST TEN YEARS.

Delegates From Colonies Ask That Britain Greatly Increase the Preference.

LONDON, May 15. —(Canadian Press)—Canada, Australia, South Africa, India, the West Indies and other colonies also the Royal Colonial Institute were represented on a powerful deputation of Empire sugar producers which waited on Major B.F.L. Wood, under secretary of state for the colonies for the purpose of urging the necessity of increasing the Imperial preference on sugar.

Major Wood replied sympathetically but made nothing in the way of promises. He admitted the strength of the arguments advanced by the colonies who had given a preference to Great Britain and said the government had not seen their way to double the existing preference on sugar but the government would promise to continue existing preference for at least ten years. By not reducing the gross duty the British government were making a valuable concession which should ground for confidence which should directly assist the industry.

FARMERS HAVE BEEN DELAYED

Wheat Acreage in the West Is Likely to Run Less Than the Average.

REGINA, May 15 (Special to The Examiner). — Due to an almost continuous rainfall in the first two weeks of the month, Saskatchewan wheat acreage this year will be from 10 to 25 per cent. less than the average.

Now three weeks behind schedule in their seeding operations, the farmers are placed in a serious predicament.

Since the first of May over three inches of rain have fallen in the southern part of the Province, and hundreds of thousands of acres of the best wheat land are now under water. Even in the event of hot weather and stiff breezes following the wet season, it will be impossible for this land to dry out enough for working on for about ten days or two weeks, and as the last possible date for seeding is not much later than 24th May, it is nip and tuck with hundreds of the agriculturists.

While here and there, there is a farmer who has his seeding finished, the latest figures gathered from all over the Province by the Department of Agriculture show that an average of 55 per cent. of the 1922 crophas been sown.

Reports to the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elebator Company place this figure at 30 per cent. The greatest amount of wheat has been sown in the North-Eastern Territory where it is estimated that 65 per cent. is in the ground. The Regina-Weyburn District and the South Central area has about 35 per cent. of the seed in the soil, while in the immediate vicinity of Regina less than 10 per cent. is seeded.

During the past week there has not been a single outfit on the land owing to the continuous rain.

As a result of the late season, there will be more oats sown and more flax also, in spite of the fact that the market for these grains is a poor one at present.

The forty-mile stretch between Regina and Moose Jaw to-day is a series of small lakes, with the high ground showing up as islands.

The most optimistic people in the Province are, however, the old-timers. They maintain that although seeding is now held up, there is plenty of time to seed, and that the crops will be as safe as in ordinary years, if sown as late as 24th May.

The pioneers, however, admit that for years they have not seen as much rain and water as has been the case this year. The average date for seeding in the Regina and Moose Jaw area is 23rd April—hence this is now three weeks overdue.

WOMAN KILLED BY FALL FROM FIFTH STOREY

Miss Anna MacEdwards, a Canadian, Meets Tragic Death in New York City.

IN SOCIAL WORK.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(Canadian Press)—Believed by her physician to have been seized with a paroxsym of pain, while at work relieving the poor of the city, Miss A. MacEdwards, 38, fell to death early yesterday morning from a window of her fifth story apartment. The body was discovered on the pavement in the rear court of the yard of the building by Miss Ethels Stephens, a nurse, who had been attending the invalid for the past three weeks.

Dr. Alexander Hofeimer, the dead woman's physician, said he had known her for the past 16 years and that she came from a rich Canadian family. She had been engaged he said, in social work among the East Side poor for a number of years and had devoted a considerable income to her philantrophic labor.

Miss MacEdwards, according to Miss Stephens, was in a cheerful frame of mind when she retired Saturday night and apparently was in better health than at any time since her break-down.

PRINCE VISITS PHILIPPINE ILS.

The Renown, Bearing the Prince of Wales, Enters Manila Harbor in State.

BUSY TIME.

MANILA, P.I., May 15.—(Canadian Press)—The Prince of Wales is said to be the first heir to the throne of a world power to visit the Philippines.

When the Renown, which was escorted into the harbour by United States destroyers, dropped anchor, the national salute of 21 guns was fired and Governor-General Leonard Wood made an official call on the Prince aboard the cruiser. Later, the Prince disembarked and was received by Vice-Governor Gilmore, on behalf of the Phillippine Government and was escorted by a troop of cavalry to Malascan Palace, where he called officially on Governor Wood and then lunched informally with him.

Thousands cheered the Prince as he drove through the city. During his three-day visit to the Philippines he will be busy almost every hour at receptions by Governor Wood and British members of the community, polo games, visit to Port McKinley and the Cavite Naval Station, and other entertainments.

MANDATE FOR PALESTINE.

GENEVA, May 15. — (Canadian Press).—The French and Italian objections to the immediate consideration of the proposition to approve the British mandate for Palestine made it seem certain to-day that the matter would be postponed until next meeting of Council of the League of Nations. Lord Balfour had planned to ask Council to-day to put the mandate on the calendar of the present sessions, but Leon Bourgeois for France and Marquis Imperiali for Italy reported their Governments were unprepared to consent to the approval of the mandate at this time.

South Africa has put into force a law for the governmental supervision of dairies to bring the industry to the highest possible standard.

In a fit of temper Swan drew a revolver and fired two shots at his wife. One pierced her lungs and the other entered the stomach. She died shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Ashton, Swan's daughter, battled with the man and shoved him out of doors. Swan escaped to the bush. He was pursued by his son-in-law, who overtook him and forced him to disarm.

Swan has been arrested by the Provincial Police on a charge of murder.

HEARTBURN

A SEVERE CASE

Many people are troubled with heartburn who really do not realize just what it is.

In cases of this trouble there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach attended by disturbed appetite. It is generally caused by great acidity of the stomach, and whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment and becomes extremely sour, causing heartburn. In such cases vomiting often occurs, and what is thrown up is sour and sometimes bitter.

The way to get rid of heartburn is to keep your liver active by using and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles such as constipation, jaundice, water brash, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath, etc.

Miss Agnes Cutting, Shallow Lake, Ont., writes:—"I have had heartburn for a long time. There were gnawing and burning pains in my stomach, and then when I vomited there was a sour and bitter taste. I used two vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of my heartburn. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine."

Price, 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn, Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FRANCE APPEALS TO U. S. TO ENTER THE COMMISSION

United States Requested to Take Dominant Position on International Body.

FOR RUSSIA.

GENOA, May 15. — (Canadian Press.)—France has appealed to the United States to participate in the proposed international commission to investigate the Russian situation. The United States Ambassador, Richard Washburn Child, informed the Associated Press Saturday night that such a proposal had been submitted to him by the French delegation.

The Ambassador understood that the French proposal suggests that the United States, if the invitation is accepted, would have a dominant voice in the action of the commission, but would not be bound by her acceptance to any decisions of the commission which she did not approve.

If the United States accepts, France would agree to the Russians being represented in the commission.

INVITES THE STATES TO TAKE A HAND.

Hope That Big Republic Will Participate in the Conference.

GENOA, May 15 (Canadian Press). — Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy last night handed United States Ambassador Chid a formal invitation to the United States Government to participate in the Economic Conference at The Hague on 15th June. The decision to postpone action relative to Russia is prompted largely by the desire of the European Powers to induce the United States to participate, and apparently is merely a means of dissolving the Genoa Conference without admitting that difficulties between France and Great Britain cannot be reconciled in Genoa.

PROTECTORATE FOR ALBANIA IS DECIDED UPON

Italy's Objections in the League of Nations Are Overcome. Interests Are Guarded.

AID GOVERNMENT.

GENEVA, May 15.—(Canadian Press)—A League of Nations protectorate for Albania was virtually decided upon by the Council of the League Saturday after Italy's objection had been overcome.

Italy, through her representative on the Council, Marquis Imperiali, had pointed out several days ago that she could not accept such drastic participation by the League in the Government of Albania without assurances that important Italian interests in that country would be safeguarded. The Council intimated that some of the financial, economic and legal experts who are to be appointed by the League to assist the Albanian Government would be chosen by Italy, and thereupon Marquis Imperiali withdrew his protest.

This is the first tie, League officials pointed out, that the League has assumed such extensive obligations in the administration of any country's internal affairs. The decision was the result of a request by the Albanian Government for the League's assistance in its endeavors to have Albania make a place for herself among the nations of Europe.

The Council also decided yesterday to apoint some prominent United States educator to membership on the international commission which is to make a study of intellectual cooperation among the nations. This commission will be composed of some of the most notable educators of the world. It will strive to work out a plan for the solution of such problems as the exchange of professors between countries, relations betwen universities, international reference books and other similar educational questions.

EMPIRE DAY.

Although it is smaller this year than formerly, The Examiner is glad to note that the Ontario Department of Education has issued as usual this year the pamphlet designed for the guidance of teachers in connection with Empire Day. It outlines a programme for the day's observance that not only will impress upon the pupils the value of Great Britain's influence upon world civilisation, but that will also emphasise the important position occupied in the Empire by the Dominion of Canada. At the same time it is suggested that the children shall be reminded of the importance of good citizenship, and that there should be an address on civics. Much, however, has been left to the judgment of the teachers, and with the material that is available, the celebration of Empire Day this year should be made one of great educational and patriotic value. It is well that the pupils should hear something of the Empire and of the country in which they live, and the proper celebration of Empire Day is an excellent means of bringing these things before them.

A WARNING TO OTHERS.

The sentence of one year at the jail farm inflicted by Mr. Justice Riddel upon a prominent Toronto businessman convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of a child who was fatally injured by the prisoner's motor car, should prove an effective warning to every person who drives a car. It was with the greatest reluctance on Mr. Justice Riddell's part that the sentence was imposed, for not only had the jury brought in an unusually strong recommendation for mercy, but it had been shown that the unfortunate motorist was a man of stainless character and a most worthy and public-spirited citizen. Nevertheless the presiding judge considered it his plain duty, for the sake of the warning it would be to other careless drivers, to inflict a penalty that would show that manslaughter must be punished even when it is committed by means of an automobile. There is naturally sympathy for the prisoner, but few people who have been impressed by the increasing number of accidents of this kind will quarrel with the verdict. The most important feature of the case is whether or not the penalty inflicted will have the effect Mr. Justice Riddell aimed at in deciding sentence. If it serves the cause, motorists in Toronto and elsewhere to exercise care and common-sense in the handling of their machines, the verdict will be justified. Certain it is that there is need of such warnings, for were it not that the good luck which is said to favour children and drunken men seems also to preside over the fate of many irresponsible drivers, it is to be feared that there would be many more sentences such as was passed in Toronto on Saturday.

THINK IT OVER.

There is such a thing as a "state of mind" aggravating and exaggerating real troubles to a point where mental depression is a real hindrance to recuperation. The Breeders' Gazette warns farmers in particular against over-indulgence in what is sometimes called self-pity. It is a bad disease. Do not give way to it if you can possibly avoid it. Farmers generally have no means of knowing the depressed condition of our manufacturing industries. They have no way of knowing how hard businessmen in great centres of population have been hit. The farmer who fancies that he has got the whole charge, and both barrels at that, is therefore laboring under a delusion. If farmers knew the load that thousands of businessmen and hundreds of commercial banks are carrying today it might help them to realize that the farmer is not the only sufferer. You often hear farmers say, "I don't want my boys to have anything to do with farming. They can fit themselves for any other business they like." And so we see farmers' sons in the universities being educated to be engineers and evrything but farmers. How many engineers are making a living today? How many are out of jobs? Plenty, we should say. Their business is in no better shape just now than is the farmer's, but just because farming is temporarily in distress a lot of folk talk about its never coming back; talk as if any other line of work is sure to give better returns for the future. Is this reasonable? Is it logical? Is it sensible? Or is it just the reaction of minds depressed by recent losses?

It is a time for sane thinking, not for giving way to impulse. A little steadiness, a lot of patience, and now and then a smile, will help.

A DOLLAR FOR A LIFE.

For some unaccountable reason there have been attempts by some newspapers and individuals in Canada to discredit the campaign to save the starving Russian children. Efforts have been made to convince the public that the famine conditions in Russia are over and that further help is not needed. The testimony of the prominent Britishers who have been making an exhaustive survey of the situation shows that the famine has not yet come to an end, and that assistance must be continued at least until the end of August—and longer if the new harvest should prove to be a disappointment. The plain fact is that millions of Russian children are doomed to die from starvation before next autumn if the people of more fortunate countries do not come to the rescue. That is why the Save-the-Children Fund has been organized in Canada and why prominent citizens in every large community have consented to act upon the local committee in charge of the campaign. The people of this country are in a better position to help than are the citizens of any other land in the world, and the call of the starving children in unhappy Russia will surely not fall upon deaf ears. One dollar, half the price of a theatre ticket, will save a child for one month. For the cost of ten gallons of gasoline you can carry a youngster safely through until the new harvest. Peterborough people are asked to bear these facts in mind and to do what they can to assure a worth-while contribution from this city for the Save-the-Children Fund, of which Mr. J. W. Fraser of the Bank of Nova Scotia is Treasurer.

VICTORIA PARK.

In planting a large number of shade trees in those sections of Inverlea Park that were in need of reforestation, the Nicholls Park Board has set an example which the City Council might well follow in connection with Victoria Park. The north-east corner of this park has been almost completely denuded of trees in the past couple of years, and presents a rather barren appearance at present that is not in keeping with the rest of the park. If it was considered advisable to replenish the trees in Inverlea Park, it is much more necessary that the gaps in Victora Park should be filled as soon as possible. At the same time it might be as well to thin out the trees in other sections of the park where there are too many of them. This is one of the city's chief beauty spots, but unless the Council can see the desirability of a liberal enough appropriation each year to ensure that it does not deteriorate in any respect, it is a certainty that the park will degenerate rapidly. It is a good municipal investment, and it should be the ambition of the authorities to see that it not only holds its own, but improves as the years go by. And the first step should be a tree-planting campaign.

TAKING THE G.W.V.A. OUT-OF-DOORS.

During past years it has frequently been stated by otherwise energetic members of the G.W.V.A. that little effective work could be accomplished during the summer months because of the difficulty in inducing members to turn out to meetings. Accepting this as a logical conclusion many branches have lost the splendid opportunities which this period of the year provides.

The C.E.F. was born out-of-doors (reference: any Valcartier and Salisbury Plain old-timers), and for more than four years it lived and thrived in the open spaces. Fresh air was oft-times the most nourishing substance it had. If the out-doors was beneficial while there was a war on, why should it not be doubly so minus the disturbance?

Take the G.W.V.A. out-of-doors this summer. The time is opportune to organize athletics—baseball, lacrosse, soccer, field and track meets, yacht races, swimming, canoeing and the dozen and one other lines of clean sport. Week-end hikes, fishing parties, camping jaunts, boating trips—enterprises both pleasant and profitable—which provide something that every member could take part in. If the more strenuous or more protracted schemes are not feasible, the old-time picnic is a good standby. These could be broadened to include relatives and friends, and even the public generally.

Many branches have already instituted field days for athletic events in their communities. There is plenty of room for extension and plenty of ways to extend. Belleville branch is one of those which has taken full advantage of the possibilities of sport—hockey and carpet ball teams in the city leagues in winter, baseball and soccer teams in summer, revived yacht racing last year, putting on a field day and celebration on June 3rd and 5th, boxing bouts when the occasion offers, and other lines of sport.

There is a fine opportunity for the organization of district or Provincial baseball, football and lacrosse leagues. With a little development the day would soon come when there would be play-offs for the G.W.V.A. Dominion championships.

The benefits from such activities are manifold. Physical upkeep with resultant good health will be the reward of the individual; stimulated interest among eligible veterans (who will seek membership) and among the general public (who will more readily lend sympathetic support) will accrue to the branches; a more vigorous manhood will be the dividend of the community and the nation.—The Veteran.

THE SACRED PACT OF VERSAILLES.

The Treaty of Versailles is one of the great instruments of human liberty. It vindicated justice, it upheld right. It stands between Europe and barbarism, it is sanctified by the blood of thousands and millions of upright men, who died in order that the world might live. One Man's Reason

Detroit Free Press: The boast of mankind that men are reasoning animals and distinguished by reason from all other living creatures is widely accepted as true, but the assertion does not help one to understand what any particular man will do in a given set of circumstances, nor is the reason of one class reasonable in the eyes of another. The coal miner, for instance, who has just quit a poor job and is getting along on nothing in the hope that he can force somebody to pay him a better wage will be lost in wonder when he contemplates the behavior of that unknown American who paid $39,100 for a one cent. postage stamp issued by British Guiana in 1858.

We have been getting along very nicely without and optismim would be needed to start again such agitation here.

Again Clarissa's look questioned him. "I do not know," he said slowly, as though she had formulated the query. "I do not know—yet I feel that I am speaking to a purpose—only the purpose itself is still unknown to me. I shall tell you a great secret of statesmanship. Treat every man and every woman you meet as though you were addressing a person of vast importance. For how do we know that we may not stand face to face with him or her who can make or unmake us? Can we fathom the future—fate—the destiny of man? We are all tools in the hands of a mighty power—and I am both too humble and too wise to attempt to recognize the tool before the master's hand has chosen it."

"Do you discuss weighty affairs of state with Lady Beaconsfield at times?"

"At times? Always."

"I envy her," said Clarissa.

"She is to be envied—not because she is my confidante, but because she has been blessed with the ability to see things as all true Englishwomen should see them."

Somehow Clarissa felt that the conversation had come to an end—that whatever could be said now could only take the charm from what had gone before. So she rose. Disraeli understood her. Giving her his arm he led her toward a short flight of steps leading up to the gardens. Presently Clarissa glimpsed a familiar figure approaching from a distance, and for an instant she almost wished they had taken the opposite course to achieve the house.

But there was no escape. There at the top of the steps stood Charles, Viscount Deeford, sometime to be Duke of Dunelm.

"I beg pardon—Lady Pevensey—Mr. Disraeli—may I have a few words with you, Lady Pevensey?" asked Charles.

"Do you mind, Mr. Disraeli?" asked Clarissa.

"Do I mind? You go with Deeford. I am sure he has something to say to you—very important I believe"—and Disraeli patted her outstretched hand and turned toward The Towers.

Lord Deeford and Lady Pevensey walked in the opposite direction and found a seat in the cool shade of the sunken gardens.

VIII.

Samuel Lewin, Jewish banker and personal friend of the Russian Ambassador, was in high spirits the morning he sat at the Ambassador's desk and listened to the Czar's representative outline the battle of wits being waged between England and Russia for the purchase of the controlling shares of the Suez Canal.

"I shall expect your financial support to up five million pounds sterling, if necessary, Lewin," the Ambassador said. "I may need your cheque at a moment's notice, so be prepared. If you care to syndicate this amount, do so. But waste no precious moments in getting things in readiness."

"Have no fear, Your Excellency," said Lewin. "You shall have the money. It may be advisable to work on the basis of six million pounds sterling, to be on the safe side. Russia will pay—no doubt."

"Russia will pay," the Ambassador said, as he lighted a cigarette.

"I may tell you, Lewin," the Ambassador continued, "that my agents are camping on the trail of Disraeli. He is a rare Jew—but all for England. Everything for the Empire. But please do not minimize his cunning. Frankly, I would rather meet any human being, in diplomatic controversy of whatever nature, than the Prime Minister of England. But I shall fight him inch for inch—to get the canal."

"Russia needs the canal—" Lewin began.

"Russia will get the canal," said the Ambassador, tersely.

As Lewin rose to go, the Ambassador said:

"Be prepared for my messenger. Try to arrange something on the French coast—a bank say, in Calais or Dunkirk away from London."

"My agent in Ostend?" asked Lewin. "Absolutely trustworthy—"

"Excellent! Ostend it is! We will calculate on that."

His Excellency smoked three cigarettes, in profound silence, after Lewin had gone.

IX.

Clarissa stopped at the bench, and Charles, glancing about to see if any guests were nearby found this part of the grounds at the Towers quite deserted.

"Ah—pray be seated, Lady Clarissa."

Clarissa sat down. Charles, too, seated himself. He leaned forward and rested his right elbow on his knee. Clarissa felt a slight inclination to nervousness, but overcame it. As Charles seemed to be in no particular hurry, Clarissa opened the conversation:

"Why do you dislike Mr. Disraeli so much, Charles?"

Deeford looked up suddenly and answered.

"I neither like him nor dislike him. He is nothing to me."

"Oh?—Don't you feel lonely?"

"Lonely—"

You are the only man in the world who neither likes nor dislikes Mr. Disraeli."

"Yes—yes. I know you admire him. But we won't argue about that now. I have had the honor of a conversation with your mother."

"Yes?" queried Clarissa, looking at him slyly.

"And she has given me her gracious permission to address you."

"Was her permission needed?"

"For my present purpose, yes. I am rather a stickler for form, you know."

"I know."

"The fact is, as I told your mother, I consider it my duty to marry—"

Deeford's voice fell away and Clarissa spoke.

"Yes—?"

"I—could say many things that * * * I mean * * * would you * * * will you consider my proposal?"

Clarissa cast a side-long glance at her suitor. Then she bowed her head and her eyes closed. Before her vision rose the Charles she had often thought of—a fine young Englishman, handsome and aristocratic, courteous and athletic, and in his blue eyes hidden fires that spoke of ardent wooing and sweet romance and tender passion—hidden fires that, she had hoped instinctively many times, would spring into flame at her behest, warming her, enveloping her, carrying her off her feet * * *

"Will you consider my proposal?" Charles repeated.

Clarissa frowned. No, she did not love Deeford. She never did love him. Stubbornly she repeated this to herself. Vaguely she knew that if there was a spark of deep affection for him, he had put it out with that cold, measured question * * * "Will you consider my proposal * * *" She was too young to probe deeply into the demands and emotions of love, but old enough to know that a cold phrase like this would never be the key that fitted the lock of her heart.

A sharp pain unhappiness assailed her. She felt that she had lost something. Why was she so disappointed? Why had all the tremors vanished that she had experienced when on previous occasions, Charles and she had walked through the Towers arm in arm, talking of books and jesting in the happy small talk that means so much to young people? Had she not been on her guard a furtive tear would have stolen its way past her closed lids.

"May I call you Clarissa?"

Charles' voice had lost its confident tone. There was a plea back of the words that sounded pleasant to the ears of the young girl.

She nodded assent.

There was a pause.

"I thought you cared for me—"

Clarissa started. She was about to smile, and to look up to him with a glance of encouragement. But then he continued—"and for my ideas."

Clarissa's rosy mouth straightened into a sharp line. His ideas! She knew what these ideas were—puttering around his estate, advocating model homes for his retainers, establishing around himself a high wall that enclosed all the petty details of a gentleman farmer's life, and shut out, with bolted doors, high doors that reached from the earth to the sky, the great outside world.

"Your ideas?" she asked listlessly.

Deeford was grateful for the little remark. It gave him the opportunity to digress on his favorite subject and to leave dangerous ground.

"Dunelm Castle will need careful administration—and the spirit of unrest among the lower classes is not a menace as our loud-mouthed politicians would have us believe, but merely the expression of a desire for better things and cleaner things than they have been getting—and I would like to prove my theory in the small circle within which I am active."

"But why remain in a small circle?" asked Clarissa.

Charles bit his lips.

"I do not think that there is need for striving beyond one's sphere. I do not believe that it is wise or fruitful to reach out. Your own activities at Dunelm Castle—"

"My activities at Dunelm Castle?"

Charles grew confused.

"I mean the activities of the mistress of Dunelm Castle will, I trust, remain within its walls. You do not believe in the new-fangled idea of women mingling in public affairs, do you, Clarissa?"

A swift thought, passing through the girl's mind like a flash of lightening, filled her head for the moment with every word Disraeli had spoken in their recent conversation.

She sighed. Her air castle lay in ruins at her feet. And if the Towers itself had crumbled before her very eyes, she could not have felt sadder.

She rose. It was useless. She had waited for this moment with that vague, undefined, roseate hope that fills every young girl's heart. How different life is, real life, from our dreams.

She heard Charles' voice.

"May I announce our engagement?"

All the pent-up anguish, disappointment and resentment that had gathered in the girl's heart, now broke out of the bonds that are supposed to keep a well-mannered young woman's emotions in complete concealment from all eyes. Her lips opened and something like a sob came from them. Then the storm broke.

REV. S. F. DIXON OF LAKEFIELD WAS HONORED BY BOARD

Quarterly Official Board of the Methodist Church Tenders Rev. Gentleman Vote of Confidence.

LAKEFIELD, May 15.—On May 8th there was held the most largely attended Quarterly Official Board during the pastorate of the Rev. S. F. Dixon, at which it was moved by Mr. S. Harrison, seconded by Mr. J. H. Sherin, and unanimously carried: "That this Quarterly Official Board now assembled greatly regrets that our pastor under present circumstances has decided to move at the end of this year, provided conference is able to find a suitable place for him. Therefore, this board desires to place on record its appreciation of the faithful Christian services of both himself and Mrs. Dixon, carried on under difficult conditions, and of his forceful expositions of gospel truth. And be it resolved, that this board asks Mr. and Mrs. Dixon to accept this appreciation and gratitude for faithful services rendered; and that the Recording Steward be instructed to send a copy of this resolution to the Chairman of the district, and to the press for publication."

Mr. Dixon replied feelingly, showing his appreciation of many kindnesses received from the great majority of the parishioners and indicating some ways by which the church might be strengthened.

THE FARMERS OF DURHAM COUNTY ARE PROGRESSIVE.

Profiting By Advice of Department in Raising Thoroughbred Cattle.

MILLBROOK, May 15.—The Durham County farmers are progressive in their methods and determined to profit from the advice repeatedly given by the Provincial Department of Agriculture re the raising of thoroughbred cattle, is evidenced by the fact that four farmers of Darlington Township, Messrs. John Baker, Thos. Baker, S. E. Werry and H. E. Tink, have recently purchased "Browndale Motion," a young Shorthorn bull, forming a syndicate for the purpose, and buying the animal from Mr. Jas. Douglas of Caledonia for $600. Mr. F. C. Paterson, the District Representative, has expressed himself as being much pleased with the action which these farmers have taken, and urging strongly that other groups should follow their example.

Prefers Ontario.

Mr. Stewart of British Guiana, South America, a Scotchman by birth, has decided upon Ontario as the most promising location for farming, and a few days ago purchased a farm in Clarke Township, Durham County, according to information recently made public. This surely speaks well for the manner in which visitors are impressed with the agricultural possibilities of this part of the country.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will acknowledge wedding gifts on note paper of the conventional size. White is an excellent choice, but pale gray and cream are quite correct.

You will acknowledge gifts as promptly as possible, addressing the note to the wife if the gift is from a married couple. Suggested phraseology would be: "The very beautiful cut glass vase which reached me yeserday, with your own and Mr. Dawson's card attached—"

CLEAN MATTING

Don't wash or scrub the matting with soapy water. It will injure it. Go over it with a broom that has been dampened in hot water and then go over it with a cloth that has been dipped in salt water. Salt freshens the color and prevents it from becoming yellow.

No Disappointments in Appointments

If You Use Long Distance

If you are a Salesman or a Buyer, why gamble valuable time and the cost of railroad fares that the party you wish to see will be in when you call on him?

The high cost of personal interviews is materially reduced and many more calls can be made per day if you make a definite appointment by Long Distance. You won't have to wait, or perhaps make another trip to see him.

Avoiding disappointments by making appointments over Long Distance is one of the most profitable uses Salesmen can make of it. Often it makes expensive trips unnecessary. 'ALMY'S, a leading Montreal Department store, tell us their buyers always call up manufacturers before leaving town to call on them, to make sure their trip will not be in vain.

You can probably use Station-to-Station rates most of the time. They reduce the cost of telephoning, and if you can telephone after 8.30 P.M.—to a man's home, perhaps—the evening rates are only about one-half the cost of day-time messages.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC MANAGER

MONTREAL, December 15, 1921.

Canadian Daily Newspapers Association,
902 Excelsior Life Building,
Toronto, Ontario.

Dear Sirs:

Years ago, the newspaper announcements that were put out by the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, were merely time tables telling when the ships sailed. Of later years, however, large copy has been run in the daily newspapers in those cities that were fairly accessible to points of sailing, telling of the many attractions that were offered in a trip by boat.

Right through the season for the past few years, boat trips have been most popular. 1920 was the finest passenger year the Company ever had. 1921, despite the fact that business was so unsettled, shows but a 7% decrease in passenger traffic over 1920.

Time after time, ships for special cruises, as, for example, those from Montreal to the Saguenay and from Montreal to Newfoundland, have been filled through advertising in the dailies. Next year, as in the past few years, the daily newspapers will be the backbone of this Company's advertising.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours very truly,

Jno F Pierce

Passenger Traffic Manager.

The ranks of those to whom sea, sky, and scenic beauty call in vacation time, change from day to day as seasons come and go. Advertising thus becomes to them news of the day. They search for it in the daily newspaper which commands immediate consideration as a part of daily life.

RECIPES

THERE'S a tang to grapefruit that goes "right to the spot" in the spring of the year. The fruit acts as a tonic to jaded appetites.

Try salt instead of sugar on your breakfast fruit. Add salt to the fruit cocktail you serve at luncheon or dinner Try these rules for grapefruit and see if the family doesn't approve.

Grapefruit Pie.

One grapefruit, boiling water, 1 cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 egg, baked pie shell, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon cold water.

Squeeze juice from grapefruit and use enough boiling water to make two cups of liquid. Put boiling water in a sauce pan, add sugar, cornstarch diluted in cold water and salt. Cook, stirring constantly until clear. Stir in grapefruit juice.

Add yolk of egg unbeaten and remove from the fire. Mix thoroughly and pour into the baked pie shell. Beat white of egg till stiff and dry with cold water. Beat in sugar and pile on pie. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven. Serve cold.

Grapefruit Salad.

Two grapefruit, 1 green pepper, 3 drops onion juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons oil, paprika.

Peel grapefruit, removing all the tough white skin. Divide into sections and remove pulp from connecting tissues. Remove seeds and white fibre from pepper and mince. Arrange sections of grapefruit on hearts of lettuce, sprinkle with minced pepper and pour over dressing of onion juice, salt and oil mixed. Sprinkle with paprika and serve. Any juice that escapes from the fruit while it is being prepared should be saved and mixed with the oil. This salad should be thoroughly chilled before mixing.

Grapefruit Marmalade.

Six small grapefruit, 2 lemons, 3 oranges, water, sugar.

Cut grapefruit in halves and scoop out pulp with a spoon. Free the peels or shells from the fibres and pith and cook in boilin~ water to cover. Change the water three times during the first hour of cooking. Cook until the peels are tender. Drain. Scrape the white part off with a spoon, leaving only the yellow rind.

Cut in shreds. Measure pulp and use same amount of sugar and fruit. Wash and wipe oranges and lemons the night before you want to make the marmalade. Slice very thin into a large crock.

Add 10 cups cold water and let stand over night. Bring slowly to the boiling point and boil half an hour. Measure and add as much sugar as there is fruit. Add to grapefruit pulp shredded rind and sugar and cook the whole about an hour and one-half. The marmalade should set quickly when tried on a cold saucer. Turn into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatims, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

HINTS FOR JUNE BRIDES

By MARIAN HALE.

June and her wedding day. No other day is invested with quite the significance of that day.

Neither does any other day or ceremony yield the multitude of petty problems which must be settled by the bride and her family.

Wedding forms have remained practically the same for years. If there has been any change it is a trend, of late, toward the less formal.

The order of procession is that used from the very beginning: The ushers lead, two and two. The bridesmaids follow and then the maid or matron of honor.

If there are children in the party they should follow the maid of honor and be immediately followed by the bride and her father or the person by whom she is given away.

If the clergyman and bridegroom, with his best man, can approach the altar from another way than that used by the bride the effect will be better. If this is not practical they may walk down the aisle a moment or two ahead of the ushers.

In grouping about the altar during the ceremony the party should be quite evenly balanced.

The white ribbons which form the bridal aisle are dropped when the bride reaches the altar.

For an outdoor wedding the form is quite the same and the attire is that used for an indoor event, though of late the ushers at some of the very smart outdoor weddings have worn white trousers with a dark coat and waistcoat.

An outdoor wedding is always more effective if its background of shrubbery is a natural one. However, a florist can arrange one with quite a natural appearance.

In her wedding gown, selection of material and choice of cut, the bride is quite without limitation. Fabrics range from sheer white organdie to heavy satins. The beloved tulle veil is yet the choice of many fashionable brides. Lace is used much.

In outer clothing, a trim suit, three blouses, an afternoon gown, two morning or general-wear frocks, a dinner dress and a long cloak are quite adequate. There should be at least two hats.

The suit should be of some dark fabric, well tailored and quite plain. Leave the ornate suits to women who have many clothes.

The best line for the summer bride to seek in her suit is that of the snug hipped jacket, loose at the waistline, but snug at the hip. This is an approved line for fall.

Sleeves will be a matter of utmost importance on her afternoon gown. An unusual sleeve, particularly a large one, smacks of what is new and, like the snug hip, will hold over into the fall and winter.

One of the two hats must be purchased with the suit and afternoon gown in mind. The same hat should serve for each.

If the bride allows herself only one dinner gown it preferably should be dark, even black, and this gown should be kept in mind with the purchase of the second hat which should be in the nature of a restaurant hat.

Beauty Without Grit

Without any harm to the teeth

Don't try to whiten teeth with grit that scratches the enamel. That's harmful. Use a soft polishing agent—the Pepsodent agent. Then combat the dingy film twice daily in this new, effective way.

That's what millions of people the world over are doing, largely by dental advice. Look about you and see the beautiful teeth that result.

Clouded by film

Teeth are clouded by a film. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Stains enter it, then the film, if left,—forms the basis of dingy coats. That's why teeth lose luster. Film is also the basis of tartar.

Most tooth troubles are now traced to that film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay..

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Stays on teeth

Under old methods, much of that film remained on teeth. It made teeth cloudy. Night and day it threatened serious damage. That's why so many brushed teeth discolor and decay. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

Now dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists almost the world over are urging their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on five modern requirements. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it for daily application.

Old ways wrong

Pepsodent also aids Nature in two essential ways. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth before they ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids that cause decay.

Every use of Pepsodent thus gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. Old-time tooth pastes had the opposite effect. They reduced mouth alkalinity, reduced the starch digestant with every application. That was due to their soap and chalk.

We urge you to see and feel these effects, then judge how much they mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch these delightful effects for a few days and you will always want them. Cut out the coupon now.

THE RADIO DANCES

DANCING BY RADIO ABOARD THE RUTH ALEXANDER.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 12. — Radio dances have been introduced on excursion boats along the Pacific Coast.

The innovation has been accepted so enthusiastically, say owners of the vessels, that they are planning to organise what they will call "radio excursions" for the summer.

Admiral Line ships were among the first to be equipped with radio receiving stations for the benefit of the passengers. On each ship's deck a radio set with loud speaker attachment is installed. Broadcasting stations along the coast furnish the music for dancing and other entertainment.

All the way from Los Angeles to Seattle, the vessels are in touch with one or more broadcasting stations, so the supply of music is continuous.

PARENTS' DAY AT PARK STREET BAPTIST S. S.

A very interesting session of the Park Street Baptist Sunday School was held yesterday afternoon, when "Parents' Day" was fittingly observed, at which there was a large attendance. An open session was held in the church auditorium, when the following programme was given:

Opening hymn—"Onward Christian Soldiers."
Prayer—Mr. Jas. I. Maybee.

Mr. McCarten's address was very much enjoyed, as was also the selections by the orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Geo. Clarke.

This Sunday School is growing under the able leadership of the superintendent, Mr. Jas. I. Maybee, and the capable staff of teachers and officers.

DR. G. C. PIDGEON AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Congregation Celebrated 89th Anniversary Presbyterianism.

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church held anniversary services yesterday, observing the establishment of the Presbyterian faith in this city 89 years ago. Rev. George C. Pidgeon, of Bloor Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, preached morning and evening, and the music was of a noteworthy order, Frank Oldfield, noted Toronto baritone, singing at both services. Large congregations greeted Dr. Pidgeon.

Taking his text from Romans i., 14 and 15: "I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the Barbarians; both to the wise and to the unwise. So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also." Dr. Pidgeon, at the morning service, expounded the thought that distinctions of race, society and sex are earthly in their nature, and the spiritual ideal can only be attained by nations coming together in the spirit of the Master. Just as Paul preached to Jews, Greeks and Romans, ministers to-day must carry the message of salvation over the world until all people, black or white, be united under the banner of Christianity.

"There is nothing we need to-day more than to see in religion God's love for every human being and His faith in their capacity," said the minister. Pointing out the difficulty of realizing world peace while race consciousness is developing more strongly all the time, Dr. Pidgeon declared that the conception of God's love for all mankind is necessary to sweep away barriers of race and bring about world salvation.

Adventures in Life.

At the evening service Mr. Pidgeon dealt with what he characterized as some of the great adventures in life. Success in life when inspired by good motives is the realization of a great adventure. Various phases in life, together with its termination, are all adventures of their kind. The greatest of them all is achieved when we attain that desirable combination of moral and physical success.

Two solo numbers by Mr. Oldfield and a special selection by an augmented choir, proved an acceptable addition to the evening service.

Brides Clothes for Sweet and 20

Bearing heedfully in mind that youth's a stuff that won't endure, the summer bride chooses her gown for its challenging simplicity—one doesn't need furbelows at 20.

Soft satin, heavy crepe or chiffon, are most used for the new wedding gowns which have little ornament. Drooping side panels give oddity and charm.

Taffeta and organdie are popular for bridesmaids' frocks and their texture shows to advantage in the bouffant, basque styles. Completing the feminine representation is the flower girl—and one can imagine the delight of a 6-year-old at one of the many-ruffled tiny dresses made for little girls.

How to Make Your Own Hats

Hat making is without doubt one of the most confusing phases of domestic art the home worker must face.

The woman with limited means, however, cannot let the difficulty of an art deprive her of the pleasure of being well hatted. And, once one understands the basic work of hat building, the question of making the headwear is simple.

The head size is a matter of major importance to the woman who would make her hat, frame and all Thus first the head size must be taken with a tape measure. Get the circumference of the head at the place where your hat band is most comfortable.

Then make a paper pattern which you can keep for future use. Take a sheet of newspaper, fold it through the center, again through the center, and then, getting the sides even, fold it so that it is wedge-shaped.

Cut this then circularly at a point far enough from the center to allow width for an ordinary hat brim. Then cut the center of the paper out to fit your head size. Use your measurements for getting it in a general way, but fit it to your head by cutting —it naturally will not be round.

When the paper is of quite the right size and shape one must begin to think in terms of wire. There should be a roll of the ordinary covered milliner's wire and a roll of tie wire. The latter is very fine and is used to tie the wires together.

Bend the heavy wires circularly to fit the paper head size, fasten it with wire and clip it from the roll. Then the spokes should be put in.

They should be tied to the wire head size and each one left a little longer than the brim of the hat is to be wide. The outer wire edge of the brim should next be fastened to the spokes.

Decide on the size of this first, fasten it in a circle and then tie it to the spokes clipping off any spoke wires that extend beyond the brim. More circular wires can be put in if the weight of the hat fabric demands them.

Next a bandeau about an inch high should be built, this for the crown to fit down over. It is built just as the brim is but vertically instead of extending out.

The crown, figure 4, is built on a circular wire which fits the head. About 8 wires should be extended over the head in the shade that the crown is to be and tied with tie wire at the centre.

Circular wires are then put on with the same tying method to hold the others in place.

It wasn't the way he walked, the color of his hair or any such peculiarity. In fact it wasn't a peculiarity at all. It was the Clothes He Wore. Their quiet elegance, dignity and distinction commanded admiration.

Many a man strolls along in the crowds ever doomed to go unnoticed because he pays little heed to where he buys, or how much he pays for his clothing.

Each time he falls just a few dollars short of being well dressed. He practices a little false economy that proves expensive in the end. Some day, maybe, he will find that $5 more in a garment will mean longer wear, a better fit and a smarter appearance.

For years The Cressman Clothes Shop has supplied clothing of sound quality to the men of Peterborough, and it has done so at prices as low as possible and yet consistent with quality. It is better prepared to-day than ever to serve and the prices are lower than for many years.

FRANCE STILL OPPOSES REDS

Five Long Weeks at Genoa Conference Without Result.

GENOA, May 15. Canadian Press. —As a result of the meeting of the Economic Conferences sub-commission on Russian affairs Saturday, the situaton became so critical that it seemed doubtful whether the British and the French positions could be reconciled.

M. Barthou, of the French delegation, declared at the neeting that France would never consent to having mixed commissions on which Russians served, give consideration to Russian credits, debits and treatment of foreign property nationalized in Russia.

Prime Minister Lloyd George, in opening the discussion, said that the Russian reply was most provoking and unsatisfactory, characterizing it as typical of Soviet diplomacy which, he said, always introduced such arguments at a time when people were really trying to do business —he thought however that in substance the document showed the Russian delegation wished to come to some arrangement if possible.

Public Opinion.

Everybody Lloyd George remarked, had their dificulties with public opinion at home, and it was not right for other statesmen to criticize the Soviet representatives too severely.

M. Barthou for France, said that five weeks of consideration of the Russian questions at Genoa had been without result and it was unlikely that further consideration of them by the commissions named by the Genoa conference would be useful.

The Russian delegation to the Economic conference to-day issued a communique concerning the recent papal memorandum, saying the questions mentioned in the Pope's document showed an insufficient knowledge of Soviet legislation, as those questions already have been settled with perfect clearness by the decree of January 23 1918, on the separation of church and state.

PARIS, May 13. Canadian Press. —The French delegation will remain at Genoa to take part in the deliberations on the other questions properly before the conference, but will have nothing to do with discussions with the Russians, it is officially stated.

Air Ministry Considers Scheme Reasonable. Six Airships Will Be Used.

COMMERCIAL LINE.

LONDON, (Canadian Press) — May 15.—The revised scheme proposed by Commander Burney for a commercial line of airships to India and Australia on which the treasury last week threw cold water, alleging that it was insufficiently backed financially, encountered happier fortune at the hands of the air ministry which yesterday intimated that the proposals constitute a more notable advance than any yet submitted for the utilization of airships in connection with Imperial communications.

CHAPTER XXXVII—HAS WIFE RIGHT TO A SECRET.

I never supposed I'd ever have any secrets from Jack. But I have!

I've just drifted into the situation. The current of events was strong and too smooth to be noticed.

To conceal anything I have in my mind from my dear husband is unthinkable—but here I am and what am I to do?

Brooding over my plight, I recalled what Mary had said one day: "I tell Andy everything."

To this complacency, Jeanne Alison responded sharply:

"Even when you know your husband has secrets from you? About business, now, Do you suppose your Andy tells you everything?"

I put the question to Jack, just so, and he said that he'd never thought at all about the subject, that my question amused him.

"You girls! Do you waste time discussing that kind of bunk?"

"Why, yes! Don't men?"

"Not that I ever heard!"

"But you men have lots of secrets from us, now, don't you"

"Why—no! Why—yes! Peggins, it's hard for a man to get at what a wife means, sometimes, you sound so deep, like a lecture on ethics, you know."

"It certainly isn't hard to understand that Andy Smith's stenographer knows more about his bank account than his wife does!" I aser ed hotly, rather hurt, I couldn't tel. why.

"What if she does? Doesn't his secretary or bookkeeper or somebody have to bank his checks and verify the figures in his bank book?"

"I admit Mary wouldn't like to do the banking just for the sake of knowing what's in the book, although I do not doubt at all that Andy's secretary likes to think she knows something Mrs. Smith doesn't! So there, Jack Madison!"

"Mary can have the information for the asking! But she gets peeved, you say, because the stenographer is on the job first!" laughed Jack. "There's sex in business for you! You women! Now would Mary care a ding doodle what Andy's stenographer knew—if she were a man?"

"I admit she wouldn't! But it isn't funny and you needn't laugh so! I hope I'll never feel like Mary about it. Why, Jack, I'd never conceal anything from you! Not about us! But about other people! Isn't there a difference?"

"To me, there sure is! What do other people's affairs matter to me, Peggins? When I get home at night I want you and nobody else. The world and his wife never enter my mind, dear, unless you poke 'em in!"

Jack kissed me for emphasis, but even as he kissed me it occurred to me that Mrs. Herrod probably popped into my husband's mind every time he picked up a chessboard!

THE WHOLE WORLD WAITS FOR RUSSIA.

Trade Will Not Flourish While Russians Starve.

Canada has never stopped her ears to appeals for bread. It is true that there has never been a catastrophe so far reaching as the famine which has made desolate the homes of 33,000,000 people in the Volga district of Russia, but there have been many claims upon the purses of generous individuals and there has been no lack of response to appeals of this nature.

It is hard to visualize just what the Russian situation means. Russia is so far away and its people are so little known to most of us that we do not stop to think of the purely Christian attitude which we should assume with reference to their plight. There are many people who are disposed to say, "Who cares what happens in Russia? We are not responsible, and we have many deserving people who need our help." That is selfish. It is un-Canadian. There are 33,000,000 people in Russia who are threatened with extinction because of conditions over which they have no control Are we to let them disappear? The consequences to us would be serious.

Canada is interested in the moral and economic rebuilding of Russia Until Russia gets back into her place in respectable society, world trade will not flourish. We ought to help Russia to get back. If we allowed such a calamity as the wiping out, or even the physical deterioration of 33,000,000 people in a civilized country, we would be delaying the day when the old world will strike its normal gait and begin to do business as of yore.

THE SALE THAT IS WAKING EVERYBODY UP

TO DO WITHOUT MORE POLICE

Proposition Turned Down by Commissioners—Will Purchase $600 Motorcycle.

No action in regard to the appointment of another policeman, as urged by Chief Constable S. Newhall, was taken at a meeting of the Police Commissioners, Saturday afternoon. "If you're going to put him on now's the time to do it," the Chief Constable said.

"I move that we do without the second policeman and the Chief be instructed to get the motorcycle at once," added Magistrate Langley.

"I'd like to see us do without the extra man," declared Mayor Taylor.

Chairman Judge E. C. S. Huycke recommended that the matter of the second constable be laid over for the time being and the Commissioners give their attention to the purchase of the motorcycle. Nothing more was heard about the appointment. Chief Newhall recommended one make selling for $560 guaranteed to travel 100 miles an hour. Six hundred dollars was allowed in the estimates for a motorcycle. Judge Huycke said he thought one could be bought for about $300, but the Chief pointed out that they were an expensive article, and the side car, if purchased, meant an extra expenditure. The one recommended is the same as used by Chief D. Thompson on the Windsor force, and is the ultra-modern in the motorcycle world, boasting of 4 cylinders, electric lights, etc.

Thought It Dangerous.

Mayor Taylor inclined to the view that a motorcycle was dangerous unless properly managed, and Judge Huycke agreed that there was a danger to human life. Chief Newhall pointed out that two of the men, P. C. Young and P. C. Welch, can run one now and he scoffed at the idea that someone might be run down. "We've never had an accident with the car," he said. "I'd like us to make a good investment when we do. I think it's going to be useful in outside patrol work and we should get a good one," said Magistrate Langley.

Successful Experiment.

Recalling a successful experience in regard to expert advice when purchasing the motor car for the force, Judge Huycke considered that it would be advisable to follow the same procedure. Magistrate Langley moved, seconded by Judge Huycke, that the Mayor and Chief Constable be authorized to purchase a motorcyle for the police force, and if advisable they consult with an expert.

New Firearms.

Following up the action taken at previous meetings in regard to buying new firearms and handcuffs for the force the police commission ratified the expenditure of $380 for equipment, authorizing the city treasurer to issue a cheque for the necessary amount. Chief Newhall reported he could make an advantageous purchase if he could make a cash payment, so the commission made the necessary arrangements.

A letter was read from the Council in regard to a request from the Commission that a gasoline tank be installed for the use of the city departments and the police, that the Board of Works has already a tank and there is another one at the Fire Hall. "That's no use to us," said Chief Newhall, He said he couldn't see why they could use the fire hall, but he said the Board of Works "handed it out by the pail." It would cost $300 a year to install a tank and pump and $30 would be saved on the Board of Works and police costs of gasoline, he estimated. "If they don't mind paying the full cost I don't see why we should worry," said the Chief. The letter was received but Julge Huycke, who considered it a good idea, urged the Chief to keep it "in pickle" till next year.

Puffer Promoted.

Gordon Puffer, having completed a year's service on April 1st, was promoted to the second class and his pay raised in accordance from $1100 to $1300 a year.

The Chief Constable reported that the G.T.R. and C.P.R. are complaining of the danger in the city allowing motorists to turn their autos at railway tracks such as Bethune and Charlotte and at the C.P.R. tracks on George. Several near accidents have occurred when the cars stalled and the railways he said were alarmed. If any accidents occurred he felt the city would be liable.

After considerable discussion on the traffic by-laws and the significance under the law that in some cases where the autos turn in a street inter-section, it was decided to have the city solicitor's opinion on the legal aspect and his advice on what amendment the police commission should make.

Mr. Widdifield was also asked to report upon the power of the commission to extend the day rate for taxi service to 1 o'clock midnight instead of eleven at present. The chairman pointed out that the rate after eleven o'clock is nearly double the day rate, and he felt it was high in view of the reduction in other things. Many compalints had been made to him, he said, that the rates were excessive. Up to eleven one passenger is 50 cents and each additional one 25c. After eleven the rate is 75 and 50. The Judge's contention was that the rate was fair enough for late calls, but should not come into effect till midnight.

Accounts Passed.

The following accounts were passed: Merrell and Meredith, $355; Hydro-Electric Power Commission, $3.99; White and Ackford, $101.00; Samuel Newhall, $97.35; Mrs. M. Fowler, $33.10; Peterborough Utilities Commission, 75c.; Auto Tire Repair Co., $50.44; Bell Telephone Co., $20.46 F. C. Weber, $8.25; White Bros. (cartage), $1.95; Wm. E. ASK THAT COUNCIL RETAIN FIRE CHIEF FOR INVESTIGATION where that inefficiency is. I don't know any reason."

A defender of the Council remarked that the Chief had given no reason for discharging two of his men in summary fashion, and that the Council's action therefore was just as fair as his had been with them. Mr. Morden rose to declare that it was impossible to run a fire department efficiently if its head was obliged to answer to a whole Council for his actions. He should be under the supervision of the chairman of the Fire and Light committee and no one else.

The same objector then argued that the Council might take a simllar stand, M. J. Maher countering by declaring that the Council represented the people, and was responsible to them.

Ald. McIntyre informed the enquirer that Chief Grange had asked for permission to interview the Council and was refused.

Mr. Maher: "Is that satisfactory?"

Enquiring Gentleman: "If that is a fact, it is."

Ald. Jones: "I can testify that it is a fact."

Voice: "Give it to him in writing."

Ald. Morrison.

Ald. Morrison took the platform, amid applause, and, remarking that everything had been said on the subject, or printed, voiced his belief that Fire Chief Grange had never enjoyed the measure of authority necessary to efficient management of his department, and the results were evident, "I happen to be one of the Council, sorry to say." (Laughter.) "I was elected by the ratepayers and have tried to do my duty."

Speaking of the fire at the Manse, Ald. Morrison considered this only an excuse for discharging the Chief. The majority of the Council would not listen to any defence the Chief might advance. "If it was a foreigner who had done something not in accordance with the law of the land, he would be tried properly, but that has never been done in this case. I don't think there is a man in the Council capable of judging whether Grange could handle a fire or handle men." The Fire Hall, with its inability to give any direct return in revenue to the taxpayers, was a convenient place for "knockers" to exercise their abilities. Unsolicited commendations on Chief Grange and his work had often been forwarded to the City Council from the very highest authorities in the ranks of fire fighters and underwriters, but the Council had never congratulated the Chief on these reports, "just passing them off in the same way as they did with your petition." The speaker was of the opinion that opponents of the Chief in the Council should be present at this meeting and give their opinion, "if they are earnest in their endeavor to get a better Chief than they have."

Referring to the career of the applicant from Hamilton, George Gimblett, as a driver for 15 years, Ald. Morrison thought the promotion of some 30 or 40 men off the brigade to other positions in that space of time showed a lack of confidence in the qualities of the man whom the Peterborough Council had chosen.

Ald. Hamilton's Stand.

It had been said that Ald. Hamilton's animosity toward Chief Grange had been dictated by spite, which Ald. Hamilton had denied. Mr. Morrison understood that Mr Hamilton, after two fires on his premises, remarked that the Chief was in "no hurry to get to some fires." Ald. Morrison thought that Chief Grange had as much right to notify Ald. Hamilton to clean up his premises, if they required it, as to tell any ordinary citizen of the city, and was perfectly justified in doing so.

Take two—ask that Council

"I would like to see Ald. Crowe and Ald. Stocker here to-night."—(Laughter.)

Re Bell Fire.

W. Lytle enquired of Ald. Morrison if he was chairman of the committee at the time of the fire in the Bell Apartments, "one of the most disastrous small fires in the history of the city." The citizens thought then there was a good deal of mismanagement, but Mr. Lytle understood that when the Chief discharged a couple of men for inefficiency after this fire, a special meeting of the Council was called, and the Chief kept before the aldermen until three o'clock in the morning, explaining his action in discharging the men. "How can you expect efficiency in a department like that?"

Mr. Lytle was of the opinion that Chief Grange was one of the finest fire chiefs in the province of Ontario. His fault lay in the fact that he had been too honest, and square, and good-hearted. When he realized that his position was being jeopardized by these qualities, and resolved to take things in his own hands, the fire department had benefited by a stricter rule.

League of Notions.

Mr. Lytle was of the opinion that the dismissal of the Chief was caused by personal animosity in two of the members of the Council, backed up by the indifferent attitude of other members of the League of Notions" who forgot their duty to the people who had sent them there. "Ald Stocker is one of his strongest opponents, and yet he has no particular reason to offe for his stand. He says "they say so and so." He is running around trying to get anyone here, as long as he gets Chief Grange out, and yet Ald. Stocker has never been in the Fire Hall."

Ask Council to Resign.

A suggestion by the speaker that the citizense ask for the resignation of the Mayor and Council was greeted with loud cheers and laughter.

Two months ago, Mr. Lytle declared, the citizens were urged to vote for the Western Clock by-law, and told that the cost of operations in connection with the city's expenditure of the plant were estimated by the city engineer at $700. Up to date that cost has exceeded $2,000, with the end not in sight. "Where is the money coming fom? It has been a campaign of misrepresentation from first to last."

Ald. Morrison, in answer to Mr. Lytle, remarked that the Chief was up on the carpet following dismissal of some of his men after the Bell fire. "Whether it was three o'clock when we finished, I can't say. There are many times down there when we don't dare look at the clock." As to the estimate of the City Engineer on the Western Clock work, that had been exceeded, without a doubt.

Voice: 'Where are you going to get the money?"

Ald. Morrison: "Well, I suppose it will come from the same source as the rest of it. You know, it was unforseen," he remarked ruminatively, as he resumed his seat amidst laughter.

Tributes to the Chief.

W. Juniper, manager of a vulcanizing concern at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, here interjected a tribute to the efficient work of the Chief at a serious fire in his premises, with a resultant loss of only $15, and A. H. Webb also rose to commend his work and to ask if the man Gimblett from Hamilton was the only one of 34 applicants who would finally accept the position. "Were the other 33 not considered, or was it because the Mayor and the so-called chairman of the Fire and Light committee needed another vacation or wanted to make a trip to the Ambitious city?"

Chief Grange's Remarks.

Fire Chief Grange was invited to the platform and responded amid applause. He announced that he was open for a thorcugh investigation at any minute. So far, he had been refused a hearing by the Council, although he had striven to do his duty.

In connection with the fire at St. Andrew's manse, this occurred on an exceptionally stormy morning, with a gale blowing at the rate of 60 miles an hour. When Rev. Mr. Rollins telephoned, he did not get into connection with the Fire Department, but asked the telephone operator to turn in the message. The minute that the operator was asked to assume that responsibility she became confused. She notified the fire department that the fire was at 439 or 339 Rubidge street. Capt. McDonald proceeded at once to the vicinity of 439 Rubidge street, where he saw no sign of fire. Rev. Mr. Rollins stated that he was on the verandah, but none of the men saw him. Mr. Robt. Dobie, coming out of his garage, knew of no fire and did not think that Number 439 was in that vicinity. The firemen then went to Number 339 Rubdige street, or near there, with no success. Central was then called, who said the fire was at the Manse. After the first platoon left the vicinity, another message was sent in. The other platoon responded within six minutes after the first message was received. Mr. W. H. Hill's declaration that twenty-five minutes elapsed before water was in the building was absurd. Mr. Hill had said that complaints of handling fires would cause insurance rates to be raised, but it should be remembered that Mr. Hill wants to see insurance rates elevated, because it means money out of his pocket if they are lowered.

Re Bell Fire

In connection with the fire at the Bell apartments, the alarm was put in at about 1.30 in the morning, and the fire was then through the roof. When hose was laid, it was found that the hydrants were all frozen up and connections with another set had to be made. The chief would not allow the use of ladders, because the building was unsafe, and he had to consider the welfare of the men who were fighting the fire.

Too Lenient

"I have always been considerate with my men, and considered the conditions of their families. That has been the great mistake in my reign at the Fire Department; I have been too lenient", said the Chief. He was compelled to discharge two men without explanation, but maintained that he was wihin his rights in doing so, knowing what was going on, and how they were creating ill-feeling and discord by petty tale-bearing and running around spreading all sorts of rumours. "They were causing trouble in the department, and the sooner you get rid of men like that the better." (Hear, hear).

Past Record

The Chief, remarking that true fire ighters are born, not made, referred to his years of experience, which had included the most danger ous hazards in the work of the fire fighter. He felt that he had not been fairly dealt with. His dismissal took effect on Monday night, midnight, "and I will be there until twelve o'clock" (Cheers.) Criticism levelled at him, alleging that he wanted a car for his own use, was unwarranted. A car at the fire department, was needed for many pur poses, such as conveying the pulmotor, assisting in accidents by drowning and to persons overcome by gas, or to take the place of an ambulance in cases where speed was necessary. "If my successor comes, I would like to see you put that car in there. The Council says that the department is not efficient. Whose fault is it It is the Council's fault Appliances badly needed have never been supplied."

Referring to the pronouncement by the new chief that one of the pieces of apparatus is of no use, Chief Grange remarked that it was manufactured by one of the best firms in existence. ("That is not the kind he drives"). But the Chief did not believe in knocking anyone. ("You can knock a scab, all right.")

A short gentleman at the rear here rose to defend the construction of the Bell building, from which he had "swung on a scaffold" many ai time, and became rather hot over the declration from the front; "why you could swing from a lath, man".

Mr. F. Tuggey enquired how long it would take a new Chief to get the run of the city, and become properly acquainted with the location of the boxes, to which Chief Grange replied "probably in the neighborhod of two or three years. Former Chief Howard after some years, had often been at sea in responding to an alarm". That constituted one of the serious aspects in bringing in an outsider. "Another thing is, that there are men in this department equal to the position I held. Those are the men who should be promoted".

Munden and Pedue

Messrs. E. E. Munden and J. J. Perdue hastening to don the cap as being the two men whom the Chief was compelled to dismiss for tale-bearing, were both heard from, both protesting that they had never at any time carried tales to anyone about the Chief, and affirming that their feelings for him had always been of the highest order. Both demanded a hearing, with reiterated requests for "British fair play", and were told to "go ahead". Munden asserted, "on the Bible", that the man who wanted the Chief's job, and had declared himself to the men in the washroom, was the Assistant Chief. ("That is the truth.") "But the Chief would never thrash things out. I had to suffer for what other men did. The Johnstons did the mis chief and are doing it to-day. But the Chief can't see it."

Mr. Chas. Lloyd rose to an animated defence of the Chief, which brought applause from the meeting. He was surprised that other members of the Council were not courageous enough to be present to state their case and considered that their reception of the two largely-signed petitions sponsored by Messrs. G. A. Gillespie and R. C. Braund was peculiar to say the least.

Resolution Carried

The chairman, referring to the proposed resolution, was of the opinion that to substitute the word "demand" for request in its wording would have no effect. ("Well, we could vote a want of confidence in this aggregation that we call a Council".. Put to the meeting, the resolution, as it stood, was unanimously carried, the entire assemblage rising in standing vote.

A committee, composed of B. B. Morden (convenor); Messrs. Copping, Webb, Lytle, Hancock, and Juniper, with power to add to their numbers, was then appointed to present the resolution to the City Council.

Has Double Life—in Music

BETTY BOUTELLE.

Writing popular music is proving very profitable to Betty Boutelle, and composing classical numbers is giving great artistic satisfaction to Elizabeth Thorn Boutelle.

And since they happen to be the same person the combination of results is a happy one.

A year or so ago Miss Boutelle came to New York from Minneapolis with a chaperone to attend a fashionable boarding school.

To-day she has abandoned school, disposed of the chaperone and has a studio of her own where she supports herself.

Her most recent success, "Wind in the Trees," is one of the most popular fox trots played on Broadway and her classical numbers have found their places on several concert programs.

"I keep my popular and classical compositions entirely separated in my mind and in my personality," she explained. "That's why I use different names. I hope a few best sellers may make it possible for me to devote most of my time to serious work."

Voice of the People

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—I think it would be fair to acknowledge through the paper that Fire Chief Grange gave up his position and went overscas in the late war and had an only son who died in defence of his country.

I merely mention this to show that Fire Chief Grange and his family have been patriotic ready and willing to serve the public when called upon to do so. Fire Chief Grange had just as many family ties as a great many of those who remained at home.

Yours very truly,
M. ROBINSON,

The Girl at the Peak of the Lenine-Trotzky Triangle

Nikolai Lenine, Soviet Despot and Willing Slave.

Infatuated by the Fighting Beauty Who Led the Battalion of Death, Russia's Despots Invest This Young Adventuress With More Power Than Rasputin Ever Dared to Assume

Olga Gorakoff, the Russian "Bunty," Pulls the Strings When Lenine Dances

LEON TROTZKY crouched in his office in the Kremlin in historic Moscow. He was deeply absorbed in his work. Outside the door stood roughshod military sentries, their vacant expressions denoting the slight interest they took in their duties. Trotzky stirred uneasily. A frown crossed his face. Suddenly he looked up—amazement, even horror written on his features.

"Olga!" he exclaimed, "you? I thought you were a ghost! How did you get in here?"

Facing him stood a pretty, athletic girl of 25, plainly dressed, yet distinguished looking. In her hand she held a revolver. She laid the weapon on Trotzky's desk, near his right hand. Trotzky drew back—he was not afraid—just uncomfortable, for ho can fathom the intentions of a woman—and a Russian woman especially?

"Comrade," said the girl slowly, each word biting into the puzzled brain of the Soviet leader, "I see through your schemes as easily as I entered your office, despite the soldier guard. Here is my present to you—that, or good behavior."

She turned, opened the door and left the astonished Trotzky sitting silent—staring after the wraith-woman.

Before his mental vision there came a picture of himself, the center of a group of men plotting against that other Soviet dictator, Nikolai Lenine. And into the group there crept the girl—Olga Gorokoff, the beloved of Lenine and perhaps loving him.

Yes, he had plotted against Lenine; that was true. But how did Lenine get wind of it? How, the girl? And what did she mean by the weapon—the implied threat?

Outside Trotzky's door stood Olga Gorokoff, looking at her watch. At the end of five minutes she left the Kremlin and drove to a small house far away from the stress and strife of governmental activities. The door opened as she approached. Within stood Lenine, dictator of the Russias, in whose hands lies the power of life or death for millions of human beings. When he saw the girl his eyes smiled. He opened his arms and crushed her to him.

"Beloved Olga!" he cried. "Why do you risk your valuable life for me?"

"You?" half sneered the girl. "I work for Russia first!"

"Then you do not love me?" asked Lenine dolefully.

"I think I do, you foolish child; but my country first—and even you must rank second to that."

Then she related the incident with Trotzky.

"He was too weak to kill himself—therefore, he is too weak to kill you," she said.

Olga Gorokoff is to-day the actual "boss" of Soviet Rusia. She is neither a female Rasputin nor a Catherine nor a Joan of Arc. She is a bit of each, yet more than all put together. For she rules with the spirit of Joan, the fanaticism of Rasputin and the cold-blooded ferocity of Catherine. Yet, with all that, she is essentially a woman, feminine, pretty and—a woman who loves and loves to be loved.

"She Laid the Weapon on Trotzky's Desk, Near His Right Hand."

She is a fanatic communist. Once launched on her favorite topic and she appears to lose control of herself. Her eyes flash, her voice is choked with emotion—she flails the air with sweeping gestures to emphasize her words and phrases.

And when she is not talking communism she rarely talks—which is amazing in a woman, as is fairly well known to most men. She talks only to Lenine, whom she adores, and who, in turn, worships her. Between them they rule Russia, but Olga is the more powerful personality, for she rules not only Russia but Lenine as well. She is his mentor, his controlling spirit—his powerful predominating other self.

Olga was born in Central Russia, the granary of the vast land of the former Czars. Her people were rich in land, yet poor in actual cash. From the first she felt the strength of autocracy—of oppression. In her teens she fought for free speech, for free thought, for freedom. Several times she felt the gloom of prison cells. Once, too, the sting of the lash fell upon her bared back.

And she vowed vengeance—terrible revenge upon the Central Power which held her a slave. But worse was in store for her. One of the perennial revolts with which Russian history is littered broke out. Towns were burned, hundreds were shot down by the Czar's soldiers. Olga and her parents were driven on to the steppes in the middle of Winter—into the cold and snow, without clothing enough, without shelter from the biting winds, without food. Rugged though they were, exposure proved too much, and her parents died miserably—dropping by the frozen wayside, victims of famine and cold.

And Olga never forgot!

A human wreck, she staggered into Moscow just as the war was turning against her beloved land. Hindenburg's Prussians had thrown the Russian hordes into the marshes at the battle of the Mazurian Lakes, in East Prussia. Russia had been betrayed by her then War Minister. The call to arms rang throughout the dominions of the White Czar. Olga was the first to respond. She joined the famous Battalion of Death, whose members—all women—vowed never to return to their homes until the last invader had been driven from Russian soil.

The Battalion of Death fought bravely. Gradually Olga rose from the ranks until she was named colonel in command. And between battles, when the roar of guns was lulled, Olga preached communism. Autocracy was being undermined at Petrograd the while, and suddenly Lenine flashed across the political horizon.

Olga marched her battalion to the then capital and presented herself to Lenine.

"Two thousand women heroes are at your service to defend you," she said. Lenine looked at the slender girl in amazement. He had heard of her daring exploits and had pictured her as a virago, a cross between a cossack and a cave-woman. She was pretty, had charming manners and eyes—such eyes!

So Lenine, like lesser mortals, capitulated to feminine beauty.

And Olga, being intensely human, fell, in a measure, in love with the Soviet despot.

The love affair soon became the talk of Moscow, and it was freely predicted that it would result in Lenine's downfall. But the prophets were mistaken, for Olga ruled wisely and well. She not only suggested many important things, she dictated, she planned, ordered—she was "the whole works." Only one thing she would not consider—she declined pointblank to marry Lenine.

"I love you devotedly—I have proven that," she said, "but I must continue maritally free to work for communism. I cannot be hampered by household affairs and by the possibility of bearing children. I am at your service so long as you serve Russia and communism. I love you, yes—but—be true to yourself and to Russia.

Colonel Olga at Her French "75," on Guard Near Lenine's Moscow Hearquarters.

Artillery of the "Battalion of Death", Commanded by Colonel Olga

They have not been married, but all Soviet Russia knows of their love. She is the only human being who knows how to manage the recalcitrant Lenine. She is the only one who has gained her way against his wishes and desires. And, generally she has been in the right in her intuitive deductions, as even Lenine has acknowledged.

All the day long and far into the night Olga Gorokoff works with Lenine. She alone has constant entree to the Soviet dictator. She alone knows his secrets, his intentions. He dictates to Russia, but she dictates to Russia's dictator!

Time and again she has proven her amazing ability to deal with men. Not that she relies upon her feminine charms—her unusual beauty. She is as cold as ice when dealing with men who oppose Lenine or her. Time and again she has gone to barracks where the officers had found Red troops weakening. She has faced the would-be revolters and with fervid words and thrilling phrases has convinced them that Russia's future was in their hands—that the welfare of the fatherland was within their keeping.

And as she has controlled the common soldiers, so has she controlled their dictator. Time and again she has stilled a semi-hysterical outburst on the part of Lenine. Waving his arms wildly, uttering almost incoherent sentences, Lenine has stopped short—has resumed his sane poise, when a word came from his beloved Olga. Inflamed by the heat of the moment, he has turned with loving smile to the young girl who is in reality his better self.

He is insanely jealous of her. It is known that four young officers went to their deaths because they looked lovingly upon Olga's rare beauty. The saddest case was that of Feodor Petroff, lieutenant in the Forty-third Red regiment. He was young, of good family and loyal to Lenine's cause. He served as liaison officer and in that way became acquainted with Olga.

He worshiped her at a respectful distance, never hoping that his love would or could be returned. He was at the beck and call of the girl, who gave him her friendship in a frank and honest way. She made use of him at all hours of the day or night—he was her willing and happy slave.

One night she sent for him—he was to take a message to Petrograd. He came and waited. The girl handed him a portfolio with the official papers he was to carry with him. She walked to the door with him and shook hands. Overcome by emotion, he stooped and kissed her hand.

At that moment the door was flung open and Lenine entered. A glance—a furious growl—a pistol shot and the youth lay dead!

Olga Gorokoff stood transfixed. Then she turned and walked away—a few feet and she sank to the floor, sobbing hysterically.

For more than a month she refused to speak to Lenine. Then peace came to the twain again and the old relations were resumed.

And now Soviet Rusia is asking: How long will Olga's mysterious, uncanny power last? Will she stick to Lenine? Will she use her power should he weaken—will she sacrifice the man she loves for the land she loves even better?

Come what may, to-day she sways 170,000,000 beings—she, a girl of 25, beautiful, feminine and—in love!

Brooklyn 6—Cincinnati 5.

CINCINNATI, May 15.—(Canadian Press)—High's home run, bounding into the right field bleachers in the seventh inning, proved the chief factor in winning today's game for Brooklyn over Cincinnati 6 to 5. Cincinnati outbatted Brooklyn more than 2 to 1, but had eleven men left on bases. The score.

CENTRAL LEAGUE EXECUTIVE WILL HOLD A MEETING

Secretary J. C. Nott Has Called a Meeting to Be Held in Port Hope.

INVESTIGATION.

Secretary J. C. Nott has called a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Central Ontario League to be held here on Tuesday morning next, at 11 o'clock. If the meeting is called to consider the complaint of Toronto teams to the Amateur Association about Port Hope trespassing on Toronto territory then the session sould be short. The country towns like Port Hope have provided the material for Toronto's baseball and hockey teams for years but just as soon as some "T" ronto players decides to move away from the Queen city the Amateur Association orders an investigation Why not a little more investigation when the imports arrive in Toronto. It is safe to say that there is not a tea of home brews in either hockey or baseball throughout the whole city of Toronto. Further does the Amateur Association represent the Province of Ontario or the city of Toronto. Oshawa and Cobourg we are told not only made offers to Kingston players but were successful in securing their services. Why not an investigation there. Let the Amateur Association understand that Port Hope has no Toronto players on her line up neither do they expect any. If Secretary Nott has called this meeting to consider such a trivial matter his action should not be endorsed by the Executive body.

SPECIAL MEETING HASTINGS ATHLETIC ASSN. TO-NIGHT.

Will Decide Whether to Put Junior Lacrosse Team in D. A. L. A. or Not.

HASTINGS, MAY 15.—The Hastings A. A. are holding a special meeting Monday evening, May 15th, to decide if the Association will put a junior lacrosse team in the O.A. L.A.

The opening game of the Intercounty Baseball League will take place on May 24th, when Warkworth and Hastings meet.

Warkworth have secured the services of some good fast material, and with Pat Corkery on the mound for the visitors, should prove a good fast game.

MR. RAMSAY ACCEPTS.

"Rev. D. C. Ramsay of Belleville has written to the Central League Secretary accepting his appointment as base umpire. Mr. Ramsay is taking every precaution in regard to his safety, as he remarks in his letter: "Yours of the 2nd instant to hand. I shall be glad to accept appointment of base umpire in view of the rule as it now stands. Please note that this is for base umpire. I know several other forms of suicide which would better suit my advanced years than umpiring behind the bat."

CENTRAL RACE BRINGS LINDSAY HERE SATURDAY

Opening Game at Riverside Park Will Be Featured By Appropriate Ceremonies.

A HECTIC CAMPAIGN.

The Central Ontario League season opens on Saturday, when Tony Bakogeorge's Lindsay Graybirds, reinforced, it is reported, by several perform rs new to the Central League loop, will do battle with the Petes, who are once more under the pilotage of Jake Solomon.

It is the first time in the history of the league that the Petes have opened the season on their own ball-yard, and the local management is making arrangements for an opening appropriate to the occasion. There will be some 'fuss and feathers," in which the Mayor and other dignitaries will be invited to take part, and the 1922 campaign will be launched with proper eclat.

It promises to be the most hectic season the Central pennant race has seen. Not only are there two new teams, but most of the clubs will trot out new material, and every town in the circuit expects to be in the running all the way. The intense rivalry and the rebuilding of several of the clubs have aroused the interest of fandom, and if the weather man is kind, there will be rare "doings" round the Central territory on Saturday.

Manager Solomon has not yet given much of a line on the manner in which his Petes will be lined up on Saturday, but he declares that he will have a team that will be out there fighting all the way. The flooding of Riverside Park and the backward weather until last week have interfered to some extent with the spring training of the Petes, but they got four useful practices under their belts last week, and they will work out on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of this week at Riverside Park and will likely have a batting practice at the Exhibition Grounds on Thursday, so that they should be in good shape when the barrier is lifted on Saturday.

The line-up is not likely to be definitely known until Friday, for some of last year's players have not yet decided whether they will play Central League ball or be satisfied to drop back into the slower company of the City League. They will have to make their minds up on this point without further delay, as the Petes' certificates will have to be registered at once.

A pleasing feature of the last couple of practices has been the way Roy Cherrett has been stepping around at short-stop. The accident he sustained last summer, when he broke his leg sliding into the plate, has not slowed him up in the least and he should be at the top of his form this season. Frankie Collins is also working fast in practice and stinging the ball hard, and anybody who crowds this peppery youngster off the line-up will have to step faster than Morvich did on Saturday. The Petes are fortunate, too, this year in having the services of "Shiner" Johnston, who played ball in Peterborough a number of years ago, and who for several seasons past has been with the Classics of the Toronto Riverdale League. Johnston has been working out at first base, and he is a handy man in both infield and outfield, while his knowledge of baseball will be an asset.

As to the pitching staff, there are Kern and McElroy of last year's squad; Ecobinchon, the left-hander who, although a Peterborough youngster, pitched for Cobourg last season; Dave White, a Lakefield boy, who also pitches from the port side, and several other prospects who cannot be judged so early in the season, as none of the twirlers have cut loose with much stuff yet.

Behind the bat the Petes are well fortified with Swanston on the job and Soden and Ross available, if the latter does not drop back into the City League loop. In addition, Collins has developed into a promising backstop, so there is nothing to worry about in the catching department.

QUAKERS WIN IN LAKEFIELD GAME

Peterboro Footballers Hold Large End of 2 to 1 Score on Saturday.

DISPUTED SCORE.

The Quaker Oats football team journeyed to Lakefield Saturday and after a stiff game were returned winners with a score of 2-1. The second counter for the Quakers was disputed by the Lakefield players. The ball in this case hit the referee and landed in front of the one of the Quakers' players, the later promptly net' Aitken made a gallant effort to stop it but was unsuccessful.

The Quaker's centre half played a brilliant game throughout, while Griffin in goal saved a shot at one period that looked like a certain score for Lakefield. The players were:

Lakefield—Aitken, Crowe, Wasson, Simpson, White, Shearer, Summers, Dever, Ridpath, Bell, Foude.

Quaker Oats—Griffin, Young, R. Willshaw, Dewdney, Clarke, Foster, Russell, Honour, J. Wollshaw, Croft, Suffern.

OWLS DEFEATED BY C.G.E. TEAM

C.G.E., in Spite of Handicap of Injured Players, Has Top Half of 2 to 0 Score.

AT THE OVAL.

A fair sized crowd watched the Owls and the C.G.E. footall teams play their first league game at the Owls and the C.G.E. football teams winning 2-0.

Owing to injuries to players the C.G.E. were forced to make several changes in their team, notably Parkins who was playing back and Gatfield who went in on the outside right position after many years absence from the game. Henry Turner also played his first game of the season.

Bartley scored the first goal of the match after almost an hours play with a shot from near the touch line and Sharman scored his team's second counter just on time. Previous to this the C.G.E. had the all in the net but on consultation with the linesmen, Referee McKinley disallowed the score. The defences on either side were to the front with the C.G.E. having enough on the exchange to warrant the score. The teams:

Owls—Burrows, Hardie, Ralston, Frost, Hosker, Burgess, Hannah Hutton, "Wag" Holston and Ted Holston.

C.G.E.—Griffin, Parkins, Peel, Williams, McMillan, Hurrle, Gatfield, Mander, Dyer, Sharman and Bartley.

MORVICH WINS KENTUCKY DERBY BY TWO LENGTHS

Block's Wonder - Colt Easily Beats Bet Mosie and John Finn in Turf Classics at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15. — Morvich, wondrous son of Runnymede and Hymir, Prince Regent last season of the tribe of two-year-olds, assumed on Saturday afternoon before a huge gathering at Churchill Downs the trappings of king of the three-year-olds.

With a display of speed and sustained prowess that brought 45,000 persons to their feet in a vast chorus of plaudits and salutation to a super-horse, Benjamin Block's noble youngster raced home in the Kentucky Derby in the van of a field of ten superb thoroughbreds.

The task confronting Morvich in Saturday afternoon's test was performed with such apparent ease as to seem only a breather. Breaking in front, Morvich stayed there throughout the race, never at any stage being called upon by his rider, Johnson, for a display of his highest speed. He breezed across the finish line two lengths ahead of E. R. Bradley's bet, Mosie, which barely headed G. F. Baker's John Finn out of the place.

The winner's time was 2.04 3-5, one second and a fifth slower than the record for the fixture set by Old Rosebud in 1914. Of course, there will be later claimants and pretenders to the crown which Morvich donned on Saturday.

There will be challengers, perhaps several of them, for the season is in its infancy, and the owners of leading three-year-olds which did not carry colours in to-day's encounter will wish to cast a lariat toward the throne.

In the opinion of the massed thousands at Churchill Downs, all of whom became ardent partisans of Morvich as the bay colt flashed past the judges, such efforts will be futile and the crack three-year-old of 1922 is already found.

WON LADIES GOLF.

VANCOUVER, May 15.—(Canadian Press)—Mrs. S. S. Sweeney of the Jericho Country Club, Saturday won the British Columbia Ladies Golf Championship for the sixth time defeating Mrs. Patterson of Oak Bay, Victoria in the semi-finals for the Flumerfelt Cup by seven up and five to play.

BELLEVILLE TO SECURE COACH

Paid Director of Athletics Wanted Particularly For Baseball and Hockey.

A COMMITTEE.

Belleville athletics should be directed by an athletic director or coach, particularly in baseball and hockey.

That is the feeling of the Belleville Amateur Athletic Association, and steps have been taken to bring about the appointment of a coach. Hitherto the direction of the baseball and hockey teams has not been in the hands of a paid director who would have absolute authority governing the team.

Recently, as a result of a meeting of the association at the Chamber of Commerce, a committee, composed of the President, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Ronald S. Lewis, Mont. Davis, Charles J. Symons, Norman Kerr, George Graham and Stewart Robertson, met to take up the question of a canvas to see if it was possible to raise the funds necessary for the employment of a coach. This committee, it is thought, will meet with a generous response at the hands of the supporters of athletics.

Football

A meeting of the referees of the P.D.F.A. will be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and matters of importance will be discussed.

Players and executives of the Comrades are expected to turn out for a practice this evening at 6 o'clock. The entire executive has been asked to be present as important business will be transacted.

Enquiries regarding affiliation with the P.D.F.A. have been received by the secretary from Omemee and Cannington.

There will be a meeting of the P.D.F.A. tonight at 8 o'clock and all club representatives have been requested to attend.

JUVENILE LEAGUE STARTS OFF WITH DOUBLE HEADER

Lakefield and Maple Leafs Are Victorious in Contests With H. N. S. and Sacred Heart.

A Juvenile double-header at Riverside Park, Saturday afternoon, marked the opening of the local baseball season. The four teams taking part put up exceptionally good games, especially so for early season play.

In the first game the Lakeviews defeated the Holy Name Society team 6 to 1, while in the second set to the Maple Leafs trimmed the Sacred Heart aggregation to the tune of 12 to 2.

The Lakeviews, appearing in their brand new uniforms, lent a touch of big league color to the games. Whitehouse, who did the pitching for this aggregation, held his opponents well in hand and only allowed five hits. He was well backed by his team-mates, who gave him excellent support in the tight places. He fanned four and walked none. Miller did the catching for the Lakeviews, and in addition to good work as a back-stop, showed up well at the bat, coming across with three hits in four times up. One of his hits went for a two-bagger and scored LeBarr, who had stolen second. L. LeBarr also showed up well, scoring three of the six runs.

Sheehy was the slab artiste for the Holy Name Society and did fine work, fanning six and walking only one. He allowed only nine hits, and the fact that his opponents were able to bunch most of them in the fifth frame resulted in three of the runs. He was well supported by his team-mates.

The players were:

The score:	R.	H.	E.
H.N.S.	0000100—1	5	1
Lakeviews	102030x—6	9	1

Heavy hitting on the part of the Maple Leafs, coupled with some costly errors on the part of the Sacred Heart team, resulted in a decisive victory for the former. Bradley did the pitching for the winners and his work was in the A-1 class. He fanned eight of the batters who faced him and did not walk a single man. His team also gave him excellent support, only three scattered errors being noted. He made two hits and scored two runs.

Thornbeck, at short-stop for the Maple Leafs, also did good work, coming across with two hits and three runs. Gordie Pogue did very good work behind the bat, and the remainder of the team showed up well.

The Sacred Heart team put up a good battle, and a rally in the third inning made things look interesting for a while. Four hits in this frame resulted in two runs, but the Maple Leafs then tightened up and allowed no more runs for the remainder of the game. McDonough, who did the pitching for the losers, showed a little wildness at times, but on the whole did very good work.

The players were:

Maple Leafs—Bradley, pitcher; Pogue, catcher; Frank, first base; Hunter, second base; McCall, third base; Thornbeck, short-stop; Bannon, right field; Hall, centre field; McGill, left field.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Sacred Heart	0020000—	2	8 6
Maple Leafs	034113x—12	11	3

These two games, in addition to opening the local baseball season, also mark the opening of the play for the W. B. Warren Juvenile Cup. This cup, which was won by the Bankers last year, was donated by Mr. Warren for the City Juvenile champions, and, in addition, a set of individual medals for the winners has been donated by the Spaulding Company.

All players in this league are under eighteen years of age, and the games will be limited to seven innings each.

HOME RUN BAKER SAVES THE YANKS IN TIGHT PINCHES

Was Branded as a "Has Been" But Staged a Wonderful Come Back.

GOING STRONG.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Some time back, a week or so, they took him out for a pinch hitter—the meanest thing in baseball.

Farther back, in the early spring, they said he was a wreck, the ruin of a once great, the guy that was hangin' on a rep. Now they call Frank Baker, the farmer of Trappee, Maryland, and the former home-run king, a rescuer sent from above to keep the New York Yanks from falling away from grace.

Pious Frank, who once in a great crisis said "gosh ding it" to an umpire, is by far the main spring of the works which is keeping a faltering club of former champions in a pennant race.

For weeks it has been Baker who did the hit in a pinch, it has been Baker who started the double play when the sacks were filling and the pitcher was wobbling. And, sweetest of all to the old star of the Athletics, it has been Baker who has been passed by the enemy in most of the pinches.

Playing the Athletics, about two weeks ago, Miller Huggins, the under-slug manager of the Yanks, jerked Baker away from the plate and sent in a rookie to bat for him.

That stunt of publicly branding him as a "has been" so incensed the "old man" that he decided to get himself an average. He is batting well, and fielding around third like he used to in the days before '14.

"Cap" Huston, part owner of the Yankees, said recently that Baker won the pennant for the Yanks last year. He didn't play regularly after the hot weather set in, when the old bones began to get soft, but he may have done valuable work on the bench where a lot of wise brains are needed.

Baker may be an "old ruin," he may have spavin legs, flat feet and short wind. He may need a cane and all that, but he still has his eye, and the way he's going this year he's a good enough third baseman for any old ball club.

TALES OF A WAYSIDE TEE

By GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1922, New York Tribune, Inc.)

Since May with its softer winds, its better manicured fairways and its smoother greens is the big starting month of golf, something like a million embattled Sons of the Divot, representing over thirty army divisions, are wondering what uncanny incidents are now waiting for them along the line of march.

Golf has greater possibility for the quaint, queer and uncanny than any other sport, since it is more of a battle with nature than any other pastime known to man.

Certainly no other sport carries with it such a cast of trees, brooks, ponds, ravines, hills, valleys, rivers, lakes, forests, underbrush, winds, swamps and what not that must be taken into account at one time or another in the whirligig contest with Par or Bogey.

Out-of-the-Way Stuff.

The young season has already opened with its share of peculiar twists and turns.

There was Tolley playing a 427-yard hole with a drive and three putts, with the course fairly soft from recent rains.

There were Hagen and Kirkwood playing two left-handed, turn-over shots from the Pinehurst woods calling for carries over stately pines 140 yards away to greens much further on.

There is Sandy Herd's sixteenth hole in one shot.

But it doesn't take the stars to figure in this section of the game. The rawest duffer never knows at just what moment he will fall heir to some miraculous stroke that would make Vardon's hair curl. Recently a well-known instructor told of one pupil who first hit under the ball, and as it popped a few feet into the air he caught it again with the finish of the same club, driving it eighty yards, directly over his shoulder, a trick that Kirwood might practice ten years without success.

A Spiked Gun.

"One of the queerest things that I ever saw happen on a golf course," remarked Tommy Armour, "happened to Bobby Andrews. He should have won the competition by at least ten strokes, but on playing one of the final holes a needle became imbedded in the ball, sticking in over an inch.

"He saw the ball flying queerly, and when he began to putt it, with over half the needle sticking out, the ball, of course, flopped all over the green and he took fourteen for the one hole. If you think your putting couldn't be worse, some day drive a needle into the ball and give it a try."

A few days ago we were playing with the Rt. Hon. C. Briggs at Wykagyl. From a certain tee he struck off his drive, which hit a solitary branch out in front, the ball bounding ten yards back of the tee in a collection of rocks.

Deciding the ball was unplayable, he teed another and the same result followed. His third drive struck the same branch, less than four inches in diameter, and bounded to the same place—a feat that Vardon, Kirkwood, Duncan or Barnes with all their accuracy could never have duplicated if they had been shooting for that lone limb. After the third rush we advised Mr. Briggs to punt on the fourth down, as he still had ten yards to go back to the tee, but he elected to try a forward pass with an iron, and this time made the grade by topping the iron shot to be sure and escape that haunting branch.

The Longest Hitter.

The consensus of opinion among those who have seen all the long hitters at work is that Dauge, the Frenchman is many yards ahead of the entire pack.

Henry Topping, J. S. Worthington and Tommy Armour all believe he is or was twenty yards longer from the tee than any golfer in the world's history. Both Messrs. Topping and Armour testify that he carried one green at La Boulie of 336 yards, slightly uphill. "He could carry over the first green at Garden City," remarked Tommy Armour, "and drive the edge of the first green at the Engineers—over 400 yards. I saw him once playing against Ted Ray where he was frequently forty or fifty yards in front, and Ted doesn't exactly miss the ball. Dauge is one of the strongest men physically I have ever seen, and combines with this a wonderful knack of timing. After his drive is over the rest of his game has been only ordinary. But among the long hitters he should be first by a good many yards."

Among the Bizarre.

Quaint, bizarre turns of the game assail duffer and star alike. Bobby Jones was once forced to play the ball from an old shoe, resting in a wheelbarrow. Brice Evans once played a milk can up a sloping green eight times, as the ball happened to be in the can.

Francis Ouimet tells of the golfer who holed a full brassie shot, looked for the ball five minutes and then gave up the hole.

Something out of the usual may develop in any 18-hole match, for when one is batting a small ball around 100 acres with eight or nine varieties of clubs there is no set limit to what may follow. And in some cases one may have to take six different slants at the rules before he can finally unravel the snarl and find just where he belongs.

Diamond Dust

Remember the Central League opens next Saturday and for the first time in the history of the League Peterboro has had an opening game at home.

* * *

We are wondering if there will be any familiar names on the Leaside certificates when they are fyled.

* * *

Speaking of Leaside reminds us that Toronto is now leading the International League.

* * *

The juvenile games Saturday afternoon were certainly worth watching and the boys deserve the support of every fan in the city. It won't be many years before some of these same boys will be wearing a Peterboro uniform in the Central League.

* * *

Bowmanville Statesman says very plainly: Secretary Patterson has about all the players he requires, and has discontinued meeting the trains.

* * *

Peterboro is laying low and not saying much. Neither is Port Hope, but the chances are that both clubs will spring a few dark horses when the 20th of May swings around. Leave it to Jake to pull something.

—Toronto Star.

Ken Russel, formerly of Montreal, has signed with the Classics, for the coming season.

* * *

Bradley's pitching Saturday was the kind that makes the opposing batters feel uneasy.

* * *

Jack Daynard and Leith Bartley will do slab work for the Raybestos aggregation this season.

HENLY REGATTA

ST. CATHARINES, May 15. — (Canadian Press) — The Royal Canadian Henley Regatta has been secured for St. Catharines for six years and Port Dalhousie for six, as the result of an agreemnt reached between Captain Joe Thompson and Messrs. Mulqueen and Murphy of the C.A.A.O. Toronto.

DEFEAT FOR CHAMPS

BERKELEY, Cal., May 15.—(Canadian Press)—William Johnston and Clarence J. (Peck) Griffin, former national doubles champion, Saturday defeated William T. Tilden, II., and Vincent Richards, national doubles champions, 6-4, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, in the annual tournament of the California Lawn Tennis Association.

The championship of the Pacific Coast was not involved in the match.

WINNING TALLY WAS FORCED IN.

MONTREAL, May 15.—(Canadian Press).—With the score tied at two-all in the last half of the ninth inning, bases full and two out, Hughie MacKinnon gave Eddie Singher a free passage to first and forced in the winning run, Montreal taking its second straight victory from Ottawa by 3 to 2 in the Eastern Canada Baseball League game here Friday.

LACROSSE

Mr. Robert G. Sturgeon has presented the lacrosse club with the iron frames for two goals. New nets were made and set up on Saturday. A vote of thanks to Mr. Sturgeon is in order.

George Mein, Bert Todd and the other members of the Athletic team in the city league have made out a detailed statement of their receipts and expenditures so far this season, and after paying for their sticks and sweaters, balls and some other equipment have a small balance which they hope soon to augment. They wish to express their appreciation of the support they have received from many friends in their work of organizing and outfitting the team. The boys themselves are contributing weekly to their treasury.

Saturday afternoon's practice at Central Park brought out a string of players ranging from experienced O.A.L.A. men who could qualify for an intermediate team to a lot of youngsters who are promising midgets. Some of those in uniform were: Johnnie Ward, Alf Johnston, Albert Miller, Doug Miller, J. Hormel, H. Dunk, S. Stacey, J. Thronton, F. Wolff, Ben Sims, W. Mahood, G. Manning, Dick Bates, Melville Taylor, R. Pogue, Doug Hayes, Don Roberston, Earl Sims, Dot Mein, H. McDougall and others.

The feature of this week's practices will be an exhibition game at the Nicholls Oval on Wednesday night beginning at six o'clock between two teams selected respectively by the two Johns, Ward and Sutherland. The purpose of this game is to look over the material for the team Sutherland will take to Campbellford on Empire Day.

It is generally recognized that Peterboro could put a fairly strong team in the intermediate series, but the promoters of the game felt that the sporting public is not yet ripe for such an effort. Last year's experience in the group with Havelock and Campbellford was so discouraging that no one had the heart to try it again this season.

The city league should develop interest in lacrosse and with the junior and juvenile O.A.L.A. matches should go a long way to putting the game on a basis that will at least pay expenses. Reports from the Crescent team tend to set at rest any doubts about their strength and from the present outlook the league should open with for well balanced teams. Johnnie Ward's "Stratheonas" and the Crescents will from all accounts be the youngest teams in the league.

The frequency with which lacrosse sticks are seen around Peterboro these days is one of the surest signs that the game is taking a firm hold.

Abe Rose is frowning on anything that looks like grand stand stuff and insists upon the Crescents developing the passing game.

The junior team should start evening practices now as soon as possible. The Saturday afternoon turnouts conflict with ball games keeping some of the players away.

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL—"The Ordeal," a big sensational Paramount picture with Agnes Ayres and Conrad Nagel. First time shown in Canada. Also balance of a capital first-grade programme.

REGENT—Paramount production, "What's Worth While." Also, "The Great Lover" and final chapter of "The Sky Ranger."

ROYAL—Anita Stewart in "Her Mad Bargain"; Vitagraph special, Alice Calhoun in "Rainbow"; Mack Sennett 2-reel comedy, "Call a Cop."

AT THE ROYAL.

We find that our recently acquired First National film service is giving great satisfaction to our customers. For to-night we have one of their best and latest productions, called "Her Mad Bargain," with Anita Stewart in the role of Alice Lambert. This photoplay presents a novelty in plots. Alice, by a relative's death, is reduced to poverty. She gets several positions in succession, and finally becomes model to a sculptor. A depressing chain of circumstances which enfold her drive the girl to desperation and to thoughts of suicide. Her employer gets her to consent to having an insurance policy on her life, payable to him when she dies, taken out for $75,000. He pays the premium on the understanding that she gets fifty thousand dollars' cash from him at once, and she is to commit suicide at the end of one year in such a way that her death will appear accidental. The whole insurance then will come to him, thus giving him $25,000 for the one year's premium he has paid. A novel plot with a happy ending.

Then there is the Vitagraph feature entitled "Rainbow," with Alice Calhoun in leading role. This is a superb photoplay, replete with humour, pathos, society, love, adventure, and intense dramatic interest. The show girls in both Ziegfeld's Follies and the New York Winter Garden took part in one scene of "Rainbow."

Then the comedy end of the programme is ably held by a two-reel Mack Sennett production named "Call a Cop." When we say this comedy is a Mack Sennett production, you know the rest! It's a sure fine, fascinating film full of fun and frivolity.

AT THE REGENT.

HER BEST PICTURE.

Lois Weber Thinks "What's Worth While?" Her Finest Work.

Lois Weber, director-producer of "What's Worth While?" her latest production for Paramount, in discussing this picture immediately after the editing had been completed stated that, taken as a whole, she considered this picture, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre today, her greatest screen achievement. The story has all pathos and comedy of life as it is, which is faithfully portrayed in a manner that will allow the exhibiting of this production to a Sunday school class, without offence, and which at the same time has retained the "kick" which will satisfy the most rabid fan. It's a picture with a "kick," but no kickers. Claire Windsor has the leading woman's role.

Capitol Entertainment

"The Ordeal," a stirring dramatic story of the social order, opens at the Capitol Theatre this afternoon, and when it commences patrons to that theatre will be offered a picture of high class. When it is considered that Conrad Nagel and Agnes Ayres play the leading roles this fact will be fully realized.

All Conrad Nagel needs to place him as high in the esteem of moving picture fans as Rudolph Valentino is more pictures after the type of Cecil B. De Mille's "Fool's Paradise." Nagel in that wonderful picture played a great human interest part and in "The Ordeal" his powers for depicting dramatic types are called on to a great extent.

Then Agnes Ayres, who won her place in the halls of fame of the moving picture galleries while playing opposite Valentino in "The Sheik," has a highly dramatic part to play in "The Ordeal." By steady and consistent screen performances has Agnes Ayres earned the title of "The Star who has made good." Back in Essanay days she started in as an extra, and counting that as the first rung of the ladder of success, she has climbed steadily upward.

Agnes Ayres is like a beautiful American beauty swinging its proud head above a garden of roses. She is presented in this feature in artistic surroundings. The settings of the picture are some of the prettiest presented in this house for some time. Think of Miss Ayres dressed in lovingly beautiful gowns. She has plenty of them in "The Ordeal." Her home surroundings are of the highest order and she moves in a circle of beautiful women.

The theme of the picture is one that will arouse your sympathy at the start, and will tug at your heart for the rest of the time. You will be proud of the part portrayed by Conrad Nagel and you will want to get up from your seat and go after Clarence Burton for the brute he is in the early scenes. Edna Murphy, who depicts for a time a cripple, will grasp your sympathy with both hands. Taking the story all around, there is interest for almost every emotion.

"The Ordeal" is the first of a series of great big attractions arranged for the Peterboro Capitol. Within the next few weeks Bebe Daniels will be featured in "The Speed Girl" and Harold Lloyd in "The Sailor-Made Man," two pictures that will afford you plenty of laughter, that will make you glad you are still in the land of the living.

"Bought and Paid For" is a thrilling dramatic offering, a Paramount, featuring Jack Holt and Agnes Ayres, both actors of great renown. Wherever this picture has been shown it has proven of wonderful entertainment value to the audiences. It is a swiftly moving story, one that holds your interest every minute without a foot of extra padding.

Jackie Coogan in "My Boy" is another favorite feature booked and about which you have already read. Everybody loves Jackie Coogan. Since his appearance with Chaplin in "The Kid," he has been the darling of all children and a source of amusement and amazement for the grown-ups. Watch for details on the Jackie Coogan contest in which a Pathe Cameraman will take part.

"The Queen of Sheba," featuring Betty Blythe, a great spectacular offering, dressed in elaborate settings, has been secured for Peterboro Capitol after a great deal of dickering. This startling production of great magnitude has been received in Canada as one of the most spectacular offerings of the season.

Charlie Chaplin in "Pay Day" will be looked forward to with a great deal of interest by both old and young. He is just as funny as ever he was. "Pay Day" contains a great deal of new material. Chaplin opens up with some new stunts that will tickle your funny bone for a week.

Betty Compson and Theodore Kosloff in "The Green Temptation," is a picture that will please everybody. Rudolph Valentino and Gloria Swanson in "Beyond the Rocks," is the biggest picture offered this season.

AUTOMOBILES IN SEVERAL MIX-UPS

One Motor Car Was Knocked Over by a Street Car — Sunday's Budget.

Last night, about 8 o'clock, near the corner of Park and Rubidge streets, street car No. 14, with Motorman Stanley Matchett and Conductor Morris Hearn in charge, collided with automobile No. 170131 owned and driven by W. Stevens, 554 Albert street, knocking the automobile over, damaging it to a considerable extent and injuring one of its women occupants.

Both conveyances were travelling south, the street car proceeding down Park street and the motor car down Rubidge street. At the junction of the two streets which occurs opposite the Canadian General Electric Company's plant, Mr. Stevens suddenly attempted a sharp turn, which he explained by saying that another automobile, going north on Park street, was turning onto Rubidge street. This car was owned and driven by Howden Morris. Stevens' car stuck in the street car tracks, on the right-hand near corner and was struck by the street car.

The automobile's occupants were W. Stevens, its owner and driver, Mrs. Stevens, who was shaken up considerably, Mrs. Christmas and daughter, of 569 Romaine street. Mrs. Christmas suffered a dislocated shoulder and the car was badly damaged the two rear wheels smashed and the top broken off. Dr. E. E. Harvey was called to attend to the ladies.

Struck Little Girl

At 6.45 yesterday afternoon Bernal Harvey, R.R.No. 3, Lakefield, motoring in to the city, was driving south on Water street, when a little girl, Gladys Friendship, aged three, ran across the street near the corner of Argyle and Water. Harvey reported that he immediately applied the brakes, but could not avoid knocking the child down. He stopped, picked her up, and took her to Nicholls Hospital, later presenting himself at the Police Station with the child's father, who said that the little girl was not hurt, but badly scared.

Motor Car Damage

Yesterday morning, about 11.30 the automobile of A. A. Haskill, Reid street, ran full tilt into the C.G.E. street car at the corner of King and Park streets. Mr. Haskill was turning out King street near this corner, and struck the street-car amidship. The automobile was damaged considerably, but no one was hurt. Walter Jarvis was the motorman of the street car and Walter Sedgwick conductor.

Cars Collided

On Wednesday last, at the corner of George and McDonnell street, George Douglas, driving car No. 169801 south on George street, struck car No. 169162, owned and driven by Samuel Comrie of Keene which was going east on McDonnel street. The latter's car was damaged considerably, the front axle bent and the left front fender. Douglas had repairs made to Comrie's car. Both drivers claimed they were driving slowly.

RAINBOW COLORS.
Ratine, one of the most popular materials for summer, is shown in more colors than a rainbow ever dreamed of—but nature is so limited!
Serpent green and periwinkle blue are the colors of the moment, but one needn't cramp one's style by refusing all others.
Deep rose, lemon yellow, new blue, torchlight red are only a few of them. Ratine is shown not only in plain colrs but in gingham checks, stripes and temperamental plaids. The styles in which it may be used are almost endless.
You may have gathered by now what we started out to say—that your season won't be complete without at least one ratine frock. Unless it's a brilliant color you won't be able to look your mirror in the face.

COMING EVENTS

TO-NIGHT—"The Rose Maiden," by St. Paul's choir.

How To Reclaim Sugared Fudge

(By Marian Hale)

One buys it in little yellow boxes lettered on the top, "Mona's Fudge."
One tastes it.
And then one asks for the recipe —if one dares!
Mona's fudge is famous in New York. And delicious—naturally!
The excellence of her chocolate fudge Mona attributes to using water instead of milk in the making.
"I use butter enough," says Mona, "to make up in fats what the water lacks, in comparison to the milk. Butter results in a much creamier product.
"With the maple sugar I use milk. Maple needs it.
"Another fudge trick I have learned is that of reclaiming apparently hopelessly sugared candy. Put it back in the pan and on the stove. Then add a litle corn syrup, recook it just as if you were making new fudge, and at the finish you'll have nice, creamy candy.
"I learned fudge making quite in fun from one of your American girls" —Mona is English—"shortly after I came over. You know fudge isn't at all English."
And now Mona makes her living with the thing she learned in fun!
Mona, whose full name is Mona Hungerford, was married when she was 16, and is the widow of a former captain of the Grenadier Guards.

MONA, THE FUDGE MAKER

MONA'S CHOCOLATE FUDGE.
Mix 2 1-2 pounds of sugar with 1 teacup of cocoa. Add 1 3-4 cups of water and 3-4 pound of butter.
Let the whole mixture cook until ie begins to boil. Test it in water, and if it solidifies remove the pan from the stove and stir until the begins to become creamy. Pour into buttered pans. In testing, the fudge need be cooked only enough to settle into a mass and hold together well.

MONA'S CARAMEL FUDGE.
Mix 3 cups of white sugar with 11-2 cups of maple sugar. Add 1 3-4 cups of milk and 3-4 pound of butter.
Cook the mixture until it begins to boil and solidifies when tested in cold water. Then remove from the fire and stir until it reaches a creamy condition. Take care not to stir it too long and thus harden it. Pour out into buttered pans. Genuine maple sugar must be used to get the best results with maple fudge.

SAYS FAILURES ARE DUE TO JEALOUSIES.
LONDON, May 15. Canadian Press. — Speaking at the railwaymen's meeting at Falkirk yesterday, J. H. Thomas, Labor Leader, said that the men's failures were not due to leaders or the government, but to jealousies and suspicions in their ranks. Railwaymen would not find solution of serial and economic evils by methods of sabotage and bloodshed. Trade unionism did not simply mean addressing each other as 'comrade' at Sunday meetings and cuttings each others' throats Monday morning.

A very interesting birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Goheen, 293 Dalhousie street, on Friday evening last when their daughter, Miss Dorothy, celebrated her 12th birthday by entertaining about 30 of her boy and girl friends. Many beautiful presents were received by Miss Dorothy. Supper was served at 6 p.m., after which the balance of the evening was spent in games.

WHERE BELLEVILLE GOT HER PLAYERS.

Four Pitchers Trying Out For the Grand Trunk Team. Ferris a Dark Horse.

Belleville C.O.B.I. Club are the first to file players' certificates with Secretary J. G. Nott. These were received on Friday and they will be signed and returned as soon as possible. Leaside have promised to have their certificates in this week, but the remaining clubs have not been heard from. Many of the clubs are dealing direct with the A.A.U. of C. and when they have their amateur cards returned they will likely forward them at once to the league secretary. The Belleville executive announced a short time ago that Tommy Wilson, the pitcher hailing from Perth, would not locate in the Quinte cit, but it will be noticed that his name appears on a certificate along with 20 more. The Grand Trunk are trying out 4 pitchers this year and at least two of them should be able to hold their own in the Central League. Tommy Wilson is reported to be a top notch artist while Williams is considered to be a valuable man. In practice he showed up well, and caught the eye of the fan. Ferris, the Boys' Secretary of the Belleville "Y" is an unknown quantity, and Kelleher comes from the City League.
A new catcher, Ketcheson by name, will be used in company with "Peeney" Mills so that the Trunks are assured of an abundance of material for battery duties. Practically all last year's fielders are again in line for positions in both infield and outfield, while many new players are in sight. Those who have signed to date are: Weir, J. W. Ross, Casey, Holman, Minett, Haggerman, Smith, Meagher, Harry Mills, Ferris, Jas. Smith, Ketcheson, Williams, Kelleher, Wilson, Walter Gerow (manager), W. J. Mills, F. C. Ross and Simons.

EYES GAN BE MORE LOVELY

BEAUTIFUL EYES ARE NOT A LWAYS THE GIFT OF THE GODS.—POSED BY FRITZIE SCHEFF.

BY HELENA RUBINSTEIN
Famous New York Beauty Specialist

Eyes must be beautiful.
Half the faces we believe are beautiful owe their loveliness to the life and brilliancy of their eyes And, unless there is some physical defect, attractive eyes can be the possession of any woman.
In the first place, eyes need quite the same careful cleansing the skin needs. That they do not get it is often the cause of dullness.
WASH THEM DAILY
They should be washed every morning. Fill an eye cup with a good wash, recommended by an authority, fit it over the eye, then bend the head back far enough that the liquid forms a complete bath for the eyes.
Naturally, during this process the eye should be open.
Each eye should be given similar treatment.
If a liquid eye wash is not practical, cold water will have a very beneficial effect if used in the method described.
And if one's economies must go even beyond this, the eye cups can be dispensed with and a bowl filled with cold water used instead. The water should not be cold enough to shock the sensitive nerves of and around the eyes.
The substitution of the bowl of water for the eye cups will require a little practice, for the face, eyes open, must be put into the water and kept there for several minutes.
Turning the face a little to the side so that one eye is bathed at a time is the better method.

150 QUARTS OF SCOTCH WHISKY DROP FROM SKY

Rum-Running Air Craft Laden With Montreal Liquor Crashes on American Farm.

THE PILOT ESCAPES

CROTON-ON-HUDSON, N. Y., May 16.—(United Press).—An airplane, laden with liquor from Montreal, crashed on a farm near here last night. The rum-flying pilot escaped with minor injuries and fled in an automobile. One hundred and fifty quarts of Scotch were found in the ruins.

His escape led the authorities here to believe they are near the base of a new liquor smuggling plot in which airplanes are used to transport the hooch across the border and well into dry territory.

Search For Airman.

State troopers, notified immediately after the crash, spread through the district in a fast galloping search without finding a trace of the missing airman. They inquired at hospitals and hotels in the belief the pilot might have been injured in the wreck of his plane.

Dived at Farmhouse.

Farmer McCaul was working in his garden north of this town last evening when a plane hummed out of the gathering dusk, headed south. The machine was a big Curtis biplane. As McCaul watched it idly, it circled over his farm and appeared to hover at a considerable height. Then its nose dived straight at his farmhouse, "pan-caking" out at the last minute and just missing the roof with its wheels.

The pilot managed to soar again to about 1,000 feet. He was obviously seeking a landing place. Dusk deepened rapidly into darkness, and the aviator had to make a landing. People in the vicinity, attracted by his manoeuvres, watched the big plane.

Auto in Waiting.

An automobile headlight flashed once across the sky. It was a touring car in a lane off the Albany Post Road. As though this had been a signal, the airman again tilted his plane earthward. There was a grinding crash as it ripped through some trees on a slope behind McCall's farmhouse, and came to a stop, wings splintered, tank spouting gasoline, and, above all other noises of the wreck, a musical, tinkling crash.

Quick Get-Away.

McCaul, believing the pilot killed or seriously injured, sent a hurried call for State troopers, and then ran toward the machine. He was met by a wrathful and limping man in tor's uniform, who passed him quickly in the darkness and made his way to the awaiting automobile.

WOULD ELIMINATE MARGARINE HERE.

But Resolution is Defeated in Commons.

OTTAWA, May 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Resolution calling for discontinuance of the importation and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada after September 1 was defeated in the House of Commons early this morning by 26 votes. The resolution was moved by A. W. Neill, Independent member for Comox-Alberni, British Columbia, and was debated for practically the whole sitting of the House.

THE WEATHER

The thermometer was up to 81 degrees yesterday. This is the first time the temperature has been over 80 degrees since last September. The trees this spring are a few days ahead of their schedule in their leafing but not nearly so far advanced as last year. May 12th last spring saw all the trees in full leaf. About May 22nd is the average date for the completion of their foliage operations. Most of the summer birds have arrived, with a larger number of orioles than usual.—W. P.

Famous Horse May Make Visit Canada

TORONTO, May 16. Canadian Press. — If the engagements of Morvich, the winner of the Kentucky Derby in the United States, permit, Canadians will have on opportunity of seeing the three year old wonder horse in action, this coming fall. This information was conveyed to the Canadian Press to-day by Louis Block, of Owen Sound, brother of Ben Block, owner of the racing marvel.

"I am negotiating with my bother at present," said Mr. Block, and if there is a possible chance Morvich will come to Canada either in a match or exhibition, and the proceeds will be devoted to charitable institutions. I am anxious that Canadians should see him in action as the Block family believe that he is the greatest horse of the age.

Morvich will not be sent to Canada for any exhibition or special race, according to a statement to-day by his owner, Dan. Block, in commenting on the statement of his brother Louis in Toronto that the Kentucky Derby winner would likely appear in Canada in the fall. "The risk is too great, much as I would like to help in any charitable cause," said Mr. Block.

LABOR CHIEFS ARE INDICTED

"FRONT PAGE JOB"

CHICAGO, May 16—Eight union labor leaders were named in true bills voted at a special session of the Grand Jury in connections with the slaying of Terrance Lyons, an acting police lieutenant. George E. Gorman Assistant State's Attorney says that those named include Fred Mader, president or the Building Trades Council; "Big Tim" Murphy of the Gas Workers Union, and Cornelius ("Ca") Shea, who directed the teamsters' strike in 1914. All are now in the custody of the police having been captured in a raid on union headquarters.

CHICAGO, May 16.—After two Judges had declared from the bench that a state of war and terrorism existed in Chicago, it was learned that a fund of $6,000,000 has been subscribed by the Chicago Citizens Committee to aid in the prosecution of the army sluggers, bombers and gunmen imported here to defeat the Landis award and the open shop plan backed by the committee.

Judges Kirkham Scanlan and Joseph David refused writs of habeas corpus to Cornelius Shea, John Lafferty, "Big" Tim Murphy and Fred Mader, labor leaders, arbomb outrages, which culminated yesterday in the killing of two policemen . The Cook County Grand Jury was hurriedly convened to investigate the murders and the labor conspiracy.

In questioning one of the sluggers picked up in the raids on labar headquarters which netted 200 prisoners Police Chief Fitzmorris ran across the following scale of prices for bombing buildings and violence.

One stick dynamite bomb, $25; two stick dynamite bomb, $50; four stick dynamite bomb, $100; six stick dynamite bomb, $250.

Measured by Publicity

Getting on front page of Chicago newspapers with headline like this, "Two Bombs Rock West Side", would bring $250, while "mere mention of story an inside page" would yield only $50.

These values were measured by newspaper publicity because, as one of the 'higher ups" said to one of the rank and file of Chicago's contingent of bomb throwers: "It's the publicity that we get following a bombing that makes it easy to make these guys (the employers) come across."

Another of the bomb tossers was told by his superior "to put a little spectacular stuff across. Just blow ing out a window is old stuff for the editors. Do something new; these editor chaps are looking for something novel."

Ordinary slugging was put down for $50 with $100 for a hospital job and $150 for the breaking of arms or legs

The Action by Courts

The sluggers and bombers were compelled to give 10 per cent to the "pay off" man and $10 a job to the man who handed out the assignments.

Chief of Police Fitzmorris announced that he had sufficient evidence on Murphy, Shea and Mader to convict them of conspiracy.

"I've a wagonload of evidence," he said.

Judge Scanlan temporarily blocked the road to freedom for Shea and Lafferty, while Judge David continued the cases of Murphy and Mader until to-morrow but took the men from the custody of the police and turned them over to the Sheriff The hearing of Shea's plea, along with that of Lafferty, partially identified as one of the gunmen who shot to death one of the patrolmen was set for 10 a.m. Saturday by Judge Scanlan.

THREE HAVE CONFESSED

CHICAGO, May 16.—(Canadian Press). — Evidence connecting bomb throwers and slayers of two policemen a week ago with the "Big Three" Chicago Labor leaders was claimed today, by States attorneys. Four men have been identified as slayers of policemen and three of them have confessed police say.

REFUSAL OF U.S. TO PARTICIPATE CAUSES REGRET

Delegates at Genoa Express Keen Disappointment at Americans Declining to Participate.

MEETING JUNE 16

(BY HENRY WOOD For United Press.)

GENOA, May 16. —Keen disappointment that the United States has refused the Allies' invitation to a conference on Russian affairs at the Hague next month, was expressed on every side by delegates here to-day.

The leaders of the conference had believe until the last minute there was a good chance of the American Government accepting.

Doubt Russia

The political sub-commission met with the Russians to-day to hear the Soviet Government's reply to the suggestion for a meeting June 16 at the Netherlands Capital. Premier Rakowski of the Ukraine accepted in the name of the Soviet Delegation yesterday, but the Allies have come to doubt Russias intentions until they have a statement down in black and white.

May delegates to-day pointed out that the tone of the American refusal to participate at the Hague was sympathetic, and held out promise of help in the Russian problem as soon as a method of which the United States approved was revised

WEARY AND DEPRESSED

LONDON, May 16.—(Canadian Press).— Refusal by the United States to participate in the proposed conference at The Hague will come as great disappointment here, where it was strongly hoped that the Allies' invitation would be accepted. News of the declination came too late for this morning's newspapers, which feature despatches from Genoa encouraging expectation of a favorable reply.

The Times and Mail, both of which have been hostile to the Genoa Conference, editorially declare that the succes of the proposed meeting at the Hague is practically dependent upon United States participation. Premier Lloyd George is expected back from Genoa Friday. He is described as being weary and depressed.

ADD REFUSAL OF U S ....
ITALY SURPRISED.

GENOA, May 16 (Canadian Press). — Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy was greatly surprised to-day on learning of the United States' refusal to take part in The Hague conference, especially at the rapidity with which the decision was reached, which may have a great influence on further discussions at Genoa.

Caretakers Are Appointed For The Two Local Bathing Beaches

James Gates, for two years caretaker of Inverlea Park, will again assume these duties this year, and will also act as swimming instructor, which he is capable of doing, so he told the Railways and Parks Committee last night, in his application for the position.

Thomas Raymond was appointed in a similar position at Lake Street.

Ten applications for the position for the position. James Gates is to receive $17 per week, $2 a week more than last year, and Thomas Raymond is to get $50 per month. Mr. Gates offered to supply his punt and the committee felt that this meant a saving of possibly $6.00 a month.

The applications received were as follows:

James Gates, Inverlea, $17 a week

Bernard Kelly, Lake street, $150 for three months.

T. R. Cooper, Lake street, $100 a month.

Thomas Raymond, Inverlea, $15 a week, or Lake street $50 a month.

D. P. Ferguson, Lake Street, $60 a month.

Jos. Greenlaw, Lake street, $20 a week.

J. H. Hall, Inverlea, $200 for the season.

H. W. Simmons, Inverlea, $19 a week.

H. W. Rickey, either one (Inverlea preferred) $50 a month.

R. W. Montgomery, either park, $14 or $15 a week.

The committee favored Mr. Gates' apointment at Inverlea, and it was put into effect, on motion of Ald. Robert Morrison and Ald. Walter Stocker. H. W. Rickey, who was in charge of Lake street last year, and as a caretaker reported at the committee meeting as being a good man, pointed out in his application, he was not prepared to act as swimming instructor. "Well, that is what we want!" remarked Ald. Morrison. Mr. Rickey's application was not considered for this reason, and Thos. Raymond was finally the committee's choice. In his application he stated that he was a good swimmer and could handle a boat. On motion of Ald. R. N. Jones and Ald. Morrison, his appointment was confirmed.

The committee authorized the expenditure of $100 on repairs and improvement at the Riverside Park. Ald. Harry Gainey, chairman, reported the necessary work to be done and after considerable discussion the limit to the allowance was placed at $100, although Ald. Gainey pointed out that $150 was necessary to do a good job. The scheme of the chairman includes many odd jobs, such as new planking on the grand stand, new fencing, wire netting, roofing, players' dugouts, etc. There was not much allowance for painting the stands as was necessary the chairman said.

The Parks Committee met at 6.45 p.m., and was able to present its report to the council later in the evening. It had a passage such as Ald. Walter Stocker must have desired, but failed to realize, with his Board of Works recommendation regarding paving.

GIMBLETT NOW IN CHARGE OF FIRE BRIGADE

Change Took Effect at Midnight — New Chief Installed by Members of the City Council.

CROWD GATHERED

At midnight last night Mayor W. H. Taylor installed George Gimblett, of Hamilton, as Chief of the Peterborough Fire Department, succeeding George Grange. Ald. Joseph Crowe, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Ald. Stocker were present at the installation, which was quite informal. It took place in the Fire Chief's office on the second floor. Mayor Taylor introduced the late Fire Chief and the new Chief, informing George Grange that his duties ceased at midnight, and that George Gimblett would succeed him. The two men shook hands. Chief Grange summoned the platoon that was on duty sharp at 12, and the men were individually presented to Chief Gimblett.

After a few minutes' conversation the members of the Council departed, and ex-Chief Grange, after showing Chief Gimblett various routine matters, left. The night was uneventful, no fires being reported, and there were no disturbances of any nature. The new Chief was fitting into his office to-day and greeted The Examiner with a bright smile. He reported a quiet night. He will make his headquarters at the Fire Hall until he moves his family to this city.

Crowd Gathered.

A crowd of about fifty, men and women and children, were gathered about the Hall at midnight. At about five minutes to twelve Mayor Taylor approached with Ald. Crowe and the new Chief, who was carrying a club bag. Ald. Walter Stocker had been waiting around, and was in full dress, having taken a part in the Rose Maiden presented at St. Paul's Church last night.

Most of the people who live on Aylmer Street across from the hall were out to see the proceedings, and some of them even had young babies in carriages on deck.

George Grange led his men to a fire for the last time at about 10 p.m. Boys smoking in the yard had set fire to a pile of hay at the home of C. J. Rutherford, 328 London Street. The hay was owned by B. Nevin. A fence was also destroyed. Chemicals and a line of hose were laid and the fire extinguished before serious damage was done to surrounding buildings.

RICE LAKE MAY LOSE "GENEVA"

Negotiations For Its Sale Are Reported Pending—Old Passenger Traffic From Peterborough Has Steadily Declined.

A deal for the sale of the steamer "Geneva" which, if completed, will remove her from the Otonabee and Rice Lake service, is reported under negotiation. If it falls through and the Geneva remains in these waters, the "Rainbow" may not leave her dock at Rice Lake this season, the Examiner was told. To such a pass has come the once flourishing traffic between Peterborough and the lower waters. There's no money left in the regular trips, according to veteran boatmen of this district, although the excursions continue popular and fairly profitable.

Years ago more persons made the trip to Rice Lake in a week than visited Stoney Lake in a whole summer. Now Stoney Lake has its hundreds of permanent cottagers and thousands of tourists who stay a while at the many resorts.

Rice Lake seems totally eclipsed. Jubilee Point is only a memory, and Idyl Wyld is a private preserve. Gore's Landing retains all its popularity and there are many cottages around the lake, but their number is only a fraction of the increasing colonies of Kawarthadom.

The automobile's acceptance by the farmers deprived the Rice Lake boats of many of their regular passengers and also cut a big hole in the freight traffic. Changes come slowly, but they gradually become clearly outlined. Transition is upon the historic navigation between Rice Lake and Peterborough. The once comparatively numerous fleet of steamers that used to crowd the accommodation of the old Wolfe street wharf has become but a shadow of its old force, and the "Golden Eye" the pride of the older generation of excursionists to Rice Lake would soon lose its tinsel if it were seeking river traffic here to-day.

Lennox Must Back Up His Charges

TORONTO, May 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Attorney General Raney stated before the Public Accounts committee to-day that he would demand the appearance of T. H. Lennox, M.L.A., under oath to-morrow to substantiate charges he had made that "felons, thugs and ex-convicts" were used by the Attorney General's Department in Ontario Temperance Act enforcement. He added that he wanted to cross-examine Mr. Lennox under oath.

A HEALTH TALK BY DR. CAMERON TO KIWANIANS

Interesting anp Instructive Address by Secretary of the Peterboro Health Association.

AT LUNCHEON TODAY

There was not a dull moment at the weekly luncheon to-day from the time a rousing reception was given President Frank Whitehouse, who has been three months overseas, until the affair wound up with a presentation of a beautiful bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oldfield, who gave several numbers and to whom the club feels indebted in connection with the splendid concert put on some time ago for the Salvation Army, in which Mr. Oldfield assisted. In a letter read to-day the Salvation Army acknowledged the assistance of the club.

President Whitehouse congratulated the club on their progress during his absence and he referred with deep emotion to the loss of the club during his absence of the late Norman Barclay. Dr. G. Stewart Cameron, secretary of the Peterborough Health Association, outlined the work of the association and thanked the club for the interest they were taking in the work, in erecting a dining hall. Through the club, another unexpected donation was made to the association to-day, W. Lawson, of Heintzman Hall, presenting a handsome gramophone in a transportable case for the entertainment of the children. The splendid gift was warmly acknowledged, as was the additional gift of records by Heintzman Hall and John Allen.

Growth Association.

Dr. Cameron told of the growth of the association's work in the twelve years since its inception and mentioned what it hopes to accomplish in the way of an enlarged children's camp and a sanatarium for tubercular cases. Peterborough, he said, was the only municipality of its size in the province that did not have within its boundaries or adjacent to it, a sanatarium. He claimed the most progressive cities in the Dominion were the ones that had taken steps to care for suffering humanity.

The story of the early struggles of the association proved an interesting one and the gradual development of the work was sympathetically appreciated. At present, the doctor said, the advisory committee of the Red Cross is devoting its energies to the work, and it is largely through the proceeds of the Motor Show, put on by them, that they are able to carry on. Last year $3,500 or $3,600 was expended, he said. The nurse made some 2,000 visits to 150 patients, recommended by the attending physician. Three thousand quarts of milk and 175 dozen eggs were used in connection with the work.

Dr. Cameron told a heart interest story about the camp at Jackson Park and the happiness and health that have been brought into young lives. This year it is hoped to accommodate 50 children at a time. Through the erection of the dining hall by the club the work will be much facilitated. The doctor also expressed their appreciation of the manual training classes in the schools undertaking the erection of a rest room.

Alex. Dick, in charge of the construction gang urged the Kiwanians to be on hand at Jackson Park at 7 a.m. on May 24th. To save him buying a hammer Gray Copping, booster to-day, presented him with one. Roy Parsons and Dr. W. H. Lacey won canoe paddles. In a letter Bev. Hay, International trustee, urged a 60 per cent. attendance at the International convention in Toronto next June.

Mr. Oldfield delighted the club in two stirring numbers that showed his baritone voice in all its richness and power, "Shipmate o' Mine," followed by the old favorite, "The Ragged Vagabond." Mrs. Oldfield played the accompaniment for her husband. Among the guests to-day were: Adjutant Bunton, Fire Chief Gimblett, F. H. Leleu, Toronto, Mr. Brown, Hamilton, Walter Kidd, Peterborough.

BOBBED HAIR FAD PROVING AN OBSTACLE

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., May 16.—The bobbed hair fad has proved an obstacle to the sponsors of the Lake Geneva Historical Pageant which is to be presented May 28. Hundreds of girls are to take the parts of Indian maidens, but most of the girls in this neighborhood have bobbed hair and careful research has failed to reveal any historical reference to Indians with bobbed hair. Fifty per cent. of the high school girls assigned parts in the pageant have been rejected because of bobbed hair and now whenever a girl applies for a part the first requisite is that she have long tresses.

PAVING RESOLUTION BACK TO COMMITTEE

Council Couldn't Agree on Letting of Contract For Paving George Street South of C. P. R.

CLOSE DIVISIONS.

The recommendation from the Board of Works that the paving of George street from the C.P.R. to Romaine street be done by day labour under the supervision of City Engineer Parsons and according to his tender for the work was referred back to the committee by the Council last night for further consideration.

A motion to adopt the report containing this recommendation was defeated by the vote of 6 to 4 as follows — Yeas—Aldermen Hamilton, Stocker, McIntyre and Crowe.

Nays — Aldermen — Phelan, Holloway, Morrison, Turner, Jones and Gainey and Mayor Taylor.

An amendment by Ald. Phelan that the clause be struck out of the Board of Work's report and that the lowest tender, that submitted by Mr. John Carroll, be accepted. was defeated by the vote of 6 to 5 on the following division—Yeas—Aldermen Phelan, Holloway, Morrison and Gainey and Mayor Taylor.

Nays—Aldermen Turner, Jones, Hamilton, Stocker, McIntyre and Crowe.

The report with the paving clause deleted was then adopted on a vote of 5 to 4, and the recommendation went back to the Board of Works by on Ald. Hamilton's motion seconded by Ald. Jones, six voting for and four against.

Divided Opinion

This action followed a discussion that revealed the Council at cross purposes on the paving question, and that was largely a rehash of arguments that have put forwerd during the last two or three years whenever the paving of George street south was under consideration.

Ald. Stocker said that history was merely repeating itself, that the Council of other years had let contracts for concrete sidewalks according to tender until the city took over this work making a great saving.

"We have our own gravel, our own engineer and superintendent, and our own plant except a mixer", said Ald. Stocker, "and we insist to pay standard wages. I am told that on the filtration plant men were paid as low as 30c and 25c an hour".

Ald. Morrison seconded Ald. Phelan's amendment. "We've just had a sample of day work on the hill (Armour Hill)", he pointed out. "I think we've had enough experience the last few years of letting flimsy day work contracts. We had thought of doing no paving this year, and why start buying machinery for the little stretch on George street. We got tenders and we have one that is $1100 under the City Engineer's".

Ald. Crowe argued that the city would have to pay an inspector's wages if the job was let to a private contractor. Add to this the percentage of cost of a mixer that would be charged to this work, he said, and how far would the city be behind the lowest tender.

Not on Same Basis

"We didn't tender on the same basis at all" remarked City Engineer Parsons. "We would probably have to pay an inspector four or five hundred dollars before the job was finished by a contractor.'

Ald. McIntyre — If I was convinced that the tenders we got were the cheapest, I'd support them, but I'm not.

The $1500 to be spent on a mixer would be set off, against the $1200 difference in the bids leaving the city a balance of $300, and to this would be added the three or four hundred dollars that would

TENANTS' APPEAL TO COUNCIL LOST

Last Effort in Behalf of Chief Grange Failed Last Night.

The resolution of the Tenants' and Owners' Association that George Grange be retained in the position of chief of the fire department and that full investigation be made into the reasons for his dismissal was defeated by the Council at last night's special meeting.

Ex-Alderman Russell V. Copping, W. H. Howard, G.T.R. constable and W. Juniper, proprietor of the tire repair shop at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, comprised the delegation that submitted the resolution to the Council. Ald. Morrison moved seconded by Ald. Jones that the request be granted but it was supported only by Aldermen M. McIntyre and Turner.

"It's too bad they didn't take this action before" remarked Ald. Crowe referring to the communication presented by the deputation.

"Six aldermen and the Mayor have carried this through the Council", declared Ald. Jones. "They just slid over it."

"I put up the best fight I could for Chief Grange", said Ald. McIntyre. "The Council has appointed a new man, and I think it best that we should support him. I will do all I can to help the Fire Department".

"That's the talk' remarked Mayor Taylor, with a "hear, hear" from Ald. Stocker.

When Ald. Hamilton suggested to Ald. Crowe, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee, that he move a resolution to provide Chief Gimblett with a new uniform Ald. Crowe replied that perhaps the old suit would do him, the old suit being that worn by Chief Grange.

Ald. Hamilton proposed the motion himself.

"When a fireman quits, his uniform is worn by a new man" said Ald. Crowe in defense of his idea which had been greeted with laughter around the aldermanic circle. "Why shouldn't it work both ways?" he asked. The motion carried.

"That Engine Is Quiet"

Mr. T. B. Howden, Calgary, Alta., writes: "I recall with satisfaction how, after covering 6,000 miles, the only repair so far has been sewing a ripped fan belt, costing fifteen cents, and she certainly is easy on the gas—30 miles to the gallon. My pleasure is also increased by the garage man's remark, as I pull in for the night: 'Gee whiz! That engine is quiet.' I thought you were coasting in.'"

HOW ANCIENT FASHIONS ARE COMING BACK INTO STYLE. AN EGYPTIAN MUMMY AND THE FLAPPER OF TO-DAY. OTHER OLDEN-DAY DRESS DESIGNS THAT ARE BEING WIDELY COPIED.

BY MARION HALE

We are willing to give Shaw the credit for starting the general "Back to Methuselah" movement, but it is the ladies, bless 'em, who are carrying it on.

To be modern, you must be antique.

This refers to your clothes, not your features. Faces are still being worn young, and the adolescent figure continues to prevail.

But in your garments you must capture the antiquity of bygone dynasties and the quest for your summer outfits may lead you to haunts hitherto unfrequented by fashion seekers.

If you are conservative you may go back only to the Middle Ages for copies. Or the native togs of India, Persia or Russia may seem remote enough.

Call on Antique Dealer.

In this case, your task is a simple one. Just go to any antique dealer, or oriental rug merchant. He will sell you a square foot of some old embroidery for the price at which you once bought enough for a whole bed spread, and you and your dressmaker can get together and repeat [illegible] on your gown until it is covered.

Being conservative never got any woman stared at on the Board [illegible] at the Ritz. So if you really want to achieve something startling try to go back to the dawn of history for your inspiration.

And that leads you to the nearest museum.

Time was when a museum was a quiet restful place. Now, if you feel the urge to hold communion with a mummy you must get up in the morning. For the Egyptian room now looks like a bargain counter at ten-thirty.

Lure For Artists.

Before every article that has even the fragment of a design you will find a cluster of artists, drawing boards and palettes in hand, copying patterns with feverish zeal.

On the sidelines are others waiting to take their places.

Some want the designs for their own use, but most are copying them for textile manufacturers. Machines and dyes are waiting for them.

The other day at the Metropolitan, in New York, as I was musing on the scene of activity, I looked over at the coffin, alleged to hold the mummy of the once beautiful Ta-Bek-en-Khonsu, who departed this life some thousands of years ago.

She's Alive!

I saw a sight that chilled my blood. For there was the ancient lady herself standing calmly beside her coffin, looking about her with the calmness one could scarcely believe of someone just reincarnated after so long a sleep in such close quarters.

How young she looked—and how familiar!

Then my brain recovered its equilibrum and functioned.

Ta-Bek-en-Khonsu had come to life, but she was reincarnated in the modern flapper!

Her bobbed hair and close turban gave her the correct head line of the girls who made the old Nile popular.

Her skin was of the dusky, brown tropical tint, made possible by use of the new vermilion and brown powders.

The black line she had added about her eyes followed the narrow straight orb of Cleopatra rather than that of the normal eye nature had given her.

And verily, the 1922 model flapper who stood by the Egyptian coffin looked more like the ancient Ta-Bek-en-Khonsu than she did like herself.

PROVINCIAL OFFICER AFTER THE SPEEDERS.

In the Police Court yesterday afternoon, Provincial Officer T. Y. Stratton presented the fruits of a day in the country. Herbert Bryson was charged with speeding on the Gravel Road and Hilliard Cooper with also exceeding the allowed 25 miles on the Chemong Road. As Cooper wasn't going so fast as Bryson, he got off more lightly with a fine of $2.00, as compared with $5.00 for Bryson. Costs in both cases were $5.70.

COMMISSIONER LARKIN VISITS CANADA'S DEAD

All Graves Were Well Kept. Recommends That a Monument to All Canadian Soldiers Be Erected on the Summit of Vimy Ridge.

LONDON, May 16 (Canadian Press). — Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner, returned from his visit to France and Flanders, whither he went as Canadian representative of the War Graves Commission during the visit to the soldiers' graves by their Majesties King George and Queen Mary.

He was greatly impressed by the reverent interest displayed by the King and Queen in all they saw during their tour.

Commissioner Larkin visited the Canadian cemeteries at Etaples, Vlamertinghe, and Terlincthun.

At Etaples the Canadian High Commissioner inspected 1,120 Canadian graves of a total of 12,000. Here and elsewhere he found the graves in beautiful order. Permanent headstones already have been erected over the great majority of the graves. The stones are sunk in long concrete beds, giving an assurance of endurance even for centuries. Flowers, chiefly of the wallflower variety, abound in all these resting-places. The ground is sodded and kept in admirable order.

Commissioner Larkin was incidentally able to reveal that it was at the King's personal suggestion that the age of every soldier interred in France and Flanders was added to the inscription, thus ensuring that future generations would realise that lads sixteen years of age and grizzled men of more than fifty equally had made the supreme sacrifice.

Hon. Mr. Larkin, alluding to the mighty monument which the Dominion, through its own War Graves organisation, is to erect, strongly expressed his opinion that the best possible site for it is Vimy Ridge, close to the main road, on the very summit of the ridge.

"There will be no monument so impressive, either in Britain or in France," he declared. "The Dominion authorities have not yet definitely settled on the site.

"Walter S. Allward, the Toronto sculptor, is coming over to inspect this and other locations shortly."

Mr. Larkin added that Marshal Haig also expressed the opinion that Vimy was the best site possible for the Canadian memorial. The Commissioner added that he cordially approved of what he had seen of the work of the War Graves Commission.

On the arrival of Mr. Larkin at Calais he was met by Mr. and Mrs. Rudyard Kipling, who drove him through the whole northern battlefields area.

Immediate Action Necessary to Combat Ideas Prevailing in Other Countries.

GREAT PROBLEM.

WINNIPEG, May 16.—(Canadian Press).— Adoption of a definitely defined and comprehensive policy of immigration to do away with the idea prevailing in Great Britain, Europe and the United States, that Canada's doors are closed to intending immigrants, was advocated by Colonel J. DELEGATES OF RUSSIAN GOVT. AT THE HAGUE

Leader of Soviet Representatives at Genoa Wants Russian Ideas Adopted.

NO TREATIES.

GENOA, May 16. — (Canadian Press.)— Russia will participate in the proposed conference at The Hague to discuss the Russian question. M. Rakovsky made this announcement last night after a meeting of the entire Bolshevik delegation.

In giving out this information to a large assemblage of newspaper correspondents, M. Rakovsky declared that in his judgment, which he said was also the judgment of his fellow delegates, unless the Russian idea of a real mixed commission were adopted, instead of the double commission idea proposed by the Powers, The Hague conference was bound to prove as sterile as the Genoa Conference.

M. Rakovsky emphasized that the Soviet delegation had found absolutely unacceptable the proposition of the Powers whereby no treaties of any sort could be entered into with Russia, whether political or economic in character during the Hague meeting.

Legality of the Proposed Legislation is Questioned By Ferguson and Dewart.

NO DIVISION.

TORONTO, May 16. — The Ontario Legislature last night passed without a division being called the second reading of the bill which will place a tax of 5 per cent. on the winnings at race track betting and the tax of $15,000 year on export liquor companies.

The attacks against the government's measure were centred on the five per cent. tax on race track winnings which is expected to bring into the provincial treasury about $2,800,000 a year.

The opponents of this tax were Hon. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative group, and H. H. Dewart.

The tax was supported by Provincial Treasurer Smith, J. W. Curry (Toronto), and Attorney-General Raney.

Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Dewart took opposite lines in fighting the measure. Mr. Ferguson argued that the province had never sought a court decision to show that it could not so regulate racing as to accomplish the oft-announced desire of Mr. Raney to end gambling in this sport altogether. He accused the government of being a partner in "vice."

Mr. Dewart, on the other hand, maintained that this was a move to kill by taxation an institution that was legalized by the Dominion government.

Attorney-General Raney took issue with the statement that this tax made the province a partner in vice. "We are not licensing race track betting houses," he said. "Race track betting has been imposed upon the province. Race track speculation is legitimate by grace of the criminal code and as such is just as much liable for taxation as other legitimate undertakings. "He said that the men who had been opposing the bill would have difficulty in proving to the people of Ontario that people who speculated at race tracks, many of them made a business of it, should not be called upon to pay this tax.

Mr. Raney said that the insinuation made by Mr. Ferguson that Abraham Orpen had been the beneficiary of favors from the Attorney Generals Department, was false, maliciously and deliberately false, and he challenged Mr. Ferguson to make a charge to that effect. He said that he had known Mr. Orpen as a race track bookmaker, poolroom owner, and later as a race track and betting house owner, but he always came out frankly and admitted that he was in it for the money to be made out of it. He did not pretend to be in the business for the development of thoroughbreds or for social service.

The government is anxious to have the bill put through in time to collect the tax on the opening day at Woodbine, which is next Saturday. It has yet to pass through the committee of the whole house where it was rumoured last night in the corridors that a more determined effort will be made to delay the bill than was possible in the second reading where each member is limited to one speech and not many members in the house inclined to speak upon it.

GREAT PROMISE FOR WONDERFUL CROPS, ALBERTA

With an Abundance of Moisture in the Soil, Old-Time Farmers are Unusually Optimistic.

NOT A PIPE-DREAM.

CALGARY, May 16.—Old time farmers of Alberta have never been more sanguine of a good crop than they are this year. Generally speaking these men who in the majority of cases have g "through the mill" from the pioneer stage are not given to throwing needless words away as to prospects, even during recent dry years, up to the middle of June, the "prospects" were encouraging for an average crop, but with the lack of rain during that very essential month a field of wheat, for instance which looked like threshing forty bushels to the acre, did not yield five or six and that was actually the case in many instances last year. Viewed from the carriage windo of a passing train a hasty estimater might be pardoned if he placed the prospective crop at an altogether enhanced and unwarranted figure. There may be good crops along the railway track, or there may not. If one one were to seek the fertile orchards of the fruit belt of British Columbia from the deck of a Canadian Pacific steamboat plying between the Okanagan landing and Penticton, he would be mightily disappointed. That is exactly the case in viewing much of the Prairie land from a comfortable pullman seat and wiring a dispatch from the nearest telegraph office that the yield in a certain locality was almost sure to do so and so.

Radio Broadcasting.

It is not necessary that one should spend an indefinite period of time in collecting reliable and dependable information. In these days of radio broadcasting the expert in any walk of life, more especially the newspaper agricultural correspondent, must look to his laurels. That is a healthfull tonic, as life giving as the pure breezes on a farming prairie farm.

At Lathom, just east of Bassano on the Canadian Pacific main line on Wednesday, there was an occasion where farmers from a radius of more than eighty miles met and opportunity was taken by the writer of sizing up their opinion of crop prospects in that section of the province. Each one had practically the same story to tell that not since 1915 had there been such an abundant moisture, that this was ample to carry the crops well into June, and that with rain during that month, Alberta would most assuredly come into its own again. Their enthusiasm was positively infectious, and what was more it carried a convincing note. Expressions of opinion, however, from seasoned, howbeit, optimistic western farmer, who is nothing if he be not the quintessence of grit, do not make a direct appeal to an unbiased inquirer.

Not a Pipe Dream.

"Tell me" said the newspaperman addressing his query to some of these farmers, "how can you convince me that you are only having a pipe dream." "Say that again," said a sturdy man of the soil. Who still maintained the accent of the land of the thistle and pretty girls. "Show him the rye field Jock" chipped in another bystander. "Seen lots already," said the scribe. "Most of the rye was winter-killed, that's sure" came back the reply in a chorus "but that was rosen rye. If you want to see something different we'll take you along." It was not the latest type of a McLaughlin or Cheyrolet that the little party scrambled into. It was a well-used but sturdy Ford truck, which nobly rose to the occasion. "Say

GERMAN SPY MUST PAY THE PENALTY.

BRUSSELS, May 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The Court of Appeals has denied a new trial to Armand Jeannes, a Belgian, who is under sentence of death for acting as a German spy during the war. Jeannes will be put to death.

While he was convicted of responsibility for the shooting of many Belgian patriots during the period of German occupation, the Prosecutor acknowledged that Jeannes had nothing to do with the betrayal of Edith Cavell, the English nurse, who was shot by the Germans.

The execution of Jeannes will be the first in Belgium since peace was declared.

RIVER RISES SIX FEET IN 2 DAYS

High Water in the Red River Will Cause Greater Flood Danger on the Assiniboine.

NEAR WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, May 16. —(Canadian Press.)—Caused by excessive rains in the States of North Dakota and Minnesota, the Red River at Emerson, sixty miles south of this city, has risen six feet since Sunday and flood waters yesterday threatened Winnipeg. The rise in the Red River water level will prevent flood waters from the Assiniboine River pouring into the Red fast enough to be carried away and alleviate the swollen condition of the Assiniboine.

No active steps have been taken yet to prevent possible inundation of sections of the city with the exception of throwing open the locks on the Red River at St. Andrews, 18 miles north of here. Unofficial reports from Emerson state the river has risen seven feet since Saturday. The river is said to be steadily rising here.

Officials of the Dominion Water Powers Branch are hopeful the sudden rise in the Red River, will be only temporary in character as the tributary streams have not risen to any extent.

CROP REPORTS FAVORABLE IN THE PROVINCE

Prospects For a Bumper Crop of Fall Wheat. Spring Seeding is Well on in All Parts.

FRUIT BLOSSOMS.

TORONTO, Ont., May 16.—(Canadian Press.) — Reports that are reaching the Ontario department of Agriculture from its representatives throughout the province are of a most optimistic nature Lincoln and Halton counties report an abundance of bloom in the pear, cherry plum and peach orchards.

Fall wheat is considered, upon the whole, a fairly promising crop, Lambton looks for a bumper crop, while Kent, which produces fully a tenth of the fall wheat of the province, reports considerable improvement during the past week.

Spring seeding has been going on uninterruptedly, throughout the province for the past two weeks and a large acreage has been seeded over. Land on the whole was in excellent conditions for the seed and spring grains are coming up nicely, and a good deal of the root crop, especially early potatoes, sugar beets and mangels have been sown. Sweet clover is being heavily seeded in Leeds county, while in Frontenac interest is turning more and more towards ensilage corn, and an increased acreage is expected in that county this year.

WHERE OIL IS NEEDED.

It is recognized, of course, that it is an impossibility to oil all the streets in the city, but there is one section of roadway that has not received treatment so far this year, although it was oiled in other years, and more than ever needs it now. The reference is to Hunter street, east of Rogers street, where, by reason of the unusual traffic over this section, the dust nuisance is almost unbearable. The city's own teams, engaged in the grading work near the Westclox property, aggravate the trouble by much travel along Hunter street, and, similarly, the fact that vehicles going to St. Joseph's Hospital, the driveway to which is at present closed, have to also use the Hunter street hill, increases the necessity for protecting the residents of that section of East City from the clouds of dust. There are other streets in Peterborough possibly as bad, but this is a case in which the city itself, having been responsible for the heavy traffic over this roadway, should make some effort to mitigate the nuisance.

HALF-HOLIDAY SUGGESTION.

The season of the Thursday half-holidays is close at hand, and in this connection The Examiner ventures to suggest that the merchants of Peterborough should consider a change in arrangements this summer by which one store, at least, in each line of business would remain open. It has been found in other years that the closing of all the business places has been a distinct hardship on many people from a distance, who, unaware of the half-holiday or forgetting it, have travelled to Peterborough only to find the business section like Goldsmith's "deserted village." Tourists especially have found the one-hundred-per-cent. closing system an inconvenience, and it seems only logical that after advertising the advantages of Peterborough and bringing people into the district that some effort should be made to provide service for them. The druggists have a working agreement by which the various stores each take a turn in remaining open on Sundays, and the arrangements has worked admirably. It should be a very easy matter to arrange a similar scheme for other business concerns for the Thursday half-holiday so that it could be advertised that, although the majority of stores are closed on that day, that Peterborough will still be able to supply the wants of those who visit the city on Thursday. The suggested change would only deprive the various staffs of one half-day during the summer, and that could be made up in other ways. The Examiner is sure that the arrangement would meet with the approval of the people generally.

A PLAN TO REMEMBER.

The Guelph Chamber of Commerce has just scored a remarkable success in their "Made-in-Guelph Week," in which the extent of Guelph's manufacturing activities was demonstrated by a splendid exhibition held in the Armouries. The affair was entered into heartily by the manufacturers and business men of the Royal City, and Western Ontario newspapers declare that the show was not only an education to the people of Guelph as to the capabilities of their own industries, but was also a demonstration of co-operation and enthusiasm, which created an enviable feeling of community pride. Peterborough should keep the Guelph plan in mind, and it is especially commended to the Health Association as a splendid substitute for the annual Motor Show if, for some reason or other, that event could not be staged in other years. Peterborough's splendid manufacturing concerns would be glad to co-operate, The Examiner is sure, in a made-in-Peterborough exhibition, and the extent and variety of the articles manufactured here would make possible a demonstration that, with all respects to our Royal City friends, would surpass the exhibits shown at Guelph last week. If the Motor Show should be dropped a made-in-Peterborough week would be a worthy successor. Incidentally, the Guelph committee tackled the enterprise in the proper spirit. One of the rules of the committee in charge was a five-dollar fine for being late at committee meetings.

THE LUSITANIA AGAIN.

An Appellate Court in New York has rendered a decision which gives a judicial definition to the sinking of the Lusitania. In effect it is held that the act was one of war, and not murder premeditated and with malice, as the world outside Germany has been accustomed to regard it.

The decision is the result of a suit against an insurance company for the death of a victim of the sinking. The policy contained a clause providing that if death resulted from "war or riot," or 'from voluntary exposure to unnecessary danger," it should be void. The plaintiffs contended that the sinking of the Lusitania was murder and that "war" meant war in which the United States was engaged. The defence seems not to have pleaded the exposure to danger, the issue resting on the question of war. The insurance company thus is the victor in the suit.

While the question is decided on purely legal grounds, there is a non-legal phase not touched on by the court and that lies in the character of the war, if the sinking of the Lusitania was an act of war. We are well aware that war is a thing which cannot be commended for its mildness or its regard for the physical welfare of an enemy, says The Kingston Whig, but if war makes non-combatants and nationals having no part in the conflict fair prey it is a more dastardly proceeding than it has been portrayed at its worst. While the court may indirectly acquit Germany of the murder of the Lusitania victims, the world conscience reserves the right to hold a different opinion, and that will operate long after the court decision is forgotten.

Among the many atrocities charged, the one that stands out distinct, and of which the recollection will not down, is the indefensible sinking of the Lusitania and the deaths of hundreds of innocent persons. The act was all the more infamous in that it was never disavowed by Germany as unauthorized.

A CANOE CLUB FOR PETERBOROUGH.

The Examiner is glad to note that a meeting has been called for Thursday night for the purpose of organizing a Peterborough canoe club. It has always been a mystery why a city such as this, the home of the modern canoe and on such a splendid waterway as the Trent, should be without an organization of this kind. There are, of course, hundreds of canoeists in Peterborough, but no canoe club, no organization to engender a spirit of comradeship among those who love paddling nor to promote competitions, to develop a still greater interest in the pastime. It is true we have a series of regattas each summer at the nearby summer resorts, and for several years have had one on the Otonabee, but for the most part these events are entered by those who spend their summers at the various resorts. A strong local canoe club with officers possessing initiative and energy would put Peterborough where it belongs on the paddling map. We make the finest canoes in the world in this city and we have a river that offers unusual opportunities for the canoeist. With those assets to start with Peterborough should have one of the finest canoe clubs in the country, and The Examiner hopes that Thursday's meeting will be the starting point in a movement that will result in a revival of paddling. This city should be able to turn out a war canoe crew that could meet any competition, as well as individual paddlers qualified to enter any of the big meets of the year.

THE BATTLE OF THE SKIRTS.

A question has arisen in London, which before all is done, is likely to be raised with equal vivacity on this side of the Atlantic Ocean.

It is the question of the long skirt versus the short skirt. London is intensely agitated about it. Distinguished people, titled people, ordinary people, everybody in fact, is anxiously asking the question, "Is the long skirt coming in again?" An unconfirmed rumor has it that Mr. Lloyd George is to be hastily summoned back from Genoa to settle the question; intense excitement prevails.

Once more it is the French who are responsible. Paris has "decreed" the return of the long skirt, and this time Paris is not going to get away with it without a battle. Paris is being frankly defied. Ladies in London are openly in rebellion; one lady has gone so far as to say that even though every woman in town wears a long skirt she will wear a short one, but the trend of the discussion suggests that she will never be forced into such a position of splendid isolation.

There is, however, a large enough body of opinion favorable to the long skirt, or else willing to wear it in the event of it being laid down as absolutely essential to fashion, to cause a flutter of alarm in the breasts of certain manufacturers. The issue is being keenly debated, no one really is quite sure how it will be decided, and these gentlemen are anxious; they point to some of the results which would follow from the triumph of the long skirt and paint a gloomy picture. Thus a Mr. Skinner, who is a person of consequence in London drapery business and for whom it is claimed that "there is no better authority in the commercial world on woman's dress and fashion," has this to say:

"Long skirts—I don't think they will win—would kill the smart stocking trade. Most women dress for appearance and not for their own pleasure. If the long skirt comes, what woman will again spend £4 on a pair of silk stockings when she can get a useful stocking for 3s 6d to 5s a pair? They would kill the dainty and beautiful underwear which the short skirt has introduced, delightful little knickers and such like."

It will be universally agreed with Mr. Skinner that to "kill the smart stocking trade," to say no more than that, would be to throw a blight over our modern civilization, and in Mr. Skinner's comment is to be found perhaps the factors which will decide the victory—for the short skirt.

The short skirt has created a number of subsidiaries; some, indeed, might say that it was the subsidiary; but at any rate the short skirt has developed the silk stocking, the lace stocking, and the beautiful shoe.

These things are more than mere works of art for objects of beauty; they are commercial enterprise; they are invested capital; they are profits and dividends and wages; and when the fashion pundits of Paris "decree" skirts so long that the sunrise and sunset glories of silk hosiery are to be obscured by clouds of cloth, the Paris pundits are running their fashionable heads up against some quite tangible opposition. Invested capital is not going to be driven out of sight at the whim of a Paris dressmaker; it is going to set its wits to work and turn out a stocking and a shoe so perfectly dazzling that the idea of hiding them behind or under a long skirt will curl up sadly in some obscure corner and die of sheer vexation.

The battle of the skirts was going strong in London towards the end of April, with the long skirt staggering about groggy under a fearful barrage of short skirt argument. There need be no surprise, consequently, if it breaks out at any time now, on this side of the ocean.—Manitoba Free Press.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Lloyd George is the king of optimists. He still hopes to reach an agreement with the Soviet Government.

"Chicago Labour to Clean House" reads a newspaper heading. Not before it was necessary.

There is still no end in sight for the present session of the Ontario Legislature.

And the bonus talk is being heard again. It looks as if the only way to stop the speech-making in the Legislature would be to give the legislators a bonus if they finish before June.

LITERARY GEMS

FREEDOM.

Up on the lookout, in the wind and sleet;
Out in the woods of tamarack and pine;
Down in the hot slopes of the dripping mine
We dreamed of you, and oh, the dream was sweet!
And now you bless the felon food we eat,
And make each iron cell a sacred shrine;
For when your love thrills in the blood like wine,
The very stones grow holy to our feet!

We shall be faithful, though we march with death,
And singing storm the battlements of wrong:
One's life is such a little thing to give:
So we shall fight as long as we have breath,—
Love in our hearts, and on our lips a song;
Without you it were better not to live!

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Trying to make money often results in making trouble.

Many a man has lost chances on a sure thing because he was afraid to take chances.

Voice of the People

AN NSULT, HE SAYS.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me a little space to voice my objections to the remarks made by ex-Ald. F. Whitehouse in last Friday's issue with reference to his trip to the Old Country.

It is a gross insult to the British working man to affirm that he has degenerated morally, and the assertion that he will not work because he can get nearly as much from the State without work, is absolutely false. A man unable to get employment is assisted to the extent of 11 shippings (or two and one-half dollars) per week, and to get this, he has to line up for a whole day, twice a week.

After paying for his keep, how much would he have for the saloons and race tracks, Mr. F. W.?

The advertisement showing a steamer in dock for repairs was obviously propaganda spread by the Employers' Federation to detract public sympathy from the strikers.

Surely, Mr. F. W., you could advertise your trip to England without slandering the British working man.

Yours truly,

Fred W. Eggleton.

ENCOURAGEMENT!

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I read your editorial letter in a recent issue of the Examiner on Community singing and I thought it a very nice suggestion, for as someone has truly said, Praise is the highest form of prayer, and if we think for a moment we will conclude so too. We read of praise as a sacrifice or an offering to God, as acceptable unto Him, who delights in our gratitude, as we ourselves delight in appreciative hearts, and is it not the thankful who receive the most, and that, without really asking but simply because they are thankful.

Also I read with regret in addition upbraiding you for not having publicly recognizing the efforts put forth by the Gospel Hall folk in this connection. Oh why should they worry? Is not goodness, its own reward. When shall we as Christians do our work heartily as unto the Lord and not for praise of man, for the simply joy of doing good and making known the love of God to man. Also I could not help wondering, dear Sir, if, the writer as a Christian man had ever written a line to you of encouragment; to cheer you, who probably works while he sleeps to give him a few few thousand others their daily paper, which they read and toss aside without a thought of what it cost in over-wrought nerves and sleepless nights. No! I often see while reading my paper snappy, cruel and hard letters addressed to you but seldom a kind appreciative one.

Thanking you, dear Sir, and trusting you will find a little space for this. I am,

Yours Sincerely.

CHARITY.

Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Kindly permit these few lines in your valued paper. I receive a phone message from Mr. H. H. Dinsdale, asking me if I heard about Guss Schrader. I said no. He said he thought he had better ring me up. He said Mr. Bunton and the Police had been here and took Guss to the Hospital. I was sorry to here that Guss had took another bad turn of amonia.

Guss had Amonia in February verry bad. I took Him down hot meals and looked after him until he was better. i told him not to come out in the cold till he was stronger. I would bring him up anything he needed. I asked him if he needed any wood or Groceries, and he said no. He had quite a lot. Yet I said let me know any time you need any and i will get you some. He said all rite. i called every day for a week longer. He said he was all rite now.

i met him in the yard about a week or more after and i asked him if he needed any Groceries yet. He said that he had bin across the road to pearsons store and got some.

Some time in March Mr. Dinsdale was wanting another man. i asked Him to take Guss on. He said Guss had fooled him so much. Well, i said, try him again. We'll tell him to come on after dinner. i went up and i had a terrible time to get him to answer the door. i told him harry Dinsdale wanted him to start to work after dinner. He said he wood com on in the morning, so i told harry. The next morning was a verry cold morning and Guss did not show up. I have bin very bussy this last 2 weeks or more repairing and painting. i went in the yard, i think, about 2 weeks, i met harry Dindsdale. He asked me where he could get hold of a young fellow to help in the yard. I said Guss wood fill that Job fine. Well if he will come on he could do it all right. Harry said he would give him his price and a steady job. i was in a hurry at the time. i Just came in for a harmful of shingles to repair a roof. i run up and banged at the door for about 2 or 3 minutes. i shoved the little bord from the hale and yelled in to Guss. i told him harry wanted him to com on to work. He would give him a steady job and his price which he got before. He said he would be on in 2 or 3 days, so i told harry. Regards to the rent, Guss has not paid any rent since last fall, one month after he quit his lawn work. harry Dinsdale offered him a steady job last fall, after he had quit cutting lawns, but he said he was going to cut wood around the town. He could get lots of customers. I got him 4 coustomers, but he would not work. He has only bin paying $10.00 per month for a year or thereabout. i only charged him $4.00 per month for a long time and then $6.00 for 3 years and then $7.00 and then $10.00. When Guss got the three rooms upstairs, which is the hole flat over the stores, it was in good shape. It did not need to be called a hoyal, not fit for a dog, as Adjuant Bunton states. I offered to whiten all the rooms 2 years ago, but he would not let me in. I gave him the whitewash all ready mixed. He said he would do it himself. I asked Guss for his rent in December. He said he would pay me next summer when he started cutting lawns. He said he did not want to draw any out of the bank to pay for his rent. We lived in that old house for years and my wife allways had it shining and looking fine.

Mr. Snowden that kept the Snowden Hotell across the rode, on bussy day when his rooms were all filled, he has got my wife to let him have a couple of rooms to help him out. They are different rooms now. i have not bin in the upstairs for years. i think the Protestant Home would be the best place for Guss. He could work in the garden and cut lawns in the summer for the home, and they could let him work around the city cutting lawns part of the time and he would make some money so that he could pay for his board in the winter and the home could give him free board in the summer for working part of the time.

LESS GRAIN IS SOWN THIS YEAR IN ANSTRUTHER.

Sheep Shearing Has Started But the Quality of Wool Is Not Good Generally.

APSLEY, May 16.—Seeding is well under way, though it is reported that a smaller acreage of grain will be sown on account of the high price of seed. Seed oats are $1.10 a bushel in Apsley, and at this price the growing of oats is not a very profitable business. More corn will probably be grown as a consequence.

Sheep shearing has started earlier than usual. The wool is not of very good quality—generally—it's being more of a pest this year than ordinarily.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Mission Band Held an Interesting Meeting — Personals.

MILLBROOK, May 16. — The "Sunshine Mission Band" of the Methodist church held their regular meeting on Friday evening with 19 members in attendance. The president, Miss K. Freelove, was in the chair for the first time since her election to office. After the business part of the meeting was concluded Elsie Spence gave a reading, and Miss Byam took the topic, giving an interesting talk on missions in the South Sea Islands, and also some account of the city of Van, in Armenia. Mrs. B. R. Raper, the newly-appointed Superintendent of the Band, took up her duties for the first time at Friday's meeting.

A treat of candy was provided for the boys and girls before they left for home.

A New Position.

Mr. Morgan Carry, a former manager of the Bank of Toronto here, has resigned from the bank staff, and is now travelling for the Langlow Furniture Co. of Cobourg, taking up his residence in that town. He made a business trip to Millbrook this week, and renewed acquaintances with many old friends.

St. Thomas' Church.

The A. Y. P. A. of St. Thomas' church held their meeting on Thursday evening, the president, Mr. R. Stone, being in the chair. There was a good attendance of members present. After the opening devotional period the usual routine business was atended to. An invitation from the Lakefield young people to join them in their special A.Y.P.A. services on Sunday, May 21st was received, and discussed. The number who may be able to accept the invitation and go to Lakefield on that date will not be definitely known till next week.

An interesting debate, "Resolved, that reading is more beneficial than travelling," was held with Miss May Attwooll, and Mr. Albert Dunn on the affirmative, while Miss Elsie Weeks and Mr. Maurice Gray upheld the negative; the former won out by a small number of points.

The usual enjoyable social hour brought the meeting to a close.

The judges for the debate were Rev. Canon Allen, Mrs. C. R. Spencer and Mrs. J. A. Vance.

James McGolpin.

The late James McGolpin, whose funeral took place on Wednesday, May 10th, to the Presbyterian cemetery, Millbrook, was born in Ballyclare, County of Antrim, Ireland, 45 years ago. He was one of a family of eleven children, only two others of whom are now living. His parents, though living to a ripe old age, both predeceased him, his father's death occurring four years ago at the age of 84, and his mother's thirteen years ago when in her 73rd year. Mr. Golpin passed away at the comparatively early age of 45 years after six months' illness with a malignant tumor in the lower side of his face, the growth being inside the mouth, an occasional slight swelling being the only trace visible from the outside. For the last five weeks of his life deceased was confined entirely to his bed and at times suffered considerable pain.

In 1920 Mr. Golpin first came to this countryy, his funeral taking place eaxctly two years from the day he left Ballyclare on his journey to Canada. The immediate surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Robert Cunningham, who resides in Ireland, and Mrs. E. J. Horner, with whom deceased made his home in Toronto and Millbrook, in both of which places they have lived since coming to Canada.

The late Mr. McGolpin was of a very cheerful disposition, and readily made many friends with the majority of those with whom he came in contact. He was a Presbyterian in religion, but for a time belonged also to the Salvation Army, attending their meetings regularly while living in the city.

Rev. Mr. Gervan had charge of the funeral services, and the pallbearers were: Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. O'Brian, S. E. Eakins, W. E. Ball, D. Robinson and W. Deyell.

Accepted Invitation.

Rev. (Captain) Harston of the Cambourne circuit, who is well known as a worker in boys' organizations, and whom several of the Millbrook C.S.E.T. boys enjoyed meeting last winter at the Boys' Conference at Cobourg, has accepted an invitation to go to Woodville this year. The boys will be glad that Capt. Harston is not leaving the Bay Conference.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sloan, and daughter, Gracie, visited friends in Port Hope and Bowmanville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Bradley and Miss Lillie Clarke motored to Peterborough on Friday evening and attended "Th Sheik's Wife" at the Capitol.

The Orangemen of this district will go to Lindsay this year for the celebration on the 12th of July.

Mrs. E. J. Horner and her little granddaughter, Henrietta McGolpin, are moving to Toronto on Tuesday, where they will make their home with her son, Mr. William Horner. The latter with his wife and baby boy removed to the city about three weeks ago.

Miss Theo McBride attended the annual meeting of the Anglican W. A. in Toronto this week, going as the delegate from the Girls' Branch here. According to the reports in the daily press the sessions have been more than usually interesting and helpful, and a large number of delegates were in attendance.

Mrs. Thos. Medd, of Peterborough has been spending the past week at her former home here.

Mr. Chas. Needler, who was home for a week's holidays, returned to his position with the Maple Leaf Milling Co. in Toronto, on Monday.

Mr. Holmes, who spent the winter with his daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) C. R. Spencer, returned to his home at Wilberforce last week.

GROWING children need to be watched carefully for constipation, biliousness, feverishness, etc., for these so often turn into serious ailments. Miss Gertrude Steeves of St. Steven, N. Prince Edward Island Lady gives her Experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills for the Benefit of other Sufferers.

Albany, P.E.I., May 15.—(Special.)—Mrs. Phalen McInnes, a well known resident here, is always ready to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. She has used them and found them good.

"I suffered for eighteen months from the after effects of a cold," Mrs. McInnes says. "I was troubled with lumbago, backache, headache and heart flutterings. After being treated by a doctor I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

'I took five boxes and found them of considerable benefit. They have improved my appetite and relieved a severe pain I had in my back. I can recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to others who suffer as I have."

Mrs. McInnes' troubles came from the kidneys. That is why Dodd's Kidney Pills proved effective in her case.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the greatest of all kidney remedies.

Crops Promising.

Gardens and field crops are all in splendid condition and fully up to a normal season's record, in spite of the frequently heard wail that this would be a late spring. A warm gentle rain just at present would do a great deal of good, and growth would proceed rapidly.

DR. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Business men should remember that.

Cocoa, made the FRY way, from the world's choicest beans, is pure, extremely soluble and of most delicious flavour. Nearly two hundred years' knowledge of the cocoa business stands back of FRY'S. Of course, remember

Home for a Hot Dinner

TOM JACKSON used to complain about losing his "pep" about the middle of the afternoon. The cold noon-lunch in his tin can didn't stand by him through the long afternoon. And he certainly got good and sick of carrying his cold lunch with him every day. His wife also got tired of putting up lunches.

Tom Feels Fine Now

He bought a C. C. M. bicycle and goes home for a hot dinner.

He says there's nothing like a noon spin to freshen one up, and nothing like a good hot dinner to stand by you through the afternoon's work.

Tom says if he were an Efficiency Expert he'd order bicycles and hot dinners at home for all the "lunch-pail sufferers" in the place.

He would go even further than that. He would have them get bikes with the

C.C.M. Triplex Hanger

Tom is a "Triplex" booster.

He says, "It's the hanger that gives the most speed—and pep—and power." Every bit of weight you put on the pedals counts for speed. And there are none of those mean "tight and loose" spots often developed by other crank hangers.

Tom also admires the accuracy of the C. C. M. workmanship. Being a master mechanic himself, he can appreciate the value of a bicycle many of the parts of which are made to even closer limits than were the time fuses on shells.

He also knows that the sparkling C. C. M. nickelling will keep bright and not rust, because it is done over copper. And he says he never saw smoother, niftier, or tougher enamelling than that on his new C. C. M. bicycle.

Hercules Coasts Farther

The other day when he was riding with a friend, Tom found he could coast farther with his Hercules Brake — "the Little Fellow with the Giant Grip" — than his friend could with another make. That tickled Tom, but didn't please the other fellow, who now wishes he'd chosen a C. C. M.

Fewer Repairs Lasts Years Longer

C. C. M. Bicycles have many features that make them worth more than ordinary bicycles. The extra satisfaction you get more than pays the difference in price between a cheap bike and a C. C. M. And there are always fewer repairs required on a good bicycle, not to mention the extra years of service it gives. Many C. C. M. Bicycles are giving good service after ten to fifteen years' riding over all kinds of roads.

A C. C. M. may be had to-day for fewer days' wages than before the war.

Tom says his C. C. M. isn't costing him a cent. He will soon have it paid for with the money he's saved on car fare and shoe leather.

And he never felt so well in years.

The deceased, who had resided in Havelock for the past few months, had gone back to the farm on business when he was suddenly stricken with pneumonia, to which he succumbed after a week's illness. The late Mr. Stephens was a man of kindly disposition and had a wide circle of friends. Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Little, and a son, Bert of Seymour, and a widow by his second marriage, also one brother, McIntosh, of Seymour. The deceased was a faithful member of St. Andrew's church. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Black, and interment will take place in Burnbrae cemetery. Universal sympathy is extended to the family in their bereavement.

Epworth League.

A very interesting and profitable meeting of the Epworth League was held last evening, and in the absence of the president, the first vice-president, Mrs. Thring, ably presided, and Miss Nellie Turner led in the opening prayer. The topic was ably taken by Mr. Thos. J. Craighead, who gave an excellent paper on the "Unchangeableness of Christ," following which Miss Cherrie Turner gave a piano solo, which was, as usual, much appreciated. Miss Frances Dingman and Master Harry Boyd gave very humorous readings, Mrs. Thring gave a short reading which was most helpful, and Mrs. C. W. Turner, in fine voice, rendered the solo, "Abide With Me," most effectively. The meeting closed with the League benediction.

GREAT PROMISE

what do you think of that?" said one of the farmers upon arriving at the destination. Stretching away, as far as the eye could reach, were hundreds of acres of rye—18,000 of them in all—looking in the pink of condition. Standing already some seven or eight inches high, the fresh green shoots certainly presented a picture that would have gladdened the heart of any farmer. "It's the biggest field of rye in the province," said the conductor; "and the best I have ever seen" said another, "wish I had just sown common rye. This will go thirty-five bushels to the acre."

This point opened up a conversation on rye in general. It would appear that much advertised varieties have not come through the winter at all. Will, while the ordinary cereal bids fair to beat all records. The newspaperman had to admit that everything "in the garden" looked lovely. "Say," said he, "but couldn't you do with a good shower of rain"? There was a good humored laugh at the expense of the ink-slinger at this remark. 'Bring me a spade," said one of the party. "Its a — — of a hike to find one" returned another. "You are hedging' 'retorted the scrib. "I did not come from Missouri, but—" The one who had asked for a spade was a man of action. He found an implement for digging holes for fence posts which answered the purpose beter. "Six to four the moisture does not go below twelve inches" said the newspaperman, "taken" said the hercules with the strange looking farming appliance,, "and I'll give you another six to one that we don't strike in sixteen inches."

"I am looking for infomation, not easy money" said the scribe, "then let her go said the brawny one, giving a mighty prod, another thus and yet another, until a hole exceeding sixteen inches had been bored, but the soil—it was now the subsoil—continued to be as wet as soft clay. In his conversation which followed all thought of the bets were forgotten. Even the newspaperman could honestly have pleaded a case of Lapsus Mentus. The great outstanding fact had been revealed that there was more moisture in the soil that had been known for years. And herein lies the optimism of the farmers of that section of Alberta juncture. No, not optimist but sheer confidence of a big crop this year. May June rains bring that magnificent stretch of rye to full maturity.

Photographic Copy of a Telegram Mrs. Thorne Received from Geraldine Caldwell.

PRETTY and petite Mrs. Virginia Milner Thorne, divorced wife of the millionaire Chicago clubman, Gordon C. Thorne, clicked her latchkey in the lock of her dainty apartment at No. 20 West Sixty-ninth street, New York. She was tired after her long day's ride from Chicago. She was glad to be home again—back to the cozy suite where she has lived comfortably but quietly since she received her freedom and $750 a month alimony in a court decree a year ago.

"Gerry!" called Mrs. Thorne, switching on the electrics. There was no answer. She had left her apartment in possession of a girl friend, Geraldine Caldwell, who was temporarily "down on her luck," pending the fulfilment of stage ambitions. Mrs. Thorne had hospitably taken her in.

"I guess Gerry's out," remarked Mrs. Thorne to her maid. "As soon as you unpack, Marie, fix a bath. I'm simply perishing! And get out some fresh lingerie, please."

Mrs. Thorne entered her boudoir—and stopped. Her jewel box, which she generally kept in the drawer of the dressing table, was lying open on its top. Three of her rings were gone. So was her black onyx placque with the Russian wolfhound studded in diamonds and the bow-knot jeweled pin she particularly prized for its memories. Mrs. Thorne, momentarily resentful, laughed. Gerry, she thought, had indeed "made herself at home."

She walked to the closet, unhooking her cape. The accustomed row of cloaks and gowns seemed depleted. Yes, at least one frock was missing and her beautiful wrap of black canton crepe. Still Mrs. Thorne preserved her good humor.

Marie, the maid, was standing before the chiffonier, pulling out drawer after drawer. Suddenly she swung about to Mrs. Thorne with a single expressive French gesture.

"Madame, your lingerie is gone!"

Amazement was Mrs. Thorne's first emotion. She couldn't believe it. Why, she'd left stacks and stacks of chiffon and crepe de chine snuggled into their proper receptacle!

It was too much! Jewelry—she didn't mind. Her black wrap—all right. Even a frock or two she could forgive. But to borrow under any circumstances, let alone to grab without any "by-your-leave" at all, the soft and silken pretties, foamy with lace and ribbons, which every woman cherishes as she does beauty itself—that was beyond endurance!

Mrs. Thorne summoned the superintendent of the apartment, Milton Whitley. He said he helped Mrs. Caldwell pack two bags just the day before—that Mrs. Caldwell called him to the apartment and had him hand down the suit cases from a shelf. He said he watched her opening the bureau, chiffonier, desk and closets, piling her selections on the bed. Whitley stated in the affidavit he later made for Mrs. Thorne:

"Said Geraldine Caldwell directed him to pack those things into bags, and deponent, thinking it unusual, remarked to said Geraldine Caldwell, 'That's Mrs. Thorne's!' and she replied, 'Pack!' Deponent states that he did as he was told, closed the bags and subsequently deposited them, at her request, in a taxicab."

Right on top of her interview with the superintendent Mrs. Thorne got a telephone call. It was from Miss Alice King, an old Chicago friend, manager of the Curtis-Bell Studios, smart Fifth avenue photographers, and what Miss King had to tell Mrs. Thorne was an earful.

"That Mrs. Caldwell was in here the other day. She had her picture taken. And what do you think, Virginia? She was wearing your rings and your onyx placque and your monkey fur cape and heaven knows what else that belongs to you!"

Mrs. Thorne's last hope that "Gerry" had merely gone out for a stroll and would return shortly had been dispelled by the superintendent's story of the bags and the taxicab. Burning with the thought of her "borrowed" lingerie, she telephoned the Travelers' Insurance Company. To a representative of the company, who called an hour later, she explained the condition of affairs.

"Who is this girl? How long have you known her?"

Mrs. Thorne hesitated. She had met Mrs. Caldwell last year in Chicago. They had a number of mutual friends among the young married set. Then, when they met again at a tea in New York recently, she had sympathized with Mrs. Caldwell's efforts to return to the stage. It was only a short step to inviting her home for a few days. That was all, except—oh, yes: Mrs. Caldwell had said she was born in Johannesburg, South Africa, and she had an aunt in Toronto.

Armed with this slender information, the insurance company's representative sought Mrs. Caldwell's ex-roommate, Gladys Jordon, a chorus girl in "The Blue Kitten" company. Miss Jordon chuckled a chuck or two about South Africa. She said it was more likely South Halsted street. The aunt? Sure, she had the address and, come to think of it, Gerry had said she was going to visit her.

Mrs. Thorne wired Canada. Three telegrams got no answer. Then came a long distance call. Mrs. Caldwell didn't understand what her friend meant by such sharp telegrams. What if she had borrowed a suit case and one or two unimportant things? Lingerie? How absurd!

"Go up there and get your stuff," advised the representative of the insurance company. Mrs. Thorne went. She was accompanied by Miss King. They had affidavits—Miss King's own and the superintendent's. In Toronto they got a search warrant. Two detectives, the Toronto agent of the insurance company and an adjustor went with Mrs. Thorne and her friend to the home of Mrs. Caldwell's aunt.

There the sad little comedy had its climax. Threats and pleadings, tears and reproaches! "You gave them to me!" from Gerry. "I did not!" from Mrs. Thorne. "Oh, Virginia, you've ruined my chances to get a millionaire husband!" "Well, I only hope you haven't ruined my lingerie!"

The detectives insisted on taking Mrs. Caldwell to the police station, but Mrs. Thorne refused to bring formal charges.

So far as Mrs. Thorne is concerned the incident is closed, but from her former friend she has received three telegrams. One read:

"Have said nothing about you yet, also have witnesses to this effect, but unless you stop talking and have others stop until you receive letter I am writing I shall not be responsible for anything that happens."

Another said in part: "Have been interviewed by reporters, who request story in reference to your alimony and conduct since divorce, but have remained silent. I am doing this on assumption you are doing likewise. You are aware of what I absolutely know about your affairs, but neither of us are after unpleasant notoriety."

Presumably Mrs. Caldwell refers to what happened at Mrs. Thorne's divorce trial, when Judge Henry Lewis, after granting her $750 a month alimony, said: "You must remember that if you do anything wrong or your conduct is not that of a good woman at any time, he can come in here and have this order changed so as to reduce this alimony."

"He" is Gordon Thorne, who was sued by Mary Lygo, Ziegfeld Follies beauty, after she twice tried to kill herself for love of him. If Thorne is worrying either about this or his alimony payments, however, the latest photographs from Palm Beach, showing him lolling on the sands with Corinne Barker and other beauties, do not indicate it, and certainly Mrs. Thorne herself isn't worrying.

"Let Gerry threaten all she wants to," she says. "My friends know that since my divorce I have lived in New York very quietly. I do not go out much. I have refused many invitations to dances and dinner parties. The loss of my clothes and jewels is the first unpleasantness I have had. As for Gerry talking—fudge! To show you what I think of her telegrams—here they are. Publish them!"

At Left, Geraldine Caldwell, Photographed in the Clothing and Jewels of Mrs. Virginia Thorne, According to Miss King's Affidavit.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Choir Concert at St Paul's

(By Jeannette.)

The choir concert given in St. Paul's church last evening, in celebration of its anniversary, taxed its seating capacity of between twelve and thirteen hundred, to the utmost. Mr. Chenhall, the talented organist of the church, provided an entertainment which the music-loving people of Peterborough were quick to appreciate, with a result which should be particularly gratifying to himself and his choir. Hours of hard work were doubtless spent by both to provide the presentation of the charming cantata, "The Rose Maiden," which was offered for the first time to Peterborough audiences with such splendid effect last night. The choir's part in this production was eminently satisfactory. Augmented to nearly 50 voices, with assisting singers from other city choirs, it was well balanced in its several parts, and acquitted itself with well-merited approbation. The cantata makes considerable demands on the contributing chorus and the choir offered a satisfactory background for the galaxy of artistes to whom fell the solo parts. The symphonic story of the fairy queen who tires of her unloved state and yearns for the loves and woes of ordinary human kind was told in song, with a degree of expressive shading which interpreted with sympathetic feeling the variations of the pretty tale, from the pastoral effect of the introductory chorus, "Green vale, and vine-clad mountain," the rhythmic sweetness of 'Mid the waving rose trees," to the bright measures of "'Tis thy wedding morning," perhaps the most outstanding of the choral numbers, with a melodious outburst of soaring melody in the finale, 'Yea, e'en as die the roses."

The choir gave a splendid rendition of an effective setting of "In Flanders Fields," by Mr. Chenhall.

Splendid Assistance.

In his selection of the soloists for the occasion, Mr. Chenhall was particularly happy and deserved the gratitude of his audience in this respect. Miss Edna Reid, soprano, to whom fell the major part of the text of the cantata, so far as the soprano numbers were concerned, possesses a voice that ranges from high, clear, powerful volume in the upper register to a rich sonority in the lower tones. 'Bloom on, my roses" was Miss Reid's major offering during the rendering of the cantata, a lovely number, with its reiterated motif to the tinkling, faint harp accompaniment rising to a vibrating, high final note.

It is perhaps unfortunate that the composer allotted such a small part to the contralto's voice, for Miss Vera McLean disclosed a voice of real charm, displaying a range of native sweetness in her singing. With full, rounded tone, a quality singularly rich and velvety, splendid enunciation, and a plaintive under-current to the pure, soulful tones, she has a voice that truly satisfies, and that brought from her hearers renewed applause. "Ask of yon ruined castle," and a trio for soprano, contralto and baritone, entitled, "Hast thou wandered " with harp accompaniment were Miss McLean's contributions to the text of the cantata.

Frank Oldfield.

Superatives, of course, become exhausted when referring to the work of Peterborough's favorite baritone, Mr. Frank Oldfield. A true artist, a sincere interpreter of every line of his lovely music, he sings with simple effect and convincing intelligence, in a voice of extraordinary beauty and expression. The baritone solo, "Where gloomy pine trees rustle," brought out the free, resonant richness of his tones, with their arresting vocalization, and the duet for soprano and baritone, "The rose of love' was tenderly effective.

In Mr. Sidney Walsh, the tenor recitative and arias received adequate and artistic rendition. Mr. Walsh has a voice of much power, which he uses with ability. "The sleep of even," was well received, and "For from the summer blossom," both with harp accompaniment, was a particularly good recitative selection, delivered with sympathetic feeling.

Conductor's Work.

An innovation in Peterborough was the inclusion of Mr. J. Quintile, harpist, in the cantata accompaniments. His assistance added much to their beauty. The choral accompaniments played on two pianos and organ by the Misses I. Donnelly and Agnes Logan, and Mr. Fred Chenhall, were exceptionally well executed, the prelude to the cantata making a charming introduction to the effective rendering which followed. In discharging his manifold duties as conductor and accompanist, Mr. M. B. Chenhall had a major part, in which he acquitted himself with the authority and skill of a veteran in the work.

Solos Good.

In their choice of selections for the miscellaneous programme which followed the cantata, the visiting artistes were particularly happy. Every number was a gem, in which the soloists demonstrated their versatility in the most popular realm of music. Mr. Sidney Walsh sang "For You Alone," his powerful, ringing tones softening to sweet minor cadences in the charming encore, "Until," by Sanderson. Miss McLean won enthusiastic applause with the bright, bird-song inflections of "Break o' Day," and a rendition of "Annie Laurie," with harp accompaniment, which has seldom been surpassed in Peterborough for soulful interpretation, the richness and expression of her beautiful voice in this old favorite bringing bursts of prolonged enthusiasm from her hearers.

Mr. Oldfield sang with sonorous richness and admirable style, the ringing measures of "Shipmates o' Mine," and, although not in the best of physical condition last night, responded with his usual generosity to a prolonged encore, with the touching sweetness of "I Passed by Your Window," and, to still further applause, sang the quaint little ditty, "Down Exeter Way."

Accompaniments for Mr. Oldfield and Mr. Walsh were played with sympathetic feeling by Mrs. Oldfield.

Miss Edna Reed's numbers were "Love is a Merchant," a dainty number in rapid tempo, with vibrant, high, bell-like tones, and, to an insistent encore, she gave with expressive and sympathetic feeling, the old song which never tires, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

An evening of complete enjoyment was brought to a close by Mr. Joseph Quintile, in a series of harp selections. With masterly skill and artistic interpretation, he held his audience spellbound in his selections on this little-known instrument, with its romantic atmosphere, its delicate pizzicati notes and slurred, trailing chords, its tinkling scales and faint, fragile, far-away cadences. A "Mazurka" was played with airy sweetness, followed by a dainty encore, holding the attention to the last delicately-spun note, and a rippling, softly-touched rendition of "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms." Prolonged applause followed the harpists's numbers.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of To-day.)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

PAVING RESOLUTION

have to be paid an inspector if a private contractor secured the job.

Mr. Parsons told Ald. Jones he had charged about half the cost of a mixer to the job, and admitted that this percentage was high.

"I feel like doing away with it until we can do it right", said Ald. Jones. "I don't think either price is high enough for a good job. We decided last year for bitulithic".

Promise to Hydro

Ald. Phelan said he had not been in favour of paving this year, but the city was under an obligation to the Hydro-Electric Commission to pave George street south. This work involved seven or eight thousand square yards which Ald. Phelan considered wasn't enough to warrant the purchase of a big plant. He also emphasized the point that if the work was done by the city it would take quite a sum ou tof this year's taxes.

Ald. Holloway said he would be in favour of buying a paving plant if the Council had mapped out an extensive programme or intended to pave Hunter street east next year.

Ald. Gainey recalled that he always supported day labour in municipal contracts but if this paving job was only a small one he felt that it would be good business to accept the lowest tender. If the city purposes paving Hunter, McDonnell and other streets the best way was to purchase a mixer and a good one.

Ald. Morrison said that the mixer Mr. Parsons planned to buy was not big enough. It was a standard mixer but its capacity was too small.

Radio Novice

SIMPLE RECEIVING SET

When radio settles down to real business, the radio novice will become popular.

That's the prediction of engineers who are working in Pittsburgh, Pa., on a compact receiving set for the future fan.

The novice, it is explained, is a radio fan who is interested merely in the reception of radio concerts and cares nought about how the receiving set works.

Amateur Today.

Today, the radio amateur is in the limelight. Most members of this tribe put up their own sets, and experiment with the apparatus until they get what they desire. The number of novices is small compared with the amateurs.

That's because practically every radio receiving set on the market today requires some knowledge of wireless to get good results.

Novices will spring up, say experts, when a set comes out that will require as little attention as the modern phonograph. The pushing of a button, a minor adjustment, and the radio concert desired will "come in."

Simple Set.

For this end, engineers of one of the largest radio manufacturing concerns in the country are applying their skill. In the laboratories in East Pittsburg, they are working on a cabinet radio receiving set, the only adjustment for which they say will be a small lever, or a push button.

There are some cabinet sets already on the market. But they are only the forerunners of a perfected type, say the radio engineers, which will require as little adjustment as possible. When that is accomplished, radio receiving sets will become popular as the modern phonograph.

They will be bought by what engineers term the "novice."

AREA OF OCCUPATION NOT TO BE EXTENDED.

LONDON, May 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Austen Chamberlain, Government leader in the House of Commons, stated in the House yesterday that no preparations were being made either in France or Belgium for the extension of the area of occupation in Germany if reparations due May 31 were not paid.

In reply to a question, Mr. Chamberlain said the next meeting of the League of Nations would be held September 4, but that the question of admitting Germany and Russia into membership had not appeared on the agenda.

U. S. IS WAITING FOR ANOTHER INVITATION

GENOA, May 16. — (Canadian Press.)—United States' Ambassador Child issued the following statement last evening:

"There has been no acceptance by the United States Government of the invitation to participate in the proposed experts' conference to deal with Russia. The United States' Government has answered sympathetically to inquiries and proposals made by several powers through the president of the Conference, and awaits a final and formal invitation with definite ground upon which its decision must stand."

Eye Strain

NOTHING so certainly breaks down the nervous system as constant straining of the eyes.

You may think that sewing is light work, and wonder why it tires you.

It is the strain on the eyes.

The controlling of the sight is the most delicate work of the nervous system, and when there is strain on the eyes there is an enormous waste of nervous energy.

There are times when it seems necessary to stick at this work for long hours and to sew by artificial light, but you may have to pay for it by a nervous breakdown.

It is then well to know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of restoring a run-down nervous system.

Whatever may be the cause of your nervous breakdown, it has been demonstrated in many thousands of cases that there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to restore the depleted nerve cells.

Headaches, tired feelings, sleeplessness, indigestion, lack of energy and appetite are some of the indications of an exhausted condition of the nerves.

Your digestive system is failing to supply the necessary nutrition to the blood and nerves, so it becomes necessary to employ such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The present financial condition of the Peterboroughb Radial Railway would not justify any extensions, it was stated The letter was received.

He said they put in a drainage system after they purchased the plant from H. Mr. Wearing said there was no way out for the sewage and he urged that the city remedy the condition before warm weather sets in. The letter was referred to the Board of Works.

SPECIAL COILS FOR LONG WAVES

BY R. L. DUNCAN,
Director, Radio Institute of America

"Listening in" on broadcasting is one thing, picking up long-wave transmission is another.

Many stations operate on wave lengths up to 20,000 meters.

But the amateur may copy them all on the some set — if he uses honeycomb or duo-lateral coils.

There is a special mounting for these coils which allows them to be changed at will.

The coils are rated according to the number of turns of their wire. A coil marked L-75 has 75 turns, etc. The arrangement is simple. Due to the small cost of the coils, they should be purchased rather than made at home.

Hook-Up.

Referring to the diagram for the hook-up of the honeycomb or duo-lateral circuit:

No. 1 is the primary coil.
No. 2, the secondary coil.
No. 3—Tickler.
No. 4—Variable condenser of .0005 microfarads capacity shunted across the secondary.
No. 5—Grid condenser and grid leak.
No. 6—Filament in the tube.
No. 7—Plate in the tube.
No. 8—Grid in the tube.
No. 9—Six-volt storage battery.
No. 10—Rheostat for the six-volt battery.
No. 11—"B" battery of 22½ volts.
No. 12—Headphone which should be from 2,000 to 3,000 ohms resistance.

No. 13—Another variable condenser of .0005 microfarads capacity in series with the antenna or ground lead.

This is an ideal receiving apparatus for any kind of reception regardless of the wave length.

Although one can receive signals by just using the primary and secondary coils, it should be borne in mind that the tickler, which furnishes the regeneration of the set, increases the strength of the incoming signals enormously.

When purchasing these coils ask for them by number. For example, if you want coils for 350 meters, ask for L-50, L-25 and L-75.

One mounting is all that is necessary, for all the coils may be attached to it. This mounting costs $6.50. The price of the coils is $1 and up, depending on the size.

How To Select Honeycomb Coils

Here are the sizes of honeycomb coils to be employed for various wave lengths:

Wave Lengths	Primary Coil Turns	Secondary Coil Turns	Tickler Coil Turns
200 - 450 meters	50	25 or 50	75
400 - 825 "	150	100	100
800 - 1850 "	200	150	100
1500 - 2750 "	300	200	150
2500 - 4200 "	200	300	150
4000 - 6350 "	300	400	200
6200 - 14500 "	1250	750	400
13000 - 20000 "	750	1250	400

The matter of the use of the tennis courts caused some discussion, and it was finally decided that the courts should be for the use of the paid-up members only, though it was pointed out that the active membership was not necessarily limited to members of the church. A committee was appointed to take charge of the courts and to make the necessary arrangements that all members might get a chance to play and to receive and act on any complaints. The following members are on the committee: Miss Mae Stone, Convener; Miss Audrey Lacheur, Miss Olga Johnson, Miss Gertrude Smith, S. Willis, G. Barraclough, Donald Murray and Harry Holbrook.

Miss Olga Johnson, who was the leader of the winning debating team, was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Miss Beryl Bates on behalf of the ladies of the organization, and as an expression of their appreciation of the good work she had done.

It was decided that the ladies of the organization should be tendered a banquet by the men at the next meeting, which will be held on Monday evening.

This medicine acts upon the Liver, causing it to excrete ile into the intestines, giving a natural, easy movement of the bowels. A few hours after taking you will get almost instant relief from Headaches, Indigestion, Rheumatism, Constipation, Impure Blood, Kidney Pains, etc.

Tanated Calomel is harmless and easy to take. No salts or seidlitz are necessary after taking. It will be worth millions to people who have been sickly for years. It is also the best medicine for spring, when so many people are troubled with that tired, heavy, listless feeling. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist, F. C. Oh, Victoria! Stays Again!

Back to the Victorian era and corset stays! Back to basques first of all, which is where our grandmothers started, too.

If you regard this return of the corset with disquiet, just glance at the new frocks that make it necessary and you'll be comforted. They are such quaint old-world affairs with their snug basques, trim waists and billowing skirts! They are trimmed with prim flutings. They have demure collars. They have flowing bell sleeves.

Decidedly, if one must wear corsets, there are compensations. Regarding these new frocks with judicious impartiality one admits that one has been, perhaps, a trifle harsh with the corset for the past several seasons.

LET CONTRACT FOR FACTORY

Sullivan and Fried of Toronto Will Erect the Westclox Buildings—E. Hensley Has Plumbing.

The letting of additional contracts for the construction of the Western Clock Company's new factory on Armour Hill, has been announced by Mr. J. H. Vernor, superintendent, who arrived home on Saturday from La Salle, where the parent office of "Big Ben" is located. The main contract for the buildings went to Sullivan and Fried of Toronto, the plumbing and heating to Ernest Hensley, Peterboro, the electrical work to Chas. Bowra of Oshawa, and the brick smokestack will be built separately by the Canadian Custodis Chimney Co.

These contracts were let by tender to the lowest bidder in each instance and are subject to very strict specifications. The contract to Sullivan and Fried includes three buildings, the main factory, the plating, lacquering and buffing building and the boiler house. Mr. Vernor said he was sorry only one of these contracts was obtained by Peterboro firms. The remaining contracts will be disposed of shortly.

In the meantime the work on the buildings is expected to be started almost immediately. The general plans have been slightly modified to improve the appearance of the building more effectively than the original provided for. These changes apply particularly to the amount of dressed stone used. In the plating building the company will incorporate a special floor that has been evolved in the company's long experience and is used in only one other plating plant, the parent Westclox factory. This idea has the special advantage of keeping the floor dry and thereby protecting the health of the employees of that department.

Be Suspicious of Tender Gums

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system.

Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

CHAPTER XXXVIII—PLANTING AN ACORN.

"Haven't I another shirt?" Jack called from the small dressing room back of the in-a-dor bed.

"Yes, dear!" I answered absentmindedly.

It was a morning when Jack had "a prospect at our end of town, therefore he could afford to be a little late in leaving home.

"Where is my other shirt?"

"In the third drawer, dearest!" I answered briefly because I was meditating about what to do with one of the letters the janitor had slipped under the door of the living-room. It was from dear old Mr. Tearle. I knew from the writing. It must be about our scheme to let Bonny elope, if she wanted to, but to get her to elope with the man of her father's choice.

And what, or how much of that secret had I a right to tell Jack? If Bart eventually were to marry Bonny, would it be nice for any man to know that Bart had been framed? For what is match-making, if not that?

"There isnt any shirt in that drawer, Peggins!" came my husband's patient voice.

"Oh, yes! There must be! Try again!"

I came out of my meditation, suddenly appalled by the knowledge that if Jack had no clean shirt to put on it was all my fault!

I had not been at home when the laundry man rang, I hadn't been at home for two weeks in succession, or was it three? It was—it was! No wonder Jack was short of shirts and collars!

He must have noticed his dwindling stock and said to himself that he would get along somehow! I had managed very badly, and Jack had not complained.

And now he was reduced to his last shirt! And the huge bundle of soiled linen had not even been sent out of the house!

aMny a bride has commited this identical crime, none perhaps ever paid for it with more remorse than I. Dear old misused hubby! His mother had never neglected him that way, I knew. But Jack was not a husband to hurl his mother's biscuits at his wife.

I wanted to explain about the laundry, to tell Jack how terribly sorry I felt when this unfortunate speech floated from the dressing-room:

"This settles it! I'll be late keeping my appointment!"

I knew perfectly well that Jack was kidding me, teasing a little, it was his way of saving my feelings, of making me laugh when I felt like crying, but the situation didn't appeal to me as one bit funny. His trifling speech was the last straw, a mere wisp, but big enough to make me decide what to do with Mr. Tearle's letter.

I thrust it inside my blouse, then hurried to my husband, saying:

"Oh, Jack! Please keep still! Until I find your shirt!"

I found it, not where I had said it was, but where I had put it myself, in my work-basket! I had taken pains to put it there so I'd remember to turn the cuffs which were fringed where they fold.

(To Be Continued.)

WELL-KNOWN MAN HAS PASSED AWAY.

FORT WILLIAM, May 16.—(Canadian Press.)—George Hanna, romantic figure in this city, was found dead Sunday in his room. Claiming to be close to eighty years of age, Hanna was as sprightly as a boy and worked sixteen hours a day regularly. He was the first motion picture operator here and held a variety of other positions. In his trunk was found a collection of more than 3,500 postage stamps.

His son, Elsa Hanna, is in a California Sanitarium as a result of mental strain, following too close a study of wireless. George Hanna comes from Bright's Corners, Ont., where his brother resides.

'here is a knocking just outside,
But you do not heed its sound.

Of which the streets abound,
ut if you opened wide the door
Before it was too late,

An angel at the gate!

nd though he keeps on knocking,
You open not the door,

There oft in years before.
nd sometimes with a frowning bro
You turn away in haste,
ut if you raised the latch you'll fi
An angel at the gate!

'ith light a'shining on his brow,
With gifts into each hand,

The sorrows of the land.
ut you will not heed his knock,
His ways seem not your fate;
ut oh! if you would let him in,
This angel at the gate.

Of him that's standing nigh

As the years are passing by.
His name is love—true, warm sweet love,
And he does stand and wait
For you to take within your heart
This angel at the gate!

—May M. LaFarge

The real is seldom as beautiful or enticing as the imagined. We picture a foreign country,—Italy or Southern France, for instance,—and we combine the bluest skies we have ever seen with the most exhilarating climate, the most picturesque and interesting towns, the most piquant people, together with other characteristics which we have heard connected with the region, all in exaggerated form. When we come to see the reality we are disappointed because, not only have we failed to take into consideration the disagreeable elements, which are always mingled to a certain degree with the more agreeable parts in all of the earth, but we have also, in our minds, enlarged upon the virtues to such an extent that no actuality could approach them.

It is for this reason that plans and dreams preceding an occasion often surpass in pleasure the occasion itself. So, if we have not the money to taste all the luxuries of life or to travel to foreign ports, we can at least plan on having the opportunity some day, and out of our plans will, perhaps, get more pleasure than our more opulent neighbor derives from experiencing the actuality. We can read and dream of moonlit nights under the willowy trees of the South Sea Islands, with the crooning of native melodies, accompanied by soft lapping of waves on pebbly beaches, lulling us into drowsiness. If we were to visit the South Sea Islands would we experience the same sensations, or would we complain of the stupidity of the natives and the difficulty of securing tourist accommodations? At any rate, the pleasure we derive from our dreams is not marred by any of the inconveniences of travel. So when the wind howls against the window panes, fortunate indeed is the person who has the power to transport his spirit to the balmy shores of the South Sea Islands.

There is glory in the meanest job is you only look at it in the right light. The story is told of three men who were breaking up stones for the building of a cathedral. A passerby approached the first man and asked him what he was doing. "Can't you see?" was the answer. "I'm breaking stones." The second man, upon being asked the same question replied, "I'm earning six dollars a day." The enquirer then approached the third man and put the question to him, receiving the reply, "I am building a cathedral."

The same thing holds throughout life and makes it a drab or as gay affair as the case may be. It is your own attitude that counts—whether you are looking for the good things or the bad, which reminds one of two lines in a poem by Robert Louis Stevenson.

"Two men looked out from prison bars. The one saw mud and the other saw stars."

RECIPES

TRY broiling small fish and fish steaks. The broiled fish is quite a different thing from the fried variety. Broiled fish is dry and not quite so "fishy" as fried. And if you must fry fish use the deep fat method rather than the frying pan.

If you broil over a wood or coal fire the fire must be clear. "" This means a living bed of coals without flame, but very hot. If you broil under the gas flame use the same broiler that is used over a fire.

It's almost impossible to turn either fish steaks or small split fish without breaking, if the regular gas equipment is used. Always rub the wire of the broiler well with oil before putting in the fish.

Broiled Fresh Cod Steaks

Have the steaks cut from one-half to three-fourths of an inch thick. Wash in cold water and dry between towels. Put in an oiled broiler and broil 10 minutes on one side, turn and broil 10 minutes on the other side.

Remove from broiler to a hot platter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and spread lightly with butter. Garnish with slices of lemon and serve. The fish divides in large dry flakes and is most delicious.

Broiled Blue Fish

Split fish down the middle and let stand in strong salt water for 15 minutes. Drain and dry between towels. Put in a well oiled broiler and broil first on the flesh side, then turn and broil on the skin side. Broil about 20 minutes.

Remove to hot platter, garnish with parsley, sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour over a little melted butter. Serve with scalloped potatoes.

Halibut steaks are broiled the same way cod steaks are. Or halibut may be cut in a thick slice, two or three inches thick, and baked with milk. This is a nice fish dish for company.

Halibut Baked With Milk

Four-pound cut halibut, ¾ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, 2 hard boiled eggs, 1 cup buttered bread crumbs, rich white sauce, lemon.

Scrape skin of fish dipping first in boiling water. Wipe dry. Rub with salt and pepper and put in baking pan. Pour in the milk. Bake until the fish loosens and pulls away from the bone. Baste often with the milk in the pan.

It will take about an hour to bake a four-pound cut of halibut. Remove skin and lift out the bone. Fill the cavity left by the bone with bread crumbs moistened with rich white sauce. Sprinkle the surface of the fish with the remaining crumbs, dot with bits of butter and put in a hot oven to brown. Serve with white sauce in which slices of the hard boiled eggs have been heated.

Or the crumbs may be eliminated and the fish garnished with slices of egg and lemon and served with drawn butter.

Broiled Shad

This is considered one of the finest of fish.

Have a three-pound shad cleaned and split. Put in a well oiled broiler, sprinkle with salt and pepper and broil first on the flesh side and then on the skin side. It will take about 25 minutes. Remove from broiler to hot platter, spread with butter and garnish with sprigs of parsley and slices of lemon. Serve at once.

You Just Try NR For That Indigestion

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided or overcome.

This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot eat without suffering afterward, if you are constipated, have bilious spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, variable appetite, are nervous, losing energy and feel your health slipping away, take this advice and get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right today and start taking it.

Give it a trial for a week or two and just see how much better you feel. See how quickly your sluggish bowels will become as regular as clock work, how your coated tongue clears up and your good, old-time appetite returns. See how splendidly your food will digest and how your energy, "pep" and "ginger" revive. Just try it.

You take no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only 25c a box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction, or money returned.

Five million boxes are used every year,—one million NR Tablets are taken by ailing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits. Nature's Remedy is the best and safest thing you can take for biliousness, constipation, indigestion and similar complaints. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist,

BENJAMIN DISRAELI

"O, Charles, Charles! You be made a horrible hash of the whole thing! Yes, for pity's sake let me talk slang, or I shall have hysterics! I did like you; I liked you very much. You are entirely and spotlessly correct. But I am not. I don't like King Arthur. Galahad bores me to tears. Gentlemen farmers are the bane of my existence. I should die at Dunelm Castle. Your women, who have never been talked about, and your men, who have never done anything, would make me scream. Your model cottages leave me cold because I know the laborer wants bread, not bricks; and, oh! those model children—I want flesh and blood children, who tear their pinafores and smear their faces with jam!"

"But—Lady Clarissa—I—" That was a sfar as Charles could go before this outburst. But Clarissa continued relentlessly:

"If ever I marry—and I hope I shall!—my husband will be a man who has got himself into dreadful tangles, so that I may sympathize with him and get him out of them. And he must be doing things all the time!—I am sorry for you, Charles. It is dreadful to begin life handicapped with a ready-made sphere. But I want a husband who is at the bottom and is climbing!—climbing on hands and knees—bleeding hands and bleeding knees—with his eyes fixed on the summit. Never mind if he never gets there; I can help him climb, and, if he fails, I can fall with him."

"But I—"

"No!—You were born at the top. You sit in a rarified atmosphere like the gods on Olympus, and design model cottages."

When Charles had almost recovered from his composure, he said:

"I see I have made a mistake. It is that Jew, then, who has been filling your head full of nonsence."

"I will not listen to any adverse comment on Mr. Disraeli, Charles. Good morning—"

As Clarissa ran up the long flight of steps at the back of The Towers, Charles followed her. He went directly to the Duchess. Clarissa ran around the house and encountered Disraeli again.

X.

The Prime Minister looked keenly at Clarissa for an instant, and said:

"So you have refused him!"

"Oh! How did you know?"

"Everything about you is eloquent of refusal. The tears—were not tears of happiness, I'm sure. I am also certain that you have no sympathy with ready-made greatness. Ah—you are a little Radical."

"Perhaps," Clarissa answered.

"At heart everybody is. I am."

"You?"

"Certainly. We want to bring everybody to a uniform level; so as to begin all over again and—rise above everybody."

"Is that Radicalism?" asked Clarissa.

"It works out that way. You refused Deeford because he is a mere descendant; not an ancestor."

"Well? Am I not right?"

"He may become an ancestor you know."

Clarissa laughed. They found seats on a bench, and Disraeli, taking her hand, asked:

"Are you fond of him?"

"I like him very much. When he forgets Dunelm Castle, he can be quite charming. If he had simply said, 'Clarissa I love you, will you marry me?' I might have answered just as simply, 'Yes.' But he lectured me on the duties of the future Duchess of Dunelm."

"I have a very high opinion of him," Disraeli said, musingly.

"Why," gasped Clarissa, "one of my grievances against him is that he—does not appreciate you!"

"He is a little less than courteous to me, because he may go through any door in front of me by right of birth."

"Oh how petty."

"No. It is a foundation on which to build empires. That conscious superiority is the quality which enables our Anglo-Saxon to go out among thirty thousand savages and make them fear him, and hate him—and—adore him."

"But he has no initiative!"

"Who knows?"

Disraeli rose and Clarissa started with him toward the house. The Prime Minister continued:

"Deeford's interest in his farms gives me a deep insight into his character. It shows me there is something in him."

"Then why doesn't he let it come out?"

"If the opportunity occurred he might rise to it."

"A man should make his own opportunities. And it's no use talking. I refused him, and I told him away."

"Did you?"

"Quite frankly."

"Did you?"

"I told him I must have a man of action, of initiative, a man who tried."

And in a suddenburst of enthusiasm, Clarissa said:

"Oh, Mr. Disraeli, one does not listen to you—without learning—"

The Prime Minister interrupted her, gently.

"My dear child. I hope you will learn. I hope you will! And you must begin by giving Deeford—"

Clarissa stopping her ears, exclaimed:

"Don't. As he is now, I would sooner marry a bricklayer. He does lay bricks; and he may build a cathedral!"

"Come, Clarissa. I hear Lady Beaconsfield's voice—"

On the balcony, Lady Beaconsfield smiled at Clarissa and said:

"Now Clarissa, you've had more than your share of my Dizzy—"

"He has been giving me excellent advice, Lady Beaconsfield—which I am not going to follow!"

And Clarissa darted upstairs toward her room. * * *

XI.

On leaving Clarissa, Disraeli stopped to gather a few choice flowers. Then he entered the Towers, stepping into the octagonal room to find Lady Beaconsfield, the Duke and Duchess, Lord and Lady Brook, Deeford and Mrs. Travers. For the moment, all talk ceased. Disraeli looked about him and said:

"Duchess, your peacocks are moulting. They want more food and less water."

"I do not attend to animals—" the Duchess began.

"Then I feel you miss a good deal of pathetic affection. Good morning, Mary. Good morning, Duke. Ah, Mrs. Travers?"

"Did you have a pleasant walk with Clarissa?" asked Mrs. Travers.

"Delightful. Winter, hand in hand with spring. Innocence, with—"

"Guile?" queried Charles.

"Experience—same thing," responded Disraeli.

"And these owers—" Mrs. Travers began.

"Mary, my dear," said Disraeli to his wife, "your morning tribute!"

As Disraeli handed his wife the bouquet he had gathered, he kissed her.

"Thank you, Dizzy! Every morning of his life—wherever we are—he—"

Lady Beaconsfield was interrupted by Mrs. Travers.

"How very ungallant to omit us!"

"But in paying my homage to Lady Beaconsfield," the Prime Minister answered, "I naturally pay my homage to the entire sex."

"No, no," came from Lady Beaconsfield. "I won't be put off like that. It's a personal love-token, and you know it!"

Disraeli laughingly replied:

"Lay not that flattering unction to your soul. You know I married you for your money!"

Everybody was shocked, but Lady Beaconsfield hastened to cover her husband's quib.

"All very well; but if 'twas to do over again, now, you'd marry me for love."

"Perish the thought! For all who marry for love either beat their wives or run away from them."

"I trust you are jesting, sir!" exclaimed Charles.

"Sir, I trust I am," replied Disraeli, studying Charles through his monocle. "But I can never be sure. Still no Probert?"

The Prime Minister looked about him, and crossing to the bell-pull he turned to the Duchess.

"Sir Michael is extremely busy," the Duchess explained.

"Pshaw—Lazy man—" said Disraeli.

"Lazy—?" gasped Charles.

"Why, of course. The man who does things, should never be seen doing 'em!" Disraeli studied Charles as he spoke.

"That would be a pose," Charles said, "Not at all. It's a pose when he lets himself be seen."

To everybody's amazement Disraeli pulled the bell cord without asking permission, and then, remembering the omission, he turned to the Duchess, and asked:

"Duchess, may I ring?"

"You have rung?" said the Duchess, testily. "Surely you have breakfasted?"

"Ages ago," replied the Prime Minister. And to the servant who entered, Disraeli said: "Ah— would you very kindly tell Sir Michael Probert I wish to speak with him?"

Disraeli carelessly dropped his hat and cloak on the servant's arm. The man glanced at the Duchess. She nodded to him and he walked stiffly out.

Clarissa had entered the room in time to see the servant make his exit after Disraeli had spoken to him, and the Duke, in order to break the awkward pause, addredsse Clarissa.

"Ah, Clarissa, had a pleasant game—"

But Clarissa didn't answer. She was too preoccupied with serious thoughts.

The Duchess tapped her foot. Presently, breaking the silence, she said: "One does not fully realise that the Governor of the Bank of England can be rung for."

"And why not, pray?" asked Disraeli simply.

"My dear Belinda," interjected the Duke, "Mr. Disraeli orders us all about. We tremble at his nod."

"The Prime Minister and the Governor of the Bank of England! My, what wonderful things we shall witness," said Mrs. Travers.

"I fear not, dear lady," Disraeli said. And turning again to the Duchess, he continued, "I am going to carry my impertinence as far as to ask you to allow me to see Probert in private."

"Will you take him to the library?" asked the Duchess, with a show of haughtiness.

"The library is too solemn. It suggests a conference. Banish such a thought! No—this dainty room, with its flowers, its sunshine, will answer my purpose quite well."

The Duchess parted her lips as though to speak. But the Duke, fearing an outburst, placed his hand on her arm.

"Of course, of course, we'll all clear out. Mrs. Travers, I'll show you my guns. Belinda, take Lady Beaconsqeld to the orangery.

"Clarissa, you will entertain Deeford."

As the guests turned to go, the young lord addressed the girl, quietly:

"Will you take my arm, Clarissa?"

"Thank you, Deeford, but I am going to my room to write up my diary. Mr. Disraeli said so many things this morning, that I want to remember!"

The angry Charles turned, and stalked out of the room. Clarissa darted out just as the servant announced Sir Michael Probert. Short, stout, gouty with bristling white moustache and brick-red face, the great financier bustled noisily into the room.

"Good morning, everybody—" said Sir Michael. "Mr. Disraeli, I am very busy this morning."

"Then how grateful you must be for this interruption!" Disraeli smiled.

"I hope you won't be long," said the Duchess, as she escorted Lady Beaconsfield out.

When they were alone, Sir Michael turned to Disraeli.

"Now, Mr. Disraeli—"

"One moment—"

As the Prime Minister spoke, he crossed to the door and closed it. He then went to the casement windows and closed them, afterward shutting the rest of the windows.

"Good Heavens! Isn't it warm enough—" gasped Sir Michael.

"Extraordinary how voices travel," said Disraeli.

"Eh?"

"And how pretty ears come half way to meet them."

"Do you suggest—"

"I suggest nothing. Sit down, Probert."

The Governor sat down, reluctantly, with the remark:

"I am unusually busy."

"I, too, am unusually busy. Now tell me. You arrived late last night, after we had all gone to bed, but you found a note from me awaiting you."

"Ha! Ha! That was not meant to be taken in earnest."

"Pardon me," said Disraeli, "in dead earnest."

"Do you seriously mean you are thinking of purchasing the Suez Canal?"

"I have seldom meant anything half so seriously."

"England doesn't need the canal—doesn't want it."

"I shall buy it for England because England wants and needs it."

"And you will ask the Bank of England to back you?"

"Temporarily. Until Parliament meets."

"But why not wait?"

"Because there are other bidders. I will explain when the time comes. All I want now is your assent on principle."

"Then let me tell you at once, sir, you shall never have that assent. Never, sir!" Sir Michael started to rise.

"Wait a moment!" commanded the Prime Minister.

"No, sir! There is nothing to wait for. I am a serious man. I shall not allow the Bank to play at ducks and drakes with the money entrusted to its keeperg. Ducks and drakes, sir, on an Egyptian ditch!"

"Egyptian ditch? That's rather neat. Only it's not ducks and drakes, because the Government will be at your back."

"How do I know that?"

"I say so!" It came quick as a flash!

"Suppose the Government fall?"

"My dear sir, it's always falling! What difference does that make? Do not the Conservatives invariably go on just where the Liberals left off, and vice versa? Besides, in this case, it hasn't time to fall. This thing must be done within the next three weeks: long before Parliament meets—"

Mrs. Travers eluded the Duke, and walked around the Towers, stopping directly outside the windows of the octagonal room. As she stood on the lawn, she plucked flowers, and made them into a bouquet.

The men in the room could not see her, where she stood.

"Why are you in such a hurry?" demanded Probert.

Rinso doesn't redden the hands. It's pure.

Don't Rub—Just Soak Your Clothes Clean

RINSO is fine granules of soap essence, scientifically and completely different from ordinary soap, flakes or washing powder. It should be used differently too—for instance, to get the best results, do not pour the Rinso granules into the tub from the package.

Make the wonderful Rinso liquid first—take half a package of Rinso for each tub of clothes—stir it into a cream in a little cool water, add two quarts of boiling water, stir vigorously and put into the tub of cool or lukewarm water.

Put your clothes to soak for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient in this rich Rinso suds, then just rinse thoroughly and the dirt runs away. Your clothes are ready for the line—snowy-white, clean and fresh.

If You Use a Washing Machine—follow the regular directions on the Rinso package and soak the clothes. Then before operating the machine, add fresh Rinso solution and proceed. No other preparation is needed when Rinso is used.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Watchful Care of Health Necessary

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a Marvelous Help

Cumberland Bay, N.B.—"I was troubled with weak feelings, headache all the time, a cough, fainting spells and pains in my back and side. I could not do a single bit of work and had to be helped out to the hammock where I lay in the fresh air from morning until night and I had to be carried up and down stairs. After other medicines had failed a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she said it was excellent for anyone in the family way. Before the first bottle was taken, I could walk alone and as I kept on with it I got stronger until I was able to do all my work. My baby is now six weeks old and is a big, fat, healthy fellow. I am sure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me and I recommend it to any woman in that condition." Mrs. MURRAY J. BARTON, R.R. No. 1, Cumberland Bay, New Brunswick.

Cannot Praise too highly

Winnipeg, Manitoba—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me, owing to my condition, but told me to expect another miscarriage. My husband's grandmother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started right away and every one noticed what a different woman I was in a short time. I went and engaged my doctor and he did not know me, I was so well. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a 'fine bouncing baby' to use the doctor's own words. I am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine and anyone seeing me before I took it and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. What it has done for me it can do for any one in the same condition. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial." Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Found it Great Relief

Chicago, Illinois—"I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all prospective mothers. I suffered from weakness and faint spells and had to lie down twice a day for an hour or so before I could go on with my work. My cousin, who lives in Wisconsin, has used your Vegetable Compound for over five years and she came to us for a visit and she recommended it to me, saying she would pay for the bottle if it did not help me. I took that bottle and got more as I found it gave me great relief. I recommend it to my friends and sisters and am willing for you to use these facts to help others." Mrs. I. J. ECZEMA ON FACE AND HEAD FOR FIVE YEARS

Eczema or salt rheum, as it is so often called, manifests itself in little round pimples which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed and the intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to a strong heat, is almost unbearable and relief is gladly welcomed.

There is only one way to get relief and no remedy like

Apply it externally and it takes out the itching, stinging and burning and promotes healthly healing.

Mrs. J. Sage, 215 Princess Ave., Vancouver, B. C., writes: "Having suffered with eczema on the face and head, for the last five years, I consulted several doctors, and tried various kinds of salves and lotions, but I derived no benefit from any of them. I did not know what to do until a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after I had used two bottles I began to get better and now after taking eight bottles I have not even a blotch on me. I feel that I cannot praise B. B. B. too highly I hope you will make full use of this recommendation for the benefit of those who are suffering from this terrible complaint, eczema."

BALDWIN'S SUSPICIOUS ACT BRINGS HIS ARREST.

PORT ARTHUR, May 16. — Inspector C. W. Symons, of the Provincial Police, yesterday stated that Frederick Baldwin, suspected of the murder of Robert Molton at Cloud Bay on May 9, was seen attempting to hide in the ground a brass jacket off a rifle bullet which he accidentally kicked while walking along with police and others apparently searching for Molton's murderer.

Baldwin kicked by accident the cartridge jacket, and then apparently attempted to bury it in the ground so that it should escape notice. Inspector Symons saw the act, and arrested him on the nominal charge of vagrancy. Evidence is now all in hand for a thorough investigation into Molton's death.

The adjourned inquest will be held on Friday, and Baldwin will likely come up before Magistrate Palling for a preliminary hearing on Saturday after the Coroner's jury has reached its verdict.

TWENTY WOMEN CLAIM OWNERSHIP DIAMOND RING.

NEW YORK, May 16. — Wealth, appearing suddenly yesterday in Poor Man's Court, caused a riot.

A lawyer stooped and picked up a two-carat blue-white diamond set in platinum. He had stepped upon it. He handed it to the Judge.

Three women in the rear of the room claimed it. Then seven others spoke up, and all started toward the Judge.

The court-room was in an uproar. The Bailiff shouted for order, the Judge rapped for order, and two policemen tried to hold back the claimants of the ring.

The ring, valued at $1,500, was placed in the care of the Clerk. At nightfall it had been claimed by twenty women.

"Can you describe it?" the Clerk asked them.

"Yes," each replied. "It's a diamond."

KILLS HIMSELF TO SAVE OTHERS

THREE RIVERS, Mich., May 16 — The badly decomposed body of Fred Schoomaker, bookkeeper and assistant cashier of the First National Bank of this city, who disappeared on the night of 18th April just as state bank examiners arrived in the city to go over his books, was found in a cottage at Fisher Lake, five miles north-west of this city.

A bullet hole through his chest showed that Schoomaker had taken his own life to avoid arrest as the result of the bank examiners' report a few days after his disappearance, which revealed a shortage of about $14,000.

An unsigned and unaddressed note found near Schoomaker's body, and written by him, said:

I am too proud to submit to imprisonment while others who have benefited by my unusual generosity continue in their freedom, and I simply can not "squeal" on them now. If only myself and family had benefited, but we have not. Had my health remained with me, I would have collected and replaced all, and, gentlemen, I have protected you. I have just finished burning your obligations to me. Now only your consciences remain to accuse you.

Starts New Inquiry.

This note will result in a further investigation of the bank shortage, officials intimated to-day in an effort to learn to whom Schoomaker made the loans.

When Schoomaker disappeared the theory that he had taken his own life owing to irregularities at the bank was doubted owing to the fact that he was believed to have lived within his salary since he has been employed by the bank, and so far as was known had never dealt in stocks.

The first shortage discovered was only a few hundred dollars, and the bank officials immediately announced that they believed the shortage had nothing to do with Schoomaker's disappearance, and was merely an error in his books. As the examination went on, however, other shortages were discovered, and a few days later a warrant was issued for Schoomaker.

Blame Generosity.

Friends of Schoomaker say that his generosity alone was responsible for the situation he found himself in when the bank examiners arrived, having made loans from bank funds to his friends without proper security rather than turn his friends away.

Officials of the bank say that if the names of the persons who benefited by these loans can be obtained, efforts will be made to have the money returned.

MARQUIS OF LONDONDERRY TO CLOSE BIG MANSION.

LONDON, May 16.—Because of tremendous taxation, the Marquis of Londonderry, one of the wealthiest British peers, announces that he will close his great mansion, Seatham Hall, at Seatham Harbour, County Durham.

The Seatham estate contains some of the richest coal mines in England, from which the Marquis and his family draw a great income.

The Marquis owns a mansion in North Wales as well as Castle Mount Stewart, County Down, and Londonderry House, a great residence in Park Lane here.

The closing of a house like Seatham Hall, where costly entertainments were given, is a great loss to the tradesmen and others in the neighbourhood. Even when such places are bought by men who made fortunes in the war, they are not kept up in the same style.

Because they could not bear the burden of taxes, eight dukes and nearly two dozen other peers and industrial magnates have sold their country estates in the last two years.

Nervous Trouble

Nervous troubles are, without a doubt, the most discouraging form of sickness to the sufferer. You are tired and ill but cannot say what is wrong, no pain except frequent headaches, you are fretful, cross and irritable without a cause, no ambition or desire to continue your daily routine, you feel a picking or itching of the limbs or body and feel that some terrible calamity is about to overcome you, cannot enter into your former pleasures and prefer solitude to the company of your friends. In such cases the whole nervous system is deranged and requires the most careful attention. Take one of Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets every night or every second night and if there is any tendency to Stomach trouble take one Special Stomach Tablet three times a day before meals.

Football

Tre second game in the Peck Cup series will be played on the King Edward Park grounds to-night. The kick off will be at 6 o'clock sharp andJ .L. Howarth will referee.

On Thursday the Owls and Canadian Woolens will clash at the Oval. His Worshin the Mayor has consented to kick off for this game. J. W. Clark will be the referee.

Football fans will have a musical treat at Thursday's game. The Melody Concert Band will be present and will render several selections before the game and during intervals.

TO FORM LOCAL CANOEING CLUB

A meeting of all those interested in canoeing will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a Canoe Club.

Peterboro with some of the best facilities in Canada for such an organization has no active boating association. It is felt in many quarters that if such a club was started and had the proper pep behind it that national and international regattas would be staged here.

On account of the dangers incident to holding such events on Lake Ontario powerful interests have been for some time looking for suitable place within striking distance of Toronto and Peterboro is the logical location for such an organization.

BUSY DAYS FOR SEC. JACK NOTT

He is Bringing Some of the Dark Horses Out Into the Limelight These Days.

Secretary Nott is finding himself a busy man these days, but Jack rather enjoys the sport of being busy. He is getting a great deal of fun out of studying the idiosyncrasies of the various clubs in their endeavours to hold their dark horses under cover as long as possible. But they are coming out of the bushes and really the animals dont look so fierce after all. They are just good ball players, and that's the kind we keep in the C.O.L.

The fans of this League are used to fast ball, it is fast ball they demand and it sure looks that they will get the real fast stuff this year.

It is a good thing that each town has been able to secure good batteries and so far as we have been able to learn each man registered so far is a simon-pure amateur.

Of course Sandy Lockington is having a rollicking time all to himself with that little slab artist which he keeps hid in the garrett or out in the root house somewhere.

Everybody hopes Sandy has been able to dig up a real good man.—Oshawa Telegram.

LACROSSE

At a largely attended meeting in the Spellman House Monday night it was decided to stand behind the juniors and a team wil be entered in the junior O.A.L.A. series. Irvin Doonen wha has had a lot of experience around Newmarket will coach the team which will include most of last year's line-up. They won the district from Peterboro and Campbellford and will again be strong contenders. Frank Hawkins was chairman at last night's meeting which displayed more interest in the youngsters than they had though remain in the town since the flurry in baseball.

The Riversides had about thirty out to practice at the Oval last night.

For Wednesday night's game at the Oval Johnnie Sutherland requests the following turnout—LeBar, Meyette, Dillon, Geo. Mein, Debey, R. Miler, Armstrong, J. McCoy, Hormel, Craham, MacDonald, Dunk, Nolan, L. McCoy, Todd, Killoran, Taylor, D. Miller, Ranger, Kennedy, Creighton.

John Ward will produce the other team and from the two a squad wil be picked to play Campbellford on Empire Day.

T.A.B.A. COMPLAINS AGAINST PORT HOPE.

No one in the Central League has done more kicking and insinuating than "Sandy" of Port Hope.

Sandy has been quite ready to insinuate that Oshawa, Lindsay, Cobourg, in fact, every other ball club outside of Port Hope, is not exactly square; but Port Hope, of course, is the only simon pure home brew stuff in the griddle.

Secretary Nott is in receipt of an official communication from Toronto stating that the T. A. B. A. are putting it up to the A. U. C. to see what is wrong with Port Hope.

The complaint is that the Port Hope management has been trying to inveigle Toronto players into the Port Hope dugout by all kinds of lurid promises, etc.

You would hardly think by the innocent look on Sandy's face when he is talking about the scandalous activities of the other fellows that he had his arm in the bag up to his shoulder, at the same moment. Sandy, how can you do it?—Oshawa Telegram.

Four more sets will be played on Wednesday ,and the remainder, if the match should not be decided by Wednesay's contest, on Saturay.

GREGG ESSAYS A COMEBACK

Former Cleveland Pitcher Doing Well With Seattle.

VEAN GREGG.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 16.—The American League may have its Babe Ruth as a drawing attraction but the Pacific Coast League isn't jealous. It has Vean Gregg, elongated left hander, who made history while with Cleveland and the Boston Red Sox.

Gregg, after three years' voluntary retirement from professional baseball, is essaying a comeback under an early tutor, Walter McCredie, of the Seattle club.

Thus far Gregg has sustained all advance notices. His pitching has been of a high order, wild streaks few, and his old curves still piling up strikeouts in emergencies.

Gregg's career was a mixture of pitching and plastering until 1909 when he signed with the Spokane club in the old Northwestern League. The next season, with Portland in the Cost League, Gregg amassed a world's record of 397 strikeouts in 397 innings.

With Cleevland in 1911 Gregg finished second among the league pitched and won several few-hit losses. The next two season he finished with averages of .606.

The Boston Red Sox took Gregg in 1915, sent him to Buffalo club in 1916, then recalled him for the world series that year after he pitched and won seevral few-hit games.

After playing with Providence in 1917 Gregg was sent to the Athletics in 1918 in a trade. Late that year he injured himself and despite Connie Mack's efforts to retain him for coaching young pitchers Gregg failed to report in 1919, and farmed for the next three years.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

Small Boys Would Play Lacrosse But Fathers Can't Afford Money For Sticks.

"Me father said he had no money to spare" was the doleful story of more than one of the boys who hung around the Central Park last Saturday morning, while other boys, more fortunate than they, played their first game of lacrosse under Walter Smaill's supervision.

This is a frank introduction to an appeal to some of the Big Brothers to buy two dozen lacrosse sticks for the und privileged youngsters who have the spirit for the game but not the material. Mr. Smaill said that he would undertake the care of these sticks if they are procured, would see that they were properly distributed next Saturday and accounted for afterwards.

Several dozen are procurable in town and cost $1.50 each, or eighteen dollars a dozen. This is the actual cost without any retail or wholesale profit. With all that the Rotarians and Kiwanis are doing they should not be regarded all the year round Santa Clauses, but it would be interesting to have a Kiwanis and Rotarian team of boys about ten years old and thereabout who haven't the price to buy sticks and whose parents are kept busy buying the kids food and clothes. There's a long summer ahead and the youngsters would get full use of the lacrosse sticks. What say the Big Brothers?

The local Junior League will open on May 24 and all four teams will be seen in action.

Yesterday was the last day for the Central League players to become residents of their respective "home" towns.

Manager Bergoine of the Classics has signed Russell Camp formerly of Chatham, to do the heaving for his team this season.

Belleville fans gave out the impression all along that their team was more or less "busted up." Such is, however, not the case judging from the fact that they have six pitchers to chose from, including Wilson of Perth, who flings them over either left or right handed. Peeney Mills and his outfit will be right on deck again this year.

* * *

What's all this we hear about an investigation at Port Hope? Sandy of all people! We are surprised!

Frank Hewson has been signed with the Classics. Frank is a Peterboro boy but played for the last couple of sesaons with th Burrows Adding Machine team in Detroit.

Jack Hardill will be on first base for the Adanacs this summer, with Fred Batten on the keystone, Stan Hensley on short and Benny McLean away over on third.

"Babe" Head will play in the outfield for the Classics in the opening game with Raybestos on May 24.

STYMIE RESTORED IN WESTERN GOLF.

CHICAGO, May 16.—(Canadian Press)—The much discussed stymie in golf play has been restored by the Western Golf Association after several years of abolition ,in order to have uniformity of golf rules throughout the world and to lay the basis for an international committee on rules and the regulations of the game to replace the present plan of adhering to or rebelling from the tenets laid down by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews.

SATURDAY'S GAMES HAS FANS AGOG.

A Big Crowd Will See Lindsay and Peterboro Battle.

The Peterborough Central League team worked out at Riverside Park last night in preparation for Saturday's Central League opening fixture with Lindsay and the crew will be out again tomorrow night when every player who wants a tryout is invited to be on hand.

There are several good pitching prospects in town who may show enough to get a introduction to Central League ball. One of them is Camp who hails from Chatham and who has been unearthed by Manager Chris Bergoine of the Classics. He has been showing good form with that team although he has not yet made an appearance at a Central League workout. Heckman is another prospect who may be with the Petes. He is a right hander with a good turn of speed and if he continues to show his present form he may be seen in action on Saturday, although Manager Solomon has not yet decided who is likely to draw the opening assignment.

Saturday's game has the fans all agog and if the weather is good there will be an old time crowd in the stands. Umpires Rowly of Cobourg and Ramsay of Bellevill:, both of them new to the local fans are billed to officiate.

HOME SCHEDULE.

The locals have seven home games scheduled for the first round of the Central League. They will be:

May 20—Against Lindsay.
May 27—Against Oshawa.
June 3—Against Bowmanville.
June 10—Against Port Hope.
June 21—Against Leaside.
July 1—Against Cobourg.
July 5—Against Belleville.

Unexpected Strength Is Shown in the Big Leagues

NEW YORK, May 16.—(Canadian Press)—Unexpected strength shown by second division clubs, notably Detroit in the American and Cincinnatti and Philadelphia in the National, proved an outstanding feature of the first week of international clashes and noticeably tightened the major league pennant races.

The New York clubs met stronger opposition from their western rivals as had been expected, but retained their places at the top. St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Chicago were closely bunched in that order behind the world's champions, while the Yankees and St. Lous continued to make it a two-club affair in the American, the slim margin of a half game separating the rivals as a result of Detroit's second straight victory over the Huggins' crew.

The Giants, off to a flying start in the West, dropped the last two games of the St. Louis series and were blanked by Chicago Saturday, but a victory Sunday over Alexander and the Cubs, while the Cardinals lost to Philadelphia, increased their lead to four games again.

Hard hitting and good pitching put Pittsburgh back in the first division, the Pirates collecting an average of 12 hits per game, while the Phillies displayed the greatest strength they have shown this season by taking four straight from the skidding Cubs. Chicago, with its pitching staff slumping badly, has lost six out of the last seven games and dropped from second to fourth place. Alexander, banked upon as the mainstay of the hurling corps, lost his fourth straight start Sunday.

Cincinnati, behind improved pitching and consistent batting gained in the race; the Boston Braves broke even in the first week of the invasion, while Brooklyn, unable to make its hits count, lost six straight but won Sunday from Cincinnati.

Ty Cobb's Tigers batted harder than any of their American League rivals, taking four straight in Boston, making it two out of three from the Yankees, and threatening to enter the first division.

The Philadelphia Athletics, with an array of home run hitters, proved they will be troublesome this season for any contender, breaking even in a series of slugging bees with Cleveland and St. Louis.

Washington was unable to stop the Browns. Tris Speaker's tribe was handicapped by ineffective hurling, while Boston after a disastrous series with Detroit, came back to take a pair from the White Sox, who lost a hard fought series with the Yankees.

Jess Barnes' no-hit, no-run performance against the Phillies, a triple play by Kolf, Ford and Holke of the Braves against Cincinnati, and a fresh carnage of home run hitting, featured the week. Ken Williams, St. Louis rival for Babe Ruth's crown, increased a total to 11, while Ty Cobb showed that his batting eye is undimmed by clouting out a four base hit.

GOOD CONTESTS IN GIRLS' GAMES.

A large crowd attended the girls' indoor baseball games last Saturday at the Armouries, and were treated to some very interesting sport. The various teams showed a lively spirit of rivalry and good contests resulted.

The results of the games were as follow:

King George 4, Queen Mary 10; Jolly Juniors 22, C.O.S. 7; De Laval 19, C.G.E. 14; Normal 19, Colonial Weavers 10; Quakers 32, Bonner-Worth 25.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

If a ball first strikes foul and then rolls onto fair territory and finally settles on fair territory between home and first, or home and third, or passes over any portion of first base, it is a fair ball. Among the fans here is the belief that a ball that hits in foul territory cannot later become a fair ball. That, of course, is a mistake.

BASEBALL

An interesting game was played Monday night between team representing the Pattern Makers and Carpenters of the C.G.E., the Pattern Shop winning 29 to 12. Price pitched a great game for the nail chasers, but was given poor support. In fact the only friend he had was the umpire. Batten, pitching for the wood butchers, was weak, but got great support from Helson at first, Jackson behind the plate, and the opposing batters.

Flowers, catching for the Carpenters, was a feature, till they took him out.

Hardie was fast on the bases, making a home run off a bunt. Skibo played like an old timer—of 95 or so. Roberts and Russel made some great stops, in fact they seemed to stop altogether some times. Grant, Martin and Aitcheson were responsible for most of the runs scored. Bob played some fine follow through shots.

For the Pattern Makers, McFadden looked after everything that came his way. Brat Edgar would make a good ball player if he could bat and learn to play a bit in the field. Young and Welbourn both played as well as they could.

Joe Begley made an efficient umpire and the Pattern Makers rendered him a hearty vote of thanks.

FOOTBALL

The following line-up will represent the Woollens in their match with the Owls on Thursday, 18th inst., at Nicholls Oval. Kick off at 6 o'clock sharp and all players are especially requested to be on time. Referee for the game is Mr. Clarke, and the linesmen will be chosen on the field:

Goal, Ted Williams; backs, J. Cridland and J. Chambers; halfbacks, A. Read, A. R. Hillier, G. Monkman; forwards, Lowax, Gaskill, Shuttle, Roberts, Downes. Reserves, C. L. Monkman and Ed. Jones.

This should be a good match, for up to the present time these teams have shown fairly equal strength, both from a point of weight and offensive play. Here's wishing the best team luck.

Special Meeting.

A special meeting for all men and boy supporters and players of the Woollens Athletic Association is called for 8 p.m. next Wednesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce. As important business will be discussed it is essential that all those interested in the C. W. A. A. should be on hand.

Summer on the Way; There's Peril to Milady's Skin

BY HELENA RUBINSTEIN.
Famous New York Beauty Specialist

Summer is, of course, the period of the year in which the skin needs care.

Freckles, tan and burn are scarcely in accord with frocks of delicate fabrics and color.

There is no reason, nowadays, for any woman to have an unlovely skin, because with the purchase of a few rather inexpensive preparations and the expenditure of a little time she can correct almost any faulty condition herself.

If the skin is splotchy and especially in need of clearing up there is a preparation which comes in grain form and is used in place of soap which removes the lifeless and often scaly matter at the very surface and thus allows the soft lustrous surface to appear again. This preparation is very new and particularly helpful where professional care is not practical.

Any clearing process of this sort should be used at night and followed with an application of cream.

It is better then not to apply water in the morning. Use a cream in cleansing and give the face a light dusting of powder.

In the evening when one wishes a more brilliant makeup the face should once more be cleansed with cream, followed by an astringent. A light application of an emollient cream should follow if the skin is quite dry and then serves as a basis for the rouge and powder.

It is usually wiser to use the same rouge for the lips one uses on the face. However, a little experiment along this line is a good thing. If the paste rouge you use on your face does not take well on your lips then try a liquid for the latter.

Very often the liquid rouge achieves a more natural look on the lips, while paste is easiest and best for the ordinary skin surface.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

(Copyright 1921 By The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

It was necessary that the robbery of the Rock Island Express had been effected in less than quarter of an hour. The express car had been hitched on immediately behind the engine and one of the firemen recalled having seen Kellogg, the messenger, checking up his accounts about fifteen minutes before the train pulled into Morris, Illinois. The next time he glanced up a shade had been pulled across the window of the express car and the first he knew of the robbery was after the train stopped at Morris and Pitney, the brakeman shouted out that Kellogg had been killed and that thousands of dollars were missing from the safe.

Jameson, who was in charge of the baggage car, directly behind the express car, provided what appeared to be the only clue to the crime by stating that shortly after the train left Joliet a man in a red mask had entered the car, held him up at the point of a revolver, and had then passed through to the car beyond, leaving Jameson in charge of another masked man who had disappeared as the train slowed down at Morris.

"I was scared stiff," admitted the baggageman, "and didn't dare budge. No, I didn't hear a thing from the other car on account of the noise made by the train and I didn't know what had occurred until Pitney gave the alarm."

The express authorities at Morris sidetracked the express car and wired the details of the case to William A. Pinkerton, who arrived only a few hours later. Meanwhile, however, the contents of the safe had been checked up and it was discovered that more than $20,000 was missing. Kellogg, the messenger, was dead but, before dying, he had evidently given a good account of himself. The floor of the car was littered and strewn with papers and parcels. Kellogg's shirt had been torn to ribbons and it was apparent that he had succumbed only after a terrific struggle.

Before he did anything else, Pinkerton walked back over the track on which the train had come into Morris. Less then half a mile out he discovered a red mask, lying close to the track, and he also noted a most significant fact—although there was more than a foot of snow upon the ground there were no foot-prints within a quarter-mile of the mask!

Returning to Morris, the detective commenced his examination of the express car, but failed to find anything of value. The hold-up had evidently been staged at a moment when Kellogg was checking up the parcels on the safe, for the door stood wide open and the condition of the floor indicated that the struggle had centred around the section of the car immediately in front of the safe.

A close inspection of the body of the dead messenger, however, brought to light another point which Pinkerton felt certain ought to prove valuable. Under Kellogg's finger nails was a considerable quantity of what at first appeared to be wet paper or pulp of some kind, but which the detective recognized as the outer layers of human skin, torn off during the struggle when the messenger's fingers were fighting to secure a hold upon his assailant!

Upon returning to Chicago, Pinkerton at once requested the officials of the road to have all the men employed on the train come to his office, one by one, to be interviewed. Jameson, he directed, was to be the last man sent—but, as it happened, the case was practically solved before the baggageman put in an appearance.

When Pitney, the brakeman, entered Pinketron did not overlook the fact that he was dressed in a new outfit which was distinctly above his sphere in life. From the points of his glossy shoes to the top of his new derby, the brakesman had evidently treated himself to a brand new wardrobe in honor of his interview with the famous detective, in spite of the fact that he had very little to tell. It was he who had discovered the robbery but he had seen nothing of the man in the red mask, though Jameson's excited recital of the hold-up had caused him immediately to investigate the express car.

"That was just as we were pulling into Morris," concluded the brakeman, "and I gave a yell the minute I saw what they had done to Kellogg."

"That's just what I wanted to talk to you about," said Pinkerton. "Sit down, won't you? And take off your coat, it's warm in here . . . Your gloves, too," he added, noting that Pitney kept his hands covered.

After a moment's hesitation, the brakeman peeled off his new gloves and Pinkerton had difficulty in concealing a start of satisfaction. The backs of the man's hands were seamed and scored with a network of scratches!

"Been playing with the cat?" inquired Pinkerton, casually.

"No—no," Pitney replied. "I got those handling a busted trunk a few nights ago," and then he launched into a description of his experiences on the night of the robbery. When he had finished, Pinkerton thanked him and bowed him out of the office, but the muffled buzz of a bell in the anteroom informed the men stationed there that Pitney was to be followed night and day.

"As far as I was concerned," Pinker-

STRIKE DISORDERS.

SHEFFIELD, Eng., May 16.—Canadian Press.—Unemployed workmen, led by extremists, who are said to have been intimidating willing workers during the past few weeks, staged a determined attack upon the Jessop Company's plant yesterday afternoon. The mounted police were stoned by the demonstrators and were obliged to retreat. The mob smashed a number of the office windows after which the police, being reinforced, charged repeatedly, and finally dispersed the crowd.

When You Score

A time at bat is not charged against the batsman if he is awarded a base on balls, or for being hit by a pitched ball, or when the catcher interferes with him and he is granted first base because of the catcher's act, or when he makes a sacrifice hit.

REGENT—Paramount production, "What's Worth While." Also, "The Great Lover" and final chapter of "The Sky Ranger."

ROYAL—Anita Stewart in "Her Mad Bargain"; Vitagraph special, Alice Calhoun in "Rainbow"; Mack Sennett 2-reel comedy, "Call a Cop."

Capitol Entertainment

Peterborough this week has an opportunity of witnessing the first presentation here, before going to any of the larger centres, of "The Ordeal," featuring the beautiful Agnes Ayres and Conrad Nagel. This picture has some delightful photographic effects and a strong human interest motive, centreing about the eternal triangle; the girl who has married a rich man for the sake of her crippled sister and young brother; the jealous, hot-tempered husband with a weak heart, and the young doctor who arouses his suspicious interest. There is a good moral in the gradual unfolding of a tale with an unusual theme. The young wife spills the medicine which would save her husband from an untimely death, and walks thereafter with a consciousness of guilt. Just whether she was responsible or not is left to the mind of the audience until the last spectacular scene. In the meantime, by the provisions of her husband's will, she has the money but may not marry her lover. The crippled sister, cured and imbued with a mad thirst for pleasure, dances through jazz restaurants and finally ends up in an intoxicated condition in a roadhouse, while the brother, also spoiled by wealth, gambles himself into a state where he is willing to steal his sister's jewels. There is a dramatic finale, with a blazing garage in the background and an unexpected twist to the denouement. The rapid action, fine acting of the stars and supporting cast, the intensely human note and luxurious backgrounds combine with the sinister shadow of the husband's death to make this an interesting and worth-while production.

There is another episode in the popular serial, "White Eagle," and a Snub Pollard comedy in which things are all topsy-turvy. Picturing the woman of the future, a strong creature who smokes heavy cigars and affects a mannish stride, her husband, the limp Snub, is a giggling, fidgety creature who gossips at back doors, wears an apron, and fusses with the "eats." He is pursued by a bold feminine masher, with a brazen exterior and large hip-flask, who gets badly beaten up by his muscular wife.

AT THE ROYAL.

The Vitagraph special feature for to-night is entitled "Rainbow," and has Alice Calhoun, one of the most vivacious and attractive actresses now in the movies, as star. In this picture, Miss Calhoun, who has appeared in parts ranging from a farmhouse "help" to a society debutante, achieves a long-cherished ambition, playing the part of a bare-legged youngster as the play opens. The plot is laid first in the Rainbow Mine, transfers thence to New York society circles, and culminates at the mine. The 'motif" of the play involves a girl's ownership of the "Rainbow," which, unknown to her, had been sold to a stranger. The plot is a gripping one, involving society intrigue, a heart-touching love story and replete with humor. Anita Stewart is the First National feature, called "Her Mad Bargain," proves that she adds the talent of a perfect artiste to her charm of personality. The story is that of a girl whom circumstances reduces from a life of affluence to sudden poverty. She tries several methods of carning a living and finally becomes a sculptor's model. Driven to despair she contemplates suicide. The sculptor, who has learned to love her, offers to insure her life for a large sum of money, giving her a large part of the amount in cash, the policy to be paid to him at her death. The understanding is that she is to use the money he gives her at once to have as good a time as she can for one year, at the end of which period she is to commit suicide in such a manner that her death will appear accidental. A movie plot that ends in wedding bells.

The Mack Sennett comedy, entitled "Call a Cop," is a cornucopia of fun and laughter. This is the class of films that will cost you more to see at any other theatre in Canada. However, the Royal confines its programme to pictures exclusively and thus presents the best pictures that money can procure or knowledge, gained by many years in the picture business, can suggest.

AT THE REGENT.

"WHAT'S WORTH WHILE?" Question Is Answered in Lois Weber's Latest Production.

"What's Worth While?" Well, let's see! Doggonit! that's a simple little question in simple language, but it makes me think. I've very often heard the remark "that's not worth while." It is not near as high sounding as "What's Worth While." Look that last sentence over again. Now don't you agree with me? When you think of "What's Worth While" you think of something wholesome and pure and, thinking thus, so will your actions be, and in doing "What's Worth While," there's a feeling goes with it—a peace of mind and exaltation that only worth while things can bring.

Lois Weber has picturized her latest original story, "What's Worth While?" which will be shown at the Regent Theatre, as a Paramount special to-day. Claire Windsor heads a splendid cast.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN COULDN'T SLEEP NIGHT

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. M. Damgand, Young's Cove Road, N.B., writes: "I was bothered very much with my heart and nerves; had nervous headaches and dizziness, could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better and would advise anyone who has nerve trouble to take them."

Price, 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GENOA PARLEY ENDS FORMALLY SATURDAY NEXT

Members of Sub-Commission Agree No New Issues of Importance Be Considered.

THE HAGUE PLAN

GENOA, May 17. — (United Press.)—The Genoa Conference will come to an end formally Saturday or Monday, it was announced to-day. Louis Barthou asked for a final plenary session, and adjournment tomorrow. Lloyd George objected that the Russians should have more time, if they desired, to consider the Hague plan.

The members of the political subcommission have agreed that no new issues of importance shall be taken up at Gehoa. The conference was over last Saturday, so far as the issues for which it was originally summoned are concerned. There only remains to approve a report of the Economic Commission, to announce what shall be done about the Hague and to go home.

RUSSIAN ATTITUDE.

GENOA, May 17. — (Canadian Press.)— The attitude of the Russians at to-day's session of the political sub-commission of the Genoa Conference will have a great influence on the plans for the Hague Conference next month. If they should be recalcitrant and inclined to make even wilder demands than before, French delegates say it will be extremely difficult to persuade their government to participate.

MORE MODIFICATIONS.

GENOA, May 17. — (Canadian Press.) — Russia has accepted the proposals of the Powers for a meeting at the Hague to discuss the Russian situation, it was announced today.

In accepting the Russians proposed certain modifications in the plan, which will be discussed this afternoon.

WOULD BROADEN TRUCE.

GENOA, May 17. — (Canadian Press.)—M. Tchitcherin, of Russia, thinks the frontier truce proposed by the Allies should include the Allied Soviet Republics. Declaring he would take it in that sense, he desired to have the true broadened in order to include aggression by bands, and asked that the bands of General Wrangel, Anti-Bolshevik leader now in the Balkans, be removed to more distant countries.

CONSERVATORY CLOSING

Great preparations have been made for this season's Conservatory of Music Closing to be held in the Grand Opera House on Friday, May 19th. The result of a year's work is condensed into one select program for this eevning and the 1922 event promises to eclipse any previous effort. Large adult and juvenile orchestras, Hawaiian guitar club, drama by Dratmatic Club, vocal, piano and violin solos, and ascetic dancing. The plan is now open at the Grand and is likely to fill up rapidly.

A Girl Piloted the Rum Running Plane

Powder Puff and Feminine Gew-gaws Found in Aircraft.

NEW YORK, May 17.—(United Press).— The pilot, whose plane, carrying liquor from Canada crashed at Croton-on-Hudson Monday night, was a girl, according to evidence in the hands of the authorities today. A powder puff and other feminine equipment was found in the wreck of the rum running biplane.

Several men captured in connection with an alleged international smuggling plot have confessed that girls are being used to run illicit liquor over the Canadian border.

CHURCH NEARLY FREE OF DEBT

Trustee Board of St. James' Methodist Church Report Strong and Flourishing Condition.

The total debt of St. James' Methodist Church has been reduced to $4,550 on a property that could not be replaced to-day at less than $55,000. This was one of the bright and encouraging reports submitted at the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees on Monday night. In every department the church shows conspicuous evidences of progress and throbbing vitality. Not only is the financial condition of the church in a highly favorable condition, but the membership is steadily increasing, all the obligations are being promptly met and within the church there is a spirit of energy and faith and devotion which account largely for the broad success that is manifested in all the efforts of the congregation. In the near future a campaign will be inaugurated to wipe out the remaining debt.

Complete Basement.

The building committee was instructed on Monday night to call for tenders for the completion of the basement, which will be specially fitted out for the accommodation of the young people. Part of it will be equipped as a tea-room and the rest for wholesome recreation, having particular thought for the needs of the boys. For this work most of the money covering the estimated cost has already been subscribed and is held in the bank for that purpose.

Chairmen Appointed.

Chairmen appointed were: Finance, F. Kitney; Property, Thomas Brown; Missionary, Andrew Kent; Epworth League, Edward Rowe; Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. A. Wilson; W. M. S., Mrs. Chapman; Musie, Wesley Rose; Superintendent of Sunday School, A. Prest.

A Brief History.

The history of St. James' Church is still fresh in the minds of most residents of Peterborough. It represents the fulfilment of the vision of the Rev. H. M. Manning, who, as pastor of the old Charlotte Street Methodist Church, started a mission on Aylmer Street South, with a tent to house the first congregation. The intervening fourteen years have been eventful and happy and progressive. Mr. Manning's efforts produced the church building facing Aylmer Street that now serves as a Sunday School. Rev. G. Brown and Rev. J. Clarry gave of their zeal and labor to the development of the church, and the Rev. Benj. Greatrix in 1917 undertook the construction of the splendid edifice now nearly clear of debt. That work was begun with an encumbrance of $5,000 on the church property, including the building and parsonage, and the full accomplishment can be appreciated by reflection upon the total investment that has been all but cleared in fourteen years, and the large increase in membership during the same time. The trustees acknowledged the effective work of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Chapman, whose ministry has been fruitful and whose personality has contributed so much to the advancement of the work of his predecessors.

SHE HANGED HERSELF BECAUSE DOG KILLED.

BUFFALO, May 17. — (Canadian Press).—When a pet collie, her friend for years, was killed by an automobile, it was the last straw for Mrs. Anna Kranz, 65 years old. She had lived in Germany all her life until about a year ago. The war swept away all her relatives in Germany and most of her money. She came to Buffalo to live with her son, bringing the dog with her. Recently the dog was run over and killed by an automobile. For four days Mrs. Kranz refused to eat, and sat in her room grieving over the loss of her pet. Then she hanged herself.

CONTRACT LET FOR LAST LINK IN GRAVEL ROAD

Three Miles Northwest of Kendry Siding Being Built by Cameron Bros. and Hutt.

TARVIA BINDING

The contract for the completion of the provincial highway between Peterborough and Port Hope has been let to Cameron Brothers and Hutt of Cornwall. The work on this remaining link between Kendry siding and the end of the road that was built out from Peterborough last year is already well under way. It covers a stretch of approximately three miles and is expected to be completed by August.

All the operations of modern road building are in full swing. One force of men are engaged in crushing the pile of one thousand cords of stone that was collected for this part of the highway, and another gang is ditching and grading and drawing the broken stone. This contract is being carried out under the supervision of Mr. D. W. Bues, of Port Hope, the Provincial Government's engineer on this highway.

Will Apply Tarvia B.

Mr. Bues said yesterday that the four and one-quarter of macadam road built last year south-west of Peterborough on the "Gravel" road would be treated with a binder of Tarvia B, beginning probably next week. This will serve as a binder and will give the road the finish which has been noticeably lacking. Mr. Bues said that it was only a matter of a year or two until this highway is topped with asphalt.

Request to Department.

At Springville yesterday a special request was made to W. A. McLean, Deputy-Minister of Highways, that the department incorporate in the provincial highways system the road between Welcome and Dale, which Mr. Leonard Fraser, secretary of the Peterborough branch of the Motor League, said would greatly facilitate traffic between Peterborough and Toronto. This road is about two miles long and would afford a short cut between the Kingston highway and the new provincial highway between Peterborough and Port Hope, saving nearly four miles in the trip to Toronto, and avoiding the present longer route through Port Hope.

Mr. Harold Baptie also urged the improvement of the Welcome-Dale road, and although Mr. McLean said that the Hon. Mr. Biggs was averse from undertaking any other roads until the present programme has been completed, he felt that the deputations had a good case and suggested that they formally present it to the Minister.

ATTRACTIONS FOR CIVIC HOLIDAY

Exhibition Board Will Prepare Programme for Home Crowd.

The Exhibition Board turned up the August page of the calendar last night and marked Monday, the fourteenth, for a Civic holiday celebration. Probably a race meet will be arranged for this occasion, and Peterborough may be entered in the circuit of summer races in eastern Ontario.

The application of Rev. Father Costello, of St. Peter's Cathedral, for the use of Exhibition Park on Dominion Day was granted, on the motion of Harold Baptie, seconded by Ormie Ball.

A reminder of the field crop competition was sounded last night. The entries for wheat and oats must be placed with the Secretary by May 26th, and the ensilage corn competition closes June 16. Farmers are urged to take advantage of this contest, which is chiefly in the hands of the farmer directors of the Exhibition.

A request to the City Council that if they intend to pave George Street South they start the work as early as possible in order that it may be completed before Civic holiday was embodied in a resolution by R. H. Turner, seconded by Dave Jordan.

Those present last night were: R. Denne (chairman), R. H. Turner, W. S. Merrell, F. A. Hodgson, John Gillespie, Edgar Wood, W. H. Dunsford, Tom Brown, W. H. Barry, Smith Milburn, T. N. L. Kelly, John Williams, Tom McIndoo, Harry Webber, Frank Kitney, J. W. Fraser, George Paxman, Fred. Holmes, Dickson Hall, Vincent Eastwood, Robert Grandy, C. G. Graham, E. B. Fowler, Ross Boates, C. E. Moore, T. H. Hooper, J. O. Ball, Harold Baptie, T. Cruikshank, D. Jordan, Harry Lush, R. B. Rogers, and F. J. A. Hall.

Attorney-General and Member for South Toronto Engage in Recriminations Over Charges Re Enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act.

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press). — T. H. Lennox, M.L.A., told the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature today that he would give evidence under oath in connection with his charges re the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, but that he would first examine a number of witnesses, which would require about ten days. He declared that he proposed to call "thugs and a man who was accused of murder" to prove that this class of men were being employed by the License Department.

Attorney-General Raney claimed that the object of Mr. Lennox was to cause the inquiry drag until the Legislature closed. He emphasized the seriousness of the charges, and, referring to certain newspapers as "howling dervishes," declared they had stated that if the charges were proven it would mean the destruction of the O. T. A., the Attorney - General and the Ontario Government.

H. H. Dewart upheld the attitude of Mr. Lennox, which brought from Mr. Raney the remark that the South Toronto member was "ready to jump over at any time."

"The Attorney-General suggests I am ready to jump to the Conservative side at any time; that is an absolute and damnable falsehood," retorted Mr. Dewart in demanding a retraction.

Mr. Raney said he accepted Mr. Dewart's statement.

Frank Budway, former O.T.A. operator, said he heard the Conservatives were willing to pay $2,500 for evidence in connection with the O. T. A. enforcement, and he thought he might as well get some of it. He had received $250 or $300 for Mr. Lennox for information, he said, and claimed that Mr. Lennox was present when the proposal to "frame" a policeman in connection with the Sutton raid was discussed.

LOCAL CHEESE BOARD SESSION WAS A WASHOUT

Twelve Cents Failed to Tempt the Salesmen and the Sale Was Adjourned Until May 24th

OFFICERS ELECTED

The 45th annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 10 a.m. to-day. The first sale was also scheduled to come off but the price of 12 cents offered by the two buyers, J. S. Cook of Belleville, and G. A. Gillespie of Peterborough, did not prove attractive enough to the handful of salesmen that were on hand and after considerable indecision the sale was adjourned until May 24th, which buyers and salesmen alike said suited them as well as any other day.

Thompson Braden, of Lakefield, presided. He said he thought it was time that a change in the officers was made, and Secretary E. Hawthorne spoke along the same line. Mr. Hawthorne said that as Warsaw factory was making clarified cheese and selling to the Canadian Packing Company, he would not be a salesman, and would have no reason to attend the board. He wanted to relinquish the secretaryship, but buyers and salesmen would not hear of it and he finally consented to remain in office for another year. The list of officers is therefore as follows: President, T. Braden, Lakefield; first vice-president, J. J. Breckenbridge, Westwood; second vice-president, David Taylor, Warsaw; secretary-treasurer, E. Hawthorne, Warsaw; auditor, W. A. Anderson, Keene.

Cheese Boarded.

The following factories were represented: Warminster, 70; Selwyn, 35; Villiers, 45; Warsaw, 30; Ormonde, 52; Young's Point, 45; Lang, 13; Norwood, 70. Total 360 boxes. At the first sale, May 1th, 1921, 452 boxes were sold at 15 9/16 cents a lb. At the last sale in the autumn, Nov. 9th, the price was 15 5/8 cents. During the winter there has been a decline and to-day J. S. Cook confirmed the worst fears of the salesmen when he bid only 12 cents. "That is all I can afford to pay and not a cent more," he said decisively.

G. A. Gillespie said he couldn't raise his bid and so matters stood at that point for some time. Some of the salesmen wanted to wait a week in the hope of an improved tone in the market, some wanted to wait two weeks. The buyers could give no assurance of a better price, and Mr. Cook pointed out that it didn't pay him coming up from Belleville for a few hundred cheese. The president finally called for the 'yeas' and 'nays' from the salesmen and the chorus was all against selling. It was then decided to adjourn for one week when it is hoped there will be more cheese, more buyers and higher offerings.

Optimism Absent.

The situation as discussed at the meeting to-day was not by any means optimistic. Mr. Gillespie stated that trade in cheese is particularly dull, and the overseas market not taking any. Mr. Cook corroborated this state of affairs. While only a few factories boarded to-day, a larger representation is looked for next week. Mr. Gillespie said he expected East Emily, Cedardale, South Burleigh and Myrtle to sell on the board. Keene will not make until June, and Killarney, according to Inspector R. W. Ward, will be on hand next week. Indian River has been lost to Toronto, he said, but Reaboro, in Victoria county, is looked for, and in all likelihood Maple Leaf in the same county.

High Grade Make.

The April make, according to Mr.

Handwriting On The Wall Seen By Lloyd George

LONDON, May 17.—(Canadian Press). —Defeat of the Government in Commons yesterday is not expected by morning newspapers to result in the resignation of the cabinet, and an appeal to the country. Newspapers, however, opposed to Lloyd George declare that he is bound to "see the writing on the wall" and that the elections which seemed remote are now brought nearer. The Morning Post says the incidents need not be more than an incident and that government can either go forward with the Teachers' Bill another day or restore the restore the situation by dropping the bill.

The Westminster Gazette says Hon. Austen Chamberlain acted like a weary minister playing for a fall, and the Daily News declares the Government will probably "Pooh Pooh" the political importance of their defeat. The Daily Express says the defeat is not vital and the cabinet need not go to the country.

LOCAL LABOR FOR WESTCLOX BUILDING

Figured That at Least 100 Men Will Be Employed

The contractors for the new factory of the Western Clock Company on Armour Hill, Sullivan and Fried, of Toronto, hope to begin operations on Monday, Frances H. Leleu, Toronto, resident engineer on the job, employed by the architeets, Bernard H. Prack, Toronto and Hamilton, announced to-day. The grading operations will be finished this week, and it is expected that the field will be clear for the contractors to start work the commencement of this week.

Outside of the superintendent and one or two other men the contractors will hire local labor as much as possible, Mr. Leleu stated. "I wish to particularly emphasize the fact that local labor will be employed as much as possible, and only one or two men brought in," he told the Examiner. "I would like to point out also,' he said, "local supplies also are being used to as large an extent as practicable. We will get gravel here and all other materials that we can."

City Firms Unfortunate.

It was unfortunate, he said, that Peterborough firms did not otbain more than one of the contracts let to date, but he was hopeful of some of the other contracts being secured locally. here is still the contract for the sprinkler system, as well as the contract for boiler setting and "breeching," that is connecting the boiler and the stack, to be let, and the resident engineer is getting local prices, every opportunity will be given Peterborough firms.

Improve East City.

The resident, engineer estimated that one hundred men at least would be employed. At least 30 carpenters will be required he opined, and as many masons. It is hoped to have the factory completed by th end of October. Mr. Leleu described the site of the plant as unsurpassable from every standpoint. The plant, surrounded by attractive grounds, would improve Ashburnham, in his opinion, and will attract to that section of the city a desirable class of citizens.

The main building facing Hunter street will be 160 by 51 feet, four stories, about 58 feet in height, and featuring the most modern ideas in factory construction. The lighting facilities will be striking with the sash running practically from floor to floor. To the rear of the main building will be the buffing and plating room and to the rear of this again the boiler house, and at the

REV. W. H. YOUNG ASKED REMAIN ANOTHER YEAR

Official Boards of George Street Methodist Church Held a Meeting Last Evening.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

At a joint meeting of the Official Boards of George street Methodist church, held last evening, among other business transacted in antipation of the annual congregational meeting this evening, a formal invitation was extended to the pastor, Rev. W. Harold Young, to remain in the pastorate a third year. In expressing the wish of the congregation Mr. E. E. Ingall took occasion to speak of the very satisfactory relations that had eixsted between the pastor and his people. That the church in this city had received a most gratifying and encouraging addition to the membership, substantially adding to the available help in meeting the temporal needs and sustaining the spiritual enthusiasm and devotional feeling in the church.

The financial returns, as shown from the several reports read had been the best ever, testifying to the wish and ability of the adherents to support the scheme of the church in all available ways. He had little doubt but this success reflected the earnestness and untiring administration of the pastor, whose energy and optimism reached out and enthused the congregation. The pulpit and devotional services had been most instructive, satisfactory and interesting and had drawn to the Sabbath services large numbers who showed interest in the ministrations. Not only had the pastor endeared himself and his family in the affections of the congregation, but by taking an active interest in the social life of the city, contributed to the general good. It was very gratifying to the denomiantion to find that at a time when the church in general was calling for good men to the work that young men were coming forward who in all respects promised to worthily take up the burden from those of marked ability who were passing away or setting responsibility aside, this from long service or accumulating years.

Reply by Mr. Young.

Rev. Mr. Young thanked the Boards for the invitation and the words of commendation as voiced by the member who had proffered the request and invitation. He had enjoyed his work in Peterborough and George street church. No pastor could possibly ever find the lines of life cast under more pleasant and thoroughly happy conditions. He had found a hearty loyalty, a cordial helpfulness, many delightful and broadening personal friendships, among those who were friends of his boyhood and who were here to assist and encourage. In all departments of the church service he had found the utmost of cordial and prompt assisting work. Any suggestion making for the general good and welfare of the congregation was at once supported. The societies of the church had been eminently successful, all reporting increased interest and returns. In the reports as read there was not one adverse note. He had no thought of departure. He would view such suggestion with alarm and very great reluctance, and looked forward to the incoming year of church service as to be, if it were possible, additionally happy and harmonious. In the years to come he would, under the church rules, find other pastorates, but he knew that none would bring to him greater reward than had his years in George street church of joy, pleasure in work, contentment in all things and the sense that any endeavor he was enabled to make returned to him even in seven-fold. The social side of life in the congregation had been to himself and Mrs. Young most delightful. Expressions of appreciation were always gratefully received and would spur him on to renewed efforts to advance the interests of the great church which George street worthily represented in this city.

It may be noted that not the least of the successes of the year was that of the National Church Campaign, the details of which had been in the able hands of Rev. Mr. Greatrix. He came to the meeting to render an account of stewardship, bringing the vouchers with him. As he might have expressed it, garnered sheaves. The total subscription from the church, to this great movement, had been paid to within an very small fraction of the subscribed amount. Additional, and delayed payments to follow, cleaning up to almost the last dollar. The total from the congregation amounted to $25,000.00. Rev. Mr. Greatrix was most heartily congratulated and thanked for his efficient and painstaking work, during the last two years.

The full reports for the church year will be printed in the usual pamphlet form for information of the congregation.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS $1,875 TO THE FAIR

In Consideration of Having Paid $4,500 in Utility Agricultural Classes Last Year—This Money Must Be Distributed in Same Classes.

The announcement of a grant of $1,875 from the Dominion Government to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was made by the President, Mr. R. Denne, at last night's meeting of the Fair Board. Peterborough qualified for this grant by spending more than $4,500 in prize money in the utility classes of the Exhibition last year, and it will be distributed over these same departments at this year's show.

Mr. Denne had notified the Hon. Dr. Tolmie, Minister of Agriculture in the Meighen Government, last autumn that Peterborough was entitled to its share of the Dominion Government's assistance to agricultural societies. The sum was then $2,500. Some time ago Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., was requested to urge the claim of Peterborough's exhibition upon the new Government, and in the correspondence from Mr. Gordon, which was read last night, it was shown that the appropriations for this purpose had been reduced twenty-five per cent. As a result, Peterborough's share was cut from $2,500 to $1,875.

For Specific Purpose.

To the supporters and well-wishers of the Exhibition the directors are anxious that they shall understand that this money must be spent in prizes in what are known as the utility classes of the Exhibition, such as horses, cattle, etc. It is not a grant that can be diverted to the general fund and expended on new buildings or other improvements, and its receipt really requires the directors to provide $5,875 as prize money in these specified classes this year.

Mr. Gordon's Letter.

The first letter from Mr. Gordon, dated April 28, was to Mr. Denne as follows:

Dear Rollie,—I have seen the Minister of Agriculture several times about the Peterborough Exhibition grant, and I have been particularly anxious to see if I could obtain the assurance that the grant would be kept up to 100 per cent., in view of your Board having succeeded in qualifying for the new classification.

So much of the money has been spent on exhibitions, he told me, that he feels some of this should, instead of continuing to be spent on exhibitions, be spent in other ways to forward the interests of agriculture, and it is just possible that the Exhibition grants throughout Canada, instead of being made on the former classification, will be made on a 75 per cent. basis of that former grant.

The most, of course, I could do is to see that Peterborough gets the same terms as other Exhibition Boards, and I understand the Progressives generally have advocated this reduction, and as they are supposed to represent particularly the farming interests, it is doubtful if the old line parties will attempt to change what they seem to think is the proper course.

I do not think that I have subscribed to your Exhibition Board, but if there is a cup I can give, or a subscription, let me know along what lines would be most preferable, and I will do something to help along what we all recognize to be an extremely good cause.

I cannot say when the policy will be definitely declared, but "I am giving you all the information that I have been able to obtain after two or three interviews."

Notice From Minister.

Mr. Gordon's other letter to the Secretary, Mr. F. J. A. Hall, accompanied the following enclosure, a copy of a communication from the Hon. W. R. Motherwell, the present Minister of Agriculture:

Dear Mr. Gordon,—Referring further to your letter of April 10th, I may say that in view of the fact that many Exhibition Associations had contracted certain obligations before receiving notification of a reduction in the grant from this Department, the whole matter has been reconsidered, and it has been decided to reduce the appropriation by twenty-five per cent. instead of fifty per cent. for the present year.

Will Allocate Grant.

The Peterborough Exhibition paid $4,500 in prize money in the utility classes last year. To allocate the grant from the Government for this fall's show, Mr. Hall was instructed to meet the chairman of the particular committees on Saturday afternoon next. The committees will meet afterwards and distribute their respective shares as they deem the best advantage, returning their completed prize lists early next week for printing.

Mr. Gordon's offer of a silver cup was gratefully accepted, and it will be suggested to him that he donate a trophy for competition by patrols of Boy Scouts or corps of School Cadets in this district.

MISS WARNE TALKS GRENFELL'S WORK

Lantern Slides Were of Peculiar Interest

An interesting and instructive address on Dr. Wilfrdi Grenfell's work in the Labrador, was given in the lecture hall of the Murray Street Baptist church last evening, by Miss Annie M. Warne, of Ottawa, corresponding secretary of the Labrador Medical Missicn. Miss Warne, who made a trip through Labrador in 1919, showed some very fine lantern slides made during her visit.

Her address was brief, being a recital of the activities connected with her work. The slides gave an excellent idea of the scope of Dr. Grenfell's labors, with pictures of the Canadian Harrington Hospital, of the Orphanage now almost completed, to which Canadian children have been contributing money for the bricks, with some beautiful views of the scenic loveliness of that northern land. Labrador sunsets and views of icebergs melting into the sea gave a little idea of the natural attractions of what is falsely considered one of the bleakest of countries.

Philanthropic Work.

The audience was shown a picture of a small sick boy, who was fostered by Dr. Grenfell, with his later appearance as a full-fledged physician, and of two twin girls, both blind, found by the doctor in poor circumstances, sent to Halifax, educated and made self-supporting. Views of Sister Bailey and Nurse Murray, with other workers, were given. The quality of Dr. Grenfell's enthusiasm seems to draw to him the highest type of worker, who give loyal and devoted service.

At the conclusion of the address and pictures, Mrs. W. R. Morris, in the chair, paid an eloquent tribute to the work of Mrs. James Wood of this city, and her devotion to the cause of the Labrador Missions.

The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn about Labrador, with Mrs. F. M. Somerville at the piano.

3,500,000 WORK DAYS LOST BY LABOR DISPUTES.

280,000 Workers in Great Britain Affected in Month of March.

LONDON, May 17.—(Associated Press.)—It is estimated that 3,500,000 working days were lost in Great Britain in March owing to labor disputes involving 280,000 workers. The principal disputes being in the engineering and shipbuilding industries.

Unemployment in March, though still bad, showed a further slight improvement despite the adverse effect of the engineering dispute, says the Labor Gazette, which publishes the estimate above.

Among industries showing improvement were iron, mining, pig iron manufacture, the building trades, the cotton and wool textile industries and the clothing trades.

Changes in rates of wages reported as having taken effect in March resulted in a reduction of over £223,000 in the weekly full-time wages of about 1,350,000 workers and an increase of £800 weekly in the wages of about 10,000 others.

Coal miners in Northumberland, Yorkshire, North Staffordshire, North Wales and Scotland sustained reductions varying from under two per cent. to over eight per cent., the paper states.

The rapidest river in the world, of any size, is the Rhone, in France, whose current ranges as high as 40 miles an hour.

BANKS'

"That Engine Is Quiet"

Mr. T. B. Howden, Calgary, Alta., writes: "I recall with satisfaction how, after covering 6,000 miles, the only repair so far has been sewing a ripped fan belt, costing fifteen cents, and she certainly is easy on the gas—30 miles to the gallon. My pleasure is also increased by the garage man's remark, as I pull in for the night: 'Gee whiz! That engine is quiet. I thought you were coasting in.'"

REPAIR CAMPAIGN IN MOSCOW NOW.

Signs of Activity in Building on Every Hand.

MOSCOW, May 17.—(Associated Press).—Moscow is beginning to show some building activity. After nearly six years, during which practically every private building and some public institutions were permitted to fall into disrepair, both the Soviet officials and private individuals are now in the throes of a repair campaign.

The hotel where most of the foreigners coming to Moscow are housed and which six months ago was a nightmare of dirt, vermin and lack of service, has just been renovated and is to be put back on a pre-revolution basis.

Guests, long accustomed to carrying their own water, brewing their own tea and cooking their own food in their rooms, now are becoming accustomed again to the magic use of the push button. Elevators are to run, linen to be provided and the campaign against vermin is on in full swing.

To encourage repair of apartment buildings and detached dwellings, thousands of which have fallen into such a state of unrepair that they have been abandoned entirely, the Moscow Soviet has decided to utilize private enterprise. Persons or corporations who will take over and repair these structures, are given ten-year rent free leases on them and may rent them to whom they please and for what sums they please. They may even transfer their leases to other persons, and in these houses no limit is placed upon the amount of space any one person may occupy.

Muscovites who for the past three or four years have been huddled in tiny rooms allotted them by the Government, are gradually moving in to new and more spacious quarters, if they have sufficient funds to repair them.

RAILWAY ESTIMATES IN COMMONS TO-DAY.

Discussion on Canada's Navy is Adjourned.

OTTAWA, May 17.— (Canadian Press.) — Discussion on Canada's navy has not yet ended in the House of Commons. All day yesterday and part of the early morning to-day various views were aired for and against the policy announced by Hon. George P. Graham. After speaking an hour and announcing that he would speak two or three days on the question, Thomas L. Church adjourned the debate at one o'clock this morning. The question will not come up again to-day, as the railway estimates are up.

BOYCOTT SOUTH IRELAND GOODS AS A REPRISAL

Ulster Trades Defence Association Issues Manifesto Calling New Boycott.

NEW MOVEMENT.

BELFAST, May 17. Canadian Press. — A new anti-boycott movement has been launched in Belfast by a body styled "The Ulster Trades Defense Association."

The organization has issued a manifesto complaining that the provisional government in Ireland has failed to deal with "the wanton destruction and looting of Ulster goods," entering Southern Ireland.

After reciting constant alleged acts of hostility toward Ulster, the manifesto says:

"Are we to stand with folded arms and make no attempt to defend our interests? The South is determined to ruin your trade. Show it you can also play that game. Refuse to buy Southern goods as the South refused to buy yours."

MRS. HARDING WROTE HE WANTS TO LIVE.

Letter Cheers Boy Injured in River Accident.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—Red-haired, freckle-faced Wilbur Morgan, 15 years old, lying in a plaster cast at St. Mary's Hospital, looks on the world as a place well worth while after all, although for four days physicians had feared that he would die, because as they said "he had lost the will to live." He would not talk, and cried frequently. Wilbur was a member of the boys' band, of Manchester, O., which furnished music for the Grant Centennial celebration at Point Pleasant, at which President Harding spoke, and was seriously injured when one of the decks on a river steamer collapsed.

But Wilbur received a letter. It read:

My Dear Wilbur:

I want you to know how very much interested I was in the Manchester Boys' Band, and I regretted very much not being able to hear it.

I hope your injury is not as serious as was feared and assure you of the great distress the President and I have felt, that you and the boys who had come to give us such a splendid welcome should have met with such a distressing accident.

With the sincerest hope that you are not in great pain, and that you may be restored to good health. Sincerely,

FLORENCE K. HARDING.

Today not a single physician, attendant, nurse or fellow-patient, was permitted to pass Wilbur's bed without reading the letter. He chatted gaily, and hummed an accompaniment as hospital attendants congratulated him upon the interest displayed by the "First Lady."

Physicians believe Wilbur's restored interest in life will bring about his complete recovery.

Newfoundland Traffic Stops

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 17.—(Canadian Press.) — No trains were operated on the Newfoundland Railway system yesterday. As a result of the Reid-Newfoundland Company's notices to its employes Monday that failure of the Colonial Government to pay the company sums which is claimed were due under its contract had left it without funds to pay wages due. No train crews reported for work yesterday. Among the trains cancelled was the Tri-weekly Express connecting with mail and passenger steamers for United States and Canadian ports.

The Government considered the situation at an all-day meeting. It is expected that after further debate on the disputed contract in the Legislature today some definite action will be taken to bring about resumption of traffic.

WAS NOT SICK FOR A CENTURY

William Broughton of Sarnia Lacked Ten Days of the Century Mark at Time of Death.

SARNIA, May 17.--After living nearly a century without knowing what illness meant, William Broughton of Sarnia township, was forced to spend the last week of his lifetime in bed and died Monday at the age of 99. Had he lived till the 24th of May he would have achieved the century mark.

He was born in England and came to Canada in 1870. For a time he lived at Hamilton and Simcoe, moving to Sarnia township in 1877, there to pursue his calling as a market gardener.

ALLEGED THIEF DESTROYS THE CARS HE STEALS.

LONDON, Ont., May 16.—Crown Attorney Douglass is asked to prepare warrants for Clarence V. Gould, missing city Hydro - Electric employee, alleged by the polcie to be the man principally, and possibly solely, responsible for the series of thefts extending over nearly two years, which resulted in the accumulation of $2,500 worth of loot discovered in a barn on English Street some days ago.

Frank Lewis, of Princess Avenue East, with his mother and other ladies, visited the Police Station and found in the lot their fur wraps, that had been left in Lewis' motor car when it was taken from in front of the Port Stanley bath-house on the night of August 20, 1921, and burned on Orchard Beach. A young man also identified a pair of binoculars that had been stolen from his tent last summer while he was camping at the lakeside. Almost every hour someone comes to the station and picks out a tire or an automobile part that belongs to him, and which had been stolen within the past year.

The police will attempt to prove that Gould made it a practice to first strip the cars he stole, and then burn them so as to leave the impression that all of the machines and their contents had been destroyed.

In the case of Lewis' car, an empty five-gallon gasoline can was found beside it after it had been sent burning over a steep embankment.

The omnibuses of London travel about 85,000,000 miles a year.

INVESTIGATION HUSTON DEATH IS PROCEEDING

E. W. Backus Denies All Allegations of Illegal Proceedings. In Winnipeg To-Morrow.

CONSTABLE CALLED.

FORT FRANCES, Ont., May 17. Canadian Press. — The Royal Commission investigating the death here on December 15 last, of Captain Orville Huston of Winnipeg, concluded its sessions here yesterday, and will meet again in Winnipeg on Thursday morning.

Yesterday's evidence was devoted to delving into clues as to threats to "hold up" a Winnipeg timber buyer known to be carrying money and to a denial by E. W. Backus, millionaire Minneapolis lumberman, of alleged threats made against him in a letter found on the person of Captain Huston. The letter was addressed to J. W. Dafoe, editor of the Manitoba Free Press, and there were numerous pencil addendas on the back to which reference was freely made in the investigation here.

Mr. Backus denied in toto allegations of corruption of customs officials, of illegal cutting of pulpwood, of withholding sums from the Canadian National Railway, or taking part in Federal politics, of influencing Premier Meighen to put through a treaty with the United States covering the Lake of the Woods water powers in a manner disadvantageous to this country.

Kenneth Campbell, Provincial Constable recalled, claimed to have been incorrectly reported in an interview by Colonel G. C. Porter. Witness had told the Colonel nothing about the "people across the river" having an interest in spreading suicide reports. He was of the same opinion in this matter now as he was previously.

Witness quoted to H. S. White, K.C., counsel for E. W. Backus, his words to Colonel Porter, "if this is not murder,this is one of the most premeditated and deliberate cases of suicide I have ever heard of." That was all he told him. Any other statements attributed to him were untrue and evolved from Porter's imagination.

GOVERNMENT IS DEFEATED ON UNIMPORTANT QUESTION

Third Defeat for Lloyd George's Government But It Is Not Thought That Resignation Will Follow. Leaders to Meet To-Day.

LONDON, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—The defeat of the Government in the House of Commons last night on a question of minor importance caused excitement and animation in Parliamentary lobbies out of all proportion to the amount of money or the principle involved. Austen Chaberlain, the Government leader in the House, had an informal conference with his chief colleagues, and it was decided that a cabinet council should be convened to meet today to decide upon the Government's action, which decision will be communicated to the House of Commons this afternoon.

The defeat of the Government was brought about, not on the actual question of whether teachers should contribute five per cent. of their salaries to the superannuation fund, which would mean a saving to the Government of less than £2,500,000 yearly, but on Lord Robert Cecil's motion to adjourn the debate. Mr. Chamberlain, in resisting this motion, was warned by many of the ministerial party that they would vote against him, but he declined to budge. The "Die Hards", Laborite and Asquithian Liberals went solidly with the Opposition.

Sir Eric Geddes' recommendation cutting the education estimates has always been dangerous ground for the Government, but, although the Asquithians and Laborites freely accused the Government of breach of faith with the teachers, it seemed needless for the Government to take the stand it did against Lord Robert's motion. The balance of opinion, however, last night was that the Government will not resign

The defeat was the third the Government has met, and the more it was discussed in political circles last night, the greater was mystification of the leaders, as they considered an easy way for retreat from its position was opened for the Government through Lord Robert Cecil's motion to adjourn. It was considered by some of those in the lobbies that Mr. Chamberlain either made a bad miscalculation, or that he was courting defeat.

Drury Advocates The Govt. Radial Program

Bill Comes Up For Second Reading and Raises a Lively Discussion in the House.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION.

TORONTO, May 17. Canadian Press. -- The Provincial Government's radial bill came up for a second reading in the legislature yesterday on motion of Premier Drury. The Prime Minister defended the measure as one which would enable the municipalities to co-operate in building radials on their own initiative instead of having radials forced upon them. The proposed act provided a way, he said, for the municipalities to finance such roads without the government guaranteeing the bonds whereas under the present act if the government withdrew its guarantee the hydro bonds by which the radials were to be constructed would be practically unsaleable.

The new bill gives the municipalities the option of allowing the Hydro-Electric Commission to construct or operate the road, but does not force this on them. They can build or manage the road themselves if they so desire.

The government will not guarantee the bonds of radials. The prime minister took the view that it was not right to place a liability on the entire province to serve the needs of any locality. If the government guaranteed the bonds of any radial in ony locality every other locality in the province where radials were feasible would be entitled to the same treatment.

The government sets its face against long distant radials. The prime minister claimed that when his ministry came into power it was confronted with a scheme for province-wide radials for which the lines already panned would be only stepping stones.

Trunk line radials would be a very unwise undertaking for the province; they would be in direct competition with federally owned steam roads. The purpose of radials should be to serve local needs not long distance traffic. The government will carry out its promise to guarantee Port Credit - St. Catharines radial bonds, but the municipalities must vote again on it.

The Prime Minister was followed by A. C. Lewis and J. E. Thompson, both of Toronto, who claimed the bill would kill radials; that the act as it stands to-day, with slight amendments, is what the people most interested, want. E. Watson (Victoria N.) moved the adiournment of the debate, which will probably be continued to-day.

BIGGEST VESSEL ARRIVED SAFELY IN N.Y. HARBOR

Mammoth Ship Broke All Records For Maiden Voyage Across Atlantic.

LARGEST AFLOAT.

NEW YORK, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)—The Majestic, mammoth new Morvich of the seas, warped into her pier at 4.35 yesterday afternoon, after a trip from England during which she broke all existing records for maiden voyages on the Atlantic.

Sir Bertram Hayes, her skipper, who went to her bridge in successive steps from cabin boy in the White Star Line service, had not tried to put the Majestic at top speed during the voyage. For two days she had "loafed," then speeding up as she ran into smoother seas, she drove along at a 25.50 knt pace, hitting it up to 26 on the last leg from Fire Island to Ambrose Lightship.

Just five days and 16 hours after she left Cherbourg, the Majestic whirled past the lightship in a cloud of spray. Then she slowed down to pick up her pilot.

After two hours in quarantine, due more to her own immense size than to any sickness aboard, the Majestic was cleared. Then she broke another record. For the first time in the history of shipping in New York harbor, a liner over 500 feet long, turned in her own length in quarantine. Tugs, fore and aft, did the trick, and by the effort the Majestic saved at least half an hour in her docking time.

It was the trip up the river which was her real welcome. Tugs, ferries, steamers, and even people on shore were noisy in their greeting to the biggest ship afloat.

Captains Peterson and Hayes put the Majestic into her dock on a rising tide, but they failed to make allowance for the giant vessel's momentum, and she crashed into the pier, shattering two sections and breaking several windows.

"She did better than 25.50 knots on an average," reported Captain Hayes, and at no time were we using her full boiler capacity."

She came into port with a pronounced list to starboard, but it was termed nothing serious. The Majestic will lay over 10 days before she returns to England, to undergo the repairs necessary to the tanks.

BUYS SERVICES OF JOCKEY FOR $25,000.

NEW YORK, May 17, Canadian Press. — J. S. Gosden, the well known turfman, is said to have paid James Arthur $2,0005 for a contract on Chick Lang, the Hamilton Ontario jockey. This is said to be the record price for the services of a jockey.

RAILWAY BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE WITHOUT CHANGE

No Amendments Are Made Although the Bill Met With Some Objections.

BY PROGRESSIVES.

OTTAWA, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)—The House last night passed in the form in which it came from the Railway committee, the C.P.R. Bill respecting construction of branch lines in Sasaktchewan and Alberta. Objection was made to the bill on the ground that the company should show some disposition to proceed with construction of the lines. Progressive members claimed that the road was needed immediately, that farmers were handling their grain as far as 25 and 30 miles.

F. N. McCrea (Liberal, Sherbrooke), said the C.P.R. was asking for the usual extension.

Since the formation of the Canadian Air Force the Camp Borden station has been commanded by Lt.-Col. Joy, Lt.-Col. Scott Williams, Lt.-Col. Gordon, Major Glenn and now Major Godfrey.

QUEBEC TORIES CHOOSE LEADER

Arthur Sauve is Re-elected to Office at Convention Held in Montreal Yesterday.

MONTREAL, May 17.—(Canadian Press.—Arthur Sauve was unanimously chosen leader of the Quebec Conservative Party at the convention meeting here yesterday afternoon.

The election of Mr. Sauve was also an endorsation of the stand he has taken since 1916, when he assumed leadership of the party. In a letter to Chairman Morin and Sayer Mr. Sauve laid down conditions of acceptance of leadership, later amending some of the clauses. One clause enables Mr. Sauve to seek out the best avalable men in the Province for organization work, these to form an organization Committee. A clause in the letter having reference to fighting all those who appear to me as enemies of my race was amended by changing the word "race" to "province".

In the election of Mr. Sauve there was no question raised as to any other candidate. Hon. E. L. Patenaude, whose name had been mentioned, worked in harmony with Mr. Sauve throughout the session yesterday and will it is understood act as his lieutenant in the future.

A pledge to remain faithful to the fundamental ideas of thes political schools of Lafontaine, Cartier and MacDonald form the basis of the platform which was adopted at the convention. Approval was given to the principles advocated by the Opposition at Quebec and these were adopted in the programme. The platform laid down policies as to education, general administration, agriculture, colonization and immigration, mines, roads, civil service, justice, labor and municipalities, and the liquor question

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

Ald. McIntyre is to be congratulated upon the spirit he showed at the Council meeting the other night when he declared that although he had put up the best fight he could for ex-Chief Grange, the Council had appointed a new man, and he thought it best that the latter should be supported. "I will do all I can to help the Fire Department," promised Ald. McIntyre. That is a sensible and commendable attitude that might be copied by other citizens. By the vote of the majority of the Council a change has been made and a new Chief is in charge. The obvious duty of the aldermen and of the citizens for that matter is to follow Ald. McIntyre's example and "do all they can for the Department." Any other policy, under the circumstances, would be shortsighted, to say the least.

THE PAVING QUESTION.

The City Council seems unable to decide whether they should accept the lowest tender for the paving of George Street South or authorise the city engineer to do the work by day labour. With such a comparatively small section of paving to be done this year, it is difficult to see why there should be much difference of opinion on this point. The lowest tender was $1,100 lower than the engineer's estimate. There seems no reason why that tender should not be accepted, nor why the Council should wish to buy a cement mixer and possibly other machinery when the contract to be undertaken is not a large one and the amount of work to be carried out does not warrant the expenditure upon a paving plant. Plunging into paying on their own account, the city fathers would be speculating, and the question arises as to whether such speculation is advisable under the circumstances. Under the contract system the city takes no chances, the contractor has to face the music if his estimate turns out to be too low. On the other hand, if the city engineer happens to have made a mistake in his estimate the ratepayers have to foot the bill. A responsible contractor has submitted a tender that is $1,100 less than the engineer's figures. In view of that fact, it seems a waste of time to bother with the day labour system when the section to be paved is comparatively small.

COMMEMORATING THE MISSING.

The announcement made by Major-General Mewburn, as chairman of the Canadian War Graves Commission, yesterday, that it had been decided that the names of the 19,000 Canadian soldiers officially reported missing during the war are to be inscribed on the battlefield memorial to be erected on Vimy Ridge, will be approved by the Canadian people generally, and will be a source of comfort to the relatives of the thousands of soldiers who were killed in the war and whose bodies were not recovered. The graves of those members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who were buried in France and Belgium are being taken care of, and the names of such soldiers are to be found on their graves, but for some time the Commission has been considering the best plan to commemorate the men who had been reported missing because no trace of thm could be found. Finally the suggestion was made, and has been adopted, that their names should be marked upon the beautiful memorial that Canada is to erect upon the site of one of the greatest successes scored by the Canadian Army—that of the Battle of Vimy Ridge. It is a source of gratification to learn that although there are no decorated graves in the cemeteries of France for the 19,000 missing heroes, their names will be recorded where they can be read in the days that lie ahead. The official who evolved this plan has earned the gratitude of all the relatives and friends of the men who were reported "Missing—believed killed."

THOSE CARETAKERS.

The City Council advertised for caretakers for the ...unicipal swimming beaches at Inverlea Park and Lake Street, stipulating that the applicants must be qualified to give instruction in swimming. On Monday night the appointments were made, the successful applicant for the Inverlea Park position agreeing to work for $17.00 a week, while the Lake Street official will receive $50.00 a month. It is to be feared that the chief qualification considered by the Council was the willingness of the applicants to accept a small salary. At least, neither of the men appointed is in any way qualified to give intelligent instruction in the art of swimming, and so far as that feature of their duties is concerned, it is evident that the city fathers were impressed more by the chance to save a few dollars than they were anxious to secure caretakers capable of carrying out the work advertised. In other seasons the supervisors from the playgrounds have taken charge of large numbers of the smaller children at the beaches, but this safeguard will not be available this year, and the Council might have seen to it that the caretakers appointed were at least alert and active and able to swim expertly enough to be of assistance in the event of some of the children getting into difficulties, even if it were necessary to expend more than $50.00 a month in securing such officials. It doesn't pay to be parsimonious when a life may be at stake.

PULPIT AND POLITICS.

A Presbyterian minister in an Ontario town has ben practically forced to resign his charge because his participation in politics is said to have impaired his usefulness as a preacher, says the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. The man is said to have been actuated by honest zeal for the public good; perhaps he allowed himself to be carried too far by his zeal, as is sometimes the case when ministers of the Gospel enter the political arena.

As a matter af theory there can be no question about the right of a minister of the Gospel to participate in politics; the expediency of exercising the right is another matter. If politics were what they ought to be, it might be even the duty of ministers of the Gospel to become actively interested; but politics are what they are, not what they ought to be, and the minister who becomes politician must be prepared to accept the consequences. The consequences are not always satisfactory to the minister.

Perhaps as things are it is as well that ministers of the Gospel should be encouraged to stick to Gospel methods. Perhaps there is just too much of a tendency at the present time to rely on politics and legislatures to do the work which is usually associated, or used to be associated, with religion and the churches. Even in regard to moral reform there is a tendency for the statute book to take the place of the Holy Book, for the power of the policeman to take the place of the power of the Word.

A TRUCE TO STRIKES.

Less than six months ago the whole world was electrified by the proposal made at the opening of the Washington Conference by Mr. Hughes, the American Secretary of State, that the Great Powers which are vitally concerned in the continuance of peace in the countries whose shores are lapped by the Pacific should take a ten-year naval holiday. The general enthusiasm with which the plan was received not only ensured its ratification, but it opened the door to a further development of its underlying principle—the reduction of international armaments.

Frank Hodges, the brilliant young Labor leader of Britain, who was reputed to be the directing genius of the two great coal strikes that have occurred since the Armistice, carries the idea one step further. Mr. Hodges views the industrial world as a vast potential battleground, where forces are joined through strikes and lock-outs. This idea is not new for Dr. Victor Clark, with a long experience in labor matters, has written: "Strikes are like wars, they open opportunities for prominence and distinction to the officers who lead them, but only hardship and suffering to the rank and file who fight them."

Believing in the reality of the analogy of strikes and war, Frank Hodges proposes to British Labor—and the echo of his words may well reverberate round the world—that the employers and employed take a ten-year holiday and draw up a sort of replica of the document signed at Washington that neither side will enter upon a strike or a lock-out during the next ten years. The immensity of the effect of such a plan and its reactions makes the proposal of supreme interest. The War revealed to us the savagery and the uselessness of appeals to force and the method of the strike and the lock-out is not distinguishable from the method of force. As Hon. Mackenzie King in his published study of existing labor conditions points out, both are demonstrations of might, and "violence in one form or another is in most instances an inevitable accompaniment."

All industrial strike is to some degree a form of anarchy. To quote Everett P. Wheeler, another deep student of Labor questions, such disputes "are a combination by men not elected by the people and not accountable to the people to prevent other citizens from exercising their rights."

Moreover, as in war, it is not only the belligerents who suffer during strikes and lock-outs; the whole community is affected. The public in times of strike plays the same part that a neutral nation assumes in time of war and often it takes longer for the neutrals to recover from the effects of a struggle than it does for the belligerents. The appeal to Force in the form of strike or lock-out often diverts attention from the real basic cause of the dispute, while the sympathy of the general public is influenced by considerations quite foreign to the fundamental principles of the dispute.

Frank Hodges has taken a bold step in proposing a ten-year truce in industry and his courage should win general and unstinted praise. It is not a move that will commend itself to the syndicalists and the extreme radicals of the Labor movement, and the occupation of the paid agitator will be largely gone. There are many difficulties to be met with in translating the scheme from the idealism of the dreamer to the practical common-sense of the workaday world, but the accomplishments at Washington are promise that mountains can be removed by faith.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With whisky being smuggled by airmen, it may be said that the bootleggers' brand comes high.

Lady Astor being in Toronto to-day, the Star's paragrapher will doubtless refer to her as one of the flowers that bloom in the spring.

If the city fathers had figured the Hunter Street Bridge proposition as closely as this year's Council has the expenditure on caretakers for the swimming beaches the famous structure might not have made such a deep dent in our tax bills.

With the Rotarians unloading scows in preparation for their Boys' Camp and the Kiwanians building a dining-room for the Health Association at Jackson Park, Victoria Day will be a busy holiday for these two worthwhile organisations.

Ald. Crowe evidently figures that the new Fire Chief having stepped into the ex-Chief's shoes, should also be able to wear the latter's uniform.

CANADIAN GENTLEMEN.

What constitutes a gentleman? Reverence for holy things, respect for those to whom it is due, gentleness toward the aged and little children, kindness to dumb animals, affection and consideration in the home relationship, faithfulness and honesty in the discharge of business or professional duties, and courtesy. By this, I do not mean the superficial manners which are so easily acquired, but that innate good breeding which characterizes the men whom women trust and men are pleased to call friend

These are the qualities which distinguish our Canadian gentlemen.

PEGGY JOYCE COME AGAIN FROM PARIS.

Jewels Worth $20,000 Held For Duty Due to Mistake, Says Her Attorney.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Somewhat subdued in demeanor, but radiant in attire, Peggy Hopkins Joyce arrived here from Paris abroad the Mauretania. She had been "through hell," she said, and wanted to rest her mind from its tortures over the recent suicide of "Billy" Errazurix, the young Chilean diplomat who was said to have been infatuated with her. Peggy, who has had three millionaires for husbands, tearfully declared that Errazuriz was "the only man I ever truly loved."

"I'm all unstrung and I need a rest to get myself together," she said. "I expect to remain in America six or eight weeks, visiting my mother in Norfolk, Va., and seeing my friends in the city."

Peggy occupied the de luxe suite on the Cunard liner Mauretania, travelling with Katharine Maloney, an English actress. She was clothed in a black velvet gown over which she wore a sable coat reputed to have cost $75,000. A small brown hat covered her blonde hair. She wore flesh colored stockings and patent leather pumps. Peggy's fingers were clustered with several of the rings which make up her famous $1,000,000 collection of jewelry.

Puffing a cigarette, she asked the press to publish the "true" version of the suicide of "Billy."

Tells How She Met Errazuriz.

"My mind is all a-muddle over this terrible mess," she said. "The world seems to think I am flippant, whereas I am a very serious person. I've been blamed for everything but the World War. I was not responsible for "Billy" Errazuriz killing himself. I first met him in Mineola, L. I., during the trial of Mrs. Jack de Saulles, his sister, who killed her husband. He made violent love to me. I went away and our paths separated and we did not see each other until a year ago. I want the world to know that I loved Billy better than any man I ever knew. I loved him for six years."

Miss Joyce said that when she met Errazuriz last year he had married, but was living apart from his wife. She said she told him she would marry him as soon as he could get a divorce, which was difficult because he was a Catholic.

"I had become engaged to Henri Letellier, the wealthiest man in France," she said. "On the night Billy killed himself he pleaded with me to give up my other admirer, but I told him that as soon as he had obtained his divorce I would do this for him. In the meantime I told him we would be the best of pals.

"The night of the suicide we had a little party of four, Miss Maloney, Billy, M. Letellier and myself. We had a pleasant time—no one got tipsy. Billy, who didn't drink anything, seemed depressed. When we went back to the hotel he again pleaded with me to give up everybody, telling me how dearly he loved me. I was tired out—it was 6 o'clock in the morning—so I said, 'Go to your room, Billy, and wait until tomorrow for your answer.'

Learned of Death in Morning.

"He turned to me and said: 'There will be no tomorrow for me.' I didn't realize what he meant by that remark until later. Billy went to his room, which, I want to make very clear, was not adjoining mine, but on another floor.

"The next I heard of Billy was when a maid told me when I waked up that he had killed himself. It was a terrible shock for me. A lot was printed about the affair in the Paris papers, but no representative of the police came to see me about the tragedy. Billy left a letter for the Prefect of the Police, in which he said he was tired of living. He protected me all the way through, the splendid fellow he was."

To a reporter who asked her to explain her popularity with men, Peggy said:

"If a woman admits popularity with men she is accused of vanity and if she tries not to explain it people think she is ashamed of it. If I am popular it is because I am from Virginia."

"There have been rumors of an engagement to Jack Dempsey," it was suggested.

"What next?" she exclaimed. "Jack is a peach of a man with a big white soul. I shall probably not marry again—that is, for a long time.

Miss Joyce's mood turned to anger when she was shown a dispatch from Washington stating that the motion picture exhibitors had voted to bar her from the screen.

"I haven't committed any crime," she cried. "If they bar me then American chivalry is dead."

Ending her interview with advice to young girls to get married, live in the country and raise children, Peggy said that it would never do for her as she wanted lots of men around her and "you don't find them in the country."

Miss Joyce, escorted by private detectives, went from the pier to the Customs House and later to her home at 423 Park avenue.

Jewelled Placque Seized.

As an incident of her arrival, a diamond and emerald plaque, valued at $20,000, was held for duty. The rest of her jewellery, which she said was worth $1,000,000, was returned after an examination as not subject to duty.

William J. Fallon, her attorney, and Val O'Farrell, head of a private detective agency, engaged to guard Peggy and her jewels, said last night that the seizure of the plaque was due to a mistake. They said it was a present to Peggy from her last husband, James Stanley Joyce, who purchased it from Cartier in Paris in 1919 before their divorce and paid the duty at the time of the purchase. Peggy was able to prove that the rest of the jewellery she brought with her had been purchased in the United States.

Peggy was delighted when the examination was concluded and the jewels were handed to her bodyguard. She tried to kiss one of the special agents, but he ran away, asking "what would his wife say." Then she said that all the examiners were "dears," and departed with her retinue of lawyers and detectives.

GOVT. CONTROL OF U.S. COAL INDUSTRY.

Likely Unless the Miners' Strike is Settled Shortly.

WASHINGTON, May 17—(Canadian Press).—Unless the coal strike is settled before many weeks, the demand in Congress for legislation for government control of the coal industry promises to become so strong that it is likely in the end to lead to the passage of a regluatory law.

An increasing number of members of both houses of Congress is urging regulatory legislation. For the past several years, the demand for government control of the coal industry has been felt in Congress and numerous bills have been introduced. The coal interests have openly fought these bills and have succeeded, so far, in defeating them. Some of these bills have been offered, not by radical members, but by conservatives. Senator Calder of New York, for instance, was active in the last Congress for coal legislation.

The situation is such that if there is a settlement of the coal strike and resumption of work within the next few weeks, there will be no regulatory legislation in this session of Congress. However, if there is no settlement and the shortage of coal becomes distressing the demand for legislation will become almost irresistible. Some of the most prominent leaders in Congress are watching developments closely and are prepared to press regulatory legislation when the time seems opportune. They are becoming convinced that without legislation the coal industry will continue unstable and unsettled with constantly recurring strikes and labor troubles.

While there is talk of a settlement of the present strike under a plan which the administration is considering the belief here is that this settlement is likely to be one of a temporary nature.

DEPUTY MINISTER HIGHWAYS VISITED HILL AT SPRINGVILLE

W. A. McLean Offered No Encouragement to Those Who Have Been Urging the Department to Construct the New Provincial Highway Over Instead of Around the Hill North of Springville

W. A. McLean, Deputy-Minister of Highways, and George Hogarth, chief engineer of the Department, discussed with several deputations at Springville on Tuesday afternoon the vexed question of whether the provincial highway from Peterboro to Port Hope should go over or around the hill between Springville and Scott's Corners. The interview was arranged by Mr. T. Tooms, M. L.A, and was held on the hilltop to the accompaniment of the songs of bobolinks and meadow larks, and in a sunlit atmosphere of hazy blue that made the occasion a pleasant outing.

"If the road is built over the hill," said Mr. McLean, "the only reason I can offer is that the people of this vicinity want it to come this way. But from the standpoint of utility, safety and economy I believe in the old road."

Previously he had stated that he had decided personally to examine the alternative routes to satisfy himself upon the report of the Department's engineers, who had recommended that the Provincial highway at that point should follow the old forced road that makes a detour around the hill and over which the traffic of generations had flowed except when the drifts of winter made it impassible.

Sounded like a Hint.

The effect of Mr. McLean's summary of his own observations of the lay of the ground and the work to be done in reducing the grade of the proposed course over the hill was a rather broad hint that he was in full accord with the recommendations of his engineers. He made no definite announcement of what the Department's decision would be as finally approved by the Hon. Mr. Biggs, Minister of Highways, but most of his hearers formed the the opinion that the highway would follow the grade over the old route chosen years ago by men, who, Mr. McLean remarked, used good 'horse sense' when they were selecting traffic roads.

Those Present.

Among those present were Mayor Taylor, Ad. Stocker and City Clerk Armstrong, representing the city; Reeve Rye, Deputy-reeve Lilico and Councillors Barnes, Bell and Dobbin of North Monaghan township; Deputy-Reeve Bland and Councillors Hooton and Elston, of Cavan township; also E. B. Fowler, J. W. Brightman, H. O. Fisk, R. Denne, V. Eastwood, A. Blade, R. H. Turner, and L. Fraser of the Motor League; Reeve Fred A. Eason of Otonabee Township, Harold Haptie, J. O. Ball and others.

Mr. Fred Wilson, former Deputy-Reeve of North Monaghan, was present as the owner of adjacent property directly affected by the Department's decision. The forced road around the hill traverses his property leaving fields on either side of it. He has been particularly active in advocating the passage over the hill. Mr. D. W. Bues, engineer on the Peterboro-Port Hope Highway, was also present.

"So much had been said in opposition to the curved road that I asked the engineers of the Department to report fully on it," said Mr. McLean. "I sent the result of that report to various interested Councils, but still I had individuals and representatives who were familiar with that report coming in to see me about the road. These representations were so strong and so continuous that I began to think the engineers must have made a mistake. So I came here this afternoon, prepared if possible to get your viewpoint and to find out the reasons why the road should come straight over this hill."

Mr. McLean's Address.

In road construction it was more desirable to have a slight curve than a steep straight hill to climb, and he illustrated his point by supposing an orange cut in half and laid flat on a table. The distance over the orange was the same as around it, half the circumference in each case.

Deep Cut Necessary.

"The hill is somewhat the same," Mr. McLean continued. "The grade of the old road is about 4 1-2 per cent., and a short piece of it is about 6 per cent. Here if we got a six per cent. grade we would have to make a cut of fourteen feet, and on the flat below we would have to fill ten feet high. The cut at the top of the hill would be ten feet and it would still be 15 feet above the old road.

A fill it not a desirable thing. It puts the road up in the air and you would need hand rails. I would undertake to say that there would be more accidents on the straight road over the hill than on the old curved road."

Road 86 Feet Wide.

Mr. McLean said that the old road widened to 86 feet could be laid to avoid the springy condition the farmers complained of and would also avoid deep snow drifts. It follows the natural grade of the land and in point of beauty was inininitely preferable to what "you would have here at the finish."

"Over the hill you would have the sharp earth walls of the cut on each side of the road. I think the enthusiasts for the straight road have not looked at it from the engineer's standpoint to consider what you would have when you got through

In the conversations preceding below.

The people who laid out the old roads used good horse sense in the grades and routes selected. I believe that when we got through here the people coming after us when they would see the easy open way at the side of the hill would ask why we had ever made such a monstrosity as this."

In the conversations preceding the Deputy-Minister's address it was intimated that the cost of building the road over the hill would be about $15,000 or more in excess of the estimated outlay in constructing along the route now in use.

To Mr. Eastwood's question Mr. McLean replied to build it over the hill would entail an extra cost of about $700 a year in perpetuity.

To Mr. Wilson and other farmers of North Monaghan and Cavan Mr. McLean said that they need have no doubts about the remedying of a boggy condition of the road near the turn into Springville which they mentioned as one of the chief reasons why the hill route should be chosen. The springs could be easily tapped. The springs could be easily tiling and blind stone drains. There was plenty of outlet for the water Mr. McLean said.

Mr. Tooms, who presided over the conference, brought it to a close by thanking Mr. McLean for the interest he had taken in this vexing question of more than a year's dispute by personally surveying the locality.

OBSERVANCE OF MOTHER'S DAY IN MILLBROOK

Special Feature at the Methodist Church Was Men's Choir. Good Work By Girls' Choir at Grace Church.

MILLBROOK, May 17.--The special feature of the observance of "Mother's Day" in the Methodist church was the music by the men's choir, under the able leadership of Mr. G. A. Duncan, both morning and evening. The following were the members: Messrs. W. Coombe, J. L. Byam, A. J. Brown, A. Raper, F. Alcorn, C. Garside, W. W. Kennedy, D. Anderson, G. E. Burnham, W. G. Rowland W. Tremaine, G. W. Sayles, B. Dawson, E. C. Richards, Lloyd Byam, H. L. Burnham, H. Seabrooke, M. Brock, C. Lord, W. G. Fetherington and J. Gardiner.

Two of the C.S.E.T. boys, Masters Ernest Burnham and Nelles Rowland, acted as ushers for the morning service, fulfilling their duties in a most notable manner. Messrs. W. Fife and W. Elson took their places in the evning as both boys belong to the cadets, and had to march with them. The musical numbers in the morning were: "The Songs My Mother Sang," solo by F. Alcorn, the full choir joining in the refrain, "Memory Bells" and "My Mother's Prayer" by the choir. The pastor, Rev. S. T. Tucker, spoke on, "The Influence of a Mother in Israel", using the story of the mother of the young king, Josiah, from 2nd Chronicles 34th chapter, and 2nd Kings, 22nd chapter.

The Millbrook Cadet Corps, No. 403, under the leadership of Captain Howard Lancashire, and Lieutenants F. Alcorn and William Needler, paraded to the Methodist church on Sunday evening. There was about 30 cadets in attendance and the congregation was unusually large. The order of the service was a follows:

Doxology, Invocation by the pastor, Hymn 381, Prayer the pastor, Scripture Lesson, 'The Child Jesus in the Temple',' Luke 2: 40-50, Offering and announcements.

"My Mother's Song", solo by Mr. W. Coombe, duets, Messrs G. Duncan and W. Coombe; quartette, Messrs. J. L. Byam, F. Alcorn, G. Duncan and W. Coombe, refrain by the choir.

A Union Event.

The special "Mother's Day" services in Grace Prebyterian church on Sunday, May 14th, took the form in the morning of a union of both the Sunday School and the congregation, and the special program prepared by the Department in Toronto was followed throughout. There was an excellent attendance, and the junior girls' choir composed of Vanita Ingram, Margaret Armstrong, Ruth Thorndyke, Jean and Edna Gervan led in the singing, one number which they sang well was, "Tell me the Story of Jesus".

Besides the responsive Scripture readings, in which all joined, others who assisted were as follows:

Recitation, "Mother's Day" by Edna Gervan.

Rectitation, "Without a Uniform" by Gordon Armstrong.

Duet, "Memories of Mother" by Rev. G. S. and Mrs. Gervan.

Recitation, "My Mother" by George McKnight.

Address, "I am proud of my Mother" by Anna Hawthorne.

Recitation, "Mother's Day" (Margaret Sangster) by Thelma Ball.

Sermon, from the text "Behold thy Mother" John 19: 27, Rev. Gervan.

Hymn, "Childhood Years are passing o'er us" sung by all.

The usual announcements, offering, hymns, etc., were interspersed with the other items on the program, the benediction bringing the service to a close.

Hymn 369.

"I'll wear a white flower, Mother dear, for you" solo by Mr. F. Alcorn, quartete, Messrs. G. Duncan, W. Coombe and Lloyd Byam.

Sermon, Rev. Mr. Tucker, text, Luke 2:52, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and Man". This is the keypassage to the C.S.E.T. work, of which organization most of the cadets are members, and the pastor's address emphasized the value of the work among the teen aeg boys, and outlined some of the outstanding characteristics which have to be recognized, and dealt intelligently with, during the adolescent period.

"Will you answer Mother's prayer tonight?" by the choir.

Hymn 368.

Benediction.

Personal Mention.

Miss Etta Kemp, of Peterboro spent the week-end the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Raper.

Mrs. (Canon) Allen has resigned her position as organist of St. Thomas' church, since the first Sunday in May, intending to take at least six months rest. Miss M. Collins is taking the organ for present.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Burnham, and babe Dorothy, of Peterboro, spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

CAR MISHAP IN CAMPBELLFORD DUE TO A PITCH-HOLE.

One Auto Struck Another Broadside — Two Other Drivers Fined For a Breach of Law.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17.—On Friday of last week Mr. McBride, a carpenter, employed by Hydro-electric Company, while driving his car on Bridge street, collided with a car owned by Mr. Dan. Richardson, at the corner of Bridge and Rear street.

To avoid a pitch-hole in the road, McBride turned to the left hand side, and, unfortunately, not noticing Richardson's car going south on Rear street, struck the latter's machine broadside, causing serious damage to both vehicles.

McBride acknowledged his mistake and paid all damages to Mr. Richardson's auto, amounting to $18.

Autoists Fined.

Two men were brought before Magistrate Payne by Chief Duncalfe, one on a charge of exceeding the speed limit, the other charged with driving a motor truck without the proper license markers. The former was fined $8.50 and the latter $7.50.

How to Keep Beautiful and Retain Your Health

PHILADELPHIA JACK O'BRIEN (CENTER) AND THE EXER CISES CONSTANCE TALMADGE EMPLOYS TO KEEP FIT AND BEAUTIFUL.

BY PHILADELPHIA JACK O'BRIEN

Athlete and Physical Director.

If women could be prevailed upon to continue their athletics with half the z eal with which they begin with we should soon have a race of superwomen.

But they are quicker to stop than to start.

Men realize exercise is necessary to keep them fit for their work. They undertake it in moderation and keep it up.

But women want to accomplish everything at once. They want to lose flesh or gain it more quickly than is possible. If they can't notice results the first week they discontinue.

The only women I find who exercise properly are theatrical women, because it is part of their job to stay fit.

The exercises I am describing today, which Constance Talmadge is shown doing so easily, are simple, but if every woman would practice them 15 minutes a day she quickly would gain beauty and health.

They are beneficial at all times, but particularly at this time of the year when the vitality is naturally low.

The woman unused to exercise should not do each one more than four times the first day, then on the fourth day increase to eight times, and after six days to 16.

BY MARIAN HALE.

Beauty advice to women — from a man!

That's something new under the sun, isn't it?

But this man—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, famous athlete and former prize fighters, is well qualified to give it because he's now operating two athletic institutes, devoting himself to keeping men and women fit.

He tells you to-day the exercises Constance Talmadge takes —and look how slim and graceful she is and the "pep" she has!

The exercises aren't hard. Let's try them as a foil for our annual enemy, spring fever.

Remember, muscles unusued for a number of years are likely to be stiff when put into use. Do not let the stiffness discourage you. This merely shows you are getting results.

Take the exercises easily at first and do not stiffen the muscles. And after each effort come back to normal position and relax. This is important.

The first exercise consists of bending the body to the side from the waist. This reduces the waistline and makes one willowy.

The second is the squatting exercise, promoting a good circulation. This makes eyes bright and complexion clear.

For the third exercise, bend forward as far as you can, keeping knes rigid and hands on hips. This will reduce the abdomen and strengthen the muscles, improving the figure.

Turn head and shoulders as far to one side as you can for number four. This twists the muscles about the waist and is excellent for liver and lungs.

For strengthening the torso there are no better exercises than five and six. Lie flat on the floor and interlock the fingers back of the neck. Then raise the upper part of the body until the elbows rest on the knees.

Another good exercise is the windmill exercise. This consists in bending at the waist until you can touch the left foot with the right hand finger tips, and the right foot with the left hand finger tips.

For reduction of weight nothing is more effective than walking. Hold in the hands grips—that is, one-half pound weights covered with cork. This will produce a perspiration and the flesh melts away as if by magic.

A muffler of silk or wool is tied about the neck with many folds so the throat is completely swathed, worn while doing the walking exercise, will effectively discourage the chin that is showing a desire to multiply.

HUMANE SOCIETY IS ACTIVE

Tag Day on Saturday for Funds to Carry on Work

The time has passed when a Humane Society can be regarded as a choice collection of cranks who for want of something better to do, are out to disturb people in the peaceful possession and utilization of their property. A Humane Society is a scientific and sanitary requirement, and quite apart from its moral significance, it does practical work that in a city is absolutely necessary. The condition of a city where hundreds of stray dogs and cats are allowed to prowl at large, preying upon smaller animals, and making day and night hideous with their cries, can be imagined. These creatures, producing and reproducing their kind, without check or hindrance, would soon crowd the citizens to the edges. Injured animals would lie unattended in the streets or crawl away to die in slow agony in some corner (probably under one's front porch) and no one would attend to them. A fallen horse woud remain fallen, and there would be neither labor nor facilities to get it up and about. Worn out horses would be turned out to die in the streets, and on one would investigate.

Men could beat their horses to death, work them while improperly shod, starve their cattle, murder their neighbors' pets—commit any offence to animals that fiendish ingenuity could devise, and no one would mark it. This is some of the work undertaken by an Humane Society.

The recently organized Branch in this city of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is already very active, and have received permission to put on a Tag Day on Saturday next, to secure funds to carry on their work.

VALUED AT $100.000 AND SOLD FOR $5,500

NEW YORK, May 17.—(Canadian Press).— The diamond which Princes Fatima, Afghan Sultana, valued at $100.000 when she brought it to the United States last summer was sold at a recent sheriff's execution sale for $5,500 to John R. LOCAL LABOR extreme south the 100 foot brick stack that will be built by the Canadian Custodis Chimney Company.

Reinforced Concrete.

The buildings will all be of reinforced concrete, fireproof throughout and as an adequate fire protection, an up-to-date sprinkler system, which will be cared for by a 30,000 gallon tank on top of the main building, is being installed. The trimmings will be in artificial stone and tapestry brick. By smoke eliminating devices the company will reduce the smoke nuisance to a minimum and the factory will be so clean and wholesome in every way, free from noise and dirt, that visitors to the city will almost imagine that it is part of the school located on the adjacent property. The total cost of the plant at a conservative estimate, is placed now at $125,000.

LOCAL CHEESE

Cook, was of an unusually high grade, and the May cheese is above the average, Mr. Ward stated. The proposed Dairy Produce Act for which J. A. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, is said to be responsible, and which will institute grading at Montreal instead of at the factories as carried on now, was discussed. Mr. Cook advocated that each individual factory register its opposition to the proposed legislation as in his opinion the present system is satisfactory to salesmen and buyers alike. In this section the system has not been abused, he said. In the opinion of those who discussed the Act, so far as this county is concerned, the system in force is adequate. The matter will be further discussed at other sales.

Clarified Cheese.

Secretary Hawthorne pointed out the experiment Warsaw factory is making with regard to clarified cheese which will be sold to the Canadian Packing Company. He regretted that the change would weaken the board. He said they had an original device for clarifying the whey before pasteurizing it that would attract notice. If successful it will be patented. Mr. Hawthorne commended the board for its fair dealing and declared there was no curb selling here.

Tuesday Night's Practice Reveals What Looks Like a Winning Team.

HASTINGS, May 17 —Tuesday night's practice at the exhibition grounds brought out all of last year's Junior O.A.L.A. group winners and also some new material which looks promising.

Some of the boys in uniform who figured on the champinship team last year are : W. Tate, S. Stevenson; J. Gould, C. Whitred, O. Scriver, B. Richardson, W. Whitred, F. Scrver.

Captain W. Tate and Coach I. Doonan put the boys through a good hard practice and by the looks of the brand of lacrosse they are putting up, Hastings will tackle the winners of the next group.

WINS A HORSE.

"Bert" Lucas the "Gas" man at the Duffus Motor Sales was successful in winning a horse which we understand was raffled by Mr. George Stephens, of Apsley. Just recently "Bert" has been equipped with a brand new and most modern Bowser five gallon pumper with a tank of 1,000 gallons capacity for the special purpose of handling "White Rose" Gasoline.

There is certainly to be some speed to "Bert" this year with two five gallon pumpers and his new horse. Just how he is going to keep the horse on "White Rose" and "Imperial Gasoline" has not yet been figured out.

"Our First Year"

(BY A BRIDE)

CHAPTER XXXIX—A NEAR QUARREL.

By A Bride.

Never had my temper been so brittle, never had Jack been so patient. While he turned the cuffs of his only clean shirt to conceal the frazzled edges he whistled cheerily. But his indifference to a trying situation which I might have prevented, did not comfort me.

"Not much mail this morning!" Jack picked up his letters.

I did not answer. I knew perfectly well that my husband was talking merely for talking's sake—just to relieve the tension of the moment.

"And no bills—thank the gods."

Jack's last remark quite finished me although I knew that he meant it for a joke.

"Bills don't come this time of the month," I snapped. "You'll get a plenty when they do!"

"Why, Peggins! Darling! What's the matter this morning?"

To this question my only answer was a stony glance just long enough to see that Jack wore his usual expression when I'm a horrid, a grieved, bewildered look.

"Peggy, love- It's mean to bother you- I thought you'd know I was only teasing! I'm stupid sometimes, I guess. But girl if I've I hurt you, I'm sorry-"

"It's all right, Jack!" I replied in a tone intended to convey the idea that it was decidedly all wrong. I put up my face to be kissed. "Hurry, dear! I've made you late to your appointment! Now don't make me feel worse about it by being later!"

Jack hugged me close, Mr. Tearle's letter in my blouse crackled sharply. My husband held me at arm's length and laughed:

"Right over your heart! What's that you were asking about secrets?"

"Maybe—it's another bill!"

"Oh, Peggins Don't you—won't you understand any old joke this morning?"

"I understand you're late, awfully! Goodby!"

Another kiss, another hug, another rustling of crushed paper, the door closed between us. Jack was gone and I was desolate.

Never had we come so close to quarreling. Whenever I had appeared to be the least bit annoyed, Jack had looked worried, helpless as if he were at his wit's end. He was in that state of mind when he left the house. I hadn't been fair—I had behaved very badly!

With tears in my eyes I started to collect the breakfast dishes. The sight of Jack's half empty coffee cup made the tears brim over. I sat down on the bench by the side of my narrow Pullman table and had a nice quiet crying spell.

My darling husband would not be in his office until the late afternoon. I could not phone him and tell him how sorry I was. I would have to endure that horrid weight upon my heart, a suffocated feeling, until he returned and we could make up.

And all this on account of Mr. Tearle's letter. I had been cross because I had been wrong.

I snatched the letter from my blouse, it was of little consequence, merely a suggestion that I upset Bonny's talks with George Bradshaw, so far as I decently could, if they met at the Little Playhouse that evening.

And for our misunderstanding caused by other people's business, Jack was to spend a whole day in bewilderment and I in heart-break.

Tells of His Remarkable Experience With Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

MR. HERBERT STREET COWAN, President and General Manager of the Craig-Cowan Co., Ltd., Glove Manufacturers, 154 Pearl St., Toronto, writes:

"About ten years ago, at the age of 37, I had a stroke, as a result of which I have been partially paralyzed ever since.

"For two years I lay in the house in a helpless condition in spite of all that six doctors could do to restore me. I also resorted to massage and electrical treatments, but without very much apparent benefit.

"About seven years ago I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and have used it at intervals ever since. It is only by using this restorative treatment that I have been able to attend to my large and growing business, and for this reason I feel that the least I can do is to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to others who suffer from nervous derangements.

"In fact, it has afforded me a great deal of pleasure to recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to my friends, and to observe the way in which they have been benefited by its use. As a result of the large number of cases I have observed, as well as my own remarkable experience, I feel that I can speak with some authority."

Grain, Cattle & Produce Markets

As a general rule Peterboro markets are fairly steady just now. Prices on different grades of wool show an advance, creamery butter is up a cent or so in some varieties fruits are down a little. Beef, by reason of the season arriving which ushers in a demand for steaks, and no call for boiling meat, is firm. Prices in groceries have arrived at a stationary period. An interesting fact announced by a leading grocer of the city is a comparison made a few days ago when filling an order for general groceries for a camper. This year's prices, in almost every instance, showed a decrease of 25 per cent. less than last years' bill.

Traders generally construed the United States' Supreme Court decisions on the Capper-Tincher Act as a bullish influence. The market closed unsettled at 2 1-4 to 3 5-8c. net higher, with May at $1.45 3-4 and July $1.28 3-4 to $1.28 7-8. Corn gained 5-8 to 7-8 and oats 1-2 to 3-4 and 7-8c. EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)—The market is stronger and reports from Ontario country points indicate a very firm feeling. One shipper is asking 30 1-2 for current receipts cases returned and several sales have been reported of extras at 35 cases free. Lighter receipts are anticipated due to falling off in production and the large number of eggs being used for incubating purposes. Accumulation of eggs in the storage are reported to be very heavy, some operators being practically filled up. Several country shippers and small dealers in the east are storing on their own account this year and this is making the market firmer in the country.

KRUPPS TO CULTIVATE HUGE RUSSIAN TRACT.

LONDON, MHay 16. — The Krupps, who used to make the Kaiser's great guns, and who have "beaten their swords into ploughshares," in conjunction with a big German agricultural machinery company, are going into a vast grain-producing scheme in Southern Russia. Such is the information which reaches London from Russia to-day.

Negotiations have been under way for the last six weeks, and it is expected the deal will be closed immediately.

This project involves a tract of 135,000 acres in the Cossack country, and marks the first move on the part of the big German interests to embark upon land cultivation in Russia.

The Krupp experts received great encouragement while in Russia. It is believed that by next year there may be a move to extend their grain tract to 5,000,000 acres.

It is suggested also that the Germans may be encouraged to undertake the cultivation of cotton in Turkestan, where modern agricultural machinery, it is declared, would make it possible to raise more cotton than is produced in Egypt and India combined.

BICYCLE HIKE TO BE HELD BY "Y" BOYS.

On Saturday, a bicycle hike will be held by the "Y" boys to Lakefield. The party will leave the "Y" at 10 o'clock sharp, and will lunch on the road and when finished will have a game of baseball. They will then proceed to Lakefield returning after spending an hour or so in Lakefield and will arrive back here about 4.30. Every member of the "Y" who has a bicycle should take in this trip.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fruit prospects are considered to be of the best, judging by the remarkable show of blossom.

Lincoln says: "Throughout the county peaches, cherries and plums are in very heavy blossom. Dry breezy weather with a bright warm sun should have made conditions for fertilizing very favourable. Strawberry patches look full of promise and dusting operations for leaf spot and weevil are in full sway."

Halton reports as follows: "Pear, cherry and plum orchards are showing an abundance of bloom this year. The first sprays have all been completed. A number are using soluble sulphur instead of lime sulphur. Currants and gooseberries show a good setting of fruit for the coming season."

Fall wheat is considered upon the whole a fairly promising crop, although Elgin puts it as likely to be about an 80 per cent. yield. Lambton, however, says that the prospects are for a bumper crop, while Kent, which produces fully one-tenth of the fall wheat of the Province, says: "Fall wheat is showing excellent improvement during the past week. Weather conditions have been good, and earlier quite a number of the best farmers had loosened the crust on the wheat by rolling and harrowing, which put the fields in good shape. Today, Saturday, May 13th, has been cloudy and showery, which will further the condition of the wheat."

Spring seeding has been going on uninterruptedly for the last weeks, and a large acreage has been got under. Land on the whole was in excellent condition for the seed. The spring grains are coming up nicely, and a good deal of the root crop, especially early potatoes, sugar beets and mangels, have been sown.

Leeds reports that sweet clover is being heavily seeded in every district.

Frontenac says: "Interest in ensilage corn is increasing, and we may expect a large acreage in this crop this year. Short hay crops have taught the farmers that ensilage corn is a very dependable fodder."

Several Representatives state that too many of the cattle turned upon the grass are in rather poor condition, looking as if they have been poorly fed during the winter.

Some excellent heavy cattle have been marketed in Kent during the week at around 8c a lb., while a considerable number of steers of a beefy type are going on the grass for a later market.

At an auction sale in the Fort William district, twenty-four cows, including two registered Ayrshires, brought an average of $84, the highest price being $115 and the lowest $45.

Kenora says: "This week three carloads of cattle were shipped by Mr. F. T. Brignall of Oxdrift for which he received 7c per pound, weighed on the farm. These cattle were brought in from the West last fall, fed on silage, screenings and other roughage about the place, and their average weight was eleven hundred pounds each. They cost an average of about $35 each and the owner is quite pleased with the results."

South Simcoe reports recent heavy shipments of hogs. Some farmers dropped seeding to take them out, owing to the slightly increased price, $12.75 a cwt.

While there is still a good demand for experienced men, the majority of farmers have had a sufficiency of help for spring work.

Prescott and Russell also speaks highly of the benefits of drags upon the roads of that county.

Apiarists in Northern Ontario have been fortunate with their bees so far. A Kenora beekeeper reports that out of one hundred swarms only two were lost. A lot of sweet clover is being sown for honey feed.

Prescott and Russell says: "Bees have wintered fairly well, but the sudden changes of cold and warm weather with a backward spring, will cause the bees to eat much more food than normally. This industry is developing rapidly in this district, and not only the old beekeepers are increasing their bee-yards, but good many new ones are going into the business."

CANNOT PRESIDE.

LONDON, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)— The Duke of Devonshire, former governor-general of Canada, has expressed his inability to preside at a meeteing of members of parliament favorable to the removal of the embargo against the importation of Canadian store cattle. He gives the reason that he will be absent from town.

TRIAL POSTPONED.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 17.— (Canadian Press.)—The trial of Herbert Wilson, well known in Canada and the Pacific northwest, on a charge of mail robbery, was postponed yesterday in the United States District Court. There will be further continuance until Wilson's attorneys have completed thier services at another trial.

Wilson also faces a charge of murder and conspiracy in connection with an attempt to escape from the Federal Prison, where he is confined.

BODY OF TORONTO MAN WAS FOUND.

NEW YORK, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)— The body of a man found drowned in the North River at the foot of 97th Street, yesterday, was identified as that of Elmer R. Largen, 33, married, of 215 Perth Avenue, Toronto.

Largen was a sailor employed on the convict ship Success. He fell overboard on March 27. Identification was made by Captain Smith of the convict ship.

TAX RATE STRUCK.

ST. CATHARINES, May 17. — (Canadian Press.) —Merritton village struck its tax rate at 37 1-2 mills, three mills higher than last year.

SMALLEST MOVIE SOLD.

ST. CATHARINES. May 17. — (Canadian Press.)—This city's smallest movie house, the Hippodrome, has ceased to be. The property has been sold and will be modelled into a modern women's ready-to-wear store.

Voice of the People

SUMMER HALF HOLIDAY

Your suggestion in last night's Examiner is far from being a happy one at least from the point of view of the employee for it means a curtailment of the already too short weekly holiday during the Summer months namely July and August. Anyone who has the real welfare of the community at heart must agree that those who are unfortunate enough to have to work until late on Saturday night are surely entitled to the so-called Summer half holiday and I venture to assert but for a very few selfishly inclined a large majority of the employers would readily consent to the closing every week from May to September

AMERICAN GRAIN CORPORATION DEAD.

Movement in U. S. Said to Have Run Its Course.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Although petitions and letters are still coming in from grain growers in leading wheat states for revival of the United States Grain Corporation and for government guarantee of prices on wheat and other staple agricultural products, the belief here is that this movement has to a large extent run its course. It is certain that no legislation along this line can be passed at the present session of Congress nor is there any indication that it can be put through at the short session next winter. In other words, it will go over to the new Congress which will come into power next spring and by that time the conditions in the country, it is hoped at least, will have mended sufficiently so that the effort to get government guarantee of prices for farmers will have comparatively little backing.

The House and Senate committees on agriculture have not dropped the subject of government guarantee of agricultural prices, or stabilization of prices as it is called, but they are not pressing it with such vigor as to warrant the belief the agricultural leaders really expect to get anywhere with it. The fact is that most of the members of the agriculture bloc realize that sentiment in Congress is hostile to such legislation. With some tendency for agricultural prices to go up, with wages for labor going down, with a reign of high tariffs facing the country, with indications that high tariffs will increase the cost of living, the republican political leaders naturally are not anxious to take the burden of government guarantees of agricultural prices which would, of course, mean increased expenditures from the Treasury.

Conditions in agricultural states are far from being satisfactory. They are, however, slowly improving. Credit conditions are less stringent than they were three months ago. What Republican leaders in both houses hope is that the gradual return of prosperity will dispose of the issue of government guarantee of prices and that they will not have to meet it openly on the floor.

AN INTERNATIONAL CITY IN BELGIUM.

To Be Built at the Very Gates of Brussels.

BRUSSELS, May 17.—(Associated Press).—The striking idea of building an "international city" at the gates of Brussels which was first proposed to King Albert of the Belgians in 1913 has been revived and it is now proposed to eredit the city and inaugurate it at the same time as the Brussels International Exposition in 1930.

It is intended that the international city shall be a permanent institution where every country will have a building in which it will display not only its manufactures and products but examples of its art and records of its social progress.

These plans were first submitted to King Albert in 1913 by Hendrik C. Anderson, an American sculptor, formerly of Newport, R.I., who then was living in Rome. Mr. Anderson was aided in preparing his plans for the ideal city by Senator Henri La Fontaine and Paul Otlet.

The idea now has been adopted by the Union of International Associations which has its headquarters here and which has submitted the plan to the Belgium government.

POLISH FARMERS RESTORE MUCH DEVASTATED LAND

WARSAW, May 17.—(Associated Press).—Polish farmers restored 50 per cent of their war devastatad land to cultivation last year, the Ministry of Agriculture reports. In 1920, Poland had 1,200,000 acres of tillable land laid waste by war and resulting neglect. By the end of 1921 this figure was reduced to 600,00 acres.

Plows, tractors and other farm implements purchased in America have played a large part in this restoration of Polish farm lands.

LONDON DOCTORS ARE COMPLAINING HARD TIME

LONDON, May 17.—(Associated Press).—London doctors are complaining as loudly as their professional dignity will permit of hard times. They declare that fewer people seek medical advice nowadays than ever before and that they complain more loudly of the fees charged by specialists. On the other hand, some citizens report that the fees of specialists have been maintained at their highest mark while British salaries and incomes have been depleted.

For the nourishment of invalids and children a French scientist has developed a bread made with sea water instead of fresh water.

A JOINT MEETING WOMENS AUXILIARY

Welcome for Delegates From the Annual Convention.

An enthusiastic joint meeting of the Women's Auxiliary and Girls' Auxiliary of All Saints' Church was held last evening, to welcome delegates from the annual convention held in Toronto last week, and hear their reports. Mesdames Lucas, Lundy, Connelly and Beatty represented the Senior and Junior W. A. and the G. A. at this convention, and gave splendid reports of the work undertaken at the 36th Annual Conference, which they considered one of the best ever held.

Mrs. Lucas reported 700 women sitting down to the banquet given the delegates, with 1,200 partaking of corporate communion in St. James' Cathedral. Thirteen clergymen and two bishops were present at the conference.

Mrs. Connelly reported the largest junior meeting ever held, with 1,300 members present at the Thursday session. Hearing the reports of the work done by the missionaries, Mrs. Connelly felt that they were the ones to be envied, with pity reserved for the stay-at-homes.

Mrs. Lundy gave a general report of the various activities of the Conference, and Mrs. Beatty spoke of the inspiration gained from the Quiet Hour, the activities of the Diocesan House, bringing a message for more kindness one towards another, more prayer, and more service, which is the centre of everything, with the admonition to "Work, for the night cometh, when no man can work."

Rev. Mr. Grobb, present at the meeting, congratulated the delegates on their fine reports, which "brought with them a whiff of the missionary atmosphere." The evening closed with a pleasant social hour and service of refreshments. Mrs. S. Harris occupied the chair.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE PAPER TRADE.

More Advanced Than in Many Industries.

NEW YORK, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)— Improvement in the paper trade appears more advanced than in many other lines of industry, declares the Wall Street Journal. Mills both in Canada and the United States are now operating at better than 80 per cent., the paper reports, as a result of a survey of the industry. Newsprint mills particularly are running at high percentage. Canadian newsprint mills are estimated to be running at 90 per cent. of normal.

"If the present consumption of newsprint continues it is expected that within a few months the mills may again be operating at capacity," the Wall Street Journal says. "United States consumption is now running about 7 p.c. in excess of 1920, the heaviest year on record. Several Canadian mills, notably Laurentide, Wayagamack, Spanish River Pulp and Abitibi are said to be at capacity. International Paper Company, the largest United Staes' producer, is operating slightly less than 70 p.c. but is rapidly increasing output."

The general opinion in the paper trade circle is that the threatened strike of paper makers will not materialize, says the paper, which adds that a strike should benefit the International Paper Co. and Great Northern Paper Company, the two largest United States' concerns, with a combined capacity tonnage of 500,000 toins of print paper. The former operates on a non-union basis, the later has already come to an agreement with employes.

BENJAMIN DISRAELI

"Because, Russia—"

"Oh, that ancient bugbear!"

"That ever-present peril!—knows of this opportunity to purchase the high-road to India—here's your explanation, then."

"Then why hasn't she purchased it?"

"She's not ready. She has no fleet. But—she is watching us. She is watching me—"

At this instant Mrs Travers opened the center casement window and listened.

"Ha! The spy mania!" sneered Probert.

"And if she sees the slightest move on my part, she will snap up the canal—fleet or no fleet!"

"But my dear sir—"

Probert stopped. He had seen Mrs. Travers. The latter looked in at the window and waved her flowers toward the two men. As she walked away, Disraeli closed the window.

"By Jove! what a pretty woman!" Sir Michael exclaimed.

"Yes—such pretty ears! Well, sir Michael, after that delightful inertlude—"

"No, sir. In my opinion your scheme s hare-brained. Moreover, it is unconstitutional; and the Bank will not pay a party to your high-handed methods."

"I tell you there is no time—"

"You exaggerate the importance of the thing. You have the eastern imagination. Because this canal runs through a desert, you see it in a dream—a mirage—"

"Neat again!—Ah! We poets!"

"The canal is a confessed failure."

"Oh?"

"Whatever doesn't pay is a failure. The tonnage that passed through it last year—"

"Oh, please—pleade—"

"And it's sitting up, sir; sitting up! Soon the only ship sailing on it will be the ship of the desert—I mean the camel, sir!"

"I thougt you meant the camel," said Disraeli innocently.

"Beware of the East," urged Sir Michawl. "Don't touch it or you will go under. Remember Pharaoh, sir! Remember Pharaoh!"

"Yes; but what about Moses?"

"He was a Jew—hum—he was privileged."

"In short—?"

"In short," said Sir Michael, rising. "I disapprove of your imperialistic ideas, Mr. Disraeli, and the bank shall not stir a finger to further them—"

Disraeli crossed the room and opened the windows.

"Why are you—?"

"I feared you were getting too warm," replied Disraeli.

"Ha!—I rejoice to think I have made this rash enterprise impossible."

"Oh, but you haven't," remarked Disraeli, looking pensively out into the garden.

"What? Where will you go for the money?"

"Where Pharoah went. Where all Christians go. I shall go to Moses!"

Probert was nonplussed, but after a puzzled look he apparently gave up the attempt to argue with the Prime Minister.

"At any rate, Mr. Disraeli, you understand. It will be no use coming to me. Under no circumstances whatsoever wil the National Institution, of which I am the head, be a party to your unconstitutional methods."

Probert stopped at the door, to add: "This, sir, is definite and final."

"Nothing is final, Sir Michael. In the unlikely event of Moses failing me, I may send for you again."

"And I shall not come, sir."

Disraeli bowed as Sir Michael opened the door and passed out. The Ptim Minister stood looking after the man, and remarked: "I think you will— I think you will."

XII.

Lady Beaconsfield entered the octagonal room, barely in time to see Sir Michael Probert take his farewell of Disraeli.

"Have you quarrelled with him, Dizzy?" asked Mrs. Disraeli.

"No—no, my dear, but he's missed his opportunity."

Crossing to the bell-pull, Disraeli gave it a tug, and sat down at the writing desk.

"Mary," he said, "I want you to come to my room and write some letters for me. I must get hold of Hugh Meyers."

"Hugh Meyers, the banker?"

"Hugh Meyers, the banker. That's the man, Mary, that's the man." The butler entered at this moment.

"Would you very kindly send this telegram?"

The servant took the slip of paper and left.

Disraeli walked to the middle of the great room. On a table in the center he saw a fan, which he took up.

"Mary. This fan—Mrs. Travers'—where have I seen Mrs. Travers before?"

"Oh, we've met her at dinners—"

"No, no! I mean long ago."

"Now, Dizzy, you're off on one of your wild goose chases."

"And now she haunts me."

"She worships you—as all pretty women do."

"Blue and white—blue and white—"

Disraeli was musing, and paying no attention to Lady Beaconsfield's suggestion about pretty women.

"What are you talking about, Dizzy?" asked Lady Beaconsfield.

"I connect her with something blue and white. By the way, Mary, I have news for you."

"Yes?"

"Deeford has asked Clarissa to marry him."

"I suppose that's a good match?"

"She has refused him."

"Oh!"

"Mary, I am going to play fairy godfather and bring them together."

"You! A matchmaker! As if you hadn't enough to do?"

"Ah, who knows byt this may be the greatest thing I have ever done? I have been searching for a young man. With such a prize as Clarissa, Deeford may become just what I need. Think what a splendid couple they'd make!"

"Ah, Dizzy—always dreaming a romance!"

"And living one, my dear, with you at my side."

"Come Dizzy—the letters—let us go. Here come the terrible Duchess and Deeford. And she's looking black!"

"Then he's told her that Clarissa has rejected him. Does the Duchess appear to be talking—much?"

"Volumes."

"Come, Mary; to my room."

CHAPTER XIII.

As Clarissa and Mrs. Travers entered the octagonal room, the Duchess and Deeford continued their walk around to The Towers. The girl was just in time to catch a glimpse of Disraeli and Lady Beaconsfield.

"There, now! We've driven him away! What a pity!"

Clarissa stood, looking toward the door through which the Prime Minister had passed.

"What a hero worshipper you are, Clarissa!" chided Mrs. Travers.

"But what a hero to worship! When I am talking with him, I am talking with one of the makers of history."

"I suppose he unburdens himself to you quite freely?"

"It never seems as though it were important; but, suddenly, I find he is telling me great and wonderful things. He thinks in empires."

"This friendship between the young girl and the statesman is strangely beautiful. How precious your sympathy must be to him?"

"I realize what he has done for his country; what difficulties he has overcome by his genius; and everybody else seems so trivial—so unnecessary. Don't you feel that?"

Mrs. Travers and the girl found chairs. The former was the first to break a momentary silence.

"I think I understand, Clarissa. What would I not give to make a third in your conversations!"

"Why don't you, Mrs. Travers?"

"Poor little me! I haven't brains enough. No. You must sometimes tell me in a simple way what he has been saying."

Mrs. Travers spoke innocently enough, and after a brief pause she continued:

"For instance, why did he summon Sir Michael just now?"

The subject was not pursued because of the arrival of Charles. He looked about the room and greeted Mrs. Travers and Clarissa. To the latter he addressed himself particularly.

"So your Mr. Disraeli has kindly allowed you to come back?"

"Come, Agatha! Mamma will be wanting me," said Clarissa, ignoring Charles.

"The Duchess sent me to ask Mrs. Travers to join her' said Charles), quickly.

"I am here, Charles—" The Duchess entered.

"Clarissa, your girl friends want you at the archery field. Mrs. Travers will go with you. "concluded the Duchess, sweetly

Commencing Sunday, May 21st, the "Trans-Canada Limited," the fast trans-continental train of the Canadian Pacific, will operate between Toronto and Vancouver daily—this in addition to the "Vancouver Express" now operating—making two trans-continental trains daily between Toronto and Vancouver. "Trans-Canada Limited's" time, Toronto to Vancouver, is 80 hours, this being the shortest time scheduled for any trans-continental train on the Continent. It carries first-class sleeping car passengers only, and the schedule is so arranged as to provide for convenient hours of arrival at the different principal points and gives the Canadian Pacific Rocky Mountain scenery in daylight. A business day is saved on the trans-continental trip, as the business man has had his breakfast and is ready for business the second morning in Winnipeg, the third morning in Calgary and the fourth morning in Vancouver.

The Canadian Pacific will this summer have four trans-continential trains each way every day over the mountains. 2d-10-17

NEW WAY TO MAKE JAMS AND JELLIES.

It Never Fails — Requires Only a Minute's Boiling.

The new method of making jams and jellies is rapidly replacing the old-time, wasteful, haphazard ways. This new scientific method results in perfect jams and jellies from all fruits—gives 50 per cent. more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit—infinitely more delicious quality due to the retaining of all the original delicate flavor and color of the fruit which is ordinarily destroyed by long boiling, and a great saving of fuel and time because these modern-made jams and jellies require only one minute of boiling with all the guess work eliminated.

These results are revolutionary, of course, and they are attained by a scientific discovery, but that does not mean that they are difficult. On the contrary—they are being performed every day in the home with a fraction of the effort and skill required by old, highly wasteful methods. The new way is as easy as A.B.C. By following the simplest rules the most inexperienced housewife can produce perfect jams and jellies of quality unheard of in the home and impossible to attain by the old wasteful, laborious methods. One simply asks at the grocer's for Certo and then follows the directions. That is all.

What is Certo? It is pectin, and pectin is one of the elements Nature puts into fruits. It is pectin that makes jelly "jell." Science has found a way to concentrate the pectin from pure fruits so that it is available in handy liquid form. Certo is thus a pure fruit absolutely free from preservative, or gelatine. It is as natural as the fruit itself and being a natural pure fruit product it makes wholesome jellies and jams.

Certo, used along with the required amount of sugar, will make delicious jelly, with fruit juices you will get wonderful flavor and color undreamed of by the use of the old wasteful methods.

It is wonderfully satisfying to succeed the first time and every time with a new product. You never fail with Certo.

MOTHER'S JOB THE BIGGEST IN WORLD.

Women of Future Will Engage in All Professions.

The service was largely attended, and the choir was out in force. Miss Maybe delighted the congregation with her excellent solo, and the leader is to be congratulated on the music of the day.

"The Greatest Day of the Year," was the theme of the morning sermon, and was based on John xix. 25, "Now there stood by the cross of Jesus, His Mother." The following is an outling of the sermon.

Mrs. Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia is the founder of Mother's Day. In 1914, at her request, the Hon. J. Thomas Heflin introduced into the House of Representatives a joint solution to the effect that the President of the United States should designate by annual proclamation the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day, and should request the display of the American flag on government buildings, homes, and other suitable places. Ex-President Wilson was the first to issue such a proclamation, on May 9, 1914, thus establishing for the United States the record of being the first nation of the world to accord patriotic tribute to its homes—for while Mother's Day honors noble Motherhood, it is no less a recognition of worthy parenthood and those ties of affection which make the family a blessed unity." With this outline of the origin of Mother's Day, we will return to the text.

Nation's Valuable Asset

It has been said that the boy is the nation's greatest asset, but this is doubtful indeed. Consecrated Motherhood may be the boon of the nation; for the hand that moves the cradle is the hand that swings the world. The mother of Jesus stood by the cradle before she stood by the cross. That cot in Nazareth was well guarded. The holy eyes of that wondrous babe beheld nothing in the home that was unseemly. That cradle was protected by prayer and faith, and holy consecration. None could guard the cot of the infant Christ like His mother. There is no power in the universe of God that can equal the influence of a devoted Christian mother over her boy. That lad will swear by his mother's religion. Two boys, who were attending Harvard University, went to hear Bob Ingersoll. Walking away from the lecture, one said to the other: "Jim, didn't old Bob mop Christianity off the earth tonight?" And Jim replied: "I don't know. I am inclined to think my good old Christian mother is left yet, and I wouldn't give her, with her sweet Christian life and example, for all the Bob Ingersolls that could be crowded on the earth." That boy's crib had been guarded by prayer. That lad's head had been pillowed on the lap of his mother's religion. May God give this poor old sick, sad, and lonely world more Christian mothers.

Nazareth to Jerusalem

Jesus went up to Jerusalem at the age of twelve years to present himself to God in the temple. You notice that his mother went too. That was a wonderful period in the boy's life. You say his mother took him to the House of God; all the better. It was a momentous hour in the boy's career. Twelve years of age; shall never never be forgotten in our experience. At twelve years of age I was kneeling at the altar in a little church not far from here, with the hand of one of God's mighty soul-winners on my shoulder, while he led me up to the Cross; where God comforted me, as "one whom his mother comforteth." A thousand voices are calling a boy at that age, but there is one above all others, not louder perhaps, but more intense: 'tis the voice of Samuel's God. That is the hour when Mother's prayer, and counsel, and sympathy tells for eternity. I was walking by the canal on Sabbath morning. A boy of twelve years was sitting by the lock fishing. Touching him gently on the shoulder, he looked up into my eyes. "You would catch more fish in one half hour on Monday morning than you would all day on Sabbath, don't you think so," I said. "Yes," was his reply. That boy did not need a policeman, he needed the counsel of a loving mother, and her hand to guide him to Sunday School. A mother said to me a few evenings ago, "I wanted to know just where my boy was before I went out for a little drive." Thank God for such mothers.

Must Fight Alone

You notice that the mother of Jesus was not with her son in his greatest conflicts. Baptised on the banks of the Jordan by the Holy Ghost, He enters the wilderness to face wild beasts and devils. The mighty three-fold temptation that robbed the First Adam of Paradise, and sent him forth in sorrow and condemnation; with fallen crest and shattered hopes; is now hurled against the Second Adam. Every device of hell is employed to overthrow the Son of God, but in vain. The lust of the flesh, the desire of the eye, the pride of life, find no harbour in the spotless soul of the Man of Nazareth. Youth is fighting battles today that even mother cannot understand. The evil on every side puts on a bold, brazen seductive, and most alluring front. The age demands the spirit of a Joseph in every young man; and the religion of God, a home clean, wholesome, and attractive, with motherhood on its knees, will constitute a mighty refuge.

Biggest in the World

Miss Maud Raydon tells us that the women of the future will be Preachers, Teachers, Organizers, Judges, Councillors, Members of Parliament, and Cabinet Ministers. And if this be true, where are the mothers to be found? No, every true woman prays that this prophesy may never be fulfilled. Man's first home was the garden of Eden, his last will be heaven. This teaches us what home should be like. It is in relation to home that we remember mother. God will never rob the children of a mother or the home of its queen to equip the Pulpit or the Bench, or the Bar, or the Rostrum. There is nothing in this world that will compare with home or the laughter of childhood. The mighty heart of God must have been aflame with love when He thought out the relationships of home and motherhood. How beautiful, how wonderful, and how divine is holy, happy motherhood. She is the soul of the home. This is the language of sentiment, but it is nobly true. How can we account for her strength? Will her dear fingers never grow weary? But what alchemy turns her feminine weakness into unequalled strength? Love lifts her load. Love links her to her task and gives her power. Is she hungry for a little hug from her boys and girls? Tell her that he rjob is the most glorious in the world. Do it now.

EGYPT DIVIDED INTO TWO CAMPS.

Framing of Constitution Has Engendered Discord.

CAIRO, May 17 (Associated Press). — The framing of a Dustour constitution) for Egypt made necessary by the lifting of the British Protectorate has become the paramount feature of Egyptian politics.

The question as to who shall frame the Dustour, which has been under discussion in the native press ever since the first royal levee was held by King Fuad at Abdin Palace, has divided the country politically into two diametrically opposed camps.

The Nationalists, who are mostly adherents of Zaghloul Pasha, have been demanding that the constitution be drawn up by a National Assembly elected by the people. The Ministerialists, who are supporting the Government of Premier Surwat Pasha, and who have just won the day, have been in favour of appointing a special commission for the task.

The commission already appointed is composed of 31 members under the presidency of Rushdy Pashaan, former Prime Minister. It is to draw up within four months a project for a constitution which will be thrashed out by the Egyptian Parliament which will have the right to amend it except in that which concerns the prerogatives of the throne.

The Government's project calls for a Parliament to consist of two chambers. All the members of the Lower House and half of the members of the Senate are to be elected by popular vote; the other half of the Senate to be appointed by the executive.

The newspaper Liberty points out that the Senate, being partly appointative, "will be able to check all the whims of the majority of the Nationalist representatives."

MISS MARGUERITE K. O'LEARY, of Reading, Pa., who says she has gained eight pounds and can hardly find words to express her praise for Tanlac for the good the medicine did her.

"I am so happy over what Tanlac has done for me I can hardly find words to express my praise," said Miss Marguerite K. O'Leary, who lives with her parents at 1223 Chestnut St., Reading, Pa. "I wasn't exactly what would be called sick, but for a year I had been all run down and sometimes felt so weak and miserable I could hardly hold up my head. I was so nervous the telephone bell or a door closing would startle me so I would tremble like a leaf.

"I needed something to build me up and give me strength and energy, and that is exactly what Tanlac did. It gave me a fine appetite and improved my digestion. I gained eight pounds, the color came back to my face, my nerves became normal and I soon felt as well as I ever did in my life. PRAISES DENTISTS FOR WAR WORK.

Gen. Newburn Reviews Service of Dental Corps.

TORONTO, May 17. Canadian Press. — General S. C. Mewburn, the former Minister of Militia, addressed the Dental Convention here yesterday afternoon, and reviewed the work of the Canadian army dental corns from 1914 throughout the war. He gave great praise to their work. He announced that the names of 19,000 missing Canadian soldiers, would be inscribed in bronze on a memorial to be erected at Vimy Ridge, the base of which would cover an acre of ground.

SIMPLE RECEIVER WITH SPIDER WEB.

Radio Expert Describes a Means to Simplify Your Radio Receiving Set.

BY R. L. DUNCAN

Director, Radio Institute of America

Make a spider-web coil and simplify your radio receiving set.

It's easy. If properly constructed it can be used instead of the primary and secondary coils in the crystal receiver, of the variometers or variocoupler in the regenerative set.

Get a piece of heavy cardboard about 4 1-2 inches in diameter. Mark it on according to the pattern of the diagram.

Be sure that the sections are of an uneven number, spaced apart about 3-16 of an inch. The cardboard should be heavy enough not to bend.

Before winding, give the form a coat of shellac and bake in a warm oven—to take up shrinkage.

Wiring Simple.

The wire should be either No. 24 or 26 silk or cotton covered. Start winding at the center, about half an inch from the core. Bring the wire over one section and under another. Then keep on going in and out.

Because of the difference in location and size of rials it is impossible to tell the exact number of turns necessary for the individual set. It would be well to start off with 50 to 60 turns.

If this does not bring any messages using a wave length longer than 200 meters, add a few more turns. If, on the other hand, you hear one long wave stations, take off a few.

SPIDER WEB COIL, SHOWING METHOD OF WIRING.

The coils may be tapped about every 12 turns by simply making a small loop itself until the winding is completed. Then these loops may be picked up and connected to the switch points by short pieces of flexible wire.

The tapping wil cut down the receiving efficiency to some extent, but it gives finer variations on the different wave lengths.

For Larger Set.

In making the mountings for the spider web coils in the regenerative set, be sure to cut them all the same size. There will be three—one each for the primary, the secondary, and the tickler.

Bore a small hole about the size of a lead pencil through the center of each. Mount on a thin shaft about nine inches long in such a way that the distances between the coils may be varied.

Since these coils are very inexpensive to construct, the real radio fan will find it of great interest to experiment with several sizes and forms of the spider-web arrangement.

FILM HERO DROWNED

KOCHOW, Kiansu Province, China, May 17.—(Canadian Press)—Keh Lu, screen star with the Sin Yah Cinema Company, who was playing the part of hero in a new film, recently was overtaken by death he was meting out as punishment—in the film only—to the villain. The hero chased the villain to the top of Lion Hill, captured him on the bridge, threw him into the river, and then losing his balance, fell in himself and was drowned. The villain swam to safety.

Hen Lu's death was the first fatality to occur in the comparatively new Chinese motion picture industry.

FRESH MEAT.

Fresh meat should be taken from the paper immediately upon its arrival from the butcher shop, put on a clean plate and put in the refrigerator unless it is to be used right away.

HOOK UP FOR SHORT WAVE

By R. L. DUNCAN,

Director, Radio Institute of America.

In hooking up a radio set, great care should be taken in connecting the batteries.

Here is a diagram showing how to properly connect up a short wave regenerative receiving apparatus.

Coming down with the aerial we strike No. 1—a variable condenser of .0005 microfarads capacity. This may be constructed as previously outlined in this column, or it may be purchased in any radio equipment shop.

No. 2—The variocoupler which is tapped.

No. 3—Plate variometer or tickler.

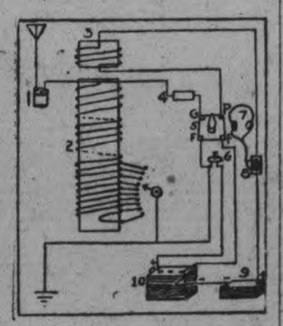
No. 4—Grid leak and grid condenser. The grid leak's value should be approximately one megohm and the grid condenser should have a capacity of about .00025 microfarads. Since all detector tubes have different characteristics you will have to experiment to find out the value of your grid leak and the capacity of condenser best suited for the tube used.

No. 5—Vacuum tube and socket.

No. 6—Rheostat controlling the filament current from a six-volt storage battery.

No. 7—Head phones which should be of high ohmage resistance.

No. 8—Small fixed condenser.



HOOK-UP OF SHORT WAVE REGENERATIVE SET.

No. 9—A 22 1-2-volt "B" battery marked for the positive and the negative.

No. 10—Six-volt storage battery similarly marked. Note that the negative side of the "B" battery is connected to the negative side of the storage or "A" battery.

This regenerative receiver requires considerable skill in handling, to get the full benefits of its selectivity of tuning. Constructed and assembled correctly, this set is the sharpest to be obtained.

50,000 More Starving Russian Children have been alloted to the Save the Children Fund workers in the famine area about Saratov, by the All-British Committee.

At present, the generosity of the Canadian people has enabled the Canadian Committee of the Save the Children Fund to provide sufficient food for 75,000 children in Russia, who would otherwise have died from starvation.

Now that the Russian Relief Fund (including the British Red Cross), the Friend's Relief Mission and the British and Canadian Save the Children Funds have been united under the direction of Sir Benjamin Robertson, more work is being undertaken and there is a corresponding increase in the demand for funds.

There is absolutely no hope that Russian children can be helped by Russia itself, until the harvest which comes at the end of August. So it is imperative that money and food continue to be sent through the Canadian and British Organizations right through the summer.

Will you give something?

25c. will feed a child for a week. $1. will ensure sufficient food for one child for a month. $500. will establish a kitchen in the famine district and feed 100 children until the next harvest.

Cheques and money orders may be forwarded through the local committee, your bank or sent direct to Sir George Burn, Treasurer, Save the Children Fund, Elgin Building, Ottawa.

All subscriptions are expended in Canada on Canadian Foodstuffs. 7

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as? indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments, and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

HERE'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO DARKEN AND BEAUTIFY FADED HAIR.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its apearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get the famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and the lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally; evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or a soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

FOOTWORK BASIS OF TENNIS

JOHNSTON.

By PHIL A. NEER,

Leland Stanford University, International Collegiate Single Champion.

What should one do to be successful at tennis?

The most essential factor, in my mind, is to use clever footwork in the play. The whole game is built on that.

All the best tennis players, like Richards, the 18-year-old wonder; Tilden and Johnston, and players of their calibre, have developed keen powers of anticipation, of knowing how the opponent will hit the ball, and where. Probably that is one of the greatest gifts of the tennis player.

One must learn to anticipate the play of the other player more than would be the rule in slip-shod playing, and to start quickly when you follow the ball in play.

Next, I believe the most important rule for a player to observe, is to keep his eye on the ball, either in serving or returning after serve or later play, until it leaves his racket.

Ease Most Effective.

In doing this, the shots that are executed with the least effort and the greatest amount of ease are most effective in the long run, for it is essential to conserve energy, especially in a long match, or series of games. The player needs every ounce of energy and strength.

Many matches are won on stamina rather than particularly brilliant or flashy playing. Players, therefore, should limit their movements to a minimum and not jump all over the court.

Every person playing has a different serve; in serving, a person is like one who plays a piano or develops any special movement. He will have to work out his own salvation. Strokes are more or less natural.

Training is necessary for a really good player. Billy Johnston, Maurice McLaughlin and the big players always trained before their matches.

Must Be Careful.

After one goes on the court his conduct from a technical standpoint should be developed carefully. The biggest fault I know of in most young players is a tendency to swing before the ball has reached the natural position where it can be struck with ease.

After the serve the player should stay out of the danger zone between the net and the rear line either by jumping immediately to the net or staying back and working to the net on two to four strokes.

He should take advantage of positions, and when the player gets the ball where he can kill it, he should drive it hard and not lob it over for a safety.

Try to drive on return of service if you are drawn out of position on receiving service!

Above all, sacrifice games in practice to learn a hard, fast serve and not lose your temper at little court mishaps.

If you play and play consistently with a will to "pay the price," you will rise from the novice class.

EAST BEAT WEST.

The east won in the east-west tennis tournament at Berkeley, Cal. Tilden and Richards took three of the five doubles sets from Johnston and Strachan, 6-8, 6-4, 6-8, 6-1, 6-3. The teams divided the four singles events.

QUAKERS DEFEAT COMRADES TEAM.

Players For Losing Team Were Not at the Field on Time For the Game.

Quaker Oats and the Comrades met last night for the first round of the Peck Cup Series and the Quakers came out on top with a 2 to 0 score. The Comrades were handicapped by their players not being on hand and they started the game with but eight men in the line up. The other two players came later but not before J. Willshaw had started the scoring for the Quakers.

The game was fast through out and though it was not rough several players received some hard knocks. Half time arrived with the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Quakers.

In the second half the Comrades were often in Griffin's vicinity but bad luck and poor shooting denied any recompense for their good outfield work. The pace told on the weakened Comrades' team and in the last minute of play J. Willshaw scored again. The players were:

Comrades: Fisher, Anderson, Hill, Jackson, Brown, Wade, Hansen, Shaw, Craig and McDougall.

Quakers: Griffin, Young, R. Willshaw, Armstrong, Clarke, Hepburn, Honour, J. Willshaw, Russell, Croft and Foster.

CENTRAL WILL OPEN SATURDAY WITH GAME HERE

Appropriate Ceremonies When Lindsay Clash With the Petes in First Fixture of Season.

BATTLE EXPECTED.

At a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Baseball Club last night arrangements were completed for the ceremonies in connection with the opening Central Ontario League game which brings Lindsay here on Saturday. Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., Mayor Taylor and Dr. A. W. McPherson, President of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, will be invited to take part in the preliminaries, which will include a march of both teams and the band from centre field into the home plate.

Although several of last year's Peterborough team will be with the C.G.E. team in the City League and will on that account be absent from the Petes' line-up on Saturday, Manager Solomon expects to trot out a team capable of giving Johnny Oulette and his band of Lindsay Greybirds a busy afternoon. The fans will be particularly sorry to learn that Ray Rose will be an absentee, but as he is employed in the C.G.E. Toolroom and that outfit have their eyes upon the City League honours and the O.B.A.A. intermediate title, Rose will be found in the livery of the C. G.E. instead of the Central League uniform. It is fortunate for the Petes that they have "Shiner" Johnston to shove into the gap at second base. Johnston has played the keystone position for a number of seasons for the Classics and works nicely there.

Frank Collins is likely to fall heir to Micky Murray's old position at third base. The youngster has lots of pep, moves fast and throws nicely, and the way he has been hammering the ball in batting practice, indicates that he will be an addition to the batting strength of the Petes. The shortstop position will probably be assigned to Tommy Holyman, who looked after it in good style during the last half of last year's race.

The rest of the line-up will depend upon how the squad performs in the remaining work-outs this week. Swanston will be behind the bat, of course, and if Heckman continues to look as good as he has so far in practice, Manager Solomon may take a chance and send him in to do the twirling against Lindsayy on Saturday, with Kirn and Ecobichon in reserve. The local pilot, however, refuses to commit himself as to his pitching selection for the opener, but he is impressed with Heckman's style.

Lindsay have several new men to uncork against the Petes on Saturday, including a new catcher. Oulette will be on the rubber for the Greybirds, and the Lindsay crew expect to start the season with a win. None of the Petes can see it that way, however.

Football

Arrangements are being made to play Lindsay F.C. here on May 24. A picked team from Peterboro will meet the men from Scugog at the Exhibition grounds.

TENNIS SEASON AT CAMPBELLFORD TO OPEN ON MAY 23

Meeting of Enthusiasts Was Largely Attended With C. H. Harris Presiding—Sport Committee.

A meeting of the tennis enthusiasts of this town and district was held in the library here Monday night, when a goodly number were present. Mr. C. H. Harris acted as chairman and in his address stated that it was very gratifying to him and to others interested in tennis to see so many in attendancse. It signified the growing popularity of the game. He said he already had the names of about forty persons who wished to play tennis this year, and as the courts are now being put in condition, it was expected that the season would open within a short time. It was here moved by Mr. Moffatt, and seconded by Mr. Burger, that Miss L. Smith serve as secretary, and the motion unanimously carried.

Mr. Harris then suggested that, in drawing up a schedule there should be a certain day or days in the week set aside as day in which anyone could go to the courts, certain that he or she would not be interfering with the regular schedule

On motion of Mr. T. E. Moffatt, seconded by Mr. N. Dickson, it was decided to leave Tuesday and Saturday afternoons free from schedule games. The suggestion that a committee of three ladies and three men be appointed to look after the "sporting section" of the club was approved.

Mrs. D. Douglas, Miss Ferris and Miss Colville were chosen to represent the ladies on this executive, with Messrs. Moffatt, Dickson and Schnar for the gentlemen.

Mr. Burger stated that, if the work on the courts continued to favourably it would be possible to open the season next week.

It was decided to open the courts on Tuesday, May 23rd, the secretary to give the necessary notice to all interested.

On motion of Mr. Burger seconded by Dr. Longmore the meeting adjourned.

Diamond Dust

Toronto did not stay in the lead very long, and it looks as if she might have a job to get there again.

Leaside evidently wants to be on the safe side—eight of her players left Toronto on the eleven o'clock train on Monday night and moved out to their "home" town. We understand Manager Peacock is running quite a hotel.

We wonder is the Dear Deer dear?

Port Hope's town league opened yesterday with one game scheduled.

The latest report is that Kip Rowden the star second baseman of the Oshawa team, will don a Lindsay uniform this year. The rumour may be true, but we have our doubts. — Port Hope Guide.

Lindsay's Juvenile League opened the season on Monday.

Leaside has filed twenty-two certificates with Secretary Nott.

C. Boundy will call them from behind the bat in the Central League game with Lindsay on Saturday.

Lindsay won a rather uninteresting game from Uxbridge yesterday afternoon, don't let that fool you, there will be a different story to tell about next Saturday's game.

Detroit won another. It hasn't taken this team very long to come from the bottom to almost within striking distance of the top.

SIX STRAIGHT WINS FOR QUEEN MARY.

Queen Mary and Central school seniors were winners in the school league yesterday afternoon, the leaders defeating Prince of Wales nine by the score of 14 to 0, Centrals won by 11 to 4.

Queen Mary boys, who have gone through two seasons without a loss, registered some easy counters yesterday when King Edwards put in a bad day in the field. Bradley pitched well. It was the sixth straight win for Queen Mary.

The Public school league schedule this season calls for games on neutral grounds, and the school boys have been made happy by receiving permission to play at Riverside Park.

Holy Name Society and Sacred Heart, the losers in the opening games of the juvenile series, will meet in a league game at Riverside Park on Thursday, May 25th. The park is being used all this week by the Central Ontario League team and Intermediate club.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

If an improper batsman bats, and the mistake is discovered after he becomes a base runner, and before a ball is pitched to the succeeding batsman, the proper batsman is called out. If it is the third out, retiring the side the proper batsman to start the next inning shall be the player who would have come to bat had the players in the preceding inning been retired in the ordinary way.

When You Score

In no case shall a base hit be scored when a base runner is forced out by the play. For example, with a runner on first, the batsman hits short fly which runner on first believes will be caught. The ball falls safe, but the runner on first is forced at second.

SITE IN MONTREAL FOR THE DEMPSEY-WILLS FIGHT PICKED.

Official Announcement of the Bout Expected After the Champion's Return From Europe.

(By Henry L. Farrell, For United Press.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 17.—After the return of the champion from Europe, official announcement of the Dempsey-Wills fight in Montreal on July 1 is expected.

The site has been picked in Montreal and the arrangements have progressed to such an extent that tentative training quarters have been selected for both men, according to the most reliable information.

The purse is about the only thing that Tex Rickard has been able to keep a secret, but it is understood Dempsey will work on a percentage or will accept the same sum that he got for putting Carpentier on the canvas last summer.

If Dempsey wins from Wills he has the chance to make close to a million dollars this year, as he would like to work on Luis Firpo before the fight-mad fans of Argentina.

MISSION SERVICE AT GARDEN HILL.

Many Visitors From Millbrook—Excellent Results.

MILLBROOK, May 17.— The special union evangelistic 'Misson" recently conducted at St. Enoch's Presbyterian church, Garden Hill, for three weeks, was productive of excellent results, thanks to the untiring efforts of Rev. Mr. Craig, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Weover all of Toronto. Besides many who went out from Millbrook, the other churches whose members attended the meetings were the Methodist churches at Garden Hill and Elizabethville, Rev. Dr. Marvin, pastor, and also the Methodist church at the Zion appointment Rev. Mr. Harston, pastor. The union choir numbered at least 35 voices, and the music was a very attractive part of every service. The offerings for the Social Service and Fresh Air Funds totalled $137.

BID THIRTY CENTS FOR BUST OF KAISER

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., May 16.—Thirty cents was the opening bid for a 350-pound bronze bust of Kaiser Wilhelm II., auctioned with other fittings of the former Hamburg-American Line Steamship Vaterland—now the Leviathan—at a surplus property sale of the United States Shipping Board at the Wilson Point Shipyards here to-day—the eighth anniversary of the ship's departure from Cherbourg on its maiden trip to this country.

The bust is of solid bronze and the metal alone is of great value. The bidding was spirited, and before it ended the offers had risen to $835, at which price Dominic O. Vetromite, proprietor of the Merimar Inn, at Westport, purchased it. There were 147 bids in all, and the eyes of Henry Presberger of Brooklyn th runner-up were moist when his final bid of $830 was beaten.

CAPITOL—"The Ordeal," a big sensational Paramount picture with Agnes Ayres and Conrad Nagel. First time shown in Canada. Also balance of a capital first-grade programme.

REGENT—Paramount production, "What's Worth While." Also, "The Great Lover" and final chapter of "The Sky Ranger."

ROYAL—Anita Stewart in "Her Mad Bargain"; Vitagraph special, Alice Calhoun in "Rainbow"; Mack Sennett 2-reel comedy, "Call a Cop."

AT THE ROYAL.

To-night is your last chance to see Anita Stewart in the justly celebrated First National feature called "Her Mad Bargain". We have had many favorable comments made on this picture by our patrons of Monday and Tuesday. This play present a novelty in its plot. A summary is this.

"This day I have accepted $50,000 from David Leighton. In return for same I hereby agree to dispose of my life one year from date."

That was the bargain a girl, suddenly reduced to poverty, made with an artist. And in the realization that she has but sold her life for a song after all, comes that splendid drama which Anita Stewart alone can portray. This ranks with her most unusual productions to date, because in addition to the artistry of the star are: a story with an original angle, and the talented direction of Edwin Carew.

Then there is Alice Calhoun in the Vitagraph special named Rainbow. This is a mining and society story with a new slant in plot. After his death she operates the mine living with three old men, whom she calls her three 'daddies'. She finds her uncle, who originally owned the property, unknown to her, has made an illegal sale of her property. The lot as it unravels to settle true ownership of the mine is replete with romance, love and humor. The Mack Sennett comedy entitled "Call a Cop" is very funny and should be seen by all who enjoy a good laugh.

AT THE REGENT.

CLAIRE WINDSOR IS IN "WHAT'S WORTH WHILE?"

Talented Young Player Has Leading Feminine Role in Film

Claire Windsor, plays the leading feminine role in "What's Worth While?" which comes to the Regent theatre to-day, is said to score her biggest success in this picture. Miss Windsor is a "recent discovery" of Lois Weber, who selected her to play the leading woman's role in her first independent production for Paramount release. "To Please One Woman". Miss Windsor's success in this production was of such uncommon magnitude that Miss Weber selected her to play the feminine lead in "What's Worth While".

As in her previous pictures, Miss Windsor displays all the traits of the true screen artist. While her screen debut is of recent date, her rise has been meteoric, an accomplishment which Miss Windsor modestly asserts, is due to Lois Weber's directorial ability.

Capitol Entertainment

DOUBLE PROGRAMME.

The Capitol offers a big double programme tomorrow—Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor Made Man" and Bebe Daniels in "The Speed Girl"—at just the usual Capitol prices.

"The Speed Girl."

Bebe Daniels is one of the most popular women in moving pictures today—she has a personality which makes friends for her at once and her latest pictures prove that she is an actress of no small ability. Some of her best work has been done in big pictures, such as "Male and Female," "Why Change Your Wife," and recently she has put out some pictures which stamp her as a comedienne of great ability. "The Speed Girl" is one of her latest. It is founded on the trials she went through when sentenced by a California judge to serve one week in jail, for exceeding the speed laws—the humorous incidents in the motion picture are not overdrawn in the least. Knowing that the incident actually did occur, it did not seem a bit unusual to see the same think taking place upon the screen. Miss Daniels plays the part of a favorite of stage and screen, who is constantly followed by a rich and jealous lover. She meets another man, a young naval officer, who appeals very strongly to her. A luncheon by several young cadets in her honor in spires her to get rid of her too devoted would-be fiance. While at luncheon she decides to keep her new suitor until he is late for his train—a question of discipline making it absolutely necessary for him to leave the party. As a result, all kinds of complications occur. There is a sudden hurried departure by automobile, in which Miss Daniels takes the wheel and gives a performance which is so realistic that when the train is finally reached, her exhaustion seems most natural.

"A Sailor Made Man."

The success of this four-reel picture of fun and laughter is wonderful. Harold Lloyd is better than ever, and that is certainly saying a great deal. He still wears his glasses. There are moments when you hold your breath and fear every moment that he is going to be dashed to the ground or into the water, or somewhere he shouldn't be, but up comes Harold smiling and as innocent of causing any worry as the small boy who knows he is up to something but pretends to be absolutely innocent of it. "Refined" and "Polite" are the two adjectives used most often in front of Harold's name, and he is fast becoming the premier exponent of the gentle art of laugh-making. He is a winner at the box office, and in "A Sailor Made Man" he has ample opportunity to display his talents. Much of the action takes place on board ship, although there are some funny scenes in the recruiting office when Harold applies for entrance into the navy. He is an attractive, if at first doleful, "gob" and he just loves to work—at times. However, ship discipline must be observed and is no respecter of persons, so the new recruit does his share at deck swabbing and other odd jobs just as if he didn't have a lot of money at home. Pretty Mildred Davis plays opposite him and is quite sweet enough looking to justify all the stunts Mr. Lloyd does for her. Out in the Orient, where the battleship puts in for a while, is the scene of a meeting between the girl, who is taking a world trip de luxe, and her erstwhile lover. Through some exciting rescues and chases by the natives and followers of the country's rulers, Harold quite outdistances his rival in the girl's affections, and, of course, wins her hand and her papa's undying gratitude.

There will be a special performance Saturday morning at 10.30 for children only.

LAST TIME TODAY.

The Capitol will present for the last time today "The Ordeal," by W. Somerset Maugham. The brilliant English playwright and author needs no introduction to the public, who are familiar with his works on the stage, but "The Ordeal" is the author's first original story for the screen and he has scored a big hit. Agnes Ayres, Conrad Nagel and the rest of the cast are also well known, and it is an outstanding fact among professional people that Paramount stands for the best in every line of motion picture production. Beulah Marie Dix, the well-known author, prepared Mr. Maugham's original script for the screen and Paul Powell directed the picture. The cast includes besides the stars, Miss Ayres and Mr. Nagel, such well-known people as Edna Murphy, star in "Over the Hill," and Clarence Burton, who has more than a few villain's parts to his credit, among them being that of the despicable husband in "Forbidden Fruit," and he also worked in "Her Husband's Trademark," "Fool's Paradise," "The Love Special" and "Miss Lulu Bett." Edward Sutherland will be remembered for his success as a juvenile in "The Witching Hour," "Nancy From Nowhere" and "The Sea Wolf," while the rest of the cast are all deserving of mention—Ann Schaefer, Eugene Corey, Adele Farrington, Edward Martindel, Claire du Brey and Shannon Day. It is in every sense a lavish production—the settings are in many cases nothing short of gorgeous and some of the very latest gowns are worn by the star and the other women in the cast. And Miss Ayres actually wears feather shoes—the very latest fad in footwear. Her gowns, worn in the capacity of a wealthy young widow, will make every married woman—no—just sit up and take notice. It is also interesting to know that Miss Edna Murphy used to wear two hundred hats a week—she was a model for an advertising photographer before graduating to the screen. But—'lest ye forget"—"The Ordeal" is not a silly fashion show. It is a strong play from the clever pen of Somerset Maugham.

Likely Suspend Some of Aura Lee Officers.

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—At a meeting of the Registration committee of the Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. here last night, no evidence was produced that would justify the suspension of the Aura Lee hockey players, but it was shown that there had been irregularities in connection with a two thousand dollar loan made by the Aura Lee Club to the Maitland Club last year, and it is likely that some of the Aura Lee officers will be suspended.

UNCERTAIN WHEN U. S. TARIFF BILL TO BE ENACTED.

Situation To-Day is Badly Tangled and Measure to Be Laid Aside Temporarily

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Despite the fact that when the tariff bill was reported from the Senate Finance Committee and its consideration was begun by the Senate, it was generally expected the bill would be passed by the middle of the summer or thereabouts, the situation to-day is badly tangled. The slow progress on the bill in the Senate and the announcement of Senator McCumber that he purposes to lay the bill aside temporarily to take up the bonus bill has served to make it more uncertain than ever when the tariff measure will be enacted. In fact, there has been in the past few days a strong revival of the talk that enactment of a tariff measure will go over until after the November elections.

In brief, the conditions are these: The tariff bill as reported by the Senate Finance Committee has about 2,000 amendments to the House bill. At the rate these are being disposed of, it would take many months to pass the bill through the Senate. The democrats are showing a disposition to adopt delaying tactics and to filibuster. On top of this, Senator McCumber is bent on passing the bonus bill without waiting for the Senate to pass the tariff bill. A long discussion of the bonus bill is inevitable and a filibuster may develop against the bonus.

With such complications at hand, it is impossible to foresee when the tariff bill will go through. Moreover, the result of the Indiana primaries, in which Senator New, the administration choice, and a high tariff man, was overthrown by former Senator Beveridge, has increased the dispositon of the Republican members of Congress to fear the political results of passing the tariff bill before the election in November. It is entirely possible that the tariff bill will be thrown into conference and left there until the November political controversy is settled.

TO BEAUTIFY CORNER.

Ald. Walter Stocker, chairman of the Board of Works, stated to-day that the city would fill in the old foundations on the Mark street church property at the corner of Mark and Hunter streets and help along the plan of the young people to improve this corner. Ald. Stocker said the church had commendable plans for beautifying the lot, and it wold onuly take a small part of the gravel and hard pan off Armour Hill to fill in and give a solid bottom. This would not mean that the fill at the bridge would be sacrificed to any extent, he said.

PECULIAR WILL OF EX-SCHOOL TEACHER.

Gave Preference to Unbelievers in Any Religion.

LONDON, May 17. Canadian Press. —Many peculiar wills find their way through the Probate court, but few of them can compare with the strange will of James Campbell Christie, an ex-schoolmaster and science teacher, of Kilmailing street, Cathcart, Glasgow, who died recently, leaving an estate valued at £3,-440.

Christie bequeathed his personal clothing and bed cloths to the Old Men's and Women's Home, Glasgow, and "if not accepted" to deserving persons whose circumstances were well known to any of the trustees of his estate, with a strong preference in favor of total abstainers, non-smokers, and unbelievers in any religion. People who wasted or had wasted money in alcohol or tobacco did not deserve charitable assistance, his will stated.

The utmost simplicity was to be observed in his funeral, Christie stipulated. No hearse was to be used, but a plain carriage with the box underneath, "or any simpler or less expensive way" of conveying his body to the crematorium. He had paid the cremation fee several years in advance of his death. He wished no one to waste time by attending his funeral. He desired that his ashes should not be preserved, but disposed off by the crematorium management, or "used by any of my trustees or others to fertilize their potatoes."

GENOA GLAMOR WANES, SHIFTS TO THE HAGUE

Delegates at Conference Look For Constructive Results in Holland's Capital This Summer

GREAT MORAL GOOD

GENOA, May 18. — (Canadian Press).—The final ratification of plans for the meeting of experts at The Hague to consider the Russian question was expected to-day at a meeting of the full political committee. The plenary session will be held to-morrow.

The glamor of Genoa has waned, but there are many of the delegates who are looking for constructive results at The Hague. They maintain also that a great moral good has been accomplished for Europe by the gathering of representatives of thirty-two nations.

Non-Aggression Pact.

A non-aggression pact was unanimously adopted in the form of a resolution at the plenary meeting of the political sub-commission of the Conference to-day. This pact was not signed. Each State pledged itself to respect it.

Reuter's to-day states that a reply has been received from the United States with reference to participation in The Hague Conference, saying the United States reserves its decision pending further investigation and until the situation becomes clearer.

ADMIRALTY RETIRE SURPLUS OFFICERS.

Not So Many As Feared; Will Add to the Naval Efficiency.

LONDON, May 18.—All men in the naval profession are deeply interested by an Admiralty order published Saturday for the retirement of officers, necessitated by the decision of the Washington Armament Conference for naval reduction.

The number of officers to be dispensed with is not as large as had been expected or feared in the service. Out of a strength of about 9,400 a total of 1,835 will be retired. The loss to the navy will not be as severe as the mere counting of heads would indicate. One officer describes the reduction as a plan to increase the efficiency of the navy by decreasing the number of officers.

The Admiralty was in a position to frame and enforce its own plans without bringing the proposals before Parliament. Had it been necessary to go to Parliament there probably would have been conflict by special interests, as various classes of officers would have had friends fighting for them, both in the Lords and the Commons.

None of the large number of Admirals will be retired by the order, but many will automatically drop out of the service shortly because of age.

Most important to the navy's efficiency are the experienced officers of the line. Captains to the number of 119 and 200 commanders will be retired, but the grade of lieutenant-commander, which will be the more important to the strength of the navy two years hence, is not touched.

Lieutenants to the number of 407 who are graduates of the naval school will go, and 703 other men of the same and lower rank are included. These make a total of 1,429 line officers. The grand total of 1,835 is made by the addition of 245 engineers, 101 accountants and 60 marine officers.

The special terms of retirement offered seem generous. The men are given retired pay ranging from £800 for captains of 21 years' service, to £82 10s for the cadet of less than one year's service, plus liberal gratuities based on the length of time normal service is curtailed. The Admiralty states that retirement constitutes no reflection on character or ability.

Victim Fined, But Had Never Sold the Liquor

TORONTO, May 18.—(Canadian Press). — Thomas Joynt of Shallow Lake and Owen Sound was convicted some time ago of selling liquor, and fined $500 on testimony of H. H. McCutcheon and another operator. McCutcheon admitted in his evidence before the Public Accounts Committee that this was a "frame up', that they had not bought liquor from Joynt at all. Mr Joynt today told the Committee that he told the court at time that "it was robbery" that he had never sold the liquor, but they fined him just the same. His lawyer is now taking step to get his money back.

RICH MUSICAL TREAT

Elaborate Programme by Local Talent at Conservatory Closing Friday at the Grand.

The Conservatory closing concert is a well-known and very popular social event. Every year shows marked progress, and the improvement is reflected in the extremely high character of the numbers that are presented in the closing programme. The Conservatory adult orchestra is a highly cultivated organization, and the junior orchestra of 25 pieces will provide unique entertainment. To a great many of the audience the Hawaiian Guitar Club is an outstanding feature. This year the members are much further advanced, and the renditions are sure to be among the most acceptable on the programme. Final rehearsals show excellent proficiency, and the large gathering who are busy securing seats for Friday night will enjoy the musical treat of the season.

Local drama, vocal and instrumental solos and aesthetic dancing round out a very full programme of the highest merit.

Seats are already on sale, and going rapidly, and it is to be hoped that music-lovers will not allow other engagements to prevent them giving this galaxy of local talent a bumper house reception.

EXCURSION TO HIAWATHA

The first boat trip of the season will be the Salvation Army's excursion to Hiawatha on Empire Day. The river and lake scenery is at the height of Spring's beauty, and will be an extra attraction.

ANOTHER WILD NIGHT OF GUN PLAY, BELFAST

Shooting Continues To-day—Concerted Attack by Men Camouflaged as Police on Barracks.

LATE DESPATCHES

BELFAST, May 18. — Canadian Press. — A wild night of firing in the Marrowbone district between the police, soldiers and gunmen was followed by further shooting this morning, when people were on their way to work and at least four men are dead as the results of disorders.

ATTACKS BARRACKS.

A bold and concerted attack was made on the Musgrave street barracks, the police headquarters, today, when seven men dressed in police uniforms, knocked at the front gate, and were admitted on replying to the guard that they were "police on duty." The guards were made to throw up their hands, but two of them showed fight, and Constable Collins was killed and Constable McKeown wounded. The invaders searched for arms and escaped when help arrived.

A letter was sent to members of both Houses of Parliaent saying that public recognition should be given the Premier, as he "represented us and fought his critcs with that courage, faith and optimism, which were characteristic of his attitude in the war."

WOMEN GOLFERS COMPETE.

SANDWICH, Engand, May 18. Canadian Press. — Miss Cecil Leitch, the British Woman's open golf champion, and Miss Joyce Wethered, English close champion, will compete for the open championship over the Princes's course here, both having won their matches in the semi-finals to-day.

COLONIAL INTERESTS.

LONDON, May 18. (Canadian Press Cable.) — At the annual meeting of the Council of Agriculture to-day a resolution moved by the Earl of Northbrook, that the Council support the maintainance of restrictions on the importation of store cattle was adopted.

Lord Bledisloe asked the meeting if the interests of colonial farmers were to be placed before those of the English, Irish and Scotch?

WAS ACQUITTED.

LONDON, May 18. — (Canadian Press). — Rev. J. Liston, Catholic bishop of New Zealand, who was tried on a charge of sedition, following a speech in which he referred to British troops in Ireland as foreign troops, was to-day acquitted by a jury, cables Reuter's correspondent from Auckland.

LADY ASTOR DIDN'T GIVE A TUCK-A-DUNT, SHE SAID

England's Woman Member of Parliament Startled 400 Representative Chicago Women With an Entirely New Word-What Does the Expression Mean?

CHICAGO, May 18.—At a luncheon given in her honor at the Congress Hotel by 400 representative Chicago women, Lady Astor startled her audience with an entirely new word. At one point in her address she cried:

"I don't give a tuck-a-dunt for the unintelligent woman."

Instantly the hundreds of well-dressed women at the tables broke into a flurry of excited whispers among themselves.

"What, or who, is a tuck-a-dunt? Where is a tuck-a-dunt Did you ever hear that word before? What does it mean?"

English members of the party and women from Virginia in the gathering were appealed to with equally vain results. Finally somebody with an appearance of knowledge let it be known that a tuck-a-dunt is a mysterious something of equal value with a tinker's dam, and so the matter was allowed to rest.

"As the mother of six children, let me tell you that it is easier to have a baby than to make a speech—a good speech," Lady Astor said as a preface to her remarks. Continuing she said she was convinced that the women of the world would demand some sort of a peace league, whether the League of Nations or not. Great Britain, she held, was alone at Genoa when the United Staes should be by her side, shoulder to shoulder.

Be real women, was the keynote of her address. As an example of a real woman, "ready to fight for the moral issues to which men often give lip service and no more," Lady Astor cited "one of Chicago's most famous citizens, Jane Adams."

"When one of your English guests," she proceeded, "said recently that she had never heard of the name of Jane Adams, she forgot what everybody else in our country knows."

It was Lady Astor's only reference to Margot Asquith.

Admitting that she had been warned while in Chicago to avoid discussing either Great Britain or the League of Nations, she talked on both those subjects.

"I am told that I have forgotten that Columbus discovered America," she said. "He discovered it, but some have forgotten that he did not settle it."

SNAPPY DRILL AT FIRE HALL

One of Three Platoons Put Through Ladder Exercises Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon one of the three platoons that make up the fire brigade was put through a snappy ladder drill at the rear of the hall by Chief George Gimblett. The men, in charge of Lieut. James Ward, worked for an hour under the Chief's direction, and when the drill was over the Chief remarked that after a few months' drill the department will be in good shape in its ladder work.

The yard in which the drill was held is adequate enough for all purposes, Chief Gimblett stated. Electric wires that interfere with the hoisting will be removed. Ladder drill will be held three times a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, as is the case in the city of Hamilton. Ald. Joseph Crowe, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Ald. Walter Stocker and Ald .E. M. Turner witnessed the first ladder workout.

When the 45-foot ladder was raised the metal locking contrivance was found to be rusty and in such a condition that one of the men had to ascend and apply oil to the works before it would come down. The men, after the Chief had mounted and tried the ladder, climbed to the top. The 55-foot ladder, the longest piece of equipment on the brigade, was elevated and went within 10 feet of the top of the tower. It was in better condition than the shorter one, and after oiling it the men had no difficulty in handling it.

The men climbed the high ladder in pairs, after the Chief had shown that it could be done, by going up to the last rung. All hands then had the experience of taking a line of hose up, a man leading with the nozzle, and at distances of ten feet two others bringing up with loops. The Chief pointed out the proper way to carry the line, and also showed how to play the water from the ladder, and put the men through this drill. He particularized in instruction on the raising and lowering of the heavy ladders and put the men through their paces in letting down the 55-foot one, showing how the short and tall men should be distributed. Instruction in locking the extension concluded the hour's workout.

THE WEATHER

I think it is Ruskin who says in one of his essays: "There is no such a thing as bad weather—only different varieties of good weather." The showers of last night and to-day can be easily classified as "good"—of untold good, to the growing crops, and as one man said this morning, will also be a blessing to pleasure seekers, as it will curtail the consumption of gasoline! The rainfall totalled .44 of an inch, and it looks as if there was still more on the way.—W. P.

A DISASTROUS FIRE SWEEPS ITALIAN HOSPITAL

ROME, May 18. — (Canadian Press.)—A disastrous fire swept the historic hospital of Santa Spirito, one of the most ancient and picturesque charitable institutions in Rome, early to-day. Sixteen bodies had been extricated this morning. The institution accommodates about five thousand inmates, and includes hospital, lunatic asylum, foundling home and refuge for the aged and infirm.

CHIEF GIMBLETT SATISFIED WITH HIS START HERE

Assures Committee Local Firemen Are Willing to Learn His New Operating System.

REGULAR DRILLS

So far this year the Fire, Water and Light Committee has kept within its appropriation, it was shown at a meeting held last night. Up to the end of April, $11,485.33 was expended. The appropriation this year was $37,500.00, and so if the present rate of mopthly expenditure is not exceeded, Ald. Crowe's committe should emerge at the year with a balance to the good of about $3,000. There was little to put on the minute books as a result of the meeting. The chief interest of the members was in hearing from the new Fire Chief proposals to make the brigade more efficient.

A New System.

He stated that he intended to hold drills as instituted yesterday three times a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, at 2.30 o'clock. "I'm satisfied with the start," said Chief Gimblett. "The men are willing to learn. The system I'm putting in is new to them." He reported that the ladders had required oil but were in fair shape. "I suppose if they use them regularly they'll be all right," said Ald. Walter Stocker.

Inspection of Premises.

To acquaint every man with the duties of fire inspector, the Chief said he proposed to divide the city into sections and assign men to all parts to examine cellars and yards. In this way each fireman would soon understand the duties expected of an inspector. The Chief said that in regard to factories and downtown buildings he would take special precaution to see they were carefully inspected, and would attend to some of them himself.

Telephone Alarms.

It is likely that through the agitation of the new Chief the committee will install a telephone for fire alarms only and numbered 100, as is the case, Chief Gimblett said, in practically all cities in the Dominion. This 'phone would be installed at a desk in the corner of the watch room, and the other 'phone system, which consist of a cabinet 'phone in the watch room, with an extension to the Chief's office, remain as it is for ordinary calls. The advantage of getting number 100 for the Fire Hall is that it is universally understood to be the call and not liable to lead to difficulties in the case of strangers to the city discovering a fire.

Chief Gimblett introduced the matter last night, pointing out also that by having a switch on the 'phone an alarm could be given in the hall immediately. By having different bells the fire alarm 'phone would be distinctive from the other. A man would be stationed at the 'phone day and night, the Chief said.

The recommendation was favorably considered but action was deferred until a later meeting.

Summer Uniforms.

Chief Gimblett was asked to report in regard to summer uniforms for the men. The Chief said he did not know what shape the department was in in this regard, but he thought that it was too late this spring to get them out by the time they will be needed, and if it is possible to get along he advised not ordering them until the first of next year. In that case delivery by May 1st would be specified, and this would give the men a month to ask for any alterations that might be necessary.

The Chief declared all uniforms should last two years. The committee left Ald. Crowe to arrange for the Chief's uniform, which local tailors are asking from $65 to $80 to make. Ald. Crowe said this included two pairs of trousers. "Every tailor shop we went into there was just the proprietor, and he was head over heels in work." The committee did not think the prices mentioned were excessive, and the main thing was to get delivery as soon as possible.

Ald. Joseph Crowe, Mayor W. H. Taylor, Ald. James Hamilton and Ald. Malcolm McIntyre formed the committee.

Rain Was Needed By Local Farmers

The way Old Jupiter Pluvius came to the help of farmers last night, just when they began to think he had forgotten all about them, had the whole farming community from Rice Lake to Kawartha cheering to-day. In conversation with the Examiner, tillers of the soil chuckled over the way things are looking and the visions of green and waving fields, fruit laden bushes and trees conjured up, almost sounded too good to be true.

The fall wheat and clover was beginning to show the effects of two weeks of merciless sun, and had the rain not arrived a critical condition might have been reached. The garden stuff needed moisture badly, The Examiner was told, and tiny growing things will be given a new lease of life. "Things certainly look fine to-day. Everything has picked up and the grain is above the average," one farmer declared.

The prospect for a good strawberry crop is bright, The Examiner was told by one of the berry men. The frosts, he said, have not had the same evil effect on the vines as on the raspberry bushes. He reported a great loss in the cane, but was unable to account for its severity. The bloom will not be on the strawberries except in the early varieties until next week, he said. The fruit trees are showing unusual bloom this year, and the prospect is for bumper crops of all tree fruit.

GATES SAYS HE IS QUALIFIED

Competed in Swimming Races in England, He Tells the Examiner.

James Gates appointed caretaker of the Inverlea swimming beach called on the Examiner this morning to complain that the editorial in last night's issue in regard to the qualifications of the caretakers was unfair to him inasmuch as he considers himself capable of giving the necessary instruction in swimming. "If I didnt think I was qualified I wouldn't have applied for the job", he declared, adding that he had competed in swimming races in England. Swimming lessons will be given at Inverlea only from 9 to 11 o'clock each morning, the caretaker announced.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAD COUPLE CALLS

The fire department responded to two alarms last night. A chimney fire broke out at the residence of M. F. Peters, 402 Wolfe stret at 6.48. The alarm came in from Box 17 and the department made record time in putting out the blaze. At 9.17 they were called to the corner of George and Westcott streets to extinguish a rubbish fire that had got beyond the control of young boys. There were no other alarms during the night.

TWO ASSASSINATED.

BELFAST, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Two men sitting on the top of a tram car were shot dead from behind by two others as the car was nearing the centre of the city, this morning. The assassins dashed downstairs and escaped into a side street. The victims were not identified.

SICK WITNESS AGAIN DELAYS EDWARDS CASE

Preliminary Hearing of Abe Filion and Mrs. Edwards Causes Another Adjournment.

A MURDER CHARGE

The illness of a material witness for the Crown required further adjournment this morning of the preliminary hearing of the charge of murder against Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards and Abe Filion until Friday, May 26.

Mr. J. F. Strickland, representing Crown Attorney Hatton, who recently underwent an operation in Toronto, informed the court that Verna Martin, who he said was an important witness in this case, was ill with chicken pox.

"We are willing to proceed if Dr. Young, the Medical Officer of Health, will permit the witness to come here," said Mr Strickland

Dr. Young stated to Magistrate Langley that the quarantine of Miss Martin would not be lifted "until the spots cleared, which would be about two or three weeks."

Mr. C. R. Widdifield, counsel for Mrs. Edwards, and Mr. F. D. Kerr, for Filion, both consented to another remand.

"If the medical men are satisfied that it is chicken pox and not smallpox, I'll be content to wait," said Mr. Kerr. "If ultimately there is no evidence to commit I'll be better satisfied for having waited."

Magistrate Langley said the grounds were sufficient for enlarging the case, which may have to be again adjourned next week.

Chief Newhall's customers were out in force this morning, crowding the court room to the back wall. The Chief failed to provide the capacity audience with any real entertainment.

Will Make Restitution.

Albert Marlowe, who was remanded a week ago on a charge of fraudulently obtaining board and lodging at the Grand Hotel, changed his plea to guilty this morning through his solicitor, Mr. A. E. declared that he had expected to have enough funds in the bank to meet the cheque he had given. He offered to make restitution and was awaiting the receipt of five hundred dollars some time to-day.

His Worship said that if the money was paid and the costs of the case, he would suspend judgment. Marlowe was remanded until to-morrow in the expectation that he would be able to make good his promises some time to-day. In that even Magistrate Langley may hold a special court this afternoon to dispose of the case.

LEST YOU FORGET

Here is a reminder that the PETERBOROUGH HUMANE SOCIETY has done and is doing approved work in the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and in fostering that sympathetic consideration for Dumb Brutes, which reflects one of the most commendable principles in Advanced Civilization.

And while considerable financial support to this worthy cause has been subscribed privately, still a broadening out of the Society's humane efforts, not only in the Protection of Animals from Unnecessary Suffering, and at times Criminal Treatment, but also in the Sanitary Interests of the Community, renders a call for more funds imperative. Hence the Society will hold a

FARMER SAYS WHEAT BOARD IS LOST CAUSE

Hon. George Langly Condemns Action Taken By Hon. W. R. Motherwell Regarding the Board.

VOLUNTARY POOL.

SASKATOON, May 18—(Canadian Press).—"Any hope the farmers of the west may have cherished of securing the re-establishment of the wheat board to handle the crop of the present year has been finally destroyed by the statement of the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa to the Agricultural Committee that he is opposed to the wheat board", stated Hon. George Langley, President of the Saskatchewan Cooperative Elevator Company. Mr. Langley declared that since grain growing became an industry in the west no leader of the farmers' movement has given such ill-service to the farmers as Hon. W. R. Motherwell has given in connection with the wheat board. Mr. Langley further stated that a voluntary pool would in no sense be a substitute for the wheat board.

THE C.P.R. EXPECTS A BIG TOURIST TRADE

Thirty Specials Have Already Been Chartered.

CALGARY, Alta., May 18.—That the Canadian Pacific looks with confidence to a large movement of tourist traffic this season was the statement of George A. Walton, General Passenger Agent of Western Lines while in Calgary on his way to the opening of the Banff Springs Hotel, which took place on Monday. The outlook, he said was most promising, for one of the heaviest years in the company's history. Already no less than thirty specials have been chartered over the Canadian Pacific western lines, carrying Shriners to the International Convention of San Francisco, and Rotarians to the big conference at Los Angeles.

WAR VETERANS SEND A LETTER OF COMPLAINT

Protest Against Unfair Discrimination in Granting Government Insurance to Returned Men.

CHANGE OF POLICY.

OTTAWA, May 18 — (Canadian Press). — Officials of the Dominion Command, Great War Vet-

"The officials of this assocation to Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, against alleged unfair discrimination in the granting of Government insurance to returned men accompanied "by an unprecedented severity on the part of the Pension Commissioners".

C. G. MacNeil, Dominion Secretary-Treasurer, has written Mr. Fielding requesting that he "take such steps as may be necessary to preserve for ex-service men those benefits extended under Legislation already enacted."

In his letter Mr. MacNeil says:

"The officials of this association are at a loss to understand the reason for the distinct change of policy which has recently been effected in respect of applications for insurance under the Acit. The assurance was given by the Parliamentary Committee, introducing this Legislation, that discretionary power, under section 13 of the Act, would be exercised only in cases of fraudulent representations. It was distinctly understood that no discrimination would be shown, because of physical condition at the time of application. Any deviation from this initial policy is regarded as a breach of contract with the ex-service men of this country.

"In view of the fact that these disquieting disclosures have been accompanied by an unprecedented severity on the part of the Pension Commissioners in the award and rating of pensions, there is a general apprehension as to the welfare of certain classes of incapacitated ex-service men, whose claims upon the country cannot be denied.

BILL FOR TAX ON RACING PASSES SECOND READING

Meets With Some Opposition and Several Members Express Doubts as to its Constitutionality. Delay in Enforcement is Asked.

TORONTO, May 18 (Canadian Press). — After a debate which occupied most of the afternoon, the Ontario Legislature yesterday passed through committee of the whole House, the Bill which will put a 5 per cent. tax on race track winnings and a $15,000 a year tax on export liquor companies. It will probably come up for third reading to-day.

The tax on race track winnings was attacked on what he termed "sound legal and constitutional grounds" by H. H. Dewart. He contended that the findings of the Courts indicated that the Province had no power to pass this legislation, as race track gambling or betting was within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. He prophesied that the Federal authorities would step in and prevent Provincial officers closing up a race track if the Jockey Club refused to collect this tax.

Major Tolmie (Windsor), Charles McCrea (Sudbury), and M. M. MacBride (Brant South) all advised delay until the constitutionality of the Bill could be more thoroughly considered while Sam Clarke (Northumberland West) endorsed the tax, and thought it should go further.

The committee divided on the amendment moved by Mr. Dewart to strike out the clause providing for this tax, defeating the amendment.

Mr. Dewart then urged upon the Attorney-General that the tax should not be put into force until 31st July, and that in the meantime a stated case be submitted to the Courts to find out whether the Province had the power to collect this tax. He pointed out that if the associations went ahead and collected the tax, and it later turned out that the Act is unconstitutional, there would be no way of paying the money back to the rightful owners.

The Attorney-General replied that he was absolutely convinced that the Bill was founded on strong legal grounds, and there was no need of delay.

The Government speakers made it clear that the object was to have it in force when Woodbine opens on Saturday.

Mr. Dewart announced that he would call for the yeas and the nays on the third reading.

LADY ASTOR SPEAKS IN PROVINCIAL HOUSE

Declares That Women Are Greatly Needed in the Parliaments of the World

BRITAIN'S STRENGTH.

TORONTO, May 18. Canadian Press. — The galleries were crowded and most of the members were in their seats when Lady Astor addressed the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon, and as the first woman to be elected to the British House of Commons she urged that women were needed in the parliaments of the world.

Dressed in white and with a green hat overspread by a plume of the same color, she apologized for appearing before the Legislature in that costume. In the House of Commons in England, she always wore plain black and white. "I always take great care never to shock them or lead them on by my costume," she said, referring to her fellow commoners.

Next to Virginia and Plymouth, the constituency for which she is a member, Canada was nearest to her heart, she said. "When Virginians go straight, when they run true to form, they can be helpful citizens of any country."

That England should have elected to her parliament a woman, born in Virginia, brings home to America, she continued, how tolerant England is, and how big England is. Some people view England's tolerance as a mark of weakness. It is a mistake to think England is weak.

"I am very keen of my Anglo-Saxon traditions," she said. "The world to-day needs more of Anglo-Saxon tradition." The countries of Europe should pattern after the United States following the civil war. She termed herself an "unreconstructed rebel" but the South realized it must co-operate with the North, and had the North been too vindictive there would not have been any United States of America to-day. The countries of Europe should appreciate that.

"The prime minister of Britain is doing his best," she went on, "but I wish America was with them — America ought to be with them—and America knows that she ought to be with them."

She said that she would never forget the fairness and justice with which she had been treated by the other members of the House. She referred to the ancient prejudices they had to overcome yet pointed out that England's greatness was never greater than when a woman was ruler. She insisted that nearly everything worth while had come from Plymouth. The Scotch and Irish would not agree with that, but it was true.

She regretted that there was no woman in Ontario's parliament. The men need not be afraid to admit them. They have a faculty of knowing how far to go and their presence would be an assistance to clean, honest governments and add to the dignity of all Houses." Women have a way of facing things directly. We will never be as good as you in some things but we will fairly leave you behind in others." She referred particularly to the desire of women to look after the welfare of all children.

Lady Astor spoke of the four and a half years she was among Canadian soldiers in the hospitals overseas, "where everyone wanted to help everyone else."

"We Canadians," she said, "for I do represent these men who are in my hospital, have a great responsibility. Fifty thousand Canadian gave up their lives, and that places a heavy responsibility on every Legislature in Canada. We must carry on where they left off."

In welcoming Lady Astor, the Premier remarked that this was comparatively a small Parliament, but it was capable of stirring up as much trouble as any other parliament. There were many women in Ontario who would well represent their constituencies if elected to the Legislature and he thought the outlook was bright for women becoming members in the future.

Lady Astor is believed to be the first woman who ever addressed the Ontario Legislature.

RAIN A HELP TO FRUIT GROWERS

Rain Came at the Right Time for the Fruit and Vegetable Men. Breezes in Blossom Time.

ST. CATHARINES, May 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Yesterday's rain is looked upon by fruit growers to have been of inestimable benefit to the fruit and vegetable crops. During the blossoming period the absence of rain was advantageous in that it gave the mild breeze which prevailed excellent opportunity to distribute the pollen ensuring the formation of embryonic fruit. The general fruit outlook is most promising.

PARIS, May 18, — (Canadian Press). — The Allied Council of Ambassadors to-day decided that former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary be allowed to leave Madeira, where ex-Emperor Charles recently died in exile, and go to Spain and remain there until her accouchement. Apartments have been reserved for her in the Chateau Pardo, near Madrid.

ANOTHER CLUE IN SMALL CASE PROVES FALSE

Investigation of Letter Received By Attorney-General Raney is Barren of Results.

A QUEER STORY.

CHATHAM, May 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Late yesterday afternoon Constable Peters was more disposed than ever to treat the writer of the letter regarding Ambrose J. Small as the work of a man seeking notoriety.

Mr. Peters received a communication Tuesday from Chief Dickson, of Toronto, enclosing a copy of a letter written to Attorney General Raney, by James Black, Orford township, giving his address as R. R. No. 3.

Black in his letter, a disjointed affair, stated that he had resided in a shack on King street of this city, next door to an engineer of a local yard engine named Tink who had told him he had "got" a man named A. J. McMillan for "propitating" the Murrell's. In answer to Black's query as to what he meant, the engineer is alleged to have said he run over him.

The writer claims he knew of a theatrical man named Ambrose J. McMillan, who is reported to have died in Detroit, but believes McMillan came to Canada, and assumed the name of Ambrose J. Small, and after his disappearance under that name again resumed the cognomen of McMillan. He concludes the man who was "got" by the engineer to have been Small.

City and county police know of no person in any way connected with railway accidents of recent years, whose identity was not positive, while legal representaives of the railway on which Tink is alleged to have worked knowing of an accident in which was any doubt of identity of a person nor of a person named McMillan being connected with any accidents in recent years. Warden Ward, who perhaps is as well acquainted with Orford township as any man, having resided there for many years, was in the city yesterday and when questioned by Canadian Press said he did not know of any Robert Black. A physician from that section of the country was also interviewed and he knew nothing of Black. Constable Peters will make a trip to Orford township tomorrow in an endeavor to locate him.

Red River Has Risen Ten Feet Since Saturday. Assiniboine Also Very High.

OTHER POINTS.

WINNIPEG, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—With a continued rise overnight along the Red River, which is fast reaching flood stage, and heavy rains overnight aggravating the situation along the Assiniboine west of this city, low-lying land in Winnipeg and vicinity was in a dangerous position yesterday. Waters of the Assiniboine and the Red are swelling simultaneously with an overnight rise of one foot and five inches reported in the Red here and an increase of one foot at Emerson, making a total rise of ten feet at Emerson since Saturday.

A condition where both rivers climbed to the crest of a heavy rise at the same time is unprecedented within the last twenty years, and bodes serious developments within the city during the next few days, W. P. Brereton, City Engineer, stated yesterday.

Flooding of additional lands in the Hutterite territory near Iberville, west of this city, was threatened yesterday with the water breaking through protecting dykes. Several score of men are engaged in an effort to block the flow of water, but efforts so far have been futile and the land to the south is being flooded. Following last night's rain, all points west of here along the Assiniboine with the exception of Poplar Point, report a further slight rise. The dykes at Poplar Point are holding well, but from Rea burn to Pigeon Lake the water rose overnight from one to two inches. Marquette reports additional land inundated.

CRERAR PRESENTS CASE FOR NATIONAL RAILROADS

Advocates Closing of Part of the Transcontinental Lines Running Through the Wilderness. Says National Railways Are Splendid Asset.

OTTAWA, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Discussion of railway estimates in the House yesterday brought from Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, an important declaration of his policy on the national raods. He advocated the closing up of part of the transcontinental lines running across the wilderness between eastern and western Canada. He urged a revaluation of the entire system on a replacement basis and its unification. He favored the suggested regional districts. He took the ground that, in encouraging immigration, the Government should take steps to see that the new settlers were placed along the National lines. It was too, he argued, a sound principle that the fiscal policy of the country should be so drafted as to stimulate production from the farm, the forest and the mine, and railway traffic thereby be encouraged.

"In the National Railways," Mr. Crerar declared, "the people of Canada have a splendid asset. If they are turned over to private ownership at any price which private ownership would pay, the country would forever lose their potential value, but would not escape the liabilities involved."

Mr. Crerar's speech came at the close of an afternoon's discussion on the railway estimates, a discussion which will be continued to-day. Earlier, Hon. Walter Mitchell, Liberal Member for St. Antoine—and formerly one of Sir Lomer Goinu's lieutenants in the Provincial Government of Quebec—had defended private ownership of railways. Mr. Mitchell went further—he expressed opposition to the principle of public ownership and operation of all public utilities.

"I have come to the conclusion on general principle," Mr. Mitchell asserted, "that the public pay more under public ownership than they benefit from lower charges."

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition, charged in reply that Mr. Mitchell had no case. As the National lines had not been constructed as commercial propositions, no private company could make them pay.

NEWFOUNDLAND WILL ATTEMPT TO START TRAINS

Negotiations Will Be Started With Railway Company to Stop Shutdown.

NO FUNDS.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., May 18 (Canadian Press). — The Newfoundland Government will re-open negotiations with the Reid-Newfoundland Company in an effort to break the deadlock which has tied up railway traffic in the colony for two days, Premier Squire announced in the Legislature late yesterday.

Operation of the Newfoundland Railway ceased when the Reid Company on Monday notified their employees that April wages would not be paid, due to the failure of the Government to advance funds voted last year by the Legislature to meet operating deficits.

Before making his announcement yesterday, the Premier tabled a letter from the Reid-Newfoundland Company in which the later, while warning the Government that a complete tie-up of transportation appeared inevitable and that the company might begin legal proceedings against the Government within a few days, suggested steps toward compromise.

"In the meantime and before we resort to this final and irrevocable step of legal action,(we are still open to discussion and compromise which might put an end to all claims and disputes on either side," the letter said.

The Legislature adjourned until Friday.

REPIRTED KILLED BY WOLVES BUT IS VERY MUCH ALIVE.

Trapper Who Was Said to Have Been Torn to Shreds Turns Up Safely in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, May 18.—(Canadian Press).—A report which reached Winnipeg and was published on April 16, that Ben Cochrane, a trapper, had been torn to pieces by wolves north of Fisher River on Lake Winnipeg, was constradicted emphatically the other day when Cochrane turned up in Winnipeg in good health.

He had no explanation to offer of the origin of the story, which had credited to him the slaying of eleven wolves before the trapper had been, in the words of the correspondent, "torn to shreds".

GOVT. TO CARRY ON DESPITE DEFEAT OF PREM. LLD. GEORGE

Crisis Caused By Minor Defeat is Believed to Have Passed. Appoint Committee.

THE DIVISION.

LONDON, May 18. — (Canadian Press.)—The crisis projected by the defeat of the Government in the House of Commons Tuesday evening passed as suddenly as it arose. The Cabinet, after a council lasting an hour yesterday and telegraphic consultation with the Prime Minister at Genoa, has decided to carry on and appoint a select committee to investigate the question of teachers' superannuation, refusal of which in the first instance led to the Government's defeat.

Austen Chamberlain announced the Government's decision to a full and animated House yesterday, at the same indicating that he would be obliged to ask Parliament for a supplementary estimate to compensate for the loss of revenue, pending the determination of whether the teachers should contribute to the superannuation fund.

The Government affects to treat the defeat as a minor matter, but examination of the division lists shows that not less than fifty-eight Government supporters, equally divided between Unionists and Liberals, voted against the Government.

$21,000,000 FOR RELIEF OF SWEDISH UNEMPLOYED

STOCKHOLM, May 18.—(Associated Press)—The government has asked the Swedish parliament thus far this year for appropriations equivalent to about $21,000,000 for relief of the unemployed and the parliament has granted about $9,200,000 which it has considered sufficient to tide over a few weeks when a clearer view of the situation can be obtained.

The latest figures show that the number of unemployed has decreased but the number of those receiving relief has increased.

All The Clothes Out By 9 a.m.

Monday morning just started and your washing all done! You think it sounds impossible, but just use Rinso and see.

Really, the clothes soak themselves clean in the Rinso suds and the dirt runs away freely in the rinsing. Why? Because Rinso is the new modern method for the family wash and it is absolutely different from every other soap or washing powder you ever used.

Do not pour the Rinso granules direct from the package into the wash. Use it this way as it guarantees the best results: Dissolve half a package of Rinso in just enough cool water to make it like thick cream. Add two quarts of boiling water and stir. When the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber coloured liquid—the famous, scientific, Rinso solution. Pour it into your tub of cool or lukewarm water, then put in the clothes and let them soak one hour, two hours, overnight or as long as convenient.

Then give them a thorough rinsing and they are clean without any hard rubbing—without boiling.

If You Use a Washing Machine:

Soak your clothes for the usual time, then add more Rinso solution and work the machine. Rinse and dry—you will have a clean, sweet, snow-white wash.

Certainly Not a Washing Powder:

The fine granules of Rinso may look like a washing powder but just make this test. Dissolve a heaping teaspoonful of Rinso in a little hot water. In another cup dissolve a heaping teaspoonful of washing powder in boiling water. When they cool, see what happens:

WASHING POWDER
High in chemicals low in soap; it pours out.

RINSO
Absolutely harmless, so rich in soap it "jells."

SPEEDING AND THE ROADS.

There are some motorists who obey the speed regulations faithfully within the city limits, but who see no harm in exceeding the legal limit when they get out on the highways. Leaving on one side the question of their own safety and that of others on the road, there is another angle to the speed mania that is either forgotten or ignored when it does happen to be remembered. Th greater the speed of a car the greater the destruction of the road surface. Yet many car-owners who are continually clamouring for good roads fail to understand that they are doing a great deal to create the conditions about which they are complaining. Some engineers have estimated that for every increase of a mile per hour over a fifteen-mile rate the destruction of a roadway is doubled. The Examiner is not prepared to say that this estimate is absolutely correct, but at least it is approximately so, and it should be obvious that a large number of speeding cars will in a short time play havoc with any roadway less endurable than cement. If the motorists want good roads they must do their part in maintaining them. Less speeding will mean longer life for the highways, and possibly for some of the car-owners as well.

THE EXHIBITION'S GROWTH.

The growth and progress made by the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are demonstrated by the fact that the Exhibition has qualified for a grant from the Dominion Government by reason of having paid out more than $4,500 in prize money in the utility classes last year. The securing of this grant is a source of gratification to the directors, although it should be understood that it does not relieve the management of any share of their financial burden, inasmuch as the grant must be used in the providing of prizes in the utility departments of the Exhibition and cannot be diverted to the general fund and used for improvement, new buildings, or anything of that kind. The fact, however, that the Peterborough Exhibition is eligible for the Dominion grant is substantial proof that the Exhibition has gone far towards the top of the list, and it will be welcomed by the directors for what it represents. The Exhibition owes its success to an appreciation of the truth of the statement that to stand still is to go back and to the co-operation and support of the people of Peterborough and the district. There is every reason to expect that further progress will be recorded this year, for the various meetings have been permeated with an enthusiasm that must carry this year's plans through to a triumphal success.

SATURDAY'S TAG DAY.

The Peterborough Humane Society, which is affiliated with the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, will on Saturday bring the organisation before the public, and at the same time secure funds for the carrying on of their work, by means of a tag day. The organisation was launched in Peterborough some months ago, and Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald has been provisionally acting as inspector. It is proposed now, however, to secure the services of a permanent official, who will be paid for his work, and the proceeds of Saturday's tag day will be devoted to this purpose. The objects of the Humane Society are such as to command support from everybody who loves animals. Briefly, the Society aims at securing a square deal for our dumb creatures. There is need for such an organisation in every community to protect animals from cruel treatment, to prevent horses being compelled to draw excessive loads, or from being worked when they are lame or ill, to stop the practice that some motorists seem to have devloped of deliberately running over cats or dogs or other small animals, and to generally educate the community along humane lines. It is to make it possible to carry on such work effectively in Peterborough that Saturday's tag day is being held, and the members of the Society hope that the people of Peterborough will indicate their sympathy for the movement by contributing when called upon by the tag day canvassers. There are many organisations in Peterborough to look after the welfare of the people, but the Humane Society is the only one that interests itself in animals.

WHEELBARROWS.

"Wheelbarrows!" cried the little lady with the grey hair and the firm chin, "that's what my children are—wheelbarrows! Push 'em along and they'll go as far as you like—leave 'em alone and they'll stick in the mud!"

Somebody had been congratulating her on how well her two girls had done and this was her reply, and, outspoken as it was, it was really quite true, says The London Advertiser.

Alice and Hilda had done well, one as an artist and the other as a violinist, and each was something of an outstanding success in her career, but always behind them one felt the indomitable figure of the little mother to whom they owed it.

It was she who had encouraged, helped and guided them from the beginning, who had always prophesied success and never admitted even the possibility of failure, who had never allowed them to look back, but had always pushed them steadily on towards this goal—success.

Both had attained it, but with those who knew them well, there was always the feeling that without her they might have fallen by the way, for, talented as they were, they both lacked something—push, enterprise, call it what you will—which is essential to success.

Have you ever thought what an enormous number of wheelbarrows there is in Ontario—people who seem quite contented to grub along in the same little rut and are too lazy or too indifferent to try to get out of it, and do not seem to care whether they ever do anything worth while or not?

They often have great gifts, but they do not take trouble to make use of them; they simply take the line of least resistance, and, as the little lady said, stick in the mud, unless they happen to come under the influence of some more energetic personality who will push them out.

AN INJUSTICE CORRECTED.

The municipalities of Ontario were doubtless glad to learn that one of the provisions of a bill introduced in the House of Commons this week by Sir Lomer Gouin, Minister of Justice, to amend the Criminal Code gives the municipalities of this Province the fines collected when they bear the expense of administering the law under which the same are imposed, instead of paying them to the Province as at present. The amendment corrects a defect in the Criminal Code that has reacted most unfairly upon the municipalities who hitherto have had to meet all the expenses in connection with the administration of certain laws, only to have the Provincial Government step in and take the fines that were collected. The change proposed by Sir Lomer Gouin is an important one, and the municipalities will benefit considerably by being allowed to retain the fines that up to the present have gone to enrich the Provincial Treasury. The administration of justice forms a heavy item in the civic budget, and it will be welcome news to the various municipal finance ministers to learn that if the present bill is passed by the Dominion Parliament, there will be a substantial item on the credit side of the ledger with which to offset the expenditure necessary for law administration. This mater of Court fines has long been a sore spot with the municipalities, and they will welcome the relief legislation introduced by the Minister of Justice.

TREE-PLANTING DAY?

We have no fixed arbor day in Canada—no generally recognized day for the planting of trees. Some of our Canadian municipalities name a day for this usually about the present time, but it is a matter which rests with each municipality. Not very many municipalities trouble, and Ottawa is not one of the little list.

Yet it is a splendid idea. It is fifty years old this year in practice on this continent. The Department of Agriculture of the State of Nebraska issued a call to the people of that State in 1872 to set apart a day for tree-planting—and from that humble beginning the movement has spread considerably over the United States and a little in Canada. The fact that Arbor Day had its origin in an agricultural State nearly treeless has a moral. Where trees were not, people want them, and want them badly. On the one hand trees are beautiful things in centres of population, and on the other hand are valuable adjuncts to farming. The Federal Government at Ottawa has spent thousands of dollars in encouraging tree-planting on the prairies and providing suitable stock—and it regards the investment as a profitable one. A recent bulletin of the Dominion Forestry Branch of the Department of Interior says:

"Do the results appear to have justified the expenditure of public money? Leaving aside for the moment any question of indirect benefit and considering only the direct financial feature, it is found that, as a result of this distribution, there are now, at a very conservative estimate, at least 40,000 well-cultivated shelter-belts. Inquiry has been made from time to time as to the value a farmer places on his shelter-belt, and hundreds of letters received in reply give valuations of from $500 to $5,000. The very great majority of planters value their belts at around $1,000. In many cases there is no question that this valuation is not exaggerated, but to be conservative an average value of $300 may be taken as being well within reason. At this figure, the 40,000 plantations would represent a total of $12,000,000. This is at least $11,200,000 in excess of the total costs of operating the Tree-planting Division, since it was first organized in 1901.

"The chief value of a plantation on the prairies, however, is not the actual cash value. Each successful tree-belt is a practical demonstration as to the kinds and varieties of trees which can be depended upon in a particular locality. It encourages those who have been too sceptical to do any planting themselves, it relieves the general monotony of the landscape, and lends a greater impression of permanency to farm life. In numerous cases these groves provide recreation spots for the community, where picnics and other gatherings are held during the summer months. There is no doubt that tree-planting has now become more or less of a necessity in many districts to assist in preventing soil-drifting, and undoubtedly those who have already had success with the windbreaks around their gardens and buildings will be the first to undertake this kind of tree-planting."

Canadian municipalities ought to be on the alert to encourage tree-planting and one of the easiest and cheapest things to do is to name an Arbor Day. Some of the volunteer enthusiasts who flourish in each of our communities, thank heaven, will see that the day is heard about every year before it comes.—Ottawa Journal.

"Saved My Little Girl!"

Mother tells how her little Ethel's life was saved.

That is what one woman wrote us recently, and then she goes on to say:—"Ethel, who is just past eight, caught a bad cold last August. The child is of a highly strung, nervous temperament and could not be kept quiet in bed. We tried everything we could think of to cure her cough. But, the cough became worse and from a rosy, healthy, sturdy girl she became pale and thin. Nothing we did seemed to stop the cough and by this time regular spasms of coughing had developed. These coughing spells left the child weak and completely tired out. I believe that in a short time the cough would have reached the child's lungs. After trying everything I could think of, I saw an advertisement for Carnol, saying that this preparation would build one up. I got a bottle from the druggist and before it was half finished my little girl had almost completely shaken off her cough. Her cheeks began to get back their old colour. She started to put on flesh again and would run and play all day without being tired. Today, after having taken two bottles of Carnol, she is looking and feeling better than she has ever felt in her life."

Carnol is sold by your druggist and if you can conscieptiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle and he will refund your money. 4-122

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

ABRAHAM FILION.

EMMA JANE EDWARDS

Alleged to have been responsible for the death by strychinine poison of Ernest Edwards, his mother, Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards, a widow, and Abe Filion, a bachelor, appear before Magistrate O. A. Langey today on their enlarged preilminary hearing in the Police Court, Peterborough. Both are residents in Dummer township.

Ernest Edwards' body was found in the barn yard of his home, 9th line of Dummer, on Wednesday afternoon, April 12, by John Williamson of Norwood, under suspicious circumstances. According to testimony by his mother, who seems to have been the last one to have seen her son Ernest alive, the body had lain in the same spot since the afternoon of the Monday previous.

An inquest was held in Peterboro on April 15 and adjourned till April 27th to secure an analysis of the dead boy's stomach. At the enlarged inquest on the 27th, after examining a number of witnesses the case was further enlarged for two weeks, the report of the analysis of the stomach not having reached the County Crown Attorney's department from Toronto.

On Saturday, May 6th Abraham Filion and Mrs. Emma Jane Edwards appeared in the police court, Peterboro, charged with the murder of Ernest Edwards, and the preliminary hearing was enlarged until Saturday, May 13, when it was again adjourned until today, May 18.

At the closing of the inquest on Thursday, May 12, the report of the analysis made in Toronto for the Attorney-General's Department disclosed that a tremendous dose of strychnine had caused Ernest Edward's death, and the jury brought in an open verdict of death by poison.

It is alleged that the dead boy had resented the relations between his mother and Filion.

Dr. Hastings, Medical Health Officer for Toronto is anxious to rouse the public to the desirability of demanding wrapped bread. He will go again into the price of wrapped loaves with the manufacutrers, as he considers an extra cent a loaf excessive. "Unwraped bread is one of the filthiest articles of diet on out tables", he states. "It is inconceivable that the human race will toerate such filthy conditions. Any individual with a reasonable income should prefer to pay the extra cost rather than eat bread which he knows on many occasions must have ben handled in a dirty way."

"I Am So Tired"

"THIS teaching seems to keep one's nerves at high tension all day long. The children do worry me terribly at times.

"They seem to lose all interest in their lessons in the spring, and how I will ever get that Entrance Class through their exams. is more than I can guess.

"If I could only rest and sleep at night it would not be so bad. But I cannot. My appetite is gone, and I feel completely discouraged.

"I believe it is all from my nerves. The strain of this school is too much for me. I wonder if Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would do me any good?

"Strange I never thought of it before, for I know that lots of teachers depend on it in the spring to carry them through and keep up their energy during this trying time.

"If I could only get the mothers to give it to their nervous, irritable children I am sure that would help some, too."

In Toronto and also in Peterborough, teachers have noted the effects, when children have been given milk to drink. One of the teachers at May school, stated that those pupils who drank milk were much brighter than the ones who did not.

After the address the Home and School Association voted $10 towards furnishing free milk daily to those pupils who were undernourished and yet could not afford the small sum necessary to purchase it. 50 one-half pint bottles of milk are delivered to the school daily. This is a worthy cause, and deserves more attention from those who are interested in the well-being of children.

Let All Assist In Prevention Of Cruelty To Animals In This City

Tag Day Saturday Should Meet With a Generous Financial Endorsation of the Humane Efforts of the Local Society — A Worthy Cause.

The Peterborough Humane Society, affiliated with the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is holding a tag day on Saturday, for the purpose of raising funds to employ an inspector on whole or part time to investigate and report cases of cruelty to animals in the city and vicinity. The society, which had its inception in Peterborough some months ago, has been depending on the voluntary and generous assistance of one of its members to investigate cases, but the member, a busy gentleman in his own calling, is unable to devote more time to the work.

Peterborough's citizens are rather apathetic about the work of the Humane Society. In Toronto, there is a flourishing branch, with an immensely busy central office, where hundreds of calls come in every day, and where is maintained a lethal chamber that effectually and instantaneously disposes of irreclaimable cases.

It might surprise some to know just how many cases of cruelty to animals of all sorts, to birds, insects, to working creatures that go about in perpetual silence, come up in the course of an investigator's rounds in Peterborough. Horses suffer the most, and yet horses are supposed to be the most intelligent of the "dumb brothers" of human kind. From country and city come reports of treatment which causes them suffering. A horse in poor condition, driven along country roads, prodded by sharp sticks; a horse belonging to a traveller left standing for long, weary hours, unblanketed and unfed, in zero weather; a horse thin and overworked, with a lameness of two years' standing; another with five galling sores under its harnessing; a bony nag, drawing a heavy delivery waggon against the square Dutch collar that should only be used for light work; horses, in several instances, in such miserable shape that they were ordered to be shot to put them out of their misery. There is a horse working here today, supposed to be one of the finest beasts every brought into the city, old and broken-down, and dragging out its last days with a man who has a reputation for killing his dumb helpers. There are cattle and horses housed in cold weather in buildings without doors or windows; places where cows and young calves have been discovered in bad condition, one where five out of seven yearlings died of starvation; and there are always with us the effervescent delivery boys that run their beasts up hill and down hill, the every-ready whip in hand, and the callous youths who rent delivery nags for long, grueling hours of steady running on hot Sundays.

Perhaps cruelty, in many cases, begins at home. The little boy who will tear the wings from flies, try to find out just how long a kitten will live when in circles by its tail, and stone song-birds, will not be likely to grow up with much regard for brute creation, but where natural inclination is lacking, the fear of punishment sometimes makes up for it, and this is what the society would like to make possible.

Freckle-Face

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Absent Minded

An absent-minded telephone subscriber and an evidently equally absent-minded telephone operator met over the telephone on Sunday, with somewhat peculiar results. The subscriber wanted a certain number, but through force of habit, when she went to the instrument she called her own number, that of the 'phone at which she was sitting. Central informed her politely and veraciously that the line was 'busy'. The subscriber impatiently hung up the receiver, and immediately the bell rang. Then, when she didn't get an answer to her reponse, she wondered what was the matter. "No one answered", she said. An appreciative listener explained the situation, by which the lady failed to achieve the desired result to herself over the 'phone.

PERSIAN FIGURES.

Many of the new gowns are made of silk with and all-over Persian design. A favorite method of trimming them is to outline some of the larger figures with colored beads.

Dishes From Ham Scraps

LITTLE scraps of ham work up into most delicious and attractive made dishes.

Cold boiled or broiled ham is best to use. Ham that has been fried has a stronger taste that is rather unpleasant in a dish that must be cooked.

Toasted Muffins With Ham Filling.

Split muffins. Spread both sides with butter worked to a cream and lightly seasoned with mustard. Fill with ham mixture and put together like a sandwich. Toast first on one side and then on the other. Serve very hot.

HAM MIXTURE—Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon curry powder, ½ cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 4 tablespoons tomato catsup, ¾ cup chopped ham.

Melt butter and cook over a slow fire till brown. Add flour and stir over a hot fire till brown. Add curry powder and cook a few minutes. Add boiling water slowly, add Worcestershire sauce and catsup. Stir until boiling. Add ham and heat thoroughly, but do not let boil after adding meat. Use immediately. Cold boiled ham is preferable to broiled or fried ham.

Potted Ham.

Two cups chopped lean ham, ¼ cup chopped fat ham, 1 teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon mustard.

Put chopped meat in a bowl and pound to a smooth paste, adding paprika gradually. Put the extra fat trimmed from the ham in a frying pan and cook slowly until all the fat is fried out.

Press the pounded meat firmly in a sterilized jar, strain over the tried-out fat. Let stand till cool. Cover the meat with the fat to the depth of at least one-fourth inch. If there is not enough ham fat to completely cover the ham add lard. When cool cover tightly and store in a cold place. This ham is excellent for sandwiches. The ends of hams can be boiled and used in this way.

Ham Timbales.

Two tablespoons butter, ½ cup stale soft bread crumbs, 2/3 cup milk, ¾ cup chopped cooked ham, 1 dessertspoon minced parsley, 2 eggs, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Melt butter, add bread crumbs and milk and cook, stirring constantly till perfectly smooth. Add ham, parsley, pepper and eggs slightly beaten. Remove from fire and turn into individual molds. Small custard cups will answer. Set in a pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Turn out of molds onto a hot platter and surround with white sauce to which two hard boiled eggs have been added.

Academic Interest In Genoa Parley

Three Camps Dispute the Proper Accenting of the Name.

Peterboro is not without its interest in the Genoa Conference, although the spirit of that interest might be termed an academic one, centring, as it does, about the proper pronunciation of the word. For years and years, men and women and children have gone along, tlking about Genoa in free and easy terms as the reputed birthplace of the discoverer of America, and never pausing for a moment to wonder whether they were pronouncing its name correctly or not.

Just where the argument started in Peterboro is not known, but the attention of various erudite gentlemen has been drawn lately to the proper accenting of Genoa. The factions were divided into two camps, one strong and firm for the emphasis of the first syllable, and the second maintaining that it should be placed second. Matters have been complicated lately by the introduction of a third party, which spilts up the name like this; Ge-no-a and divides the accent pretty equally between the two. References to dictionaries only afford disturbing comparisons, with conflicting, cabalistic signs which might be interpreted in either fashion. It seems there is some peculiar mark labelled a "diaeresis" which has to be considered in this connection.

At any rate, when it comes to saying "Genoese", which the dictionary describes as "relating to Genoa. An inhabitiant of the city", no one, probably, will want to place the accent on the 'o'. It is too awkward. The easier way is to put it in the first or the last three letters.

FESTOONS OF FLOWERS.

A popular use for flowers, both on hats and gowns, is to hang them in festoons. Many of the summer hats have flowers falling from the brim and reaching to the shoulders. Many of the gowns have corsages at the waist, with foliage and ribbons falling down to the hem. They're delightfuly suggestive of summer.

BLACK AND WHITE.

Black monkey fur is an effective trimming for a dinner gown of white georgette crepe.

"The Torch" To Be Put On In Y.W.C.A.

A Play Centering on the Ambitions For Wealth, Fame, Beauty.

One of the junior clubs in the Canadian Girls in Training group, the C.O.S. club, whose title stands for their motto; "Christ first, Others next, Self last", are putting on a little play entitled "The Torch" on Friday evening of this week in the Y.W.C.A. The girls are from twelve to fourteen years of age. Miss Leta Brownscombe superintends their meetings, with Miss Marjorie Ingall assisting in the production of the symbolic little play, written by Miss Mary Edgar, of Montreal, who went to India many years ago as a Y. W. C. A. worker. The plot centers about the ambitions for wealth, fame and beauty indulged in by a group of camp girls, which are changed by dream fairies to aspirations towards more spiritual things, the desire for beauty becoming a longing for the consciousness of loveliness in all things; the wish for wealth changed to a desire for wisdom; and the ambition for fame to a craving for honor.

An Evening With Music On Friday

Closing Exercises Peterborough Conservatory of Music.

Closing exercises of the Peterboro Conservatory of Music are being held in the Grand Opera House on Friday night this week, when an exhibition of the year's work by the pupils in the various departments will be given. The two orchestras attached to the Conservatory will give instrumental numbers; the thirty-piece adult aggregation, directed by Mr. R. Gliodon, and Miss Palmer's childrens' orchestra of twenty members. Senior pupils in the several departments are taking part in the musical programme, with vocal numbers by pupils of Mrs. M. H. Park and Miss Florence Scott; instrumental numbers on the piano by students under Mr. Carlos Buhler, Mr. Gliddon, Miss Bessie Elcome and Miss Olive Johnson; violin selection by a number of pupils of Miss Edwina Palmer, and popular music on the Hawaiian guitar and the ukelele, rendered by Mr. Harry Wagner's Hawaiian Guitar Club, an aggregation of some twenty people.

There will be a one-act comedy, "The Son-in-Law Elect", staged by the Dramatic club, under direction of Miss May Urquhart, who has charge also of the aesthetic dancing offerings. Altogether, about 150 people will take part in the closing exhibition, with a short period allotted to each departemnt. Recitals by junior pupils of the Conservatory will take place in turn later on in the Conservatory hall.

CHAPTER XL

ETIQUET IN LETTERS

In sad contrition, I went to work to gather up Jack's laundry. In my search for used handkerchiefs I came upon a small envelope in his raincoat pocket.

"Fine paper—certainly no bill!" I turned it over. "Mrs. Herrod's writing! Addressed to Jack's office. Now if she must write to my husband, if her letters are merely friendly, about chess and nothing more, why does she not send them to Jack's home?"

I thrust the thing back into my husband's pocket, afraid that if I held it I might read it. I had been brought up to despise persons who read other people's letters.

Why yield to temptation, when doubtless, I could know what was in that letter for the asking? Just as Mary Smith could know all about Andy's affairs for the asking. But she would not inquire. Well, neither would I!

I would not read that letter and I would not speak about it to Jack, and if Mr. John Cuthbert Madison cared to have his wife know what his lady friends wrote to him he could show me!

And anyway, according to our prenuptial agreement, I hadn't the slightest right to object. I was bound by our contract not to be trivial, I was supposed to trust my husband, and to be above suspecting that he would cherish a sentimental letter from Mrs. Herrod.

And I kept saying to myself that I did believe in Jack—only—only what reason, what excuse had Mrs. Herrod for mailing her note to Jack's office rather than his home?

Fortunately Jeanne Alison came in the afternoon We planned our clothes for the motor trip and studied the road maps. To know where you are is part of the fun of an auto tour. More than once I started to ask Jeanne what I would better do about Mrs. Herrod's letter, then I decided that as a spinster Jeanne would have positive views of an aggressive nature. She would be for direct action while I, as a married woman had already discovered that diplomacy has its place in wedlock.

Jeanne is always a welcome guest even when I have a heartache and want to mope, and so of course I asked her to dine with us, and thus spoiled my chance "to make up" the minute Jack entered the door.

For in spite of the discovery of Mrs. Herrod's letter, I wanted to have Jack reassure me a dozen times that he loved me, and that he didn't love anybody but me, and wasn't pretending to, anywhere nor at any time.

As every angle of our modern suite seemed to be visible to Jeanne seated in the living-room, Jack and I "made up" partially and unsatisfactorily in a corner of the kitchen.

Never before had I found Jeanne superfluous. She really is quite a wonderful girl, Jack calls her a peach.

After dinner we set off to the Little Playhouse.

"It's Jack's first view of 'Skoal,'" I told Jeanne. "Usually he plays chess with Mrs. Herrod when I rehearse. But she's gone north for the summer."

"Therefore friend husband has a chance to take care of his wife!"

Was Jeanne sarcastic? I couldn't guess. She gave me an odd glance. I know her well enough to realize that she thought me a little idiot for some reason. I wished I had told her all about the letter I had found. Perhaps I was an idiot not to have read it.

(To Be Continued)

"Clarissa's conduct toward you surprised and shocked me, Deeford. When the time seems appropriate, I shall talk to her. Meanwhile," she seated herself, "I must look after my guests, and just as soon as I can locate Lady Brood I shall try to get a few moments to myself. Clarissa is running wild—"

"I fear Duchess, that talking will have no effect."

"I am not in the habit of talking without effect! To what do you attribute her refusal?"

"May I speak my mind freely?"

"Of course."

"Then let me say with all respect, I fear she has had her head turned."

"What do you mean? By whom?"

"By Mr. Disraeli."

"Charles!" The Duchess's tone indicated her surprise and indignation.

"Pray don't misunderstand me! Clarissa is very young. She has made a hero of this—Jew. He talks to her in his persuasive and magnetic way, and, what is far more dangerous, he encourages her to talk to him, fosters her foolish—hem!—her high-flown ideals and enthusiasm. The consequence is that I seem uninteresting—uninspiring—in a word unromantic."

"I warned Glastonbury something dreadful would happen if we had that person here. What am I to do? The Duke quakes in his shoes at the sight of him!"

Charles, who had been standing near the great windows, quickly approached the Duchess and said:

"Here he comes now—Disraeli, I mean. With him are Lady Baeconsfield and Clarissa."

"I'll take Clarissa with me, and talk, to her," said the Duchess rising.

"And I'll talk to Mr. Disraeli," said Charles.

"Be careful, Charles!" warned the Duchess.

"Oh, I'm not afraid of him!"

As Disraeli entered the great room, the Duchess made her exit throught the casement, and carried Clarissa off with her. Lady Beaconsfield excused herself, to return to "letter writing" as she put it.

XIV.

"Ah, Deeford! Thumbing a book—courting the Muse?"

"No, I neither read novels, nor write them."

"Pity. Innocent recreations, both; and the latter is lucrative."

"Mr. Disraeli—"

"There now, Charles! I know that tone of voice so well—"

"What do you mean?" asked Charles, approaching the Prime Minister angrily.

"It's the tone of an angry man. Now, what can have put you out?"

Charles was on the point of speaking, when Disraeli stopped him.

"No. Don't speak. Interruptions are annoying. If they hadn't interrupted me the first time I addressed the House, I might have become a vestryman and respectable."

"Really, Mr. Disraeli, you make it difficult to speak to you seriously."

"Oh, never talk seriously. Keep your grave face for your jokes."

"I never make jokes," said Charles, soberly.

"The man who never jokes is a standing joke to the world."

Charles decided he was no match for Disraile, at repartee, so he plunged at once into the business at hand.

"Mr. Disraeli,—Clarissa—has refused me."

"Yes?"

Disraeli spoke gravely. Approaching the older man, Charles said:

"And I, sir,—I attribute her refusal to your influence."

"I see," said Disraeli looking keenly at Charles.—"I see I was thoroughly justified in thinking well of you."

"What do you mean?" asked Deeford.

"You have courage or you never would have said that to me."

"Pray, why should I not say it?"

"Because it is true. And when a very young man speaks an unpleasant truth to a very old one—he shows absolutely reckless courage."

"There was no other way?"

"Oh, yes. A hundred ways. Do you take a girl's 'No' as final?"

"I suppose she knows her own mind—'

"Certainly, but make her change it."

"How?"

"I am glad you are asking me to help you—because I am interested in you."

"Interested in me?"

"Deeply."

"Why?"

"Because England stands in terrible need of men of your stamp."

"I cannot see that," said Charles, somewhat contemptously. "England is doing very well. Lord Deeford spoke in a fine, oratorical manner as he went on: "England was never so prospoerous as now. She has a wise aristocracy, an industrious middle-class and a fairly contented peasantry. All we need is a few modern changes to silence the agitators. Other nations envy us."

"Splendid! Splendid!" cried Disraeli. "How many old Tory squires I've heard talk just like that. And that's how they have talked since the beginning of things. That's how they talked when we lost America; when the Indian mutiny burst upon us; when our soldiers froze and starved in the Crimea; when we deserted Denmark, and when we sat idly by while France and Germany flew at each other's throats It's just that talk that has lost us all our friendships."

"Ah! Continental friendships! Frog-eaters! Beer-swillers!" Charles spoke contemptuously.

"Is that how you talked to Clarissa?" asked Disraeli.

"I do not discuss politics with women," said Charles.

"I do."

Disraeli took the young man's arm, and forced him into a chair. After a little pause, the Prime Minsiter said: "See, man! See! England is as isolated as a ship lying off the coast. Her crew know nothing of what may call the land-lubbers. They go on shore now an then for a debanch; and they only hunt out the vice, they come back with a headache, and righteously thank God, they are not as other men!"

Charles was about to flare up. But something held him back and he obeyed without resentment whenDisraeli motioned him to silence. He was eager to protest, angry at being over-awed, yet fettered under that spell a fascinated him.

"I tell you a ferment is at work all over the world. Titanic forces are unchained in America, forces you have no conception of. The spirit of nationality has awakened in France, in Germany, in Italy. New wine has been poured into the old bottles and an explosion must follow sooner or later. I shall not live to see it, but I hear the seething of the yeast! But you—! My God, what things you will witness!"

"Take care you are not asleep! All the nations must expand, and everywhere our empire is in the way. Russia, for instance. Now, while England stands alone, while France is cripples, and before Germany has recovered—now is Russia's opportunity to snatch at India. With India lost, the whole fabric crumbles: and England sinks into insignificance."

Disraeli stood up and looked Charles squarely in the eye.

"Now, do you see why Clarissa refused you? These are the things you do not seem to feel though you know them—yet she feels them though she does not know them. Do you wonder she wants a man of action? Do you wonder she will not be content with being a mere Duke's wife?"

HUMOR BRIGHTENS THE LEGAL OPINION.

Judge Says Couple Are Too Much Alike to be Wed or Separated.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Lawyers are flocking to the Law Associations' rooms in City Hall to read and laugh at a "tabloid tale" in the form of an opinion in a divorce case handed down by Judge Henry A. Fuller of the Luzerne County Court.

Among the tomes filled with pompous phraseology of the law, Judge Fuller's opinion shines forth by reason of that brevity which is the soul of wit. Two hundred and twenty-two words long, it contains 29 epigrammatic sentences.

Opinion of Epigrams.

His opinion in the divorce case of "Kmicz vs. Kmicz" follows:

Divorce — Cruel and barbarous treatment.

Divorce will not be granted to the husband on the ground of cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to person where it is shown that there was no course of bad treatment on one side more than on the other.

Libel in divorce by husband against wife.

Issue on cruel and barbarous treatment:

Answer by wife.

Trial by judge without jury.

She his second.

He her second.

Her dowry to him five ready-made children.

His contribution to her the same number.

None added since.

She, without vestige of human loveliness.

He, without a mark of masculine attraction.

From start to finish a perfectly inexplicable and hopeless connubial absurdity.

"Mutually Mean."

One averred ground of divorce her cruel and barbarous treatment.

Another, indignities to his person.

Only proved specific instance of former, his nose broken by her use of a stove lifter.

Only proved specified instance of latter, her unladylike repudiation of his husbandly authority.

Nose possibly broken in self-defense, as testified.

Unladylike behavior possibly incited by his own lack of good manners.

No course of bad treatment on one side more than on the other.

Blame balanced as six and half a dozen.

Mutually mean.

He mean enough to seek divorce.

She mean enough to resist.

Parties too much alike to have been joined in marriage.

Also too much alike to be separated by divorce.

Decree refused with allowance to respondent of $25 for counsel fees to be paid by the libelant.

The sheep and lamb market unchanged. Mutton sheep ranged from 9.00 to 10.80 and fair to good lambs from 11.00 to 11.40.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 18. —(Canadian Press.)— Although during much of the time yesterday wheat showed a material advance in price for May delivery, the market taken as a whole averaged lower. Re-selling on the part of foreigners was a bearish factor. The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 3-4c. down, with May $1.45 1-2 to $1.45 3-4, and July $1.27 1-8 to $1.27 1-4. Corn lost 1-4 to 5-8 and 3-4c. and oats 1- and 1-4 to 3- and 1-2c. In provisions the outcome varied from 7c. decline to a rise of 5c.

Estimates that the arrivals of wheat here to-day amounted only to 120 carloads, a total considerably smaller than has been the rule of late, appeared to be the chief reason for a sharp but transient upturn in the value of May wheat.

CHICAGO, May 18. Canadian Press. — Wheat underwent a sudden break in price yesterday, nearly 3c a bushel for aMy delivery, but later rallied. Emergency measures permitting grain in railroad cars here to be used in settlement of May contracts, formed the only apparent weakness for the transient weakness of the market. Closing quotations were unsettled, at 1-4c net lower to 1-2c advance, with May $1.37 3-4 to $1.37 7-8 and July $1.24 to $1.24 1-8. Corn gained 1-8 to 1-2c; oats finished a shade off to 1-4 to 3-8c up and provisions varying from 5 to 7c decline to a rise of 25c.

STERLING RATES.

Sterling demand 4.4878; Sterling cables 4.4909.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)—The domestic trade in cash grain was quiet yesterday. The condition of the local flour market was unchanged. The undertone continues easy in the millfeed market and trade in rolled oats is slow. Prices are firmly maintained under a good demand in eggs. There is an easier feeling in the butter market. The cheese market is quiet.

It's the Valleys in Paint That Make it Poor

The Valleys are the thin streaks
The Hills are the thick streaks

PAINT streaks are caused by the brush marks. No matter how much it is brushed, if the paint is cheap the brush marks are bound to show.

Good paint levels up to a smooth surface. Cheap paint dries with hills and valleys that are alternately strong and weak.

Just as a chain is only as strong as its weakest link, so is a film of paint only as good as its thinnest places—the valleys.

Most paints are made of only three things. Lowe Brothers High Standard is made of six—three more ingredients that exhaustive laboratory and practical tests have shown to be necessary to make good paint.

Add to this the fact that these ingredients are more finely ground, and you can understand why High Standard will always smooth out to a uniformly thick surface. Which is also the reason it lasts longer, and looks better as long as it lasts.

Come in and see the sample panels and ask for literature.

A cross section of a cheap paint film looks like this.

High Standard goes on smooth and stays smooth. That's why it looks better and lasts longer.

LOSING YOUR VITALITY

This Condition Often Follows Acute Diseases.

Debility is a loss of vitality not affecting any one part of the body, but the system generally. When debility follows acute diseases, convalescence is slow and one's strength does not return as it should. An attack of grip or influenza often persists for months. The same condition often follows an attack of pneumonia, fever or other acute diseases. Every body recognizes that the remedy for debility is to build up the blood, because the blood goes to every part of the body and any improvement in its condition is quickly felt throughout the system.

In the cases of simple anaemia, or debility following acute disease, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found beneficial, because they enrich the blood and through the blood strengthen the nerves. This was proved in the home of Mrs. J. A. McNeil, Bass River, N.S., who says: "My daughter Beatrice was taken down with pneuomnia, and following this did not seem to gain strength. She still continued taking the doctor's medicine, but I could not see that she was gaining, and I decided to give her Dr. William's Pink Pills. Before she had finished a box there was some signs of improvement, and she continued the use of the pills until she was able to go around again the picture of good health. I now always advise mothers with growing girls to give them these pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CONFERENCE HAS COMPLETED WORK.

Genoa Conference Will Break Up To-Morrow. Plans For Future Meeting at The Hague.

GENOA, May 18 (Canadian Press). — The Hague has been definitely selected as the meeting-place for the experts who will further examine the Russian problem, it was announced last night.

Arrangements for The Hague Conference in June were practically completed with yesterday's acceptance by the Russians of the proposals submitted to them, which have been amended so as to provide that a truce between the various Powers will continue for a maximum of eight months.

A meeting of the full political Commission of the Conference will be held this morning, and the final plenary session probably on Friday.

Premier Lloyd-George hopes to start for England on Friday afternoon.

The process verbal relating to the Lloyd-George plan for dual commissions to meet at The Hague, which was presented to the Rusisans on Monday last, was adopted with an annex. With the amendments carried yesterday by the Sub-commission, it will be sent to the Washington Government probably with a letter from the Secretary of the Genoa Conference, which is likely to be considered to-day at a meeting of the full politcal commission.

Clause six of the annex to the process verbal, which refers to the truce or preliminary pact of non-aggression, was amended in such a manner as to make it clear that the truce, as well as applying to the Russian Government proper, will apply also to the eight Republics allied with Russia. This would bring in the Far Eastern Republic, with which Japan has been vainly trying to conclude a general treaty.

CURRIE HALL WAS FORMALLY OPENED.

Latest Addition to Royal Military College Named For Sir Arthur Currie.

KINGSTON, May 18 (Canadian Press). — Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Militia, yesterday afternoon formally opened the Sir Arthur Currie Hall, the new assembly hall of the Royal Military College.

The Minister, who was received with military honours at the hands of the cadets, paid a warm tribute to the work of the R. M. C., 99 per cent. of whose graduates, he said, had made good. He extolled the value of military training, even if there was no war or sign of war. He also referred to the need of physical development if man was to do his best work.

The Minister referred to Sir Arthur Currie, who was present, and spoke appreciatively of the great services he had rendered during the war.

Sir Arthur also spoke, and he, too, enlarged upon the value of physical training. He reminded his hearers of the splendid response Canada had made to the call to arms, and declared that the service and sacrifice of those who served overseas should inspire Canadians to tackle their problems with a will, and prevent them from seeking a life of slothful ease.

The commandant of the college, Sir Archibald MacDonell, presided, and spoke briefly.

Rev. Father Nicholson, W.C., also delivered a short address.

Last evening Hon. Mr. Graham and Sir Arthur Currie were the principal speakers at the annual dinner of the 21st Battalion, held in the Armouries.

FIFTEEN BOILS ON NECK AT ONE TIME

Any one who has suffered from boils can sympathize with poor old Job.

There was no Burdock Blood Bitters in those days, so Job had to suffer in silence. Nowadays no one need endure the misery of boils.

Boils are simply evidences of the bad blood within coming to the surface and just when you get rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

All the poultising and lancing you may do will not stop more coming. What you have to do is take and the blood will be cleansed of all its impurities, and then every boil will disappear.

Mr. Roy McSwain, High Bank, P. E. I., writes: "I was troubled with boils for some time, and had as many as fifteen on my neck at once. After taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters they commenced to get better, and after I had taken two bottles I was relieved of them and felt much better. I think B. B. B. is a grand blood medicine, and can recommend it highly."

For the past 45 years B. B. B. has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acid and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

"Yokohama Maid" at the Grand

(By Jeannette).

The initial production of the "Yokohama Maid" at the Grand Opera House last night, under the auspices of the Peterborough Council of the Knights of Columbus, and in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital building fund, was a complete success. With no perceptible hesitancies and few lagging moments, the two acts of the Japanese Comic Operetta, which has a strong flavor of "The Mikado - Geisha" productions, went through with an almost professional atmosphere in the excellent choral work and the acting and singing of the principals, all of whom filled their parts to perfection.

The director, Mr. John Ball, is to be congratulated on the complete success of his charming production, in which every unit exhibited the careful training and attention to detail that makes for success in any attempt of this sort. The chorus was especially good, their strong, harmonious tuneful numbers swelling out with splendid effect. The bevy of youths and maidens formed a colorful background for solo work, the flower-like girls in gaily-tinted kimonas and butterfly-bowed obis, with fluttering fans, their stiffly-arranged head-dresses arranged with bodkins and chrysanthemums in conventional Japanese fashion, and the men in bright suits of purple and gold, with tight skull-caps.

The Mayor's Bride.

The humorous theme centres about the romance of the rich and beautiful heiress, O-Sing-a-Song, whose father has decreed that she marry "my estimable but vulgar friend," the heavy-seeming Fateddo, Mayor of Kybosho, not because he has any particular love for the latter, but because he is anxious that his child shall wed a "real, live Mayor," and Fateddo is the only single Mayor that he knows. Miss Anna Gallagher as O-Sing-a-Song, and Mr. Carmel Legendre as Fateddo, divide the honors equally in their intelligent and noteworthy interpretations of their roles. Miss Gallagher makes a charming heroine, appearing as a dainty Japanese maiden in the first act, and as an Americanized edition in the second. Mr. Legendre is the blundering, loud - voiced Mayor, talkative and opinionated, in wonderful orange costume and mandarin moustaches. His inability to write is blamed on "writer's cramp." He announces his intention of marrying his pretty charmer and her not inconsiderable money-bags with a loud abruptness which disgusts the dainty lady, and then, realizing that women are "notional," addresses her as his "lolly-pup" and "sugar plum."

Stung Again.

The young lady agrees to marry her blustering swain within two years from date, and in the meantime is to visit the United States and learn everything possible, so as to make the Mayoress of Kybosho the "most talked-of woman in the country." The return in the second act of the lovely O-Sing-a-Song, in smart sports suit, short skirts and vocabulary of American slang, proves a dreadful shock to the fat Mayor, who announces that his peach has become a crab-apple, and that he is "stung again" when the loss of the lady's fortune follows the discovery that she has become the bride of another. He thereupon rejects the idea of "hari-kari," the Japanese suicide, as being too noble a fate for one as thick-headed as himself, and devises a punishment to fit his foolishness that leaves his hearers gasping with astonishment.

Renewed applause greeted the efforts of Miss Gallegher and Mr. Legendre, their vocal numbers receiving enthusiastic encores. Miss Gallegher's high, light soprano was heard to good advantage in several solos and duets, her companion's full, rich tones making an effective contract. "I Shall Be Proud" and "O, What is a Maiden to Do Today," the latter a concerted lament over the unhygienic qualities of kissing, are two effectively-rendered duets, with "Back Again to Old Japan" and "When a Maiden's Sweet Sixteen" as charmingly-sung solo numbers by the lady. In the trio, "I am the Mayoress of Dollarsville," the rejected suitor accompanies his singing with a fantastic dance that brings down the house.

"Unrequited Love."

As Kissimee, the companion of O-Sing-a-Song, Mrs. Joseph Dwyer is eminently satisfactory. Her lovely contralto voice, with its sweet, rich appeal, was loudly encored in her duet with Mr. K. Picard, singing with his usual proficiency in the part of Knogudi, the pessimistic secretary to the Mayor, who loves sweet O-Sing-a-Song, but announces his "desperation" at losing her by allowing the willing Kissimee to propose to him. Mr. Picard does some fine work in his love scene with his charmer just before the pretty "Good-Bye" number. He and Mrs. Dwyer sing "Unrequited Love" to an enthusiastic house, and join in the final sextette with splendid effect, the joyous "Wedding Bells Will Soon Be Ringing."

One of the daintiest musical numbers was the "O Powder Puff" song, by Mrs. Grover Halpin, as Tung-Waga, an elderly nurse; and Art Costello has a small but effective part as "Ah No," the love-sick Chinese laundryman from the U.S.A. in resplendent green and black suit, pig-tail and elongated pipe. Mr. Costello sings "Suki Tong" in fine voice.

A melodious introduction to the performance, "Listen, O Ye People" is splendidly sung in Mr. E. Bartley's powerful, sonorous tones, in the part of the herald of Kybosho, "Talkasi," and Mr. L. Picard, as the spotlessly - clad policeman, Muvonu, sings "Attention Ye." Mr. V. M. McCabe is Harry Cortcase, the American lawyer, who captures the Japanese heiress, and sings "A Heart Once Went" with good effect. The Misses Lottie Hogan and Anita Legendre are Hilda and Stella, American tourists, in stunning costumes, who join in a tuneful number, "And Thus You See," with O-Sing-a-Song and Harry.

The Nodding Dolls.

The Japanese Nodding Dolls, a septette of fascinating Japanese maidens, in pink and blue costumes, with Miss Dorothy Garden as the central figure, in white with metallic lace drape, have a vocal offering that is particularly attractive, in the song of the Japanese doll, done with stiff, jerky gestures. The Misses K. Garden, K. O'Keefe, E. Murray, K. Masterson, G. Heffernan and H. Heffernan, compose the balance of this harmonious little aggregation.

A portion of this charming production that adds considerably to its effectiveness is the staging, under the direction of Mr. George Lynch. Nothing has been omitted here, either in the prettiest of lighting effects or in the properties, which include a gorgeous "rickshaw" for the arriving Mayor, and a cherry-tree background for the second act, which might add to the general attraction of the piece. And the accompaniments of Miss Ida Sanderson are, as usual, a performance that leaves nothing to be desired.

As an example of what may be done with amateurs in the way of bringing out genuine musical talent and histrionic ability in local performers, to a pitch of almost professional excellence, in an entertainment that is bright, gay and colorful, the production of the "Yokohama Maid," to be repeated again tonight at the Grand, leaves little to be desired.

TORONTO, May 18—(Canadian Press).—Lady Astor, famed chiefly as the first woman member of the British Parliament, captured the hearts of Torontonians on her first visit to Canada yesterday, by a series of bright speeches delivered to various representative bodies.

She had luncheon at Government House, addressed a big women's meeting in Conversation Hall, visited the Parliament Buildings and urged Legislature to have women members in the House, attended a reception of the wives of the Cabinet Ministers, returned to Government House for dinner and afterwards proceeded to Ottawa with her husband, Lord Astor.

THE VALUE OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

By F. M. DELA FOSSE

When public libraries were in their infancy in the country it used to be a common query when friend met friend, "Where does their usefulness come in?" Perhaps the question was not altogether without a certain amount of justification, because there was a time when the borrowing of books from circulating libraries seemed to be confined to ladies of fashion and a select circle of dilettanti. It is almost needless to add that the books affected by the class referred to were mostly books of fiction.

But the hand of time has effected many a change since then. Empires have waxed and waned and the manners and customs and ideas of people have undergone a metamorphosis with them. Some of the changes have been for the better and some for the worse. Sentiment died with our grandmothers, and in place of the tearful but wholly virtuous books that used to delight them we have now a certain vogue in fiction that is anything but lovely and anything but virtuous. But to counterbalance this retrogression in the novel, we have an overwhelming amount of literature that is in the highest degree beneficial and which, through the agency of the public library, is as open to the masses as it is to the affluent.

It is in the dissemination of such literature as this that the public library proves such a boon to the public, and when one takes into account that the good fiction that is published far outweighs the bad one can realize what a mighty influence for good the public library is to the community.

As the years pass by this influence is bound to increase, for the growth of butiness can only be increased by the growth of knowledge, and the moral and mental faculties can only attain to higher excellence and efficiency through converse with all that is best in religion and science and philosophy.

A Valuable Gift.

When one hears somebody (as occasionally happens at the present day) railing at the foolishness of supporting an institution like the public library, the thought inevitably arises in the mind that the speaker can never have taken the trouble to exercise the intellect that God has given him. A moment's thought will show anyone that if it were not for the blessings of printer's ink we would still be lost in the mazes of superstition and be absolute strangers to most of the gifts that the world at present supplies. In place of the printed page we would be at the mercy of the scribes and culture would be represented by a very select few, and ignorance (with a big "I") by the multitude.

The printing press has handed to us the teachings of Christianity and has opened up for us all the paths that learning in its many branches would have us pursue. The rich and the poor, the decrepit and the strong, the young and the old, have equal access to all the treasures that wise men and women have presented us, and any individual who can find it in his heart to say today that the public library is of no benefit to the commonweal shows the starkest kind of insensibility to which human nature can be subject.

It is an unfortunate thing that, apart from the comparatively few who can find no pleasure in seeing their fellows enjoying community blessings like a public library, there are enemies infinitely more deadly to its usefulness within its fold of patronzers. I refer, of course, to that unspeakably mean specimen of humanity who, as selfish as he is base, mutilates books and papers and doesn't scruple to steal a whole volume when occasion offers.

Mutilating Books.

Our civilization has not come to such perfection yet that society stands ready to overwhelm such a culprit with the contumely that he merits. It is only when a man's private hoard is touched that he raises the hue and cry after the offender. It is a totally different thing when he is only infinite simally injured. But every page torn from a book and every cutting taken from a newspaper and every picture abstracted from a book of prints lessens the value of the library by so much, and in some instances lessens it very seriously. Such thefts often entail the greatest annoyance on people engaged in reference work, and words cannot adequately convey the anguish and bitterness that they rouse in the breasts of those who endeavour to keep them in secure custody.

Everyone should be interested in the preservation of a public library, and if these few words will have been powerful enough to touch the hearts of those who have been guilty of such crimes in the past and to deter others from like deeds, a little bit of good will at any rate have been accomplished. F.M.D.

THE PROOF of CONCRETE'S LOW MAINTENANCE COST

THE earlier concrete pavements are now twenty years old. A large mileage is more than ten years old. Maintenance figures show more and more clearly the economy of concrete construction.

With increased experience in laying Concrete pavements, there have come improved methods of building them — with the result that the maintenance economies demonstrated by the earlier Concrete roads are further excelled by those of more recent construction.

Comparative maintenance figures may be misleading as they may not take into account differences in age or wide variations in the items included in the statements. Properly comparable figures will unmistakably point to the marked economy to be effected by building

Permanent Highways of Concrete

Directly comparable figures are given in the latest maintenance statement of the Toronto and Hamilton Highway Commission as they are compiled by one organization and refer to different portions of one continuous highway. The costs are for labor materials and superintendence on the surface only and are taken from the 1921 Report.

BARGE TRAFFIC ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

To Operate Between St. Louis and St. Paul.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—(Canadian Press). — Negotiations have been about completed between the War Department and Edward F. Coltra, of St. Louis, who has been prominent in promoting barge traffic on the Lower Mississippi, whereby batge traffic will be opened on the Upper Mississippi between St. Louis and St. Paul. This barge traffic on the upper river will operate in close conjunction with that on the lower river and it will be utilized in the main for the handling of coal and other heavy freight.

In a word, if the present plans go through, barge traffic on the Mississippi from St. Paul to the Gulf of Mexico will become a reality. The service on the Upper Mississippi is expected to begin late this month.

While this is going on, news comes from Pittsburgh to the effect that enormous quantities of iron ore and other freight are being moved down the Ohio and the Lower Mississippi in barge fleets.

The importance of this rehabilitation of the interior water traffic of the United States after three years of disuse of the waterways is great. Effect of it on railway freight rates is expected to be marked.

It looks now as if both big business in this country and agricultural interests, owing to their opposition to high railroad freight rates, were intent on promoting the use of the inland waterways.

The revival of traffic on the Mississippi and Ohio has close relationship with the movement for developing the St. Lawrence ship channel. Once negotiations for a treaty on this subject are concluded, it will unquestionably be found that the support for the St. Lawrence waterway is great. This support is part and parcel of the support which the country is manifesting to the cause of more extensive use of the inland waterways wherever they can be used effectively in handling freight more cheaply than the railroads will handle it, or at least, have been handling it in recent years.

TORONTO, May 18. — (Canadian Press).—Official note appeared last night of the assignment of Jule and Jay Allen who built the Allen Theatres. The assignment will not affect the theatres.

GREATER TEA CONSUMPTION IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The reduction of the English duty on tea by four pence a pound will undoubtedly result in greater consumption on the part of the public of Great Britain, which is now by far the largest tea - consuming country in the world. This increased demand will tend to raise the present abnormally high market, and an increase in cost of teas throughout the world may be expected.

ARRESTED EVERY 152D DAY OF HIS 71 YEARS.

Contractor, Aggrieved at U. S., Purposely Broke Laws.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—A strange feud with the Government that had lasted many years was ended here recently by the death of Peter Bitzer, the chief factor in this unique drama of life. Bitzer was arrested on an average of every one-hundred and fifty second day of his life of 71 years. He openly violated the law to avenge a fancied wrong by the United States Government almost half a century ago, and not for the profit there was in it. It is said that, on the countrary, Bitzer persisted in his illegal acts although they were slowly depleting his small fortune, and that while arrested nearly 175 times for violating the Prohibition Law he was an abstainer.

When a young contractor just starting out in life he was security for another on a piece of Government work in the Louisville Harbor. A flood swept away the work, so the story goes, and Bitzer was held to his bond. This was said to have ruined him financially. Legal battles for many years ended only in disappointment for Peter and he is said never to have become reconciled to the justice of the Government's action.

Bitzer's first effort to retaliate came when he attempted to evade the tax on oleomargarine. For this offense he served a year in prison. When national prohibition came Bitzer repeatedly violated the law, it is alleged. He was frequently convicted, generally escaping with a fine. He, however, served several short prison sentences.

COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK HEART WAS SO BAD

Many women get weak and run down and unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung.

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and wretched. But how can a woman be strong and healthy when day in and day out she has to go through the same routine of work sweeping, dusting, cooking, washing, etc. Is it any wonder that the heart becomes effected and nervous, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells and can't sleep at night.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

are the best remedy to tone up the system and strength the weakened organs.

Mrs. Daniel Bezanson, Loganville, N.S., writes:—"As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me.

"My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep, I would take smothering spells, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but no results. A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is."

AL. HECKMAN IS LIKELY CHOICE AGAINST BIRDS

Petes' Right-Hander Will Be Called Upon to Battle With Johnny Oulette in Opening Game.

LINDSAY'S NEW MEN.

The Petes are rounding into shape for the opening clash with Lindsay in the Central Ontario League race at Riverside Park Saturday and with another good workout tomorrow night they should be in fairly good condition to tackle Johnny Oulette and his team ma es in the initial battle.

The line up for Saturday has not been definitely decided but the infield will likely see either Kirn or Keslick at first base, Johnston at the keystone position, Holyman at short stop and Collins at the hot corner. The iptching staff will consist of Heckman and Kirn, right handers and Ecobinshon and White port siders with the odds favouring Heckman as the selection for Saturday's game. The former Easton boy has a nice fast ball and good control and if he is called upon to slant them over against the Greybirds the Lindsay crew will have a battle on their hands.

The Lindsay team have secured new artists on their line up the list including a catcher named Cummings the later's brother at third base and a recruit shortstop, Brownscombe.

The game is called for 3 o'colck sharp with Umpire Boundy of Cobourg in charge. The initial ceremonies will be short and snappy. Mr. Mayor Taylor will pitch the first ball with Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., at the bat and Dr. McPherson, President of the P.A.A.A. acting as catcher. Then the batteries will be announced and the big game will be on.

The indications point to a record opening day crowd as fans are coming from all around the district to see the Central League season ushered in.

BOWLING SEASON WILL OPEN SOON.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18.—Permission has been granted by the Dominion Government to the Lawn Tennis and Bowling Association to lay a water line from the Grand Road to the Bowling Green, passing underneath the canal. This work which is being done on the green is progressing favorably and it is expected that the season will open within a week or ten days.

WILLIAMS AT BAT

KEN A T BAT.

Williams faces the pitcher. He uses a rather thin-handled bat which he grips close to the end, as is customary with most free swingers noted for their ability to hit home runs.

There is nothing strained about the position of Williams as he steps into the batter's box. His position is a rather careless one, the hands gripping the bat in a loose sort of fashion. It is when the pitcher starts his delivery that Williams tightens up his grip on the bat and gets a toe hold preparatory to taking a healthy swing at the ball.

Note these characteristics of the home run hitter; eyes on the pitcher and the ball; bat gripped close to the end in a loose manner, feet spread with the right foot several inches closer to the plate than the left.

Acciental ?

Yesterday was the closing date under which ball players could qualify under the residence rule. The Oshawa Reformer objects to the term importations so in explanation we might say that if by chance or accident otherwise a first class ball player should happen to take up his residence in Port Hope, Cobourg, Oshawa or any of the other towns of the Central League he would not be permitted to take part in the games. Of course, all players who by chance or accident, arrived on or before the 15th day of May, will be considered eligible. Does this suit the sporting editor of the Oshawa Reformer?—Port Hope Guide.

Brownscombe, who is employed with Pickering & Cote, electricians of Lindsay, has turned out with the Greybirds lately and shapes up like a likely shortstop. Brownscombe hails from Uxbridge, but will probably be hailed as a Port Hope boy, as the family once lived there. —Lindsay Post.

Fraser, officers of the Aura Lee club; President Canning of the Maitlands; Manager Sharpe, of the Union Bank; Players Crookes, Muston, Stephenson, Conacher, Burch, Rodden, Meeking, Cain, Rutherford, Hogarth and Brown, who played one game for Aura Lee at the start of 1920-21 season, but who is not a resident of Toronto. Glad Thomson was the only absentee and he was out of town.

The players were questioned in connection with various rumors that have been flying around for some months, but, as there was no evidence other than hearsay in connection with the past season, the committee dealt mainly with the gift of $2,000 to the Maitland club by the Aura Lee club after the 1920-21 season was completed and record of which is not made in any of the books produced by the Aura Lee club.

All the players denied that they had been offered inducements to play with the Avenue road club this last season, or that they had been promised rewards for their services. They did not demand or expect any gifts or souvenirs but played. They one and all denied any knowledge of a bet by individual players on any of the game. Stewart Hogarth denied that he had ever stated he would not play in the second game against the Granites, and stated that the best of harmony existed among the players throughout the past season.

Lacrosse

Dr. Sutton has called a meeting of the joint O.A.L.A. and city league executives for Saturday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. All the members are requested to attend. The particular business to be definitely disposed of it the appointment of managing officials for the junior O.A.L.A. team and also to discuss the financing of this team and the juveniles. The juniors will practice on Saturday afternoon at Central Park and are requested to talk over the question of their management in order that they may have something to submit to the Saturday night meeting.

It may not be out of place to mention while the season is still young and none of the games have been played that the Lacrosse club expects the players to be gentlemen on and off the field. And one of the signs of a gentlemen is clean language. Profanity will simply not be tolerated, and steps will be taken in the city league to penalize in some effective way any players who offend in this respect. It is not a pleasant subject to refer to, but the aims and ideals of the Lacrosse Club might as well be understood right now. Nothing has occurred to inspire this reminder, and it may not be needed. If the boys live up to the record of last year's junior team, lacrosse will be able to hold its head high in Peterboro though and unbroken string of victories may not be checked up.

And while on the subject of conduct, it may be opportune to caution beginners and those who have learned the game, that referees will be specially advised in the city league to discourage rough play. If any player descends to the butt end method of checking, he will spend most of his time on the side lines where he can't do any harm. The game can be fast and strenous without being unnecessarily rough. The public can be won back to lacrosse if the game is kept clean. That is the desire of the O.A.L.A. executive, and it should also be the ideal of the players themselves.

AFTER DEMPSEY FOR TITLE BOUT

Tex Rickard Would Like to Sign the Champ to Fight Wills or Jess Willard.

NEW YORK, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, homeward bound from Europe, will be afforded an opportunity to sign for a titular bout almost as soon as he steps off the steamer here on Friday.

He will be met, in all probability, by Promoter Tex Rickard, and will be asked at once to meet either Harry Wills or Jess Willard during the months of July or September. In case Dempsey demurs, Rickard will ask the champion to name an opponent whom he would face either on July 4, or Labor Day.

Rickard is desirous of staging another heavyweight title contest during the coming summer and while he is not prepared to bid as high for Dempsey's services as he did in the bout with Georges Carpentier last year, he stated yesterday that the champion could have a contest if willing to box for a purse or a percentage in keeping with his present financial position. If Dempsey elects to box Wills, the bout will be held in or near Montreal on July 1, Dominion Day. A bout with Willard would require more time to be arranged and would not be staged until on or about Labor Day, in Jersey City. A Montreal bout would probably be for fifteen rounds to a decision, while a Jersey contest would be for twelve rounds, without decision, to conform with the State law.

JERSEY CITY LAD MARBLE CHAMPION.

Defeats Pride of Washington in Interesting Tournament.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The same affection which put out of business the right hand of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales during his Canadian our, lost Mike Troaino the World's Marble championship. Mike, his managers admit, left Washington for Jersey City one day too soon. That extra period of hearty handshaking on the part of Elks, prominent citizens and enthusiastic admirers was the undoing of Mike. His shooting hand, bruised and swollen by continuous welcoming pressures, failed him in the pinch.

Today, his rival, Buster Rech, of Jersey City, is champion marbler of the world, the pride of the town and the owner of a real silver cup, with engraving 'n' everything.

The Dempsey-Carpentier fight thrust into oblivion, the real "battle of the century" was fought on Jersey City heigths before a breathless two thousand on Saturday afternoon. Adults formed a considerable part of the crowd. Otherwise staid business men stood on tip toe and gasped and cheered with just as much enthusiasm as the freckle-faced "skinneys."

Buster Rech was defender, Mike contender, by virtue of a series of eliminated contests in school playground tournaments. Each is fourteen years of age.

Under Ten Rules.

The championship match was played under ten rules in a twenty-foot square, the centre of which was marked with a one-foot circle. In the sporting lingo, the inner circle is known as "fat". Within the fat ten marbles were dropped. Each contestant had a shooter. When a player with his shooter hits the other fellow's shooter, he wins a game. But a player cannot go after his opponent's shooter until he has first knocked one of the marbles out of the fat.

A brass band and a megaphone artist introduced Mike and Buster. Mike won the toss, but Buster knocked a marble out of fat first, making his shooter "poison." Mike had to poison his shooter, too, before he chased the Jersey shooter, and this he speedily did. The first game ended twenty minutes later when Jersey plunked the Washington sphere. Two minutes and thirty seconds was all Buster needed to capture the second game. From a distance of fifteen fet he landed on Mike's shooter—a feat considered unique in the history of international marbles.

In his moment of anguish Mike was still the thoroughbred sportsman. Shaking hands with the victor he expressed the conviction that the better man had won. Nor in the fastness of his headquarters did he attempt any alibi.

GOOD EXHIBITION OF LACROSSE AT OVAL

About a hundred or more lacrosse fans made the long trip to the Nicholls Oval yesterday evening for the first exhibition game of the season and were treated to an interesting sample of the sport considering the fact that the game was only starting here about the end of May last year. Two picked teams played to a 4-3 score. Sutherland's team took the short end of the score from Ward's team. The game was close all the way and the deciding goal came only a few minutes before the close when Gene Donovan shooting from a difficult angle put one past Lou Lebar, who played goal for the Sutherland clan. As an exhibition it was highly encouraging to the advocates of lacrosse, and the interest shown was especially gratifying. It afforded Sutherland an opportunity of looking over the material from which he will pick a team to play an exhibition game in Campbellford on Empire day.

HAVELOCK, May 18. — The first half of the School Midget series has resulted in a tie between O. O. Burn's "Hawks" and Becky Jacks' "Tigers" each winning 2 and losing 1.

The play off which will probably take place this week will attract a large number of pupils and older sports, as the rivalry between them is intense.

The youngsters are improving every day and will soon be able to handle the sticks.

STEEL SHAFT CLUBS WILL BE ALLOWED.

CHICAGO, May 18.— (Canadian Press.) —The Executive Committee of the Western Golf Association yesterday announced that its investigations and tests showed that steel shaft golf clubs afforded no mechanical advantage to players and their use would be permitted in all tournaments held by the association. The United States Golf Association recently barred the clubs, but it is understood that this decision will be reconsidered.

The committee, in a statement, said that the clubs submitted for tests had some markings and grooves and explained that its approval concerned the shafts only and not any special markings.

HAROLD LLOYD "A GREAT GOB"

"Every Nice Girl Loves A Sailor' are the first words of the chorus which Alice Lloyd used to sing in such rollicking manner, and it is an acknowledged fact that the boys in the Navy are a trifle more popular even than the soldiers attractive though they be. And Harold Lloyd is no exception to the rule. His uniform in the Sailor-Made Man is so becoming to him that were there any doubts on the matter, they would vanish after seeing him with the dark blue suit, white shoes and little white hat. By the way, he loses his hat while on shore leave and, not wanting to go back to the ship without it he notices a resemblance between it and a lovely looking dessert on a serving table so, with great ingenuity, he secures, the sweet and places it jauntily on his head. When the hat is mysterously found, our young hero does not object at all to eating the head covering of the moment before. On the battle ship there is a sailor whose euphonious name is "Rough house O'Rafferty", who is so strong that he can swim the English Channel with a sea-lion under each arm.

At a certain point in the picture he is about to make things quite lively for Harold, whom he considers pretty tender—his admiration is won however by seeing the new recruit, knock out the ship's champion—it is quite by mistake, of course but it isn't necesary to tell all one knows so Mr. Lloyd takes all the credit and proceeds to try to live up to his reputation. During a fight among the sailors and natives out in the far Eastern port where the ship puts in for a short period, there is a great fight in which the comedian equals Jack the Giant Killer by laying low a half dozen husky men in just about as many minutes. From start to finish, the picture is a scream—the response is spontaneous and Harold Lloyd's position is more secure than "THE SPEED GIRL" AT THE CAPITOL.

Even actresses and moving picture favorites have their troubles—they must obey some of the laws some of the time. This fact was clearly demonstrated when a hard hearted California judge, sentenced beautiful Bebe Daniels to seven days in gaol for speeding. Every one said he wouldn't, he just couldn't convict that lovely, sweet, daring Miss Daniels, but he did. Perhaps, her ubiquitous and hard working press agent may have overdone his front-page stuff, but it certainly was a mad-looking judge that read the fact in glaring head-lines that "Los Angeles Judge was being vamped by the principal in the case being tried for exceeding the speed laws." It may have been his great probity, his unflinching devotion to duty, and it might possibly have been the fact that the judge was a married man—but he did convict her and she had to serve a seven day sentence at a common, ordinary gaol. Of course, she did not have to don "stripes" or exist in bread and water, but she did accomplish some good while she was there; an unfortunate girl who had come to grief through association with "The Speed Girl's" fiance who is in reality a villain, falls a victim to the beauty and charm of her more fortunate sister-inmate and eventually wins her release and freedom through Miss Daniel's efforts in her behalf. A first-class comedy, with a good story, delightful scenery and a real race make this an unusually good picture.

AT THE REGENT.

HOOT GIBSON IN "HEADIN' WEST"

Laughs are in order for those who see "Headin' West," the Universal photoplay of the new West in which Hoot Gibson is starred at the Regent Theatre.

The star's broad grin and his nerve are put to good use in the action of a breezy story written by Harvey Gates and directed by William Craft. From the beginning the familiar Gibson smile is called for by one situation after another, and the only better smile is the audience's when the humor strikes home.

Entering the story from the top—via airplane and parachute —the hero's first adventure is trying to ride a bucking bronco on which a saddle has been strapped over a thorn with great care. From then on the split is fifty-fifty between humor and thrills.

However, it is not all snappy comedy. The star has time in the passing of the story to build up a definite characterization. The figure he impersonates is likeable, boyish and spirited and yet, more important than that, it is a figure nearly everyone has seen in the past two or three years—the man who came back from the war and didn't meet any outstretched hands. The hero in this case fights his way valiantly and gains more than he left behind him, including a peach of a heroine whose name off screen is Louise Lorraine.

EXTRA FOX ATTRACTIONS

This is Fox feature day at the Royal. We have succeeded in securing for to-night the much-talked of mance and modern chivalry called Fox six reel photodrama of ro- "The Rough Diamond" with Tom Mix in the leading role. Every movie fan knows Tom Mix as an exponent of Western and ranch life. In "The Rough Diamond" he is seen in a new character, when he takes part as generalissimo in the patriot arm of a South American revolutionist. The play opens with Mix as Hank Sherman a Western cowboy. As Hank plays dolefully on a guitar of his own make to the consternation of every live thing within hearing, Gloria Gomez and her father, an exile from a South American republic, accompanied by Sanchez, another exile, pass the musician (?). He frightens and then interests Gloria by telling her he did not believe so beautiful a woman as she lived. Hank is hired by a circus to display his performing mule. At the show he meets Gloria and her father. The old man is so impressed by Hank's personality he persuades him to join in a filibustering expedition to South America. Hank joins in with Gomez and helps make him President. A happy ending with love amongst the pals, pineapples and piccaninnies!

Then there is another Fox Feature with Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker called "Extra! Extra!" This is the story of a big newspaper "brat" in which the cub reporter finds romance and 'a big story'. The Sunshine Comedy entitled "Laughmaker on high gear! Also we have Larry Semon in a comedy called 'The Sawmill". This laugh maker cost more to produce than any other comedy that Mr. Semon has appeared in.

Social Calendar

The Spring Tea and Military Euchre card party held yesterday afternoon and evening in the officers' quarters and recreation room at the Armouries, under the auspices of the 57th Regimental Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was well attended in both instances.

The afternoon affair was particularly attractive. The large outer reception room in the officers' quarters was bright with trailing green ferns in baskets, and a huge green bowl filled with masses of perfumed apple blossoms. The long table in the tea-room, presided over by Mrs. E. B. Clegg and Mrs. V. Eastwood, was arranged with Venetian lace, silver candelabra with pink-shaded filet lace tops, and centred with an effective silver basket of pink tulips and apple blossoms. Mrs. R. Hall was convenor of the tea, and guests were received in the afternoon and evening by the regent and first vice-regent, Mrs. Joseph Mills and Mrs. T. W. H. Young.

In the evening, Mrs. John Holmes acted as convenor for the military euchre, with 37 tables playing, and Mrs. Joseph Crowe sueprvised the service of refreshments.

A Number of Property Changes. Seeding Completed. Deaths in the District.

MILLBROOK, May 18. — Mr. W. O'Brian has sold his house to Mr. C. Cullum, and Mr. Ira Nattrass has bought the latter's present residence. Mr. O'Brian intends puchasing a farm and returning to his former occupation for the sake of his health. Mr. Robert Stone has succeeded him as clerk in Mr. S. E. Eakin's hardware store.

Going to Port Hope

Mrs. and Miss Hansman of Anne street, are offering their cosy little home for sale, intending to return to Port Hope to reside. Mr. Errol Hansman, who has been for some time in the West, will remain with his mother and sister.

Returned Home

Mrs. J. C. Kells, who has been spending the winter at the home of her brother, Mr. Moore, Elizabethville, New Jersey, returned to her home here, on Wednesday. Her daughter, Miss Anna Kells, who has been with her sister, Mrs. H. Sims, at Barrie, for some months, returned with her mother, the latter also being Mrs. Sims' guest for a week before coming to Millbrook. Miss M. Christie came back at the same time as Mrs. Kells, having been in New Jersey with her.

Improving Property

Mr. William Ward is improving the Mitchell property which he purchased last fall, having torn down the old frame house, and is now building a new residence on the lot nearest Mr. W. Deyell's house. The foundation is already laid, and the house now being erected will be nearer the front of the property and facing on Anne street.

Womens' Institute

The Women's Institute of Frankford recently held their annual meeting when all the reports read showed a most successful year with a number of improvements to the village as a result of the Institute's activity. Mrs. W. Latta was elected Vice-President; Mrs. Latta is a sister-in-law of Rev. W. Higgs, who spent four years on the Millbrook circuit.

Seeding Completed

The majority of the farmers in this locality have completed seeding, weather conditions having been favorable for the purpose. On the whole the fall wheat is looking well, and it is hoped no untoward circumstances will prevent a good harvest this season as they did in 1920.

On Electric Line

Four farmers residing near Bloomfield are installing a rural electric line from Bloomfield to supply power and light for farm work, and it is suggested that Durham County farmers might profitably follow their example.

TREASURE HOARD CONFISCATED FOR FAMINE SUFFERERS

Tons of Silver and Gold Taken From Churches By Soviets.

MOSCOW, May 18.—Silver by the ton, gold by the hundredweight, pearls by the bushel, and diamonds by the peck. Dumped into wooden boxes, jute sacks, pasteboard cartons or merely wrapped in parcels, all this treasure hoard awaits opening and sorting at the storehouse for valuables confiscated by the Soviet Government from the churches and synagogues of Russia for the benefit of the famine sufferers.

The correspondent of the Associated Press was permitted to visit the five-story loft building which constitutes the storehouse, by consent of M. Kalenin, peasant president of Russia and head of all the famine relief organizations.

One floor of the building, about 100 feet long and 45 feet wide, is already nearly filled with the articles confiscated in Moscow alone, these amounting to more than 90,000 pounds of gold and over ten thousand precious stones, mostly diamonds. Requisitioned articles from the Provincial churches are to be stored on the other four floors.

Yield of Valuables.

Each of the 624 packages in this big room are sealed and they are stacked in tiers, reaching almost to the ceiling. The yield from some of the monasteries was too large for a single package, overflowing into smaller boxes stacked beside them.

A rough list of articles confiscated accompanies each box as it is brought, under heavy guard, to the storehouse, but the exact value only will be known when appraisers open the parcels and sort their contents. These experts and also the workmen who will unpack the boxes are to be stripped of their ordinary clothing and provided with pocketless suits when the task of sorting begins.

Motor trucks fairly bristling with bayonets of the soldier escorts drive up to the treasure house all through the day and night bringing boxes from the churches. From the outer gates to the roof, the building swarms with guards. To get permission to enter it at all, one must first visit another building, where some other State treasures are stored, and where soldiers even prevent pedestrians from walking on the side of the street on which the building fronts.

WALNUT TREE CALLED JINX BY THE SAILORS.

"Coffin" Wood, or Even Nuts, as Cargo, Causes They Uneasiness.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Potomac River boatmen believe that the walnut is a hoodoo tree. Not all the men who sail longboats, sloops, schooners, "pungies" and "bugeyes" on the wide, long and historic estuary of Chesapeake Bay hold this belief, but it is believed by so large a number of these mariners that one is warranted in classing it among the superstitions of the Potomac. All the river men know this superstition, and some of them flaunt it and are sometimes wrecked.

But then there are some persons who hold hoodoos and jinxes in such light regard that they will begin a voyage on Friday, sit 13 at table, walk under a ladder and pass a pin whose point is toward them.

It is not easy to understand why a noble tree which has so many excellent uses should be considered an unlucky tree, but the fact is that many Potomac watermen will not have walnut timber in any part of their craft, will not carry walnut timber or lumber as a cargo and will not take on board a bushel or 20 barrels of walnuts, no matter what freight rate the shipper is willing to pay.

Favored for Coffins.

One probable explanation of the unluckiness of walnut is that for 250 years or almost as long as white men have lived in the Potomac country, black walnut has been the favorite wood for making coffins. The 'black walnut casket" figured in nearly all funerals before the wood became as costly as it is, and even now only those who were exceedingly poor and forlorn are buried in pine coffins. All others are laid at rest in black walnut caskets. It was the enduring qualities of the wood and the fact that walnut trees grew everywhere in the Potomac country which caused black walnut to be the chosen coffin wood.

They used to built boats of black walnut, just as they did barns and fences, because the timber was plentiful, cheap and durable, but many of the boats built of walnut were blown ashore, wrecked on sand bars and mud flats, sunk in collision or burned. Many lives were lost. Boats were also built of oak, yellow cedar planking, and they had some mishaps, but more boats were built of black walnut than of any other wood and more black walnut boats were lost by accident than boats of any other wood. It got to be unlucky to build a boat of coffin wood or death bed wood or pistol stock wood.

Industry Is Hit.

The shipments of walnuts out of the woods along the Potomac River and its hundred wide creeks to the Washington and Baltimore markets is not now much of an industry, though it used to be. The walnut tree has not become rare, but those fine specimens, 80 to 100 feet tall, and straight, and four to seven feet thick, which the lumberman liked are pretty scarce. Walnuts are still sent to market in sacks and barrels, but they generally go by train, wagon or truck. That is because only a sloop or schooner here and there will take them on board. Walnut and walnuts are unlucky.

At Neabsco Creek, 30 miles below Washington, where the Richmond & Washington Railroad crosses the creek within half a mile of the Potomac, the bridge tender in repairing his fishing boat used a stout piece of walnut as a new stem. Close to that bridge anchor many fishing boats and into the creek come many sailing craft engaged in general traffic. The bridge tender having made repairs was to give the renewed sailboat a tryout. Most of the river sailors in the creek were his friends. They had all warned him against the use of walnut in making the repairs. They were gloomy and grouchy that the bridge tender had persisted in the use of the ill-fated wood. He asked them, one after another, to go on the trial sail with him out upon the broad Potomac. Each refused. None of these sailormen would have anything to do with a boat in which the hoodoo coffin wood had been used.

The boat made its tryout trip all right and is still in service. It sails fast and gracefully. Nothing has happened to it yet, but the prophecy is that some time or another an accident will befall it.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS NORTHEY.

A very sad and sudden death occurred at Haultain on Thursday morning, May 4th, when Sarah Jane Sanderson, beloved wife of Thomas Northey, was found dead in bed. The news of her death comes as a great shock to her many relatives and friends, as she was in her usual health when she retired on Wednesday night. Death was due to apoplexy.

She was the daughter of the late Edward and Elisa (Fletcher) Sanderson. She was born in 1862 on lot 9, con. 6, of Township of Burleigh, in a pioneer cabin where the "Haultain stopping place" now stands, and was the first white baby born in the township. She has been a life-long resident. She was first married to Caleb Long, who died in 1895. In 1898 she married Thomas Northey, who now survives.

Deceased was a good wife, a loving self-sacrificing mother and a devout Christian. Her life was one of meekness, patience and love. A life that those coming in contact with her, would be inspired to noble deeds and self-forgetfulness, thus when one thinks of her it is with a warm glow of love in their hearts. She was a staunch Methodist.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her sorrowing husband, one son, Herbert at home; one daughter, Mrs. George Lean at home, and six grandchildren.

She is survived also by two stepsons, Roland of Peterborough, Lorne of Douro; two step-daughters, Mrs. H. Hockaday, of Young's Point, Mrs. W. Bickell of Smith, and one brother, Wellington Sanderson of Peterborough. Police Sergeant Wigg of Peterborough, is a nephew.

The funeral, which was one of the largest ever held in the community, took place from her late residence on Saturday morning. Prayer was held at the house, after which the funeral procession proceeded to Eden Methodist church, where service was conducted by Rev. W. Hall. The lesson read was Psalm XXVII. A very impressive sermon was preached from the following text, "Asleep in Jesus." The hymns chosen for the occasion were, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," 'Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Rock of Ages." A solo, "One By One' was rendered in excellent voice by Miss Ella Brown. The psalm, hymns and solo were particular favorites of the deceased. After the service the remains were conveyed to Lakefield cemetery, where interment took place.

The pallbearers were Messrs. R. Northey, L. Northey, W. Bickell, R. Hill, W. Wigg and R. Sanderson.

There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family in their great loss.

"Now the labourers task is o'er;
Now the battle day is past;
Now upon the farther shore
Lands the voyager at last.
Father, in Thy gracious keeping
Leave me now Thy servant sleeping."

GENOA PARLEY HAS GATHERED "GOOD CROPS"

Lloyd George Says The Hague Meeting Non-Aggressive Pact and Reports Justified the Conference.

FINAL SESSION.

GENOA, May 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Lloyd George, in a valedictory address to the Economic Conference to-day, said the Conference had gathered "fine crops," namely, the meeting of the Hague, the Non-Aggression Pact and reports of Finance, Transport and Economic Commissions, which he said alone justified the holding of the Conference.

"We are now at the end of the most remarkable conference ever held in the history of the world," said the British Premier. "The Genoa Conference will be forever an inspiring landmark in the pathway of peace.

He called attention to the bad effect the Russian memorandum had had on the world, and warned the Russians that if they desired success at the Hague it would be better for them not to enter eloquent presentations of repudiation of their debts.

Europe was anxious to help Russia, he said, but Russia must accept the code of honor which Europe had as an inheritance from centuries of hard working, honest people.

Replying to the appeal of Mr. Lloyd George to modify their economic views, Soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherin said that even Mr. Lloyd George's brilliant eloquence cannot convert the Russian people, who have other prejudices.

"For instance, if one's neighbor burns down one's house he should pay off the damage," said Tchitcherin. "Russians will, however, continue their efforts for peace."

Distribute World Labor.

Premier Facta called the final session of the Economic Conference to order at 9.30 o'clock this morning.

M. Colrat of the French delegation, presented the report of the Economic Commission, emphasizing the urgency of organized and co-ordained efforts for distribution of the world's labor, so as to ameliorate present industrial conditions.

Resolutions were submitted, being on tariff and economic questions.

Laughed at German.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, German Foreign Minister, discussing the economic report, declared that it would be impossible to reconstruct Europe without the aid of the United States. He hoped Germany's contribution to a rapproachement with unhappy Russia would be the basis for peace between the East and the West.

"Peace is what the world demands," he declared amid a storm of applause.

Adjourned at Eleven.

The Genoa Economic Conference adjourned at 1.15 o'clock this afternoon.

Says Tears Will Destroy Bacteria

LONDON, May 19. — Tennyson, it seems, made a mistake in calling tears "idle." Dr. Alexander Fleming, in the laboratory of Sir Almroth Wright, at St. Mary's Hospital, has been experimenting with human tears and has discovered the existence of a very remarkable substance in them. It has been called 'lysozyme."

At the Royal Society's conversazione, Dr. Fleming showed newspaper representatives what the 'idle' tear, with its lysozymic action could do against microbes. He took a tiny drop of a tear in a pipette and gave it as a lethal doze to a good many million bacteria which clouded the liquid in the test tube. Immediately the tear dissolved every microbe in the tube.

In nearly all the tissues of the body and in most of the secretion and excretions, according to Dr. Fleming, there exists this substance, which kills and dissolves many kinds of bacteria. So far, lysozyme has not been isolated. Dr. Fleming says he worked in the laboratory for six months and has arrived at the conclusion that the substance existed. He says it occurs in such varied media as the tissue of some of the lower animals and certain vegetables, such as the turnip.

Other points noted about this highly potent killer of bacteria, are that it is not affected by alcohol, and is not used up readily because of its power of dissolving bacteria after it has started work.

BUILDINGS AT BELFAST BURN

Irish Terrorists Start Fires in Various Parts of the City.

BELFAST, May 19. Canadian Press. — Two hours before the expiration of the curfew period this morning terrorists started fires in various parts of the city, and before 9 o'clock six buildings were ablaze, including offices of the distillery.

A fierce conflict occurred in Dock street after midnight when armed men attacked the barracks of the special constabulary. It is reported that three motor cars conveyed the wounded to the hospitals.

DRAGGED FROM BEDS

Four men were dragged from their beds at Desertmartin, County Derry, early to-day, and murdered: Half of the village was burned. The men were Catholics.

BELFAST, aMy 19. — It is believed here that the outrage was meant as a reprisal for the recent murders of members of the constabulary in South Darry.

The victims were John Higgins, aged 40; Frank Higgins, aged 18; Henry McGreghan, aged 27; and James McGreghan, aged 40. The bodies were found in a heap. The buildings burned included a flour mill, the residence of a Catholic named Wilson, and two saloons.

The residence of Magistrate Hegarty was fired into and a number of other houses were wrecked and their furniture destroyed.

WAS VICTIM OF BOOTLEGGER OR A RIVAL IN LOVE

Liquor Orders, and Letter to Woman Found on Body of a Hamilton Italian.

SLAIN IN SWAMP

HAMILTON, May 19.—(Special to the Examiner).—Killed by some jealous lover, a rival, or a victim of bootleggers, is the theory the police are working on here, in attempting to unravel the murder of a young Italian, believed to be James Lorreo, of Hamilton, whose body was found in a swamp three miles from Freelton in Wentworth county, yesterday. Papers found on the man, show he was handling liquor orders and was also infatuated with a woman. There were several orders for "Scotches" scribbled on a loose sheet of paper and amounts of monies collected for liquor sales.

The Love Letter

The love letter, unsigned, but with the puzzling words, "Yours Devotedly—The president of the worldy langours", shows the murdered man was desperately in love with a woman whom he pleads to know if she is engaged to another man. The letter translated for the Toronto Star by Ernest Taylor, Italian Interpreter, is as follows: "Very kind young lady; your eyes tell me that you can never be cruel towards him who loves you, and I am resolved to speak to you frankly and your will I cannot prove. I hope you will tell me the truth if you are engaged or if you have given your word to somebody else. Or if you have been truly crushed by the pain that was caused you by the last lover. Anyway, swear to me you will be faithful according to that favor that I requested of you in full trust. You will always be my true and sincere friend.. —Yours devotedly, the President of Worldy Langours."

P.S. Sow thornes and you will reap roses.

Another mysterious letter finely written in ink on sheets of a note book, show the man was interested in some Italian Society. But owing to the poor writing, Mr. Taylor was unable to read it correctly.

West Peterborough Liberals Will Shortly Form a Club For Both Sex

It is proposed by the Liberals of West Peterborough to form a Liberal Club with the object in view to hold meetings twice a month, at which meetings some prominent speaker will be present to discuss the issues of the day.

It is also the intention to have the members of the club speak at different times and to discuss the issues from their own point of view.

A small membership fee of not more than $1.00 will be asked of each member and his or her membership will also carry the privilege of bringing their friends to the meetings.

The membership of the Club will not be confined to men alone, but on the contrary it is the intention to ask the ladies to give their hearty support, as from time to time prominent women will be asked to give addresses.

The executive of the Association have the matter under way, and it is hoped to have the first meeting in October next.

LOVED GOLF BETTER THAN WIFE, WHO WINS DIVORCE

Trouble Started When Hubbie Joined Golf Club, After Which His Attitude Toward His Better Half Changed From Coolness to Badness.

NEW YORK, May 19.— The ties of golf grew stronger than those of family for Sterling P. Hayward of Montclair, according to his wife, Mrs. Rachel Bean Hayward, who now lives with her mother in Germantown, Pa., and who has obtained a divorce from Vice Chancellor Fielder in Newark.

Hayward is manager of the Connelly Iron Sponge and Governor Company of New York, is of a prominent Montclair family socially, a stockholder of the Glen Ridge Golf Club and a member of the Princeton Club of New York. He is reputed to be wealthy.

According to Mrs. Hayward, it all started when her husband joined the Glen Ridge Golf Club, in 1910, about a year after their marriage. His attitude toward her began to cool, she said, and he left her frequently to visit the golf club. By 1914 his attitude had changed from "coolness to badness," he spent much of his time journeying from one golf tournament to another and refused to take her along.

He left for one trip to Europe, she said, without even advising her of his plans, and when he returned greeted her at the door with a cool "How do you do?" brushed past her to his room, put on a golf suit and immediately left for the club with his golf sticks.

Hayward testified that the trouble lay with his wife, who, he said, was not respectful to him and was not interested in the things he liked. His wife is considerably younger than he is. He said she had not been accustomed to wealth before her marriage, as he had been, and that she ran up large bills.

Vice Chancellor Fielder allowed Mrs. Hayward $35 a week alimony and the custody of the children.

DEPUTATION AT PHILADELPHIA

R. Hicks and R. L. Dobbin Attending Annual Convention of Waterworks Association.

Mr. Robert Hicks, chairman of the Utilities Commission, and Mr. R. L. Dobbin, superintendent of the Waterworks Department, are attending the annual convention of the Waterworks Association of the United States and Canada, which is being held in Philadelphia this week. They have gone as representatives of Peterborough, and Mr. W. H. Bradburn, also a member of the Commission, is attending the convention at his own expense. He had personal business in New York and deferred his trip so as to enable him to attend this convention for the information pertaining to all the phases of waterworks which he desired to obtain.

Last year's convention was held in Cleveland, and one of the principal subjects discussed was the filtration of water. All the latest ideas in regard to filtering were presented, and Mr. Mason's experience proved valuable in its application to Peterborough's own project. The local deputation is expected home on Saturday.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MALE VOICE CHOIR

Organization Closes a Big Year—Election of Officers.

The above organization met on Tuesday evening in the Woodmen of the World Hall for their second annual meeting and election of officers for the season of 1922-3. A fair representation was in attendance and the past season's work was thoroughly gone over; interesting discussions followed and point to even larger success in the future. President C. B. Adair presided and gave a splendid report, also valuable recommendation for the new executive.

Sec'y-Treas. C. S. Thompson gave a full and minute report of his stewardship, which showed the organization to be in a very sound and healthy condition, financially and otherwise. The secretary's work was highly commended by all present and that a great amount of the success of the choir was due to his untiring efforts.

The chairmen of the different committees also gave their reports and each showed that the work was in capable hands.

The report of the annual concert was read and the expenses and work of such a big undertaking was tremendous, and the officers and members were highly satisfied that a substantial balance was struck. The results were satisfactory, inasmuch as the choir excelled itself and showed that it is improving in quality and numbers, and that their efforts were appreciated by the public of Peterborough by their attendance. They have set a high standard for the Male Voice Choir and it will demand the full support of all the combined efforts of officers and members to improve on their past season's glorious efforts. A great amount of credit is due to the conductor, Mr. J. H. Renwick, during the past two seasons for his yeoman service. He has given his best possible efforts to the one aim at all times and that was for "success." Results are what count, and in this department as in the others, the work was in masterful hands.

After a long and interesting discussion for the good and welfare of the choir, the newlyl-elected executive are looking forward under the guidance of Mr. W. F. Skitch, the new president, to another successful and helpful year.

The newly-appointed officers are:
Hon. Pres—Mr. Edgar Worth.
President—Mr. W. F. Skitch.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. John Anderson.
Sec'y-Treas.—Mr. C. S. Thompson.
Assist. Sec'y-Treas.—Mr. Kerr.
Chairman of—Musical Com., H. F. McKeown; Membership Com, Mr. P. Naish; Social Com., Mr. S. J. Ridyard; Publicity Com., Mr. Fred Sutcliffe.
Past President—Mr. C. B. Allair.
Conductor—Mr. J. H. Renwick.

BOARD TO SIT HERE.

Secretary S. Whatley, of the G.W.V.A., has been advised that a travelling medical board will sit at the G.W.V.A. Hall Monday, May 29, to Tuesday, June 6, to examine all pensioners or problem cases that have applied or will apply for a re-examination. All returned men who wish to face the doctors again must submit their names, regimental numbers and other particulars to the secretary within a few days as all notices of examination must be forwarded to Toronto seven days before the Board arrives. Mr. Whatley was unable to state the personnel of the Board or how many doctors would be here. He said there would be at least two. There are a considerable number of cases desiring re-examination, he said, as it is two years since the board was here before.

Breadless Paris Starts on Tuesday

Bakers Refuse to Cut Price to a Franc Per Loaf

PARIS, May 19.—Paris may be breadless beginning Tuesday unless the authorities are able to organize the bakeries under civic control or to repeal the decree setting the price of bread at one franc per kilogram (about 2 pounds.)

The Bakers' Union served the municipality an ultimatum to-day refusing to reduce the price, which is now one franc, ten centimes, alleging the impossibility of making a reduction owing to the high price of wheat, wages and overhead expenses.

The bakers offer to turn over their shops, bakeshops, ovens, utensils, personnel and stocks of wheat, and let the municipality try to bake bread profitably at a franc a kilogram. The municipality threatens to stand pat, announcing its intention of taking over the bakeries, pointing out that the municipal bakeshops at Chapelle and Belleville are selling bread at 95 centimes.

It is expected that the Government may step in and arbitrate the differences between the municipality and the bakers.

EXPLANATION OF EXPENDITURE ON ARMOUR'S HILL

Original Estimate Was Made on Information Furnished Verbally by the Company.

RAIN STOPS WORK

In view of the sharp criticism in regard to the expenditure in grading Armour's Hill, the Board of Works issued a statement to-day in explanation of the difference between the first estimate of the cost at $700 and the present estimate of $2,400. Ald. Walter Stocker, chairman of the Board, placed the estimate at the latter figure to-day in handing the prepared statement to the Examiner. He said that on account of the rain the work would run over into next week. There was nothing done yesterday and there was no work to-day either. 'Of course when they're not working there is no cost," he said. The rains made the hard pan bottom as slippery as ice, he said, and it was impossible to work on it. The statement issued was as follows:

Original Estimate.

The original estimate of about $7000.00 for grading Hunter street east, in front of the new Western Clock, Company's factory site was made on information furnished verbally by the Company, which indicated that there would be about 1,000 cubic yards of excavation. As soon as definite information was supplied to the City Engineer from which an estimate could be made, it was found that there would be much more excavation than was originally figured on, and the Engineer so informed the Council, as the Board of Works had no funds from which to pay for this unforseen work. The Council then passed a resolution that the City Engineer be instructed to grade Hunter street east, east of Armour road as required to suit the Western Clock Company's plans and that the cost be charged to miscellaneous. The work is being done for almost exactly the cost per cubic yard estimated by the Engineer.

CURTAIL STRENGTH OF MILITIA UNITS

Minimum Strength Peterboro Rangers 229 All Ranks.

The reduction in the militia estimates has not totally eliminated the milita but has necessitated a curtailment in the size of the units until the Peterboro Rangers that used in pre-war days to march out over 500 strong is allowed this year to have on its strength but 229 officers and men. Through a gentle process of eliminations the regiment will be brought down to this level, Lt. Col. (Dr.) A. W. McPherson, Officer Commanding, stated to-day.

The axe of the King government so far has only struck the unit in this one vital spot. Authority has come through for nine days' drill, which for the militia means 18 nights drill. There has been a good turn out at the drills and the result of the curtailment will be to bring the unit to a high degree of efficiency by clearing away some of the weaker timber in the ranks. Dr. McPherson said he did not know what arrangements were being made in regard to a camp. There is a general opposition on the part of officers of all units to a hybrid camp such as was held here last year for the cavalry and artillery, and the experiment is not likely to be repeated. What effect the economy of the government will have on the cadet services. Cadet Commander C. E. Jamieson was unable to state. The idea of the government seems to be, in the opinion of Col. McPherson to give the militia just enough nourishment to keep body and soul together but he felt there was a danger of starving it to death. Col. T. J. Johnston of the Prince of Wales dragoons has on several occasions expressed a similar view.

HOUSING PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL OF WOMEN

A WEEK'S FREEDOM FOR ARTHUR KING

Today's Police Court News —Fined for Riding on Tracks.

Arthur King was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley to-day with vagrancy and remanded for a week. Accused said he had been only off work a week and had worked three days of that. He was ready to go on, he said.

"I'm asking for a remand in this case. There are some things I want to look up in connection with this young man," said the Chief.

"But I'd like to go on, Chief," said the prisoner.

"Well, I'm not ready to go on."

"What's he been doing?" asked the Magistrate.

"Hanging around livery barns. He has a good bed at home but he wouldn't use it."

Magistrate Langley said he would give him bail of $2,000, his own surety of $1,000, and two others of $500 each. King looked rather glum when the Magistrate mentioned this price for a week's freedom.

Riding on the Tracks.

For riding a bicycle on the G.T.R. tracks between Wolfe Street and the Diamond, a young man who had entered a plea of guilty and did not appear before the Magistrate, was fined $1 and ordered to pay costs of $4.50 in Police Court to-day. W. H. Howard, G.T.R. constable, reports a large number of breaches of the Railway Act in his territory, and threatens prosecution to bicyclists, track walkers and other sundry offenders. In the section of the Belleville track, from the Diamond to the river, contempt for the laws in regard to trespassing is most noticeable, he said.

A great many parents allow their children to walk the tracks, knowing that there is grave danger of an accident occurring. The constable would be glad if parents would co-operate with the railway in order to stop this dangerous practice.

A near accident occurred at 12.46 yesterday at the Charlotte Street intersection. A truck drove up Bethune Street, and although the gates on either side of the tracks were down, drove blindly into the face of danger. Afterwards the driver said he did not see the gates down. He saw the 12.46 train coming in from the north, however, when it was bearing down on him, only about one hundred yards away. Seeing the situation, the gateman, with presence of mind, threw up the eastern gates and, responding to the accelerator, the truck got off the tracks just as the train slid into the station. The driver, a little shaken by his close shave, reported to the constable, and a report is on its way to the Safety League at Toronto, who are desirous of getting such information. Had the truck stalled, in all probability, the driver would have been seriously injured, perhaps killed, as the train was just half a block away.

Cheaper Homes and Fewer Luxuries Would Help to Reduce Cost of Living, Declares Mrs. W. R. Morris.

OLEOMARGARINE BILL.

There was a very good attendance of affiliated societies at the monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women, held yesterday afternoon in the green room at the Y.W.C.A., Mrs. A. Mowat presiding. Discussion regarding the help to be given guarantors of the Summer Chautauqua course; the Humane Society's tag day on Saturday; the defeat of the bill to prohibit import and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada, and a talk on the Housing Problem and one on Taxation, by Mrs. W. R. Morris, occupied the attention of the ladies at this meeting.

A motion that each affiliated organization agree to dispose of five or more tickets for the Summer Chautauqua course was carried. The course of lectures and concerts has been guaranteed this year by several prominent men of the city, and the ladies are being asked to help in the sale of tickets. Tickets for the course, which will held in Peterborough during the first week in July, are $2.50. This year most of the speakers have been recruited from the Old Country, with one Canadian included.

Humane Society.

Mrs. S. T. Medd was asked to tell the meeting about the activities of the Humane Society, up to date. Mrs. Mowat reminded the members that the idea of starting a branch of this society in Peterborough had originated with the Local Council of Women some time ago, but, through lack of co-operation by the Chamber of Commerce, the plan had somehow been allowed to drop. Mrs. Medd explained the workings of the organization up to the present time, and Mrs. Mowat asked the ladies to help in every possible way in the furtherance of the work.

Oleomargarine Bill.

The president recalled to the meeting the defeat of the bill to prohibit the importation and manufacture of oleomargarine in Canada. The National Council of Women had interested itself in petitions to the Min-

LAKE STREET SCHOOL PLAYGROUND ENLARGED

The property at the corner of George and Westcott streets, until recently used as a wood yard, has been added to the playground of the Lake street school, for which purpose it was bought some time ago. A high board fence has been erected on the street sides of this spacious lot, which should provide the scholars plenty of room for recreation.

Peterborough Humane Society

WHY NOT HELP US

Our organizaion is constituted on approved lines to carry on a work long needed in this City and County: Humanely educating the rising generation to avoid inflicting suffering on Dumb Animals, and to prosecute for Cruelty whenever such need arises. The gospel of kindness to all animals is our propaganda; the law of Canada is our weapon for enforcing that gospel.

We are a young Society in Peterborough yet, but nevertheless our work so far has been acceptably constructive, and at times preventative.

And now we appeal for Funds in the popular way—

GET TAGGED TO-MORROW!

Give Your Mite or of Your Wealth, as the case may be

That we may continue our humane endeavour, with this community's financial co-operation, curb that savagery which seems to be inherent in some few natures, and strike now at the root of cruelty rather than wait and deal later with inhuman propensities when in full flower. Much ill-treatment of animals is due to thoughtlessness; some is, unfortunately, wanton cruelty; and it is to combat these two evils, which will grow unless checked, that the Humane Society is organized.

NOTICE

The Utilities Commission have decided to make an inspection of all buildings in which City water is used, for two reasons.

1st To prevent waste of filtered water.

2nd To check up all rates charged for use of water.

The inspector will start on this work, Tuesday May 16th and he will point out all cases where the water is being wasted and where this is the result of defective plumbing such will have to be corrected within 30 days, under penalty of turning off the water.

It is pointed out that the free use of water in the regular way is not discouraged by these arrangements, but simply to stop waste.

DEFENCE BILL PASSES SENATE

Salary of $4,500 For Vice-President of National Defence Council Eliminated.

OTTAWA, May 19 (Canadian Press). — The National Defence Bill was finally adopted by the Senate yesterday after the clause creating a National Defence Council was defeated. The chief criticism on this point was the salary of $4,500 per annum paid the Deputy Minister of Militia as vice-president of the Council.

An amendment of Senator Dandurand which restricted emolument to the vice-president of the proposed Council was previously defeated.

Sir James Lougheed maintained that when the Militia Council was created in 1904 it was never intended that there should be additional remuneration to its members for this service. Up to 1916 the Deputy Minister of Militia received a salary of $5000 per annum, which was after wards increased to $6,000. To this was added $4,500 as vice-president of the Militia Council. He maintained that this did violence to the cause of economy. The practice came in during the war, and should be discontinued.

Senator Dandurand pointed out that this additional remuneration was granted yearly by the old Government, and after the war, when the salaries were revised, this was continued for the Deputy Minister.

Finally the cause which creates a Defence Council instead of a Militia Council was struck out, but power still remains under the Militia Act for the Government to create such an advisory body.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall last night was quite heavy, being .72 of an inch, almost twice that of the previous night. This rain has come from the Southwestern States, Texas and Kansas, and has deposited its moisture over a wide area in its course north-eastward. The rain that has fallen today over this section is probably water that has been evaporated from the Gulf of Mexico by the broiling sun of the tropics.—W. P.

BODY OF ITALIAN FOUND IN A SWAMP.

HAMILTON, May 19. Canadian Press. — The body of an Italian about 30 years of age, was found in a swamp yesterday afternoon in West Flamboro. He had been clubbed to death and the body thrown into the swamp. A gold watch and $65 were found in his pockets, indicating that robbery was not the motive. It is thought he was murdered as a result of a liquor quarrel.

FLOOD WATERS ARE RECEDING NEAR WINNIPEG

New Flood Area Reported at Roblin, Where Much Damage Has Been Done to Farms.

SCHOOLS CLOSED.

WINNIPEG, May 19 (Canadian Press). — Conditions were more favourable in the flood areas along the Red and Assiniboine Rivers yesterday. The water is reported receding in the Assiniboine at Brandon and Poplar Point. Reaburn and Marquette report a slight decrease on Wednesday with no appreciable rise during the night. The situation was viewed more hopefully in Winnipeg yesterday, and it is believed no serious flood will occur here. The Red River is gradually rising, but so far no land has been flooded.

A new flood area was reported yesterday with advices from the Roblin district in North-Western Manitoba, stating that the rivers and lake are overflowing their banks.

Roads in the Roblin district are impassable, schools are closed, and many farmers find it impossible to get to town, according to Major H. R. Richardson, M.L.A., tor Roblin, who yesterday asked the Government to have the roads repaired so that the children will be able to attend school.

A big acreage is reported flooded, and a decrease of 40 per cent. in the wheat acreage of the northern section of the Province is expected to result.

Abandoning hope of being able to reap a crop this year, farmers south of the Assiniboine River in the Marquete district are stated to be deserting their farms and renting land north of the river with the hope of growing enough feed to winter their live stock.

Debate on Drury's Radial Bill Continues.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press.) — The debate on Premier Drury's radial bill was continued in the Legislature last night. Edgar Watson, North Victoria, said he thought he was right in saying that the authority and power of Hydro-Electric had been used sometimes in a way in which it should not have been used, in advocating development and voting upon by-laws for Hydro radials.

WANT THEIR MEMBER ON THE COMMISSION.

HAMILTON, May 19. Canadian Press. — Convening here yesterday for the purpose of recommending to Premier Drury a member of their own choosing to be appointed to the commission to investigate the Chippawa development scheme, members of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association again named A. C. Kingstone, K. C., of St. Catharines, as their representative.

DRIVE OF LOGS.

OMEMEE, May 19. — The drive of logs which came down Pigeon Creek from the Carew Lumber Co. limits on the Pogue property on the Manvers bor'er, have reached Pigeon Lake. The passage down the creek was retarded somewhat by the bogs on the stretch above the dam at Omemee. It is a good many years since a drive of logs has passed over the dam at Omemee. The logs are now being cribbed at the lake and will be towed to the mills by the Lintonia.

MUNICIPAL AMENDMENTS BILL RECEIVES ATTENTION

Holders of Properties in More Than One Ward May Vote in Each Ward.

WIDENING STREETS.

TORONTO, May 19—(Canadian Press).—The Ontario Legislature spent most of yesterday afternoon wading through the consolidated bill containing all the amendments to the municipal act which have been favorably reported upon by the municipal committee. The bill was taken up clause by clause in a committee of the whole house yesterday.

The clause which would have limited property holders to one vote by laws was thrown out on division and the law in this respect will remain unchanged, namely that a property owner can vote on these bylaws in every ward in which he has a property.

K. K. Homuth (Waterloo South) and M. M. MacBride (Brant South) the chief supporters of the clause, maintained that it was not fair to allow persons having a number of properties to vote in each ward in which those holdings were located. Often they did not represent more than a few thousand dollars in value altogether, while "nother man with property worth a million dollars had only one vote because it was located all in one ward The present law they claimed was also unfair to the poor man whose interests were often swamped by persons who had votes in several wards.

The members opposing the clause including Provincial Secretary Nixon, who moved that it be struck out urged that owners with widespread interests in a municipalities should have the bigger say when liabilities were placed against their properties. Premier Drury voted with the minority to keep the clause in.

Widening Highways

The longest discussion arose over the sections of the bill entitled "Deferred Widening of Highways" which was finally carried. This bill provides that a city of over 50,000 population, may by bylaw declare that it intends at some future date to widen a certain street and fixes the line to which it is to be widened. It really becomes owner of that property which will be taken by the widening when the bylaw is passed, but the city does not take possession until the date fixed in the bylaw which may be any date between three and ten years. The price to be paid is the value of the property when the bylaw is passed but as the former owner will the meantime payment is not made have the use of the property in until the city takes possession. The land to be expropriated will free of municipal taxes until taken over but a certain tax will continue to be levied on the buildings.

Building Risks

An owner who builds on property included in the bylaw after it is passed, does so at his own risk and cannot recover further than three-quarters of the value of a temporary one-storey structure.

Once a city has passed a bylaw fixing the extent to which it intends to widen a certain street it cannot change its mind except in extreme cases, it being pointed out that it would be unfair to the owners of the city would declare widening a street and after holding up improvements on the property affected for a few years, give up the undertaking. The act provides that the only way the bylaw can be repealed is by a two-thirds majority of the municipal council and the approval of the railway and municipal board of the province who will decide what damages shall be paid the property owners.

There was no opposition to the principle of the bill when it came before the committee yesterday. It was generally agreed that growing cities, had to be protected from prohibitive prices in widening thoroughfares. J. W. Curry (Toronto) who sponsored the bill read resolutions passed by the Ottawa board of control and editorials from Ottawa and Hamilton papers endorsing it, to show that did not affect Toronto alone.

Term Reduced

H. H. Dewart took the position that ten years was too long a term. He moved that it be reduced to five year. Mr. Curry explained that the committee had already reduced the term from 5 years to ten years which he thought should be left at that. The house agreed with him.

Municipal Elections

The clauses of the bill which provide that municipalities may hold their elections on the first Monday in December passed. It also provides for keeping the polls open until six o'clock and requires that the financial statements in such municipalities must be submitted to the electors before nomination day, the last Monday in November.

Hon. D. Carmichael introduced an amendent to the Power Commission act to provide that trustees of a police village may act as a local hydro commission, slightly changes the form of creating rural power districts and provides for commissions in portions of townships which are really urban.

Clash With Premier

The afternoon sitting was enliven ed by a clash betwen M. M. MacBride, (South Brant) and Premier Drury over a question Mr. MacBride placed on the order paper asking if Lloyd Harris is associated with certain large private corporations. The members for South Brant thought it was time it was answered and when the Premier intimated he had not taken any definite steps to get it answered, Mr. MacBride said it was an insult to him to have his questions so treated and insisted that the premier answer. The Prime Minister said he would and called the next order of business. On objection, the speaker ruled that the Prime Minister before calling the order had sufficiently answered what Mr. MacBride had asked. The House went into committee and here the fight continued, until the speaker was brought back and reiterated that Mr. MacBride was out of order in trying to force a discussion of his question.

Modern Version Of Adam and Eve

ABINGTON, Mass., May 19. — Canadian Press. — A modern 'Adam and Eve,' Carl A. Sutter, and his wife, will leave here on Saturday for the woods of Northern Maine, where, according to their avowed intention they will live for six weeks without clothes, weapons or fire, as primitive man and woman.

A reporter for a Boston newspaper will accompany the pair to a village on the edge of the forest and will meet Sutter each day to hear the story of their experiences.

Sutter and his wife, who spent some time at a lonely camp near here last winter, have appeared in vaudeville in a rifle shooting act.

CITY GETS FINES.

Sir Lomer Gouin Introduces Bill Diverting Fines Collected Under Criminal Code.

Between $1000 and $2000 will be saved to Peterboro by the bill which Sir Lomer Gouin has introduced in the House of Commons amending the criminal code so that municipalities may retain fines collected at their expense. If adopted it will cover all fines inflicted under criminal code in which the city prosecuted. Heretofore this money has been paid to the provincial treasurer and while the actual gain to Peterboro is not large it is a considerable item, and will help still further to make the police court self-sustaining. The bill which has been introduced by the Minister of Justice is a fulfilment of his promises to deputations that had urged him to divert these fines from the provincial to the municipal treasuries.

WATERS SWEEP THROUGH TOWN AS DAM BREAKS

Much Property Damage But No Lives Lost So Far at Nicola, B. C. Bridges Swept Away.

FARMS SUFFER.

NICOLA, B. C., May 19. Canadian Press. — Heavy damage was caused but no lives were lost when a veritable wall of water swept through the little town of Nicola yesterday owing to the breaking of an irrigation dam.

All the government road bridges in the vicinity were swept out in the first mad rush of the water, and at least three small houses have been swept away.

It is estimated that the water in the Nicola River rose 30 feet in less than 20 minutes.

The flood came when the dam broke which holds back the water for irrigating the Nicola Lake stock farm, operated by Major Goldman, who is now in England.

Through the streets and lanes of the town itself the rushing water swept with terrific force and with a roar which terrified the inhabitants.

Undoubtedly one effect of the break will be to damage the crops of many farmers, most of their arable land being already sown.

It is feared that farmers living up the adjacent creeks may have suffered extensively, but there is no way of reaching them at present.

Later she was conducted to the Speaker's Chambers, where the Hon. Rodolphe and Madame Lemieux and Lord and Lady Astor shook hands and chatted with each of the guests as they were ushered in.

BRITISH FLAG NO LONGER FLIES IN SOUTH IRELAND

Victoria Barracks Are Formally Turned Over to the Military of the Provisional Government

CORK, May 19. — (Canadian Press.)—The last vestige of British military power in southern Ireland disappeared last night, when at seven o'clock the Victoria Barracks was formally transferred to Captain McNeill for the Provisional Government. Later the barracks was given to the First Cork Brigade under Sean O'Hegarty.

The resentment of the British officers at the transfer was ill-concealed. One of them smashed the windows of the officers' mess with his hunting crop and another ordered a British soldier to cut down the flag staff. In reply to Captain McNeill's protest this officer said: "That flag staff never shall fly a rebel flag."

On the departure of the British soldiers the Republican tri-color was hoisted at the Barracks gate and the Cork Brigade marched through the city to an enthusiastic demonstration.

HOUSE-CLEANING TIME.

There should not be too much haste in connection with the inquiry into the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature. Whatever may be the motives of the members of the House who have made charges in regard to the administration of the O. T. A., and no matter whether or not such charges were made in the hope of gaining political advantage, the fact remains that the people of Ontario are very much interested in this question and they want to see that the truth is brought out. Peterborough, fortunately, has not had much experience with whiskey "spotters," but other sections of the Province have not been so lucky, and it is evident that their methods in many cases have served to bring the Ontario Temperance Act into disrepute. Hon. Mr. Raney may regard the Lennox charges and other allegations against his Department as political propaganda, but he should understand that the Province looks to him to see that the officers entrusted with the administration of the Ontario Temperance Act are not deliberately tempting people to break the law. The evidence offered by some of these operatives does not make pleasant reading. No one expects, of course, that men of the highest type of citizenship could be induced to undertake the duties that these officials are called upon to do, but at least the efforts of Mr. Raney to keep perjurers and law-breakers out of the ranks should be redoubled. He should not hesitate to clean house.

PAVING GEORGE STREET.

Were the city embarking upon an ambitious programme of street paving this year there would be some justification for proposing that a plant should be purchased and the work done by day labor, although even under those circumstances there are many people who, unless the tenders submitted by private contractors were unreasonably high, would prefer the contract system. In the case of the small section to be done this summer, a few blocks on George Street South, the simplest and most satisfactory policy would seem to be, as The Examiner suggested the other night, to accept the lowest tender, which is $1,100 less than the engineer's estimate, and let the work get under way. This section of roadway is a much travelled one, and the sooner it is paved the better. In addition, the carrying on of this work is needed to implement the promise of the city to the Hydro Commission, who, on the understanding that this section of George Street was to be paved, improved their roadway, only to have the municipality fail to go ahead with its part of the work. The awarding of the contract to the lowest tenderer would ensure a prompt start, and would provide employment for a number of men who have been without work for some time. There should be little hesitation in deciding upon this course, in view of the fact that the city is not contemplating street paving on a large scale this year.

A NEEDED WARNING.

It is to be hoped that Librarian F. M. Dela Fosse's article on the value of the Public Library which appeared in last night's issue came to the attention of those most in need of the castigation administered by Mr. Dela Fosse. The mutilation of books and magazines at the Public Library is a matter which concerns every citizen, for the institution is maintained by the taxpayers, and every bit of damage done by the vandals who tear pages from books and steal illustrations from the periodicals represents a loss to the community. It is a queer commentary upon humanity that people who would not think of appropriating anything else that was not their own seem to have not the slightest compunction about deliberately helping themselves to any section of a library book that strikes their fancy. It may seem a small matter to them, but to other patrons who found themselves in possession of a muilated book, it is a source of annoyance, and if an appeal to the better nature of the offenders does not result in the elimination of such conduct at the Public Library, the authorities should try the effect of a police court summons upon the first person who happens to be caught.

THE WELL BABIES' CLINIC.

The steadily increasing work being carried on by the Well Babies' Clinic in Peterborough makes it a matter for regret that the Council could not have provided a larger grant this year for this worth-while institution. Eight physicians are now donating their services to the Clinic, and the number of babies that are examined each week is constantly growing as the operations of the Clinic become better known and appreciated. The educational value of these regular visits cannot be over-estimated. Mothers are advised each week as to the care of the little ones, important problems in regard to diet are settled, treatment is prescribed where need of it is found, and it is not too much to say that the Clinic has been the means of preserving more than one young life. There are people who call the Clinic a "fad." They are the sort of folks who use that description for every movement they do not understand. There is nothing faddish about the aims and objects of the Well Babies' Clinic which simply aims to supply the expert knowledge as to the care of children that is not always available to numerous families. It regards children as the greatest asset of the community and strives to give them a fair chance to live and grow up into strong, healthy men and women. Dropping the humane side of the work out of the discussion, it is a business proposition, and on that ground alone deserves support and encouragement.

"BOY" CRIMINALS

The proposal to extend the age limit from 16 to 18 years under the Child's Protection act, endorsed by representatives of various local welfare organizations yesterday, says the Hamilton Spectator, is one which does credit to their sentiments; for it is certainly deplorable that these young men should be turning in such large numbers to a life of crime, and anything which might tend to save them at the outset of their misguided careers is to be encouraged. If treating them as juveniles will have that effect, by all means let us style them "boys" and treat them as such. But if they are boys, the responsibility for their good behaviour surely rests primarily on their parents. Boys should still be amenable to the discipline of the home; and if they are not, they should be made so.

The great trouble nowadays, as attested by numerous authorities, lies in a weakening of parental authority. No outside agencies can take the place of the natural guardians of youth, and what is wanted more than anything else is a re-assertion of old-time parental responsibility. Sentimentality is a good enough thing in its way; but a young man of 18 is old enough to distinguish between right and wrong conduct and ought to have sense enough to eschew bad company. If he hasn't, a little wholesome discipline on the part of his elders would probably do him more good than making excuses for him on the score of his youth. It is the duty of parents to bring up their children decently, and it is dangerous to condone any failure in that duty.

PARTY FIRST AND NAVY NOWHERE

All three political parties are taken to task by the Montreal Star for their attitude towards the navy question. The Star accuses them all of putting political advantage before the needs of the Empire. Following is an extract:—

If the professional party politicians at Ottawa have any knowledge of events outside of their campaign scrap-books, they never betray it. They "discussed" the problem of naval defence all day yesterday; and not once did they say anything about it. They struck out right and left with savage earnestness; but not at any possible national enemy—only at each other.

It would be amusing if it were not pitiable; and it loses even its appeal to pity in the abyssmal peril it brings to the Canadian people and all we cherish most dearly. These self-centred scramblers after office have apparently forgotten that the nation has just passed through a Great War—of which most of them, by the way, denied the possibility right up to August, 1914—in which more than sixty thousand of our best died on the field of honor. And they show absolutely no appreciation of the grim fact that other wars are preparing to whose blasts they propose to leave us naked and undefended.

The questions that matter to-day are not what the Liberals did in 1910 or the Conservatives in 1912, but what the British taxpayer was able to do in 1922 and what the French budget —let us say—proposes to do in 1923. This business of naval defence is a reality, and not merely a pawn in our sordid and provincial party game. If we do not propose to provide a fighting force to meet a genuine danger, then we had far better save our money for "box cars," as the sapient, short-sighted, parish politicians used to urge so fluently in the anxious years before "Germany's hour had struck."

* * * * *

We are sure our readers recall the black days when such men as Lord Roberts were doing their earnest best to arouse the British nation to their danger. They will remember that we pressed then with all our strength for immediate action in the matter of naval defence because "an emergency" existed —because "the German menace" was only too imminent— and they may remember how the ward and sideline politicians scoffed.

But the deluge came. And if the British Navy which we proposed to strengthen had not stood like a rock between us and danger, our "tin-pot" politicians at Ottawa would not now be discussing whether they will or will not keep in commission ships given them for nothing by the British taxpayer —who has no burden of his own, of course—but how, in the name of a dollar debased like the German mark by defeat, we would ever be able to raise the indemnity which we would then have owed a victorious Germany.

It would be inaccurate to say that our Parliament approachese grave issues in a spirit of levity. The spirit it shows is nothing like so attractive. It is rather a spirit of callous indifference to anything except the little four-by-nine game they are playing for the sweets of office. They discuss our naval responsibilities—not with statistical tables of foreign naval establishments, not with references to the new alignment of European Powers so ominously outlined at Genoa, not with quotations from such disquieting documents as the new French budget which proposes, in the face of the Washington Conference, to increase its war vote by nearly five hundred million francs. These factors in any sane naval debate are ignored. What seems important to our Parliamentary pundits is the delightful parlor sport of pinning the donkey's tail on the entirely appropriate anatomy of their political opponents.

They don't care two cents who wins the next naval war, so long as they win a point in the three-cornered political game of "cut throat" they are playing so earnestly at Ottawa.

I fry my sausages, bacon, egg
And think of thee, sweetheart, and count the cost.

OLD PIONEER OF LASSWADE DEAD.

Andrew Wilson Passes Away. Apsley News.

APSLEY, May 19.—Andrew Wilson, an old pioneer of this district, passed away suddenly early on Monday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. Robert Steen, at Lasswade. Mr. Wilson was eighty years of age and had been suffering for some time. He was born in Ireland and cames to Lasswade fifty years ago. There was only one other settler's family in that part of the country then, Bullied's, the nearest point of civilization being Apsley, eight miles west, with only a trail through the woods. The late Mr. Wilson helped to build what is known as the east road, running from Apsley, and extending past Lasswade, to Coe Hill. He was a staunch member and supporter of St. Paul's Anglican church, being church warden for many years, in the churchyard of which he was laid to rest on Wednesday. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. C. Spence, who spoke feelingly of the deceased's estimable qualities as pioneer, patriot, and church man.

His wife died four months ago, and of his immediate relatives, only his sister, Mrs. Robert Steen, survives.

Nervous Trouble

Nervous troubles are, without a doubt, the most discouraging form of sickness to the sufferer. You are tired and ill but cannot say what is wrong, no pain except frequent headaches, you are fretful, cross and irritable without a cause, no ambition or desire to continue your daily routine, you feel a picking or itching of the limbs or body and feel that some terrible calamity is about to overcome you, cannot enter into your former pleasures and prefer solitude to the company of your friends. In such cases the whole nervous system is deranged and requires the most careful attention. MEMORIAL FOR HAVELOCK MEN

Plans For Imposing Arch Are Being Prepared By W. H. Barry, Peterboro.

Plans for a memorial arch and gateway to be erected at a new and main entrance to Havelock's park and athletic field are being finished by W. H. Barry, architect, Peterboro The design shows a handsome and impressive structure to be built of buff pressed brick and sandstone with brass tablets on the arch piers on which will be inscribed the names of Havelock's soldiers who died in the war. Electric light fixtures also of bronze will be set beneath the tablets. It is the intention of the citizens eventually to provide decorative iron or bronze gates as the main entrance to the park but for the time being ornate wooden gates will be swung into position. Features of the arch are a carved console or keystone and the entablature extending across the top with a plate bearing the dedication "Erected in honored memory of Havelock men who fell in the great war."

It is understood that the new entrance will be at the centre of the south side of the Park and will be prominently situated with an approach that will be carried into the grounds in a semi-circular elliptic form the whole design affording and adequate and imposing expanse of ground at the back of which the arch and gates will stand. Small entrances will be cut at each side of the arch through which the young people who use the park for games and other recreation will pass almost daily during the summer months. The committee in charge of this memorial contemplate an expenditure of $2,000, but are not strictly limited to the amount.

BURDEN ONTARIO WITH LIABILITY TORONTO CITY

The Globe makes the most astonishing proposal to burden Ontario with a Toronto liability that has ever been presented to the public life of this Province. What is known as the "clean-up deal" with the Mackenzie-Mann Electric interests was arranged between Sir William Mackenzie and the city of Toronto by Sir Adam Beck as sole arbitrator whereby Toronto should pay something over ten million dollars ($10,000,000) for the Toronto Power Co.'s plant and the York Radial on Yonge Street, Kingston Road, and Lake Shore Road.

Toronto ratepayers voted in favour of this proposition in January, 1921. But ex-Mayor Church continually placed obstacles in the way of the City Council completing the deal. The same policy has been continued by Mayor Maguire. Now, the cat is out of the bag. The city wants to get out of its agreement, and the influence and resources of the city are to be exercised to get the Drury Government to assume this purchase as a Provincial liability. The idea is preposterous. It is so absolutely without reason that astonishment is the greater to find the Globe giving its editorial support. All the arguments that were advanced eighteen months ago to persuade the Toronto ratepayers to vote for the city getting possession of the Mackenzie Electric interests are thrown to the winds by this new proposition. The reasons that were advanced then were either honest or otherwise. If they were honest and reasonable, then—the proposition that is made now by the Globe lacks these essential characteristics. But if there had been no arbitrations between the city and Mackenzie-Mann interests for these properties, there could yet not be any tenable argument that the province should be the purchaser of property for the sole benefit and advantage of the city of Toronto. It is simply stretching imagination to the utmost to calmly advance this proposition for serious consideration.

The Province is piling up liabilities of its own at a sufficiently lively rate to cause profound anxiety in respect to the public credit. The want of experience in political matters may serve as a mantle of charity to cover errors of judgment on the part of the Drury Cabinet but the stupid adoption of the Globe proposals in the matter would certainly prove the inability of the Provincial Government for any public office of responsibility whatever. With this kind of proposition in the air it is a serious question whether the Liberal Party may not be justified before long in solemnly announcing that any proposed legislation that it is intended to force through the Assembly which is likely to place enormous financial burdens upon the Province and upon which the electors have not been consulted at the polls, will be repudiated by the Liberal Party when they attain power. It would seem that only a solemn threat of this character will stop the mad career of general extravagance and waste that is going on in the Legislature.

The Ontario Government can only continue to expend the large sums that are being proposed by borrowing upon Provincial bonds. Bonds of this kind will be of little value in the markets of the world if a public announcement is made by one of the great political organisations that they will be repudiated when this particular Party comes into power. Governments will come and go so that it is only a matter of short while in the life of any Province when one Party will be succeeded by another. The remedy that is suggested is admittedly most drastic in its character. Yet it is the only available weapon against the financial madness of a political group in a popular assembly where there is no Second Chamber. The sentiment of the Province upon some of the proposed extravagances of the Drury Government is only too well known. And it certainly is equally and most singularly so in opposition to such a proposal as the Globe makes in the purchase of the Mackenzie- Electric interest by the Drury Cabinet.—Port Hope Guide.

SHEIK WEDDING INQUIRY BEGINS.

Jean Acker Is Summoned To Tell Facts Regarding Valentino's Decree.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Jean Acker, film actress ,from whom Rodolph Valentino, star in "The Sheik" and "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypsei' obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce a few months ago, was under instructions to report to the district attorney's office to tell what she knows of the fact. In the court action which left Valentino technicaly her husband for a year.

Thomas McClelland, deputy district attorney, sent summons to Miss Acker, and at the same time assigned investigators to learn whether Valentino committed bigamy, under the California law, when he married Winifred Hudnut, dancer and film art director, known professionally as Natacha Rambova, at Mexicali, last Saturday.

Miss Hudnut, is the daughter of Richard Hudnut, millionaire perfume manufacturer.

Hold Marriage Bigamous

Los Angeles Superior Court judges have started informally that such a marriage as that of Valentino and Miss Hudnut is bigamous.

Miss Hudnut's name was introduced into the divorce trial through the identification of a picture of her and Valentino.

The first legal action was taken by Miss Acker. She filed a suit for separate maintenance, alleging Valentino had not supported her. She asserted that when she married him he had nothing; that partly through her efforts he gained fame as an actor and that then he failed to support her.

Charged Desertion

On a cross complaint, Valentino asked for a divorce, declaring Miss Acker had deserted him. On the witness stand, he detailed alleged attempts to persuade her to return to him, and made the declaration that he "wanted her and loved her", and he would take her back if she would go back to him.

According to Douglass Gerard, film director, and best man at Valentino's wedding to Miss Hudnut, the actor "entered into the ceremony in good faith."

He said Valentino is at Palm Springs, Calif ,and plans to remain there "for the present."

HAYS CLOSELY WATCHES DEVELOPMENTS IN CASE

NEW YORK, May 19.—Will H. Hays, chief of the movie industry, is studying developments in the marriage of Rudolph Valentino and Winifred Hudnut. If legal action in California proves Valentino a big amidst and "public interest warrants action in the case," restrictions similar to those imposed upon Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle may be issued by the national director.

"We will keep our hands off until the case comes officially before the public in legal form" officials close to Hays said, "there are no grounds yet upon which to base a decision."

It was intimated however, that the Hays office is following every move in the affair with the greatest attention and interest.

WOMEN EXCLUDED THRONE OF EGYPT.

CAIRO, May 19.— (Associated Press)—Women are excluded from the throne of Egypt under a royal rescript which has been issued establishing the right of succession by primogeniture. Prince Farouk, son of King Fuad was designated as present heir to the throne.

The rescript provides that if the King has no male children his eldest brother succeeds to the throne.

The Mohamed Ali family are eligible for the throne except the former ex-Khedive Abbas Hilmi, (who was deposed in 1914), but the exclusion does not apply to his descendants.

Each king will secretly nominate three presons as proregent but parliament is allowed the right of approval or change.

THE RAILWAY FIGURES.

OTTAWA, May 19. Canadian Press. — Following the discussion raging over the whole of Wednesday's sitting and the larger part of yesterday's session, the House of Commons last night passed the railway appropriations totalling approximately 90 millions of dollars.

Hon, W. C. Kennedy announced that the revised figures gave the actual deficit for last yepr on all the government lines as $72,662,278.

EARLY SAILING.

EDMONTON, May 19.— (Canadian Press.) — The steamer Northland Echo left Fort McMurray for Fitzgerald Tuesday night, according to advices received by the Northern Trading Company. This is said to be the earliest sailing on the northern rotue on record. A clear channel is ahead, though it is expected that some ice may be encountered on Lake Athabasca.

The Echo carries a full cargo of freight and mail, including the winter's accumulation of second class matter.

CANADIAN PACIFIC ISSUES A BOOKLET GIVING LIST OFFICES

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraph Department has just issued a very attractive booklet, giving a list of offices in Canada and tariff rates, telegrams, on day letters, night lettergrams, and cable communications.

The rate of Day Lettergrams of 50 words or less, treated as deferred service, subordinate to full-rate telegram service, is one and a half times the regular day rate for ten words, and one-fifth of such rate for each additional 10 words or less, with no code words admitted. The charge for night lettergrams of 50 words or less is the regular day rate for 10 words, and one-fifth of this rate for each additional 10 words or less.

"The Thoughts of Youth Are Long, Long Thoughts"

STRIDING along in the first stages of life's journey, the young man looks ahead at the road as it stretches before him in the radiant sunshine, and it seems a road of infinite length. His pathway winds through allúring landscapes to a far distant horizon. The future stretches far, far out of sight. He cannot see the end of the road, nor does he realize that the road for him, as for all, is but a span.

"The thoughts of Youth are long, long thoughts", says the poet.

But the "long, long thoughts of youth" grow ever shorter and shorter the farther the youth advances on life's road. Let him, therefore, think seriously betimes, and mingle practical planning with his dreams.

BOTNICK BROS., 430-432 GEORGE STREET

ACCREDITED HERDS PROTECT FAMILIES OF DAIRY FARMERS

Hansard Report of Debate in House of Commons on Question of Interest to Milk Producers—G. A. Brethen's Remarks.

APPROPRIATION TOO SMALL.

The accredited herd system of examining cattle for tuberculosis has ben greatly hampered and restricted by lack of funds. This fact was brought out in the debate on the appropriation for this work as reported in Hansard of April 20, a marked copy of which has been sent to the Examiner by G. A. Brethen, M. P. (East Peterborough).

"This is only our second year in the work" said the Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture "The vote of half a million dollars last year was exhausted before the end of the fiscal year, and we had to ease up on the work. My predecessor started it, and started it well, but the work has become so popular that neither have we sufficient staff nor sufficient money to handle it.

MR. STANSELL: (EAST ELGIN) I have been told that many who have made application under that system have been refused. Although the accredited herd plan has been established and maintained by the Dominion Government, and we have been urged to avail ourselves of it, these applications have been refused because of lack of money. I was told no later than to-day that one man who applied was informed that he was ninetieth on the list and that it would be twelve months before they could send an inspector out to take up the work with him. If this work is worth doing, I submit it is worth doing in a more prompt manner than that, and we should not be compelled to wait twelve months before availing ourselves of this system of getting our herds accredited free from tuberculosis, because the matter is of far too great importance to allow such a delay.

Mr. Motherwell—The inspection applies only to herds of a certain size. I can assure my hon. friend that we are not lying down on the job, but, of course, when the vote runs out we are limited. Now that the new vote is becoming available, the work is being speeded up. I quite agree with my hon. friend that we must not lag behind in this work.

Mr. Stansell:—My point was this if the appropriation last year did not carry on the service for more than six months, how are you going to carry it on this year without increasing the amount? Increases are being asked for other departments, so why not for this

REDUCE VALUATION BASIS

Mr. Mothrwell: — By reducing the valuation basis we shall be able to cover three herds where formerly we covered one.

Mr. Brethen:—Will the inspector value the animal at the decreased valuation I have some knowledge of the way this service has worked out. I have seen herds that were not valued by inspectors at the proper figure. It is a very easy matter for an inspector who is not very well informed as to values to let the owner's valuation slip through rather than criticise it. He would do that to avoid showing his ignorance of values. There is just the possibility that the inspectors will not value the animals at the decreased valuation. Will the inspectors value the animals at the decreased valuation as the minister thinks they will?

Mr. Motherwell:—With respect to the judgment of the inspectors, human judgment, of course, always differs. It is quite natural that the owner of the animal should put a higher value on it than the inspector. That happens frequently, but the inspectors have been instructed to place a fair valuation on the animals, keeping the maximum in mind. If they do not do it, I do not know what we can do. I do not want unnecessarily to bring the Civil Service Commission into this discussion; we have had it bear a good many sins in the past, but as a matter of fact, I have very little to do with the selection of these inspectors. If I had more to do with their selection, I can assure my hon. friends that if there was any delinquency among the inspection staff, if any man was not doing his duty, it would very soon be rectified; but I cannot make any such promises now, as the matter is not in my hands.

Mr. Brethen:—I have made some inquiries regarding this matter and I understand that the inspectors, as the minister has stated, have been instructed to place a fair valuation on the animals, but there is this proviso: if a man suffers a heavy loss the instructors are instructed to be lenient with him. In the case of a herd where the value of the individual animal is below the valuation set by the department, it might be a good thing for an owner to lose all his herd. I believe there are cases of that kind.

HEALTH OF THE FAMILY

There is another phase of the matter. An inspector informed me in conversation of an incident in his own experience where a herd of six or seven animals had to be destroyed, and they were so badly infected that none of the carcasses was fit for food, which was very unusual. All these animals went to grease. Now, in the owner's family there were two children suffering from bone tuberculosis, and the inspector made this statement: "Knowing all the circumstances, it was very difficult for me not to associate the condition of the children with the condition of the cattle". I mention that to show that it is one of the most important things this department has to deal with. It is a matter affecting not only the health of animals but the health of the family. I know there are a great many breeders to-day who are very anxious to get into the accredited herd system because of this danger to their families. I had a man in my room the other day who is very anxious to get his herd under this system, but because it was under the minimum of twelve animals he was unable to come in. I think there should not be that discrimination. Why should a man with only six or eight or nine cows be refused this service? The inspection of a small herd would cost the Government very little in comparison with a large herd of sixty or seventy cattle. Why should the smaller owner be refused this service that is paid for out of public moneys? He is refused. I understand, because of lack of funds and a shortage of inspectors. If that is the case, is this vote high enough? I understand that it was necessary to bring down a vote of $300,000 in the Supplementary Estimates last year for this service. With 250 herds now on the waiting list, how are you going to provide the service this year? Is not the service of sufficient importance that provision should be made for it?

MUST SET A LIMIT

Mr. MOTHERWELL:—It is quite true that this service is available to the man with a large herd, but not to a herd of less than twelve. That is not an arbitrary number, but we have to fix a limit somewhere, or else you would have the inspectors travelling all over the country to inspect a herd of two or three, or even only one animal. Suppose a man in a remote district had the inspector travel out there, a long way from the railway, at great expense, to inspect only one animal. It might be tubercular, it is true, and might be endangering the health of his family, but you cannot get value for the money expended on travelling unless you fix a minimum for the size of the herd. A man can inspect a herd of forty or fifty at a much less expense proportionately than a smaller herd Since I have had the honour of taking charge of this department I have had this matter taken up with the members of my staff, and I have taken the ground that twelve was too high a minimum, but it was pointed out to me that no matter where you draw the line the man just below that number would seem to have a grievance. If you make the minimum six, the man with five cattle will think he has a grievance. There is no way of avoiding that except by setting the minimum at one animal, because you cannot go below that. You have to stop some where. I would not like to say that twelve should be the proper number; in fact, my own opinion is that it should be less. I am informed that whenever there are two herds of a smaller number than twelve adjacent to each other we do make the test. I think possibly we might be able to apply the system to three and take care of almost the whole of the herds by this means wherever conditions lend themselves to its being done.

Of every 100 applications for patents in Great Britain nearly 20 are put forward by German inventors.

Health Shattered By Stomach Trouble, Winnipeg Resident Was on Verge of Despair. Now Weighs 140 Pounds and Health is Perfect.

"I shall never be able to express my gratitude for what Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. Margery Anderson, of 725 Langside St., Winnipeg.

"I was in a very run-down condition and my health almost shattered. I had no desire to eat and the sight of food nauseated me. The only severe pain I had was across the back, just over the kidneys, but I was so weak that I was helpless and my nerves were in terrible shape. I went for nights without getting any sleep and finally became so thin I only weighed eighty-seven pounds.

"But Tanlac has made all the difference in the world in my health. It so strengthened and built me up that I now weigh a hundred and forty pounds and am in splendid health. It is a truly wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

DO YOUR BOWELS MOVE REGULARLY, OR DO THEY BECOME CONSTIPATED

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and there is no other trouble which flesh is heir to that is more liable to be neglected, because material inconvenience may not be felt at once from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of the decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing violent sick and bilious headaches, internal bleeding or protruding piles, heartburn, jaundice, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER ILLS

will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular, and removing the constipation and all of its allied troubles.

Mr. Samuel Buller, Tatamagouche, N.S., writes: "For over a year I suffered with constipation. I took several different kinds of medicines, but could only get temporary relief. I was told to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I procured two vials of them, but after I had taken one I found that I was relieved of my trouble. I do not hesitate to recommend Laxa-Liver Pills for any kind of constipation."

WALLINGFORD GOES TO THE WORK-HOUSE

AN ENGINEER.

NEW YORK, May 19.— (Canadian Press.) —A sentence of three months in the workhouse on Welfare Island was imposed Tuesday in Special Sessions on Dillon C. Willoughby, 54 years old, who was described as "one of the foremost engineers of our time," when he was found guilty of passing a worthless check last October for $107.56 on the Hotel Touraine.

Nothing was known of Willoughby's identity until a report of Probation Officer William B. Allis was submitted to Justices Moss, O'Keefe and Herrman. Allis stated that investigation had revealed that Willoughby played a foremost part in the development of the port of Brest, France, for the American Expeditionary Forces soon after the United States entered the war, and that a plan submitted by him to the New York Port Authority had been found the most feasible for the development of the Hackensack meadows, many terminal warehouses and fourteen railroad systems to aid improved methods of handling freight.

The report also stated that Willoughby foresaw the building of a subway in London, England, preceded the late Charles T. Yerkes, Chicago traction magnate, to that city and obtained options of essential lands for the construction of the subway. These lands, it was alleged, later were sold to Yerkes for more than $1,000,000, but Willoughby was reported to have squandered the money and to be now penniless.

Willoughby, the probation officer said, was reported to have purchased a yacht soon after he got the money and was host to the Duke of Manchester and a party of notable Englishmen on a trip to the Mediterranean.

Willoughby had been detained in the Tombs until he was arraigned for sentence. When he appeared before the Court he carried a brief case, which was said to contain a sketch of his plans for the port of Brest.

"Willoughby, you seem to have a capacity for large things," said Justice O'Keefe, after the probation officer's report had been read. "This report reads like a magazine article."

The report also showed that Willoughby owed bills aggregating $1,500 to many hotels, including the Ritz-Carlton, the Embassy and the Majestic in this city, and hotels in Washington, Chicago and Memphis. Willoughby told the probation officer that his address in this city was 109 West Twenty-ninth Street and that he was born in Chicago and educated at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill. Allis added that he learned that the engineer's wife lived in Boston.

Allis also said that it was reported that Willoughby was the original of George Randolph Chester's "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," but, he said, Willoughby denied that he knew the author.

BURNED AT STAKE.

Fifteen Year Old Negro Tortured over Fire and Body Riddled with Bullets.

DAVISBORO, Ga., May 19. — Fifteen year old Charles Atkins, a negro, one of four taken into custody yesterday in conection with the killing of Mrs. Elizabeth Kitchens, aged 20, was burned at the stake last night at the scene of the murder. He was tortured over the fire for 15 minutes and then shrieking with pain, was questioned regarding his accomplices. Two hundred shots were fired into his charred body after burning.

THE STAGE DOOR "BEAU" IS EXTINCT

Has Been Replaced By "Stage Struck Johnny."

LONDON, May 19.—(Associated Press)—Stage-doorkeepers of London theatres say stage-door 'beau' is extinct and has been replaced by a species of young man more aptly described by the American tearm "stage-door Johnny."

The vanished 'beau,' according to the guardian of one London stage entrance, wore a large silk hat at an acute angle, an elegant cape over his evening clothes and waited a buuquet in one hand, a be-ribboned box in the other, gold knobbed swagger stick under one arm, to greet a chorus girl and with a graceful bow, to hand her into his private hansom cab.

Today, Jack doesn't do that. He sits in his automobile puffing a cigarette and when the other party appears he calls from the curb "Come on, old girl, you've been a long time." The car starts with a jerk and the girl is hurled into a seat.

"I suppose they are more sensible, but perpetual common sense make stagedoors like most other places these days—they're awfully dull", says one doorkeeper.

THIRST STAND OF THREE CENTURIES.

Always Run By Members of Same Family.

LONDON, May 19.—(Associated Press) By appealing to King George friends of Mrs. Caroline Orford hope to save from abolition the little refreshment kiosk in St. James' Park which she has conducted for the past 60 years and which has been in the possession of her family for three centuries.

Mrs. Orford's great-great-grandmother started the business in a little shelter near the Mall, opposite the Horse Guards' Parade and was 101 years old when she left it to her daughter. Successive mother-to-daughter transfers have kept the refreshment stand in the family's hands for more than 300 years.

The site is now wanted by the Office of Works for the erection of the Guard's war memorial, but an influential committee is trying to have another location subsided.

The Christmas season costs King George of England about $40,000.

REACHED AGREEMENT.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)—A weaker feeling developed in the local spot grain market yesterday and prices were off 1c. per bushel. There was no further change in the condition of the local flour market. The trade in millfeed was quieter and prices of bran declined. Demand for rolled oats was slow. There was no feature in the baled hay market. The egg market continues to show continued strength. The tone of the potato market was firmer. Butter prices were off 1 1-2c. per pound. The cheese market was quiet.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, May 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Receipts 360 cattle and calves and 530 hogs.

Trading on the cattle market this morning continued generally slow and inactive and bidding on most classes showed a decidedly weaker undertone over the close of yesterday. Heavy steers were practically unsaleable while stockers and feeders were draggy under a restricted enquiry.

The hog market was unsettled, packers bidding 11.75 for selects. Up to noon no sales at this price.

No trading took place on the sheep and lamb market due to lack of receipts.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)— The preliminary report of stocks in cold storage issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows 136,644 cases of eggs in storage May first as compared with 114,097 cases for the same date last year and 659,482 pounds of frozen eggs compared with 552,630 pounds at the same date last year. Stocks of frozen poultry on May first amounted to 2,681,925 pounds as compared with 2,001,063 pounds for the same date last year. Prices generally show no change and the market is strong and active.

Toronto firm, jobbing prices unchanged.

Montreal specials 36, extras 35, firsts 32 to 33, seconds 29 to 30. Retail prices range from 32 to 40.

Winnipeg 25 for straight receipts delivered, jobbing extras 34 to 36, firsts 31, seconds 25.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Cattle, receipts 10,000; active, beef steers strong to 15c. higher; several loads matured steers at 9.00; top bulk beef steers 7.85 and 8.65; she stock steady to strong; bulls steady; vealers steady to 25c. lower; stockers scarce, dull; bulk veal calves to packers 9.00 and 9.25; few at 9.50 and 10.00; outsiders paid 10.50 to 11.00 for good to choice handyweights.

Hogs, receipts 27,000; opened strong with yesterday's average; closing strong on lights; others 10 and 15c. higher; top 11.00; bulk 10.55 and 11.00; pigs dull, 25 to 50c. lower; 9.25 and 10.25; packing sows strong to 15c. higher, 9.60 and 10.00; holdover moderately liberal.

Sheep, receipts 11,000; steady to 25c. lower; best California spring lambs 14.60 and 14.75; top natives 14.50; top shorn lambs 12.75; best handy fat ewes 7.00; some fat heavies down to 4.00.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Material downturns in the value of wheat took place yesterday, largely as a result of reported increase of consignment notices from the country. The market closed unsettled at 1-8 to 4c. net decline, with May $1.41 3-4 to $1.42 and July $1.26 1-8 to $1.26 3-8; Corn finished 1-8 to 3-8c. lower, oats 1-2 to 1 1-8c. off, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 7c. advance.

Weakness in the price of the May delivery of wheat became apparent soon after the opening and developed at a rapid rate during the last hour of the Board of Trade session. The leading seller was a speculator whose favorite position is on the bear side of the market. In addition to prospective large arrivals of wheat here, the prevailing cool, wet weather, regarded as likely to improve the condition of the winter crop and of the spring crop as well, did a good deal to inspire bearish sentiment. Besides, foreign demand was slow, despite reports that France was after new wheat crop.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, May 19.— (Canadian Press.) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday: Demand 4.4891; Cables 4.4923.

WILLIE MITCHELL SUFFERS A STROKE.

Right Side is Affected But He is Optimistic.

The many friends of Willie Mitchell will regret to hear that he has suffered a stroke and is in the Nicholls Hospital. He retired in his usual health Tuesday night and on awakening Wednesday morning found his right side quite numb.

Willie as usual is looking at the matter optimistically. He has always read his blind books with his left hand, and as it is his right side that is affected he will still be able to read. He has always been fond of children to whom he delighted to read the Bible and other stories, and those litle ones will miss him for the time being.

MORE TROUBLE EXPECTED NOW IN SOUTH CHINA

Sun Yat Sen May Lead a Military Expedition Into Northern Part of Country

MAIN ARMY MOVING.

HONG KONG, May 19.—(Canadian Press.) — Negotiations are in progress between the South China Government at Canton and both the Northern factions in an endeavor to prevent a northward expedition by the army of Sun Yat Sen, head of the Canton Government, it was learned here yesterday.

The Southern Government's army headquarters are now at Shiukwan, in the northern part of the Province of Kwangtung and the main army is moving and concentrating on the border between Kwangtung and Kiangsi Provinces, near the town of Namyung.

The recently reported break between Sun Yet Sen and General Chen Chiung-Min, head of the South China forces, is not serious, it was learned in well-informed quarters here. Chen Chiung-Min continues to be loyal to the Southern Government and the recent misunderstanding between him and the head of the Government was over insignificant differences. Indications point to a complete settlement between them in the near future, and South China officials declare both leaders will win or lose together.

SEVEN YEARS FOR SERIOUS OFFENCE.

MONTREAL, Que., May 19. — (Canadian Press.) — Frank Smith, alias Louis Kaloutsky, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary and to fourteen strokes of the cat by Chief Judge Decarie in the Court of Special Sessions here yesterday afternoon. Smith was convicted of seducing and abducting a girl under 15 years of age and having brought her from Ste. Adele, Que., to Montreal. He denied being married and the father of a family in Montreal, stating that he had become engaged to be married to the girl at Ste. Adele and that he was willing to marry her now.

Judge Decarie, however, stated that he had left his wife and child penniless in the street and had ruined the life of the young girl from Ste. Adele. He deserved no sympathy from the court.

Hay River flows from Hay Lake in a north-easterly direction into the Great Slave Lake and it is at a point some 13 miles up the river that test holes will be put down this season. The new corporation is a Dominion one with head offices in Montreal.

FINDS METHOD TO CHIP FLINT.

An Illinois Man Discovers Lost Indian Art of Arrow Head Makers.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 18.—Making of Indian arrowheads has been accomplished here by Herbert Wells Fay, custodian of the Lincoln Monument.

Various Indian chiefs visiting here confessed their own ignorance of just how to make arrowheads, and have voiced their surprise at the workmanship of the white man.

Mr. Fay no longer makes arrows of flint, but to prevent fraud uses only glass, as his flint ones were indistinguishable from Indian ones.

Near his former home at DeKalb, he said, there had been seven Indian camps.

Mr. Fay takes issue with other authorities, who say arrowheads may be identified by their shape as the work of a particular tribe. Years of study and the actual making of arrows proved otherwise, Mr. Fay says.

Broken Along Corner.

"Indians first tried stones that break with a conchoidal fracture (like the inside of a spoon)," he said. "They found that the deeper the break at the top of the flat-surfaced stone the longer would be the break in the stone, but it would be correspondingly wide. They wished, however, a long, narrow piece for an arrowhead.

"They then found that by breaking the stone at a corner they could produce such a 'flake' (raw arrowhead) one, two or even five times its width, according to the skill of the artisan. Such an arrowhead always has a ridge on one side, and the other side smooth. The ridge is the corner of the stone, from which the flake was broken.

Spiral Break Accidental.

"Next it was found that in finishing the arrowhead, if the stone breaks easier from one direction on the top, it would break just as easily from the other on the bottom. This gave rise to the belief that arrowheads were made to revolve. Such was not the intention of arrow makers, as the same natural peculiarity appears in spearheads, which are too heavy to revolve, as spears were seldom expected to go more than a few times their length.

"These principles being true of all stone used by the Indians, it is an evident impossibility for any collector to tell what tribe made certain arrow or spear heads. The width, depth and thickness, determined by the depth of the fracture of the stone, determine the shape and appearance of the finished product."

Quarry Near Cairo.

Most of the arrowheads of the North Mississippi Valley, Mr. Fay said, were made of chert, a chalky flint, taken from the quarries in Union County, Illinois, near Cairo. The bluffs at that place along the Mississippi River show outcroppings of the chert and many evidences of the activity of Indians, who went there from all parts of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin.

"Less than 1 per cent. of the arrowheads found in this wide territory," Mr. Fay continued, "seem to have been made from local stone. The Union County quarries have been determined as the principal source, because arrows found throughout that region correspond exactly to the quality of the Union County stone. It is not known whether expert 'flake' makers held the quarries in Union County and distributed material to tribes as they came down, or whether each tribe had its 'flake' makers who visited the quarries periodically.'

Implements used by Indians in making arrowheads, according to Mr. Jay, were made with one tool, a piece of bone, somewhat like the handle of a toothbrush.

Fifteen thousand persons lost their lives in fires in the United States during the last year.

HISTORY PROFESSOR AT QUEEN'S RESIGNS.

KINGSTON, May 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Prof. J. L. Morison, professor of history in Queen's for the past fourteen years has resigned for personal reasons.

He is to go in the staff of the university of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. Prof. Morison still intends to keep up his writing on Canadian colonial subjects and he is planning research work in this connection this summer.

The only reason I tell it is because I hope it may encourage girls who have more ambition than money and those who feel that European training is out of the question.

TWO CAMPBELLFORD MEN INTOXICATED FROM PARSNIP WINE.

Hauled Before the Police Magistrate and Paid the Piper For Their Street Celebration.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19. — Two local men were arrested for creating a disturbance on the street. They were found to be intoxicated from drinking parsnip wine, and were brought before Magistrate Payne and fined.

Favorable Comment.

On Tuesday night, May 16th, Mr. Frank Bonnycastle photographed the window of the J. B. Ferris Company's store. The window was dressed by Mr. J. M. Ferris himself, and it has been the subject of much favorable comment here.

CHAPTER XLI

FLAPPER AUDACITY!

Chaos prevailed in the auditorium of the Little Playhouse as always at rehearsal.

The original barn, once a vast and elegant shelter for a rich man's carriages, had been improved by the addition of a stage. This wing was Mr. Tearle's first contribution to the dramatic art of his city.

At the entrance of the auditorium, Jeanne detained me.

"Entrancing—as always!" she exclaimed. "Better than the play!"

The chairs of the auditorium were piled high against the walls. All the activities incident to staging a drama were in progress.

Two sewing machines had been put in the best light and two Norse maids, belonging to the Viking caste, set them to whirring madly during every pause in the rehearsal. The costumes for all parts were designed and made by members of the company.

Below the stage stood a pressing board, placed horizontally on two chair backs, the flatiron connected with a socket in the footlights. And upon the ironing board rested the director's megaphone, also the director's elbows, while he listened to the actors on the stage. I suppose Judge Ballou never before had been in touch with a laundry utensil.

Scattered in heaps upon the floor and tossed over chair backs were half finished costumes and a quantity of uncut flannelette of all colours, and scores of water color designs.

Suddenly Jeanne exclaimed:

"Look at Bonny!"

"I don't see how anybody could overlook her!" I replied. "She's the most astonishing note in this amazing jumble!"

"She's dressed for a dance," whispered Jeanne. I murmured that from our point of view she hardly seemed to be dressed at tall. Tha audacious flapper was seated at a kitchen table, a stage "prop" which the publicity people had requistioned for a writing desk.

"What's she up to?" queried Jack.

"Addressing envelopes, announcements of the production," I told him. "Looks absorbed, doesn't she? Well, she isn't. Bonny Tearle is perfectly conscious this minute that you are talking about her, that George Bradshaw doesn't take his eyes off from her, that her evening cloak has slipped from her shoulders, and that the only bits of her covering on view above that kitchen table are those rhinestone suspenders."

Fifty persons worked in the rehearsal or worked for it or watched it that night. One hundred pairs of eyes gazed straight at Bonny when she rose to greet our party. She came, half running, a mere child in figure and gesture. But—that awful dress! Amazement made Jeanne and I almost rude.

In any formal social era it would have taken a young matron of 30, one with a lot of poise, sophistication and social prestige to get away with that dancing gown. And Bonny was only 16!

Her skirt was short and not very full. Her bodice was of silver cloth coming to an upward point in the middle for the front, barely as high as required; to each side of the point was attached a string of rhinestones laid on black velvet straps which went over her shoulders and fastened to her skirt at the belt. They could not have been attached to the waist in the back for there was none. The silver bodice sloped low under the arms and tapered to nothingness behind

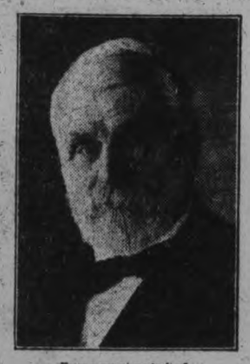
Doctor at 82 Finds Mothers Prefer His Formula to New-Fangled Salts And Coal Tar Remedies for Babies

Judgment of 1892 vindicated by world's approval of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a simple vegetable compound for constipation—So safe, thousands give it to babes in arms—Now has largest sale in the world.

WHEN a man is in the 83rd year of his age, as I am, there are certain things he has learned that only time can teach him. The basis of treating sickness has not changed since I left Medical College in 1875, nor since I placed on the market the laxative prescription I had used in my practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

Then the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of my Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Recently new medicines have been brought out for constipation that contain calomel, which is mercury, salts of various kinds, minerals, and coal tar. These are all drastic purges, many of them dangerous, and the medical profession is warning the public against them. Certain coal tar products will depress the heart; certain salts give rise to intestinal poisoning, impaction and rupture of the intestines. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.



From a recent portrait of DR. W. B. CALDWELL Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin Born Shelbyville, Mo., 1839

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with pills and powders and strong drugs, even if disguised in candy? My remedy, too, costs less than most others, only about a cent a dose. A bottle such as you can find in any drug store, will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the babe in arms because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The formula of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is on the cover of every bottle, and the ingredients have the endorsement of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia.

$10,000 Worth of Syrup Pepsin Free

In remembrance of my 83rd birthday I have set aside the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars to be given away in half-ounce bottles of my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. Only one Free Trial bottle to a family. All are constipated now and then, and here is an opportunity for you and others to try Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE. Ask for your free bottle today, simply sending name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 21 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont. Do not postpone this.

Deeford's first impulse was to shrug his shoulders contemptuously and leave the Prime Minister with a reply of indifference. But the phrase refused to form itself. Disraeli had turned. His hands clasped behind his back, his great head bowed, he stood motionless asthough in deep thought. There was something humble about his attitude and yet something majestic—and for the first time in many years of his knowledge of Disraeli's activities, Deeford was deeply impressed with the man's sincerity, with his sublime patriotism. After all, whether he was right or wrong, his life and his endeavors were dedicated to the cause of their common country. Charles, under the thrall of this new conception of the man he had so often ridiculed found himself unable to maintain his pose of disdain.

Finally, he found his tongue. The words came slowly, coldly.

"England will never find me backward," he said. "But I cannot see what help I can give."

"You can best help by preparing yourself for the day when your help will be needed."

"In what manner?"

"You have ideals."

Charles looked up suspiciously. Was he being mocked.

"You have ideals for the betterment of the conditions of your peasants."

Charles nodded cautiously. He was not quite sure that Disraeli was not paving the way for one of his merciless sarcasms.

"Your peasants need all you say they need. But others can give it to them—under your direction—at a mere nod of your head. You, yourself, can do greater things."

"My life belongs to my country," said Deeford. "I am ready to serve whenever I am wanted."

Disraeli faced him. There was a kindly expression around his lips and a weary look in his eyes.

"You mean in the army?" He nodded his head thoughtfully. "A courageous thought. But my dear Deeford, let us never forget that the army is not called into action, until trouble has been created until the danger is at our very door. That is the great care that rests on my shoulders." He looked very old and bent at that moment. "Yes, that is the great burden—the knowledge that, while all will be ready to fight for England when the swords are flashing and the guns are booming, yet no one is ready now to prevent the calamity. It is so hard to find men who are willing to work for peace."

Charles looked up, puzzled. All the animosity that had formerly filled his soul when his path had crossed that of Disraeli, was forgotten for the moment. Even Clarissa was not in his mind.

"I wish," said Disraeli pensively, and in a subdued tone as though he were speaking to himself. "I wish I could find, somewhere in this broad land, just a few young men to join hands with me in protecting England—in laying brick upon brick in the building of a great wall behind which she could defy all enemies—and where the gates are, to place great defensive works the very threatening aspect of which would fill our foes with dread and make them marvel at our forethought and wisdom." Then in a livelier manner. "Men like you, Deeford, young men whose souls are not yet corroded by the prejudices of their grandfathers, young men who believe in the future, young men who are clean enough to love one woman and one country."

"There are so many other—"

"There are very few of!"

Deeford was too healthy minded and too young to withstand the implied appeal. After all, why shouldn't he step into the open when the opportunity offered itself. He very frankly admitted that he had misjudged Disraeli—that what he had judged to be a politician's tricks were the carefully planned moves of a statesman, what he had mistaken for idle cynicism was but a mask under which Dizzy concealed a face worn and lined with cares and that these cares were caused by devout anxiety over the fate and future of England. He was almost shocked by these sudden discoveries and disclosures—and what puzzled him most was that his own antipathy had given way to a feeling of genuine admiration and appreciation.

Disraeli had remained grave. Charles gathered confidence.

"What would you have me do?"

"Keep your ideals, nourish and foster them, until they grow into great ideas. Pass from love of soil to love of land—from the parish into the Empire."

Charles paced the floor.

"I rather like politics. But I had planned to confine my political activities to my own sphere. It seems rather insignificant now."

"Nothing is insignificant in politics. The dissatisfied peasant makes a bad soldier. The happy peasant makes a valiant defender of his country."

"True." Charles smiled resignedly. "Just now Dunelm Castle seems small to me. I shall regain my balance of thought tomorrow."

"Dunelm Castle is part of England. So every stone in its walls are precious to the preservation of England."

"Still—compared with your fear for India. . . ."

"Ah—India." Disraeli passed his hand through his hair. "India, the great question. The great puzzle . . ."

"What is the solution . . . war?"

"War," said the Prime Minister, "is never a solution. It is an aggravation."

"What, then, is the solution?"

The Prime Minister looked at Charles, Viscount Deeford, once, twice—as though undecided whether to tell him. There was something about the present attitude of the usually arrogant young lord that compelled Disraeli to accept him at his new value. Disraeli never made a mistake in men. He walked over, and standing very close to the young man, he bent forward to whisper:

"The solution—is a very small thing; a thing most men are laughing at just now."

"What, sir? What?"

"A ditch."

"A ditch?" echoed Charles.

"A ditch dug in sand."

"In sand—"

"A ditch dug in shifting sand."

"You mean the—!"

Disraeli swiftly motioned him to silence. Slowly he approached the door on the left. There he stopped his hand almost on the knob.

"Why, sir, surely this secluded room in a nobleman's house is, of all places, the most secure—" Charles was saying. Once more Disraeli motioned him to silence.

Then, turning the knob, he opened the door abruptly. Mrs. Travers half fell into the room. Disraeli stepped back.

"I beg your pardon," he said, with an apologetic bow.

Mrs. Travers, having recovered from her first surprise, appeared unperturbed.

"It was quite my fault," she said. "Dear Clarissa left her book—"

"A fortunate circumstance for us," said Disraeli. "What was the book?"

"Sybil." As Mrs. Travers spoke she made a pretense of looking for this volume.

"I have heard of it. Now, where can it be?"

The Prime Minister made a great show of helping in the search, but he kept his eye on the lady.

"Do help us, Deeford. Remember—a ditch in sand gives the best soil for celery." Disraeli noted the effect on Mrs. Travers. She merely arched her eyebrows. Addressing her, he said:

"We were in the thick of a very interesting discussion—some people say loam—"

"Really," remarked the lady.

"And some advocate a fertilizer—"

As Disraeli spoke, he saw Mrs. Travers slip a book under the cover of a chair. He went on quietly with his search, however, and continued speaking.

"—But I said sand."

"Sand?" Mrs. Travers repeated.

During the thick of the hunt, the Duke and Lady Beaconsfield, the Duchess, Lord and Lady Brook, and Clarissa had entered the room. The entire party was surprised at the sight that greeted them. The Duke came forward to speak.

"Why, what are you all playing—hide and seek?"

"Something very like it Duke," replied Disraeli, who at that instant uncovered the book where Mrs. Travers had concealed it. "Ah—now isn't that remarkable." Taking up the volume, he tendered it to Mrs. Travers. "I must have passed this precise spot several times. Truly this is one of the instances that prove that we frequently fail to see our best opportunities, though they are plainly before us. Well, one is never too old to learn. I shall take the lesson to heart."

There was an awkward pause. All those present seemed to sense that Disraeli had a graver purpose in mind than the discussion of the mislaid book. Presently, he stood erect and, addressing the Duke and Duchess, said sharply:

"It may interest you to know that Charles has decided to enter politics as an active participant."

DEWART REGISTERS LAST PROTEST RE TAXING WAGERS.

Premier Declares That Mr. Dewart's Action is Deplorable. The Incident Closed There.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press.) — With His Honor the Lieut.-Governor in the Speaker's chair waiting to give assent to the Corporation Tax Act, amendments in which is embodied the five per cent. tax on race track wagers, H. H. Dewart last night in the Legislature embraced the opportunity to register a final protest against enactment of the measure.

Amid intense silence, with members standing, and just as before, the word that made the bill law, Mr. Dewart asked if His Honor had received the advice of independent counsel regarding the bill. The Premier replied in the negative, and Mr. Dewart continued to ask if it was considered fair to the Lieut.-Governor not to have such advice, but the incident closed there.

Later the Premier declared, Mr. Dewart's action was "deplorable" and an "unprecedented breach of decorum of Parliament."

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with coated tongue, foul breath or a dull headache; or if your meals sour and ferment, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire ailmentary canal.

Those subject to headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying the morning inside bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

PUTS NEW LIFE IN "WILD" BOYS.

Depauw University Coach Transforms College Town With an Honor Code.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., May 19.—Until recently this town had the average number of mischevious youngsters. But now all that is changed. Here is how it happened.

Fred M. Walker arrived in town one day to take charge of athletics at Depauw University. Up to that time Greencastle was the typical college town. The boys from 5 to 14 had caught the spirit of student high jinks and had even improved on the college interpretation of what constitutes fun.

Walker's job was assumed to be only that of sportive tutor for the students at college. But Walker went beyond his designated role and tried an experiment with the youngsters of the town that has made the town of Greencastle proud of its boys.

Walker first gained athletic fame as a gridiron star at the University of Chicago Later he was a big league pitcher. Then, deserting the diamond, he tutored the unbeaten Williams College eleven of a few seasons ago, directed the basket ball activities at Dartmouth, and then, until he went to Depauw, served as assistant to Alonz A. Stagg, boss of athletics at the University of Chicago.

Offers His Plan

Walker arrived at Greencastle last June, just when the torrid spell had started. There is no river, no lake—no bathing resort in or around the town. The town sweltered. Walker had a thought—and carried it to George L. Grose, the college president.

"Splendid idea—go ahead with it," answered Dr. Grose.

Walker gathered a group of the kids, ranging in age from 5 to 14, around him and told them he would permit them free use of the swimming pool all through the summer if they'd sign a little pledge.

He drafted the following pledge:

In appreciation of the privilege of using the Depauw gymnasium and swimming pool, I hereby pledge myself to refrain from:

Smoking cigarettes or using tobacco in any form.

Swearing or using indecent language.

Using ungentlemanly language.

And I further pledge myself:

To be courteous and polite at all times.

To be a booster.

To always take a bath with soap and warer before entering the pool.

To do everything within my power to keep the campus, gym and the town of Greencastle in a more orderly condition.

To always follow whatever directions may be tiven me by the coach or his assistants while using the gymnasium and pool.

Founds Booster Club

As seriously as he would have discussed things with college boys, he went over the pledge with the youngsters under one of the trees on the university campus.

Then and there the Booster's Club was formed, with about a dozen members In three days it had grown to 40. In less than two weeks it was 115. And, included in its membership was every sort of boy.

Boys came from every part of the town to join the club; boys of all shapes, all sizes, all ages up to 14, all colors, all creeds and all social strata. All were welcomed.

Keeping the Town Clean

One morning soon after the little club came into being, the news came that an assistant university coach had been hired. A cottage long unoccupied, was rented for his use. The yard was over grown with weeds; cluttered with debris

That afternoon, Walker strolling to the college, passed the cottage. The yard, porch and walks were alive with boys—boys of the Boosters' Club—each working likve a beaver.

"What's this all about?" Walker asked.

"Oh," answered "Mutt" Murphy, a bit sheepishly, "we thought the assistant coach would like a nice, clean place, So we are getting it all fixed up for him."

A few days afterward, Walker stood on the edge of the campus, looking down rather sadly. Lawn mowers had failed to remove some tiny unsightly weeds which dotted the entire campus. One of the little boosters came along.

"What's the matter, Mr. Walker?" he inquired.

Walker told him.

After lunch, Walker on the way to the gym, saw 150 boys on their hands and knees weeding the huge campus.

See Foot Ball Free

Afterward, Walker gathered the boys around him and said:

"That's the spirit, boys. It was wonderful. And I'm going to show you how I feel about it. I've talked things over with Dr. Grose and he is going to set aside a special section in the stands for you boys this fall—and you'll be permitted to see every one of our foot ball games free!"

The town of Greencastle looked at the Walker experiment first, with a bit of skepticism, then unrest, then astonishment—and now with pride. For a transformation has come. No woman, no elderly man ever attempts to cross a city street without one of the youngsters bobbing up and offering help with the chivalry of Sir Walter Raleigh. No longer do pet animals panic stricken, race the streets with tin cans tied to their tails. No piece of rubbish shows on the streets of Greencastle without one of the kids showing up a minute later to grab it and take it away to some rubbish receptacle. And every last boy in the town is doing errands for his mother, doing little kindnesses for his fellows, because the pledge has put him on his honor and Walker has convinced them that a boy false to his promise is a boy unworthy.

Sixty Years on Stage and Still a Broadway Beauty

MRS. THOMAS WHIFFEN AND SOME OF THE ACTIVITIES THAT KEEP HER YOUNG AT 77.

HOW YOU CAN KEEP YOUNG

Losing your grip on youth?

You needn't!

Look at Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, 77, still taking an active part in a theatrical production!

"Every woman can keep young," she says, "as long as she retains her youthful enthusiasms."

Read Mrs. Whiffen's story and practice what she preaches before you begin to say:

"I'm not as young as I used to be."

BY MARIAN HALE.

The beauty secrets of a girl of 17 are interesting, but easily discredited on the ground that the real secret is youth, despite her devotion to Jones' tonic and Smith's cream.

But—when a woman who has come within three birthdays of being 80 years old makes observations on the subject of feminine beauty, conviction goes with her words.

Especially if she has had 60 years on the stage and is still successfully competing with the spring crop of Broadway beauties!

Such a woman is Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, a girl of 77, and that's why I asked her for a few timely remarks on keeping young and beautiful.

"I was never a beauty," she began, "so I never stayed up nights trying to keep what I didn't have. Instead, I went to bed at night and got my sleep, arose early and took plenty of exercise.

"I'll tell you something—most of the actresses you admire on the stage aren't really beautiful. They are clever. They make you think they are beautiful by acting as if they were.

"A woman soon outlives her flapper days—at least, she should. If she hasn't outgrown her baby stare and still acts like a debutante at 40 she is a pathetic sight.

"To live keenly and get anything out of life you've got to experience and to think. These things will make you mature and you will show it. But maturity has its beauty.

"Experience, tolerance, understanding and love combine to make something which radiates from the face that is as powerful as the beauty of youth.

"Sarah Bernhardt is an example of a clever woman. Why do you suppose she always wears high-necked gowns with soft, ruff effects about her throat?

"Simply because she was always thin and never had a beautiful neck. Instead of getting excited about it, though, she just covered it up and acted as if it were lovely.

"Notice her hair — it's always pulled down over her brow. That's because her forehead is wrinkled. She probably conceals a number of deep lines under that red hair—but isn't that the sensible thing to do?

"I believe every woman can keep young, however. She needs only keep up her youthful enthusiasms and her interest in others.

"I can do now anything that I ever did—but I do it in moderation. I get much pleasure from playing the piano, and much from dancing. I seldom dance in public any more because I do not know the new dances. But I enjoy a waltz as much as I ever did.

"Mountain climbing — they're really only hills—is one of my greatest pleasures. I have a country place down in the Blue Ridge Mountains and I spend a great deal of time out of doors in my garden. There wasn't a day last winter, no matter how stormy it was, that I wasn't out for at least an hour.

"I can still jump into a part on short notice and learn my lines as easily as I ever did. I want to stay on the stage until I am 80. Then I expect to retire and spend the rest of my time in the country.

"If I were asked to lay out a beauty schedule for a woman I'd say: Work hard, play hard, spend some time out of doors every day, and some with a good book—and learn to relax.

"That's about all I can tell you."

At that point Mrs. Whiffen heard her cue and went on with "The Advertising of Kate," her current play.

WAS WEDDING OF SHEIK LEGAL?

Rodolph Valentino's Nuptials Over Mexican Border Rock California.

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—Although jurists agree informally that the marriage of Rodolph Valentino, movie star, to Winifred Hudnut, known as Natchie Rambora on the stage, at Mexicali, Lower California, is not legal, due to the fact that Valentino has not obtained his final decree of divorce from his first wife, Jean Acker, he could not be prosecuted for bigamy in the United States, it is declared by lawyers here. Miss Acker declared last night she "wanted to do something about it," and was consulting counsel.

Inasmuch as a bigamy charge can only be brought where the second alleged illegal marriage took place, no action could be taken in this state, it is declared. Such action, if brought at all, would have to be brought in Mexico.

As divorce is a cliv proceeding, it is declared that the most that could be done in Los Angeles, where Valentino obtained his interlocutory decree last January, would be to annul the decree on complaint of Miss Acker. An interlocutory decree leaves the original marriage valid and binding for one year, when a final decree may be obtained.

Couldn't Be Extradited

If Valentino returns to this country, he could not be forced to return to Mexico to stand prosecution, even if such action was taken, as was considered highly probable, because the United States Government does not recognize the Mexican government, and no extradition treaties are in force.

As Valentino was married Saturday at the house of Mayor Otto Moller, of Mexicali, with the official blessing of nearly all officials in town, it is thought highly improbable that any action will be taken there.

The ceromony was performed by Civil Judge T. Sandival. Four Mexicans and four Americans were present. The Americans were Dr. Florell A. Mansfield, late of Palm Beach, Douglas Gerrard, director of the University Studios, and Mr. and Mrs. Tilly Silver, of Calexico.

Just Couldn't Wait

"We were madly in love, and just couldn't wait," declared Valentino, when a cheering Mexican throng gathered outside the hotel where he and his bride are spending their honeymoon.

Some jurists point out that a man obtaining an interlocutory decree, whatever his personal arrangement may be, is just as much married as he ever was.

Hence Valentino, they declare, still is legally married to Jean Acker, and he must be so regarded if he returns to this country. The fact that his marriage to Miss Hudnut took place in Mexico, they point out, is no different than if it took place in the United States, providing he intends to live here. Should he live in Mexico the affair would then be the business of the Mexican government, they declare.

Winifred Hudnut is the daughter of Richard Hudnut, millionaire perfume manufacturer.

LAKE ST. CARETAKER IS GOOD SWIMMER

Editor of the Examiner: —

Your editorial in regard to the caretakers at the swimming beaches I consider an injustice to me, inasmuch as it implied that I was not capable of handling myself in the water or rescuing any persons in danger. I do not claims to be an expert swimming instructor but I do say that I am a good swimmer and that I will not hesitate to go to the rescue if any bather happens to get into difficulties I intend as much as possible to be prepared to immediately go to the assistance of any person in distress and I consider that to be the principal duty of a caretaker. Your article was unfair to me and I ask you to publish this letter in order that the public this see that I have the qualifications needed for the position.

NEW TEST TELLS IF HOOTCH HIDES DEATH

Chemical Will Show Whether It Contains Poison.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Adding to things violet — violets, violet eyes and violet rays—we have with us to-day another kind of this pleasing hue, a product of particular importance to imbibers of "moonshine," and designed to defeat through simple test, John Barleycorn's dangerous kin, wood alcohol.

It is known by a trade name and is being sold at hundreds of places in Chicago. By pouring a quantity of uncertain stuff into a vial one can detect whether the liquor is perilous.

In a little box are five glass tubes, each containing a third of a chemical. Fill a vial with whisky within a half inch of the top, replace the cork and watch. Within a few minutes you can decide whether to keep the stuff or throw it away and swear at your bootlegger.

If it gets cloudy, you might worry a little; if it shows a reddish-brown discoloration, it probably is due to harmless acid and has no significance. But—and here's the dope—if your eyes detect a violet tinge breaking through the cloudy contents of the vial, throw your moonshine in the sewer and kiss your $4 goodbye.

If the amount of wood alcohol is even small, the violet color will remain in the tube for several hours. If the amount of wood alcohol is heavy, the color will be an intense violet. Only the appearance of this color shows that there is the poisonous alcohol in your purchase. The test should take at least 10 minutes.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You will not monopolize the conversation when others are present, or be too eager to show off your accomplishments.

The persons who are valuable socially are the ones who can efface themselves and draw out the more timid guests, and give the feeling that each person is interested in the conversation and is contributing to it.

TABLE COVERS,

Cut-out figures from chintz or silk are sometimes applied with good effect on coarse linen and used to make table covers and pillows for the summer cottage.

DYED LACE.

Valenciennes lace, dyed to match the frock, is used on many of the summer organdies.

Your Hair--Needs Attention When Shampoo is Over

BY HELENA RUBINSTEIN
Famous Beauty Specialist

After a shampoo your hair needs very careful attention if it is to be really soft and pretty. The natural oils must be restored before the hair is quite dry, else luster will be lacking.

Gentle massage, in which no oil is used, will serve the purpose. Start with the finger tips near the front of the head and about an inch from the part on each side. Work back toward the crown.

Be sure your finger nails do not touch the scalp and injure it, but let your touch be firm. Do not rub on top of the scalp, but move it so that it loosens. Keep this up until you have gone over the whole head and the surface feels warm and aglow.

The loosening of the scalp is really the important thing. Hair which grows on a tight scalp is never soft and glossy.

When the drying process is finished comb just one strand at a time. Begin at the end and go toward the scalp, twisting each strand separately as you finish it.

After the combing is finished twist the strands again, one at a time, and then brush the fingers lightly over it, moving in the opposite direction of the twist.

This brings out the spit ends and they can be clipped if there are any that are too dead and colorless.

A method of preserving newly mown grass without drying has recently been worked out in Switzerland.

The tune "Marching Through Georgia" is the national anthem of Cambodia, the French protectorate lying west of Indo-China.

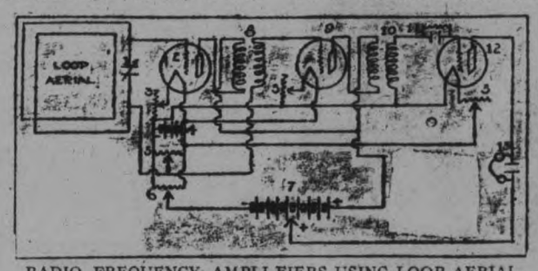
Loop Aerial Cuts Down the Interference in Frequency

BY R. L. DUNCAN.
Director, Radio Institute of America

A two-step radio frequency amplifier using a loop aerial makes an ideal receiving set. It greatly minimizes interference and considerably reduces static.

The diagram shows its hook-up.

The loop may be the one described in this column yesterday, although a smaller one has often proved satisfactory. This may be three feet square with five turns of No. 14 B. & S. lamp cord wound so that there is a half inch space between the turns. Each turn should be tapped.



RADIO FREQUENCY AMPLI FIERS USING LOOP AERIAL.

It should be remembered that the loop is very directional in its receiving characteristics, and must be so conrtructed that it may be swung around easily.

Details of Hook-Up.

In the diagram, No. 1 is the variable condenser of .0005 microfarads capacity.

No. 2 and No. 9—Amplifiers or "hard" vacuum tubes.

No. 3—Filament rheostats.

No. 4—Six volt 90 to 120 ampere-hour "A" battery.

No. 5 and No. 6—Potentiometers giving finer adjustment of the battery current flowing into the tubes.

No. 7—A 45-volt 'B" battery of the variable type.

No. 8 and No. 10—Radio frequency transformers.

No. 11—Grid leak of about 1 megohm and grid condensers of aproximately .0025 microfarads capacity.

No. 12.—Detector or "soft" vacuum tube.

No 13—Head phones or high resistance shunted by small fixed condenser.

If the potentiometers are dispensed with place the filament rheostat on the positive terminal of the filament circuit instead of the negative.

To further increase the power of the set, add one of two steps of audio amplification.

RAIN JAZZES CROPS AND "CROPS" JAZZES

Cut Short Early Seson Dances Last Night With Timely Showers.

Although the heavy rain last night put the damper on various entertainments and necessitated the calling off of dances at Chemong Park and Lakefield, the good accomplished overweighed these trivial matters. As a result of the continuous warm showers the prospect to-day according to farmers is for a splendid crop. The fall wheat and clover is in a fine condition and unusual growths are reported in different sections. Practically all the sowing is over and the showers came just when they were needed, the Examiner was told.

The rain was welcomed as much by the truck farmers as anyone and the gardens have got a drenching that will keep up the growth for a week or so. Merchants in the city were regarding the sky anxiously this morning, and hoping and praying in that if J.P. was sending along more showers he would not delay the matter until Saturday. While watching developments they took advantage of conditions and early to-day there was the regular parade of umbrellas and waterproofs out in front of the stores.

So dense is the population in some parts of China that millions are forced to live in the water in boats.

Approximately 4,750,000 tons of wheat feeds are produced annually by flour mills in the United States.

SCHREIBER HAS GOLD PROSPECTS

Mr. E. G. Harris of This City is Quietly Watching Events in the New Field

Mr. E. G. Harris, of Schreiber, Ont., who spends the greater part of his summers in Peterborough and district, is optimistic over the gold prospects in the vicinity of Schreiber. Mr. Harris has nothing to sell in the way of stock, claims, etc. This qualifies him to discuss the situation from the viewpoint of an independent observer.

Four square miles of territory around Schreiber town are now practically all staked out as mining claims.

New men are coming into the district daily, some of whom are old mining men and prospectors, and some of whom are greenhorns in the woods, and have very little idea of the technique of prospecting. Of the latter class it is likely that many will stake claims that are of little value, as it requires some knowledge of formations and the structure and strike of gold-bearing veins to make an intelligent selection of ground to stake. The richest portion seems to lie along what may be called the backbone of the region, a ridge running from the lake, which strikes a short distance south-east of the town.

Mr. Harris makes it plain that the development of this new field will not result in any material development to the town of Schreiber, as the town is practically hemmed in by a wall of rock. The field will have to be developed on its merits alone. The claims give promise of some of the richest gold ore in the world.

Bring Up Your Baby By Music, Lada Advises

By MARIAN HALE.

It is no longer considered good form to rock the baby to sleep at night, and throw in a lullaby or so for bood measure.

The modern offspring is placed between the sheets by modern parents who turn out the light and say good night—like that.

Any vocal selections usually are rendered by the child in protest.

Which is all very well, according to Lada, the classical American dancer who has just been engaged for a season in London and Paris, but she makes a plea for music for babies.

"I believe a child should hear music and feel its rhythm from earliest infancy," she says.

"If a mother does not wish to sing her child to sleep she should sing to it at some time of the day.

"Nothing relaxes a child more than music. A nervous, fretful child often will respond to it and become tractable under its influence when stern disciplinary measures fail.

"Rhythmic games, in which children sing as they play, promote better feeling than any others.

"Teachers in the public schools for some time have understood the value of breaking the monotony of school hours by calisthenics and drills to music.

"Now they are going further and teaching dancing, particularly folk dancing, to build up the physical system. The ease and grace with which children take up dancing proves that it is a natural expression.

"Nearly every child dances beautifully. It is only when he grows up and becomes conscious of himself and tries to do something he does not understand that he loses grace and ease.

"I hope the day will come when every child is taught to express himself through the medium of the song and dance.

"We have rooms to dine in, rooms to sleep in, to write, read and cook in, but how many homes have a room to play in?

"We Americans are apt to be onlookers—to let others do our playing for us.

"We hire baseball players for our national sport. Only a few ever have a chance to play football. We must stand on the side lines and enjoy it by proxy.

"Dancing is about the only physical expression left now, and the dance craze shows how people are turning to it. So far, no one has invented anything that will do our dancing for us, and we still get from it the pleasure that comes from personal achievement.

"The dancing we witness in dance halls and ball rooms shows how great the need is for more enlightenment here. How few people dance as if they really enjoyed it, or realized what they were doing!

"Dancing is really the oldest, yet the least developed of all the arts. It is the most direct of all artistic expressions, but the most universally misunderstood.

"We need to dance more, sing more, play more and feel more—not like automatons going through a drill, but like human being expressing our joy in life.

"And if we are going to take away the baby's lullaby let us compensate by giving him much more than we take away."

THE MARKETS

TORONTO STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press.)—There was a decided falling off in activity on local stock exchange this morning. Early transactions in Brazilian were at lower prices with sales sagging to 47 3-4.

Towards the close, however, a stronger tone developed and close at 49 showed net gain of 1-4 from yesterday.

Telephone was 1 1-4 lower at 110 1-2. Canada Bread off 1-2 at 33 1-2, Steamship Preferred 1-8 lower at 54 and Mackay declined 1-2 to 92. Steel of Canada was one of the few strong stocks and advanced 1 point to 75.

OIL SHARES LEAD.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(Canadian Press.)— Oil shares resumed their recent leadership at outset of today's stock market session. Gains running from large fractions to two points were made by Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, American Collon Oil and Producers and Refiners. Independent Steels were next in favor, Republic gaining one point, with active purchases of Midvale, United States and Bethlehem Steels. Coalers continued to feature gains.

MONTREAL STOCK MARKET.

MONTREAL, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)— As though recuperation after an energy displayed during last two days, local stock exchange was exceedingly dull and listless during early trading this morning, and very few sales were registered. Brazilian, market leader yesteray and the day before, fell off half a point this morning and sol at 48 1-2. Bell Telephone was weaker by a half at 111 1-4. Strongest issue during the first half hour was Steel of Canada, which advanced a point to 75. Montreal Power was fractionally stronger at 91.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Operations for a rise continued to be aggressively conducted in the afternoon with General Asphalt taking its cue from action of Investment Industrials; special buying operations were on a large scale in certain stocks, notably General Motors, but the entire list gave evidence of more confident feeling than for some time. Quite a number of shares registered gains of from 2 to 3 points. Among those which were in demand after mid-day were United States Retail Stores, Tobacco Products, Maryland Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey, U. S. Alcohol, American Car, U. S. Realty and Nova Scotia Steel.

ACTIVE DEALINGS.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Entire market strengthened on very active dealings during the forenoon. U. S. Steel was among the conspicuous issues which advanced to new high records for the year on its rise of 2 1-4 points to 101 1-8. Independent Steels rose one to two points with similar gains for leading Equipments. More popular Domestic and Foreign Oils were one to 2 1-2 points higher and Sugars made like advances. Motors and their subsidiaries were in demand and offerings of call money at 3 1-2 per cent. were in excess of the demand.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, April 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Opening wheat prices varied from 1-2 cent lower to 1-4 cent. advance with May 1.42 and July 1.25 7-8 to 1.26 was followed by slight general sag and then something of a reaction. Wet weather delaying field operations gave firmness to the market for Corn and Oats. After opening unchanged to a shade higher, July 63 1-4 to 64 3-8. Corn eased a trifle and then scored slight gains all around. Oats started 1- to 1-4 higher, July 39 5- to 39 3-4, and then kept near to initial figures.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 19.— (Canadian Press.) — Sterling Exchange easy. Demand rates Great Britain 4.44 3-4. Canadian Dollar 29/32 per cent. discount.

BOND MARKET ACTIVE.

NEW YORK, May 19. —(Canadian Press.) — Bond market was much more active and strong to-day on revival of bullish activity in the stock market. Liberty issues were firm on larger operations. Fractional loss was made by Canadian Pacific Debenture 4's.

HOSTS OF SATURDAY SPECIALS AT BOTNICKS.

The attention of Saturday shoppers is directed to the interesting half page announcement of Botnick Bros. on another page. The offerings listed in the two stores are numerous and cover many needs at the present time, in ladies and men's ready-to-wear, millinery, general dry goods and boots and shoes. The firm has been scouring the markets for the best values and have provided enough inducements to make shopping easy and profitable. The values in boots and shoes are worthy of special mention.

It should be a banner shopping day at Botnick's on Saturday.

WILL REDUCE RATES.

OTTAWA, May 19 (Canadian Press). — The Canadian Pacific Railway agrees," said President E. W. Beatty, before the special House Committee on Railway Transportation, "that the revision downward of rates is desirable, and is quite prepared to put into immediate effect the reductions in the rates on basic commodities that will be of greater national benefit than the re-establishment of the Crow's Nest rates."

Baseball And Local Sport News - Rain in Major Leagues

MANY GAMES ARE CALLED BECAUSE OF THE WEATHER

All American and Three National League Games Postponed on Account of Rain.

THREE PLAYED.

NEW YORK, May 19. Canadian Press. — Rain led yesterday to the postponement of all the American League games and to all National League games except that between Brooklyn and St. Louis. Three International games were scheduled of which rain prevented one, that between Newark and Syracuse.

INTERNATIONAL.

Baltimore 4; Buffalo 1.

BUFFALO, May 19. Canadian Press. — Baltimore made it three out of four, with Buffalo win ing the last of the series, 4 to 1. Frank held strong against the Bisons while Fisher, who started, was lifted in the second inning. Porter's hitting and fielding featured a listless game, played in light showers. Score:

Buffalo	000010000	1	5	0
Baltimore	011100100	4	12	0

Fisher, Mohart, Tomlin and Bengough; Frank and Styles.

Rochester 2, Reading 1.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. May 19. — —Jim Allen outpitched Chief Bender in a hurlers' duel here yesterday and Rochester took its fourth straight game from Reading, 2 to 1. Reading scored its lone run on errors. The last five innings were played in a downpour of rain which made the ball exceedingly slippery. Score:

Reading	000000100	1	2	3
Rochester	00020000x	2	5	3

Bender and Tragresser; Allen and Lake.

NATIONAL.

Brooklyn 7; St. Louis 5.

ST. LOUIS, May 19. Canadian Press. — Brooklyn won its second game since starting on its western swing around the circuit here yesterday by 7 to 5. T. Griffith hit a line drive to Smith in the fifth with two men on after two were out, and Smith dropped the ball, permitting the two winning runs to score. The score:

Brooklyn	001030030	7	9	0
St. Louis	100013000	5	9	3

Vance, Mamaux and Deberry; Pertica, Barfoot and Ainsith.

When You Score

A sacrifice hit shall be credited to the batsman, who, with one or no one out, advances a runner a base by a bunt hit which results in the batsman being put out before reaching first, or would so result if the play was handled without an error.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

If a thrown ball strikes a coacher on foul ground the ball is considered in play and base runners advance at their peril. However, if the umpire is of the opinion that the coacher intentionally interferes with such thrown ball, the runner or runners must be stopped at the base last touched. The coacher is penalized by his removal from the field.

OULETTE AND HECKMAN HOOK UP TOMORROW

Opening Central League Game Will Find Lindsay and Peterboro Right-Hander Engaged.

BIG CROWD LIKELY.

"Batteries for Lindsay —Oulette and Cummings. For the home team—Heckman and Swanston." This is the announcement that Umpire Boundy of Cobourg will make at Riverside Park when the Greybirds and the Petes meet in the opening game of the Central League season.

Ther will be a number of familiar faces missing from the Petes line up tomorrow. Of last year's team Lornie Rose is with the Royals of the Toronto Riverdale League. Mickey Murray is at Leaside. Ray Rose, Ross, Jackson and McElroy are with the C.G.E. City Leaguers, and Cherrett may also be with the C.G.E. outfit.

In spite of these losses however, Manager Solomon expects to have a fighting team. There was not much fighting spirit in last year's outfit so far as the opposing teams were concerned and this year's crew promises to pull together much better than the 1921 Petes. The result should be a team that will battle the opposition all the way. Tomorrow will give a line on the material and the Petes hope to get away to a good start by bumping Oulette and his pals, new and old.

Local fandom is showing even greater interest than usual in the Central League race and the probabilities are that a huge crowd will see the campaign get under way tomorrow. It will be a battle or righthanders with Oulette heaving for Lindsay and Heckman slated to do the gunning for the Petes.

The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp. On Wednesday, Victoria Day the Petes go to Cobourg and on Saturday they will entertain the champion Oshawa team at Riverside Park. The Oshawa-Kingston Ponies combination expect to clean up again this year but they may be poor guessers.

SPORT GOSSIP

King George juniors chased Queen Mary team for nine innings in their game at Queen Mary grounds, the homesters getting the verdict by a 5 to 4 count. It was a merry battle all along the route. King George had a runner on base in their half of the ninth but failed to get the tieing run across.

A meeting of the East Peterboro ball league will be held at the Chamber of Commerce at eight o'clock tonight. The Secretary of the circuit has been notified by the Norwood club that they will be absent in other pastures this season.

A lot of fans have got the notion that teams in the juvenile series should shed some of their stature. This, following the appearance of the midget Maple Leafs. It should be remembered, however, that the players on these teams were taken into the series last season and they are certainly entitled to stick.

WILL BABE RUTH GET BACK INTO HARNESS TOMORROW?

Contrary to the General Belief the Ban Declared By Judge Landis Is Not Self-Lifting. The Judge Must Give the Word Before Babe Can Play.

CONTRARY to the general belief, the suspension of Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel is not automatically lifted on 20th May.

The decision handed down by Judge Landis states that the players may apply for reinstatement on that date.

There is nothing definite as to when the sentence will be lifted. Judge Landis may elect to let the two stars get back into the game on 20th May. Then again he may keep them out a few days longer if he so desires.

It is understood that Ruth and Meusel will apply for reinstatement several days in advance of 20th May, requesting that the reinstatement take place on that date.

Will Use Wires.

It is also the intention of the players to telegraph Judge Landis on the morning of the date set, 20th May, requesting to be allowed to play that afternoon.

While there is nothing certain, it seems that Judge Landis should be a good enough sport to grant an immediate lifting of the suspension.

The sentence, the most severe in the history of the game, has in no way affected Ruth or Meusel. Instead of hitting the real offenders, the New York Club ac well as the other American League clubs have suffered.

Innocent Parties Hit.

It was a sentence that really touched the innocent parties rather than the culprits.

New York fans haven't approved the decision. They have shown this by failure to attend the games. The spring atendance in New York this year, despite the fine showing of the Yankees, has been far below the figures of the past two years.

The answer is, the fans like to see Ruth in action.

It is a rather strange coincidence that Williams, present home-run king, and Ruth will oppose each other in Ruth's first game, if the suspension is lifted on 20th May. St. Louis opens a series in New York on that date.

Boost the Team

The ball season will open tomorrow with a home game and this is the time for the local fans to get out and show the local players support. Nothing is more disheartening to a team than to have the spectators sitting back and making no more noise than a peanut. The local twirlers are entitled to and should have vociferous and heartening sport from the tongues of their backers. Let them know you are with them regardless of how the score stands. Encouragement and praise for good work will also go a long way in helping to win the game

As things stand now the chances of the local team to hold the leading place in the league are second to none. Get out and watch them, get out and back them, get out and help them.

TO SERVE REFRESHMENTS

Wilfred Jones, boxing instructor for the P.A.A.A. has been granted the refreshment concession at the park, and will introduce some service improvements. George East, is groundkeeper, and is proving a popular official with the ball players.

TIE GAME FOR OWLS AGAINST CANADIAN WOOLLENS

Heavy Rain Makes Playing Difficult. Game Ends With the Score Standing 1 to 1.

PECK CUP SERIES.

The Canadian Woolens met the Owls in the Peck Cup series last night and after a hard fought battle on muddy ground the game ended with a tie, each side having scored once. The heavy rain spoiled the play but some nice touches were seen.

The Owls scored first when Burgess accepted a long pass to beat Chambers and net the ball. This goal was followed by a spell of midfield play but the Woolens came back strong and Roberts equalized. At half time the score stood 1to 1.

In the second half the Woolens attacked most of the time but the greasy ground and a heavy ball made shooting uncertain. Frost at back for the Owls was playing nicely in this period and seemed to be the only player to enjoy the rain. The end came with the score still tied. The teams were:

Woolens— Williams, Courtland, Chambers, Read, Hillman, G. Monkman, Gaskell, Lomax, Shuttle, Roberts and Downes.

Owls—Burrows, King Frost, Edwards, Hotstone, Hosker, Willis, Hutton, Burgess, Hannah and Hotstone.

Referee—J. Clark.

Sport Items From The Old Ball Park

Strike up the band. Jake Solomon's 1922 edition of the Peterborough ball team is about to go on display. To-morrow afternoon will witness the local opening of the Central Ontario Baseball League, with the Lindsay Greybirds as the visiting team. Let nobody get false impressions. The Petes are a good ball team. They are a squad of willing workers, and that's a big slice of the battle.

Some Fancy Stuff.

There will be frills and feathers at the opening, with Mayor Taylor, Dr. McPherson and Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P. under the spot light of the festivities. These gentlemen are giving splendid support to amateur sport in Peterborough and the ball club executive made a happy selection.

Howard Kirn on Deck.

Howard Kirn will make his 'steenth annual appearance at Riverside Park. Most of Kirn's baseball pals of a dozen years ago are now securely anchored to the shelf, while the old boy continues in service. Peterborough ball fans owe much to Howard Kirn. He will likely start to-morrow's game at first base, and not having any twirling-worries under his cap will make a good job of it.

Heckman and Oulette.

It will likely be Jack Oulette and Al. Heckman for the pitching assignments. The bronzed youth with Lindsay, earned a good deal of respect from local fans for his mound work last summer. Heckman will serve them up for the Petes. A clean-cut athlete from the ground up, the local heaver will get a royal reception from Peterborough fandom.

Best Wishes for "J. J."

And here's luck to "J. J" The going to date has been hard and strenuous. Any man who attempts to guide the destinies of a ball club has no sinecure. He must negotiate many rocky places. If he succeeds he's a wonder, but if he fails, Boob McNutt is his twin brother. And those who know from painful experience, will be out there pulling for a Peterborough win.

The C.P.C. fully expect to get the two points, as they have been training for this game, and are undoubtedly the most improved team in the League.

LACROSSE CLUB OF CAMPBELLFORD MET.

A Lively Discussion Concerning Havelock's Position.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19.— A very enthusiastic meeting of the executive committee of Campbellford Lacrosse Club was held in the St. Lawrence Hall Tuesday, May 16th, at 8 p.m. All the members were present and there was some lively discussion concerning the action of Havelock in refusing to play in the intermediate lacrosse series with Campbellford this season.

However, it is the general belief in lacrosse circles that as a league between Havelock, Peterborough and Hastings, as proposed here last Friday, cannot be formed, Havelock will yet reconsider their decision before Saturday, May 20th.

The meeting adjourned until such time as a more definite answer is received from Havelock.

HOUSING PROBLEMS

ister of Agriculture against such prohibition, "and you see, we were on the winning side for once," remarked Mrs. Mowat, referring to the vote on Monday last in the House, with a majority of 26 against the Bill. The Minister of Agriculture, to whom the petition had been presented, spoke in favor of such prohibition, however, while the Minister of Finance, Hon. Mr. Fielding, with an eye to the effect on his budget of such prohibition, spoke against it. A letter from Mr. G .N. Gordon, M.P., to whom the Local Council had forwarded a strong request to vote against the bill, with reason for their request, was read, thanking the society for their information on the subject.

Mrs. Morris on Housing.

Mrs. Morris gave an interesting talk on the housing situation, with regard, particularly, to remedies for congested conditions. In her opinion, the landlords as a rule in Peterborough, had not been hard or merciless with tenants who were in arrears. "There may be several who are getting too high a rent for their houses, but they are not in the majority. A return of ten per cent. on his investment was only a reasonable profit, when one considered the depreciation and risk involved in ownersihp of rented property, and the favorable rates of interest to be derived from investments in mortgages or Government bonds.

That people living in small houses were not suffering as much in regard to health as was generally supposed, was the opinion of the speaker, who considered that they enjoyed a greater measure of fresh air and heat than inhabitants of larger dwellings. It was difficult for a man with a large family to live in a built-up house on a city street, owing, principally, to the large amount of "seasonal" employment in this country, the system which gave a short working season, and a long term without employment to many of the laboring class. A remedy might be the paying of a higher rate for the season of employment, or the adoption of some principle of economics whereby the season of employment might be stretched out for a longer term.

Too Much Luxury.

It was also suggested that education of the people to believe that they were just as happy and comfortable without any of the conveniences and luxuries which modern civilization has come to regard as necessities of a daily living might work a change in the demands for larger and more spacious domiciles, and the undertaking of some sensible-minded people, who were willing to move to the outskirts of the city, build a livable shack for the time being, to which they might add as time went on, becoming later landowners and owners of their own comfortable homes, was recommended by the speaker, who admitted that this scheme involved a certain amount of hardship in its beginnings, "and the trouble with most people nowadays, no matter what their condition, is that they are unwilling to undergo any sort of privation to better their condition."

Spoke on Taxation.

Mrs. Morris also gave a clear and illuminating address on the subject of Taxation, which will be continued at a later meeting. The two types of direct and indirect taxation were referred to, with their dual purpose; for revenue only, or for protection of industry in some form. Excise and customs were forms of the indirect method of taxing, the former simply for the production of revenue, which was formerly levied only on spirituous liquors, but now includes a great many manufactured products. "It is done to take from the manufacturer a portion of his profits, part of what he pays for the privilege of working in the country. It is necessary, and has always been done." Customs tariff is a protection on imports, occasionally on exports.

The income tax and the business profits tax in war time, were referred to, and the Canadian method of levying the latter contrasted unfavorably with the English method, which was based on the average profit for three years, in contrast to our system, which considered each year separately, leaving no leeway for a possible lean period. It was compelled to be withdrawn, because it violated one of the scientific principles of taxation, which says that a tax which bears too heavily on industry is not advantageous.

The luxury tax, which we had with us for four months, was also withdrawn later, resulting, as it did, in a general buyers' strike which had the effect of partially paralyzing industry, and now we have the sales tax, on the volume of sales by manufacturers, which is proving cumbersome, on account of the difficulty experienced in estimating and collecting dues arising from its operation.

Mrs. Morris, whose talk was listened to with profound attention, was tahnked heartily for the information contained therin.

Sundry Business.

A letter was read from Mr. Douglas Lawrie, thanking the Local Council for their co-operation with regard to the lecture given recently here by Dr. Barker, under the auspices of the local Rotary Club.

Mrs. Mowat spoke of the suggestion made that the "Maple Leaf," a newspaper published in St. John, N. B., which is now the official organ of the Canadian Clubs in Canada, should become the official organ of the National Council. Some opposition had been made at the executive meeting, on account of the "appalling cost" of starting a newspaper, but the question would be definitely decided at the annual meeting.

Mrs. Mowat also commended to the attention of the meeting for future decision the consideration of helping in some way with a suitable memorial for rs. Bloomer of London, a deceased memebr of the Council, who had been a faithful, life-long worker in its ranks, and whose memory the London Council had suggested commemorating by establishing a cot in the new children's hospital which the I.O.D.E. is opening in that city.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

A romance of Journalism that palpitates with pep

by JULIAN JOSEPHSON ~ ~ ~ Directed by WM. K. HOWARD

At the ROYAL—To-night and To-morrow.

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL—Harold Lloyd in feature comedy, "A Sailor-made Man," and bewitching Babe Daniels in the 'Speed Girl."

REGENT — Universal Special attraction, starring Hoot Gibson in "Headin' West"; also Harry Sweet in comedy, "A One-Horse Town"; Eileen Sedgwick in "The Dream Girl."

ROYAL — Fox features and Two Comedies. Tom Mix in "The Rough Diamond." Also "Extra! Extra!" a newsboy story, and Sunshine Comedy, "Laughing Gas."

Capitol Entertainment

The double program at the Capitol Theatre for this week end offers both laughs and thrills for the patrons of the silver screen. Harold Lloyd in "Sailor-Made Man" is as fun-producing as ever. He loves a fluffy maiden and forgets his ten millions when her father tells him to go out and get something to do. His debonnair ways land him finally in the Navy Department, as a 'gob' in one of Uncle Sam's sailing vessels His nautical adventures, in which he mixes things up with "Rough House O'Rafferty', his method of making his fellow sailors scrub the deck, and his shore leave provide plenty of mirth-provoking situations. His lady-love is desired by the wicked Rajah, and Harold pursues her into the latter's realms, where giant blacks with curved scimitars chase him around the mysterious palace into the fountain and over high walls. The episode where he accounts for four valiant warriors after his doughty friend has knocked them out, is particularly funny.

Bebe Daniels has the stellar role in "The Speed Girl", picturing on the screen the happenings in real life which eventually landed the little star in a real jail oot in San Francisco some time ago. She has a joyous, rollicking part in this 'peppy' picture, as the movie star in gorgeous gowns who is loved by a millionaire with a lurid past. Her sweetheart Tom Manley, is a naval man, and she turns back his watch and keeps him late for the sailing of his ship. Then she "gets him there" in a hurry, with the little white speedster burning up the road at the rate of 75 miles an hour, and her fat press agent, 'Soapy', clutching hard to the "mother-in-law's seat outside. But the motor-cycle cops get Betty, and she arrives in jail, where she meets Hilda, the girl who has been railroaded for conceal ing liquor and is paying the penalty for her false lover's misdemeanors, the same man who is pursuing Betty. A mix-up which starts with a transferred letter to Toms pocket finally ends in a most satisfactory manner with the girl whose "middle name is Speed" as merry as ever.

To-morrow (Saturday) morning, a special matinee will be given at the theatre at 10.30 a.m. for children only.

BOYS AND GIRLS IN PETERBOROUGH TO APPEAR IN FILMS

Have Your Picture Taken By a Real Moving Picture Camera—Jackie Coogan Special.

Every boy and girl in Peterborough is going to have an opportunity of appearing in a motion picture. Mr. Ed. Abbey, manager of the Capitol Theatre, made this interesting announcement this morning and besides this one hundred children will win Jackie Coogan images.

Do you like Jackie? That will be the answer. Make yourself look like him and then you will have your picture taken by a real moving picture camera. Get out an old sweater, an old peak cap of big brothers and some boots you have long forgotten about.

Jackie Coogan is coming back to Peterborough in his latest screen success, "My Boy." The picture will be offered on ———— and the Jackie Coogan contest will be held. Watch the advertisements of the Capitol for further particulars.

After every body has been filmed it will be necessary to send the film to Montreal to be developed and printed and as soon as this can be done it will be rushed back to the Capitol Theatre, where everybody will have an opportunity of seeing just how much like Jackie Coogan they look on the screen. Here is a chance to have a good time, to be photographed just the same as Chaplin, Jackie or Valentino, and to win a Jackie Coogan image.

"My Boy" is a picture that will appeal to father and mother just as well as to little brother and sister. It contains a real human interest story. The film is not essentially a comedy, but both old and young will find much in it to make them laugh. As My Boy little Jackie does some wonderful acting. He apparently understood exactly what his role meant for he has interpreted it to perfection.

He will hold the sympathy of his audiences. His little tricks will tickle the funny bone of the men. It will make them look back over those years of labor, back to the times when they thought of nothing else but pranks. The mothers will laugh because Jackie does just what their own little boys do.

Mr. Abbey does not expect the contest to be won very easily by anyone. He is looking forward to Little Olga Wright coming back. She won a Coogan contest in Peterborough some months ago and the photograph taken of her was so close to the resembles of Jackie that several Toronto moving picture officials declared it an original of the star.

Mr. Abbey will be willing to explain all details of the contest.

AT THE ROYAL.

We can confidently recommend to-day's program as being one of the best ever produced at the Royal. Larry Semon, Chaplin's nearest rival in comedy reputation and thought by thousands to be his superior as a comedian is seen at his best in his really wonderful comedy called 'The Sawmill'. This laughter impelling play is staged amongst the age old pines surrounding a Northern sawmill. You see these lofty giants fully four feet thick and towering towards the clouds cut down and reduced to lumber. Surely a stranger setting for modern comedy Still amid such scenes is played one of the most delightful comedies ever screened! Some of the thrills raised by Larry and many of his comic acrobatic stunts in this play make Chaplin look like a piker. The Sunshine Comedy called "Laughing Gas" is, as explained by its title, intimately associated with a visit to the dentists. The William Fox feature named "Extra! Extra" is a cleverly staged and superbly played newspaper romance with Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker as stars. Walker takes the part of cub reporter. The city editor sends another reporter to interview a rich business man, who is hiding from the press on his private yacht. The other man fails to secure the desired interview but the "cub" accomplishes his desire. The other reporter is "fired" by the editor for his failure but is taken back as his more fortunate brother scribe, who loves the older man's daughter refuses to turn in his "scoop" unless this is done. A gripping story of real life as lived by men of the press. Then the Fox feature called 'The Rough Diamond' shows Tom Mix, whose cowboy and ranch delineations are so well known, in a new part. He graduates from a cowboy to the general of an insurgent army in South America. His army succeeds in placing the father of his sweetheart into the president's chair. An exciting plot with lots of love, humor and thrills.

AT THE REGENT.

'The Breaking Point," is an unusually interesting picture throughout and is based on the fact that home and fireside have no appeal for Richard Janeway, the father, who prefers a wild life of social revelry. His wife, portrayed by Bessie Barriscale, bears it all for the sake of the child. And it would seem that she were willing to continue along these lines until —until the father, by force, carries the little daughter from the mother to the centre of a group of his corrupt friends engaged in a midnight revel in his own home. Then, when the mother objects, he threatens to leave her and take their daughter with him. He would have accomplished his end, too, if she had not risen to the situation with the extreme measure that it warranted. What would you have done in her place? Not everyone has that question to answer, but ed it decisively, momentosuly,—an answer that made her child forever her own.

Supporting Miss Barriscale in the mother role are Walter McGrail as the husband, Irene Yeager, the charming child actress, as the daughter, as well as other screen favorites, including Winter Hall, Eugenia Besserer, Wilfred Lucan, Joseph J. Dowling, Lydia Knott and Pat O'Malley.

In 1306 Edward I of England issued a proclaation prohiibting the burning of coal in the city of London because of the "sulferous smoke and savour of the firing."

RADIO PRIMER

VARIOCOUPLER — A Coupler whose secondary is so constructed in relation to the primary as to rotate from a position parallel to the primary coil to one at right angles to it. When the secondary coil is parallel to the primary, the variocoupler is said to be at its maximum magnitude of inductance. When the coils are at right angle to each other, no inductance is possible.

TEA SHORTAGE—HIGHER PRICES.

In 1920, so much more tea was produced than required throughout the world, that the market dropped to a very low level. The situation was so serious for the growers that they agreed to reduce their production 20 per cent. during 1921. Consumption, which has increased tremendously, and the production of tea being curtailed, has resulted in the highest prices for tea in years. The recent reduction of four pence per pound on tea tax in England has further stimulated consumption, which means that even higher prices may soon be expected.

HUMANE SOCIETY TAG DAY APPEAL

Funds Required for Worthy Cause — Collection on Saturday.

The tag-day for the local branch of the Humane Society takes place to-morrow, and the society is hoping that every citizen will do his or her bit in the good cause. This phrase of doing your bit came into practice during the war, and recalls a story in the last issue of "The Humane Pleader" about the part played by horses in the Great Conflict. The account opens with a reference to an accident on London, England streets, when;

"Oh! Only a bloomin' 'orse dahn!" said my neighbor carelessly, reseating himself with an expression rather injured. Certainly such an occurrence, in Winter, on the wet and slippery wood pavements of the London streets is common enough and doubtless my companion did not notice the twisted leg and the small but ever-growing scarlet pool. Neither did he catch the glimpse of two great painfilled eyes that met mine for an instant, and then closed wearily. And that silent pitiful appeal went straight to my heart for I love horses, and, strangely enough, my mind flew back on the instant, to another scene, in another country some three years back. I thought of a certain Belgian village, blazing luridly in the winter's night, torn and shattered by the continuous rain of German shell and of certain mud-soaked road beside it."

And the writer goes on to tell of the stretcher cases lying in the mud for hours, while motor ambulances were powerless to get to them. And then, the miracle. The distant sound of creaking, jingling, splashing, the sound of heavy animals breathing hard. "A pause and with a lurch and heave, another and yet another huge black shape revolved itself into a canvas-covered Field Ambulance, the steam rising in clouds from the horses' backs, their sides heaving and lined with sweat. Saved by the Horse Ambulance!"

A feature of the work of the Society in Peterboro which is most encouraging to its members is the active co-operation afforded by the Police Department, the Chief of which is particularly interested in its endeavours, having on several occasions made personal apprehension of offenders in this regard.

PERFORMANCE WAS REPEATED LAST EVENING

"The Yokohama Maid," the two-act Japanese comic operetta staged under the auspices of the Local Council of the Knights of Columbus, in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital Building Fund, was repeated last night at the Grand Opera House to a well-filled building. Its initial success of the previous evening was intensified last night, when every offering received enthusiastic applause from an appreciative audience. The committee in charge, the performers themselves, and their directors are to be congratulated on the splendid showing made in the two performances of this dainty, tuneful production. Messrs. John Ball and George Lynch, the former a general director, and the latter in charge of the staging, the lighting effects, and the details that added so much to the success of the performance, are doubtless repaid for their hard work. The committee is particularly grateful to Miss Ida Sanderson, an accompanist of outstanding ability, who so kindly volunteered her services for the occasion, and whose sympathetic interpretation of the musical score assisted greatly in the excellence of the production. Miss Sanderson was presented last evening with a large basket of sweet peas, in grateful acknowledgment of her generous assistance, and the different ladies in the cast were also remembered on both occasions with beautiful floral tributes. Messrs. K. Picard and C. Legendre, in their humorous roles, were not forgotten by their friends. They were the recipients last evening of a couple of wonderfully devised bouquets, in which products of the kitchen garden played a prominent part.

Montgomery Denies Employing Criminals Knowingly.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Interest lagged in the O.T.A. investigation before the Public Accounts Committee to-day License Inspector Montgomery was the chief witness and declared that he did not consider it necessary to employ criminals to enforce the law. He never did so knowingly Hearing was featured by clashes between Attorney-General Raney and T. H. Lennox, the former contending that the member for North York was wasting the time of the committee.
